Unit 52 Few, little, less, fewer

A

We often use (a) few and (a) little with nouns. However, we can also use them as pronouns:

- □ Little is known about the painter's early life.
- □ It is a part of the world visited by few. (= few people)
- □ Do you want a chocolate? There's still a few left. (= a few chocolates)
- □ The password is known by only a few. (= a few people)
- □ 'Do you know anything about car engines?' 'A little.' (= I know a little about car engines)

Note that quite a few means 'quite a large number':

- □ She's been away from work for quite a few weeks.

B

We can use the few and the little followed by a noun to suggest 'not enough' when we talk about a group of things or people (with few) or part of a group or amount (with little):

- □ It's one of the few shops in the city centre where you can buy food.
- □ We should use the little time we have available to discuss Jon's proposal.

Instead of the few/little we can use what few/little to mean 'the small (number/amount)':

- □ She gave what little money she had in her purse to the man. (or ...the little money...)
- □ What few visitors we have are always made welcome. (or The few visitors...)

Notice that we can also say 'She gave what/the little she had...' and 'What/The few we have...' when it is clear from the context what is being referred to.

We can use few (but rarely little) after personal pronouns (my, her, etc.) and these and those:

- □ I learned to play golf during my few days off during the summer.
- □ She put her few clothes into a bag, and walked out of the house for ever.
- □ These few miles of motorway have taken over ten years to build.

C

In speech and informal writing, it is more usual to use not many/much or only/just... a few/little instead of few and little to talk about a small amount or number, and we often use a bit (of) in informal speech instead of a little:

- □ Sorry I haven't finished, I haven't had much time today. (rather than ...I had little time...)
- □ I won't be long. I've only got a few things to get. (rather than ...I've got few things...)
- □ Want a bit of chocolate? (rather than ...a little chocolate?)

In more formal contexts, such as academic writing, we generally prefer few and little:

- □ The results take little account of personal preference. (rather than ...don't take much...)

D less (than) and fewer (than)

We use less with uncountable nouns and fewer with plural countable nouns:

- □ You should eat less pasta.
- □ There are fewer cars on the road today.

Less is sometimes used with a plural countable noun (e.g. ...less cars...), particularly in conversation. However, this is grammatically incorrect.

We use less than with a noun phrase indicating an amount:

- □ I used to earn less than a pound a week when I first started work.

Less than is sometimes also used with a noun phrase referring to a group of things or people, particularly in conversation. However, some people think this is incorrect, particularly in formal contexts, and that fewer than should be used instead:

- □ There were fewer than twenty students present. (or informally ...less than...)

When we talk about a distance or a sum of money we use less than, not fewer than:

- □ The beach is less than a mile away.

To emphasise that a number is surprisingly large we can use no less than or no fewer than:

- □ The team has had no fewer than ten managers in just five years. (or ...no less than...)

Notice that we prefer no less than with percentages, periods of time and quantities:

- □ Profits have increased by no less than 95% in the last year. (rather than ...no fewer than...)

Are there any results that surprise you? Comment on them using no less than or no fewer than.

Unit 53 Relative pronouns

A

Defining and non-defining relative clauses (see also GR: J1–J2) begin with a relative pronoun, which can sometimes be omitted:

□ We went to a beach (which/that) Jane had recommended to us.

Here the relative pronoun refers to 'a beach', and the subject of the relative clause is 'Jane'. Compar where the relative pronoun refers to 'a man', and the subject of the relative clause is also 'a man In this case, the relative pronoun can't be omitted.

□ I know a man who/that ran in the New York Marathon last year.

B

When we use a defining relative clause, the relative pronoun can be either the subject or the object of the relative clause. When it is the subject the word order is subject + verb + object:

□ I have a friend who/that plays guitar. (a friend = subject, plays = verb, guitar = object)

When the relative pronoun is the object the word order is object + subject + verb:

□ He showed me the rocks (which/that) he had collected. (the rocks = object, he = subject, had collected = verb)

C

Relative pronouns are used to add information in defining relative clauses as follows:

adding information about things

Relative pronoun	which	that	no relative pronoun
subject	✓	✓	✘
object	✓	✓	✓

adding information about people

Relative pronoun	who	that	no relative pronoun	whom
subject	✓	✓	✘	✘
object	✓	✓	✓	✓

☆ When we add information about things, we can use that (or no relative pronoun) as object in conversation and which in more formal contexts:

□ Decorating's a job (that) I hate. (rather than '...which...' in this informal context)

☆ When we add information about people, we generally prefer that (or no relative pronoun) as object in informal contexts rather than who or whom:

□ That's the man (that) I met at Alison's party (rather than ....who/whom I met...)

☆ whom is very formal and rarely used in spoken English:

□ The boy whom Elena had shouted at smiled. (less formally that, no relative pronoun or who)

☆ We use that as subject after: something and anything; words such as all, little, much, and none used as pronouns; and noun phrases that include superlatives. Which is also used as subject after something and anything, but less commonly:

□ These walls are all that remain of the city. (not ... which remain of the city.)

☆ Note that we can use that (or no relative pronoun) as object after something/anything; all, etc.; and noun phrases with superlatives. For example:

□ She's one of the kindest people (that) I know. (not ...one of the kindest people who I know.)

D

Relative pronouns are used to add information in non-defining relative clauses as follows:

adding information about things

Relative pronoun	which	that subject	✓	✓
object	✓	✓

adding information about people

Relative pronoun	who	whom
subject	✓	✘
object	✓	✓

☆ Notice that we must include a relative pronoun in a non-defining relative clause.

☆ We can use who or whom as object, although whom is very formal:

□ Professor Johnson, who(m) I have long admired, is to visit the University next week.

☆ When we add information about things, we can use which as subject or object. That is sometimes used instead of which, but some people think this is incorrect:

□ The Master's course, which I took in 1990, is no longer taught. (or ...that I took...)

Unit 54 Other relative words: whose, when, whereby, etc.

A Clauses with whose

We use a relative clause beginning with the relative pronoun whose + noun, particularly in written English, when we talk about something belonging to or associated with a person, animal or plant:

- Stevenson is an architect whose designs have won international praise.
- Sue was taking care of a rabbit whose ears were badly damaged in a fight with a cat.

We can use whose in both defining and non-defining relative clauses (see GR: J1–J2).

We generally avoid using whose to talk about something belonging to or associated with a thing:

- I received a letter, and its poor spelling made me think it was written by a child. (more natural than 'I received a letter, whose poor spelling made me think...')

However, we sometimes use whose when we talk about towns, countries, or organisations:

- The film was made in Botswana, whose wildlife parks are larger than those in Kenya.
- We need to learn from companies whose trading is more healthy than our own.

In academic writing whose is used to talk about a wide variety of 'belonging to' relationships:

- Students are encouraged to use an appropriate theory in order to solve problems whose geographical limits are clear.

B Clauses with when, whereby, where and why

We can begin relative and other clauses with when (referring to time), whereby (method or means; used mainly in formal contexts), and where (location). In formal English in particular, a phrase with preposition + which can often be used instead of these:

- He wasn't looking forward to the time when he would have to leave. (or ...the time at which ...)
- Do you know the date when we have to hand in the essay? (or ...the date on/by which...)
- The government is to end the system whereby (= 'by which means') farmers make more money from leaving land unplanted than from growing wheat. (or ...the system in/by which farmers...)
- This was the place where we first met. (or ...the place at/in which we...)

In academic English, we can also use where to refer to relationships other than location, particularly after words such as case, condition, example, situation, system:

- Later in this chapter we will introduce cases where consumer complaints have resulted in changes in the law. (or more formally ...cases in which...)

We can also use a/the reason why or a/the reason that or just a/the reason:

- I didn't get a pay rise, but this wasn't the reason why I left. (or ...the reason (that) I left.)

C Clauses with who and what; whatever, whoever and whichever

Some clauses beginning with a wh-word are used like a noun phrase in a sentence. These are sometimes called nominal relative clauses:

- Can you give me a list of who's been invited? (= the people who have been invited)
- I didn't know what I should do next. (= the thing that I should do next)

Notice that we can't use what in this way after a noun:

- I managed to get all the books that you asked for. (not ...all the books what you asked for.)

We use clauses beginning with whatever (= anything or it doesn't matter what), whoever (= the person/group who or any person/group who), or whichever (= one thing or person from a limited number, to talk about things or people that are indefinite or unknown:

- I'm sure I'll enjoy eating whatever you cook.
- Whoever wins will go on to play Barcelona in the final.
- Whichever one of you broke the window will have to pay for it.

Unit 55 Prepositions in relative clauses

A

In formal styles noun + of which is often preferred to whose + noun when we talk about things:

- A huge amount of oil was spilled, the effects of which are still being felt.
- The end of the war, the anniversary of which is on the 16th November, will be commemorated in cities throughout the country.

We can use of which and of whose, but not usually which or whose, after all, both, each, many, most, neither, none, part, some, a number (one, two, etc.; the first, the second, etc.; half, a third, etc.) and superlatives (the best, the biggest, etc.):

- Lotta was able to switch between German and Russian, both of which she spoke fluently. (not ...both which she spoke fluently.)
- She joined the local tennis club, most of whose members were at least 60.

In formal contexts, of which can be used instead of that/which...of in relative clauses:

- The school that/which she is head of is closing. (or more formally The school of which she...)
- The book that/which he's most proud of... (or more formally The book of which he...)

B

In formal, mainly written, English whose can come after a preposition in a relative clause. However, it is more natural to put the preposition at the end of the clause in less formal contexts and in spoken English:

- The council is in discussion with Lord Thomas, on whose land most of the village is built. (or less formally ...Lord Thomas, whose land most of the village is built on.)
- I now turn to Freud, from whose work the following quotation is taken. (or less formally ...Freud, whose work the following quotation is taken from.)

C

When a preposition is needed with the relative pronouns which and whom we usually put it before the relative pronoun in formal styles:

- The rate at which a material heats up depends on its chemical composition.
- Her many friends, among whom I like to be considered, gave her encouragement.

After a preposition we usually use whom rather than who in formal styles:

- Is it right that politicians should make important decisions without consulting the public to whom they are accountable? (rather than ...the public to who they are accountable.)

and we don't use that or no relative pronoun:

- The valley in which the town lies is heavily polluted. (not The valley in that the town lies is heavily polluted.; not The valley in the town lies is heavily polluted.)

In less formal English we usually put the preposition later in the relative clause rather than at the beginning:

- The office that Graham took us to was filled with books.

and we prefer who (or that) rather than whom (see also Unit 26A):

- The playground wasn't used by the children who it was built for.

D

If the verb in the relative clause is a two-word verb (e.g. come across, fill in, look after, take on) we don't usually put the preposition before the relative pronoun:

- The Roman coins, which a local farmer came across in a field, are now on display in the National Museum. (not ...coins, across which the local farmer came, are...)

With three-word verbs, we only put the preposition before the relative pronoun in a very formal or literary style, and many people avoid this pattern:

- She is one of the few people to whom I look up. (or less formally ...who I look up to.)

9 The college is home to 30 students from Nepal, almost all of who are studying economics.

Unit 56 Other ways of adding information to noun phrases (1): additional noun phrases, etc.

A

We sometimes add information about a person or thing referred to in one noun phrase by talking about the same person or thing in a different way in a following noun phrase:

- A hooded cobra, one of the world's most dangerous snakes, has escaped from Dudley Zoo.
- Dr Alex Parr, director of the State Museum, is to become the government's arts adviser.
- When Tom fell off his bike we gave him arnica, a medicine made from a flower, for the bruising.

In writing, the items are usually separated by a comma, and in speech they are often separated by a pause or other intonation break. However, when the second item acts like a defining relative clause, when it is usually a name, there is usually no punctuation in writing or intonation break in speech:

- My friend Jim has moved to Sweden. (rather than My friend, Jim, ...)
- The current champion is expected to survive her first-round match with the Italian Silvia Farina. (rather than ...the Italian, Silvia Farina.)

B

We can add information to a noun phrase with a conjunction such as and or or:

- Kurt Svensson, her teacher and well-known concert pianist, thinks that she has great talent. (= her teacher is also a well-known concert pianist)
- My business partner and great friend Tom Edwards is getting married today.
- Phonetics or the study of speech sounds is a common component on courses in teaching English as a foreign language.

C

The adverb namely and the phrase that is are used to add details about a noun phrase:

- This side-effect of the treatment, namely weight gain, is counteracted with other drugs.
- The main cause of global warming, that is the burning of fossil fuels, is to be the focus of negotiations at the international conference.

D

We can also add information to a noun phrase using a participle clause beginning with an -ing, -ed or being + -ed verb form. These are often similar to defining relative clauses (see GR: J1–2):

- Any passengers travelling to Cambridge should sit in the first two carriages of the train. (or Any passengers who are travelling...)
- The people living next door* come from Italy. (or The people who are living next door...)
- The weapon used in the murder* has now been found. (or The weapon that was used..)
- The book published last week* is his first novel. (or The book that was published last week...)
- The prisoners being released are all women. (or The prisoners who are being released...)
- The boys being chosen for the team* are under 9. (or The boys who are being chosen...)

Notice that -ing participle clauses correspond to defining relative clauses with an active verb, while -ed and being + -ed clauses correspond to defining relative clauses with a passive verb.

We can also use a to-infinitive clause, as in:

- Have you brought a book to read? (= you bring it and you read it)
- Have you brought a book for Kevin to read? (= you bring it and Kevin reads it)
- My decision to resign from the company was made after a great deal of thought.
- I thought that the decision of the committee, to increase staff holidays, was a good one.

E

In written English, particularly in newspapers, -ing and -ed clauses are also used instead of non-defining relative clauses. These are usually written between commas or dashes (–):

- The men, wearing anoraks and hats, made off in a stolen Volvo estate.
- The proposals – expected to be agreed by ministers – are less radical than many employers had feared.

10 We live in a house ..... in 1906.
11 The protest march ..... next week is expected to attract over 100,000 people.

Unit 57 Other ways of adding information to noun phrases (2): prepositional phrases, etc.

A

We commonly add information about a thing or person using a prepositional phrase. Often these have a meaning similar to a relative clause:

- What's the name of the man by the window? (or ...the man who's by the window?)
- It's in the cupboard under the stairs. (or ...the cupboard that's under the stairs.)
- She lives in the house with the red door. (or ...the house which has the red door.)

In some cases, however, these prepositional phrases do not have a corresponding relative clause:

- You need to keep a careful record of what you spend.
- There is likely to be an increase in temperature tomorrow.

We often prefer a relative clause rather than a prepositional phrase in non-defining relative clauses with be + preposition or with have as a main verb:

- Johnson, who was in the store at the time of the robbery, was able to identify two of the men. (rather than ...Johnson, in the store...)
- Jim Morton, who has a farm in Devon, has decided to grow only organic vegetables. (rather than Jim Morton, with a farm in Devon, has...)

B

In written English, particularly in academic writing, a series of prepositional phrases and relative clauses is often used to add information about a previous noun phrase. Note that prepositional phrases can also be used with an adverbial function (e.g. '...taken the drug in the last 6 months' in the sentence below):

- Doctors are contacting patients with diabetes who have taken the drug in the last 6 months.
- Scientists in Spain who have developed the technique are optimistic that it will be widely used in laboratories within the next decade.

We can also use participle clauses and noun phrases (see Unit 56) in a series of clauses/phrases which add information to the preceding noun phrase:

- The waxwing is the only bird found in Britain with yellow and red tail feathers.
- Mr Bob Timms, leader of the Democratic Party, MP for Threeoaks, has announced his resignation.

C

Notice that adding a series of prepositional phrases can often lead to ambiguity. For example:

- The protesters were demonstrating against the mistreatment of animals on farms.

could mean either that the place the protesters were demonstrating was 'on farms' or that the animals were 'on farms'. We could make the sentence unambiguous with, for example:

- The protesters were demonstrating on farms against the mistreatment of animals. or
- The protesters were demonstrating against the mistreatment of animals kept on farms.

Exercises

57.3 Complete the sentence by adding the pieces of information given. Use relative clauses (see Unit 53), additional noun phrases and participle clauses (Unit 56) and prepositional phrases (Unit 57).

1 Police are questioning men... between 25 and 30 living in the village, known to have a criminal record.

(The men are between 25 and 30. They live in the village. They are known to have a criminal record.)

2 Teachers...

(The teachers work at Queen's College. Queen's College is in the city centre. The teachers went on strike last week. They have appointed Jacqui Smith as their spokesperson. She is the head of English.)

3 Marge Scott...

(Marge Scott has died. She was aged 95. She was educated at Marston College. She was the first woman to be educated there. Marston College is in south Wales.)

4 The conference...

(The conference was held in Singapore. It approved the world trade agreement. The agreement was drawn up by European and Asian states. The conference has now ended.)

5 A book...

(The book is on gardening. It is called All about Plants. Mary wanted to borrow it. It wasn't available in the library.)

6 A painting...

(The painting was found in a second-hand shop. It was found by Beth Sands. She is an antique dealer. She is from York. The painting is thought to be by J.M.W. Turner. Turner was a British landscape artist.)

57.4 Why are these sentences ambiguous? Can you rewrite them to remove the ambiguity? (C)

1 A man was talking with a grey suit.

2 A lorry was stopped by a police officer carrying thousands of stolen cigarettes.

3 I discussed my plan to decorate the room with my parents.

Unit 58 Participle clauses with adverbial meaning (1

A

We can use present participle (-ing) and past participle (-ed) clauses with an adverbial meaning. (See also Unit 59.) Clauses like these often give information about the timing, causes, and results of the events described:

- Opening her eyes, the baby began to cry. (= When she opened her eyes...)
- Faced with a bill for £10,000, John has taken an extra job. (= Because he is faced...)
- Looked after carefully, the plant can live through the winter. (= If it is looked after...)
- Having completed the book, he had a holiday. (perfect; = When/Because he had completed...)
- The fruit was expensive, being imported. (simple passive; = ...because it was imported)
- Having been hunted close to extinction, the rhino is once again common in this area. (perfect passive; = Although it had been hunted close to extinction...)

B

The implied subject of a participle clause (that is, a subject known but not directly mentioned) is usually the same as the subject of the main clause:

- Arriving at the party, we saw Ruth standing alone. (= When we arrived...we saw...)

However, sometimes the implied subject is not referred to in the main clause:

- Having wanted to drive a train all his life, this was an opportunity not to be missed.

In careful speech and writing we avoid different subjects for the participle and main clause:

- Turning round quickly, the door hit me in the face. (first implied subject = 'I'; second subject = 'the door')

C

In formal English, the participle clause sometimes has its own subject, which is often a pronoun or includes one:

- The collection of vases is priceless, some being over two thousand years old.
- Her voice breaking with emotion, Jean spoke about her father's illness.

We use a present participle (-ing) clause to talk about something happening at the same time as an event in the main clause, or to give information about the facts given in the main clause.

D

When we use not in a participle clause it usually comes before the participle. However, it can follow the participle, depending on the part of the sentences affected by not. Compare:

- Wishing not to go out that night, I made an excuse. ('not' relates to 'to go out that night'; the sentence means 'I didn't want to go out on that particular night') and
- Not wishing to go out that night, I made an excuse. ('not' relates to 'wish to go out that night'; the sentence could mean 'going out on that particular night wasn't my wish')

E

We use a clause beginning with having + past participle rather than a present participle if the action in the main clause is the consequence of the event in the participle clause:

- Having won every major judo title, Mark retired from international competition. (or After winning...; not Winning every major judo title...)
- Having broken her leg the last time she went, Brenda decided not to go on the school skiing trip this year. (or After breaking her leg...; not Breaking her leg...)

We can use either a present participle (-ing) clause or a having + past participle clause with a similar meaning when the action in the participle clause is complete before the action in the main clause begins. Compare:

- Taking off his shoes, Ray walked into the house. (Having taken off...has a similar meaning) and
- Running across the field, I fell and hurt my ankle. (= While I was running...; 'Having run...' would suggest that I fell after I had run across the field)

2 ..... out of the city, she felt much happier.
3 ..... through the tunnel, I banged my head on the low roof.
4 ..... six months for the washing machine to be delivered, I decided to cancel the order.
5 ..... from depression himself as a teenager, Kevin could understand how his son was feeling.

Unit 59 Participle clauses with adverbial meaning (2)

We can use prepositions such as after, before, besides, by, in, on, since, through, while, with, and without with a present participle (-ing) clause with an adverbial meaning (see also Unit 58):

- □ While understanding her problem, I don't know how I can help. (= Although I understand...)
- □ After spending so much money on the car, I can't afford a holiday.
- □ Before being changed last year, the speed limit was 70 kph. (passive form)

Less formal alternatives have a clause with a verb that can change according to tense and subject. Compare:

- □ Since moving to London, we haven't had time to go to the theatre. and
- □ Since we moved to London, we haven't had time to go to the theatre. (less formal)

by, in, on + -ing

□ By working hard, she passed her maths exam. □ They only survived by eating roots and berries in the forest.	= the -ing clause indicates 'the method or means used'
□ On returning from Beijing, he wrote to the Chinese embassy. □ John was the first person I saw on leaving hospital.	= the -ing clause indicates 'when'
□ In criticising the painting, I knew I would offend her. □ In choosing Marco, the People's Party has moved to the left.	= the -ing clause indicates 'cause'

We can often use by + -ing or in + -ing with a similar meaning, although by + -ing is preferred in informal contexts:

- □ In/By writing the essay about Spanish culture, I came to understand the country better. ('In writing...' = the consequence of writing was to understand...; 'By writing...' = the method I used to understand the country better was to write...)

But compare:

- □ By telephoning every hour, she managed to speak to the doctor. (not In telephoning...; the method, not the consequence)

with -ing; without -ing

With + -ing often introduces a reason for something in the main clause. This use is fairly informal. Notice that a subject has to come between with and -ing:

- □ With Louise living in Spain, we don't see her often. (= Because Louise lives in Spain...)
- □ With sunshine streaming through the window, Hugh found it impossible to sleep. (= Because the sunshine was streaming...)

With and what with can also be used with a noun phrase to introduce a reason:

- □ With my bad back I won't be able to lift a heavy suitcase.
- □ What with the traffic and the heavy rain, it's no wonder you were late.

We can use without + ing to say that a second action doesn't happen:

- □ I went to work without eating breakfast.
- □ They left without paying.

Often, however, it has a similar meaning to 'although...not' or 'unless':

- □ Without meaning to, I seem to have offended her. (= Although I didn't mean to...)
- □ Without seeing the photo, I can't judge how good it is. (= Unless I see the photo...)

Adverbial meanings can also be added by a clause beginning with a conjunction or adjective but with no verb, having the same meaning as a clause beginning with a conjunction + subject + be. This is used in fairly formal English. More informal alternatives are given in brackets:

- □ While in Poland, they will play two concerts in Warsaw. (or While they are in Poland...)
- □ Although just two feet apart, they didn't speak. (or Although they were just...)
- □ I try to use public transport whenever possible. (or ...whenever it is possible.)
- □ Unhappy with the decision, Johnson swore at the referee. (or Because he was unhappy...)
- □ James relaxed, pleased with his day's work. (or ...because he was pleased...)

1+ d When in Madrid, you must visit the Prado Museum.

Unit 60 Reflexive pronouns: herself, himself, themselves, etc.

A

In addition to the usual reflexive pronouns (myself, yourself, etc.; see GR: K1–K2) some people use themselves to refer to the person who is the subject of the sentence, to avoid saying whether the subject is male or female:

- The author of the letter describes themselves as 'a senior government official'.
- Who wants to go through life by themselves, without friends?

Oneself (or less formally yourself) is used to refer to people in general:

- I think one has to have the courage to be oneself and say whatever comes naturally. (less formally I think you have to have the courage to be yourself...)

B

We can use reflexive pronouns for emphasis in various ways (see GR: K2). We also use reflexive pronouns to emphasise that the subject caused a certain action:

- When Tom and Jack saw the robbery they called the police, but then they got arrested.
- When Tom and Jack saw the robbery they called the police, but got themselves arrested. (emphasises that Tom and Jack did something to make the police arrest them)
- When Tom and Jack saw the robbery they called the police, but they got arrested themselves. (emphasises that Tom and Jack were arrested, not the robbers)

If the object of a transitive verb refers to the same person or thing as the subject, then that object must be a reflexive pronoun. Compare:

- He walked around the golf course to familiarise himself with it. and
- We walked around to familiarise the children with their new surroundings.

Other verbs commonly used in this way include absent...from, avail...of, busy...with, concern...with, occupy...with, pride...on, tear...away from, trouble...about/with.

With some verbs we can use a reflexive pronoun or leave it out with little difference in meaning:

- We are confident that both sets of fans will behave (themselves) at the match.

Other verbs like this include acclimatise, adapt, (un)dress, hide, move, prepare, shave, wash. We include the reflexive pronoun if we want to emphasise particularly that the person or thing referred to in the subject is affected by the action:

- Although he helped other athletes in their preparations for competing at high altitudes, he found it difficult to acclimatise himself.

When the subject and object (after a preposition) refer to the same person or thing we use a reflexive pronoun after the preposition:

- He was pleased with himself. (not ...pleased with him.)

If the verb has a direct object we use a personal pronoun, not a reflexive pronoun:

- I remember closing the door behind me. (not ...closing the door behind myself.)

However, if the clause has a direct object and we need to make it clear that the subject and prepositional phrase refer to the same person or thing, we use a reflexive pronoun:

- She bought the bracelet for herself. ('...for her' suggests it was bought for someone else)

Myself is sometimes used after and and or rather than 'I' or 'me', although some people consider this use incorrect and avoid it:

- I believe that Tony and myself have done a pretty good job.
- When you've finished the job can you send the bill either to Mrs Smith or myself?

Using myself reduces focus on the speaker or writer and so sounds less forceful or more polite.

F

When we want to contrast someone's characteristics with how they were or usually are we can use a possessive pronoun with self or selves:

- Colin was very cheerful this morning. He didn't seem at all like his usual miserable self.
- The image that people have of famous actors may not coincide with their real selves.

Grammar review: reflexive pronouns → K1–K4

Hi Jane

Yes, Tony's a lot better, thanks. Pretty much back to (1) his old himself. We (2) got vaccinated ourselves against hepatitis before we went to West Africa, so Tony was just unlucky to get it. He went into work after we got back although he was feeling bad, and some of his colleagues were worried about (3) getting it themselves. I know that some of them (4) had checked themselves by their doctors. By coincidence, his boss said that (5) he'd caught himself hepatitis when he was in Africa a few years ago. When he's completely recovered, (6) Tony and myself are off to Paris for a few days, and (7) we're going to occupy us with looking at the galleries and having a rest.

Must go now. The children have just shouted that they want some juice and (8) they can't reach it themself.

Will be in touch, Maggie

Unit 61

One and ones

A

We can use one instead of repeating a singular countable noun and ones instead of repeating a plural noun when it is clear from the context what we are talking about:

- □ 'Can I get you a drink?' 'It's okay, I've already got one.' (= a drink)
- □ I think his best poems are his early ones. (= poems)

We don't use one/ones instead of an uncountable noun:

- □ If you need any more paper, I'll bring you some. (not ...I'll bring you one/ones.)
- □ I asked him to get apple juice, but he got orange. (not ...but he got orange one/ones.)

