

TargetedHumans, Inc.
July 5, 2026 Newsletter

BITE: The Mind Control Model
MKUltra Hearing-A Beginning
Mind Genetics
Lying About Earthquakes
The Control Grid is Here
Get Rid of Microplastics

Website: TargetedHumans.org

Email: TargetedHumans@proton.me

Targeted Humans Conference Call

Sunday 8:00 p.m. EST

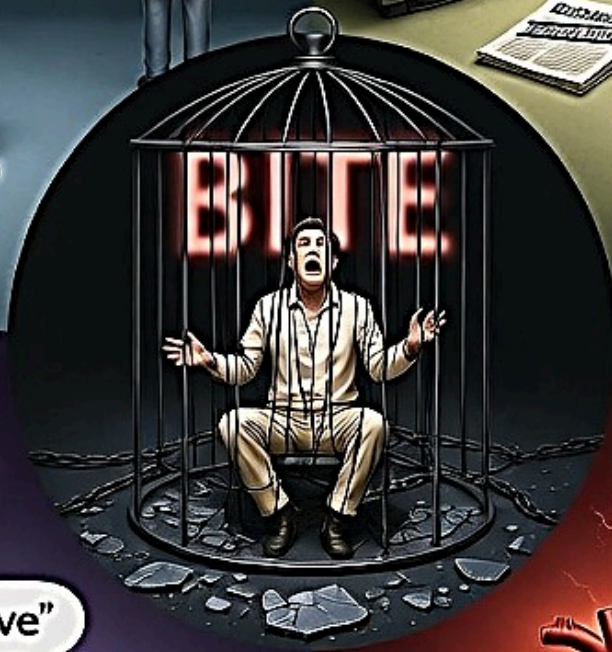

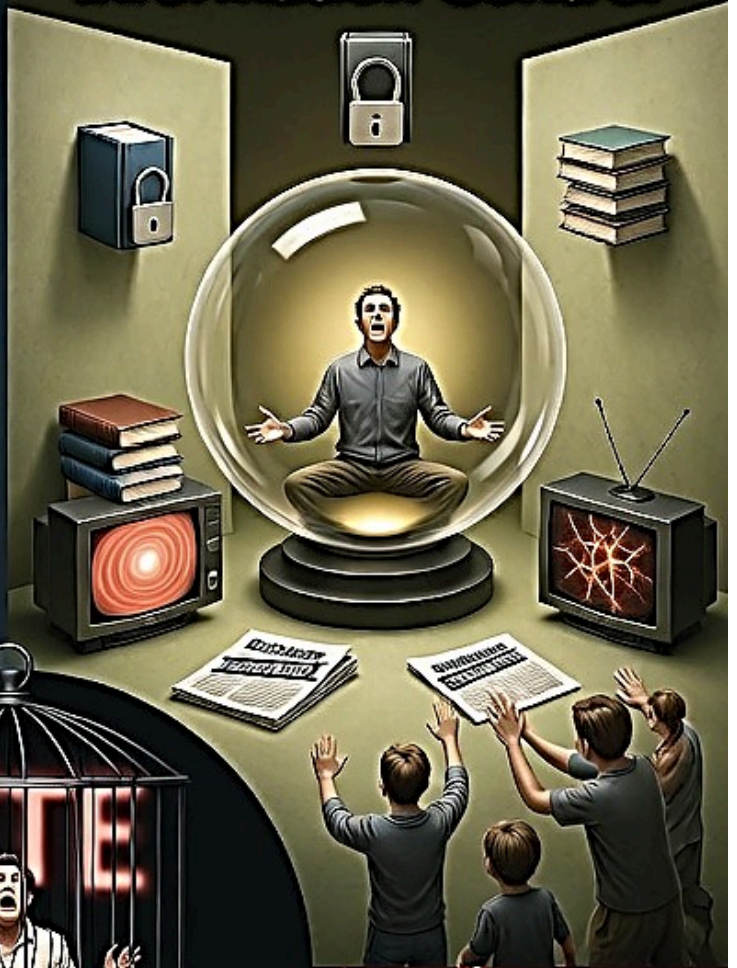

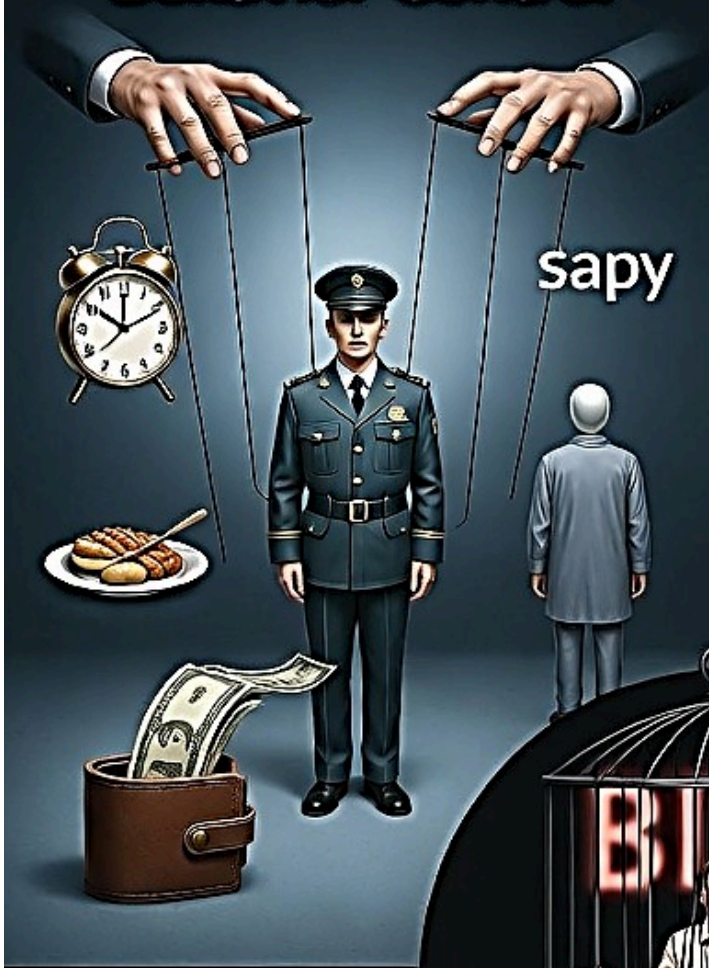

FreeConferenceCall: 605-475-4779

Access Code: 607080

CALL ID: electricrose222

Behavior Control

Information Control

Thought Control

Emotion Control

BITE: The Mind Control Model

Mind control relies on structured environments, information restrictions, and emotional exploitation to overwrite a person's authentic beliefs and identity. In psychological context, it is defined as coercive persuasion, thought reform, or brainwashing. It is manifested through social, psychological, and technological influence that systematically compromise an individual's autonomy.

1. Psychological and Coercive Persuasion (The BITE Model)

The most extensively studied form of real-world mind control occurs in destructive cults, abusive relationships, and extremist groups. Renowned expert Steven Hassan categorizes this form using the BITE Model, which controls four core areas of human experience:

Behavior Control: Dictating an individual's physical reality, including sleep schedules, clothing, dietary habits, and financial resources.

Information Control: Deliberately withholding, distorting, or overloading information. This involves forbidding members from reading critical media, creating internal "echo chambers," and isolating individuals from friends and family.

Thought Control: Teaching thought-stopping techniques (e.g., chanting, repetitive praying) to block out critical thinking, rejection of outside perspectives, and redefining language to change how people process reality.

Emotion Control: Exploiting deep-seated emotions using fear and guilt tactics. This often includes "love bombing" (overwhelming a target with affection) followed by sudden withdrawal, public shaming, and threats of eternal or physical damnation.

2. Institutional and Political Indoctrination

This form occurs on a societal or systemic scale, typically orchestrated by authoritarian regimes or wartime captors.

Classical Brainwashing: Historically documented during the Cold War (such as the Korean War POW camps), this involves breaking down a person's ego through physical exhaustion, sensory deprivation, or solitary confinement. Once the old identity is broken, the captor introduces a new ideological framework.

Mass Propaganda: Systematically shaping public perception through controlled mass media, public rituals, continuous repetition of false narratives, and state-sanctioned scapegoating.

