

The Suma Uta Manifesto

Welcome to the words of Suma Uta, a place to connect with the principles and values which will guide its spontaneous growth from a small seed into a beautiful, safe and prosperous beach home for a diverse collective of value-connected individuals.

The Glossary

Let us begin with a glossary of terms, so that the clear intentions and energy in the heart's mind are accurately conveyed and easily understood. You will also notice certain words being capitalized: this is used simply to emphasize Divinity.

tribe: a group of sovereign individuals, each one connected to Source – aware, acting and listening to their life purpose, while relating to the others as Divine, sovereign beings with a unique work to do in this life. Soul family is another term for tribe. Tribe is connected by an intrinsic energetic bond.

community: a group of individuals who are committed to a common thing, whether it be a piece of land, a hobby, a social cause or anything else. Community is connected by an external something that bonds the people together. Where tribe is focused on the people, community is focused on the thing.

indigenous: being from Nature and the land, and living in a connected way which honors the Source of all things.

Man: a being gifted with Divine creative powers; includes both female and male; short for Human being.

money: something of value that humans use as a standard for exchanging value; it has inherent properties that make it useful, whether or not it is used as money; usually it is a commodity that is good for long-term storage, such as gold, silver, cacao, wheat and rice.

currency: a tool that enables the movement and exchange of money in a more convenient way than using the money itself, such as paper bills or digital currency; without money, currency has nothing of value to move and becomes a scam upon the public – this is called 'fiat currency'.

God: the Great Mind from which all things come, and the Great Body in which all things live; beyond all names, forms and religions, It is the energy source of all life, potential and manifest.

Nature: the universe in its totality; the live manifestation of God dreaming, both seen and unseen, with energy in perpetual motion, interacting with different versions of itself.

Self-work: the Good work, where one consciously engages with the process of transforming darkness into Light, and mending one's disconnected parts into a connected whole. It involves honest inner reflection and trust that Life's lessons arrive as gifts to learn and grow.

Soul: the eternal spark of Divine, conscious Light that exists for each human being.

Suma Uta: from the Aymara language – a peaceful and beautiful home.

We/Us: the Suma Uta community is what is being referred to whenever 'we' or 'us' appears.

The Noble Values We Share

In each of us lies the dark and the Light, our lower self and higher self – it is not a fault but a feature of being Human. In this sense we are complete, and are gifted with creative choice to feed the Light or the dark. At Suma Uta we choose to serve our Light to the best of our abilities.

The values laid out below act as a guiding compass for action; we do our best in making them shine. However, the key to unlock the gifts of these values is Self-work. Where each one takes responsibility for the unique tests Life gives us, the tribe's collective Light becomes an impeccable force for positive creation.

Honesty. Diligence. Kindness. Equanimity. Humility. Gratitude. Compassion. Courage. Connection. Temperance. Each noble value, when adhered to, results in a more fulfilling life and a greater sense of harmony for the society who cultivates them.

The good work of embodying these values is a commitment made by each one. Being surrounded by an aligned tribe on the same value-driven path, we naturally help each other grow.

Loyalty and choosing wisely where to place it are important for us here. Loyalty to God, to family, to friends, to Self, to the heart's spoken word, all of these yes.

By committing to a life built emphasizing quality over quantity, and strong foundational values over short-term gains, a fertile soil is being laid for a new culture to emerge.

None of us are perfect in the implementation of these values. We each have our moments of struggle. The point is thus not to be perfect, but to boldly bring our values into this game of Life. Be in the game – play! Be of service to the Light and honor our Divine Nature.

We do not quit the game or avoid it altogether because the noble path seems too hard or doesn't appear popular.

Living for our values is the game of all games — the one mandatory for a truly meaningful life. Plus it is challenging and fun, so we are people that stay young.

The Vision

In a sacred indigenous reserve on a Caribbean beach in northern Colombia, a Divinely connected group of value-aligned visionaries are being called to form the foundation of a next-level land project called 'Suma Uta'.

More than just a beachfront development, it is a living, breathing, spontaneously evolving experiment made by a tribe committed to embodying quality in all aspects of life. We go beyond accepting the world as popular mythology tells us, and go within to do the work that leads to the blossoming of the beautiful world we envision.

