

Privacy Policy

At Afrilex.org, we respect your privacy and are committed to protecting any personal information you choose to share with us. This Privacy Policy explains how we handle your data when you use our website.

Information we collect: When you use the contact form on this website, we collect your email address and any information you include in your message. This information is used solely to respond to your enquiry.

How we use your information: Your personal information is used only to respond to your enquiries and to communicate with you if requested. We do not share, sell, or disclose your personal information to any third parties.

Cookies: This website does not use cookies or any form of tracking technology.

Data Security: We take reasonable steps to protect the personal information we collect via this website.

Terms of Use - By accessing this website, you agree to the following terms:

Informational use only: This website is intended for general informational purposes only. Nothing on this site should be considered legal, financial, or professional advice.

Content ownership: All content, including text and images, on this website is owned by Afrilex.org unless otherwise indicated. You may not reproduce or distribute any content without written permission.

Limitation of liability: While we strive to ensure the information provided is accurate and up to date, we make no guarantees. Afrilex.org accepts no responsibility for any losses or damages resulting from reliance on the content of this website.

External links: This website may contain links to external websites for convenience. Afrilex.org is not responsible for the content or privacy practices of those external sites.

Governing law: South Africa