Letter to the Universe, the Earth, and All Who Watch

To the Silent Witness of the Cosmos,

To the Trees That Shed Their Leaves in Autumn,

To the Innocent Souls Who Perish in Wars,

And to Those Who Command Death from Thrones and Boardrooms:

I write this not as a judge — because there are no capable, just, or fair judges left on this planet.

The courts are corrupt. The laws are tools of oppression.

The "justice" system serves only the powerful — while the innocent bleed.

So I speak not for man's law, but for the truth that burns in the soil, in the rivers, in the breath of dying children.

1. Eligibility for Death Penalty — A Human Farce

In the United States, they say only certain crimes qualify for death:

- Murder (especially with aggravating factors)
- Terrorism-related murders

- Espionage or treason (rarely)
- Murder of law enforcement officers
- Murder during other serious crimes (e.g., rape, kidnapping, arson)

But what about the murder of entire nations?

What about the systematic genocide of indigenous peoples?

What about the bombing of villages for oil and gold and other minerals?

They call it "war." They call it "strategy."

They call it "national interest."

But we know the truth:

It is all murder — and every bullet fired is an act of theft, not justice.

And yet, no one is held accountable.

Not the generals. Not the politicians. Not the CEOs who profit from bloodshed.

Because the system was built by them — to protect them.

The Fall of Leaves in Autumn — A Lesson in Justice

Each year, trees shed their leaves.

Because it is time. Because balance must be restored.

The leaves fall. They rot. They feed the earth.

They become the foundation for new life.

Just so, the universe does not forgive. It does not forget.

It waits — patient, silent, inevitable —

For the day when every killer, every racist, every plunderer

Will face the same wind that carries the fallen leaf.

The Elites and Racists Who Wage Deadly Wars

You — the architects of death

You sit in air-conditioned rooms,

While bombs rain down on villages you've never seen.

You speak of "security," "civilization," "progress,"

While your true goal is plunder:

Oil. Gold. Rare earth metals. Land. Power.

You use racism as a weapon —

Dividing people by skin, religion, language

To justify your violence, to silence dissent, to maintain control.

You are not leaders.

You are predators.

Feeding off the suffering of millions,

While your own children live in luxury, shielded from the truth.

You claim to represent nations.

But you serve only your own greed.

How the Universe Must Judge All Who Are Killing Innocent People

There are no just judges on this planet.

No court will convict you.

No prosecutor will stand against you.

Because you own the system.

But the universe, the cosmos, the earth, the wind, the sun and others

Does not need courts.

It has its own laws: Balance. Consequence. Equality.

- > Every drop of blood spilled for oil,
- > Every pharmaceuticals killing innocent people,
- > Every child blown apart for gold,
- > Every village burned for profit —
- > Will return be worse.

And when the earth rises —

When the oceans rise,
You will know:

You were not above judgment. You were beneath it.

The Cycle of Death and Renewal

You think you win when you bomb a city.

You think you triumph when you steal a planet's resources.

But nature does not reward destruction.

Your wealth will turn to ash.

Your monuments will crumble.

Your names will be erased.

And from the flesh and parts of the innocent

From the bones of the innocent

New life will grow.

Not for you.

But for those you tried to erase.

A Call for Equal Judgment — Since There Are No Just Judges Left

Let us be clear:

- ✓ No murderer escapes — even if they wear a suit or a uniform.
- ✓ No racist leader is honored — even if they speak in parliaments.
- ✓ No war is justified — even if it is called "necessary."

We do not need human judges.

We need the earth to respond.

We need the wind to carry the truth.

We need the universe to strike back — not with mercy, but with the Sun and many universal just laws.

Final Reflection — Harsh and Uncompromising

- > In the quiet fall of autumn leaves, there is no mercy — only release.
- > In the silence after war, there is no victory — only ruin.
- > And in the eyes of the universe,
- > All who take innocent life
- > For oil, for gold, for power, for racism
- > Will one day face the same wind
- > And it will not spare you.

May this letter be carried on the wind,

To the ears of the powerless,
To the conscience of the guilty,
And to the heart of the earth itself to the Universe and the Creator.

We remember. We resist.

Not for justice from men,
But for justice from the universe.

With fury,

A Witness to Truth
