

Kofi and the Beanstalk

A tiny bean grows into a massive beanstalk leading to the beautiful sky garden! Kofi learns that things take time to grow and that taking shortcuts doesn't pay off.

- Kofi didn't want to wait for the beanstalk to sprout because waiting felt "boring." When is it hardest for you to be patient and wait for something?
- The giant told Kofi, "You won't grow from someone else's seeds." Why is it better to work hard on your own goals instead of taking what someone else has built?
- Ya wasn't mad anymore once Kofi apologized, and she even offered to teach him how to garden. How does sharing a skill or helping someone learn make a friendship stronger?

Adventure Activity

Plant a pretend or real seed! Use a small cup with a damp paper towel and a bean, or simply pretend with a button in some crumpled paper. Practice checking on it together each day to see how patience helps things grow.
