VI- Reading Comprehension (16 Marks)Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions that follow:

16

Throughout history, humans have always run. Thousands of years ago, they ran to hunt food. In the 1800s, sport became an important part of children's education. After the modern Olympics began later that century, athletes became famous. People admired them and wanted to be like them. However, until about forty years ago, watching running races was more popular than running. Now this has changed. More and more people are recognising the benefits of exercise and are putting on their running shoes!

It is a well-known fact that exercise is good for you. Studies have shown that it can help prevent many types of illnesses including heart disease and cancer. It will also help you live longer. Studies show that exercise can add up to 5 years to your life. Of course, there are many ways to exercise. Running is just one of them. But running may have advantages over other kinds of exercise. For example, one study showed that people who ran more than 80 kilometres per week had more HDL cholesterol (good fat) than people who did not run.

If you feel better after exercise, there's a good reason for it. Running makes your body release feel-good chemicals. As a result, running will cheer you up and can reduce stress levels. In fact, a study found that just 30 minutes of running each week for three weeks helped people sleep better and improved their mood.

On the other hand, there are some disadvantages of running. Many runners complain of problems with their knees. If you do not warm up and stretch properly before exercising, your muscles will ache. Running is especially risky in hot weather if people do not drink enough water.

If you're interested in running, it's important to do it properly, and these tips will help. Keep your head up. Look straight forward, not down at your feet. Relax your neck and shoulders, hold your body tall and lift your chest, as this will help you breathe more easily. If you lean forward, you will hurt your lower back.

A) From a, b, c and d, choose the correct answer: (6X2=12 Marks)

28. The best title for the passage is :

- a. Modern Olympics
- b. Famous Athletes
- c. All About Running
- d. Useful Chemicals

29. The underlined word "prevent" in the 2nd paragraph means:

- a. live
- b. stop
- c. sleep
- d. breathe

30. The underlined word "them" in the 2nd paragraph refers to:

- a. ways
- b. years
- c. studies
- d. illnesses

31. People run thousands of years ago because they wanted to:

- a. hunt food.
- b. become famous athletes.
- c. wear running shoes.
- d. watch running races.

32. All the following statements are benefits of running EXCEPT:

- a. It will cheer us up.
- b. It helps us sleep better.
- c. It improves our mood.
- d. It increases stress levels.

33. The purpose of the writer in writing this passage is to:
- find ways to improve education.
 - encourage people to run.
 - develop running exercises.
 - advise people to run in hot weather.

B) Answer the following questions: (2 x 2=4 Marks)

34. What are the disadvantages of running?

VII- Summary Making (6 Marks)Read the following passage, then do as required:

Studying maths is like solving puzzles that helps us understand the world better. It's about numbers, shapes, and patterns that surround us every day. Maths teaches us problem-solving skills and how to think logically. It's like a toolkit for life, helping us make sense of things and make decisions. By studying math, we learn to analyse situations and make predictions. Whether it's counting apples, measuring distances, or calculating time, maths is everywhere. So, accept the challenge of maths, and you'll discover a whole new way of seeing the world!

VI- Reading Comprehension (16 Marks)

Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions below:

Technology has completely taken over our lives today! Children aren't getting outside and playing anymore so they don't have any imagination. Too much technology in our lives means that we don't have real conversations; therefore we are becoming so disconnected from each other. It makes us stressed and frustrated, so it is time to do something.

Children are sitting in their rooms staring at screens while they should be out in the fresh air, running around and having fun. Children no longer have the skills and abilities to be creative because they spend so much time playing games. Therefore, it is time to rally together and get rid of all this technology to create a happier, healthier society.

Technology is also tearing families and friendships apart. Instead of having real conversations with our family and friends, we are having disjointed and unrealistic conversations using social media. So, we don't really show each other our true selves. We need face to face conversations to truly connect with people. It is also important to realise that technology can make us frustrated and angry. Staring at a screen all day isn't good for our mental health and makes us tired and irritable. Everyone would be so happy if they gave up the technology and went outside for a lovely long walk or had a nice picnic.

