Best supportive nutraceutical in mastitis management

Nutrition plays an important role in protecting cows from mastitis. Cow's udder is very prone to infection. The immune system of the udder always fights germs and protects against pathogens. There are certain nutrients that can boost the immune system of the udder and protect the udder from mastitis if given regularly.

- Deficiency of vitamin A & E
- pH of the mil
- Low immunity of udder

Nucleotide

Tri sodium citrate

Vitamin

Mastioff

Amino nitrogen

Minerals

Prevents clinical and sub-clinical mastitis, helps in early recovery from mastitis, improves milk quality and production

Nucleotide: aids in udder immunity and regeneration of mammary alveoli

Tri sodium citrate: Lower the pH of the mil and reduces pathogen load in udder

Vitamin A: Increases udder immunity and protects against bacterial invasion

Vitamin E & selenium : Acts as an antioxidant and increases the activity of macrophages in the udder

Biotin: Aids in regeneration and managing health of milk alveoli

Zinc : Helps to build keratin in the teat canal and reduces udder inflammation

Copper: Protects the breast from free radicals and protects the breast from oxidative inflammation

Amino nitrogen : Helps to increase udder immunity

Usage Indication: For faster recovery as adjunct to antibiotic therapy in mastitis treatment
