#YOUR GUIDE TOWARDS TAWHIDIC
KNOWLEDGE AND UMMATIC PURPOSE

2025 / 2026

WELCOME MESSAGE

In the Name of Allah, the Most Gracious, the Most Merciful.

Dear brothers and sisters, beloved members of the Kulliyah, welcome home to KIRKHSS, where hearts and minds unite in pursuit of knowledge, truth, and purpose.

Today, we proudly launch our brand-new KIRKHSS Compass Starter Kit, a humble yet heartfelt effort to guide your first steps in this enriching academic and spiritual journey. This initiative isn't just a practical resource it is your compass, insya Allah one that orients you towards Tawhidic knowledge, nurtures your identity as a student of the Ummah, and reminds you that you are never alone on this path

NUR QISTINA
PRESIDENT

Inspired by the noble aspiration set forth by our esteemed Rector that “Tawhidic Epistemology is the root of Ummatic Excellence” this kit has been reimaged to reflect that very essence. It's not only about settling in, it's about starting right, with intention, with clarity, and with faith.

With this, we introduce our guiding hashtag: #KIRKHSSCompass2025. Use it, carry it, and live with it, let it be a symbol of direction, of unity, and of the excellence we strive for as individuals and as a collective.

On behalf of the society, I welcome you to a journey that will challenge, inspire, and transform you. May your time here be filled with growth, light, and barakah. And may this compass always point you back to Allah ﷻ.

Welcome aboard. Your journey begins now.

Wassalamualaikum warahmatullahi wabarakatuh.

FIQH AND USUL AL- FIQH

The programmes offered by the Department fulfill the ultimate goal of the Kulliyah to become the leading centre for integration of revealed values with human knowledge. The programmes introduce students to the study of Islamic jurisprudence and Islamic legal theory. The wide range of courses offered by the Department not only involve mere textual reading and memorization of the juristic legacy but also an analysis of various views and arguments, an evaluation of proof-values underlining each juristic pronouncement, an appreciation of divergent positions, and most importantly contextualization of juristic discourses with the view of providing solutions to juristic needs of Muslims and global world. These skills equip the students with juridical acumen to serve effectively as competent graduates of Islamic jurisprudence and enable them to be life-long learners and thoughtful citizens of increasingly globalized world. It materializes the above via its Bachelor and Post-graduate Programmes.

ENGLISH LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE

The Department of English Language & Literature offers undergraduate and postgraduate programmes that deal with various aspects of the English language, linguistics and literature. Under the umbrella of the Kuliyah, the programmes offered by the Department are imbued with Islamic values and viewpoints.

Anchored in IIUM's mission to Islamize human knowledge and promote a holistic, value-driven education, the department combines the richness of the English literary and linguistic traditions with the moral and intellectual depth of Islamic teachings. Students are trained not only to master the English language as a global means of communication and scholarship but also to engage critically with texts, ideas, and discourses from both Western and Islamic perspectives.

COMMUNICATION

The Department of Communication offers undergraduate and postgraduate programmes that deal with the nature of human communication through various media at the individual and societal levels. In these programmes, the conventional knowledge of the discipline is studied from the Islamic perspective in the spirit of Islamization of human knowledge.

What distinguishes this department is its commitment to studying and teaching communication theory and practice through an Islamic lens, in line with IIUM's broader mission of Islamization of human knowledge. This approach aims to cultivate a communication paradigm that is ethically responsible, spiritually conscious, and socially transformative.

Beyond the classroom, the department actively encourages research, practical training, media production, community engagement, and internships. Students are given opportunities to develop their creative and analytical skills in state-of-the-art media labs and studios, participate in media campaigns, and contribute to Islamic and ethical discourse in contemporary media landscapes.

HISTORY AND CIVILIZATION

The Department of History & Civilization offers undergraduate and postgraduate programmes that deal with various fields of history and civilization, including ancient civilizations, Muslim history and civilization, Southeast Asian history, Western history and civilization, and the history of reform movements (Islah and Tajdid) in the Muslim world.

The academic mission of the department aligns with IIUM's broader objective of the Islamization of human knowledge, aiming to critically engage with both conventional historical narratives and Islamic historiography. Through this approach, the department seeks to foster a balanced, just, and value-driven understanding of historical processes, while reviving interest in the intellectual and civilizational legacy of Islam.

The department not only covers political and military history, but also explores social, intellectual, cultural, and religious developments within civilizations, drawing links between the past and contemporary global challenges. Special attention is given to the contribution of Muslim scholars and civilizations to science, philosophy, governance, and ethics, fostering pride in the Islamic heritage and encouraging students to apply historical insights to modern contexts.

