LEGO® Catalogue
1987

0-5 years

A toy system from rattles for babies from 3 months up to play-sets like houses and trains for youngsters up to 5 years. And all sets build together.

See the whole range at your DUPLO dealer.

PRICES

Under the law stores are free to set their own prices for toys; the prices shown in this catalogue are therefore for guidance only and we neither recommend nor suggest retail prices. They are typical shop prices as of January 15th 1987.

Brick by brick

DUPLO and LEGO® Toys are for all children, from babies to teenagers.

The variety is enormous, yet all series are based on the same idea: to enable your child to make its own toy - and to make many toys from each set. Furthermore, DUPLO and LEGO bricks fit together so "old" ones come alive again when exciting new ones are added.

What other toy system gives you so many possibilities? Brick by brick, year after year.

Maximum temperature for storage and washing. (Electric parts not washable).

3-12 years

Starter sets with lots of LEGO® bricks that develop and challenge the child's fantasy and natural curiosity. From 3, 5 and 7 years.

See pages 4-6

4-8 years

Little animal figures and easy-to-build models with which you can stage your own imaginative stories.

See pages 8-9

5-12 years

Castle

Full of working details like drawbridges, catapults and siege towers for creating exciting adventures around strong castle walls.

Space

In this endless universe you'll discover unknown robots, star ships, lunar mono-rails etc. Some with electrical "sound and light" systems.

Town

A complete town with streets, houses, shops, fire station, police station, airport etc. Why not run for mayor?

See pages 10-11

See pages 12-15

See pages 16-19

6-14 years

Playtrains without motor that easily convert to 4.5 volt battery trains or 12 volt electric trains. Optional electric signals, remote controls etc.

See pages 21-23

7-16 years

For the technically minded. With many special elements like gears and pistons. Plenty of detailed working models which work just as in real life.

BASIC

The toy system that grows with your child

Children's skills develop as they grow older. So LEGO® BASIC Sets consist of 3 different types starting from 3, 5 and 7 years of age.

Gradually these sets get more and more advanced offering more details and realism. When your child eventually chooses one of the other LEGO lines, the new bricks open up new possibilities with the LEGO BASIC bricks, for everything fits together.

What fun to have a toy that never becomes outdated.

Welcome to our motorized division

Several of the bigger LEGO® BASIC Sets include a motor that can be powered by batteries – and make your toys work at the touch of a button.

Unlike other motorized toys these are still fun should you run out of battery power. Each model is full of many lifelike functions that always makes them worth playing with.

Supplementaries

The more bricks - the more tricks

Having plenty of ideas, you shouldn't run out of bricks. With LEGO® Supplementaries you can expand your collection according to need. Choose between boxes with regular bricks in all colours, building plates, wind-up motor, battery motor etc. And let your imagination travel to new, unknown places.

Technic

A different kind of LEGO® building. For the technically minded

LEGO® TECHNIC is a different kind of construction especially created for the technically minded. But still it fits with other LEGO bricks. The functions are more complex and you will certainly be amazed when you see all the things these working models can do. And what you can do with LEGO TECHNIC.

8890

The new building book is full of ideas and building instructions for lots of other exciting models that you can build from your TECHNIC sets.

An electric motor powered by 4.5 volt batteries makes your TECHNIC models even more lifelike. The motor can power many different functions of your own choice.

Though it all fits with other LEGO pieces, the TECHNIC range features special girderbeams to hold rack-and-pinion steering, gear wheels, differentials and working pistons.

Several of the TECHNIC Sets come with a pneumatic system to power vital functions. The system works with miniature airpumps which you press with your finger – and a special valve controls the flow and thereby the movements of the model.

From 7-16 years

Technic

Modern mechanics can be complicated.

Or as easy as LEGO® TECHNIC

For children of 7-9 years it is recommended to start with the Universal Sets which contain instructions for many different working models. The building plans make it easy - step by step - to make the most complicated things.

Join the LEGO® Club

If you are a keen LEGO® builder then the LEGO Club is for you. The Club magazine "Bricks 'n Pieces" keeps you up to date with new LEGO models, exhibitions to see, models to build and competitions to enter. If a photograph of one of your models is published in "Bricks 'n Pieces" you become a "MASTER BUILDER". Ask your mum or dad if you can join.

Please note: LEGO Club mailings can only be posted to addresses in the UK and Ireland.

Look what you get when you join:

1. Exclusive LEGO Club Badge
2. Personal membership card
3. Colourful sew-on patch
4. Special Club stickers
5. 3 copies of the LEGO Club 12 page magazine "Bricks 'n Pieces" during your membership
6. The chance to enter special Club Competitions with lots of prizes to be won
7. Occasional special offers from the Club mail order shop
8. Plus special surprises