3. Technological and Digital Influence

Advancements in technology have introduced new, subtle channels that manipulate human cognitive pathways.

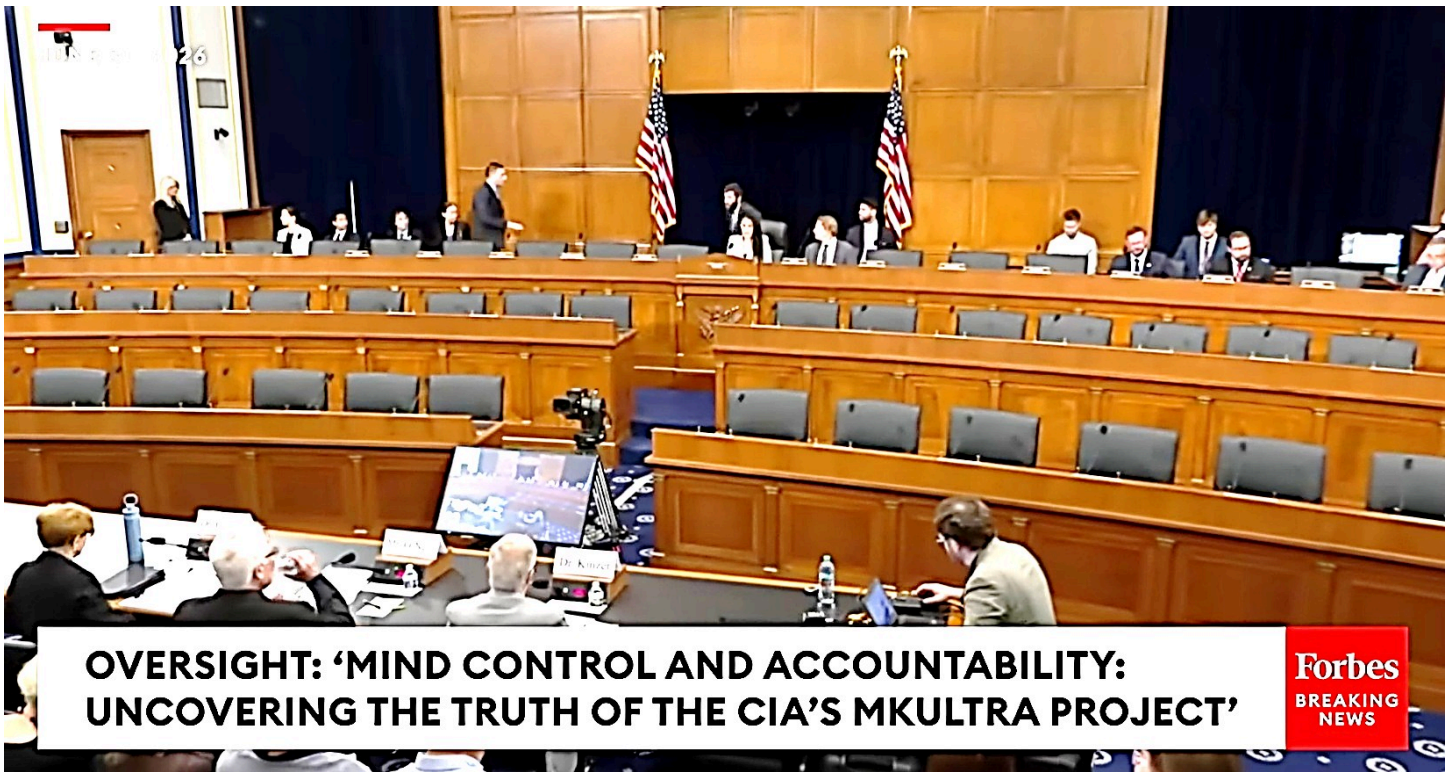

Algorithm-Driven Hyper-Persuasion: Modern social media networks utilize predictive feedback loops and tailored ad streams to quietly reshape habits and polarize opinions. Rather than forcing compliance, it nudges behavior by exploiting cognitive biases.