Calling in the right tribe is key. To facilitate this, we have a word-of-mouth recruitment focus. The founders will make clear who they are, as well as show other members of their already-existing global tribe. These inner circle friends of the founders will help convey a feel for the kind of diversity we envision, while keeping a distinct energetic and value-based geometry in forming the Suma Uta tribe.

These Soul family friends of Suma Uta are known as Wyld Tribe Ambassadors, or just 'Ambassadors'. Good friends of good friends tend to make good friends, so we believe this is the best way to bring in the right folk.

For added cohesion and symbiosis, we are focused on calling in a tribe who love creating, sharing and educating in the realms of food, art and movement. We are talking about handmade pasta, fermenting hot sauce, sourcing local herbs, eggs from the land, planting trees, music making, painting, clay sculpting, yoga, martial arts, beach football and volleyball and whatever else we create.

Work well, play well, as it really doesn't have to be so hard.

Now to be in a place of profound beauty, where the ocean waves meet the rising and setting sun, can bring one great joy and vitality. Being at home in such a magical place is better alone than with the wrong company – this is known.

Thus to build a sustainable foundation, we are putting great care into attracting a coherent tribe to become homeowners and neighbors of the Suma Uta Community.

The idea is simple: live on an oceanfront land of Light with nature-inspired architecture and good people doing good things. It is a project of Man returning to her roots, such as growing clean food, crafting Source-inspired art and raising healthy families of noble individuals.

Retreats and workshops will naturally be happening at Suma Uta.

Imagine hobbits going to the beach and enjoying the simple majesty of each moment. That's pretty much the idea, in one sense.

In another sense, Suma Uta is part of a greater movement to create the conditions for a balanced, beautiful culture to emerge in this world. Having an aligned network of land projects, people and businesses that are creating, gifting and exchanging value with each other will be the seeds from which a whole new world for humanity will arise.

We are individuals who are learning to connect with, and reclaim, our indigenous heritage as sovereign beings, and believe it is in the best interest of Man, Earth and God that each individual moves from this knowledge center.

Permission has already been given by the Creator to live freely and in peace – we are here to remember this and remind our fellow Man to act with a long-term vision as we make up our minds.

Living closer in heart to the land, we are planting the seeds of a way of life that honors Source and all of Her creation. It is one that respects each Man to choose her own unique path to follow. It is a world where the beauty of Nature is amplified by ritual and prayer.

It is a world where each Man aims for her proper greatness and is encouraged by family and friends to do the spiritual work for his Soul's dreams to be achieved.

With such great transformation in the air comes a huge potential to seed this new world with Source Wisdom, available for anyone willing to listen. Now to realize this bright future is a practice of making better choices – ones that align with our values and lead to the manifestation of our loving intentions.

How to bring honesty into the economy, creativity into education, medicine into food, vitality into medicine, integrity into digital data, purpose into work and kindness into everything – these are the kind of solutions we will be creating at Suma Uta.

We are not waiting for the new world to be created for us; we will be crafting the new world we envision, starting with being responsible for ourselves and clearing the family karma which has come to us through its many ways through doing Self-work.

It is a time to measure in quality once again, as we have lost its good sense in the obsession with quantity. With both in mind, a natural balance happens.

In the end, Suma Uta is just what the name says – a peaceful, beautiful home. It is a place to walk, run and fly along the Soul path with others doing the same – one to create Light memories to feed our Soul.

It is also a place to challenge ourselves, collaborate with other dream-doers and weave wonders for the world.

We are not only here to appreciate the fruits; we are here to plant good seeds and maintain their healthy growth. There is no freedom without responsibility, no prosperity without good work.

Community and individual sovereignty can healthily co-exist; in fact, it is the only way for each to thrive. Aligned values, clear agreements and eternal vigilance open the way to sustained success as we master the art of living.

On the Ground

It will be a symphony of coherent sights. Cactus fruits and egg-laying hens. Single folk and families. Acoustic music making and morning sun gazing. Fermented arepas, chocolate from Finca La Frecuencia and coffee from the Sierra Nevada. Kite surfers and morning swimmers. Big dreamers and in the moment doers. This is just a snapshot of possibilities one will find at Suma Uta; much more than what can be said here will be taking place – it all depends on who comes and what the Universe asks of us.

