Modern devices have become an important part of our daily life, and many people use them from morning until night. Smartphones, computers, and tablets help us communicate quickly with friends and family, even if they live in another country. Students rely on these devices to search for information, learn new things, watch educational videos, and complete their homework. Adults also depend on modern technology for work, reading news, attending online meetings, and managing their tasks. Devices make many daily activities easier, such as shopping online, paying bills, or finding directions. They save time and effort, helping us stay connected and informed in a fast-changing world.

However, modern devices also come with several disadvantages that we should be aware of. Spending too much time on phones or computers can affect our health by causing eye strain, headaches, or problems with sleep. Many people become less active because they spend long hours sitting while using social media, playing games, or watching videos. This can lead to low energy and poor physical fitness. In addition, relying heavily on technology may reduce face-to-face communication skills and affect relationships with family and friends.

Therefore, it is important to find a balance when using modern devices. Technology is very helpful when used wisely, but too much screen time can create problems. By managing our time and choosing healthy habits, we can enjoy the benefits of modern devices while avoiding their negative effects.

Twenty years ago, kids in schools had never even heard of the internet. Now, I hope you cannot find a single person in your school who has not at least heard of it. The 'net' on the internet really stands for network. A network is two or more computers connected so that information can be shared or sent from one computer to another. The internet is a vast resource for all types of information. You may enjoy using it to do research for a school project, download your favourite songs or communicate with friends and family. Information is accessed through web pages that companies, organisations and individuals create and post. Anyone can put anything on the internet, so you have to be careful and use your judgment and common sense.

Therefore, you have to be sure that whoever posted the information knows what they are talking about, especially if you are doing research! If you are just emailing people, you still have to be very careful. If you have never met the person that you are communicating with online, you could be on dangerous ground! You should never give out any personal information to someone you do not know, not even your name! And just like you can't believe the information on every website out there.

B. Reading Comprehension

Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions below:

Dear Reader,

Becoming an astronaut is an exciting adventure I will never Forget! But before I could travel to space, I had to go through a lot of training. The first step of my journey was learning everything about the shuttle I would be flying in. I studied how the rocket works and what to do in different situations.

The training wasn't just about studying. I had to keep fit by exercising regularly to stay strong and healthy. I spent time inside a special training camp that is similar to the space environment, where I practised moving in a special building that has no gravity, just like space. This helped me learn how to float and move around!

Another important part of my training was learning what to do in difficult times. I practised what to do if something went wrong, like a fire or a problem with the equipment. We also learned how to work as a team because communication is just as important in space as any other skill. Before that, I had to get used to wearing my spacesuit. It protects me and provides oxygen while I'm in space.

Finally, after all the training, the big day arrived! I felt excited and ready to explore the space and learn about it. My experience was amazing, but I know that all the preparation I went through made the journey safe and successful.

Greetings from space!

B. Reading Comprehension

Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions below:

Dear Reader,

Becoming an astronaut is an exciting adventure I will never Forget! But before I could travel to space, I had to go through a lot of training. The first step of my journey was learning everything about the shuttle I would be flying in. I studied how the rocket works and what to do in different situations.

The training wasn't just about studying. I had to keep fit by exercising regularly to stay strong and healthy. I spent time inside a special training camp that is similar to the space environment, where I practised moving in a special building that has no gravity, just like space. This helped me learn how to float and move around!

Another important part of my training was learning what to do in difficult times. I practised what to do if something went wrong, like a fire or a problem with the equipment. We also learned how to work as a team because communication is just as important in space as any other skill. Before that, I had to get used to wearing my spacesuit. It protects me and provides oxygen while I'm in space.

Finally, after all the training, the big day arrived! I felt excited and ready to explore the space and learn about it. My experience was amazing, but I know that all the preparation I went through made the journey safe and successful.

Greetings from space!

Astronaut John Mitchell

Cars have changed the way people live, work, and travel. Before the invention of cars, people used horses, carriages, or they walked to get from one place to another. Life was slower and long trips were difficult.

The first car was built in the late 19th century. In 1886, Karl Benz created a three-wheeled vehicle powered by a gasoline engine. In the early 20th century, Henry Ford changed everything. In 1908, he introduced a Model T car which was cheaper and easier to make because of the assembly line. It allowed more people to own cars, and soon, cars became common in many countries.

Over the years, cars became faster, safer, and more comfortable. New inventions like seat belts, air conditioning, and radios made driving easier and more enjoyable. Later, computers and GPS systems were added to help drivers. Cars have greatly changed from the slow three-wheeled invention of Karl Benz to the smart, eco-friendly vehicles of today.

In the future, cars will be even smarter and safer than today. They will use clean energy, like electricity and hydrogen, to protect the planet. Many cars will be fully self-driving and will not need a human driver. Passengers will be able to read, rest, or watch movies while the car drives.

Last year, I was flying home from Chicago after a business trip. I was so excited to return to my family after being away for a month. I got to the airport early to wait for my flight. It was a bright, sunny morning as the plane took off. After about three minutes, I noticed something very scary. There was a big fire in the wing of the plane. November 11th is Remembrance Day in Canada. They remember the sacrifices made by the soldiers in wars. They also honour those who continue to serve during times of war and peace. But did you know they also honoured animals that served alongside soldiers in the army? These animals have received a special medal for their bravery in war. It's called the PDSA Dickin Medal! The medal is known around the world. It's been awarded to 36 dogs, 32 pigeons, 4 horses and 1 cat.

Gander, the dog, joined the army in many jobs, and they treated him like a friend soldier. His job was to bark and bite the enemy's legs to scare them. Gander saved the lives of seven wounded soldiers during the Second World War.

Beach, the pigeon, served with the Army as a carrier pigeon during the Second World War. It delivered messages between soldiers in the field, sailors on ships and pilots. Soldiers wrote messages on tiny pieces of paper. They were put on the legs of the pigeons. It was a dangerous job, in all kinds of weather.

Warrior was known as "the horse the enemy could not kill." He arrived on the front lines in 1914. He was trapped in a burning stable and made it out. The horse, Warrior, was honoured because his bravery was an inspiration to the soldiers who faced their fears every day.
