AUTHOR BIO (he/him)

Chase McPherson (he/him) writes emotionally rich, genre-blending fiction that weaves romance, suspense, and the supernatural. Best known for the five-book Bloodbound series, Chase's stories explore intimacy, survival, and chosen family—often inspired by characters and worlds co-created with his husband Tyler through years of tabletop role-playing and storytelling.

A native of Artesia, New Mexico, Chase writes with deep knowledge of rural Texas, particularly the rugged Hill Country. His work spans vampires, queer romance, thrillers, and brotherhood-driven dramas—each world built with care, each story rooted in emotional truth.
