Will Sophia be in jail when show airs in U.S.?

By MARILYN BECK

HOLLYWOOD — Sophia Loren expects to learn soon "if I have mercy from the president of Italy" — or if she will be sent to jail.

She tells me that when she recently lost her latest appeal on a 1963 Italian tax case and was informed she was facing a $15,000 fine and a month in prison, "I could not believe it. It was my tax attorneys who made the mistake, but now it is I who must face the consequences.

"But if mercy is denied and I must go to jail, I will go with my head held high, because I know I have done nothing wrong. And I will go immediately. Italy is my country. It is where my mother and sisters live, and I will not allow this to keep me away. I want to get it over and done with."

Which means that the international star could be in prison while millions of Americans are watching earlier chapters of her life unfold on Oct. 26 — when NBC airs "Sophia," in which she portrays both her mother and herself.

AS THE TUBE TURNS

"Love Boat" producer Henry Coleman reports that Debbie Reynolds will be making two guestings on the show this season, and that other guests will include Lana Turner, Janet Gaynor and Ralph Bellamy. As for why the show is interested in showcasing names of yesterday, Coleman explains, "We've discovered that with the enormous volume of old movies being shown on TV, these stars have a whole new generation of fans — and that it is very effective sprinkling them among the current TV names we use as guests on the show."

Surprisingly, those stars of yesteryear aren't as eager for exposure as one would assume. "I think many of them are afraid about how they'll be presented. And I know that before Ginger Rogers would agree to appear on the series . . . I had to drive to Palm Springs to speak with her personally. I presented her with roses and very carefully went over the story line. And to land Douglas Fairbanks Jr. for a guesting, I had to fly to Reno and spend an entire day with him discussing the script." He landed Ms. Turner, he says, because she's an old friend of producer Aaron Spelling, "and after long talks with him, she finally agreed on the kind of role she'd like to play."

Lana will be playing "an Auntie Mame type of character, who's elegant and flamboyant — and living above her means."

Allison Arngrim, who portrays Nellie Oleson of "Little House on the Prairie," could give lessons in nastiness to J.R. Ewing of "Dallas." She joined the series eight years ago at age 11. Now a luscious blonde of 18, she claims she has been told off, kicked and hit by other kids and some grownups because of her role as Nellie. She is using that reputation on stage in small clubs in the Los Angeles area where she does a stand-up comedy act. (UPI)

A SLITHERING SAGA

"Little House on the Prairie" actress Allison Arngrim intends to go to court to fight for the rights of Astarte, her boa constrictor. Allison plunked down $370 for the critter in July and moved him into the condominium she purchased when she turned 18 last year. Everything was going just fine, until her neighbors learned about the actress' roommate and voted that she get rid of her illegged friend — and fast. She insists she's not going to do it without a legal fight.
