At the Lighthouse Community Recovery Home, we are more than a facility; we're a guiding light toward lasting sobriety and personal growth.

“When you find out what you are running from, your need to run to stops”

This is the place where transformation takes root and hope flourishes.

Lighthouse Community Recovery Home is located in a massive, four-story historic brick building with stone accents in the heart of Elkins, West Virginia.

The inviting porch creates a space for contemplation, conversation, and enjoying the gentle breeze. This provides a nurturing environment where individuals can find solace, support, and the tools they need to embark on their transformative journey toward lasting recovery.

When you enter the facility, you are met with the Central Office, where interactional therapeutic community meetings are held. There are two fully stocked kitchens and a full bath/shower on each floor.

There is a TV Media Room with surround sound and Internet access.

Residents can access the facility through a separate entrance and are housed dormitory-style.

A weight room with fitness machines is available

Recovery is Good!

But ...
Discovery is Amazing!

Sobriety is a journey but self-discovery is an extraordinary destination.

Why Choose Us ?

Welcome to Lighthouse Community Recovery Home – A Beacon of Hope guiding you in personal growth toward lasting sobriety.

Using the Therapeutic Community Method, with an emphasis on Social Learning & credible role modeling, a comprehensive and tailored program is established.

We empower men to break away from a lifestyle of addiction while continuing the journey to attain recovery and, ultimately discover a healthy lifestyle.

The community itself is the method of change

The Therapeutic Community relies on the “family” of peers and the social learning process. Counseling, education, and other treatment methodologies can be found within therapeutic community programs, but they provide a supportive role for social learning and the members.

This process establishes Credible Role Models - peers from similar backgrounds who diligently practice attitudes and behaviors that are valued in the community. They have reached a level of mastery and have earned respect. Trust is needed because attitudes and behaviors are often difficult to appreciate until they have been practiced.

This is seen as trial-and-error learning, as it coincides with the social learning process.

What's stopping you from doing what you know you should be doing ?

Wouldn't it be nice to know what you are saying yes to instead of just what you are deciding to stop?

Embrace Sobriety and Thrive at Lighthouse Community Recovery Home!

Take the first step toward lasting recovery and success.

STAFF

Executive Director

Mr. Stuart P. Strong, MA. CCJP.

Mr. Strong began working within the criminal justice system in the diagnostic and classification unit at Huttonsville Correctional Center. Working with psychometrics and psychological evaluations, these included pre-sentence evaluations as well as agency intake evaluations. He facilitated educational classes, group counseling, and individual counseling.

Stuart Strong was the instrumental driving force in researching, developing, and implementing the RSAT program. His pioneering work resulted in the transition of treatment services from classrooms and offices to the designated living areas in West Virginia's correctional institutions.

With over 40 years of experience in the helping professions, Mr. Strong has devoted his life to working with justice-impacted individuals and those dealing with addiction.
