About Huaen

Huaen is one of the first export-oriented enterprises in China certified for growing, processing and exporting organic agricultural products.

Our main items cover a range of more than 30 organic varieties including grains, beans, seeds, nuts, oils and feed for animals. Up to early 2005, our distribution network has extended to over 20 countries, such as Germany, Denmark, Netherlands, Belgium, America, Canada, Japan and Korea.

Organic in every phase

More than 10.000 hectares of organic crops plus organic processing plants and warehouses lead to the recognition of the most trustable certification bodies following more than 15 different certification standards.

Insite inspections are performed annually to ensure the organic specifications that clients value that much.

Our farms, our family

The farming region is in the Northeast of China where agriculture is the main way of life. The traditional handwork and simple methods are combined with advanced pest control. The farmers use rotation methods, protect animals, plants and the biodiversity.

As a source of compost the farmers use livestock manure mixed with crop straw. The livestock is mainly poultry kept by the farmers themselves.

This region serves as a water-winning area for the capital Beijing, the use of pesticides has been strongly restricted and extensive areas have been assigned to organic agriculture, surrounded by large buffer zones.
