

Top Free AI Training and Information Resources (USA-Based)

By W. N. Gustafson

www.AISimplifiedWhatAITaughtMe.com

This curated list provides some of the best free resources available in the United States for AI training and educational content. Whether you're a beginner, a developer, a student, or a professional, these platforms offer valuable insights and hands-on learning opportunities.

Elements of AI

Website: <https://www.elementsofai.com>

Offered by: University of Helsinki (US affiliate: AI Now Institute)

Best For: Beginners

Highlights: Interactive, self-paced course introducing the basics of AI. No math or coding required.

AI For Everyone – by Andrew Ng (Coursera)

Website: <https://www.coursera.org/learn/ai-for-everyone>

Offered by: DeepLearning.AI & Stanford Adjunct Prof. Andrew Ng

Best For: Business professionals and beginners

Highlights: Overview of AI's impact on industries, business models, and society.

Google AI – Learn with Google AI

Website: <https://ai.google/education/>

Offered by: Google

Best For: Developers and technically inclined learners

Highlights: Tutorials on machine learning, TensorFlow, responsible AI, and ethics.

Microsoft Learn – AI Fundamentals

Website: <https://learn.microsoft.com/en-us/training/paths/get-started-artificial-intelligence/>

Offered by: Microsoft

Best For: Beginners to intermediate

Highlights: Covers AI basics, computer vision, and natural language processing.

MIT OpenCourseWare – Artificial Intelligence

Website: <https://ocw.mit.edu>

Offered by: MIT

Best For: Advanced learners and students

Highlights: University-level course materials, lecture videos, and assignments for free.

Fast.ai – Practical Deep Learning for Coders

Website: <https://course.fast.ai>

Offered by: Fast.ai (Non-profit)

Best For: Developers and hands-on learners

Highlights: Code-first course teaching deep learning using real-world data.

Stanford Online – CS221: AI: Principles and Techniques

Website: <https://online.stanford.edu>

Offered by: Stanford University

Best For: Students seeking advanced foundational knowledge

Highlights: Lecture notes and materials from Stanford's renowned AI course.

AI.gov – National AI Initiative Office

Website: <https://www.ai.gov>

Offered by: U.S. Government

Best For: Policy, ethics, U.S. strategy, research

Highlights: Government-backed AI news, funding, education, and initiatives.

DeepLearning.AI – Short Courses and Specializations

Website: <https://www.deeplearning.ai>

Offered by: Andrew Ng and team

Best For: Developers, engineers, and aspiring specialists

Highlights: Free content, career guides, and specializations (many on Coursera).

Bonus Resources

OpenAI Cookbook – <https://github.com/openai/openai-cookbook>

YouTube Channels:

- Two Minute Papers – AI research explained simply
- Lex Fridman Podcast – AI and ethics in long-form interviews
- StatQuest with Josh Starmer – ML and statistics made easy

<https://aisimplifiedwhataitaughtme.com>

Copyright © 2025. W. N. Gustafson All Rights Reserved.