

Welcome to the website of Professor Hassan EL ATTIR

www.elattir.com

Hassan EL ATTIR, horticultural expert specializing in vegetable farming, has more than four decades of professional experience. After his beginnings at ORMVA Souss-Massa (1975-1979), he devoted 37 years to higher education at IAV Hassan II (1979-2016). His expertise has particularly developed in vegetable production techniques in open fields and under plastic shelters, as well as in the management of localized irrigation. He is a recognized specialist in fruit and vegetable chain analysis and excels in participatory training. What particularly distinguishes Hassan EL ATTIR is his ability to combine technical expertise and a human approach. His mastery of participatory diagnosis, coupled with his talents as a facilitator and group moderator, allows him to provide concrete solutions adapted to current agricultural challenges.

Academic training:

- Doctor (PhD) in Horticulture from the University of Minnesota, United States (1986).
- Horticultural Agronomist Engineer from the Hassan II Agronomic and Veterinary Institute, Morocco (1975) with a specialization in vegetable science at the École Nationale Supérieure d'Horticulture de Versailles, France (1974).
