

ENVIRONMENTAL POLICY

Regis Maritime has a relatively small, direct impact on the environment; however, we are still mindful of this impact that comes from the operation of our services.

The company's main environmental impacts are the consumption of routine office supplies (paper, printer toners etc.), and the lighting and heating of the office premises; internal management of resources is used to minimize the excessive use of these aspects.

Outside of the office, environmental impacts arise from the use of in-country transportation, both on road and transfer vessels; these impacts are largely outside of our control; however, they are recognized.

The company follows the principles below to mitigate our impact on the environment:

- ✓ Maintains compliance with relevant legislation, regulations, government guidance, industry best practice and Company requirements.
- ✓ Minimizes energy consumption.
- ✓ Ensuring that members of our supply chain are aware of this policy.

This policy and its aims are communicated and understood throughout the company as necessary and are reviewed to ensure continually improving environmental performance.

Mark Chaudhary
Managing Director