

Oikodome - Content Usage Policy

Welcome to Oikodome. We're glad that you're here and interested in our content. This policy outlines and explains how you can and cannot use the materials published on our blog. Our primary aim is to share genuine guidances and advices for students of all levels and we want to ensure that our message is being shared responsibly. Please read this carefully.

Copyright Notice

All content published on Oikodome, including text, articles, blog posts, graphics, videos, self-made template and any other media, is the original work and intellectual property of Oikodome.

Under the principle of "All rights reserved", no part of this content may be copied, reproduced, distributed, transmitted, displayed, published or otherwise used without explicit, prior written permission. Except as expressly stated in this policy.

Permitted Uses

We encourage you to engage with our content in the following ways:

1. You are welcome to read, view and listen to the content on this blog for your personal, non-commercial enrichment and reflection.
2. You are free to share direct links to any page or posts on Oikodome via email, social media platforms or on our website. When you share a link, please ensure that it leads directly to our original post.
3. You may share very short, incidental single sentences or two in the context of a review or discussion, provided you clearly attribute the source and link back to the original post. This is not considered republication.
4. You are welcomed to share improvements on the contents of Oikdoome.

Conditional Permission

We understand that our message may resonate deeply, and you might wish to share our content more broadly to help others. We are open to this possibility but it requires strict adherence to the following conditions:

- You must obtain explicit written permission from us before republishing any of our content in full or in substantial part on your own platform.

If permission is granted, all of the following conditions must be met:

- The republished content must be accompanied by a clear and prominent attribution to Oikodome and include a direct, active hyperlink back to the original source post on Oikodome. The hyperlink must be clearly visible and functional.

- The content must be published exactly as it appears on our blog. No changes, edits, additions, subtractions, or rephrasing are permitted. This includes no removing or altering images, links or any other elements within the content
- The platform where the content is republished must align with the aim of Oikodome. It must not feature content that is hateful, promotes illegal activities, is sexually explicit, or otherwise contradicts the positive and guiding message we aim to convey. We reserve the right to determine if a platform's context is appropriate.
- Unless otherwise specified in writing, republication is granted for non-commercial purposes only. This means that the content cannot be used to sell products, services, or to generate advertising revenue without our express written consent.
- The content must not be used in a manner that misrepresents our views, our organisation, or our aim.

To request permission for republication, please contact us via our email (oikodome.hub@gmail.com) with details about where and how you intend to use our content. We will review each request individually. Please allow time for a reasonable time for a response. We reserve the right to deny any request.

Third Part Content & Links

We are not responsible for the content, accuracy, privacy policies, or practices of any third-party websites linked from Oikodome. We encourage you to read the terms and conditions, including privacy statements of any external sites you visit.

Third Part Content & Our Blog

When we feature content created by third parties, we do so with proper attribution or in accordance with the platform's terms of service. The usage rights for such third-party content are governed by the terms set by its original creator or platform. You should not assume you have permission to use this third-party content directly from our blog.

Disclaimer
