Memorandum

The Department of Paranormal Forrrrensics was formally constituted this year to contain, study, and neutralize anomalies deemed incompatible with standard law enforcement.

The unusual spelling on our official seal — Forrrrensics — is not a clerical error. It is deliberate. The triple-R denotes the mark of the Department's founders, the Forre twins (Randal and Rook), whose early casework established our operational protocols.

Their rationale:

- R for Randal, medical officer, keeper of the body.*
- R for Rook, records officer, keeper of the shadow.*
- R for the restless, the unacknowledged casualties whose remains and echoes we are charged to document.*

The founders maintained that the triple-R was more than a symbol. They treated it as a control mechanism: a sigil to stabilize documents compromised by anomalous exposure. Whether superstition or science, the mark has persisted on every restricted file since the Department's inception.

Personnel are reminded: Files stamped with the triple-R seal are not static records. They are considered active witnesses. Interaction carries contamination risk.

Case File Excerpt – 000–A

[RESTRICTED – UNIT 666-C]

Filed: October 31, 1948

Origin: Fresno County

Subject: Initial Containment Failure — [REDACTED]

Summary:

At approximately 02:13 hours, the entity was observed escaping containment in the lower cellar of the Santa Fe grounds. Witnesses describe [REDACTED] emerging from between the walls, leaving lesions that glowed faintly in moonlight.

Three knocks were recorded against the brickwork. Witness testimony indicates the sound originated inside the foundation.

Field Notes (Forre, Randal):

“The body does not rot as expected. Instead, it hums. My ears ring. The hum has found its way into my blood. Do not—[REDACTED]—open the door again.”

Field Notes (Forre, Rook):

“The shadow does not match its shape. I have measured it twice. The outline belongs to a different man entirely. He watches me in the dark corners. He waits.”

Status:

Containment compromised. Recommend file classification as ACTIVE INFECTION.

Mark with triple-R seal. No further access permitted until County order.
