Daniel Amanyia

Let me re-introduce myself...

Hi. I'm Daniel Amana...

I enjoy applying my digital skills to make money online.

Despite being the typical "A student", I was too shy and could barely present myself to multiple employers in interviews after uni.

So I stayed home for two years after university graduation, performing odd assignments for my parents and their enterprises. Nothing in that time really gave me a sense of purpose, so I looked online for something to do.

I came across transcription, researched about it, learned it, did some transcription tests, and I was accepted in a few transcription companies online. No interviews required; just pass an English grammar test, a transcription test, and I was in.

I love transcribing. I did it for several online companies and eventually built my own transcription company (ABC Transcription) in my home country.

Gradually, I added to my skill set skills like graphic design, video and audio editing, and writing.

I am another living testament that making money from people thousands of miles from where you live is possible.