We can't use ones without defining precisely which group of things we are talking about. Instead, we use some. Compare:

- □ 'We need new curtains.' 'Okay, let's buy green ones this time./...ones with flowers on/...those ones.' and
- □ 'We need new curtains.' 'Okay, let's buy some.' (not Okay, let's buy ones.)

We don't use one/ones after nouns used as adjectives:

- □ I thought my key was in my trouser pocket, but it was in my coat pocket. (not ...my coat one.)

Instead of using one/ones after possessive determiners (my, your, her, etc.) we prefer mine, yours, hers, etc. However, a possessive determiner + one/ones is often heard in informal speech:

- □ I'd really like a watch like yours. (or '...like your one' in informal speech)

We usually use ones to refer to things rather than people:

- □ We need two people to help. We could ask those men over there. (not ... ask those ones...)

However, ones is more likely to be used in comparative sentences to refer to groups of people:

- □ Older students seem to work harder than younger ones. (or ...than younger students.)

Notice also that we use ones to refer to people in the little ones (= small children), (your) loved ones (= usually close family), (one of) the lucky ones.

C

We can leave out one/ones –

☆ after which:

- □ When we buy medicines, we have no way of knowing which (ones) contain sugar.

☆ after superlatives:

- □ Look at that pumpkin! It's the biggest (one) I've seen this year.

☆ after this, that, these, and those:

- □ The last test I did was quite easy, but some parts of this (one) are really difficult.
- □ Help yourself to grapes. These (ones) are the sweetest, but those (ones) taste best.

(Note that some people think 'those/these ones' is incorrect, particularly in formal English.)

☆ after either, neither, another, each, the first/second/last, (etc.):

- □ Karl pointed to the paintings and said I could take either (one). (or ...either of them.)
- □ She cleared away the cups, washed each (one) thoroughly, and put them on the shelf.

We don't leave out one/ones –

☆ after the, the only, the main, and every:

- □ When you cook clams you shouldn't eat the ones that don't open.
- □ After I got the glasses home, I found that every one was broken.

☆ after adjectives:

- □ My shoes were so uncomfortable that I had to go out today and buy some new ones.

However, after colour adjectives we can often leave out one/ones in answers:

- □ 'Have you decided which jumper to buy?' 'Yes, I think I'll take the blue (one).'

and we don't include ones when we use adjectives in place of nouns to refer to groups of people, as in the affluent, the disadvantaged, the elderly, the homeless, the low-paid, the poor, the privileged, the rich, the wealthy, the young, etc. (But when these are ordinary adjectives, we can use ones, e.g. These are the privileged ones; the other children aren't so lucky.)

61.2 If appropriate, replace the underlined words or phrases with one or ones. If it is not possible or is unlikely, write No after the sentence. (A & B)

61.3 If the sentence is correct without the underlined one/ones, put brackets around it (as in 1). If it is not correct without one/ones, write ✓(as in 2). (C & D)

14 He's just bought a new bike and has offered to give me his old one.

Unit 62 So and not as substitutes for clauses, etc.

We can use so instead of repeating an adjective, adverb, or a whole clause:

- The workers were angry and they had every right to be so. (= angry)
- John took the work seriously and Petra perhaps even more so. (= took the work seriously)
- Bob's giving us a lift. At least I presume so. (= that he's giving us a lift)

We often use so instead of a clause after verbs concerned with thinking, such as be afraid (expressing regret), appear/seem (after 'it'), assume, believe, expect, guess, hope, imagine, presume, suppose, suspect, think; and also after say and after tell (with an indirect object):

- 'Is Tony going back to Scotland to see his parents this summer?' 'I've no idea, but I would imagine so. He goes most years.'
- I found it ridiculous, and said so./...and told them so. (= that I found it ridiculous)

Notice that we don't use so after certain other verbs, including accept, admit, agree, be certain, doubt, hear, know, promise, suggest, be sure:

- Liz will organise the party. She promised (that) she would. (not She promised so.)
- 'Will Ken know how to mend it?' 'I doubt it./ I doubt (that) he will.' (not I doubt so.)

In informal English, particularly in an argument, we can use 'I know so'.

C

In negative sentences, we use not or not...so:

- Is the Socialist Party offering anything new in its statement? It would appear not.
- They want to buy the house, although they didn't say so directly.

We can use either not or not...so with appear, seem, suppose:

- 'I don't suppose there'll be any seats left.' 'No, I don't suppose so.' (or ...I suppose not.)

We prefer not...so with believe, expect, imagine, think. With these verbs, not is rather formal:

- 'Will we need to show our passports at the border?' 'I don't think so.' (rather than I think not.)

We use not with be afraid (expressing regret), assume, guess (in the phrase 'I guess...', = 'I think...'), hope, presume, suspect:

- 'You'd better do it yourself. Brian won't help.' 'No, I guess not.' (not No, I don't guess so.)

Compare the use of not (to) and not...so with say:

- 'Do we have to do all ten questions?' 'The teacher said not.' (= the teacher said that we didn't have to) or 'The teacher said not to.' (= the teacher said that we shouldn't)
- 'Do we have to do all ten questions?' 'The teacher didn't say so.' (= the teacher didn't say that we should do all ten, but perhaps we should)

We can use so in a short answer, instead of a short answer with 'Yes, ...', when we want to say that we can see that something is true, now that we have been told, particularly if we are surprised that it is true. In answers like this we use so + pronoun + auxiliary verb (be, can, etc.):

- 'Jack and Martha are here.' 'So they are.' (or Yes, they are.) (= I can see that, too, now)

However, to indicate that we already know something we use 'Yes, ...', not 'So..'. Compare:

- 'Your bike's been moved.' 'So it has./Yes, it has. I wonder who did it.' (= I didn't know before you told me) and
- 'Your bike's been moved.' 'Yes, it has. Philip borrowed it this morning.' (= I knew before you told me; not So it has.)

We can use so in a similar way in short answers with verbs such as appear (after 'it'), believe, gather, hear, say, seem, tell (e.g. So she tells me.), understand. However, with these verbs, the pattern implies 'I knew before you told me':

- 'The factory is going to close.' 'So I understand.' (= I've heard that news, too)
- 'I found that lecture really boring.' 'So I gather. (= I knew that) I saw you sleeping.'

3 'The class has been cancelled again.' .....

5 'Bob's moving to Berlin.' .....

Unit 63 Do so; such

Do so

We use do so (or does so, did so, doing so, etc.) instead of repeating a verb phrase (a verb and what follows it to complete its meaning) when it is clear from the context what we are talking about:

- She won the competition in 1997 and seems likely to do so (= win the competition) again this year.
- Dr Lawson said, 'Sit down.' Katia did so (= sat down), and started to talk about her problems.
- The climbers will try again today to reach the summit of the mountain. Their chances of doing so (= reaching the summit of the mountain) are better than they were last week. (In very formal English we can also use so doing.)
- When he was asked to check the figures, he claimed that he had already done so. (= checked the figures)

Do so is most often used in formal spoken and written English. In informal English we can use do it or do that instead:

- Mrs Bakewell waved as she walked past. She does so/it/that every morning.
- Ricardo told me to put in a new battery. I did so/it/that, but the radio still doesn't work.

We can also use do alone rather than do so in less formal English, especially after modals or perfect tenses (see also B):

- 'Will this programme work on your computer?' 'It should do.'
- I told you that I'd finish the work by today, and I have done. ('have' is stressed here)

B

We can use do so instead of verbs that describe actions, but we avoid do so with verbs that describe states and habitual actions. Compare:

- 65% of the members voted for Ken Brown this time, whereas 84% did so last year.
- Kenyon confessed to the murder, although he only did so after a number of witnesses had identified him as the killer.
- I gave her the medicine, and I take full responsibility for doing so. and
- Stefan doesn't like Porter's films but Bridget does.
- He earned a lot more than I did.
- I don't have time to go swimming every day, but I usually do.

Such

We can use such + (a/an) + noun to refer back to something mentioned before, with the meaning 'of this/that kind'. We use such + noun when the noun is uncountable or plural, and such + a/an + noun when the noun is countable and singular. Such is used in this way mainly in formal speech and writing:

- The students refer to teachers by their first names and will often criticise them for badly-prepared lessons. Such behaviour is unacceptable in most schools. (more informally Behaviour like this...)
- When asked about rumours that the company is preparing to lose more than 200 jobs, a spokeswoman said: 'I know of no such plans.' (more informally ...no plans of this kind.)
- They needed someone who was both an excellent administrator and manager. Such a person was not easy to find. (more informally A person like this...)
- We allow both men and women to have time off work to bring up children. We were the first department to introduce such a scheme. (more informally ...a scheme like this.)

63.1 Make the two sentences into one, joining them with either and or but as appropriate. In the second part of the sentence use a form of do followed by so instead of repeating the verb + object/ complement. (A)

1 Johnson never won an Olympic medal. He twice came close to winning an Olympic medal.
Johnson never won an Olympic medal, but twice came close to doing so.

2 She was asked to teach more classes. She was happy to teach more classes.

3 My French hosts gave me snails to eat. I ate them very reluctantly.
.....

4 The company wanted to build a new dam on the site. They were prevented from building the dam by local opposition.
.....

5 All EU countries agreed to implement the new regulations on recycling plastic. So far only Finland and Austria have implemented the new regulations.
.....

6 The water freezes in the cracks in rocks. As it freezes, it expands.

63.2 Complete these sentences with a form of do followed by so only if possible. (B)

8 She pointed to the old box, her hand shaking as she ..... .

63.3 Complete the sentences with such or such a/an followed by one of these words. Use a singular or plural form of the word as appropriate. (C) claims destruction ~~device~~ project research tactics

1 Manufacturers often claim that their washing machines have built-in computers, but is there really a computer in ..... such a device ..... ?
2 After Professor Jones spoke about his work on climate change, he called on the government to put more money into ..... .

6 United played very defensively in the second half, but ..... were criticised by the team's supporters.

63.4 Rewrite the sentences in 63.3 to make them less formal, as in 1. (C)

1 ...but is there really a computer in a device like this? (or ...like that ?)

Unit 64 More on leaving out words after auxiliary verbs

To avoid repeating words from a previous clause or sentence we use an auxiliary verb (be, have, can, will, would, etc.) instead of a whole verb group (e.g. 'has finished') or instead of a verb and what follows it (e.g. 'like to go to Paris'):

- She says she's finished, but I don't think she has. (instead of ...has finished.)
- 'Would any of you like to go to Paris?' 'I would.' (instead of I would like to go to Paris.)

If there is more than one auxiliary verb in the previous clause or sentence, we leave out all the auxiliary verbs except the first instead of repeating the main verb. Alternatively, we can use two (or more) auxiliary verbs:

- Alex hadn't been invited to the meal, although his wife had. (or ...had been.)
- 'They could have been delayed by the snow.' 'Yes, they could.' (or ...could have (been).)

If there is no auxiliary verb in the previous clause or sentence, or if the auxiliary is a form of do, we can use a form of do instead of repeating the main verb. We use do when the main verb is a present simple form and did when it is a past simple form:

- Monica plays golf on Saturdays, and I do too. (instead of ...and I play golf on Saturdays too.; '...and so do I' is also possible)
- 'I didn't steal the money.' 'No-one thinks that you did.' (instead of ...thinks that you stole it.; 'No-one thinks so' is also possible.)

If be is the main verb in the previous clause or sentence, we repeat a form of the verb be:

- 'The children are noisy again.' 'They always are.'

If have or have got is the main verb in the previous clause or sentence, we can usually use a form of either do or have:

- 'Do you think I have a chance of winning?' 'Yes, I think you have.' (or ...you do.; 'Yes, I think so' is also possible.)
- Even if he hasn't got a map himself, he may know someone who has. (or ...who does.)

However, if we use have + noun in the previous clause or sentence to talk about actions (have a shower, have a shave, have a good time, etc.) we prefer do:

- I wasn't expecting to have a good time at the party, but I did.

Notice that sometimes we can use either do, be or have with a similar meaning (see also C):

- I asked Suzie to tidy her room, and she has/did. ('has' replaces 'has tidied her room'; 'did' replaces 'tidied her room'.)

C

If we use have as an auxiliary verb, we can often follow it with done instead of repeating the main verb. This happens particularly in spoken English:

- 'She's never made a mistake before.' 'Well, she has (done) this time.'

However, this is usually not possible when the verb being substituted is intransitive:

- 'They've already gone.' 'I don't think Bob has.' (not ...Bob has done.)

Similarly, after a modal auxiliary verb (can, could, may, might, must, ought to, shall, should, will, would) we can use do, particularly in spoken English:

- 'Will you be seeing Tony today?' 'I might (do).'

Sometimes we can use be instead of do with a similar meaning (see also D):

- 'Will you be seeing Tony today?' 'I might (do/be).' ('do' replaces 'see Tony today'; 'be' replaces 'be seeing Tony today'.)

If we use be as an auxiliary verb in the previous clause or sentence, we can use be after a modal:

- 'Is Ella staying for lunch?' 'Yes, I think she will (be).' (or ...she will do.)

However, if be is used as a main verb in the previous clause or sentence, or as an auxiliary verb within a passive, we can usually leave out be after a modal in informal contexts only. Compare:

- 'John's late again.' 'I thought he might (be).' and
- It has been found that the comet is made entirely of gas, as it was predicted it would be.

Exercises

Unit 64

64.1 By omitting parts of the sections in italics, you can leave short answers. Indicate which parts you would leave out. Give all answers if more than one is possible. (A)

8 'Can you see Joe anywhere?' 'No, I can't see him anywhere.'
9 'Did you see that cyclist go through the red light? He couldn't have been looking.' 'No, he couldn't have been looking.'

64.2 Complete the sentences with an appropriate form of do, be or have. If more than one answer is possible, give them both. Put brackets around the word you have written if it can be left out, and write (done) after a form of have to show in which sentences this might be added. (B & C)

64.3 Complete the sentences with might, should, will or would as appropriate, giving alternatives where possible. If necessary, write be after the modal, or (be) if it is possible to either include it or leave it out. (D)

1 It's not snowing at the moment, but they say it ..... will/ might (be) ..... later.
2 'My photograph was awarded first prize.' 'I thought it ..... .'
3 'Are they staying for lunch?' 'They ..... . I'll ask them.'

6 Bill says he's very sorry – as he ..... .
7 The book is a bestseller, as we hoped it ..... .
8 Chris was cleaning the house when I got home, as I hoped he ..... .

Unit 65 Leaving out to-infinitives

We can sometimes use to instead of a clause beginning with a to-infinitive when it is clear from the context what we are talking about:

- I wanted to come with you, but I won't be able to. (instead of ...to come with you.)
- 'I can't lend you any more money.' 'I'm not asking you to.' (instead of ...to lend me any more money.)
- It might have been better if Rosa had asked for my help, but she chose not to. (instead of ...chose not to ask for my help.)

However, when we use the verb be in the previous sentence or clause the to-infinitive form of be is repeated in the next clause or sentence:

- Simon was frightened – or maybe he just pretended to be. (not ...just pretended to.)
- The report is very critical and is clearly intended to be. (not ...clearly intended to.)

After most nouns and adjectives that can be followed by a to-infinitive clause, we can leave out the to-infinitive clause or use to:

- I'm not going to write another book – at least I don't have any plans (to). (or ...plans to write another book.)
- 'Could you and Tom help me move house?' 'Well, I'm willing (to), and I'll ask Tom.'

Other nouns and adjectives like this include chance, idea, opportunity, promise, suggestion; afraid, delighted, determined.

We can also leave out a to-infinitive or use to with verbs such as agree, ask, begin, forget, promise, refuse, start, try:

- Robert will collect us by 10 o'clock. He promised (to).
- 'You were supposed to buy some sugar.' 'Sorry, I forgot (to).'

After verbs which must have a complement (i.e. a phrase which completes the meaning of the verb) we can't leave out to:

- I admit that I took her watch, but I didn't mean to.
- 'Please suggest changes to the plans if you want.' 'I intend to.'
- Have you thought about getting vaccinated against cholera before going there? I'd certainly advise you to.

Other verbs like this include afford, be able, choose, deserve, expect, fail, hate, hope, love, need prefer.

After want and would like in if-clauses and wh-clauses we can often leave out a to-infinitive or use to:

- You're welcome to dance if you'd like (to).
- You can do whatever you would like (to).
- Call me Fred if you want (to).
- Come and see us when you want (to).

In other clauses (not if- and wh-clauses) we include to:

- I was planning to see you tomorrow, and I would still like to.
- They offered to clean your car because they really want to, not because they hope to be paid.

In if-clauses and wh-clauses we usually leave out to after like. Compare:

- You can have one if you like. and You can have one if you'd like (to).
- Leave whenever you like. and Leave whenever you'd like (to).

However, we include to with negative forms of want, would like, and like, including in if-clauses and wh-clauses:

- 'Shall we go and visit Julio?' 'I don't really want to.'
- I should have phoned Jo last night, but it was so late when I got home I didn't like to.
- 'He won't mind you asking him for a loan.' 'Oh, no, I wouldn't like to.'

8 A: Shall we go out walking tomorrow? B: Yes, I'd like very much.
9 A: Could I ask you a personal question? B: Of course. Ask anything you like to.
10 A: Did you ask Dr Jones to help you? B: No, he was very busy, so I didn't like.
11 A: Where shall I put this painting? B: You choose. Put it where you want to.

Unit 66 Position of adjectives

A

Many adjectives can be used either before the noun they describe, or following linking verbs such as appear, be, become, feel, get, and seem (see Unit 21). Compare:

□ The high price surprised him. and □ The price seemed high.

B

Some adjectives are seldom or never used before the noun they describe. These include –

☆ some adjectives formed by adding a prefix 'a-', often to a noun or verb: afraid, alike, alive, alone, ashamed, asleep, awake, aware:

□ The horse was alone in the field. (but not The alone horse...)

Some of these adjectives with an 'a-' prefix have related adjectives that can be used either before a noun or after a linking verb. Compare:

□ The animal was alive. and A living animal. (or A live animal./ The animal was living.)

Other pairs like this include afraid – frightened, alike – similar, alone – lone, asleep – sleeping.

☆ some adjectives used to describe health and feelings: content, fine, glad, ill (but note 'ill health'), sorry, (un)sure, upset (but 'an upset stomach'), (un)well (but 'He's not a well man'):

□ My son felt unwell. (but not My unwell son...)

These adjectives are sometimes used between an adverb and noun e.g. 'a terminally ill patient'

Emphasising adjectives are used to emphasise your feelings about something. Compare:

□ I felt a fool. and □ I felt a complete fool. (for emphasis)

Some emphasising adjectives (such as complete, and also absolute, entire, mere, sheer, total, utter) are seldom or never used after a linking verb:

□ It was a total failure. (but not usually 'The failure was total.')

Classifying adjectives are used to say that something is of a particular type. For example, we can talk about 'democratic decisions', where 'democratic' distinguishes them from other types of decision. Other classifying adjectives include atomic, chemical, cubic, digital, environmental, medical, phonetic; annual, general, occasional, northern (etc.), maximum, minimum, underlying. Classifying adjectives are seldom or never used after a linking verb:

□ a nuclear explosion (but not usually 'The explosion was nuclear', unless we particularly want to emphasise a contrast with other kinds of explosion)

Qualitative adjectives are used to give the quality that a thing or person has. We use them either directly before a noun or after a linking verb. Compare:

□ a beautiful sunset and □ The sunset was beautiful.

Note that some classifying adjectives can also be used with different meanings as qualitative adjectives and placed after a linking verb. Compare:

□ The country's economic reforms. and □ The process isn't economic. (= not profitable)

Other adjectives like this include academic, conscious, educational, (il)legal, scientific.

D

Many adjectives can be used immediately after a noun, at the beginning of a reduced relative clause (see Unit 69B). For example –

☆ adjectives before a to-infinitive, or a prepositional phrase as part of the adjective phrase:

□ It was a speech calculated to appeal to the unions.

□ He is a manager capable of taking difficult decisions.

☆ some -ible and -able adjectives such as available, imaginable, possible, suitable. However, we use these adjectives immediately after a noun only when the noun follows the or when the noun is made definite by what follows in a relative clause:

□ This was the most difficult decision imaginable.

□ It is a treatment suitable for all children with asthma.

☆ the adjectives concerned, involved, opposite, present, proper, responsible. These words have different meanings when they are used before a noun and immediately after it. Compare:

□ All the people present (= who were there) approved of the decision. and

□ I was asked for my present address. (= my address now)

Unit 67 Gradable and non-gradable adjectives (1)

A

If an adjective is gradable it can be used with adverbs such as very or extremely to say that a thing or person has more or less of a particular quality. Here are some examples of adjectives used as gradable in their most common meanings:

Grading adverbs		Gradable adjectives
a bit, dreadfully, extremely, hugely, immensely, intensely, rather, reasonably, slightly, very	+	angry, big, busy, clever, common, deep, fast, friendly, happy, important, low, popular, quiet, rich, strong, weak, young

- She was extremely rich.
- The people there are reasonably friendly.

Non-gradable adjectives are not used with adverbs such as very or extremely because we don't usually imagine degrees of the quality referred to. With non-gradable adjectives we can use adverbs which emphasise their extreme or absolute nature, such as absolutely, completely, etc. Many classifying adjectives (see Unit 66) are usually non-gradable. Adverbs such as almost, exclusively, etc., which indicate the extent of the quality, are commonly used with classifying adjectives. Here are some examples of adjectives used as non-gradable in their most common meanings:

Non-grading adverbs		Non-gradable adjectives
absolutely, completely, entirely, perfectly, practically, simply, totally, utterly, virtually; almost, exclusively, fully, largely, mainly, nearly, primarily	+	awful, excellent, huge, impossible, superb, terrible, unique, unknown, whole; domestic, environmental (see Unit 66C)

- She gave us a completely impossible problem to solve.
- It was absolutely superb.

Gradable adjectives are sometimes used with non-grading adverbs such as absolutely and totally, and non-gradable adjectives are sometimes used with grading adverbs such as extremely, rather and very, particularly when we want to give special emphasis or when we are being humorous (see also Unit 68):

- What you're asking isn't just difficult – it's extremely impossible! (grading adverb + non-gradable adjective)
- You've won a hundred pounds? Wow, you're virtually rich! (non-grading adverb + gradable adjective)

Note that not all the adverbs can go with all the adjectives given in each of the tables above. For example, we can say 'absolutely huge', but we wouldn't usually say 'completely huge' unless it was for particular emphasis or for humour.

B

The adverbs fairly (= to quite a large degree, but usually less than 'very'), really (= 'very (much)') and pretty (= similar to 'fairly'; used in informal contexts) are commonly used with both gradable and non-gradable adjectives:

- She's fairly popular at school.
- I'm really busy at the moment.
- It's a pretty important exam.
- It was a fairly awful film.
- The flooding was really terrible.
- The bill was pretty huge.

However, notice that we don't generally use fairly (or very) with gradable adjectives such as essential, invaluable, perfect, superb, tremendous and wonderful which indicate that something is very good or necessary:

- Some experience is really/pretty essential for the job. (not ...fairly essential...)
- The weather that day was really/pretty perfect. (not ...fairly perfect.)

67.1 Write very in the spaces before gradable adjectives. (There are 5 of these.) Before the non-gradable adjectives write the following adverbs. Try to use a different one each time. (A) absolutely almost completely exclusively largely mainly practically

1 The bridge is now ..... complete.

3 The material is ..... cotton.
4 The food was ..... excellent.
5 Her explanation was ..... clear.
6 Their actions were ..... illegal.

8 I was in a/an ..... permanent state of suspense.
9 I thought she was ..... attractive.
10 Until last year the club was ..... male.
11 Small black cars are not ..... visible.
12 The railway is ..... underground.

67.2 Use an adverb + adjective in your response, as in 1. (A) How would you feel if...

1 a friend said s/he had just won a million pounds? I'd be absolutely delighted.
2 your best friend told you s/he was emigrating to Australia?
3 someone broke a window in your house or flat?
4 a complete stranger told you that you were very beautiful/handsome?
5 you lost some airline tickets you had just bought?

67.3 Make corrections to the italicised parts of this text where necessary. (A)

Dear Alan

I'm writing this letter from my new flat in Stratford. It's in an (1) absolutely old building which was (2) totally renovated last year. Fortunately, I didn't have to do much decorating when I moved in. As you know, I'm (3) hugely useless at DIY so I was (4) absolutely happy about that. The building is (5) reasonably unique in this part of Stratford, as most others around are (6) rather modern, and the view across the river from my sitting room is (7) simply superb. The flat's (8) simply small, but (9) completely comfortable for me.

My neighbours are (10) very friendly and usually (11) fully quiet. The only problem is that the woman upstairs plays the trumpet and I find it (12) a bit impossible to read when she's playing. I get (13) slightly angry about this, but she doesn't play for long each time, so it's not an (14) extremely terrible problem.

I know that the weather has been (15) dreadfully awful recently, so it's been difficult to for you to get here, but you must come over one evening. There's an (16) absolutely marvellous restaurant nearby that we could go to.

Hope all is well,
Eva

67.4 Cross out any incorrect or unlikely alternatives. (B)

1 Her advice was fairly/ really invaluable.
2 Our neighbours are really/ fairly friendly.
3 I thought his performance as Hamlet was fairly/ really tremendous.
4 The children kept pretty/ very quiet during the concert.
5 The view from the window was very/ pretty wonderful.
6 Their co-operation is pretty/ very essential if we want the project to go ahead.
7 The weather was really/ fairly perfect for a long walk.
8 In this photograph she looked really/ very young.
9 The workmanship in the furniture was pretty/ very superb.
10 The disease is fairly/ pretty common in this part of the country.

Unit 68 Gradable and non-gradable adjectives (2)

Some adjectives have both gradable and non-gradable senses.

(i) Some adjectives have different senses when they are gradable and non-gradable. Compare:

- Smith is a very common name. (= frequently found; gradable) and
- We have a lot of common interests. (= shared; non-gradable; not very)
- The house is very old. (= existed many years; gradable) and
- I met my old politics professor the other day. (= former; non-gradable; not very)
- Sue's shoes are very clean. (= not dirty; gradable) and
- He left the town because he wanted to make a clean break with the past. (= starting again in different circumstances; non-gradable; not very)

Other adjectives like this include civil, clean, critical, electric (= 'exciting' when gradable), empty, false, late, odd, original, particular, straight.

(ii) Some adjectives have similar meanings when they are gradable and non-gradable. However, when they are gradable we talk about the quality that a person or thing has (i.e. they are qualitative adjectives and therefore can be used with an adverb), and when they are non-gradable we talk about the category or type they belong to (i.e. they are classifying adjectives). Compare:

- I don't know where he came from, but he sounded slightly foreign. (= not from this country; gradable) and
- She is now advising on the government's foreign policy. (= concerning other countries; non-gradable)
- They had a very public argument. (= seen/heard by a lot of people; gradable) and
- He was forced to resign by public pressure. (= from many people in the community; non-gradable)
- She had a rather wild look in her eyes. (= uncontrolled or frightened; gradable) and
- Even if it is raised by humans, a lion will always be a wild animal. (= not tame; non-gradable)

Other adjectives like this include academic, adult, average, diplomatic, genuine, guilty, human, individual, innocent, mobile, private, professional, scientific, technical, true.

