

In South India, there is also a sweet dish called hayagrīva maddi, made of chana dal and jaggery, offered to Lord Hayagriva as prasad!

Lord Hayagrīva is a form of Lord Vishnu, worshipped as the God of wisdom and learning. In the above picture, he is seen with his consort, Goddess Lakshmi. He is remembered as the one who rescued the stolen Vedas from demons and returned them safely to Lord Brahma.