Neurotechnology & Brain-Computer Interfaces (BCIs): Emerging research in biotechnology—ranging from early military studies like the CIA's MKUltra program to modern neuroprosthetics—explores direct brain stimulation. While primarily used therapeutically to restore motor skills, severe alterations to neural pathways without a subject's consent can meet the technical definition of direct biological mind control.

Mind Control: Past and Future

by Lucas J. Meier

https://www.hks.harvard.edu/sites/default/files/2025-01/25_Meier_01.pdf

FULL MKULTRA HEARING: CIA'S MKUltra Program Probed By Lawmakers Seeking Answers About 'Mind Control'

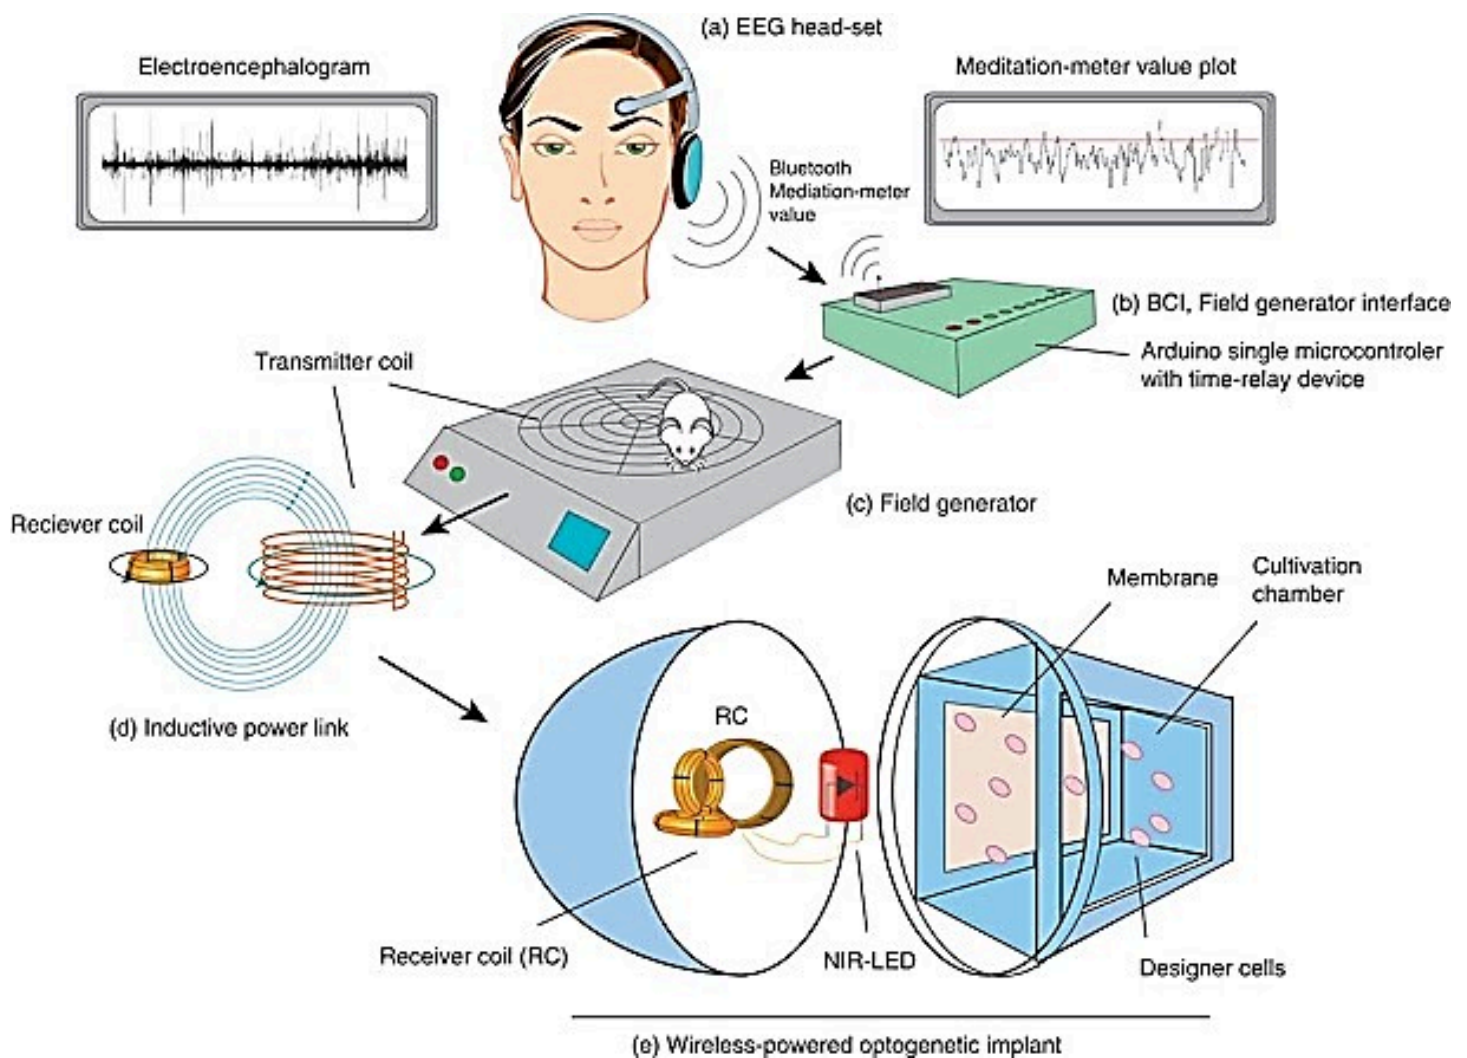

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=dpQuIJS-R50>

"The American people deserve the complete record. The victims and their families deserve acknowledgement, accountability and justice and this Congress has the constitutional obligation to make sure that the CIA never does this again," said the the impassionate Senator Luna

Mechanically, Ms. Luna says the purpose of the hearing was to "make sure the CIA never does this again." Yet, she ignores hundreds of Targets who have notified her, TargetedHumans.org being one, that the program has never ended or that another program with another name is actively operating with the same tactics and motivations across the nation.

She has ignored all requests for attention to this problem or she has been instructed by the CIA and FBI to remain silent on MKUltra and directed energy weapons. They have to keep this secret because so many activities depend on its silence. She did not respond to the packet of materials proving the existence of this present program operating today. No senator or house member has.

Therefore, she and they are all collaborators, even though some know, they don't do anything. They just let us suffer while they go about their lives, with homes and family to go to, retirement plans, investments, i.e., regular normal lives.

MIND GENETICS

<https://www.herox.com/blog/139-the-power-of-mind-control>

In a study that was described in Nature Communications, a group of researchers from the Department of Biosystems Science and Engineering at ETH Zurich describe how advancements made in synthetic biology, optogenetics, and brain-computer-interfaces combined to create the world's first "mind-genetic interface" (MGI).

In their experiment, the researchers implanted a coin-sized device under the skin of mice that was made up of three components. These included a receiver-coil capable of picking up magnetic signals and converting them into an electrical current; a near infrared LED powered by that current; and a chamber for housing genetically-modified cells that respond selectively to the LED.

The mice were then placed onto a magnetic field generator that received brain activity (EEG) signals via Bluetooth from people wearing NeuroSky's MindSet EEG headsets. The people responded to biofeedback, meditated, or concentrated on a game to change the level of their brain activity, which in turn altered the magnetic field being generated and the amount of current created by the implanted device.