(iii) When nationality adjectives are non-gradable we mean that a person or thing comes from a particular country; when they are gradable we mean that they have supposed characteristics of that country. Compare:

- There's a shop around the corner that sells Italian bread. and
- Giovanni has lived in Britain for 20 years, but he's still very Italian.

B

In spoken English in particular, we can use good and..., lovely and..., and nice and... followed by another gradable adjective in order to emphasise the second adjective. Possible patterns include: good and ready and more colloquially good and proper/relaxed/strong (but not usually 'good and beautiful/rich/tall'); lovely and cosy/dry/sunny/warm (but not usually 'lovely and decent/empty short'); nice and bright/clean/cold/comfortable/early/fresh/quiet/simple/soft/tidy/warm (but not usually 'nice and interesting/handsome/exciting'):

- If you're all feeling good and relaxed after the break, let's get on with the meeting.
- It's lovely and warm in here. Freezing outside, though.
- 'Shall we get some strawberries?' 'Yes, they look nice and fresh.'

We can also link comparative adjectives (see Unit 72) with and to talk about an increasing degree of the quality described in the adjective. We use more and more + adjective in a similar way:

- As she got more and more excited, her voice got higher and higher and louder and louder.
- The taxi driver just drove faster and faster and faster until I told him to stop, and I got out.

Exercises

Unit 68

68.1 Choose from these adjectives to complete the sentences. Use each of the adjectives twice, once with a gradable sense and once with a non-gradable sense. With a gradable sense, write very before the adjective. It may help to use a dictionary for this exercise. (Ai)

4 The oranges looked quite old, but when I cut into them they were .....
5 There's no point in trying to persuade Tom. He won't make up his mind until he's .....

Unit 69 Participle adjectives and compound adjectives

Some -ing forms (present participles) and -ed forms (past participles) of verbs can be used as adjectives. Most of these participle adjectives can be used before the noun they describe or following linking verbs (see Unit 21):

- The hotel had a welcoming atmosphere.
- I found this broken plate in the kitchen cupboard.
- The students' tests results were pleasing.
- My mother seemed delighted with the present.

B

We can use many participle adjectives immediately after nouns when they identify or define the noun. This use is similar to defining relative clauses (see GR: J1–J2) and they are often called 'reduced relatives':

- I counted the number of people waiting. (or ...people who were waiting.)
- We had to pay for the rooms used. (or ...the rooms that were used.)

Some of these are rarely used before the noun:

- None of the candidates applying was accepted. (but not ...the applying candidates...)
- My watch was among the things taken. (but not ...the taken things.)

Participle adjectives like this include caused, found, included, provided.

Others can be used before or immediately after nouns. For example, we can say:

- Rub the area infected with this cream. or Rub the infected area with this cream.
- The crowd watching grew restless. or The watching crowd grew restless.

Participle adjectives like this include affected, alleged, allocated, broken, chosen, identified, interested, remaining, resulting, stolen.

In formal English, that and those can be used as pronouns before a participle adjective:

- The office temperature is lower than that required by law. (= the temperature which is required)
- The quality of the motors is lower than those manufactured elsewhere. (= the motors which are manufactured elsewhere)

Notice that those can mean 'people':

- Here is some advice for those (= people) preparing to go on holiday.

D

Many compound adjectives include a participle adjective. Common patterns are:

adverb + -ed participle	They are well-behaved children.
adverb + -ing participle	China's economic boom is generating a fast-growing market at home.
adjective + -ed participle	She seems to live on ready-made frozen meals.
adjective + -ing participle	He's the longest-serving employee in the company.
noun + -ed participle	The public square was tree-lined.
noun + -ing participle	I hope it will be a money-making enterprise.
-ed participle + particle (from two-word verbs)	Did it really happen, or was it a made-up story?

We can use some participle adjectives only in adjective compounds. For example, we can't say '...behaved children' or '...a making enterprise' as the sense is incomplete without the adverb or noun. Other compounds like this include London-based, Paris-born, brick-built, easy-going, peace-keeping, long-lasting, good-looking, home-made, hair-raising, far-reaching, well-resourced, sweet-smelling, strange-sounding, soft-spoken, sour-tasting, nerve-wracking.

Notice that many other compound adjectives do not include participle adjectives:

- The problem is short-term.
- It was just a small-scale project.

Unit 70 Adjective + to-infinitive, -ing, that-clause, wh-clause

A

When an adjective comes after a linking verb (e.g. appear, be, become, seen; see Unit 21) we can use a number of patterns after the adjective including a to-infinitive, -ing, that-clause, and wh-clause. (For It + linking verb + adjective, see B.)

	adjective +	example adjectives used in this pattern
i	to-infinitive □ You're free to leave at any time you want.	(un)able, careful, crazy, curious, difficult, easy, foolish, free, good, hard, impossible, inclined, mad, nice, prepared, ready, stupid, welcome, willing
ii	-ing □ He was busy doing his homework.	busy, crazy, foolish, mad, stupid; (after the verb feel) awful, awkward, bad, good, guilty, terrible
iii	that-clause □ He became worried (that) she might leap out from behind a door.	afraid, alarmed, amazed, angry, annoyed, ashamed, astonished, aware, concerned, disappointed, glad, (un)happy, pleased, shocked, sorry, upset, worried; certain, confident, positive, sure
iv	wh-clause □ I'm not certain (of/ about) why he wants to borrow the money	afraid, not aware/unaware, not certain/ uncertain, doubtful, not sure/unsure, worried
v	to-infinitive or that-clause □ She was afraid to say anything. □ I was afraid that I would be late.	the adjectives in iii above, except aware, confident and positive vi	to-infinitive or -ing □ He'd be stupid to leave now. □ He'd be stupid giving up the job.	crazy, foolish, mad, stupid
vii	-ing or that-clause □ She felt awful leaving him with all the clearing up. □ She felt awful that she wasn't able to help.	(after the verb feel) awful, awkward, bad, good, guilty, terrible

It + linking verb + adjective

We can sometimes use it + linking verb + adjective + to-infinitive as an alternative to subject + linking verb + adjective + to-infinitive (see also Units 96 and 97). Compare:

□ She is easy to understand. and It is easy to understand her.

□ The fireworks were amazing to watch. and It was amazing to watch the fireworks.

Notice that in informal speech we can use an -ing form instead of a to-infinitive:

□ It is easy understanding her. □ It was amazing watching the fireworks.

Other adjectives that can be used in this pattern include annoying, awkward, easy, good, interesting, lovely, simple, terrific, wonderful. Notice that we can use a similar pattern with adjective + wh- or that-clause (see Unit 96A):

□ It is not clear why he did it. □ It was odd that she left so suddenly.

After certain adjectives we often include of + subject between the adjective and a to-infinitive:

□ It was rude (of them) to criticise her. (or They were rude to criticise her.)

Other adjectives which often take of + subject in this pattern include brave, kind, mean, thoughtful, unprofessional, unreasonable.

When we talk about how somebody reacts to a situation we can use it + make with an adjective and to-infinitive, -ing or that-clause:

□ It made me angry (to discover) that so much money was wasted. (or It made me angry discovering that...; or I was angry to discover that...)

Other adjectives used in this way include ashamed, furious, glad, miserable, nervous, sad, tired, uncomfortable.

I went into town, but I felt a bit (4) guilty to shop all day. On the bus on the way back to the hotel I got talking to a local woman and (5) was concerned learning that it got very cold in the hills at night. Unit 71 Adjectives and adverbs

A Some adverbs of manner (saying how something is done) are formed from an adjective + -ly: sudden → suddenly, happy → happily, etc. When an adjective already ends in -ly (e.g. cowardly, elderly, friendly, kindly, lively, lonely, lovely) we don't add -ly to it to make an adverb. Instead we can use a prepositional phrase with fashion, manner, or way:

□ He smiled at me in a friendly way. □ She waved her hands around in a lively fashion.

Most participle adjectives ending in -ed (see Unit 69) don't have an adverb form and so we use a prepositional phrase instead:

□ They rose to greet me in a subdued manner. (not ...subduedly.)

□ He faced the court in a dignified fashion. (not ...dignifiedly.)

or we use a preposition and a related noun if there is one:

□ She looked at me in amazement. (not ...amazedly.)

□ He was overwhelmed with confusion. (not ...confusedly.)

However, some do have an adverb form with -ly. Compare:

□ The storm was unexpected. and □ The weather turned unexpectedly stormy.

Other adverbs like this include agitatedly, allegedly, deservedly, determinedly, disappointedly, excitedly, hurriedly, pointedly, repeatedly, reportedly, reputedly, supposedly, worriedly.

B Some adverbs have two forms, one ending in -ly and the other not. We can sometimes use either of the two forms of the adverb without changing the meaning, although the form ending in -ly is grammatically correct and more usual in a formal style:

□ She ran quick/quickly towards the door. ('quick' is less formal) and must be used if the adverb comes immediately before the verb:

□ She quickly ran towards the door. (not She quick ran...)

Other words like this include cheap(ly), clean(ly), clear(ly), fine(ly), loud(ly), slow(ly), thin(ly).

C In other cases there is a difference in the meaning of the adverb with and without -ly. Compare:

□ She gave her time free. (= for no money) and She gave her time freely. (= willingly)

□ I arrived late for the concert. (= not on time) and I haven't seen John lately. (= recently)

Here are some other pairs of adverbs that can have different meanings. Compare:

□ He wandered deep into the forest and got lost. (= a long way)	□ He felt deeply hurt by his criticisms. (= very) □ They loved each other deeply. (= very much)
□ 'You don't have to change trains.' 'You can go direct.' (= without stopping)	□ I'll be with you directly. (= very soon) □ He saw Susan directly ahead. (= straight)
□ It sounded awful – one of the choir members was singing flat.	□ This time I flatly refused to lend him any money. (= definitely; completely)
□ He kicked the ball high over the goal.	□ Everyone thinks highly of her teaching. (= they think her teaching is very good)
□ 'Is Bob here yet?' 'He's just arrived.' □ She looks just like her mother.	□ You can be justly proud of your musical achievements. (= rightly; justifiably)
□ Which of these cheeses do you like most?	□ Her novels are now mostly out of print. (= most of them) □ We mostly go on holiday in France. (= usually)
□ They cut short their holiday when John fell ill. (= went home early)	□ The speaker will be arriving shortly (= soon). Please take your seats.
□ The door was wide open so I just went straight in. (= completely)	□ You won't have any problems getting the book. It's widely available. (= in many places)

Unit 72 Adjectives and adverbs: comparative and superlative forms

Comparatives: -er vs more/less...than

We usually add -er to one-syllable adjectives and adverbs to make their comparative form. However, we use more + adjective –

☆ with one-syllable past participle adjectives (see Unit 69) such as bored, creased, pleased, worn:

□ After I'd ironed my shirt it looked more creased than before. (not ...creaseder...)

☆ with fun, real, right and wrong:

□ I expected the film to be rather dull, but I couldn't have been more wrong. (not ...wronger.)

☆ when we are comparing two qualities:

□ 'Don't you think Carl was brave to go bungee jumping?' 'Personally, I thought he was more mad than brave.'

□ Although the paint was called 'Sky blue', I thought it was more green than blue.

We can also use '...he wasn't so much brave as mad' and '...it was blue rather than green'.

We can sometimes use more as an alternative to the -er form to emphasise the comparison:

□ You might think it's dark here but it's more dark in the cellar. (or ...darker...)

Other adjectives used like this include clear, cold, fair, rough, soft, true.

B

Some adjectives with two syllables are most commonly used with more/less, particularly participle adjectives (e.g. worried, boring); adjectives ending in -ful and -less (e.g. careful, careless); afraid, alert, alike, alone, ashamed, aware; and some other adjectives, including active, cautious, certain, complex, direct, eager, exact, formal, frequent, modern, special, recent. Most two-syllable adjectives ending -y, -ow, -er and -ure can take either an -er or the more + adjective form, although the -er form is more frequently used.

Some adjectives (such as complete, equal, favourite, ideal, perfect, unique) have a comparative or superlative meaning so they are not often used with -er/-est or more/less/most/least. However, we can use comparative or superlative forms for special emphasis or for a particular communicative purpose:

□ The weather today was good, but less perfect than yesterday.

Superlatives

C

We usually use the, a possessive form (with -'s), or a possessive pronoun before a superlative adjective or adverb. In informal contexts we sometimes leave out the before an -est or most + adjective superlative after a linking verb, particularly when the superlative is at the end of a sentence:

□ 'Why did you go by bus?' 'It was (the) cheapest.' □ Which was (the) most expensive?

However, we can't leave out the when we go on to say what group of things is being compared:

□ 'Why did you buy these oranges?' 'They were the cheapest ones I could find.' (not They were cheapest ones...)

When most + adjective/adverb is used without the, most means something like 'very':

□ Did you see how she looked at you? It was most peculiar. (= very peculiar)

□ I checked the form most carefully (= very carefully) but didn't notice the mistake.

D

After a superlative we use of + a plural noun phrase to name the objects being compared:

□ John's the oldest of my three brothers.

Notice that we can put the of-phrase at the beginning to emphasise it:

□ Of my three brothers, John's the oldest.

When we give the location or context within which the comparison is made we usually use in + a singular noun phrase:

□ It was the tallest tree in the forest. (not ...the tallest tree of the forest.)

Unit 73 Comparative phrases and clauses

We use as + adjective/adverb + as to say that something or someone is like something or someone else, or that one situation is like another:

□ Was the film as funny as his last one? □ I came round as quickly as I could.

Negative forms of sentences like this can use either not as or not so. In formal speech and writing it is more common to use less + adjective + than:

□ The gap between the sides is not as/so wide as it was. (or ...is less wide than it was.)

B

If we put a singular countable noun between an adjective and the second as, we use a/an in front of the noun:

□ Despite his disability, he tried to lead as normal a life as possible. (not ...as normal life as...)

□ She was as patient a teacher as anyone could have had. (not ...as patient teacher as...)

The negative form of sentences like this can use either not as or sometimes not such:

□ It's not as quiet a place (or ...not such a quiet place ...) as it used to be.

Notice that we use not as + adjective + a/an + noun but not such a/an + adjective + noun.

We can use how, so and too followed by an adjective in a similar way:

□ How significant a role did he play in your life?

□ It's not quite so straightforward a problem as it might at first seem.

□ 'Conspiracy' is perhaps too strong a word. □ How big a piece do you want?

C

We also use as much/many as or as little/few as to say that a quantity or amount is larger or smaller than expected. Many and few are preferred before numbers; much and little are preferred with amounts (e.g. $5, 20%) and distances (e.g. 3 metres):

□ There are a small number of people involved, possibly as few as twenty.

□ Prices have increased by as much as 300 per cent.

D

We can use not + adjective/adverb + enough + to-infinitive to mean that there isn't as much as is necessary to do something:

□ I'm not tall enough to reach. □ He didn't speak loudly enough to be heard.

We can use sufficiently before adjectives to express a similar meaning to enough. Sufficiently is often preferred in more formal contexts:

□ She didn't play sufficiently well to qualify. (or ...well enough to qualify.)

E

We can use too + adjective/adverb + to-infinitive to mean 'more than necessary, possible, etc.' to do something:

□ They arrived too late to get seats. □ It moved too fast to see it clearly.

If we need to mention the things or people involved in the action, we do this with for...:

□ The suitcase was too small (for him) to get all his clothes in.

In rather formal English we can use too + adjective + a/an + noun:

□ I hope you haven't had too tiring a day. (not ...a too tiring day.)

(In a less formal style we might say 'I hope your day hasn't been too tiring.')

F

We can use so + adjective/adverb + that-clause to say that something existed or happened to such a degree that a specified result occurred (see also Unit 81):

□ It's so simple that even I can do it. □ He came in so quietly that I didn't hear him.

Less often we use so + adjective/adverb + as + to-infinitive with a similar meaning. Compare:

□ The difference was so small that it wasn't worth arguing about. and

□ The difference was so small as to not be worth arguing about. (= Because the difference was so small, it wasn't worth arguing about)

We can use go so/as far as + to-infinitive to talk about actions that are surprising or extreme:

□ One furious woman went so/as far as to throw tomatoes at the minister.

MANAGER: Well, it's certainly (3) enough bad to keep him out of football for at least 6 months. He's obviously (4) not so fit as he used to be and even he would admit that he's (5) not such good player as he was in his 20s. But I wouldn't (6) go so far to say that he'll never play for the national team again. I know him (7) sufficiently well enough to say that he will consider his future carefully before making any major decisions.

INTERVIEWER: Well, we all wish him (8) as speedy recovery as possible...

Unit 74 Position of adverbs (1)

There are three main positions for adverbs which modify a verb: end, front and mid position.

☆ In end position, the adverb is placed after the verb – either immediately after it or later in the clause:

□ They played quietly all day. □ He tried to leave quietly. □ He sat in the corner quietly.

☆ In front position the adverb is placed before the subject:

□ Finally he could stand the noise no longer. □ Sometimes I feel like going home.

☆ In mid position the adverb is placed between the subject and verb, immediately after be as a main verb, or after the first auxiliary verb:

□ He usually plays better than this. □ She is usually here by 10.00.

□ They would usually come by car.

Many adverbs can go in any of these positions, depending on context or style. For example:

□ He turned round slowly. (end) □ Slowly he turned round. (front)

□ He slowly turned round. (mid)

End position

B

In end position, we usually put an adverb after an object if there is one rather than immediately after the verb:

□ We considered the problem briefly. (not We considered briefly the problem.)

However, if an object is very long other positions are possible:

□ We considered briefly the long-term solution to the problem. (or We briefly considered...)

C

We avoid putting an adverb between a main verb and a following -ing form or to-infinitive:

□ He began running quickly. or He quickly began running. (not He began quickly running.)

□ She tried to leave quietly. or She quietly tried to leave. (not She tried quietly to leave.)

The position of the adverb can change the meaning of the sentence (see Unit 75A). Compare:

□ I recall telling him clearly that he had won. (= I told him clearly; 'clearly' modifies 'telling him') and

□ I clearly recall telling him that he had won. (= I clearly recall it; 'clearly' modifies 'recall'.)

'I recall clearly telling him that he had won' is also possible, but is ambiguous; it can have either of the two meanings given above. In speech, the meaning intended is usually signalled by intonation.

D

When there is more than one adverbial (see Glossary) in end position, the usual order in written English is adverbial of manner (= saying how something is done), place, and then time:

□ In the accident she was thrown violently forwards. (= manner + place)

□ We arrived here on Saturday. (= place + time)

For special emphasis we can move an adverbial to the end:

□ In the accident she was thrown forwards, violently.

If one adverbial is much longer than another then it is usually placed last:

□ They left at 3.00 with a great deal of noise. (= time + manner)

An adverb usually comes before a prepositional phrase when these have the same function (i.e. when they both describe manner, or place, or time):

□ She went downstairs to the cellar. (= place + place)

E

End position is usual for many adverbials of place, definite frequency, and definite time (including adverbial prepositional phrases):

□ They live upstairs. (not They upstairs live.) □ She goes weekly. (not She weekly goes.)

□ Have you heard the good news? Jane had a baby in May. (not Jane in May had a baby.)

However, adverbs of indefinite time usually go in mid position (see Unit 75).

Notice that in journalism, other adverbs of time are often used in mid position, where we would normally place them in end (or front) position:

□ The government yesterday announced an increase in education spending.

Unit 75 Position of adverbs (2)

Front position

A

Most types of adverb commonly go in front position in a clause (see Unit 74A). In particular – ☆ connecting adverbs (e.g. as a result, similarly) which make immediately clear the logical relation to the previous sentence:

□ The value of the yen has fallen. As a result, Japan faces a crisis.

☆ time and place adverbs (e.g. tomorrow, nearby) which give more information about a previous reference to a time or place, or show a contrast:

□ The last few days have been hot. Tomorrow the weather will be much cooler.

☆ comment and viewpoint adverbs (e.g. presumably, financially) which highlight the speaker's attitude to what they are about to say (see Unit 78):

□ She has just heard that her sister is ill. Presumably, she will want to go home.

However, other positions are possible for these adverbs.

Some words can be used both as comment adverbs or adverbs of manner. As comment adverbs they usually go in front position (but can go in other positions) and relate to the whole of the clause; as adverbs of manner they usually go in end position and modify the verb. Compare:

□ Naturally, I'll do all I can to help. and □ The gas occurs naturally in this area.

Other adverbs like this include clearly, curiously, frankly, honestly, oddly, plainly, seriously.

Note that for special emphasis or focus, adverbs that usually go in mid position (see B) and end position (see also Units 74 and 76) can sometimes be put in front position:

□ In May, Jane had a baby. □ Regularly, Kim works on several paintings at once.

Mid position

B

The following types of adverb usually go in mid position (see Unit 74A) –

☆ degree adverbs (e.g. almost, hardly, nearly, quite, rather, scarcely):

□ The street lighting was so bad that we almost missed the turning.

although some (e.g. completely, enormously, entirely, greatly, slightly) can go in end position:

□ I greatly admire your work. (or I admire your work greatly.)

Notice, however, that some degree adverbs are not usually used in mid position with some verbs. For example, enormously is not usually used in mid position with develop, differ, go up or vary; greatly is not normally used in mid position with care or suffer.

☆ adverbs which indicate the order of events, such as first, last and next. These can also go in end position, but if there is a phrase giving the time of an event they usually go before this:

□ I first met her in 1987. (or I met her first in 1987.)

We don't usually put these in front position, except when we use them to list actions (when we usually follow them with a comma in writing; see also Unit 76B):

□ Next, add three teaspoons of sugar.

☆ adverbs of frequency which say in an indefinite way how often something happens, including hardly ever, often, rarely, regularly, seldom (see also Unit 76B); and also the frequency adverbs always and never:

□ We hardly ever see Derek nowadays, he's so busy at the office.

Notice, however, that adverbial phrases of indefinite frequency (e.g. as a rule, on many occasions, from time to time, every so often) usually go in front or end position:

□ As a rule, I go every six months. (or every six months, as a rule; not 'I as a rule go...')

C

We rarely put long adverbials (including clauses (see Units 58 and 59), and prepositional and noun phrases) in mid position. Usually they go in end position or front position for emphasis:

□ She phoned home, anxious for news. (or Anxious for news, she phoned home.)

□ He picked up the vase with great care. (or With great care he picked up the vase.)

□ I'd seen Jack the day before. (or The day before I'd seen Jack.)

5 [1] I [2] agree with you [3]. (entirely)
6 [1] I [2] meet [3] Emma at school. (often)

Unit 76 Adverbs of place, direction, indefinite frequency, and time

A

Adverbs of place and direction (or adverbials, particularly prepositional phrases) usually go in end position, but we can put them in front position to emphasise the location. The effect may also be to highlight what comes at the end (e.g. 'a body' in the example below). This order is found mainly in formal descriptive writing and reports. Compare:

- The money was eventually found under the floorboards. (= end) and
- The police searched the house. Under the floorboards they found a body. (= front)

If we put an adverb of place in front position we put the subject after the verb be (see also Unit 99A):

- Next to the bookshelf was a fireplace. (or less formally Next to the bookshelf there was a fireplace; not Next to the bookshelf a fireplace was.)

Note that this doesn't apply when the subject is a pronoun. For example, we can't say 'Next to the bookshelf was it.'

We can also put the subject after the verb with intransitive verbs (except with a pronoun subject) used to indicate being in a position or movement to a position, including hang, lie, live, sit, stand; come, fly, go, march, roll, run, swim, walk:

- Beyond the houses lay open fields. (but compare Beyond the houses they lay.)
- Through the town marched the band. (but compare Through the town it marched.)

Note that '...open fields lay', '...the band marched' (etc.) might be used in a literary style.

However, we don't usually put the subject after the verb when we talk about actions: if one of these intransitive verbs is followed by an adverb of manner; with other intransitive verbs; or with transitive verbs:

- Through the waves the boy swam powerfully. (rather than ...swam the boy powerfully.)
- Outside the church the choir sang. (rather than ...sang the choir.)
- In the garden John built a play house for the children. (not In the garden built John...)

When we put certain adverbs of time in front position the subject must come after an auxiliary verb or a main verb be (see also Unit 100):

- At no time would he admit that his team played badly. (not At no time he would admit...)
- Not once was she at home when I phoned. (not Not once she was...)

If the main verb is not be and there is no auxiliary, we use do, although inversion is not necessary in this case:

- Only later did she realise how much damage had been caused. (or Only later she realised...)

Adverbs like this include negative time adverbials such as at no time, hardly ever, not once, only later, rarely, and seldom. Notice also that we can put first, next, now and then in front position with the verb come to introduce a new event, when the subject follows the verb. But if a comma (or an intonation break in speech) is used after first (etc.) the verb follows the subject. Compare:

- At first there was silence. Then came a voice that I knew. (not Then a voice came...) and
- At first there was silence. Then, a voice came that I knew.

C

Adverbs of time which indicate a definite point or period in time or a definite frequency, usually go in end position, or front position for emphasis, but not in mid position. Note that when these adverbs are in front position there is no inversion of subject and verb:

- I went to Paris yesterday. (or Yesterday I went to Paris.)
- We meet for lunch once a week. (or Once a week we meet for lunch.)

Note that the adverbs daily, hourly, monthly, weekly, annually, quarterly (= four times a year), etc. only go in end position:

- The train leaves hourly. (not Hourly the train leaves; not The train hourly leaves.)
- I pay my subscription annually. (not Annually I pay...; not I annually pay...)

Exercises

Unit 77 Degree adverbs and focus adverbs

A

Degree adverbs can be used before adjectives, verbs, or other adverbs to give information about the extent or level of something:

□ They're extremely happy. □ I really hate coffee. □ He almost always arrived late.

Some degree adverbs, such as almost, largely, really and virtually, are usually used before the main verb, and others, such as altogether, enormously, somewhat, and tremendously, are usually used after the main verb. Degree adverbs are rarely used in front position (see Unit 75B).

Focus adverbs draw attention to the most important part of what we are talking about. Some (e.g. especially, even, mainly, mostly, particularly, specifically) make what we say more specific:

□ There is likely to be snow today, particularly in the north.

and others (e.g. alone, just, only, simply, solely) limit what we say to one thing or person:

□ Many people offered to help me invest the money, but I only trusted Peter.

B

Much and very much

In affirmative sentences in formal contexts, much can be used as a degree adverb before the verbs admire, appreciate, enjoy, prefer and regret to emphasise how we feel about things:

□ I much enjoyed having you stay with us. □ Their music is much admired.

Much is used in this way particularly after I and we and (with admire and appreciate) in passives. Note that we don't usually use this pattern in questions (e.g. not 'Did you much enjoy...?').

