Stories by Career Sistas The Podcast That Get's Real About Work, Passion & Purpose

PODCAST

Stories by Career Sistas is the podcast that amplifies the voices of women making bold moves in their careers, whether as entrepreneurs, business leaders, or changemakers in fields like medicine, law, technology, finance, and beyond.

Audience: Professional women navigating career growth and transitions.
Listeners seek inspiration, practical advice, and community through authentic storytelling.

Guests Include:

- Jo Wong : Founder of Black Female Founders
- Nima Sharma : Professional in Public Service with a portfolio career
- Pearl Oguchi: Entrepreneur (Qube Catalyst), Quality Assurance Lead

In Build Your Table, Beverly Vanterpool shares her journey from ambitious immigrant from the Caribbean to a people leader.

From building networks to making bold career moves, this book helps you thrive where you are—and decide when it is time to pivot, and how to choose more.

Drawing from her journey as a Black woman, an introvert and an immigrant Beverly shares what it takes to succeed when you are navigating systems not in your favour.

“Because the system was not built for everyone — this book shows you how to succeed any way.”

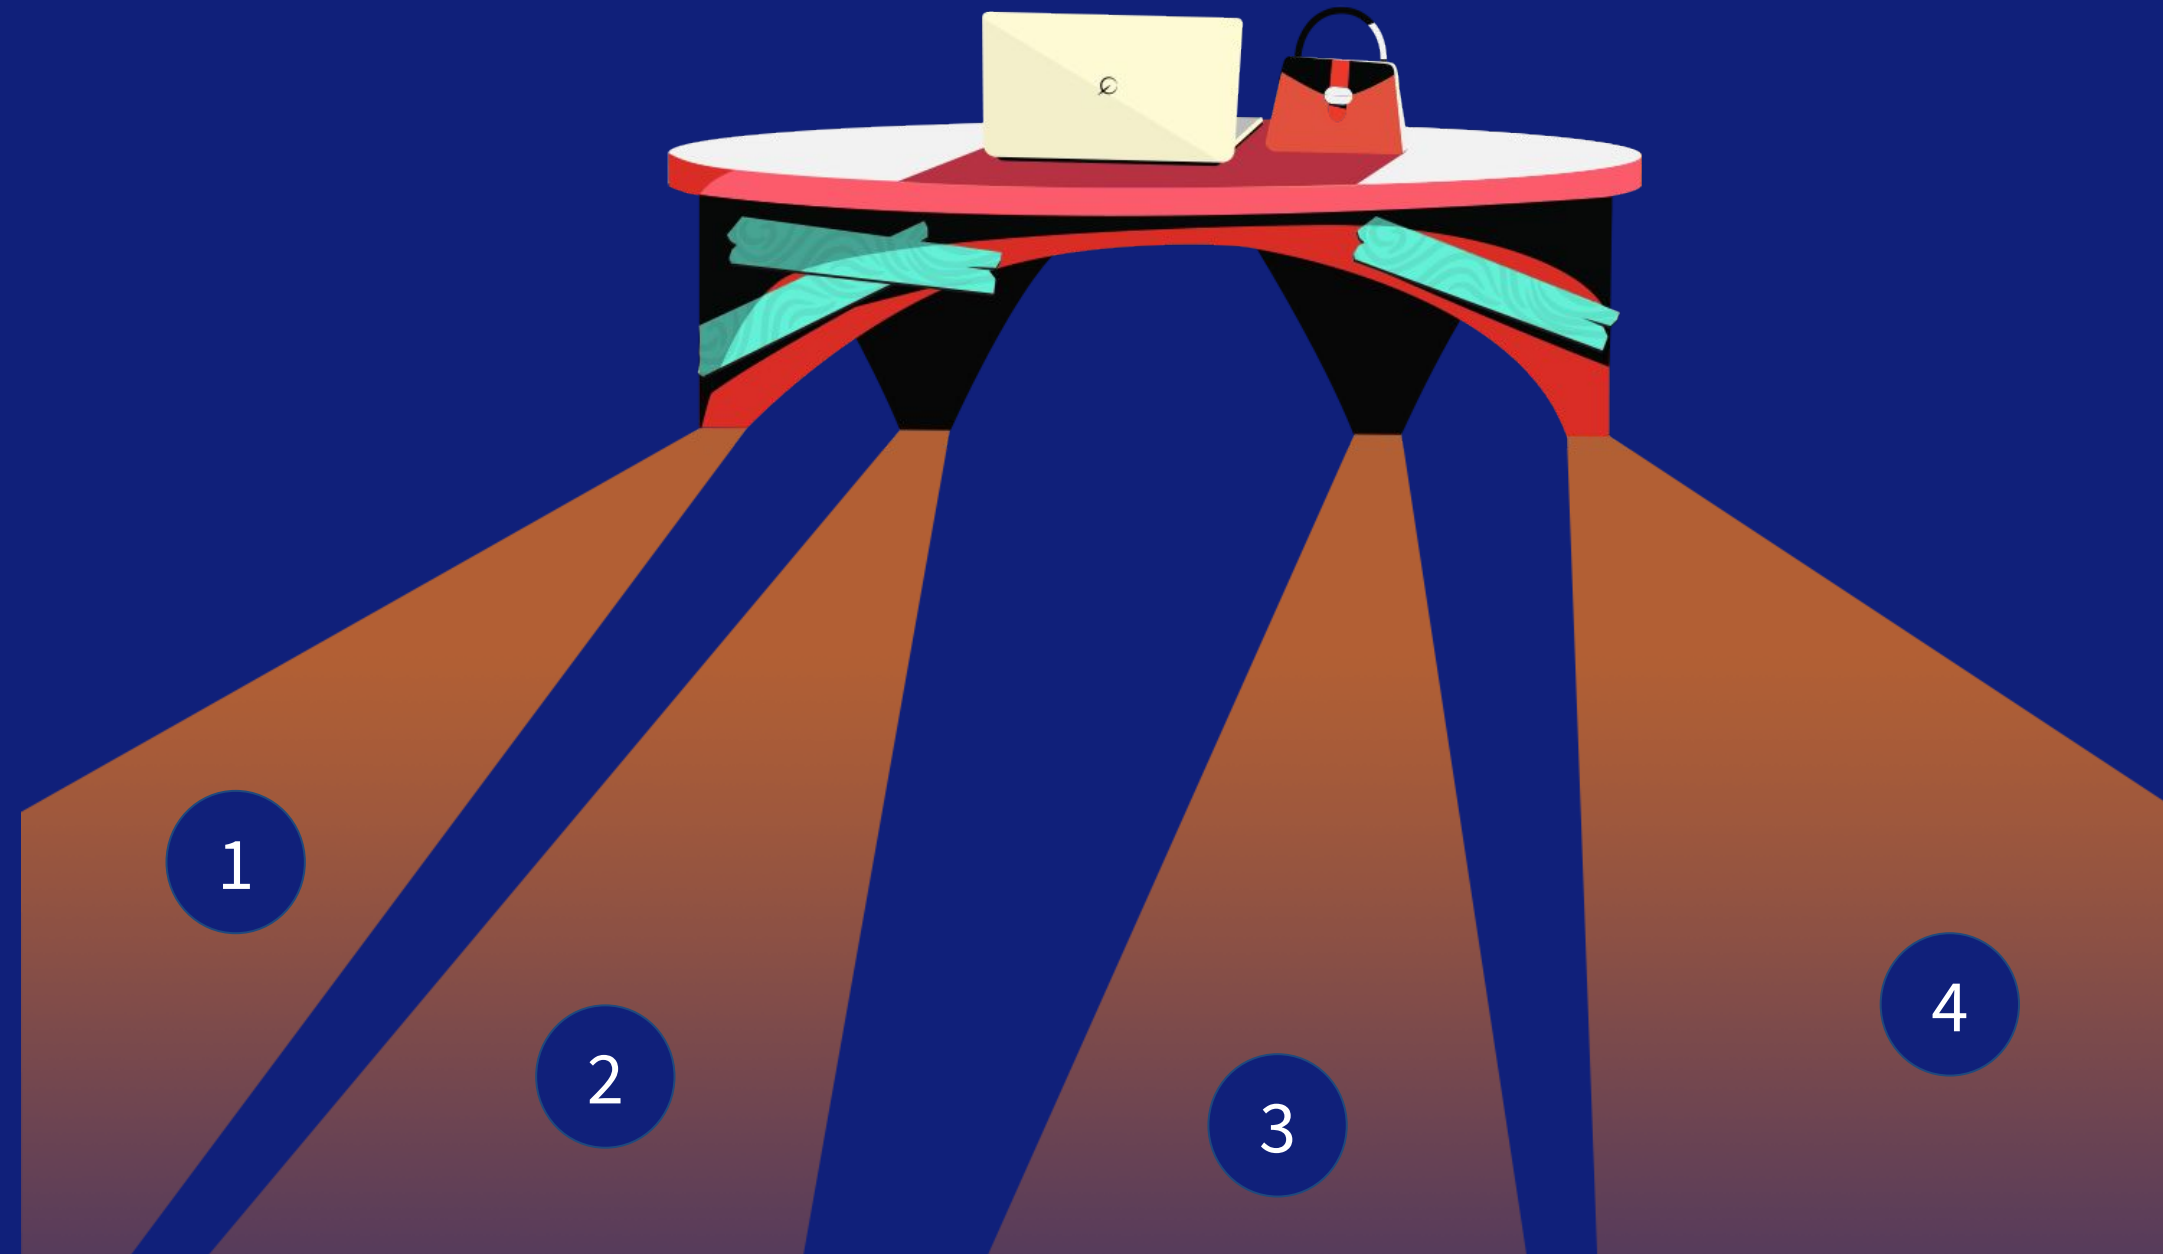

FRAMEWORK BEHIND THE BOOK

1
Knowledge & Experience

2
Community
(including your network)

3
Opportunity
(including mentorship and sponsorship)

4
Visibility (including seeing your identity as a strength and managing your personal brand)
