Hence, the total number of NEET exam cities is 568, which is approximately 14 per cent higher than last year. Registered candidates can change their exam city to any preferred international city during the application correction window and pay the requisite application fee. According to the NEET 2024 applicants, the official website of the exam is affected by technical glitches. Candidates are facing difficulty in logging in to the NEET 2024 website and completing the application and NEET form fee payment process. Moreover, the NTA NEET Helpline Number and email are also unresponsive, adding woes to candidates' distressed situation. Candidates have taken to multiple social media platforms to share their angst.

NTA has responded to this situation by mailing candidates the advisory on payment and application. Moreover, NTA has also released an advisory regarding candidates' Aadhaar Number, stating candidates to re-verify their Aadhaar details, and use their own Aadhaar Card numbers to avoid data mismatch.