We can use very much in a similar way before these verbs and also before agree, doubt, fear, hope, like and want. Notice, however, that we don't use much before this last group of verbs. Compare:

□ I much prefer seeing films at the cinema than on television. (or I very much prefer...) and

□ We very much agree with the decision. (or We agree very much...; but not ...much agree...)

We can also use much or very much before a past participle which is part of a passive:

□ The new by-pass was (very) much needed.

We don't use much but can use very much before past participle adjectives (see Unit 69A):

□ She was (very) interested in the news. (or ... very much interested...; but not much interested...)

and we don't use either much or very much before present participle adjectives:

□ The hotel was (very) welcoming. (but not The hotel was (very) much welcoming.)

In negative sentences in informal contexts we can use (very) much before verbs such as appreciate, enjoy, like, and look forward to to emphasise a negative feeling about something:

□ I didn't (very) much enjoy the film.

C

Very and too

Before an adjective or another adverb we use very when we mean 'to a high degree', and too when we mean 'more than enough' or 'more than is wanted or needed'. Compare:

□ The weather was very hot in Majorca. Perfect for swimming. (not...too hot...) and □ It's too hot to stay in this room – let's find somewhere cooler. (not ...very hot...)

In negative sentences in informal spoken English we can use not too to mean 'not very':

□ I'm not too bothered about who wins. (or I'm not very bothered...)

D

Even, only and alone

Even and only usually go in mid position (see Unit 75), but if they refer to the subject they usually come before it. Compare:

□ My mother has only brought some food. (= She hasn't brought anything else) and

□ Only my mother has brought some food. (= My mother and nobody else)

□ Sue can even speak French. (= in addition to everything else she can do) and

□ Even Sue can speak French. (= you might not expect her to) (rather than Sue even...)

When alone means that only one thing or person is involved, it comes after a noun:

□ You alone should decide what is right for you.

Unit 78 Comment adverbs and viewpoint adverbs

A

We use some adverbs to make a comment on what we are saying.

some comment adverbs...	example
indicate how likely we think something is	apparently, certainly, clearly, definitely, obviously, presumably, probably, undoubtedly indicate our attitude to or opinion of what is said	astonishingly, frankly, generally, honestly, interestingly, luckily, naturally, sadly, seriously, surprisingly, unbelievably show our judgement of someone's actions	bravely, carelessly, foolishly, generously, kindly, rightly, stupidly, wisely, wrongly

Comment adverbs often apply to the whole sentence and are most frequently used in front position (see Unit 75A), although they can also be used at the end of the sentence and in other positions. At the beginning and end of sentences we usually separate them from the rest of the sentence by a comma in writing or by intonation in speech:

- Presumably, he didn't hear me when I called.
- The book was based on his experience in China, apparently.
- Jackson believes that child development can be slowed down by poor nutrition. This is undoubtedly the case.

Comment adverbs which show judgement usually follow the subject, although they can be put in front position for emphasis:

- He kindly offered to take me to the station. (or Kindly, he offered... to emphasise 'Kindly')

If comment adverbs apply to only part of the sentence they can be used in other positions. Compare:

- Astonishingly, she did well in the exam. (= I was surprised that she did well)
- She did astonishingly well in the exam. (= she did very well)
- You've had a major operation. Obviously, it will be very painful for a while. (= I expect you to know this already)
- When he stood up it was obviously very painful. (= the pain was clear to see)

B

Some adverbs are used to make clear what viewpoint we are speaking from; that is, identifying what features of something are being talked about:

- Financially, the accident has been a disaster for the owners of the tunnel.
- The brothers may be alike physically, but they have very different personalities.

Other examples include biologically, environmentally, financially, ideologically, industrially, logically, medically, morally, outwardly, politically, technically, visually.

A number of phrases are used in a similar way. For example:

politically speaking	in political terms	in terms of politics from a political point of view	as far as politics are concerned

- Politically/In political terms, this summer is a crucial time for the government.
- Financially/From a financial point of view, it is a good investment.

Some adverbs or phrases are used to say whose viewpoint we are expressing:

- The head of National North Bank is to receive, according to newspaper reports, a 50% salary increase.
- In my view, the Foreign Minister should resign immediately.

Other examples include to my/his/her (etc.) knowledge, from my/his/her (etc.) perspective, personally, in my/his/her (etc.) opinion.

Unit 79 Adverbial clauses of time

A As, when and while

We can often use as, when or while to mean 'during the time that', to talk about something that happens when something else takes place:

□ As/When/While Dave was eating, the doorbell rang.

We use when (not as or while) to introduce a clause which talks about –

☆ an event that takes place at the same time as some longer event (in the main clause):

□ They were playing in the garden when they heard a scream.

☆ the circumstances in which the event in the main clause happens:

□ When they are fully grown these snakes can be over two metres long.

We also use when to mean 'every time':

□ I still feel tired when I wake up in the morning.

and we prefer when to talk about past periods of our lives:

□ His mother called him Robbie when he was a baby.

We prefer when to emphasise that one event happens immediately after another, particularly if one causes the other:

□ You'll see my house on the right when you cross the bridge.

□ When the lights went out, I lit some candles.

In the first sentence, 'as' or 'while' would suggest 'during the time that' and the continuous would be more likely ('...as/while you are crossing...'). In the second sentence 'as' or 'while' would be very unlikely because lights usually go out instantaneously.

We prefer as to say that when one thing changes, another thing changes at the same time:

□ As the cheese matures, its flavour improves. (rather than When the cheese...)

We can also use 'While...', particularly with a continuous tense: 'While the cheese is maturing...'.

We prefer while or as (rather than when) to talk about two longer actions that go on at the same time, although while is more common than as in informal speech:

□ I went shopping while Linda cleaned the house. (or ...as Linda cleaned...)

We use while or when (rather than as) to avoid ambiguity where 'as' could mean 'because':

□ While you were playing golf, I went to the cinema. ('As you were playing golf...' could mean 'Because you were playing golf...')

B Before, after and until

We use before or after to talk about an event happening earlier or later than another event:

□ I put on my coat before I went out.

□ The message arrived after I'd left.

We can often use either until or before when a situation continues to happen up to a time indicated in the adverbial clause:

□ I had to wait six weeks until/before the parcel arrived.

We use until to talk about an action that continues to a particular time and then stops:

□ They sat on the beach until the sun sank below the horizon, and then they went home.

and when the adverbial clause describes the result of an action in the main clause:

□ He cleaned his shoes until they shone. ('shining' is the result of 'cleaning'.)

C Hardly, no sooner, scarcely

When we say that one event happened immediately after another we can use sentences with hardly, no sooner, and scarcely (see also Unit 100). After hardly and scarcely the second clause begins with when or before; after no sooner it begins with than or when:

□ The concert had hardly begun before all the lights went out.

□ I had no sooner lit the barbecue than/when it started to rain.

We often use a past perfect in the clause with hardly, no sooner or scarcely and a past simple in the other.

Unit 80 Giving reasons: as, because, etc.; for and with

A

We can begin a clause with as, because, seeing that, seeing as, or since to give a reason for a particular situation:

- □ As it was getting late, I decided I should go home.
- □ We must be near the beach, because I can hear the waves.
- □ Since he was going to be living in Sweden for some time, he thought he should read something about the country.
- □ We could go and visit Sue, seeing that we have to drive past her house anyway.

Notice that –

- ☆ it is also common and acceptable for because to begin a sentence, as in:
  - □ Because everything looked different, I had no idea where to go.
- ☆ to give reasons in spoken English, we most often use because. So is also commonly used to express a similar meaning (see also Unit 81). Compare:
  - □ Because my mother's arrived, I won't be able to meet you. ('because' introduces the reason) and
  - □ My mother's arrived, so I won't be able to meet you. ('so' introduces the result.)
- ☆ when it means 'because', since is rather formal. It is uncommon in conversation, but is frequently used in this way in academic writing:
  - □ I had to go outside because I was feeling awful. ('since' is unlikely in an informal context
  - □ The results of this analysis can be easily compared to future observations since satellite coverage will remain continuous. (more likely than 'because' in this formal context.)
- ☆ seeing that is used in informal English. Some people also use seeing as in informal speech:
  - □ Ken just had to apologise, seeing that/as he knew he'd made a mistake.

B

In formal or literary written English we can also introduce reasons with for, in that, or, less commonly, inasmuch as. For is a formal alternative to 'because'; in that and inasmuch as introduce clauses which clarify what has been said by adding detail:

- □ The film is unusual in that it features only four actors. (or In that..., the film is...)
- □ Clara and I have quite an easy life, inasmuch as neither of us has to work too hard but we earn quite a lot of money. (or Inasmuch as..., Clara and I...)
- □ We must begin planning now, for the future may bring unexpected changes. (not For the future..., we must... – where 'for' means 'because'.)

The prepositions because of, due to, and owing to can also be used before a noun or noun phrase to give a reason for something:

- □ We were delayed because of an accident.
- □ She was unable to run owing to/due to a leg injury. (= because of a leg injury.)
- □ We have less money to spend owing to/due to budget cuts. (= because of budget cuts.)

Notice that we don't use because alone before a noun or noun phrase:

- □ We were delayed because there was an accident. (not ...because an accident.)

In current English we usually avoid owing to directly after a form of be:

- □ The company's success is due to the new director. (not ...is owing to...)

However, owing to is used after be + a degree adverb such as entirely, largely, mainly, partly:

- □ The low election turnout was partly due to/owing to the bad weather.

We can often use either it was due to...that or it was owing to...that:

- □ It was owing to his encouragement that she applied for the job. (or It was due to...that)

D

We can use for and with followed by a noun phrase to give a reason. For has a similar meaning to 'as a result of' and is common in most styles of English (compare B above):

- □ She was looking all the better for her stay in hospital.

With has a similar meaning to 'as a result of there being':

- □ With so many people ill, I've decided to cancel the meeting.

80.3 Rewrite these sentences using for or with instead of because (of). Give alternatives where possible. (D)

With my money running out, I got a job as a street sweeper. or 3 Jane went to stay with her aunt because her father was in hospital.

4 I felt a lot fitter because of all the exercise I was doing.
5 Because the train drivers are on strike tomorrow, I don't think I'll go to London after all.

Unit 81 Purposes and results: in order to, so as to, etc.

A In order/so as + to-infinitive

To talk about the purpose of an action we can use in order/so as + to-infinitive:

- He took the course in order to get a better job.
- Trees are being planted by the roadside so as to reduce traffic noise.

In spoken English in particular it is much more common simply to use a to-infinitive without 'in order' or 'so as' to express the same meaning:

- He took the course to get a better job.

We rarely use just 'not + to-infinitive', but instead use so as not to or in order not to:

- He kept the speech vague in order not to commit himself to one side or the other. (not ...vague not to commit himself...)
- The land was bought quickly so as not to delay the building work. (not ...quickly not to delay...)

However, in contrastive sentences we can use not + to-infinitive, but + to-infinitive as in:

- I came to see you not (in order/so as) to complain, but (in order/so as) to apologise.

Notice that we can put in order/so as before the to-infinitives in sentences like this.

B In order that and so that

We also use in order that and so that to talk about a purpose. Compare:

- She stayed at work late in order/so as to complete the report. and
- She stayed at work late in order that/so that she could complete the report. (not ...in order that/so that to complete the report.)

So that is more common than in order that, and is used in less formal situations. Note that informally we can leave out that after so, but we always include it after in order.

A present tense verb in the main clause is usually followed by a present tense verb (or a modal with present or future reference – can, will, etc.) in the clause beginning in order that/so that. A past tense verb in the main clause is usually followed by a past tense verb (or a modal with past reference – could, would, etc.) in the clause beginning in order that/so that. Modal verbs are very often used after in order that/so that:

- Regular checks are made in order that safety standards are maintained.
- Advice is given in order that students can choose the best course.
- Did you give up you job so that you could take care of your mother?
- I hid the presents so that Jackie wouldn't find them.

C Such that and in such a way that; such...that

In formal contexts, such as academic writing, we can use such that to introduce a result:

- The model was designed such that the value of x could be calculated. (= 'in a way that has the result that...'; or ...in order that...; or ...so that...)

Less formally we can also use in such a way that or in such a way as + to-infinitive with a similar meaning:

- The advertisement is printed in such a way that two very different pictures can be seen depending on how you look at it.
- In fact, the tax cuts have been designed in such a way as to leave out the very people it is supposed to help.

We can also use such + noun phrase + that to introduce a result:

- It is such a popular play that the performance was sold out after the first day.

(For so + adjective/adverb + that, see Unit 73.)

.....
4 If the dial is rotated such that the number 1 is at the top, the valve opens.
.....

Unit 82 Contrasts: although and though; even though/if; while, whilst, and whereas

A Although and though

We use although or (less formally) though to say that there is a surprising contrast between what happened in the main clause and what happened in the adverbial clause:

- Although/Though Reid failed to score himself, he helped Jones to score two goals.

With a similar meaning, we can use despite the fact that/in spite of the fact that (e.g. 'Despite the fact that/In spite of the fact that Reid failed to score himself...') or despite/in spite of + -ing (e.g. 'Despite/In spite of Reid failing to score himself...').

Notice that we can use though, but not although, at the end of a clause:

- I eat most dairy products. I'm not keen on yogurt, though.

We can give special emphasis to an adjective by putting it before though in the pattern adjective + though + noun/pronoun + verb (usually a linking verb such as appear, be, become, feel, look, seem, sound, prove, etc.). As can be used instead of though, but notice that you can't use although. Compare:

- Hot though (or as) the night air was, they slept soundly. and
- Although/Though the night air was hot, they slept soundly.

B Even though and even if

We can use even though (but not 'even although') to mean 'despite the fact that' and even if to mean 'whether or not'. Compare:

□ Even though Tom doesn't speak Spanish, I think he should still visit Madrid.	= Despite the fact that he doesn't speak Spanish	i.e. the speaker knows that Tom doesn't speak Spanish
□ Even if Tom doesn't speak Spanish, I think he should still visit Madrid.	= Whether or not he speaks Spanish	i.e. the speaker doesn't know definitely whether Tom speaks Spanish or not

C While, whilst and whereas

In formal contexts we can use while or whilst with a meaning similar to 'although' to introduce something that qualifies what is said in the main clause or something that may seem to conflict with it. In this case, the while/whilst clause comes before or within the main clause, but not after it:

- While/Whilst there is no evidence that Peter cheated, we were all astonished that he passed the exam. (not We were all astonished that he passed the exam, while...)
- The diesel model of the car, while/whilst more expensive, is better value for money.

Note that whilst is a rather literary word and some people avoid using it.

We can use while or whereas (or less often whilst) to say that something contrasts with something in the main clause. The while/whereas clause may come before or after the main clause:

- Dave gets lots of homework from school, while/whereas Sue gets very little.
- While/Whereas I always felt I would pass the exam, I never thought I would get an A grade.

We don't use whereas where what is said in the subordinate clause makes what is said in the main clause unexpected:

- Although/While Sophie's father is from Spain, she doesn't speak Spanish. (not Whereas...)

D

We can use -ing and past participle (-ed) clauses after although, though, while and whilst, and also clauses with the subject and verb left out (see Unit 59D):

- (Al)though not huge, the garden needs constant attention. (= (Al)though it is not huge...)
- While welcoming the government's new funding for the health service, doctors are still unhappy about working conditions. (= While they welcome...)
- Some writers, whilst convinced that Hemingson supported the rebels, have questioned how involved he was in the fighting. (= whilst they are convinced...)

82.1 Match the sentence halves and give special emphasis to the adjective by moving it to the front of the sentence, as in 1. Use either though or as. (A)

1 it may seem amazing	a they were very useful when I looked at them in detail
2 she was frightened	b she forced herself to pick up the snake
3 food became scarce	c they had never faced such severe conditions before
4 the climbers were experienced	d the company is still in financial difficulties
5 the instructions first appeared confusing	e they always found enough to share with me
6 it looked disgusting	f she knew the examination would not be easy
7 she felt confident	g ~~my brother John has won the lottery~~
8 their new products have proved successful	h it was actually quite tasty

1 + g Amazing though it may seem, my brother John has just won the lottery. (or Amazing as it may seem...)

82.2 Expand the notes and rewrite the sentences using In spite of + -ing in 1–3 and In spite of his/her + noun in 4–6. (A)

1 Although she has to cope with three small children, ... (taking – part-time MBA course)
In spite of having to cope with three small children, she is taking a part-time MBA course.
2 Although he was much younger than the others, ... (was – most outstanding footballer – team)
3 Although he ate a big lunch, ... (had – three-course meal – evening)
4 Although she was frightened, ... (allowed – huge spider – placed in her hands)
5 Although she is obviously intelligent, ... (finds – it difficult – express – ideas in writing)
6 Although she was ill, ... (went – walking holiday – Nepal)

Now rewrite the sentences you have written beginning Despite the fact that...

1 Despite the fact that she has to cope with three small children, she is taking a part-time MBA course.

82.3 Underline the correct phrase. (B)

1 The driver stopped to let on more passengers even though/ even if the bus was already full.
2 I wouldn't tell you where Gail lives even though/ even if I knew.
3 Even though/ Even if I only play one match for my country, I'll be happy.
4 Even though/ Even if he had just put a cigarette out, Lawrence lit another one.
5 He plays for Wales even though/ even if he was born in Scotland.
6 You won't see all the animals in the zoo even though/ even if you stay for the whole day.
7 Even though/ Even if I'm quite old, I still miss my parents.
8 I still couldn't afford to go to Paris, even though/ even if I took the cheapest route.

82.4 Match the sentence halves and join them with While or Whereas at the beginning of the sentence. In which of the sentences you write can the clause beginning while or whereas come after the main clause? (C)

1 Paula is blonde	a more and more people are taking it up
2 horse riding is an expensive pastime	b the government says it is under 500,000
3 a decade ago we used to get a lot of blackbirds in our garden	c ~~all her sisters have dark hair~~
4 the true number of unemployed is over a million	d it actually feels quite warm when the sun is out
5 the temperature is below freezing	e we rarely see them today

1 + c While/ Whereas Paula is blonde, all her sisters have dark hair. or All her sisters have dark hair, whereas/while Paula is blonde.

Unit 83 If (1)

Real conditionals

A

In real conditionals (see GR note above M9) we usually use a present tense verb in the if-clause to talk about the future:

□ If you leave now, you'll be able to catch the 5 o'clock train. (or If you're leaving now...)

However, in conversation we can use be going to instead of a present tense verb:

□ If I'm going to catch the train, I'll have to leave now.

□ We'll need more chairs if we're going to invite so many people to the performance.

When we make offers, and give instructions or advice we can use an imperative in the main clause:

□ Take another sandwich if you're hungry.

□ If you have a mobile phone, check that it is turned off.

B

We can use if-clauses with a present tense verb to introduce certain conditions under which something is true:

□ The video pauses if you press this button.

□ If age-related changes are taken into account, the conclusion remains the same.

(Here 'if' has a meaning similar to 'when'.)

C

We can talk about possible future events with a present perfect verb in the if-clause and a future form (will, present continuous, or be going to) in the main clause. Sometimes present perfect or present simple can be used with a similar meaning:

□ I*'ll* lend you War and Peace if I've finished it before you go on holiday. (or ...if I finish...)

□ If you haven't paid the bill by Friday, we*'re taking* the carpets back. (or If you don't pay...)

However, to focus on the future consequences of a past event, we use the present perfect. Compare:

□ If I've failed my maths exam again, I'm going to give up the course. (suggests I have already taken the exam; I don't know the result) and

□ If I fail my maths exam again, I'm going to give up the course. (I may or may not have taken the exam)

Unreal conditionals

D

In unreal conditionals (see GR note above M9) we can use if...were + to-infinitive rather than if + past simple to talk about imaginary future situations, particularly to suggest it is unlikely that the situation in the if-clause will happen (see also Unit 14):

□ If the technology were to become available, we would be able to expand the business.

However, notice that we don't usually this pattern with verbs such as belong, doubt, enjoy, know, like, remember, and understand when they describe a state:

□ If I knew they were honest, I'd gladly lend them the money. (not If I were to know...)

We sometimes use this pattern to make a suggestion sound more polite:

□ Would it be too early for you if we were to meet at 5.30?

E

We use if it was not for + noun phrase (or more formally if it were not for + noun phrase) to say that one situation is dependent on another situation or on a person (see also Unit 85A). When we talk about the past we can also use if it had not been for + noun phrase:

□ If it wasn't/weren't for Vivian, the conference wouldn't be going ahead.

□ If it wasn't/weren't for the fact that Chloe would be offended, I wouldn't go to the party.

□ If it hadn't been for Dad, I wouldn't have gone to college. (or If it wasn't/weren't for...)

In formal language we can also use Were it not for... and Had it not been for... (see Unit 84B):

□ Were it not for Vivian... □ Had it not been for Dad...

We can use but for + noun with a similar meaning, particularly in formal contexts:

□ The village school would have been closed years ago but for the determination of teachers and parents to keep it open. (= ...if it hadn't been for the determination...)

9 Paul comes from a wealthy family. Otherwise he could not have gone to the USA to study. Were it...

Unit 84 If (2)

In spoken English we often use if-clauses without a main clause. In particular, we use them in polite requests, instructions, etc.:

- □ If I might just say a few words. (= I want to speak) I think it's important to...
- □ If we could get back to the subject of homework. Why haven't you done any for the last week? (= Let's go back to talking about homework) and to qualify what someone else has said. In this case if is usually stressed:

- □ A: Bill won't be happy if he finds out you've taken his bike. B: If he finds out. (= s/he doesn't necessarily agree that Bill will find out, or s/he will make sure that he doesn

When the first verb in a conditional if-clause is should, were, or had we can leave out if and put the verb at the start of the clause (see Units 99 and 100 for more on inversion). We do this particularly in formal or literary English, and only in hypothetical conditionals (a type of unreal conditional which answers the question 'What would happen if...?'):

- □ Should any of this cost you anything, send me the bill. (= If any of this should cost...)
- □ It would be embarrassing, were she to find out the truth. (= ...if she were to find out..)
- □ Had they not rushed Jo to hospital, he would have died. (= If they hadn't rushed Jo...)

C

We don't usually use if...will in conditional clauses. However, we can use if...will –

☆ when we talk about a result of something in the main clause. Compare:

- □ Open a window if it will help you to sleep. (or ...if it helps you to sleep; 'Helping you to sleep' is the result of opening the window) and
- □ I will be angry if it turns out that you are wrong. (not ...if it will turn out...; 'Turning out that you are wrong' is not the result of being angry)

☆ in requests or with the meaning 'if you are willing to' (or if...would to be more polite):

- □ If you will/would take your seats, ladies and gentlemen, we can begin the meeting.

☆ in real conditionals when we want to show that we disapprove of something. In this case, will is stressed in speech (see also Unit 16B):

- □ A: I'm tired. B: Well, if you will go to bed so late, I'm not surprised.

Notice that we can use if...won't when we talk about a refusal to do something:

- □ There's no point in trying to teach the class if they won't pay attention.

D

In a real conditional sentence (see GR note above M9), we use if...happen to, if...should, or if...should happen to to talk about something which may be possible, but is not very likely. If...happen to is most common in spoken English:

- □ If you happen to be in our area, drop in and see us. (or If you should (happen to) be..)

Notice that we don't usually use this pattern in unreal conditionals talking about states or events in the if-clause which the speaker perceives as highly unlikely or impossible:

- □ If the North Sea froze in winter, you could walk from London to Oslo. (but probably not If the North Sea happened to freeze/should (happen to) freeze in winter...)

E

In comparison clauses we can use as if followed by a noun phrase, -ing clause, past participle (-ed) clause, or to-infinitive to introduce a comparison with a situation described in the main clause. We do this to give an explanation or to say that something appears to be the case but is not:

- □ Richard walked in as if nothing had happened.
- □ His hands made a circular motion, as if steering a bus through a sharp bend.
- □ After scoring, Fowler fell to the floor as if hit by a bullet.
- □ As if to convince herself that Rob was really there, she gently touched his cheek.

Notice that we can use as though instead of as if, and in informal speech some people use like with the same meaning:

- □ The crowd reacted as though they were watching a boxing match. (or ...as if...)
- □ He walked into the room like nothing had happened. (or ...as if...)

4 He nodded his head slowly as if...
5 The back of the car looked as if...

Unit 85 If I were you...; imagine he were to win

A

In unreal conditional sentences (see GR note above M9) we can use were after any subject in the if-clause, including singular first and third person subjects (e.g. I/she/he/it). This use of were is sometimes called the past subjunctive, and is generally preferred only in formal contexts. Note that although the verb has a past form, reference is to the imagined present or future:

- □ If your mother were here, I'm sure she wouldn't let you eat all those chocolates.
- □ We would not be able to provide after-school sports if it were not for dedicated teachers like Mr Morgan.

Was can be used instead of were with the same meaning ('If your mother was here...', etc.). However, we prefer were rather than was when we give advice with If I were you...:

- □ If I were you, I'd take it back to the shop. It's got a hole in it. (rather than If I was you...)

Were is used in this way in other patterns when we talk about imaginary situations –

(i) when we use were + subject + to-infinitive or were + subject as a more formal alternative to if + subject + was/were (see also Unit 84B):

- □ Were the election to be held today, the Liberals would win easily. (or If the election was/were held today...)
- □ Were I not in my 70s and rather unfit, I might consider taking up squash. (or If I wasn't/weren't in my 70s and rather unfit...)

(ii) after wish:

- □ I enjoy my job enormously, but I wish it were closer to home. (or ...I wish it was...)
- □ Of course I'm pleased that James has been given the award. I only wish he weren't so boastful about it. (or ...I only wish he wasn't...)

(iii) after if only when we express our regret that a situation isn't different:

- □ 'If your job is so bad, why don't you leave?' 'If only it were that simple.' (or If only it was...)
- □ I'd really like to do accounting. If only I weren't so poor at maths. (or If only I wasn't...)

(iv) after would ('d) rather and would ('d) sooner when we talk about preferences:

- □ I feel embarrassed about what happened and would rather the event were forgotten. (or ...was forgotten.)
- □ 'I've arranged a meeting for the end of July.' 'I'd sooner it were earlier, if possible. (or ...it was earlier.)

(v) in sentences or clauses beginning with suppose, supposing and imagine:

- □ Suppose I were to lower the price by £100. Would you consider buying the car then? (or Suppose I was to lower...)
- □ I know it looks rather dirty now, but imagine the house were (to be) repainted. It would look a lot more attractive. (or ...imagine the house was (to be) repainted.)

And in comparisons we can use were –

(vi) after as if and as though (see Unit 84E) and even if:

- □ I remember stepping off the boat in New York as if it were yesterday.
- □ Despite losing the election, she continues to act as though she were prime minister.
- □ It would be too late to start work on the building this year even if it were possible to find the money for it.

