

Call for Papers for Noesis Literary (ISSN : 3048-4693) Volume 2, Issue 2, (Jul - Dec 2025)

Noesis Literary is a biannual double-blind peer-reviewed Interdisciplinary Journal in the fields of humanities and social sciences. Published by the Department of English, Nowgong Girls' College the journal is dedicated to promoting Interdisciplinary scholarly research on humanities and social sciences for disseminating critical interventions on issues related to society, culture, and the human condition. The complexities of the contemporary human condition cannot be comprehended from a singular, insular, and totalizing position; rather an Interdisciplinary approach to address the power relation of socio-cultural discursive formations should constitute the central axis of research in the fields of humanities and social sciences. We, therefore, encourage scholars to engage in Interdisciplinary perspectives in areas related to society, culture, human and beyond. We invite scholarly articles from researchers, teachers, and students highlighting high standards of research on areas deserving of critical interventions in contemporary times. We are Cossref and DOI indexed.

Website: <https://noesisliterary.com/> Journal doi: <https://doi.org/10.69627/NOL2024>

Submission Guidelines

The main paper/manuscript should not carry the name and credentials of the author in any form. Instead, a brief bio-note (not more than 150 words) stating full name, institutional affiliation, address of correspondence, and email should be sent in a separate document.

Authors and contributors are requested to submit a full-length paper, unpublished elsewhere, having a length between 4000-6000 words. An abstract not exceeding 250 words with at least five (05) keywords should be part of the manuscript. The journal strictly follows the UGC-recommended guidelines on plagiarism. A plagiarism report either generated from Drillbit, Urkund or Turnitin should be submitted along with the URL ID of the report so that the editor/s may cross-verify the plagiarism analysis of the report.

The authors must submit a declaration stating that the paper submitted for publication does not contain anything borrowed from unacknowledged sources and that the paper is the product of his/her original research. Manuscripts should follow the formatting and editing guidelines of MLA Handbook 9th edition.

The authors must also give their ORCID ID.

The papers will undergo a blind peer review process; papers will be published after the modifications suggested by the reviewer are followed and the completed paper is sent by the author.

Our submission window for Volume 2, Issue 2 is now open. The submission window closes on September 30, 2025.

Submission email: editor@noesisliterary.com