Currently, the land for Suma Uta is 700 meters in length and 80 meters of beachfront. It stretches from the ocean all the way back to the main road.

Most structures need to be built on posts in an elevated way due to a beautiful lagoon that creates occasional salt rivers which pass shallow and gentle through the land, reflecting the night sky in star-lit brilliance.

Natural building materials are highly encouraged. Wood, bamboo, clay, limestone and tadelakt make sense for a comfortable, long-lasting house that blends in with the landscape. One can have their house built by Suma Uta or go their own route. All that is needed is a simple signing off by the Suma Uta team to confirm the design is in alignment with aesthetic, environmental and size limits set out in the land sale contract.

A main feature for those who become part of the Suma Uta tribe is our beachfront clubhouse – a courtyard style lounge to work, create and just be. Its price for construction is already included in the sales of community lots. The idea is to give everyone a gorgeous, spacious and functional seaside home to hang out in, in addition to one's private house.

In the spaces between private lots, we will be planting date palms, mangroves, botanical gardens and parks, with the possibility of creating value-added structures according to community needs. These could be places for carpentry or weaving in the traditional Wayuu way. Could be a music studio or fermentation lab. These are things that can be decided along the way – spontaneous order has its place!

As we are hobbit-like in our love for Life's simple treasures, the idea is to have someone on hand to make delicious food and drink in the clubhouse, as well as to keep a vigilant guard over the land. A modest monthly contribution by each homeowner will cover these costs.

Suma Uta will be a laboratory for work and play experimentation, where inspiration, knowledge and collaboration will help up everyone's game. Relax and create; live by core values and demonstrate them to the world. We are a movement bringing purpose and meaning back into human life.

Coherent Vibrations

In order to bring in a genuinely aligned tribe, we are taking great care into filtering the felt energy of each one who comes into Suma Uta. Perfect people don't exist. Yet what does exist is individuals who are humbly in touch with their shadow side and doing their Self-work, so no need to try being perfect.

In fact, that is one of the key vibrational components we are calling in for Suma Uta – people who are comfortable in their own skin, even though it may be shedding for a lighter, more expanded version of self to emerge. It is this paradox of life that keeps us in balance.

Suma Uta is not a place for the panic energy of trying to save the world, to be special, to get approval and convince people of something they are not ready to receive. Let go and flow.

The antidote for trying is authenticity. Sure it might be scary to be genuine and raw, yet it is honest, and that carries a great deal of Light. To be around authentic individuals who have accepted themselves wholly is an invitation to do the same.

We are curating the Suma Uta tribe in this way, to be composed of authentic and kind folk.

Judgment of one's self and one another creates a tension in the air, where no one is ever good enough and there is a tiresome competition to be the most enlightened. It is a recipe for drama, something we will be doing our best to weed out before it ever arrives.

Each of us is already doing our self-work, this will be known. So we can relax, be in the heart space and appreciate each one for their unique Nature.

Being aligned in this vibrational sense creates a harmonic movement that benefits every one.

Kindness is king. Consciousness around our Divine heritage is queen.

We sense this noble greatness and aim for excellence, while keeping humble enough to never stop learning, nor believe we are the source of our greatness.

We live like hobbits, happy to appreciate the simple things in life, like sourdough bread and homegrown tobacco. Sure, dark room meditation retreats and devotional fasting we can also appreciate. Yet no need to separate the physical from the spiritual. No need to find magic in any other place outside one's own experience.

Yes we are keen to affect change upon the world, and do it in a relaxed way, starting with ourselves. We are not heroes frantically trying to change the world. No spiritual superiority complexes. No aggression towards our perceived problems in the world. Keep the complaints short and sweet, while spending most of our time invested in building and becoming the actual solutions. Be the change, so no need to force it.

We walk the delicate balance between knowing that we are not so special, yet somehow each moment is a precious gift for the Soul to learn something and remember its purpose. Just relax and create. Be friends with death and birth to live a good life.

Artists, healers and scholar-warriors on our authentic Soul Path, we do our best to put our creative energy into the good processes of Life, manifesting the values we hold dear and sharing them with the world.

