Indications

Proteins are essential building blocks to all cells and play a predominant role in healing, carrying oxygen, protecting against diseases by supporting the immune system,, providing energy, and building muscle for weight gain.

Fats help to enhance the palatability, the absorption of fat-soluble vitamins, and to regulate the passage rate of the digesta in the gastrointestinal tract.

Metabolized energy helps enhancing the growth

Methionine not only serves as a constituent of body protein but also is involved in the development of the digestive tract and growth performance. It also has a function of muscle mass, feather development and improving egg production in poultry.

MaxiGro promote early development by supplying highly digestible protein and fat.

MaxiGro is a good source of minerals such as calcium and phosphorus that are required for bone, tissue, skeletal, and eggshell development, as well as to improve enzyme activation and function.

MaxiGro increase digestibility and development by adding complex enzymes.

MaxiGro boost immunity by providing vitamin E, which will eventually minimize mortality.

MaxiGro promote growth by including vital amino acids.

MaxiGro provide choline to prevent perosis and fatty liver.

MaxiGro improve Feed Conversion Ratios (FCR) and growth rates.