POLITICAL SCIENCE AND MADANI STUDIES

The Department of Political Science offers undergraduate and postgraduate programmes that focus on the processes and institutions of societal decision making. In these programmes, the conventional knowledge of the discipline is studied from the Islamic perspective in the spirit of Islamization of human knowledge.

In line with IIUM's mission of Islamization of human knowledge, the department engages with conventional Western political science scholarship while offering rigorous Islamic perspectives on governance, leadership, justice, and the ethical foundations of public life. It seeks to deconstruct and reconstruct political knowledge through the lens of Tawhid (the Oneness of God) and the maqasid al-shari'ah (higher objectives of Islamic law), promoting a vision of politics that is both morally grounded and globally relevant.

What sets the department apart is its unique integration of Madani Studies, which enriches the political science curriculum with a focus on civilisational values, good governance, and ethical statecraft, in line with the Malaysian Madani framework. Students are exposed to discourses on the relationship between state and society, Islamic models of leadership and accountability, and sustainable development from a values-based approach.

VISION

The political science program is designed to produce graduates who exemplify holistic community leadership, reflecting the values of the Khalifah while addressing societal challenges with ethical political solutions.

MISSION

By strengthening the integration of political science with other disciplines, graduates will formulate effective policies grounded in Islamic moral principles and advocate for sustainable development at both the national and global levels, thereby enhancing the quality of life within the Ummah.

PSYCHOLOGY

Academic programmes and student activities at IIUM are designed to support the University educational philosophy. Psychology programme, too, is designed to equip students with the necessary knowledge, skills, abilities, and other characteristics relevant to the needs of the society and world of work. Given this context, the Department of Psychology at IIUM is proud to offer academic and service activities that are relevant to the needs of diverse stakeholders and the broader community.

As a Department, we were established in 1990 (along with a number of other Human Science departments in the Kulliyah of Islamic Revealed Knowledge and Human Sciences) on the fundamental principles of quality teaching and learning, evidence-based practice and scientific research, as well as meaningful interdisciplinary collaboration and sustainable community engagement. We offer a four-year full-time programme of studies leading to the Bachelor of Human Sciences with Honours in Psychology, and postgraduate degrees at the Master and Ph.D. levels. We adhere to the general vision and mission of the University and aim to provide students with knowledge, interpersonal skills, and Islamic values. A unique feature to be found in all the programmes is the Islamisation of knowledge.

Twenty years after its establishment, Psychology at IIUM has produced a huge number of graduates (about 4000 alums). Many regard psychology services as a significant service that could promote personal development, foster potential, and nurture well-being. There is also a growing awareness among people, at all levels in the society, about the need for psychologists; be it general practitioners, policymakers, or researchers. Therefore, it is timely that Psychology should be expanded to benefit the wider community through various types of services.

VISION

To be a leading centre of integrated research, teaching and learning, and consultancy of psychology

MISSION

To provide high quality and integrated research, teaching, and learning and consultancy with the aim of improving the quality of life of the Ummah and humanity

SOCIOLOGY AND ANTHROPOLOGY

Sociology and Anthropology play an important and almost indispensable role in the education of undergraduates and graduates in the family of what is generally called human or behavioural sciences. In the case of Muslim students, it is of much greater significance to raise their awareness and consciousness about the society they live in. This awareness and knowledge constitute the basic, substratum level information for the students to enable them to know as to where a society is and where it ought to be going in terms of Islamic worldview.

Coupled with the Islamic Revealed Knowledge, it helps to liberate their minds from the provincialism of time, place, and circumstance. It not only truly transforms their Islamic imagination but also lends perspective to the social order in which they live. In this sense, no subject matter of higher, Islamic education is more relevant to this issue and problems of contemporary life that confront all individuals and societies.

In other words, it attempts to transform societal consciousness into Islamic imagination, concepts, theories, and perspective with the help of revealed knowledge. Social and behavioural sciences need to be integrated with revealed knowledge to act as an antidote to the knowledge being offered in a secular garb. As viewed by us, the fundamental task of sociology is to acquaint our students with an understanding of such an integrated knowledge and the recurrences and regularities of human social realities and affairs to suggest alternative paradigms to enable them to become enlightened members of Ummah.

VISION

To be an excellent study centre in the integration of Islamic knowledge and scientific study of human societies while ensuring the preservation of Maqasid Shari'ah and sustainable societal development

MISSION

To develop the Department as an excellent center of sociological and anthropological learning imbued with Islamic values and principles as reflected in teaching, research, publication and community engagement
