

Dear [School Name] Team,

I hope you are well.

I'm a local Brighton & Hove parent reaching out to schools that use the King Alfred for swimming lessons

I've put together a small creative activity inviting students to think about the future of the Brighton & Hove seafront and the role of community spaces like the King Alfred. The activity encourages students to explore themes of citizenship, local history and community life through drawing, writing or other creative responses to the question:

“What should the future of the Brighton & Hove seafront look like?”

Students could respond through:

- drawings or posters
- letters
- short written reflections
- creative projects imagining the future of the seafront

I've attached a short presentation explaining the activity and providing prompts that teachers could use with students if helpful.

I've also created a small website with background information and where student ideas could be shared:

<https://savekingalfred.co.uk>

Of course I completely understand if the school prefers not to participate, but I thought it might be a nice opportunity for students to reflect on their local environment and community spaces.

If helpful, I would also be very happy to speak briefly with a teacher about the project.

Many thanks for your time.

Kind regards,

Your name

Brighton & Hove resident