To overcome children overuse of technology, parents need to put clear rules for their children to follow. They can limit the use of TV, computers and mobile devices to a maximum of 30 minutes at a time. Parents can schedule an appropriate time for using the device. They can also plan fun physical activities for their children to engage in at other times. They should prevent their children from putting any electronic gadgets in their bedrooms.

A) From a, b, c and d, choose the correct answer: (6X2=12 Marks)

28. The main idea of the 3rd paragraph is:
- a) Technology affects people's lives badly.
 - b) Technology has so many benefits.
 - c) People would be happier when using technology.
 - d) Family relationships become stronger and connected.
29. The underlined word "irritable" in the 3rd paragraph is closest in meaning to:
- a) relaxed
 - b) annoyed
 - c) confident
 - d) artificial
30. The underlined word "They" in the 4th paragraph refers to:
- a) minutes
 - b) parents
 - c) activities
 - d) times
31. According to the text, ONE of the following statements is NOT TRUE:
- a) Technology can make people frustrated.
 - b) Children don't have any imagination nowadays.
 - c) Children need skills and abilities to be creative.
 - d) Staring at a screen all day is good for our mental health.
32. It's important to get rid of this technology to:
- a) put children under stress.
 - b) buy more electronic gadgets.
 - c) create a happier, healthier society.
 - d) have disjointed and unrealistic conversations.

33. The writer's purpose in writing the passage is to:

- a) encourage us to have more devices.
- b) explain how social media is important.
- c) warn us of using technology intensely.
- d) advise us to enjoy playing computer games.

B) Answer the following questions: (2 x 2=4 Marks)

34. How does technology affect our conversations?

VI- Reading Comprehension (16 Marks)

Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions below:

Technology has completely taken over our lives today! Children aren't getting outside and playing anymore so they don't have any imagination. Too much technology in our lives means that we don't have real conversations; therefore we are becoming so disconnected from each other. It makes us stressed and frustrated, so it is time to do something.

Children are sitting in their rooms staring at screens while they should be out in the fresh air, running around and having fun. Children no longer have the skills and abilities to be creative because they spend so much time playing games. Therefore, it is time to rally together and get rid of all this technology to create a happier, healthier society.

Technology is also tearing families and friendships apart. Instead of having real conversations with our family and friends, we are having disjointed and unrealistic conversations using social media. So, we don't really show each other our true selves. We need face to face conversations to truly connect with people. It is also important to realise that technology can make us frustrated and angry. Staring at a screen all day isn't good for our mental health and makes us tired and irritable. Everyone would be so happy if they gave up the technology and went outside for a lovely long walk or had a nice picnic.

To overcome children overuse of technology, parents need to put clear rules for their children to follow. They can limit the use of TV, computers and mobile devices to a maximum of 30 minutes at a time. Parents can schedule an appropriate time for using the device. They can also plan fun physical activities for their children to engage in at other times. They should prevent their children from putting any electronic gadgets in their bedrooms.

A) From a, b, c and d, choose the correct answer: (6X2=12 Marks)

28. The main idea of the 3rd paragraph is:
- a) Technology affects people's lives badly.
 - b) Technology has so many benefits.
 - c) People would be happier when using technology.
 - d) Family relationships become stronger and connected.
29. The underlined word "irritable" in the 3rd paragraph is closest in meaning to:
- a) relaxed
 - b) annoyed
 - c) confident
 - d) artificial
30. The underlined word "They" in the 4th paragraph refers to:
- a) minutes
 - b) parents
 - c) activities
 - d) times
31. According to the text, ONE of the following statements is NOT TRUE:
- a) Technology can make people frustrated.
 - b) Children don't have any imagination nowadays.
 - c) Children need skills and abilities to be creative.
 - d) Staring at a screen all day is good for our mental health.
32. It's important to get rid of this technology to:
- a) put children under stress.
 - b) buy more electronic gadgets.
 - c) create a happier, healthier society.
 - d) have disjointed and unrealistic conversations.

33. The writer's purpose in writing the passage is to:

- a) encourage us to have more devices.
- b) explain how social media is important.
- c) warn us of using technology intensely.
- d) advise us to enjoy playing computer games.