C

We can use the phrase as it were to show that we realise that something we have said may not precisely express what we mean. We often do this to be humorous or to sound less definite:

- □ To dismantle the machine you begin by holding it by its ears, as it were, these handles at the sides, and pulling the front towards you.
- □ Becky runs the office and Sue is her apprentice, as it were. (= Sue is not really her apprentice, but is learning from Becky as an apprentice might do)

85.1 Match an item from (i) with an ending from (ii) to form a sentence. Begin with Were...(not). (Bi)

(i)

1 ...guilty of libel...
2 ...government to increase university fees...
3 ...anyone to lean against the window...
4 ...not already busy in August...
5 ...to see the conditions in which the refugees are living...

(ii)

a the glass would certainly break
b you would be horrified
c I would gladly accept your invitation d there would be an outcry from students
e ~~the newspaper would face huge legal costs~~

1 + e Were it to be found guilty of libel, the newspaper would face huge legal costs.

85.2 Expand the notes to write a sentence to go before each of the questions below. Start the new sentence with Suppose, Supposing, or Imagine, followed by a pronoun, noun or noun phrase and then were. (Bv)

1 (miss/ last train) Supposing we were to miss the last train. How would we get home?
2 (inherit/ million dollars) ..... How would it change your life?
3 (parents/ tell you/ emigrating to Canada) ..... How do you think you would react?
4 (Spain/ win/ World Cup) ..... How would you celebrate?
5 (population of Britain/ all Buddhist) ..... How would its society be different?

85.3 Complete the sentences with either as if or even if followed by an appropriate pronoun and then were. (Bvi)

1 Muller spoke slowly as if it were a great physical effort.
2 Every day Mrs Green would walk around the park ..... snowing.
3 She knew she wouldn't be able to eat rabbit meat ..... starving.
4 Jamie completely ignored me ..... not standing next to him.

6 I don't think I would have got the job ..... better qualified.
7 When Mary saw that I was stuck she laughed out loud .....not so critical...employees a joke.
8 I wouldn't accept the job ..... to offer it to me.

85.4 Complete the sentences using one of the phrases in (i) with expanded notes from (ii). (A & B)

(i)

~~if it were not for~~	if I were you wish he were	if only it were
'd rather it were	'd sooner she were forgotten...classmates going...friends not so critical...employees

(ii)

4 I know you haven't got much time, but .....
5 Forgetting to wear my shoes to school was embarrassing and I.....
6 I'm very fond of Sebastian, but I .....

85.5 Add as it were to one of the possible places in each sentence. (C)

1 You could see tiredness descending upon her as her eyes began to close.
2 The virus hides behind healthy cells to prevent it being attacked.
3 After his long serious illness, Frank returned from the grave to play an important part in the performance.

Unit 86 If...not and unless; if and whether; etc.

If...not and unless

A

Unless is used in conditional sentences with the meaning 'except if':

□ You can't travel on this train unless you have a reservation.

With unless we use present tenses when we talk about the future:

□ Unless it rains, I'll pick you up at 6.00. (not Unless it will rain...)

In real conditional sentences, we can often use either unless or if...not with a similar meaning:

□ Unless the theatre is able to raise £100,000, it will have to close. (or If the theatre isn't able to...; implies 'it will have to close only if it can't raise the money')

However, we use if...not but not unless –

☆ when we say in the main clause that an event or action in the if-clause is unexpected:

□ I'll be amazed if Christie doesn't win.

☆ usually in questions:

□ If you don't pass the test, what will you do?

☆ when the 'only if' implication does not apply:

□ If it wasn't the best performance of Hamlet I've seen, it was certainly the strangest.

We usually use if...not rather than unless in unreal conditional sentences:

□ If I weren't so tired, I'd give you a hand.

However, unless can be used in unreal conditional sentences when the main clause is negative:

□ She wouldn't have gone to university unless her parents had insisted.

We use unless but not if...not –

☆ when we introduce an afterthought:

□ We can leave now – unless you'd rather wait for Jack, of course.

☆ when a relative clause refers back to a positive phrase:

□ We can walk to the cinema unless it's raining, in which case we'll get a taxi.

If and whether

C

We can use if or whether to say that two possibilities have been talked or thought about, or to say that people are not sure about something:

□ They couldn't decide if/whether it was worth re-sitting the exam.

□ Do you know if/whether Ben's at home?

Whether can usually be followed immediately by or not. Compare:

□ I didn't know if Tom was coming or not. (not ...if or not Tom was coming.) and

D

We use whether rather than if –

☆ after a preposition (although if is sometimes used informally) and before a to-infinitive:

□ We argued about whether butter or margarine was better for you. (informally ...if...)

□ I couldn't decide whether to buy apples or bananas.

☆ in the pattern noun/adjective + as to whether to mean 'about' or 'concerning':

□ There was some disagreement as to whether he was eligible to play for France.

Other nouns and adjectives used in this pattern include conflict, confusion, debate, discussion, doubt, question, speculation, uncertainty; concerned, indifferent, uncertain, undecided, unsure.

and we prefer whether rather than if –

☆ after the verbs advise, choose, consider, depend on, discuss, talk about, and think about:

□ You should consider whether the car you are interested in is good value.

☆ in a clause acting as a subject or complement:

□ Whether the minister will quit over the issue remains to be seen.

□ The first issue is whether he knew he was committing a crime.

86.1 Match the sentence halves and write a new sentence with the same meaning, beginning each one with Unless... (A)

1 We'll never get to the meeting...	a ...or the farmers will lose their crops.
2 Alternative sources of funding must be found...	b ~~...if the train doesn't leave within five minutes.~~

6 You are only entitled to state benefit...	f ...if you have been unemployed for six months.

1 + b Unless the train leaves within five minutes, we'll never get to the meeting.

13 Do you have any view on ..... young children should be given homework from school?

Unit 87 Connecting ideas in a sentence and between sentences

A

Some words and phrases (sentence connectors) are used to connect one sentence with a previous sentence or sentences. Often (but not always) these go at the beginning of the sentence:

□ There was no heating in the building. As a result, the workers had to be sent home. (or The workers had to be sent home as a result.)

Other words and phrases (conjunctions) are used to connect clauses within a single sentence:

□ While I was waiting, I read a magazine.

□ I'll be wearing a red jumper so that you can see me easily.

We can't use a comma to connect ideas joined by a sentence connector. However, these words and phrases can be used to connect two clauses in one sentence if the clauses are joined with and, but, or, so, or a semi-colon (;), colon (:), or dash (–):

□ The building was extremely well constructed and, as a result, difficult to demolish.

□ You could fly via Singapore; however, this isn't the only way.

type of connection	example sentence connectors	example conjunctions
comparing, contrasting, and indicating that a situation (in the main clause) is unexpected	after all, all the same, alternatively, anyway, by contrast, even so, however (but see D), in any case, in contrast, instead, nevertheless, on the contrary, on the other hand	although, even though, though, whereas, while, yet time: one event before or after another	after, after that, afterwards, before, before that, earlier, later, previously, soon, subsequently, then	after, as soon as, before, since, until

Note that after, before and so can be both connectors and conjunctions.

B

Even though is a conjunction used to say that a fact doesn't make the rest of the sentence untrue (see also Unit 82B). It connects ideas within a sentence:

□ Even though it was midday, I put on the light.

Even so is a sentence connector used to introduce a fact that is surprising in the context of what was just said. It connects ideas between sentences:

□ It was midday. Even so, I put on the light.

C

However is often used as a sentence connector, but it can also be used –

☆ as an adverb when it is followed by an adjective, adverb, or much/many:

□ We just don't have the money to do the work, however necessary you think it is.

☆ as a conjunction when it means 'in whatever way':

□ However she held the mirror, she couldn't see the back of her neck.

87.1 Choose items from (i) and from (ii) to complete these sentences in an appropriate way. Note the punctuation at the ends of the sentences and phrases already given. (A & B)

1 She is determined to be a successful artist, however difficult it might be to achieve.
2 ....., it is difficult to lose weight without cutting down on the amount you eat.
3 ....., it is important to spend some time apart.
4 Professor Malcolm is always happy to spend time with his students,

Unit 88 Prepositions of position and movement

A Across, over

We can use across or over to talk about a position on the other side of, or moving to the other side of a road, bridge, border, river, etc.:

- □ Mike lives in the house across/over the road from ours.
- □ The truck came towards them across/over the bridge.
- □ Once she was across/over the border, she knew she would be safe.

We use over rather than across when we talk about reaching the other side of something that is high, or higher than it is wide. Compare:

- □ He jumped over the fence into the garden. and □ He jumped across the stream.

When we are talking about something we think of as a flat surface, or an area such as a country or sea, we prefer across rather than over:

- □ He suddenly saw Sue across the room. □ The figures moved rapidly across the screen.
- □ The programme was broadcast across Australia.

We prefer all over rather than all across to mean 'to or in many different parts of an area'. However, we commonly use across, or right across for emphasis:

- □ The disease has now spread all over the world. (or ...(right) across the world.)

B Along, through

When we talk about following a line of some kind (a road, a river, etc.), we use along:

- □ They walked along the footpath until they came to a small bridge.

We use through to emphasise that we are talking about movement in a three dimensional space, with things all around, rather than a two dimensional space, a flat surface or area:

- □ He pushed his way through the crowd of people to get to her.

Through often suggests movement from one side or end of the space to the other. Compare:

- □ She walked through the forest to get to her grandmother's house. and
- □ She spent a lot of her free time walking in the forest.

C Above, over; below, under; beneath, underneath; throughout

We can use either above or over when we say that one thing is at a higher level than another:

- □ Above/Over the door was a sign saying, 'Mind your head'.

However, we prefer above, when one thing is not directly over the other. Compare:

- □ They lived in a village in the mountains above the lake. (not directly over) and
- □ The bird hovered just a few metres above/over the lake. (directly over)

We use over, not above, when something covers something else and touches it:

- □ She put a quilt over the bed.

and usually when we are talking about horizontal movement at a higher level than something:

- □ I saw the helicopter fly out over the water, near the fishing boat.

Below is the opposite of above; under is the opposite of over. The differences in the uses of below and under are similar to those between above and over (see above):

- □ It's hard to believe that there is a railway line below/under the building. (at a lower level)
- □ Her head was below the level of the table so nobody noticed her. (not directly under)
- □ She hid the presents under a blanket. (the blanket covers and touches the presents)
- □ Esther ran under the bridge. (horizontal movement at a lower level)

We can use underneath as an alternative to under as a preposition of place. Beneath is sometimes used as a more formal alternative to under or below.

We can use throughout to emphasise that something is in every part of a place (see also Unit 90A):

- □ The flower is found throughout the island. □ The same laws apply throughout Europe.

Unit 89 Between and among

A

As prepositions of place we use between with two or more people or things that we see as individual or separate, and we use among when we see the people or things as part of a group or mass. Among is only used with three or more people or things:

- □ She held the diamond between her thumb and forefinger.
- □ Zimbabwe is situated between Zambia to the north, Mozambique to the east, Botswana to the west, and South Africa to the south.
- □ He stood among all his friends in the room and felt very happy.
- □ She eventually found her passport among the clothes in the drawer.

Note that amongst is sometimes used instead of among, but in more literary contexts.

B

Between and among are not only used as prepositions of place. For example, we can use either to talk about something divided or shared between people:

- □ The money is to be divided between/among the towns in the area.
- □ The prize will be shared between/among the first six finishers in the race.

We also use between –

☆ to talk about comparisons and relationships (e.g. with the words association, balance, comparison, connection, contrast, correlation, difference, distinction, link, relationship):

- □ There should be a better balance on the committee between the various ethnic groups.
- □ They are wrong to claim that there is a link between unemployment and crime.

☆ to talk about choices:

☆ to talk about discussions or the results of discussions when we specify the two or more people or groups involved:

☆ to say that people or things share an amount of something:

- □ Between them, Ray and Ingrid must earn about £100,000 a year.
- □ Last year the three companies built 30,000 houses between them.

We also use among –

☆ when we mean 'existing or happening in a particular group':

- □ The disease has now broken out among the hill tribes.
- □ Their music is still very popular among young teenagers.

☆ when we mean 'included in a particular group':

- □ They are among the best hockey players in the world.
- □ Among the capital cities of South America, Quito is the second highest.

C

There are a number of common expressions using between and among, including among others (= what is said applies to other people or things, too), among other things (= including other things), between ourselves (= this should be kept secret), and between you and me (= this should be kept secret):

- □ The concert features, among others, Karl Frisk and the Johnsons. (= other singers/groups are featured, too)

Hello Mum and Dad!

Rome must be (1) ..... the most fascinating cities in the world. Yesterday we visited, (2) ..... other places, the Foro Romano – the centre of ancient Rome – and the Vatican. There is such an incredible contrast (3) ..... the old parts of the city built up to 2000 years ago and the more recent parts. In the Vatican we climbed the long stairs to the top of St Peter's church. The view from the top must be (4) ..... the most incredible over any city in the world. But (5) ..... you and me, I'm a bit scared of heights and was glad to get back to ground level. Later we went to the Pantheon, an ancient Roman temple, which is (6) ..... the Vatican and the Foro Romano. The Italian king Umberto I and the artist Raphael are (7) ..... the people buried there. In the evening we had a bit of an argument (8) ..... us over where we should eat – Jo wanted pizza, but I wanted to try some of the special local food. Eventually we found a place that did excellent pasta, (9) ..... other things. The only problem then was choosing (10) ..... the many different types!

Unit 90 Prepositions of time

During, in, over, throughout

A

We use during or in to talk about a period of time within which an event or activity occurs. The activity may continue for the whole of the period of time:

□ I stayed at home during the summer. (or ...in the summer.)

□ The population of the city has actually fallen during the last decade. (or ...in the last...)

or the event may happen at some time, or be repeated a number of times, in the period of time:

□ We went to France during the summer. (or ...in the summer.)

□ He suffered a number of injuries during his career as a footballer. (or ...in his career...)

We use during, rather than in, to mean 'at some time in the period of' before nouns such as illness, holiday, meal, stay, treatment, and visit, when we refer to an event which lasts some time:

□ The President made the speech during a visit to Madrid.

and also with the phrase the whole (of), emphasising duration of an entire period:

□ No-one was allowed to leave the ship during the whole of its time in port.

We can use throughout to emphasise that something happens over the whole of a period of time:

□ We had enough firewood to keep us warm throughout the winter. (or ...warm during/ through the winter.)

B

We can use over or during when we talk about something that goes on for a length of time within a period of time, either for some of that period or for the whole of it:

□ Weather conditions have been improving over/ during the past few days.

□ I fell, banged my head, and can't remember anything about what happened over/ during the next hour or so.

However, if we talk about a short event that happens within a period of time, we prefer during:

□ She sneezed during the performance. (= on one or a few occasions; not ...over the performance.)

Note that we can use throughout to mean that short events happen continuously within a period of time:

□ She sneezed throughout the performance.

C

Until, by, up to

There are a number of ways of saying when something that has continued for some time stops –

☆ We use until to say that something continued or will continue to a particular time, and by to say that something happened or will happen either before a particular time or at that time at the latest. Compare:

□ We have to be at home until 2.30. (We must not leave home before 2.30) and

□ We have to be at home by 2.30. (We must arrive home either before or at 2.30)

Note that till can be used instead of until. It is particularly common in conversation, but rarely found in formal writing.

☆ In informal contexts we can use up to or up till instead of until. We commonly use up to/till with now and with then:

□ I've just bought a computer. I've always used a typewriter up to now. (or ...up till now...)

□ The roadworks are likely to go on up to the end of May. (or ...up till the end...)

☆ We can use until now to talk about a situation that will not continue beyond now:

□ Supermarkets say that until now there has been little consumer interest in buying organic produce. (The situation has changed or is going to change)

Notice, however, that we don't use until now for a situation that will or may continue into the future. Instead we can use so far or, in formal contexts, to date:

□ It was certainly the best match of the football season so far.

□ When the contract is signed it will be the building company's biggest order to date.

Unit 91 Talking about exceptions

A

We use except or except for to introduce the only thing or person that a statement does not include:

- The price of the holiday includes all meals except (for) lunch.
- Everyone seemed to have been invited except (for) Mrs Woodford and me.
- I had no money to give him except (for) the few coins in my pocket.

We use except, not except for, with to-infinitives, and that-clauses:

- I rarely need to go into the city centre except to do some shopping.
- They look just like the real thing, except that they're made of plastic.

We usually use except before prepositions, bare infinitives, and that-clauses including where the word that is left out (see Unit 53). However, informally except for is sometimes also used, although this is grammatically incorrect:

- There is likely to be rain everywhere today except in Wales.
- There is nothing more the doctor can do except keep an eye on him.
- They look just like the real thing, except (that) they're made of plastic.

We can use except for, but not except, with the meaning 'but for' (see C below).

B

We use except (for) to mean that something is not included in a particular statement, but we use besides to mean 'as well as' or 'in addition to'. Compare:

- I don't enjoy watching any sports except (for) cricket. (= I enjoy only cricket) and
- Besides cricket, I enjoy watching football and basketball. (= I enjoy three sports)
- I haven't read anything by her, except (for) one of her short stories. and
- Besides her novels and poems, she published a number of short stories.

Apart from can be used with the same meanings as both except (for) and besides:

- I don't enjoy watching any sports apart from cricket. (= except for)
- Apart from cricket, I enjoy watching football and basketball. (= besides; as well as)

We can use but with a similar meaning to except (for), particularly after negative words such as no, nobody, and nothing:

- Immediately after the operation he could see nothing but/except (for)/apart from vague shadows.
- There was no way out but/except/apart from upwards, towards the light.

But for has a different meaning from except for. We use but for to say what would or might have happened if the thing introduced by but for had not happened:

- The country would now be self-sufficient in food but for the drought last year. (= if there hadn't been the drought...)
- But for the leg injury he suffered last year, he would probably have been picked for the national team by now. (= if he hadn't injured his leg...)

However, some people use except for in the same way as but for, particularly in informal spoken English:

- I'd have got there on time except for the taxi being late. (or ...but for the taxi being late.)
- Except for the problems with my computer, I would have got the book finished weeks ago. (or But for the problems with my computer...)

D

We can use excepted, apart or aside after mentioning a person or thing to say that they are not included in a statement that we make:

- It has been, 1984 excepted/apart/aside, the hottest July for the last 100 years.
- Tom had difficulties with question two. This excepted/apart/aside, he did very well in the exam.

	about	after	for	of	on	with
agree	✓				✓	✓

We use care about to talk about something we are (not) concerned about:

□ He doesn't seem to care about the effect smoking has on him.

after is used with ask and enquire meaning to try to get information about a person (but not a thing), particularly concerning their health. Compare:

□ I'm phoning to ask/enquire after Mrs Brown in Ward 4. (or ...ask/enquire about...) and

Unit 93 Prepositions after nouns

A

Many nouns are followed by the same prepositions as their related adjective or verb. Compare:

- Are you satisfied with the way that the business is being run? and
- The shareholders have expressed satisfaction with the way the business is being run.

A few nouns are followed by different prepositions. Compare:

- They became fond of each other at school. and
- Their fondness for each other grew and many years later they married.

Other nouns like this and their corresponding adjective or verb are proud of/pride in, ashamed of/shame about/at.

Some nouns take a preposition where their related verb does not. Compare:

- They're going to ban smoking in restaurants. and
- I would support a ban on smoking in restaurants.

Other nouns like this include admiration for, amazement at, discussion about/on, improvement in, influence on, interview with, lack of. Note that many other nouns are commonly followed by of-phrases which indicate possession, a property, or classify the noun by describing what it relates to. Compare:

- He described the conductor as moving his arms like a windmill. and
- His description of the conductor was very funny.

B

Some nouns can be followed by of + -ing but not usually a to-infinitive:

- He's got into the habit of biting his nails when he's nervous.

Other nouns like this include cost, effect, fear, likelihood, possibility, probability, problem, prospect, risk, sign.

Some nouns can be followed by a to-infinitive but not usually of + -ing:

- His unhappy childhood explains his reluctance to talk about his parents.

Other nouns like this include ability, attempt, concern, decision, desire, determination, failure, inability, permission, proposal, reason, refusal, (un)willingness. Note that many of these nouns can also be used with other prepositions + ing (e.g. attempt at -ing, reason for -ing, etc.).

C

Some nouns can sometimes be followed either by of + -ing or a to-infinitive with a similar meaning, usually after the:

- Do staff have the opportunity of taking unpaid leave? (or ...the opportunity to take...)
- The aim of providing clean drinking water has been achieved. (or The aim to provide...)

Other nouns like this include ambition, idea, option, plan.

However, some nouns, such as chance, sense and way, have more than one meaning and are followed either by of + -ing or a to-infinitive depending on which meaning is used. Compare:

- What's the chance of throwing five heads when you throw a coin five times? (= likelihood; not ...chance to throw...) and
- Will you get the chance to visit Miki in Japan? (= opportunity; not ...of visiting...)
- He didn't have the sense to move away from the puddle of water as the bus went past. (= good judgement; not ...sense of moving...) and
- Everyone was very friendly and she had a sense of belonging within a few days of moving to her new school. (= feeling; not ...sense to belong...)
- I've got a way of cooking rice perfectly every time. (= method; or ...way to cook...) and
- She has a really funny way of speaking. (= manner; not ...way to speak)

Notice also that of +-ing usually follows no/every/the sole/the slightest/(not) any/with the + intention, but that we can use either of + -ing or a to-infinitive in most other cases. Compare:

- I have no intention of lending Dan any more money. (not ...no intention to lend...) and
- He announced his intention to stand in the election. (or ...intention of standing...)

Unit 94 Two- and three-word verbs: word order

A

The meaning of some verbs commonly used with a particular preposition or adverb (or particle) is often different from the meaning of their separate parts. We can call these two-word verbs:

- ☐ The company's debts were mounting up. (= increasing)
- ☐ I'll quickly go over the main points of the report again. (= summarise)
- ☐ She had to let her dress out because she'd put on weight. (= make it larger)

Other three-word verbs are commonly used with an adverb + preposition.

- ☐ Do you think he's really likely to go through with his threat? (= do it)
- ☐ The team has failed to live up to earlier expectations. (= achieve what was expected)

These two- and three-word verbs are sometimes also called phrasal verbs.

B

Many two-word verbs are usually intransitive (see Glossary):

- ☐ He grew up on a farm.
- ☐ When she came to she found herself in hospital.

Other verbs like this include crop up, fall through, get up, move off, shop around, splash out.

However, some two-word verbs can be used transitively or intransitively with the same meaning (e.g. answer back, call back, clear away, cover up, help out, take over, tidy away, wash up):

- ☐ I'll call back later.
- ☐ I'll call you back when I get home.

and other two-word verbs can be used transitively or intransitively with a different meaning (e.g. break in, cut out, hold out, look out, look up, pick up, split up, turn in, wind up):

- ☐ The engine cut out and the car stopped.
- ☐ I cut the picture out of the magazine

C

With many transitive two-word verbs, the object can come before or after the verb:

- ☐ I want to try out the local food. (or ...try the local food out.)

However, if the object is a pronoun it must come between the verb and the adverb:

- ☐ I won't be able to go to the party. You'll have to count me out. (not ...count out me.)

and we prefer to put the object after the adverb when the object is long. Compare:

- ☐ I had to clean the kitchen up. (or ...clean up the kitchen.) and
- ☐ I had to clean up the mess in the kitchen. (rather than ...clean the mess in the kitchen up.)

Other verbs like this include bring about, drink up, gather up, get down, leave out, make up, mess up, shoot down, sort out, throw away, try out, use up.

With some transitive two-word verbs, the object comes between the verb and the adverb:

- ☐ I just couldn't tell the twins apart. (not ...tell apart the twins)

Other verbs like this include catch out, hear out, order about, pull to, push to, shut up, stand up.

E

With some transitive two-word verbs, the object follows the preposition:

- ☐ She takes after her mother.

Other verbs like this include account for, act on, approve of, call on, check into, flick through, look after, provide for, result from, run into, take against.

F

With most three-word verbs, the object goes after the preposition:

- ☐ The government is to cut back on spending on the armed forces.
- ☐ He really looks up to his older brother.

Other verbs like this include come in for, come up against, look down on, put up with.

However, a few three-word verbs usually have the object immediately after the verb. A second noun or noun phrase goes after the preposition:

- ☐ She tried to talk me out of the plan. (= persuaded me not to do it)

Other verbs like this include do out of, help on with, let in on, put down as, put up to, take up on

Exercises

4 If you tidy ..... away, I'll do the cleaning.

94.2 Show where the word or phrase in brackets should go in each sentence with a ✓. If it is possible to put it in more than one place, mark these two possibilities. (C)

~~push to~~	hear out	shut up

(ii)

the general ideas	me	my mind

2 It is assumed that parents will provide their children for until they are 18.
3 She wouldn't let in me on the secret, however hard I tried to persuade her.
4 The snow has been so heavy that the police have called motorists on to avoid unnecessary journeys.
5 I checked into the hotel at about 4.00.
6 I took up Keith on his offer and stayed in his flat while I was in London.
7 The government has come in for a lot of criticism over its decision to increase spending on arms.
8 My parents didn't approve of our engagement.
9 I had always looked Mr Brooks up to, so I was shocked to discover what he had done.

Unit 95 There is, there was, etc.

A

When we introduce a new person or thing into what we are saying – to say that this person or thing exists, happens, or is to be found in a particular place – we can use a sentence beginning There + be. In these cases, there is not stressed:

- There was a loud bang from upstairs. (not A loud bang was from upstairs.)
- There's nothing to eat. (not Nothing is to eat.)

We invert this pattern in questions to ask about the existence etc. of people and things:

- Is there anybody in here?

We can also use there with auxiliary and modal verbs with be (e.g. has been, can be):

- There must be some way of contacting her.

with verbs and to be (e.g. used to be, is supposed to be, tends to be, appears to be, seems to be):

- There appears to be a major disagreement between the two presidents.

and some other verbs that indicate existence (e.g. arise, emerge, exist, remain):

- During the 1990s there arose a demand for organic food.

Because we use there in this way to introduce topics, the noun after there + be often has an indefinite or non-specific meaning. So we often use a/an, zero article, any(one) (+ noun), or some(thing), no(body), etc. rather than the, this, my, your (+ noun), or a name, which give the noun a more definite or specific meaning. Compare:

- There's nobody here. - There was something strange about her. and
- The cat was in the kitchen. (more usual than There was the cat in the kitchen.; but compare There was a cat in the kitchen.)
- Sam is waiting for me outside. (more usual than There is Sam waiting for me outside.)

When we use there + be + the, this is often done to show a change of topic. Choosing the, that, etc. + noun indicates that we think the topic is already known to the listener or reader:

- ...And then there is the question of who is going to pay.

B

If the noun after be is singular or uncountable, the verb is singular; if the noun is plural, the verb is plural:

- There is a very good reason for my decision.
- There were too many people trying to get into the football stadium.

However, in informal speech we sometimes use there's before a plural noun:

- 'Anything to eat?' 'Well, there's some apples on the table.'

If the noun phrase consists of two or more nouns in a list, we use a singular verb if the first noun is singular or uncountable, and a plural verb if the first noun is plural:

- When I opened the fridge there was only a bottle of milk, some eggs, and butter.
- When I opened the fridge there were only some eggs, a bottle of milk, and butter.

