New project on the care of pupils with Specific Educational Support Needs for parents' associations and carers in the educational community is being developed in the frame of the Erasmus+ Programme of the European Commission.

1. Press Release, 11.03.2024

The "Happy Diversity" project arises from the need of parents' and carers' organisations to acquire basic knowledge of appropriate care and support for pupils with Specific Educational Support Needs (SEN). Access to all kinds of specific information, materials, support resources and also having a counseling service favours an education system that is able to meet all kinds of needs and challenges. All this information favours a respectful and collaborative work and care environment between the different professionals and families that interact within the educational centres.

The partner consortium consists of 2 organizations from Germany and Spain, all of which have specific expertise in the field of adult education. The LLAMADA SOLIDARIA FOUNDATION from Spain is the project leader with a partner BIDA e.V., Kultur und Bildung, Germany.

The specific objectives of the Happy Diversity are:

- To create a network of collaboration and exchange of methodologies between entities working in favour of inclusive education; to create an online channel on educational resources to encourage equal participation.
- To offer a training service aimed at parents' organisations and parent carers themselves, whether or not they are affected by vulnerable populations, so that all are aware and knowledgeable about special educational needs in all its variants; to offer an empowerment service to families and an information and advice service to the beneficiaries of the project.

The kick off meeting has been implemented in Madrid from 28.02.-01.03.2024 in a very good atmosphere with expectation for successful cooperation and common work!