B) Answer the following questions: (2 x 2=4 Marks)

34. How does technology affect our conversations?

It makes our conversations disjointed and unrealistic. /We don't really show each other our true selves

35. What can parents do to help their children reduce the use of technology at home?

They can limit the use of TV, computers and mobile devices. / They can schedule an appropriate time for using the device. / They plan fun physical activities. /They can prevent from putting TV and electronic gadgets in their bedrooms.

Any reasonable answer related to the text is accepted.

VI- Reading Comprehension (16 Marks)

Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions that follow:

We are the product of our choices we make, not the difficulties that we face. Jessica Cox is a living proof of that. Jessica Cox was born on February 2nd, 1983. When her parents first saw her, they were in shock. Jessica had no arms. Doctors could not explain why she was born that way. All previous tests showed nothing irregular. However, neither the parents nor the doctors could do anything. Nevertheless, Jessica's parents never wanted to exclude her from regular activities. They wanted her to enjoy her life freely and normally. To face her fears, Jessica Cox went to a regular school and she always tried to act normally in front of people.

Jessica never let her fears stop her from doing the things she set her mind to do. That's why one day on her way to school, the 14- year-old girl decided not to ever wear her artificial arms ever again. After 11 years of wearing them every day, she never really felt comfortable with them. Jessica Cox swore to herself to never put them on again.

After finishing high school, Jessica Cox joined the University of Arizona to study psychology. She graduated from university in 2005 with high marks. Three years after having the bachelor's degree, Cox earned her Sport Pilot Certification; to become the first armless person ever to get a pilot's license and to complete her first solo flight.

Although the average time to fly a plane is six months, Jessica needed three years, three certified flight instructors and 89 hours of flight training in three different states, to achieve her dream. In addition to flying, Jessica is also the first armless black-belt in taekwondo. Jessica was able to achieve her dreams; she has proven that there is nothing that can stop you if you have heart, determination and can think out of the box. She is a proof that you don't need wings or arms to fly. You just need inner strength.

A. From a, b, c and d, choose the correct answer: (6X2=12 Marks)

VI. Reading Comprehension (16 Marks)

16

Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions that follow:

Since ancient times, athletes have always looked for ways to win competitions. Athletes can be winners with better training, better coaching, and better food. They can also improve performance with better equipment: better shoes, better skis, or a better tennis racquet. However, people want sports to be fair. For this reason, sports organisations make rules about athletes, equipment, and the game itself.

Nowadays, new technology is helping athletes. From high-tech clothing to artificial arms and legs, there are many new ways to improve performance. However, many people worry that technology can give some athletes an advantage. It can make competitions unfair. Also, often only wealthier athletes and teams can buy expensive, high-tech equipment. Do we want the best athlete to win or the athlete with the best equipment to win?

The story of high-tech swimsuits shows how technology can make sports unfair. Several years ago, sports engineers invented a new material for swimsuits. It has many of the same qualities as a shark skin. When swimmers use full-body suits made of this material, they swim faster and float better. The material also sent more oxygen to swimmers' muscles.

Companies introduced these new high-tech swimsuits in 2008. Soon after, swimmers using the suits began breaking world records at a surprising rate. In the 2008 Beijing Olympic Games, swimmers broke 25 world records. Twenty-three of those swimmers wore the high-tech suits.

In January 2010, the International Swimming Federation banned the high-tech suits. In two years after the ban, swimmers broke only two world records. Clearly the expensive, high-tech suits were the reason behind the faster swimming times. The suits gave some swimmers an unfair advantage.

Finally, you don't have to depend mainly on technology as learning how to swim and getting good at it is a long process that takes consistent practice and focus. Being an excellent swimmer requires that you practice with perfect technique, learn to control your breathing and stroke count, and learn to glide in between strokes. You should also set a schedule for eating, practicing, and sleeping, as well as keep a positive attitude and have a good support system.

A) From a, b, c and d, choose the correct answer: (6 x 2 = 12 Marks)

- a. swimmers
- b. qualities
- c. sports engineers
- d. full-body suits

31. Using high-tech swimsuits is useful because:

- a. They help swimmers swim slower.
- b. They make swimmers drown easily.
- c. They make swimmers look like sharks.
- d. They send more oxygen to swimmers' muscles

32. All of the following are ways to improve athletes' performance EXCEPT:

- a. better training
- b. better coaching