Immerse oneself in right work. Enjoy the rhythms of chopping wood and carrying water. Master the simple things, and the complexities of Life will reveal themselves to the persistent, pure-hearted practitioner.

We aim to be kind and strong, not nice and weak. We strive to be discerning and vigilant yet remain open to possibilities. Balance is the way for our Suma Uta tribe.

It is a practice ground for living the Path of Truth and its honest pursuit. We carry the noble knowings of those who remember Source – grounded in genuine humility and flying with love in the heart.

It is a matter of us each taking our power back. We will continue moving away from parasitic energies that would leave us drained, and consciously direct our Life-Source energy into those things that resonate with our values.

Positive creative action is paramount. Being sensitive and smart around the processes we put our sovereign energy into is key to our sustained success.

Money and Worldview

Some things need to be clear before going forward. The point is not to be controversial – it is to be in alignment about big picture things now, to avoid splintering later.

Suma Uta is being designed to embody the kind of society we would like to see at large. We are not going for some utopian vision here; rather, we are seeking fair rules to the game of life we all play.

Ability and effort are two variables at play in each of us that lead to different levels of success amongst humans, and they cannot be the same for anyone. This is just the way Nature works.

Now those who embody both high ability and high effort over sustained amounts of time will naturally be the most productive. In the culture we are planting, the ones who are most successful should be the most deserving – those who do the best while playing honestly.

In other words, success is earned, not given. Having noble leaders is the goal, not to end up with equal outcomes for everyone. Those who produce the most value while causing the least amount of destruction are natural leaders.

Divergent opinions and viewpoints are often a great thing, creating a more profound view from our many different perspectives and experiences. Yet certain viewpoints hold within them seeds that sprout into the kind of aggressive weeds which would block the things we would like to grow at Suma Uta.

One of the key viewpoints we would like to have in alignment is the understanding that fake money, aka fiat currency, needs to be gone for the birth of a healthy society. It must be replaced with something real. Without a value-for-value exchange system, we get a value extraction system, which is what fiat currency naturally creates.

At its heart, Suma Uta would like humanity to use real money once again.

A gift economy works great on a very small scale, yet right now we have a whole connected world to exchange value via the digital world. We want to meet the world where it is at, not create a utopian fantasy.

Money in its essence is a tool that coordinates the exchange of value within the vast human sea of desires; it needs to be as free from human manipulation as possible.

Now just because the current tool we are using is of poor design quality does not mean money is bad. All it means is that a better money needs to be chosen and used.

Our current system of using fiat currency is one that facilitates theft of true value by whoever issues it – pure manipulation at its core. Fiat currency is not money, yet society at large believes it to be so. Never has an ill belief given so much power to those intent on making slaves of free people.

Because it is such an important tool for organizing the ongoing exchange of value between humans, it is good for the Souls of Suma Uta to be clearly aligned on this taboo topic from the beginning.

A culture intent on implementing noble human values in this world will find friction with the current systems, where fake money and manipulated data rule through cheating, and the devil's classic divide-and-conquer strategy has us ignorant of big issues while arguing over which NPC gets to be the next president of a system serving the ignoble gains of the ungodly.

That said, our strategy is to tread carefully: one foot in, one foot out. We will use fake money (dollars, pesos, etc) because of practical reasons, while accepting and incentivizing the use of real money when possible. Nature shifts with curves and spirals, not overnight revolutions.

No need to attack the current systems which are not in alignment with our value structure. Simply withhold energy from them whenever possible. Certain things will disappear when we stop feeding them.

Trust and loyalty must be earned from experience. And a wise Man gives it to those who live the values she respects.

Likewise, trust and loyalty should also be removed when experience shows a value mismatch.

Now of the energies that commit parasitical and violent acts, we naturally withhold loyalty. This includes fake money printing, all wars, and the unbounded taxing entities stealing through an ever-sprawling mess of statutes and regulations.

These seemingly ubiquitous forces are draining humanity's value center, and only a takeback of one's power by reclaiming our Divine rights will ease the troubles we currently have at hand. Courage will be key for this camino.

