Captain de Havilland's Moth

A Talk By

Alex Norman

Alex was born in Bembridge, on the Isle of Wight, and his father was co-designer of the Britten-Norman Islander.

de Havilland, is one of the most famous names from the 'Golden Age' of British aircraft design and manufacture, and not least for the classic Moth designs of the 1920's and 30's.

Alex, a keen private pilot himself, will talk about the Moth and also it's association with several generations of his own family.