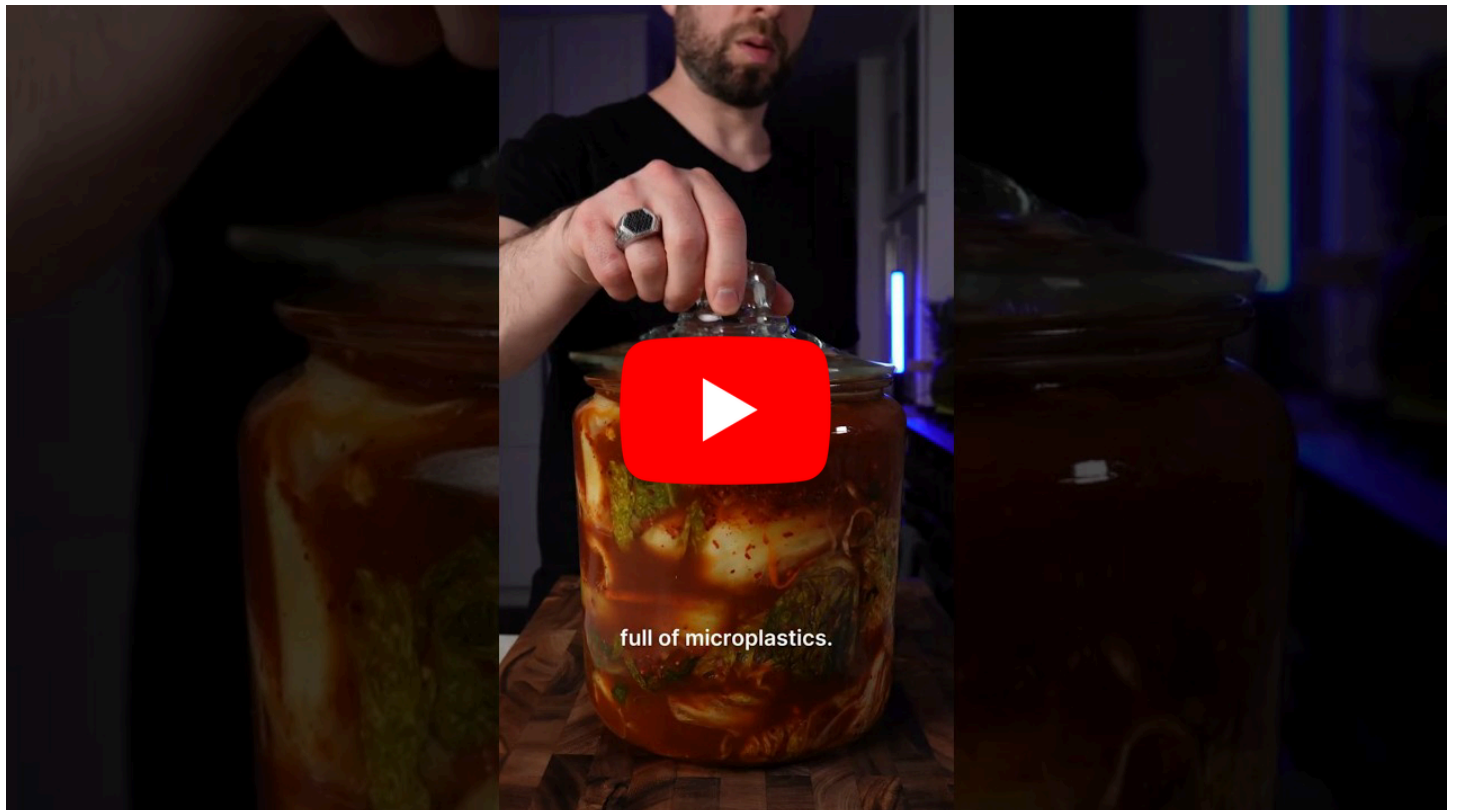

A set threshold of current triggered the LED to turn on and illuminate the cells in the chamber of the implanted devices, which the researchers could see lighting up through the mouse's skin. The cells were specifically modified to express a human protein called Secreted Alkaline Phosphatase (SEAP) whenever the LED turned on that would then diffuse across a membrane and into the mouse's bloodstream. The researchers were then able to determine that the levels of SEAP in the blood of the mice changed in accordance with changes in the mental state of the people involved.

What this boils down to is the ability to control the release of proteins in the bloodstream, proteins which have a specific biological function and can order the body to behave in ways that we want it to. Naturally, the system described by the researchers is still in its infancy and so far, they have only used human brain activity to test their implantable gene-delivery device in mice. But the process is fairly straight-forward, and human trials could be happening before long.

HEALTH: Get rid of microplastics

This is the Fastest Way to Calm Your Nervous System

TargetedHumans, Inc.

P.O. Box 2265

New Smyrna Beach 32170-2265

This email was sent to {{ contact.EMAIL }}.

Apologies to those who unsubscribed. We had to change providers and Constant Contact kept our list of unsubscribed so we are having to start over from lists from websites and old newsletters.

Unsubscribe