The Earth is Man's gift from Source to sustain our bodies, wake our minds and feel the love of Creation that flows within us all. We are here to learn to be free, and this way is one of grateful responsibility.

In light of recent events, let it be known we have zero tolerance for such views as those that condone human slavery, child sex trafficking, resource wars, forced medication, robbery and theft, scamming and intimidation, currency without money, loss of free speech and unwarranted movement restriction.

Once again, we are not directing aggressive energy towards these discordant energies. We simply want to recognize and be clear what is happening, and have mutual understanding of where we, as the individuals of Suma Uta, place our trust and loyalty.

Another prominent myth among the mass culture is a push towards humans merging with machines. Giving our bodies and minds over to the machine overlord matrix is portrayed as the self-evident future coming for the humans of Earth.

We disagree, and believe in our ability to balance the propagation of useful technology with a lifestyle connected to Nature. Through wise vigilance, we will resist any technocratic control state.

No, we are not luddites. You will find many of us using ChatGPT and original bitcoin, with the ticker symbol BSV.

We will build, create and invest in solutions that are more efficient and honest than the current ones.

The best human evolution is discovering our true potential as Divine beings, and this is the future we will be empowering at Suma Uta.

Forced vaccines, home lockdowns, using fake money to extract valuable resources from humanity, governments that rule and steal with unlimited taxation, taking kids from parents who commit wrong-think, collectivist thinking and following the herd into the next new thing – this is the anti-vibe of Suma Uta. Let it be known.

By paying attention to the processes of life and the values each one embodies, and applying due vigilance, we create a container for minimizing friction from the start and smoothing out any conflict that may arise.

Philosophy for Sovereign Individuals Living Together

Suma Uta is designed as a place to be free – to be in the Light and fly. Worries melt into the sea, and the noise of the world is whisked away by the wind.

While being in Nature alone is an amazing process for Man to receive inner strength and wisdom, sharing this space with an aligned tribe brings its own magic. These are not oppositional things!

A natural flow exists in self-growth, and we honor this process fully here. The hermit sage artist and the food-and-conversation-sharing hobbit each have their place at Suma Uta – even one person can embody both of these states in a single day!

Our idea of tribe is not fixed to one geography – you could say it is more about energetic geometry. Yes we share aspects of the land, which make us a community; also, we share something deeper, going beyond physical space and time – a set of noble values to live by and a beautiful vision for a flourishing humanity.

Some of us may be at Suma Uta one week per year, others may be here all the time. Both situations work. Some will want to invest more of their work energy at Suma Uta; others will not. Both situations work.

Allow people to be on their path; get out of the way so that Nature can guide. We choose our battles sparsely and wisely. We choose our allies in the same way.

Most external problems can be solved with internal work, in which we do our best to find gratitude and responsibility for our situation. Let go of any negativity that gets stuck and seek a just outcome. Self-work is key.

However, if one breaks our core values and agreements, there are consequences which correspond to the severity of misconduct. Exact details are found in the Suma Uta bylaws.

Harmonious living amongst the Suma Uta community is our healthy desire. Vigilant screening for embodied living of aligned values is a solid foundation. Having clear agreements is another key part. We would like to minimize group decision-making wherever it makes sense, in order to make space for individuals to live and create spontaneously.

Fixed rules, clear agreements and proper people filtering is our recipe to harmony in motion.

There is a time to be in solitude and a time to be social. Each individual will navigate this balance as they will, and Suma Uta is a space for both to shine.

Each one comes and goes as they wish. We are Cosmic beings and act like it. Rooted to Source and committed to honoring our word and agreements can complement the act of flight, where we travel and dream beyond the limits of the five senses.

The Real Deal

Here the structural organization at Suma Uta can be understood better. To begin, the land that hosts Suma Uta exists as part of an indigenous Wayuu reserve. The land is fully and lawfully owned by Suma Uta, so it may act as the guardian for the values mentioned herein. Suma Uta holds the community contracts in place and applies vigilance to keep the sanctity of the vision alive.

For those who buy a lot and build on it, you are the fully lawful owner of your private space through the end of time, or until you sell it.

Being an owner comes with the mutually agreed upon rules to live at Suma Uta, such as respecting silent hours, basic environmental responsibility and humble lighting to preserve our views of the night sky.

