

ELISABETH PERDUE MISSIONARY TO THE DOMINICAN REPUBLIC

EST.

2018

Summertime in San Pedro de Macoris...

Many of the missionaries involved in other ministries, such as the school, head back to the U.S. for a well-deserved break, yet they leave temporary holes that those of us still on the ground fill. Between the hole-filling, groups, and regular daily ministry, it makes for a busy season!

As busy as it is, the Mercy Workshop never fails to bring some excitement. They have been on a pranking spree, and wouldn't you know it, I'm the recipient of all the pranking!

Granted I deserve it, because typically I'm the instigator, but not these past couple of weeks! They've brought a live snake, a live crab, and been sneaking up and scaring the fire out of me. Wild women. I love them.

I'm always an advocate for jokes and pranks because they help alleviate some of the heaviness that is associated with this type of work.

Amidst the fun there are hard conversations. Struggles with toxic patterns, complacency in abusive relationships, and so many chains yet to be broken. There are moments of yelling and fighting and crying and asking forgiveness and healing and growing and learning and loving.

All this to say, I need your prayers this summer. Prayers for the strength both mentally and spiritually to continue in obedience and remain faithful. I will celebrate 6 years here this month, and I plan on staying for as long as they'll have me!
