

What The Harvest Team Can Do For You

The Harvest Team comes alongside pastors, elders, and ministry leaders to help them reclaim wholeness, holiness, and renewed influence in life and ministry. We understand the hidden pressures of leadership, personal struggles, unaddressed wounds, and secret sin that quietly erode spiritual authority, family stability, and joy in serving. In a safe and confidential environment, we provide clear pathways for restoration, addressing addictive or compulsive patterns and relational fractures with wisdom, grace, and proven strategies that honor God's redemptive design. Our process restores integrity from the inside out, equipping leaders to walk in freedom and lead with courage and authenticity once again.

We also serve churches and ministries by helping them establish healthy new rhythms that strengthen leaders without disrupting ministry momentum. Through individualized care plans, staff development, and practical follow-through, pastors and ministry leaders experience sustainable transformation, including renewed clarity of calling, stronger family bonds, and greater effectiveness in their work. This care is delivered through tailored coaching, on-site mentoring, and trusted partnerships with specialized, Christ-centered resources that meet the unique needs of each leader and ministry context.

If you sense that you or your team could benefit from a safe, confidential space to address hidden challenges and walk in greater freedom, resilience, and effectiveness, I would welcome a personal conversation.

Scott Harris is a seasoned pastor and marketplace leader who has devoted his life to equipping people to live in the fullness of their calling. He has served in key pastoral roles, including Family Ministry Pastor and member of the Executive Leadership Team at Christ's Church of the Valley; Executive Pastor and Teaching Pastor at Salt and Light Church; and Executive Pastor for all Ministries and Lead Pastor within the Mars Hill Church network in Seattle, where he helped oversee a movement of 15 churches across 5 states.

In addition to his church leadership, Scott has led at the highest levels in the marketplace, including global operations leadership at Peloton and serving as Vice President of Customer Experience, Care, and Operations with several global organizations. These combined experiences in church and corporate environments give him a unique ability to understand the pressures, expectations, and hidden battles leaders face.

Redeemed and restored through his own personal struggle, Scott now carries a deep burden to help pastors and ministry leaders experience the same freedom from bondage that he has found. His passion is to walk alongside leaders as they rediscover their true identity in Christ, live from the anointing of the Holy Spirit, and lead from a place of wholeness, integrity, power, and joy.