C

There + be is also used with nouns followed by a that-, wh-, to-infinitive or -ing clause:

- Is there a chance (that) Kim could arrive this afternoon?
- There is no reason (why) I can't see you tomorrow.
- There is a small stream which/that runs at the bottom of the garden.
- There was an attempt to resolve the dispute at the factory.
- There was a taxi waiting outside the hotel.

We don't usually leave out a relative pronoun when it is a subject of the following finite verb (e.g. There is a small stream which/that runs...) except in very informal speech (e.g. There was a man (who) phoned about half eleven.), but we can leave out a relative pronoun when it is the object of the following finite verb (e.g. There is a small stream (that) the children play in.).

D

In formal English we can use a clause with there being to introduce a reason for something:

- There being no evidence against him, he was released. (= Because there was no evidence...)
- There being no reports of adverse reactions, the drug is to be sold more widely.

3 The patients were sent home because there was no doctor available.
.....
4 Because the facilities were inadequate at the hotel, the conference was relocated to a nearby university.
.....

Unit 96 It... (1)

A

We can use an introductory it at the beginning of a sentence –

☆ to place long or grammatically complex sentence elements at the end (the usual place for them in English). Compare:

□ To drive without a licence is illegal. and □ It is illegal to drive without a licence.

☆ to focus attention on a sentence element by placing this element at the end (the usual place for new or important information in English). Compare:

□ That she wasn't hurt is a miracle. and □ It's a miracle that she wasn't hurt.

Introductory it is commonly used when the subject is a to-infinitive or that-clause (as in the examples above), and also when the subject is a wh- or -ing clause (see also Unit 25):

□ It is clear why Don decided to leave Spain. □ It is useless asking Sue to help.

B

We often use introductory it with be + adjective/noun (as in the examples above), but other patterns with an introductory it are possible. Here are some common examples –

☆ it + verb + to-infinitive clause

□ 'I've got a terrible headache.' 'It helps to lie down.'

□ If you want someone to help you, it doesn't do to annoy them just before you ask. ('(not) do' = (not) advisable, acceptable or enough)

Other verbs used in this pattern are hurt and pay (= give an advantage or benefit).

☆ it + verb + object + to-infinitive clause

□ It shocked him to see her looking so ill. □ It annoys me to hear James swear like that.

□ It costs a fortune to go to the opera. □ It means a lot to get a place at university.

Most of the verbs used in this pattern are to do with feelings, and include:

amaze, annoy, astonish, concern, frighten, hurt, scare, shock, surprise, upset, worry.

After these verbs the object usually refers to a person.

We can also use it + take + object + to-infinitive clause when we say what is or was needed in a particular activity; for example, the time, resources or characteristics needed. Compare:

□ It took (them) a week to mend our roof. and □ To mend our roof took (them) a week.

□ It takes a lot of effort to play the flute. and □ To play the flute takes a lot of effort.

☆ it + verb + that-clause

□ It seems that she has lost her memory. (not That she has lost her memory seems.)

□ During the trial it emerged that Jacks had been convicted of burglary before. (not ...that Jacks had been convicted of burglary before emerged.)

Other verbs used in this pattern include appear, come about, follow, happen, transpire. Note that alternatives with the that-clause in initial position are not possible.

☆ it + verb + object + that-clause

□ It suddenly hit me that Jane wanted to borrow money. (less likely is ...that Jane wanted to borrow money suddenly hit me.)

□ When Bond saw Vanya taking photographs of the plane, it dawned on him that she was a spy. (less likely is...that she was a spy dawned on him.)

The object usually refers to a person. Other verbs used in this pattern include those in the box above and also strike (= occur to) and turn out.

We don't usually use an it... pattern as an alternative to a noun as subject:

□ Their success was unexpected. (not It was unexpected their success.)

However, in informal contexts, particularly in speech, this is quite common in order to give special emphasis to the information immediately following it...:

□ It tastes really good, this new ice cream.

and also to place a longer noun phrase at the end in order to focus attention on it:

□ It's ridiculous, all the bureaucracy involved in running a school these days.

Now suggest completions for these sentences.

5 It takes bravery...
6 It takes a lot of organisation to...
7 It takes a great deal of time...

Unit 97 It... (2)

We can use a pattern with it... as the object of a verb where it refers forward to a clause. It can sometimes be followed directly by a that-, if- or when-clause after can't bear, hate, like, love, resent and can't stand, and by an if- or when-clause after dislike, enjoy, prefer and understand:

- I hate it that you can swim so well and I can't. (not I hate that you can swim...)
- We always enjoy it when they stay with us. (not We always enjoy when they...)

Some verbs, including accept, admit, deny, guarantee, and mention, can be followed by it and a that-clause, particularly in spoken English, or directly by a that-clause without it:

- You've just got to accept (it) that Jim's gone and won't be coming back.

Notice that many other verbs that can be followed by a that-clause or wh-clause are not used with it... in this way, including argue, discover, emphasise, notice, predict, remember:

- I can't remember when I last saw her. (not ...remember it when...)

With other verbs used to indicate how we see a particular event or situation, it is followed first by an adjective or noun phrase and then a that-clause, to-infinitive clause, or clause beginning when. Verbs commonly used in this way include believe, consider, feel, find (= discover something from experience), think:

- Officials have said they believe it unlikely that any lasting damage to the environment has been done. (or ...they believe it is unlikely that...; not ...they believe unlikely that...)
- I thought it a waste of money to throw away so much food. (or I thought it was a waste of money to...; not I thought a waste of money to throw away...)

When we use leave and owe (= have a responsibility to) with it... we can use to somebody + to-infinitive after it:

- Don't bother to arrange anything. Just leave it to me to sort out.
- She owed it to her parents to do well at college.

C

With the verbs accept, regard, see, take (= interpret something in a particular way), or view we use it + as + noun (or adjective) + clause:

- We see it as an insult to have received no reply to our letter.
- I take it as encouraging when students attend all my lectures.

It is/was no... vs There is/was no...

Here are some common expressions including It is/was no... and There is/was no...:

- It's no secret that the President wants to have a second term of office.
- Following the popularity of his first two films, it's no surprise that his latest production has been successful.
- It's no use telling me now. I needed to know a week ago.
- It's no good getting angry. That won't help solve the problem.
- It's no coincidence (or accident) that they left the party at the same time.
- It's no longer necessary to have a visa to visit the country.

- There's no denying that he's intelligent.
- I'm afraid there's no alternative (or choice) but to ask her to leave.
- There's no hope of getting more money.
- There's no need to explain how it works; I'll read the instruction book.
- There's no point in buying an expensive computer unless you plan to use it a lot.
- There's no question of agreeing to his demands.
- There's no reason to be pessimistic.
- There's no chance of finding a cure if we don't fund more research.

The sentences with It is/was no... have alternatives in which the that-, -ing or to-infinitive clause is placed at the front, but the sentences with There is/was no... do not. Compare:

- It's no secret that he wants a new job. (or That he wants a new job is no secret.) and
- There's no denying that he's a very good footballer. (but not That he's a very good footballer is no denying.)

Unit 98 Focusing: it-clauses and what-clauses

Focusing with it-clauses

A

We can use an it-clause with be to focus attention on the information that immediately follows it + (be). A sentence in which emphasis is given using this pattern is sometimes called a cleft sentence. The clause after the it-clause (usually a that-clause) contains information that is already known or considered to be less important:

- 'Helen bought the car from Tom.' 'No, it was Tom that bought the car from Helen.'
- He already plays for the national side, and it was only last year that he turned professional.
- I don't mind her criticising me, but it's how she does it that I object to.
- It was to show her how much I cared for her that I bought her the necklace.

We sometimes use which or who instead of that; when and where can also be used, but usually only in informal English; and note that how or why can't replace that:

- Karl was always there to help her, and it was to him that/who she now turned for support.
- 'Carol's seriously ill in hospital.' 'But it was only last Sunday when/that I was playing tennis with her.'
- It was in Bristol where/that the film was made.
- 'Was it by cutting staff that he managed to save the firm?' 'No, it was by improving distribution that he made it profitable.' (not ...how he made it profitable.)

Focusing with what-clauses

If we want to focus particular attention on certain information in a sentence, we sometimes use a what-clause followed by be. Sentences with this pattern are another form of cleft sentence. This pattern is particularly common in conversation. The information we want to focus attention on is outside the what-clause. Compare:

- We gave them some home-made cake. and
- What we gave them was some home-made cake.

We often do this if we want to introduce a new topic; to give a reason, instruction or explanation; or to correct something that has been said or done. In the following examples, the information in focus is in italics:

- What I'd like you to work on is exercise two on page 38.
- Tim arrived two hours late: what had happened was that his bicycle chain had broken.
- 'We've only got this small bookcase – will that do?' 'No, what I was looking for was something much bigger and stronger.'

We can often put the what-clause either at the beginning or the end of the sentence:

- What upset me most was his rudeness. or His rudeness was what upset me most.

To focus attention on an action performed by someone, we use a sentence with what + subject + do + be + to-infinitive clause. We can't use an it-clause to do this (see A):

- Dave lost his job and was short of money, so what he did was (to) sell his flat and move in with his brother. (not ...so it was (to) sell his flat that he did.)

Notice that the 'to' in the infinitive can be omitted.

C

The pattern in B is only usually used with what-clauses. Instead of placing other wh-clauses (beginning how, when, where, who, why) at the beginning of the sentence we prefer to use a noun which has a meaning related to the wh-word (e.g. reason rather than why; place rather than where) followed by a that- or wh-clause. Here are some examples:

- The only reason (why/that) I left the party early was that I was feeling unwell. (rather than Why I left the party early was...)
- The place (where/that) you should play football is the playground, not the classroom. (rather than Where you should play football is...)
- Somebody (who/that) I enjoy reading is Peter Carey. (not Who I enjoy reading is...)
- The time (when/that) I work best is early morning. (rather than When I work best is...)

Exercises

Unit 98

98.1 Rewrite the sentences to focus attention on the underlined information. Start with it + be and use an appropriate wh-word or that. (A)

.....

Now give similar responses which focus on the action, as in 5.

5 'Did you watch the football on TV last night?' (get brother/ video it/ watch tonight)
'No, what I did was (to) get my brother to video it and I'll watch it tonight.'

6 'This steak tastes delicious. Did you fry it?' (put oil and soy sauce on/ grill)
.....

98.3 Write a sentence using one of the phrases in C opposite and the information in brackets. You need to put the information in the right order and add an appropriate form of be. (C)

1 'I suppose Paul got the job because of his qualifications.' (uncle owns company)
'Well, actually, I think... the reason why/that Paul got the job was that his uncle owns the company.'

2 'Do you know anyone who could mend my computer?' (might be able/ help/ Saleh)

3 'You grew up in this village, didn't you?' (between this village and next)
In fact...

4 'In what period of your life do you think you were happiest?' (lived Australia)
I suppose...

Unit 99 Inversion (1)

A

In statements it is usual for the verb to follow the subject, but sometimes this word order is reversed. We can refer to this as inversion. There are two main types of inversion: when the verb comes before the subject (inversion is often optional), and when the auxiliary comes before the subject and the rest of the verb phrase follows the subject (inversion is usually necessary):

- Her father stood in the doorway. → In the doorway stood her father. (or ... her father stood.)
- He had rarely seen such a sunset. → Rarely had he seen such a sunset. (not Rarely he had seen...)

Inversion brings about fronting, the re-ordering of information in a sentence to give emphasis in a particular place. Often this causes an element to be postponed until later in the sentence, focusing attention on it.

B

In conversation we use Here comes + noun and There goes + noun, with inversion of verb and subject, to talk about things and people moving towards or away from the speaker:

- Here comes the bus.
- There goes Nigel Slater, the footballer.

Here comes... is also used to say that something is going to happen soon, and There goes... is used to talk about things (particularly money) being lost and to say that something (such as a phone or door bell) is ringing:

- Here comes lunch.
- My bike's been stolen! There goes £100!
- There goes the phone. Can you answer it?

We also put the verb before the subject when we use adverbs expressing direction of movement, such as along, away, back, down, in, off, out, up with verbs such as come, fly, go. This pattern is found particularly in narrative, to mark a change in events:

- The door opened and in came the doctor. (less formally ... and the doctor came in.)
- As soon as I let go of the string, up went the balloon, high into the sky. (less formally ...the balloon went up...)
- Just when I thought I'd have to walk home, along came Miguel and he gave me a lift. (less formally ... Miguel came along and gave me...)

For more on inversion after adverbs of place and direction, see Unit 76A.

C

We can use clauses with inversion instead of certain kinds of if-clause (see Unit 83). Compare:

☐ It would be a serious setback, if the talks were to fail.	☐ It would be a serious setback, were the talks to fail.
☐ If you should need more information, please telephone our main office.	☐ Should you need more information, please telephone our main office.
☐ If Alex had asked, I would have been able to help.	☐ Had Alex asked, I would have been able to help.

The sentences with inversion are rather more formal than those with 'if'. Notice that in negative clauses with inversion, we don't use contracted forms:

- Had the plane not been diverted, they would have arrived early. (not Hadn't the plane...)

In formal written language we commonly use inversion after as and than in comparisons:

- The cake was excellent, as was the coffee. (or ...as the coffee was.)
- I believed, as did my colleagues, that the plan would work. (or ...as my colleagues did...)
- Research shows that parents watch more television than do their children. (or ...than their children do.)

Notice that we don't invert subject and verb after as or than when the subject is a pronoun:

- We now know a lot more about the Universe than we did ten years ago. (not ...than did we ten years ago.)

Exercises

Don is...

Unit 100 Inversion (2)

A Inversion after negative adverbials

In formal and literary language in particular, we use negative adverbials at the beginning of a clause. The subject and first auxiliary are inverted, and do is used with a simple tense verb after –

☆ the time adverbials never (before), rarely, seldom; barely/hardly/scarcely...when/before; no sooner...than:

- □ Seldom do we have goods returned to us because they are faulty.
- □ Hardly had everybody taken their seats when Dr Smith began his lecture.

☆ only + a time expression, as in only after, only later, only if, only once, only then, only when:

- □ She bought a newspaper and some sweets at the shop on the corner. Only later did she realise that she'd been given the wrong change.
- □ Only once did I go to the opera the whole time I was in Italy.
- □ Only when she apologises will I speak to her again.

☆ only + other prepositional phrases beginning only by..., only in..., only with..., etc.:

- □ Only by chance had Jameson discovered where the birds were nesting.
- □ Mary had to work in the evenings and at weekends. Only in this way was she able to complete the report by the deadline.

☆ expressions such as at no time, in no way, on no account, under/in no circumstances:

- □ At no time did they actually break the rules of the game.
- □ Under no circumstances are passengers permitted to open the doors themselves.

☆ expressions with not..., such as not only, not until, not since, not for one moment and also not a + noun:

- □ Not until August did the government order an inquiry into the accident.
- □ Not a word had she written since the exam had started.

☆ little with a negative meaning:

- □ Little do they know how lucky they are to live in such a wonderful house. (= 'they don't know' or 'they don't know sufficiently')
- □ Little did I realise that one day Michael would become famous. (= 'I didn't realise' or 'I didn't realise sufficiently')

Notice that inversion can occur after a clause beginning only after/if/when or not until:

- □ Only when the famine gets worse will world governments begin to act.
- □ Not until the train pulled into Euston Station did Jim find that his coat had gone.

B Inversion after so + adjective... that; such + be...that; neither.../nor...

We can use so + adjective at the beginning of a clause to give special emphasis to the adjective. When we do this, the subject and first auxiliary are inverted, and do is used with a simple tense verb. Compare:

- □ Her business was so successful that Marie was able to retire at the age of 50. and
- □ So successful was her business, that Marie was able to retire at the age of 50.
- □ The weather conditions became so dangerous that all mountain roads were closed. and
- □ So dangerous did weather conditions become, that all mountain roads were closed.

We can use such + be at the beginning of a clause to emphasise the extent or degree of something. Compare:

- □ Such is the popularity of the play that the theatre is likely to be full every night. and
- □ The play is so popular that the theatre is likely to be full every night.

We use inversion after neither and nor when these words begin a clause to introduce a negative addition to a previous negative clause or sentence:

- □ For some time after the explosion Jack couldn't hear, and neither could he see.
- □ The council never wanted the new supermarket to be built, nor did local residents.

Notice that we also use inversion in Neither/Nor do I, Neither/Nor does Kate (etc.) and in So do I, So does Becky (etc.).

100.1 Write new sentences with a similar meaning beginning with one of these words and phrases. (A) only if barely only with ~~rarely~~ at no time little

1 A new film has not often before produced such positive reviews.
Rarely has a new film produced such positive reviews.
2 The public was never in any danger.
3 He only felt entirely relaxed with close friends and family.
4 The match won't be cancelled unless the pitch is frozen.
5 I didn't know then that Carmen and I would be married one day.
6 He had only just entered the water when it became clear he couldn't swim.

Now do the same using these words and phrases. (A) only once only in on no account hardly not only not for one moment

7 You must not light the fire if you are alone in the house.
8 There was never any competitiveness between the three brothers.
9 I wasn't only wet through, I was freezing cold.
10 I had only ever climbed this high once before.
11 The audience had only just taken their seats when the conductor stepped on to the stage.
12 He has only been acknowledged to be a great author in the last few years.

100.2 Complete these sentences in any appropriate way. You can use the following words in your answers. (B) alike boring complicated dominance ~~interest~~ strength

1 Such is the interest in Dr Lowe's talk that it will be held in a bigger lecture theatre.
2 Such ..... that few buildings were left standing in the town.
3 Such ..... that he hasn't lost a match for over three years.
4 So ..... that even their parents couldn't tell them apart.
5 So ..... that it even took a computer three days to solve it.
6 So ..... that most of the students went to sleep.

100.3 Correct any mistakes you find in this newspaper item. (Units 99 & 100)

TOWN EVACUATED AS FOREST FIRES APPROACH

The people of Sawston were evacuated yesterday as forest fires headed towards the town. Such the heat was of the oncoming inferno that trees more than 100 metres ahead began to smoulder. Only once in recent years, during 1994, a town of this size has had to be evacuated because of forest fires. A fleet of coaches and lorries arrived in the town in the early morning. Into these vehicles the sick and elderly climbed, before they headed off to safety across the river. Residents with cars left by mid morning, as all non-essential police officers did.

Hardly the evacuation had been completed when the wind changed direction and it became clear that the fire would leave Sawston untouched. Soon after that were heard complaints from some residents. "At no time the fires posed a real threat," said one local man. "I didn't want to leave my home, and nor most of my neighbours did." So upset some elderly residents are that they are threatening to complain to their MP. But Chief Fire Officer Jones replied, "Hadn't we taken this action, lives would have been put at risk. Only when the fires have moved well away from the town residents will be allowed to return to their homes."

Grammar review

A TENSES (→ Units 1–8)

Present continuous (→ Units 1, 2 & 8)

A1 □ 'Who are you phoning?' 'I'm trying to get through to Helen.'

We use the present continuous to talk about particular events or activities that have begun but have not ended at the time of speaking. The event or activity is in progress at the present time, but not necessarily at the moment of speaking.

A2 □ She's doing voluntary work with young children until she starts her university course.

We use the present continuous to suggest that an event or activity is or may be temporary.

(For the present continuous for the future, see B7 & Unit 10.)

Present simple (→ Units 1, 2 & 8)

A3 □ Trees grow more quickly in summer than in winter.

We use the present simple with verbs describing states or situations that are always true or continue indefinitely.

A4 □ This cake tastes wonderful. Where did you buy it?

We use the present simple with states or situations (thoughts, feelings) that exist at the present moment.

Verbs generally used to talk about states include agree, appreciate, attract, *desire, *doubt, expect, hate, hope, like, love, *prefer, *regret (to do with emotions, attitudes, and preferences); anticipate, assume, *believe, consider, expect, feel, find, imagine, *know, realise, think, understand (mental states); ache, hear, *notice, see, *smell, sound, *taste (senses and perception); belong to, *consist of, *constitute, *contain, cost, *differ from, have, look, *mean, measure, *own, *possess, *resemble, seem, weigh ('being', 'having'*, etc.).

The verbs marked * are rarely used with continuous tenses (but can be if we mean actions rather than states).

A5 □ Do you go to Turkey every year for your holidays?

We use the present simple to talk about habits or regular events or actions.

(For the present simple for the future, see B6 & Unit 10.)

Past simple (→ Units 3, 4, 5 & 8)

A6 □ Kathy left a few minutes ago.

A7 □ Jim continued the course even though it was proving very difficult.

We use the past simple to refer to a completed action or event in the past or to talk about situations that existed over a period of time in the past, but not now. We can either say when something happened, using a time adverbial (e.g. a few minutes ago: A6), or assume that the listener or reader already knows when it happened or can understand this from the context (A7).

A8 □ I saw my grandparents every week as a child.

We use the past simple to talk about repeated past actions.

(For the past simple in conditionals, see M12 & M13 and Unit 83.)

Present perfect (→ Units 3, 6 & 8)

A9 □ We can't have a meeting, because so few people have shown any interest.

A10 □ My ceiling has fallen in and the kitchen is flooded. Come quickly!

A11 □ We have belonged to the tennis club since we moved here.

A12 □ Lee has represented his country on many occasions, and hopes to go on to compete in the next Olympics.

We use the present perfect to talk about a past action, event or state, when there is some kind of connection between what happened in the past, and the present time.

Often we are interested in the way something that happened in the past affects or is relevant to the situation that exists now (A9). However, the connection with the present may also be that the action happened recently with a consequence for the present (A10), that it continues until the present time (A11), or that a repeated event in the past may (or may not) happen again (A12).

Past continuous (→ Units 4, 7 & 8)

A13 □ When he realised I was looking at him, he turned away.

We use the past continuous to talk about a situation (...I was looking at him...) that started before a particular point in the past (...he turned away) and was still in progress at that point.

Past perfect (→ Units 5, 7 & 8)

A14 □ When I went into the bathroom, I found that the bath had overflowed.

A15 □ By 10 o'clock most people had gone home.

We use the past perfect to talk about a past event that took place before another past event (A14), or before or up to a particular time in the past (A15).

(For the past perfect in conditionals, see M14 & Unit 83.)

Present perfect continuous (→ Units 6 & 8)

A16 □ Since the operation two months ago, Joe has been learning to walk again. He can already take one or two steps unaided.

A17 □ Your eyes are red – have you been crying?

We use the present perfect continuous to talk about an activity in progress in the past for a period until now, which is still in progress (A16) or has recently finished (A17).

Past perfect continuous (→ Units 7 & 8)

A18 □ When I saw the vase in the shop window, I knew it was exactly what I had been looking for.

We use the past perfect continuous to talk about a situation or activity that was in progress over a period up to a particular past point in time.

B THE FUTURE (→ Units 9–14)

Will + infinitive (→ Unit 9)

B1 □ It's late. I think I'll go to bed now.

B2 □ I think you'll enjoy the film.

We use will when we state a decision made at the moment of speaking (B1) and when we say that we think something is likely to happen in the future (B2).

B3 □ I'll make one of my special desserts for dinner, if you like.

B4 □ I've asked her to join us this evening, but she won't.

We use will (or 'll) when we talk about willingness to do something in the future (e.g. in offers (B3), invitations, requests, and orders) and will not (or won't) when we talk about unwillingness to do something in the future (e.g. reluctance, refusal (B4)).

Be going to + infinitive (→ Unit 9)

B5 □ 'Has anybody offered to look after the children?' 'Jo*'s going to* do it.'

We use be going to when we state a decision made some time before we report it. Going to is often preferred in informal spoken English (where it is often pronounced /gənə/) and will is preferred in more formal contexts.

Present simple for the future (→ Unit 10)

B6 □ The next train to Newcastle leaves at 3.45. [station announcement]

We use the present simple to talk about future events that are part of some official arrangement such as a timetable or programme. A time expression is usually used with the present simple for the future (...at 3.45) unless the time referred to is already clear from the context.

Present continuous for the future (→ Unit 10)

B7 □ We*'re having* a party next Saturday. Can you come?

We use the present continuous to talk about future activities and events that are intended or have already been arranged. Usually a personal pronoun is used (We...) and a future time is mentioned (...next Saturday) or already understood.

Future continuous (→ Unit 11)

B8 □ After the operation you won't be doing any sport for a while.

We use the future continuous to talk about an activity or event happening at a particular time or over a particular period in the future. We usually mention the future time (After the operation...).

C MODALS & SEMI-MODALS (→ Units 15–20)

The modal verbs are: will, would, can, could, may, might, shall, should, must. Modal verbs have meanings relating to ideas such as possibility, likelihood, prediction, necessity, permission and obligation. They do not have to-infinitive, -s, -ing or past participle forms. They are often followed by the bare infinitive of another verb (e.g. She might go) but can also be used on their own (e.g. Yes, I can). They cannot be followed directly by a to-infinitive, an -ing form, a past participle, or another modal verb. In questions they come before the subject (e.g. Could you help?) and before not in negatives (e.g. He won't (= will not) help). The semi-modals are: ought to, used to, need, dare, had better, have (got) to, be able to. These have meanings like modal verbs but not the same formal features: for example, some can be marked for tense (e.g. have/had (got) to); some have non-modal uses (e.g. She needs a rest).

Can, could and be able to (→ Unit 15)

C1 □ A polyglot is someone who can speak several different languages.

C2 □ Anita could speak three languages before she was six.

C3 □ Martha couldn't swim until she was ten.

When we say that someone or something has or doesn't have the ability to do something, we use can('t) (for the present; C1) or could(n't) (for the past; C2, C3).

C4 □ 'Why isn't Tim here yet?' 'It could be because his mother's ill again.'

We use could, not can, to say there is a possibility of something happening or being true.

C5 □ Despite yesterday's snowfalls, we were able to drive home in less than an hour.

We can use be able to instead of can or could to talk about ability. We prefer be able to when we talk about a specific achievement (particularly if it is difficult, requiring some effort; C5) rather than a general ability. Where there is a choice, in speech we generally prefer can or could rather than be able to.

C6 □ After the trees have been cut back, we will be able to see more of the garden from the sitting room.

We use will be able to, not can, to say that something is possible in the future on condition that something is done first.

C7 □ We can/are allowed to stay up late on Fridays and Saturdays because we don't have to go to school the next day.

We use can for the present or the future and could for the past to report permission. We can also use be allowed to.

Will, would and used to (→ Unit 16)

C8 □ Will/Won't you have another biscuit? ('Won't you...?' is a very polite and rather formal offer)

C9 □ 'John wants to borrow the car.' 'He will not.' (a firm refusal)

C10 □ You will now put your pens down and pay attention. (a firm instruction)

We use will and will not (won't) to talk about (un)willingness (see B3–4) and also to make offers (C8), requests, refusals (C9), and to give instructions (C10).

C11 □ You should apply for the job. You would have a good chance of getting it.
We can use would to make a prediction about an imaginary situation; that is, about something that may or may not happen (see also M13).