Basic fees for security, maintenance and utilities will be used to keep Suma Uta in good shape.

Certain areas such as the beachfront clubhouse, bridges and walkways, parking lots, and waterfront shade structures will be communal spaces. Private spaces can be found in one's lot and individual home.

Suma Uta will be responsible for maintaining the communal spaces, as well as any private spaces where such an agreement has been made. When one is not at their home, Suma Uta will manage rentals if the owner decides to rent it.

Governance

Here is the basic way governance will work at Suma Uta. Full details will be found in the community bylaws.

Small government is best, with its main responsibility to protect individual rights and enforce the mutually agreed upon rules, when necessary. The idea is to have a stable framework in place with regard to agreements, rules and vision so that each one knows what to expect and plan their lives accordingly. No rulers here, just the ability to enforce mutually agreed upon ones.

The executive oversight role is held by Suma Uta, with its main focus of protecting each owner's rights and enforcing the mutually agreed upon rules. It will manage the maintenance of the land and buildings, as well as the personnel involved in caretaking Suma Uta.

Lot owners have equal voting rights, are able to call meetings, and put forth new measures for a vote that stay in alignment with the vision and values of Suma Uta.

Regarding drugs, we can say hard ones and the chemical ones are very much not in alignment with our healthy and natural way of living. When a man's medicine makes him chaotic, unstable and dangerous, he is not suitable for living at Suma Uta.

Natural living is best, and to arrive at higher states of connection and inner illumination via personal work and meditation is our gold standard.

Returning to Our Indigenous Roots

At Suma Uta, we believe Man is innately connected to the Earth, and to live in conscious symbiosis with her is the right way to live.

To align in this way, to be in loving conversation with all of Earth's creation and to connect with Her as the Great Being that she is, is what we mean by returning to our indigenous roots.

For us, being indigenous is not what language one speaks or the clothes one wears. At its essence, being indigenous is living in a ritual way with the Earth and all of God's creation. To be in remembrance of our unbreakable connection to God as we navigate our Soul paths, we embody an indigenous way of being.

Honoring the Earth, Sun, Cactus, Cow and Cosmos is simply a way to honor the Creator of all Life. By acknowledging Its presence in all things, seen and unseen, our connection to Truth grows and our wholeness as a unique part of the Grand Totality becomes ever more evident.

Each of us Humans has been gifted a body to live in as we may upon the Earth. It is a gift from Source, and with it an inalienable right for each Man to choose his path freely in this life.

As we awake from the spell which has had us living in disconnected ways from Source, it becomes time to reclaim our roots and return to a principled way of life.

In this sense, we are reclaiming our indigenous heritage as Divine beings gifted with a creative will to choose, with freedom and responsibility in symbiotic expansion to us on the Way.

Sun gazing at sunset. Herbal concoctions to help digest. Full body breathing to recharge and rest. Fermented honey jun is being brewed. Singing, chanting and dancing, we stay renewed.

We are here to live a medicinal life – to do good for ourselves and others. From the food we make to the words we speak, we do our best to empower the Light in all things so they may be vital and realize their full potential in this life. And so it shall be.

The Invitation

Now is always the best time to create the world we desire. For anyone feeling a coherent connection to the Suma Uta vision, we are ready to receive you!

May the Suma Uta Soul Tribe gather and create some serious Light memories in the years to come. We are beyond stoked at meeting the mysterious ones who come along for this ride! – you whose dreams align in such a way that peace, beauty and prosperity naturally come to our beach home.

Having a beautiful abode on a magical Caribbean beach with good vibes is a blessing in its own right. Many more potential reasons exist for one to be at Suma Uta. It could be a sweet plan B in a different country. It could be to leave behind the familiar and start a new life. Maybe it is a beachfront spot to retire in warmth from the matrix and live on purpose. It could be a chance to invest in the daily rhythm of sunrise, ocean play and sunset.

To have a sacred spot in Nature to share a meaningful life with an aligned tribe is the reality we are each creating by coming home to Suma Uta.

The reasons are many, yet they can only do so much. Taking the jump of grounded action is when we learn to fly – and that is how you will find us at Suma Uta.
