

From Dika Moka Youth Development forum

<info@dika-moka.com>

Today

to me, MapekulaN@dws.gov.za, SomyoS@dws.gov.za, FTNHELP@dow.com, generaloffice@concourt.org.za, info@concourt.org.za, iverwaltung@bverfg.de-mail.de, ouvidoria@stf.jus.br, information@icj-cij.org, ouvidoria@stf.jus.br, bookingregistry-reservationgreffe@scc-csc.ca, aaddr@africa-union.org, G20socialsummit@dirco.gov.za, Sondlo@concourt.org.za, nlubelwana@sahrc.org.za, complaints@thencc.org.za, MinisterG@dffe.gov.za, minister@health.gov.za, info@siu.org.za, complaints@thencc.org.za, info@crlcommission.org.za, pebetsem@cogta.gov.za, MnoneleliR@cogta.gov.za, ministry@cogta.gov.za, info@sabricsbusinesscouncil.co.za

An Open Letter to World Leaders: A Plea for Action and Universal Justice

To World Leaders, International Bodies, and the Conscience of Humanity,

We write today from a place of profound grief and unwavering spiritual conviction. Across our world, a silent war is being waged against the most vulnerable, and the institutions meant to protect them are failing. This is a cry for the stolen, the silenced, and the slain. It is a demand for earthly action and an affirmation of cosmic justice.

1. The Distortion of Tradition: Muti Killings and Vheya in Venda

In the lands of Venda, a sacred tradition has been poisoned by a dark shadow known as muti killings, a practice locally understood as to vheya. This is not healing; it is the brutal murder of human beings, for their body parts. These acts, driven by a twisted pursuit of power or wealth, represent the ultimate commodification of human life. The victims of vheya are not sacrifices; they are stolen lives, their absence a weeping wound in their communities. That such a practice persists is a damning indictment of our collective failure to protect the sacred.

This pattern of violence, rooted in the dark perversion of cultural practices, is not isolated. The distortion of ukuthwala into a practice of abduction and forced marriage of underage girls further exemplifies how tradition can be weaponized to destroy lives.

2. The Global Epidemic of Indifference

Beyond these specific horrors lies a global pandemic of indifference. In America and nations worldwide, people vanish every day. Their cases become cold files, their families condemned to an agony of uncertainty. World leaders, consumed by political and economic agendas, have failed to make the sanctity of every human life a non-negotiable priority. This is not merely negligence; it is a passive complicity in the ongoing suffering of millions.

3. The Call for Earthly Action and Cosmic Reckoning

We therefore demand immediate and concrete action:

- * Prioritize Investigations: Allocate large number of people no with no money involved to solve missing persons cases and dismantle the networks behind practices like muti killing/vheya, farm killing of people bieng fed to pigs and many others.
- * Enforce and Strengthen Laws: Uphold and rigorously enforce laws against these harmful practices, supporting community education to address their roots.
- * Global Cooperation: Create an international framework for sharing information to find the missing and bring perpetrators to justice(death penalty).

Yet, we recognize a justice that transcends human courts. We affirm a universal reckoning, where the very fabric of the cosmos restores balance.

4. The Universe as Witness and Avenger

We declare that the blood of the innocent cries out from the soil. Their breath, their essence, has not vanished. It has been returned to the universe—the same universe that now holds the memory of their suffering and carries the immutable law of cause and effect.

May the universal justice that governs galaxies and atoms prevail. May the Creator, the Source of all life, avenge those who were taken in darkness. May the dark ways of the perpetrators swallow them to a point of no return, as the negative energy they have unleashed upon the world inevitably circles back to its source.

The natural world is a living testament. The seasonal plants that grow draw their life from the same earth that holds the secrets of the victims. The smallest atom, the molecules in the air we breathe, carry the truth of these crimes. They are a silent, enduring record, and they will not be silent forever.

Conclusion

As the world enters the season of spring, we are reminded of the universe's immutable law of awakening and reckoning, a process animated by the most fundamental units of life—every atom, cell, and molecule in the plants, soil, and atmosphere. These elemental particles are the very fabric of creation, charged with the energy that makes all things come alive this season. The same seasonal plants now pushing through the earth draw their life from a soil that holds the whispered secrets of the victims; the same air we breathe circulates the breath and body elements of the lost, ensuring their stories are carried on the wind. The universe itself thus becomes a living archive, where no crime is forgotten, and every hidden truth is preserved in the cyclical rebirth of nature, waiting for the moment of revelation.

But we also place our faith in a power greater than any government. Universal justice must and will prevail. The universe itself is the witness, the jury, and the final avenger for the cries that humanity has failed to hear.

In the name of the lost, the stolen, and the silent,

The Voices for Universal Justice.

Dika-moka youth Development Forum

+27615866287

www.dika-moka.com