C12 □ Would you like me to get you some water?
We can use Would you like... when we make an offer, but not 'Will you like...'. In requests, too, we can say I would like..., but not 'I will like...'. We can use should (with I or we) instead of would in requests like this, but this is formal.

C13 □ We would/used to lend him money when he was unemployed.

C14 □ I used to live in a flat in Paris.
To talk about things that happened repeatedly in the past, but don't happen now, we can use would or used to + infinitive (C13). Used to is more common in informal English. We can use used to but not would to talk about permanent past states (C14). Notice how we normally make questions and negatives with use to in spoken English: 'Did your children use to sleep well when they were babies?'; 'I didn't use to like visiting the dentist when I was young.' Many people avoid using used to in questions and negatives without do ('Used you to...?', 'I usedn't to...') and in question tags (..., usedn't you?) because it sounds very formal and old-fashioned.

may, might, can and could (→ Units 15 & 17)

C15 □ If the drought goes on much longer, there may/might/could be water rationing before the end of the month.

C16 □ Her parents may/might/could have influenced her decision to resign.
In affirmative sentences (that is, sentences which are not questions or negatives) we use may, might, or could with a similar meaning to say that there is a possibility of something happening or being true (C15). Can is not used in this way. We sometimes prefer could to show that we are giving an opinion about which we are unsure. We use may/might/could + have + past participle to say that it is possible that something happened in the past (C16).

C17 □ 'While we're in Leeds shall we go and see Mark?' 'But it's been nearly 20 years since we last saw him. He may not/might not remember us.'

C18 □ I think I saw her go out, so she can't/couldn't be at home.
In negative sentences, including sentences with words like only, hardly, or never, we use may not or might not to say it is possible that something is not true (C17), and can't or couldn't to say that it is not possible that something is true (C18).

C19 □ Coats may be left in the cloakroom.
May (not 'might') is used in formal contexts to say that something is allowed. May not is used to say that things are not allowed (e.g. Calculators may not be used in the examination.).

must and have (got) to (→ Unit 18)

C20 □ That's really good news. I must tell Steve straight away.

C21 □ 'Can we meet on Thursday morning?' 'Sorry, no. I have to go to the dentist at 11.00.'
When we say that it is necessary to do something, we use must or have (got) to. Sometimes it doesn't matter which we use, although have got to is less formal than either must or have to and is particularly common in spoken English. However, we use must when we want to indicate that the speaker decides that something is necessary (C20) and we use have (got) to to suggest that someone else or some outside circumstances or authority makes something necessary (C21).

C22 □ She was bruised quite badly in the accident. It must hurt a lot.
We normally use must, not have (got) to, when we conclude that something (has) happened or that something is true .

C23 □ 'I'm seeing Dr Evans next week.' 'That can't be right. He's on holiday then.'
When we give a negative conclusion we rarely use must not or have (got) to. Instead, we use can't (cannot) or couldn't.

C24 □ When I went to school I had to learn Latin.
To say that something was necessary in the past we use had to, not must.

need(n't), don't have to and mustn't (→ Units 18 & 19)

C25 □ He didn't cook the meal himself so you needn't/don't have to eat it all. He won't be offended.

C26 □ You mustn't put anything on the shelves until the glue has set hard.
We use needn't (or don't need to) or don't have to to say that something is not necessary (C25) and mustn't to say that something is not allowed (C26).

C27 □ I didn't have to/didn't need to have an interview because I'd worked there before.

C28 □ I needn't have cooked dinner. Just as it was ready, Chris and June phoned to say that they couldn't come to eat.
When we say that it was not necessary to do something in the past, and it wasn't done, we use didn't need to or didn't have to (C27). To show that we think something that was done was not in fact necessary we use need not (needn't) have (C28).

should, ought to and be supposed to (→ Unit 20)

C29 □ You'll catch cold if you go out like that. I think you should/ought to take a hat.

C30 □ I enjoyed her first novel, so the new one should/ought to be good.
We can often use should or ought to with little difference in meaning when we talk about obligation (e.g. in giving advice, making recommendations, or talking about a responsibility, (C29) and the probability of something happening or being true (C30).

C31 □ The work was supposed to start/should have started/ought to have started last week.

C32 □ Walking under a ladder is supposed to be unlucky.
(Be) supposed to can be used instead of should/ought to to express a less strong obligation than should (C31). It is also used to report what many people think is true, but should/ought to are not used in this way (C32).

D PASSIVES (→ Units 22–25)

Passive verb forms have one of the tenses of the verb to be and a past participle. Passive verb forms are summarised in Appendix 1. The choice between an active and passive sentence allows us to present the same information in two different orders. Compare:

active □ The storm damaged the roof.	passive □ The roof was damaged. □ The roof was damaged by the storm.
This sentence is about the storm, and says what it did. The subject (The storm) is the 'agent' and the object (the roof) is the 'done to'.	These sentences are about the roof and say what happened to it (in the first sentence) and what did it (in the second). The subject (The roof) is the 'done to'. If it is mentioned, the agent (the storm) goes in a prepositional phrase with by after the verb.

D1 □ The building survived the earthquake but then was destroyed by a fire.
Verbs which take an object (transitive verbs) can have a passive form (...was destroyed). Verbs which do not take an object (intransitive verbs) do not have passive forms (The child vanished..., but not 'The child was vanished...').
However, many verbs can be used at different times with and without objects – that is, they can be both transitive and intransitive. Compare: 'Are they meeting him at the airport?' (transitive) and 'Is he being met at the airport?' (passive); 'When shall we meet?' (intransitive; no passive possible)

D2 □ I'm really disappointed. I didn't get picked/wasn't picked for the team again.

D3 □ The house was owned by an elderly couple before I bought it.
In spoken language we often use get + past participle (...didn't get picked...) instead of a passive form (...wasn't picked...) to talk about actions or events that we see as negative (D2). Note, however, that we can also use it to talk about positive actions and events (e.g. Great news – I got picked for the team again!). We don't normally use get + past participle to describe states (D3).

E QUESTIONS (→ Units 26 & 27)

Question forms are summarised in Appendix 2.

E1 □ What happened to your eye?

If we use what, which, who or whose as the subject, we don't use do in the question (E1). However, notice that we can sometimes use do when what, which, who or whose is the subject if we want to add emphasis, or to contrast with what has been said or implied. Do is stressed in spoken English: 'Come on, be honest – who did tell you?' Don't confuse whose with who's (short for either who is or who has), which are pronounced the same.

E2 □ I've got orange juice or apple juice. Which would you prefer?

E3 □ He just turned away when I asked him. What do you think he meant?

In these questions the wh-word is the object. We prefer which when we are asking about an identified group or range of things or people (E2), and we use what when the possible range of reference is open (E3). Sometimes, however, we can use either which or what with little difference in meaning (e.g. What/Which towns do we go through on the way?).

E4 □ Haven't you finished your homework yet?

E5 □ Why didn't she pay for the meal?

E6 □ Who wouldn't like to own an expensive sports car?

We can use negative yes/no or wh-questions to make a suggestion, to persuade someone, to criticise, or to show that we are surprised, etc. We make a negative yes/no or wh-question with an auxiliary verb (have, did, would, etc.) + -n't (E4, E5, E6). We can also ask a negative question using a negative statement and a positive 'tag' at the end (e.g. We do*n't* have to leave just yet, do we?). Negative questions can be used to sound polite when giving an opinion (e.g. Should*n't* we offer her a lift?).

F VERB COMPLEMENTATION: WHAT FOLLOWS VERBS (→ Units 28–31)

F1 □ She described the attacker to the police.

F2 □ They arrived at the restaurant an hour late.

F3 □ He gave me a biscuit.

Some verbs (e.g. describe in F1) are followed by an object (...the attacker...). These are called transitive verbs. Other verbs that are usually transitive include arrest, avoid, do, enjoy, find, force, get, grab, hit, like, pull, report, shock, take, touch, want, warn. Some verbs (e.g. arrive in F2) are not usually followed by an object. These are called intransitive verbs. Other verbs that are usually intransitive include appear, come, fall, go, happen, matter, sleep, swim, wait. If a verb can't be followed by an object, it can't be made passive. Some verbs (e.g. give in F3) are commonly followed by two objects (me and a biscuit in F3). Other verbs that are commonly followed by two objects include lend, offer, pay, sell, tell, throw.

A good dictionary will list the meanings of verbs and for each meaning tell you whether each meaning is intransitive, transitive and, if transitive, whether it is followed by one or by two objects.

F4–13 Many verbs can be followed by another verb in the form of a to-infinitive (e.g. refuse to eat), -ing (e.g. avoid working), bare infinitive (e.g. help carry). Note that when to comes after a verb it can be part of a to-infinitive (= to + the base form of a verb; e.g. He wants to go, She hopes to win) or it can be a preposition followed by a noun phrase (e.g. He went to the theatre) or by an -ing form (e.g. He admitted to having a gun). An -ing form often behaves like an object (e.g. I regret leaving).

Here is a summary of common patterns together with examples of verbs that are used in this pattern. Note that many verbs can be used in several different patterns, and that some of the verbs given can be used just with an object, and may also be used intransitively (e.g. He failed to stop, He failed the test, He failed).

	F4 □ They won't agree to pay for the damage.
Verb + to-infinitive	agree, aim, ask, decline, demand, fail, hesitate, hope, hurry, manage, offer, plan, prepare, refuse, want, wish
	F5 □ Stevens admitted stealing the wallet.
Verb + -ing	admit, avoid, consider, delay, deny, detest, dread, envisage, feel like, finish, imagine, miss, recall, resent, risk, suggest
	F6 □ Before we began eating/to eat my father thanked everyone for coming.
Verb + to-infinitive or -ing with little difference in meaning	begin, cease, continue, start
	F7 □ She came hurrying up the path to bring us the news. F8 □ How did you come to buy the car?
Verb + to-infinitive or -ing but with a difference in meaning	come, go on, mean, regret, remember, stop, try
	F9 □ My parents wouldn't allow me to go to the party.
Verb + object + to-infinitive (= there must be an object)	allow, believe, cause, command, consider, enable, encourage, entitle, force, invite, order, persuade, show, teach, tell, warn
	F10 □ I would hate (her) to give the job up.
Verb + (object) + to-infinitive (= there may be an object)	hate, help, like, love, need, prefer, want, wish,
	F11 □ The police caught him driving without a licence.
Verb + object + -ing (= there must be an object)	catch, discover, feel, find, hear, leave, notice, observe, overhear, see, spot
	F12 □ I can't stand (him) wearing a suit.
Verb + (object) + -ing (= there may be an object)	can't stand, detest, dislike, dread, envisage, hate, imagine, like, love, mind (in questions and negatives), miss, recall, regret, remember, resent, risk, start, stop
	F13 □ She felt the mosquito bite/biting her.
Verb + object + bare infinitive or -ing, but there is sometimes a difference in meaning	feel, hear, notice, observe, overhear, see, watch

G REPORTING (→ Units 32-39)

When we report speech in a different context from the one in which it was originally produced, we sometimes need to make changes to the original words. Of course, differences between the original speech context and the one in which it is reported will influence whether changes are needed and what they should be. Here are some possible changes:

G1 □ 'Jim's arriving later today.' → She said that Jim was arriving later that day.

G2 □ 'I was sure I'd left it here.' → He said that he was sure he'd left it there/on the table.

G3 □ 'I grew these carrots myself.' → He told me that he had grown those carrots himself.

The tense we choose for a report is one that is appropriate at the time that we are reporting what was said or thought. This means that we sometimes use a different tense in the report from the one that was used in the original statement (G1 & G3) and change pronouns, references to time and place, and words such as this, that, and these (G1–G3).

G4 □ Martha told me (that) she would be late for the meeting.

G5 □ She said (that) she was feeling ill.

G6 □ I said to John (that) he had to work harder.

G7 □ She told me about her holiday in Finland.

Say and tell are the verbs most commonly used to report statements. We use an object after tell (...me..., G4), but not after say (G5). Notice, however, that we can use to + object after say (...to John..., G6), but not after tell, and that we can report what topic was talked about using tell + object + about (G7).

H NOUNS (→ Units 40-43)

Countable and uncountable nouns

H1 □ The equipment was faulty.

Nouns can be either countable or uncountable. Countable nouns are those which can have the word a/an before them or be used in the plural. Uncountable nouns are not used with a/an or in the plural. Some nouns in English are normally uncountable (like equipment), while in many other languages they are countable. For example: accommodation, advice, applause, assistance, baggage, camping, cash, chaos, chess, clothing, conduct, courage, cutlery, dancing, dirt, employment, equipment, evidence, fun, furniture, harm, health, homework, housing, housework, information, jewellery, leisure, litter, luck, luggage, machinery, money, mud, music, news, nonsense, parking, pay, permission, photography, poetry, pollution, produce, progress, publicity, research, rubbish, safety, scenery, shopping, sightseeing, sunshine, transport, underwear, violence, weather, work.

H2 □ The company is/are doing a lot of business in South America.

Sometimes a noun is used uncountably when we are talking about the whole substance or idea (e.g. business), but countably when we are talking about units or different kinds (e.g. businesses). There are many nouns like this, including beer, coffee, water; fruit, toothpaste, washing powder; cake, chicken, land, paint, space, stone; abuse, (dis)agreement, business, difficulty, fear, improvement, language, life, pain, protest, responsibility, success, thought, war. Here are some examples: Three coffees and a lemonade, please. – Brazil is a major producer of coffee.; Most toothpastes contain colourings. – Don't forget to buy some toothpaste.; The chickens have escaped. – I don't eat chicken.; I have a fear of spiders – He was trembling with fear.

H3 □ The use of recycled paper is saving thousands of trees from being cut down each year.

Some nouns (such as paper) usually have different meanings when they are used countably and uncountably. Other nouns like this include accommodation, competition, glass, grammar, iron, jam, lace, property, room, sight, speech, time, tin, work. Here are some examples: I just don't understand grammar. – I looked the answer up in a grammar (= a reference book); I got held up in a jam (= traffic jam). – This jam is really sweet. (Note that 'jams' can also be used to mean types of jam); She made a wonderful speech at the wedding. – His speech has been affected by the illness.

Compound nouns (→ Unit 43)

H4 □ How much pocket money do you give to your children?

H5 □ A new golf course/golf-course is being built outside the town.

A compound noun (such as pocket money) is an expression made up of more than one word, which functions as a noun in a sentence. For example, we can use a noun + noun combination to say what something is made of, where something is, when something happens, or what someone does: rice pudding, a glasshouse, the kitchen cupboard, hill fog, a night flight, a morning call, a language teacher, a window-cleaner. We sometimes make compounds from nouns which consist of more than two nouns: a milk chocolate bar, an air-traffic controller, a dinner-party conversation.

Some compound nouns are usually written as one word (e.g. a tablecloth), some as separate words (e.g. waste paper), and others with a hyphen (e.g. a word-processor). Some compound nouns can be written in more than one of these ways (e.g. a golf course or a golf-course; H5). A good dictionary will tell you how a particular compound noun is usually written.

H6 □ She got some chewing gum stuck on her shoe.

Some compound nouns consist of -ing + noun as in: chewing gum, a living room, drinking water, (a pack of) playing cards, a dressing gown, a turning-point, a working party. The -ing form usually says what purpose the following noun has. Other compound nouns consist of a noun + -ing: fly-fishing, film-making, sunbathing, risk-taking, life-saving. These compounds usually refer to actions or processes.

The possessive form of nouns

H7 □ The girls' shoes were covered in mud, so I asked them to take them off before they got into Tom's car.

To make the possessive form of nouns in writing – referring to people or groups of people (e.g. companies), other living things, places, times, etc. – we add 's ('apostrophe s') to singular nouns and to irregular plurals that don't end in -s (e.g. Tom's car; the college's administrators; the women's liberation movement) and add ' (an apostrophe) to regular plurals (e.g. the girls' shoes; the companies' difficulties). To make the possessive form of names ending in -s pronounced /z/ we can add either ' or 's (e.g. It's Tom Jones' (or Tom Jones's) new sports car).

H8 □ That old car of Jo's is falling apart.

H9 □ It belongs to a friend of his.

We can use the pattern noun + of + 's (H8)/ possessive pronoun (H9) to talk about something that someone owns or about a relationship. Notice that when we are talking about relationships between people we can also use a noun without 's (e.g. an uncle of Mark's (or an uncle of Mark)).

H10 □ We're going to Linda's (house) for the evening.

The noun following a possessive form can be left out when we talk about someone's house. We don't use 'shop' when we talk about, for example, the newsagent's/the chemist's or the newsagent/the chemist (but not 'the newsagent's shop'/'the chemist's shop') where the name of the shop includes the name of the person who works there (compare 'the sweet shop', but not 'the sweet's').

H11 □ David's guitar playing has improved enormously.

H12 □ The construction of the office block was opposed by protestors.

Often we can use the possessive 's or ...of + noun... with very little difference in meaning. However, in general, we are more likely to use the possessive form of a noun when the noun refers to a particular person or group of people (H11); and when we are talking about time (e.g. next year's holiday prices, rather than the holiday prices of next year).

We are more likely to use the ...of + noun... form with an inanimate noun (H12); when we are talking about a process, or a change over time (e.g. the establishment of the committee, rather than the committee's establishment); and when the noun is a long noun phrase (e.g. She is the sister of someone I used to go to school with. rather than She is someone I used to go to school with's sister.).

I ARTICLES, DETERMINERS AND QUANTIFIERS (→ Units 44–52)

Determiners are words such as this, her, and your which determine or specify what a noun or noun phrase refers to. They come before the noun and at the front of the noun phrase. Quantifiers are words such as some, much, and few which identify the quantity of something. Some words can be both determiners and quantifiers (e.g. 'I sent out invitations to a few friends' [few = determiner] and 'A few of my friends came to the party' [few = quantifier]) while some are determiners only (e.g. 'This is my friend Andrew' [my = determiner]). Many determiners and quantifiers can be pronouns, taking the place of a noun phrase (e.g. I've invited all my friends and most are coming [most = pronoun]). Articles (a/an and the) are determiners. They also specify what the noun refers to and come at the beginning of the noun phrase. However, they cannot be quantifiers or pronouns.

The (→ Units 45–47)

I1 □ Dorothy took a cake and some biscuits to the party, but only the biscuits were eaten.
I2 □ Can you shut the door after you, please?
I3 □ We had a good time on holiday. The beaches were all beautifully clean.
I4 □ Give it to the man wearing the red coat.
I5 □ Look at the moon. It's very bright tonight.

We use the with singular, plural or uncountable nouns when we expect the listener or reader to be able to identify the thing or person we are referring to in the following noun. It may be that the thing has already been mentioned (I1); that it is clear from the situation which person or thing we mean (I2); that it is in some other way understandable from the context which thing or person we mean (I3; 'the beaches' = 'the beaches we went to'); that the thing or person is identified in what is said after the noun (I4; 'wearing the red coat'); or that there is only one of a particular thing (I5 and also, for example, the Great Wall of China, the North Pole, the USA, the world).

A/an (→ Units 44–47)

I6 □ Helen's just bought a house on Wilson Street.
I7 □ Sydney is a beautiful city.

We use a/an with singular nouns when we don't expect the listener or reader to be able to identify the thing or person we are referring to in the following noun. We often use a/an to introduce a new specific person or thing (I6); or when the noun refers to a class of people or things generally – for example, when we describe someone or something or say what type of thing someone or something is (I7).

Zero article (→ Units 45–47)

I8 □ [–] Water has got into my camera and damaged it.
I9 □ There are [–] examples of the present continuous tense on page 32.

We use zero article [–] with uncountable and plural nouns when we talk generally about people or things rather than about specific people or things. We might talk about a whole class of things in a general way (I8) or about an indefinite number or amount (I9).

Some (→ Unit 48)

Some and any are used with plural and uncountable nouns, usually when we are talking about limited, but indefinite or unknown, numbers or quantities of things.

I10 □ Peter gave me some advice.
I11 □ Hasn't some information about the proposal been sent out already? I thought I read about it last week.

I12 □ Shall I send you some details?

We generally use some: in affirmative sentences (sentences which are not negatives or questions) (I10); in questions where we expect agreement or the answer 'Yes' (I11); in offers and requests in order to sound positive, expecting the answer 'Yes' (I12). If it is used in this way some is pronounced with its weak form /səm/.

I13 □ Some teachers never seem to get bored with being in the classroom.

We use some to talk about particular, but unspecified, people or things with the implication 'some, but not all'. If it is used in this way some is pronounced with its strong form /sʌm/.

I14 □ I haven't been here for some years.

We use some (pronounced /sʌm/) when we mean quite a large amount of, or a large number of something. Notice that we can say 'some years, months, weeks, etc.' or just 'years, months, weeks, etc.' with a similar meaning.

Any (→ Unit 48)

I15 □ We haven't got any butter left.

I16 □ Do you have any better ideas?

I17 □ Any student could have answered the question.

We generally use any: in sentences with a negative meaning (I15); in questions where we don't necessarily expect agreement or the answer 'Yes' (I16); when we mean 'all (of them), and it's not important which' (I17).

I18 □ If you see any cherries in the shop, can you buy them?

I19 □ Any questions should be sent to the manager.

We commonly use any: in 'if' clauses (I18; note that 'some' is possible, but would seem to expect that you will see cherries); when any means 'if there is/are' (I19; = If there are questions...).

Anyone, someone, etc.

I20 □ Joseph lives somewhere in Denmark.

I21 □ I've never seen anybody that tall before.

The rules for the use of the following words are generally the same as those given in I10–I19 for some and any: the pronouns someone/anyone, somebody/anybody, something/anything, (notice that somebody = someone, and anybody = anyone), and the adverbs somewhere/anywhere. For example, some- words are generally used in affirmative sentences (I20), and any- words are generally used in sentences with a negative meaning (I21).

Quantifiers with and without 'of': any (of), some (of), much (of), many (of), both (of), all (of) each (of), none (of), few (of), little (of) (→ Units 48–52)

I22 □ Many of Bob's closest friends are women.

I23 □ Some of my jewellery is missing.

I24 □ Have you seen any of these new light bulbs in the shops yet?

I25 □ Are you going to eat all (of) that cake, or can I finish it?

I26 □ Both of us were exhausted after flying to Japan.

I27 □ I polished each trophy with a soft cloth.

I28 □ Is there much orange juice left?

We usually need to put of after quantifiers when there is a possessive form (I22), pronoun (I23) or determiner (I24) before a noun. Notice, however, that in informal contexts after both and all we can leave out of before the, these, those (and this or that with all; I25); my, your, her, his, etc.; and mine, yours, etc., but not before them, you, or us (I26) (or it with all). We don't use of after a quantifier immediately before a noun (I27/28).

No, none (of), neither (of), either (→ Unit 49)

I29 □ There's no train until tomorrow.

I30 □ No information was given about how the study was conducted.

I31 □ She had no shoes on.

I32 □ Have we got any more sugar? There's none in the kitchen.

I33 □ 'How many children have you got?' 'None.'

We use the determiner no to mean 'not a' or 'not any' before a singular (I29), uncountable (I30), or plural noun (I31). Before the, my, this, etc. we use the quantifier none (of) to mean 'not any' (I32). If it is clear from the context what we mean, we can use the pronoun none (I33).

I34 □ None of the furniture has arrived yet.

When we use none of with an uncountable noun the verb must be singular. However, when we use none of with a plural noun the verb can be either singular or plural (e.g. None of the parcels have/has arrived yet), although the singular form is more grammatical.

I35 □ Neither of his parents could drive.

We use neither of instead of none of when we are talking about two people or things.

I36 □ You could catch the 10.05 or the 10.32. Either train gets you there in good time.

I37 □ Has either of them passed their driving test yet?

When we use either as a determiner (I36), it is followed by a singular countable noun. If this is the subject of the sentence, it is followed by a singular verb. We use either of with plural nouns and pronouns (I37). Note that either can also be used as an adverbial as in 'We can either take the train or go by bus' and 'I had no wish to go, and Les didn't want to go either'.

Much (of), many (of), a lot of, lots (of) (→ Unit 50)

I38 □ There isn't much traffic along the street where I live.

I39 □ Will you be taking many suitcases on the trip?

Much and many are used to talk about quantities and amounts. Much is used with uncountable nouns (I38) and many with plural nouns (I39). Before the, my, this, etc. we use much of/ many of. Much of can also be used with a singular countable noun to mean 'a large part of' (e.g. Much of the national park was destroyed in the fire.). We can use much and many without a noun if the meaning is clear (e.g. Can you get some sugar when you go shopping? There isn't much left.). Much and many are often used after as, how, so, and too (e.g. I'd say there were twice as many women at the meeting as men.).

I40 □ She didn't show much interest in what I said.

I41 □ John offered me a lot of money for the car.

I42 □ Many of my relatives live around Wolverhampton.

Much (of) and many (of) are used in negative sentences to emphasise that we are talking about small (or smaller than expected) quantities or amounts (I40) and in questions to ask about quantities or amounts (e.g. Have you got much homework to do?). In affirmative sentences we often use a lot of, lots of or plenty of rather than much (of) and many to talk about large amounts and quantities, particularly in conversation and informal writing (I41). However, many of is common in affirmative sentences in both formal and informal contexts (I42).

All (of) (→ Unit 51)

I43 □ There is heating in all (of) the bedrooms in the house.

We use all or all of when we are talking about the total number of things or people in a group, or the total amount of something. In informal contexts we can leave out of.

I44 □ Everyone was waiting to hear the results.

In modern English we don't use all without a noun to mean 'everyone' or 'everything'. However, all can mean 'everything' when it is followed by a relative clause (e.g. I don't agree with all that he said. (= everything that he said)). We can also use all without a noun to mean 'the only thing' (e.g. All she wants to do is help.).

Each/every (→ Unit 51)

I45 □ Every newspaper had the same front page story.

I46 □ Following the flood, every building in the area needs major repair work.

We can use each and every with singular countable nouns (I45), and each of with plural nouns, to mean all things or people in a group of two or more (each (of)) or three or more (every). We use a singular verb (...needs...) after each (of) and every (I46). However, when each follows the noun or pronoun it refers to, the noun/pronoun and verb are plural (e.g. Every student is tested twice a year. They are each given a hundred questions to do.).

(A) few (of), less (of), (a) little (of) (→ Unit 52)

I47 □ A few of the boys were very good footballers.

I48 □ There is little evidence to support his claim.

We use (a) few (of) with plural countable nouns (I47) and (a) little (of) with uncountable nouns (I48).

I49 □ There's a lot less water in the lake than last year.

I50 □ The holiday cost less than I thought it would.

We use less (of) with uncountable nouns (I49) or in a general sense (I50).

I51 □ I've got a few close friends that I meet regularly.

I52 □ He has few close friends and often feels lonely.

We often use a few and a little in a 'positive' way (I51); for example, to suggest that a small amount or quantity is enough, or to suggest that it is more than we would expect. We often use few and little in a 'negative' way (I52); for example, to suggest that the amount or quantity is not enough, or is surprisingly low. Compare 'A few of her songs were popular and she was very well known' (= 'positive') and 'Few of her songs were very popular and eventually she gave up her musical career' (= 'negative'). This use of few and little is often rather formal.

J RELATIVE CLAUSES AND OTHER TYPES OF CLAUSE (→ Units 53-59)

Relative clauses have a similar function to adjectives in that they give more information about someone or something referred to in a main clause. Participle clauses (-ing and -ed clauses) can be used like relative clauses, but can also have an adverbial function, giving information about time, cause, etc.

Relative clauses (→ Units 53-55)

J1 □ Andrew stopped the police car that was driving past.

J2 □ My mother, who is in her seventies, enjoys hill walking.

Defining relative clauses (e.g. ...that was driving past; J1) are used to specify which person or thing we mean, or which type of person or thing we mean. Notice that we don't put a comma between the noun and a defining relative clause.

Non-defining relative clauses (e.g. ..., who is in her seventies, ...; J2) are used to add extra information about a noun, but this information is not necessary to explain which person or thing we mean. We don't use them often in everyday speech, but we do use them frequently in written English. Notice that we often put a comma before and after a non-defining relative clause.

J3 □ The house, which is to the north of the road, is owned by the council.

After a relative clause, we don't repeat the subject with a pronoun; so, for example, we wouldn't say 'The house which is to the north of the road it is owned by the council'. However, this is sometimes found in informal speech; for example, 'A friend of mine who is a solicitor – she helped me.'

-ing clauses (= present participle clauses) (→ Units 58 & 59)

J4 □ Glancing over his shoulder, he could see the dog chasing him.

J5 □ Pushing her way through the crowds, she just managed to get on the bus as it pulled away.

J6 □ 'Wait a minute,' said Frank, running through the door.

We can use an -ing clause to talk about something that takes place at the same time as (J4) or just before (J5) an action in the main clause. We often use an -ing clause in written narrative after quoted speech, when we want to say what someone was doing while they were talking (J6).

Note that the understood subject of -ing and -ed (see J8) clauses should be the same as the subject of the main clause. For example, in J4, 'he' is the unstated subject of 'Glancing over his shoulder...'.

J7 □ Knowing exactly what I wanted, I didn't spend much time shopping.

-ing clauses can be used to talk about reasons and results. This sentence has a similar meaning to 'Because I knew exactly what I wanted, I didn't spend much time shopping'.

-ed clauses (= past participle clauses) (→ Units 58 & 59)

J8 □ Annoyed by the boys' behaviour, she complained to the head teacher.

We can use an -ed clause to talk about something that happened before an action in the main clause. Often the event in the -ed clause causes the event in the main clause.

K PRONOUNS, SUBSTITUTION AND LEAVING OUT WORDS (→ Units 60-65)

Reflexive pronouns (→ Unit 60)

K1 □ 'What did you do to your hand?' 'I cut myself when I was chopping vegetables.'

When the subject and object of a sentence refer to the same person or thing, we use a reflexive pronoun as the object of a sentence rather than a personal pronoun. The singular forms of reflexive pronouns are myself, yourself, herself, himself, itself; the plural forms are ourselves, yourselves, themselves.

K2 □ We phoned the plumber and he came himself.

K4 □ I was given this book by the author herself.

We can use reflexive pronouns for emphasis: for example, after an intransitive verb (K2) to emphasise the subject; after a transitive verb (K3) to emphasise that something is done without help; or after a noun to emphasise that noun (K4).

each other/one another

K5 □ They tried to avoid each other/one another at the party.

K6 □ John and Carmen first met (each other/one another) when they were working in Spain.

Some verbs, such as avoid (K5), can be used to describe actions in which two or more people or things do the same thing to the other(s). We use each other or one another with these. Other verbs like this include attract, complement, face, help, and repel. After the verbs embrace, fight, kiss, marry and meet we can use each other or one another, but this may be omitted when the subject is plural or has the form '...and...' (K6).

K7 □ The scheme allows students from many countries to communicate with each other/with one another.

K8 □ We looked at each other/one another and started to laugh.

With some verbs we have to use a preposition, often with, before each other/one another (K7). Verbs like this include agree, coincide, collaborate, communicate, compete, contrast, co-operate, disagree, joke, mix, quarrel, talk. Note that we can also use compete against, talk to, and look at before each other/one another (K8).

K9 □ The two children each blamed the other for breaking the window.

For emphasis we can separate each and other. This sentence is more emphatic than 'The two children blamed each other...'.

Substitution (→ Units 61-63)

K10 □ I had a racing bike when I was young, and so did my brother.

K11 □ 'Amy loves ice cream.' 'So do I.'

K12 □ 'I didn't think much of the restaurant.' 'Neither did I.'

We can use so + auxiliary verb + subject to say that a second person does the same things as the person already mentioned (K10 & K11). The corresponding negative form uses neither (K12), nor ('Nor did I'), or not...either ('I didn't either'). We often use this to avoid repetition (e.g. in K12 we use 'Neither did I' rather than 'I didn't think much of the restaurant either').

L ADJECTIVES AND ADVERBS (→ Units 66-78)

Gradable and non-gradable adjectives (→ Units 67-68)

L1 □ They live in a very large house.

L2 □ Our teacher gave us an absolutely impossible problem to solve.

Most adjectives describe qualities that can be measured or graded, and so can be used in comparative and superlative forms and with words such as 'very' or 'extremely'. These are referred to as gradable adjectives (for example, 'large' in L1). Some adjectives are not gradable because they refer to qualities that are completely present or completely absent. These non-gradable adjectives (such as 'impossible' in L2) are not usually used in comparative and superlative forms or with words such as 'very' or 'extremely'. They can often, however, be used with words such as 'absolutely' or 'completely'.

Order of adjectives

L3 □ I drank some very good Brazilian coffee.

When we use more than one adjective before a noun, there is often a preferred (although not fixed) order for these adjectives depending on what type of adjective they are: opinion + size/physical quality/shape/age + colour + participle adjectives + origin + material + type + purpose + NOUN. Here are some examples showing the most likely order: an old plastic container (= age + material + noun); a hard red ball (= quality + colour + noun); a frightening Korean mask (= opinion + origin + noun); a round biscuit tin (= shape + purpose (for holding biscuits) + noun); a small broken plate (= size + participle adjective + noun); a useful digital alarm clock (= opinion + type + purpose + noun).

To help you to learn this order, it can be useful to remember that gradable adjectives (describing opinion, size, quality, shape, and age) usually precede ungradable adjectives (participle adjective and adjectives describing origin, material, type and purpose).

Easily confused adjectives

L4 □ I was surprised to find that the film was quite frightening.

When we use the following adjectives to describe how a person feels about something or someone else, generally the -ed adjectives describe how the person feels (e.g. I was surprised...), and the -ing adjectives give an evaluation of the thing or other person (e.g. ...the film was quite frightening.): alarmed – alarming, amazed – amazing, bored – boring, excited – exciting, frightened – frightening, interested – interesting, pleased – pleasing, surprised – surprising, tired – tiring, worried – worrying.

Adjectives and adverbs: use (→ Unit 71)

L5 □ The staff in the shop always speak politely to customers.

L6 □ It was strangely quiet as we went into the room.

We use an adverb, not an adjective, to say how something happened or was done (L5) or to modify adjectives (L6).

Adjectives and adverbs: comparative and superlative forms (→ Unit 72)

L7 □ The building was bigger than I'd expected.

L8 □ It was the most ridiculous thing to say.

We usually add the ending -er to one-syllable adjectives and adverbs to make their comparative forms (L7) and -est to make their superlative forms. With three or more syllables we usually add more/less and most/least (L8). With two syllables we can usually use either.

Quite

L9 □ I was quite satisfied with the result.

L10 □ No, you're quite wrong!

L11 □ The food here is quite superb.

Quite has two meanings: to a particular degree, but not 'very' (= 'fairly') (L9); and to a large degree, or 'very much' (= 'completely') (L10). When quite is used with non-gradable adjectives it means 'completely' (L11).

M ADVERBIAL CLAUSES & CONJUNCTIONS (→ Units 79-87)

An adverbial clause is a type of subordinate clause, linked to a main clause. An adverbial clause adds extra information to the main clause about such things as time and conditions. Most adverbial clauses begin with a conjunction that indicates their link with the main clause. Example conjunctions are after, before, and until (time conjunctions); and if and unless (conditional conjunctions).

Tenses in adverbial and main clauses: general

M1 □ Because I'm overweight, my doctor has put me on a diet.

M2 □ I felt unwell when I got up this morning.

The verb in the adverbial clause is usually the same tense as the verb in the main clause. In M1 they are both present (present simple + present perfect), and in M2 they are both past (past simple + past simple).

Time clauses: tenses (→ Unit 79)

M3 □ Have something to eat before you leave.

To refer to the future after a time conjunction (...before...) we use present tenses.

M4 □ As soon as you see/ have seen her, come and tell me.

M5 □ She wrote to me after she spoke/ had spoken to Jim.

To talk about an action in the adverbial clause that is completed before another action described in the main clause, we can use either simple or perfect tenses (present as in M4 or past as in M5), but not will or will have + -ed (the future perfect).

M6 □ When I saw Kim, I asked her over for dinner.

If the actions in the main clause and the adverbial clause take place at the same time, we use simple, not perfect tenses.

M7 □ While the children were swimming, their mother kept a watchful eye on them.

M8 □ I read a book while I waited.

While is mainly used with continuous tenses (M7) and also with simple tenses (M8).

Conditional clauses (→ Units 83-86)

Real and unreal conditionals (→ Units 83 & 84)

Some conditional clauses beginning with if suggest that a situation is real – that is, the situation is or was true, or may have been or may become true (e.g. If anyone phones, tell them I'll be back at 11.00; If you really want to learn Italian, you need to spend some time in Italy). Others suggest that a situation is unreal – that is, the situation is imaginary or untrue. (e.g. What would you do if you won the lottery?; If you had started out earlier, you wouldn't have been so late).

Compare: If I go to Berlin, I'll travel by train. (= real conditional) and If I went to Berlin, I'd travel by train. (= unreal conditional). In the first, the speaker is thinking of going to Berlin (it is a real future possibility), but in the second, the speaker is not thinking of doing so. The second might be giving someone advice.

Real conditionals: tenses (→ Units 83 & 84)

M9 □ I'll give you a lift if it rains.

M10 □ If you leave now, you'll be home in two hours.

M11 □ If water freezes, it expands.

M12 □ If I made the wrong decision then I apologise.

In real conditionals we use a present tense to talk about the future (M9), the present (M10) or unchanging relationships (M11), and past tenses to talk about the past (M12).

Unreal conditionals: tenses (→ Units 83 & 84)

M13 □ If my grandfather was/ were still alive, he would be a hundred today.

To talk about present or future situations in unreal conditionals, we use a past tense (either simple or continuous) in the if-clause and would + bare infinitive in the main clause. In unreal conditionals we don't use the past simple or past perfect in the main clause. In unreal conditionals, we can also use could/might (have) instead of would (have) (e.g. If my grandfather was/ were still alive, he might have enjoyed looking after our garden; If I lived out of town, I could take up horse riding.). Notice that we sometimes use if...were instead of if...was (see Unit 85).

M14 □ If I had known how difficult the job was, I wouldn't have taken it.

When we talk about something that might have happened in the past, but didn't, then we use if + past perfect and would have + past participle in the main clause. We can also use might/could have instead of would have in the main clause (e.g. They might have found a better hotel if they had driven a few more kilometres.).

M15 □ If Bob wasn't so lazy, he would have passed the exam easily.

M16 □ If the doctor had been called earlier, Mary would still be alive today.

In some unreal conditionals we use mixed tenses. That is, a past tense in the if-clause and would have + past participle in the main clause (M15), or a past perfect in the if-clause and would + infinitive in the main clause (M16). We can use these patterns to talk about possible consequences if situations were or had been different. We can also use might/could (have) in the main clause instead of would (have) (e.g. ...he could have passed the exam easily.; ...Mary might still be alive today.).

M17 □ If I had a more reliable car, I'd drive to Spain rather than fly.

In unreal conditional sentences we don't normally use would in an if-clause (but see Unit 84).

Other types of adverbial clause give information about place (M18), contrast (M19 and Unit 82), cause or reason (M20 and Unit 80), purpose (M21 and Unit 81), and result (M22 and Unit 81):

M18 □ Can you put it back where you found it, please?

M19 □ My sister is blonde, whereas my brother has dark hair.

M20 □ He wasn't allowed in because he was too young.

M21 □ We got up early so that we could watch the sunrise.

M22 □ He played so badly that he was easily beaten.

Glossary

We can't say 'It's very impossible'). Classifying adjectives say that something is of a particular type (e.g. atomic, initial). Emphasising adjectives stress how strongly we feel about something (e.g. complete nonsense). Qualitative adjectives say what qualities a person or thing has (e.g. big, rich). See also grading ADVERBS and non-grading ADVERBS.

adjective phrase
A group of words where the main word is an adjective (e.g. it's extremely important; it wasn't strong enough).

adverb
A word that describes or gives more information (when, how, where, etc.) about a verb (e.g. He ran quickly), adjective (e.g. an extremely expensive car), another adverb (e.g. She did it very easily), or phrase (e.g. They live just across the road.). Types of adverb include: adverbs of manner (e.g. slowly, violently) which we use to say how something is done; connecting adverbs (e.g. consequently, similarly); time adverbs (e.g. tomorrow, already); place adverbs (e.g. upstairs, outside); direction adverbs (e.g. backwards, through); comment adverbs (e.g. apparently, personally) which we use to make a comment on what we are saying; viewpoint adverbs (e.g. financially, politically) which we use to make clear from what point of view we are speaking; adverbs of indefinite frequency (e.g. always, never); degree adverbs (e.g. completely, quite) which give information about the extent or degree of something; focus adverbs (e.g. just, even) which we use to focus on a particular word or phrase. Grading adverbs (e.g. extremely, very) are used with gradable ADJECTIVES. Non-grading adverbs (e.g. completely, mainly) are used with non-gradable ADJECTIVES.

adverbial
A word or group of words that says when, how, where, etc. something happens. They may consist of an ADVERB (e.g. quietly), a PREPOSITIONAL PHRASE (e.g. through the door), a NOUN PHRASE (e.g. next week), or an ADVERBIAL CLAUSE (e.g. after she left).

adverbial clause
A type of subordinate CLAUSE that says when, how, where, etc. something happens (e.g. Before I went to school this morning, I did my homework).

affirmative sentence
A statement (i.e. not a question) that is positive, not negative.

agent
The person or thing that performs the action described in a verb. Usually it is the subject in an active clause and comes after 'by...' in a passive clause.

article
The word the is the definite article and the word a (an before vowels) is the indefinite article. When there is no article before a noun we refer to this as the zero article.

auxiliary verbs
The verbs be, have and do when they are used with a main verb to form questions, negatives, tenses, passive forms, etc. MODAL VERBS are also auxiliary verbs.

clause
A group of words that contains a verb. A clause may be a complete sentence or a part of a sentence. A main clause can exist as a separate sentence, while a subordinate clause cannot (e.g. If I see Tony at work [= subordinate clause], I'll invite him over this evening [= main clause]). Types of clause include: since-clause (e.g. I haven't seen him since we left school); that-clause (e.g. She said that she was thirsty); wh-clause (e.g. I asked Sandra where she was going); it-clause (e.g. It's not surprising that you're feeling cold); what-clause (e.g. What I want to do is buy a better computer); if-clause (e.g. If you leave now, you'll be home by 10.00); whether-clause (e.g. You have to take the exam whether you want to or not); to-infinitive clause (e.g. To become a doctor takes years of study); present participle (-ing) clause (e.g. Feeling hungry, I went into the kitchen); past participle (-ed) clause (e.g. Built during the 1950s, the building is now in need of repair); being + past participle (-ed) clause (e.g. Being unemployed, Tom had a lot of time on his hands); having + past participle (-ed) clause (e.g. Having seen the doctor, I went straight home). See also CONDITIONAL CLAUSE, NON-FINITE CLAUSE, RELATIVE CLAUSE.

cleft sentence
A sentence in which focus is given to either the subject or object using a pattern beginning 'It...' (e.g. It was my brother who lent me the money) or 'What...' (e.g. What you need is a holiday).

complement
A word or phrase that follows a LINKING VERB and describes the SUBJECT (e.g. Linda is a lawyer) or OBJECT (e.g. I found the food inedible). A complement may also be an ADVERBIAL or PREPOSITIONAL PHRASE which completes the meaning of a verb. Some verbs need a complement (e.g. The disease originated in Britain; 'The disease originated' would be incomplete).

compound
A compound noun consists of two or more words together used as a noun (e.g. a language school). A compound adjective consists of two or more words together used as an adjective (e.g. They were well-behaved).

conditional
A conditional clause usually starts with 'if', but other patterns are possible (e.g. Had it not rained, England would have won). A conditional sentence contains a conditional clause. A distinction can be made between real conditionals, which suggest that the situation is or was true, or may have been or may become true (e.g. If she makes a promise, she keeps it) and unreal conditionals, which suggest that the situation is imaginary or untrue (e.g. If you had asked me, I would have helped).

conjunction
A word such as and, but, if, while, after, because which connects words, phrases, or clauses in a sentence. Compare SENTENCE CONNECTOR.

countable
A countable noun can be both singular and plural (e.g. cup/cups). An uncountable noun doesn't have a plural form (e.g. electricity, but not 'electricities').

declarative sentence
A declarative sentence is a statement. In a declarative sentence the subject is followed by the verb.

determiner
A word that goes in front of a noun to identify what the noun refers to (e.g. this, some, the, a/an, each, all, my). Possessive determiners (also called possessive adjectives) are words such as my, your and their.

direct speech
Speech that is written using the exact words of the speaker, without any changes. Compare REPORTED SPEECH.

dynamic verb
A verb that describes an action (e.g. walk, throw). Compare STATE VERB.

imperative
An imperative clause uses the bare INFINITIVE form of a verb for such things as giving orders and making suggestions (e.g. Go to bed!).

infinitive
The form of a verb that usually goes after 'to'. The form can be either the to-infinitive (e.g. to sing, to eat) or the bare infinitive (e.g. sing, eat).

intransitive verb
A verb that doesn't take an object (e.g. She smiled). Compare TRANSITIVE VERB.

inversion
Changing the usual word order so that the verb comes before the subject (e.g. Up went the balloon).

linking verb
A verb (e.g. be, become, appear) that connects a SUBJECT with its COMPLEMENT.

modal verbs
A group of verbs (can, could, dare, may, might, must, need, ought to, shall, should, will, would, used to) that give information about such things as possibility, necessity, and obligation. Semi-modal verbs (ought to, used to, need, dare, had better, have (got) to, be able to) have similar meanings to modal verbs.

non-affirmative
Referring to a lack of positive, affirmative meaning; for example, in most questions and negatives. However, questions which expect a positive reply are affirmative. The terms 'non-assertive' and 'assertive' are sometimes used for 'non-affirmative' and 'affirmative'.

non-finite clause
A clause with a non-finite VERB; either a to-infinitive form (e.g. I want to leave soon), an -ing (present participle) form (e.g. I caught him stealing my camera), or -ed (past participle) form (e.g. We cleared up the mess left after the party).

The direct object is the person or thing affected by the action of the verb (e.g. I put the book [= direct object] back on the shelf). The indirect object is the person or thing who benefits from the action or who receives something (e.g. I gave my mother [= indirect object] some flowers [= direct object]). Compare SUBJECT.

participle
The present participle is the -ing form of a verb (e.g. walking, singing, eating) used, for example, in continuous tenses. The past participle is the -ed form of a verb (e.g. walked, sang, eaten) used, for example, in perfect tenses. A participle adjective is one formed from the present or past participle of a verb (e.g. the candidates applying, a broken plate). A participle clause has a present participle or past participle verb form (e.g. Feeling unwell, he went to bed; The person appointed to the post will have a difficult job to do).

particle
An adverb or preposition that follows a verb in TWO-WORD VERBS and THREE-WORD VERBS (e.g. What time did you get in? [in = adverb]; I flicked through the magazine [through = preposition]; She looks up to her mother [up = adverb, to = preposition]).

question
A wh-question begins with a WH-WORD (e.g. Where are you going?). A yes/no question is one that can be answered with 'yes' or 'no' (e.g. Do you like coffee?). An echo question repeats part of a previous utterance and asks for a repetition of all or part of it (e.g. 'I'm moving to Alaska.' 'You're moving where?'). We can ask an indirect question by putting it into a subordinate CLAUSE beginning with a WH-WORD or with if or whether (e.g. Can you tell me where you live?).

relative clause
A kind of subordinate CLAUSE that describes a noun that comes before it in a main CLAUSE. A defining relative clause says which person or thing is being talked about (e.g. A friend who lives in London is getting married). A non-defining relative clause gives more information about the noun (e.g. My bicycle, which I've left outside your house, is over 20 years old). A nominal relative clause begins with a WH-WORD or whatever, whenever, etc. and functions as a NOUN PHRASE in a sentence (e.g. What I need now is a long, hot bath). A reduced relative clause usually begins with an -ing (present participle) or -ed (past participle) form and has a similar meaning to a relative clause (e.g. I met the people living in our old house [= ...who live in our old house], The new rules only affect people born before 1950 [= ...who were born before 1950]).

subjunctive
The subjunctive is a set of verb forms used mainly in rather formal English to talk about possibilities rather than facts. transitive verb
A verb that takes an object (e.g. She was holding a bunch of flowers). Compare INTRANSITIVE VERB.

two-word verbs & three-word verbs
Verbs that are commonly used with a particular PARTICLE (adverb or preposition) are referred to here as two-word verbs (e.g. She looked after her elderly parents). Verbs that are commonly used with two particular particles (adverb + preposition) are referred to here as three-word verbs (e.g. He looked up to his older brothers). See also PREPOSITIONAL VERB and PHRASAL VERB.

verb
A finite verb has a tense (e.g. She waited; She is waiting for you). Non-finite verb forms are INFINITIVE (e.g. He came to see me) and PARTICIPLE forms (e.g. Shouting loudly, I was able to make myself heard; Built in 1980, the tower is still the tallest construction in Europe).

wh-words
A group of words (who, whom, whose, where, when, why, how) that are used in wh-QUESTIONS.

Appendix 2
Basic question forms

1 If a verb phrase includes an auxiliary verb, the auxiliary verb comes before the subject:

- □ Are they leaving soon?
- □ Where will you stay?

2 If a verb phrase includes more than one auxiliary verb, only the first comes before the subject:

- □ Has she been doing her homework?
- □ What should we have told Jack?

3 In present and past simple tenses of verbs (apart from be), we use do or did:

- □ Does he enjoy school?
- □ Where did you go on holiday?

4 If be is used in a verb phrase without another verb, the verb comes before the subject:

- □ Are you happy at work?
- □ Where was Jack today?

5 If we use what, which, who or whose as the subject, we use the same word order as in a statement with the subject before the verb phrase:

- □ What made that noise?
- □ Who can tell me the answer to question 5?

Appendix 3 Quoting what people think or what they have said

A You put single ('...') or double ("...") quotation marks at the beginning and end of a report of someone's exact spoken or written words. This is often referred to as direct speech:

- 'It's a pity you can't come this weekend.'
- "I'm really hungry. I fancy a cheese sandwich."

B If there is a reporting clause (e.g. she said, exclaimed Tom) after the quotation, you put a comma before the second quotation mark:

- "I think we should go to India while we have the opportunity," argued Richard.

If you are quoting a question or exclamation, you use a question mark or exclamation mark instead of a comma:

- "Can I make an appointment to see the doctor?" asked Bill.
- 'You must be mad!' yelled her brother.

If the reporting clause comes within the quotation, you put a comma before the second quotation mark of the first part of the quotation, a comma at the end of the reporting clause, and you start the second part of the quotation with a lower case (not a capital) letter:

- "It tastes horrible," said Susan, "but it's supposed to be very good for you."

If the second part of the quotation is a new sentence, you put a full stop at the end of the reporting clause, and start the second part of the quotation with a capital letter:

- "You should go home," Sandra advised. "You're looking really ill."

If the reporting clause comes before the quotation, you put a comma at the end of the reporting clause, and a full stop (or question or exclamation mark) at the end of the quotation:

- John said, "Put them all on the top shelf."

A colon is sometimes used at the end of the reporting clause instead of a comma:

- She stood up and shouted to the children: "It's time to go home!"

C When you quote what a person thinks, you can either use the conventions described in A and B, or separate the quotation from the reporting clause with a comma (or colon) and leave out quotation marks:

- "Why did she look at me like that?" wondered Mary.
- Perhaps the door is open, thought Chris.
- Suddenly she thought: Could they be trying to trick me?

1 'was getting' and 'got' are both possible. The past simple suggests that one event followed the other: I got in and then the lights went off. The past continuous suggests that the lights went off as I was in the process of getting ready to get into the bath.
4 'was checking in' or 'checked in' are both possible with a similar meaning. Using the past continuous presents 'checking in' as the background event which was going on as the couple started to chat to him.
7 'was playing' and 'played' are both possible. The past continuous suggests that this was a temporary rather than a regular arrangement.
11 'didn't watch' and 'dreamt' are also possible. However, the past continuous emphasises that 'not watching' and 'dreaming' went on at the same time and seems more likely here.

4.3
1 was buying
2 saw
3 turned
4 was slowly putting (Past simple in 3 and past continuous in 4 seem most likely here as 'turned round' describes a completed action and 'was slowly putting' describes the action that was going on at that time. However, past continuous is also possible in 3 and past simple is also possible in 4.)
5 was carrying
6 walked
7 picked up
8 thought
9 was looking

The people of Sawston were evacuated yesterday as forest fires headed towards the town. Such was the heat of the oncoming inferno that trees more than 100 metres ahead began to smoulder. Only once in recent years, during 1994, has a town of this size (inversion is likely in this written context) had to be evacuated because of forest fires. A fleet of coaches and lorries arrived in the town in the early morning. Into these vehicles climbed the sick and elderly (inversion is likely in this written context), before they headed off to safety across the river. Residents with cars left by mid morning, as did all non-essential police officers.

Hardly had the evacuation been completed when the wind changed direction and it became clear that the fire would leave Sawston untouched. Soon after that complaints were heard from some residents. "At no time did the fires pose a real threat," said one local man. "I didn't want to leave my home, and nor did most of my neighbours." So upset are some elderly residents that they are threatening to complain to their MP. But Chief Fire Officer Jones replied, "Had we not taken this action, lives would have been put at risk. Only when the fires have moved well away from the town will residents be allowed to return to their homes."

b I was just going out to work this morning when the postman pushed a letter through my letterbox. It was from Maggie, who writes from time to time (✓). The letter said that she has to come to Bristol to visit her uncle, who is unwell. She is one of his few remaining (✓) relatives. She wants us to meet and asked if I could suggest a possible time. Well, I haven't seen her for a couple of years, so I was really pleased. We first (✓) met at university. We have similar interests (or Our interests are alike), so we always find a lot to talk about. The photos included in the letter showed that she hadn't changed since I last (✓) saw her. I spent so long reading the letter that I was nearly late for work.
