Savannah, GA: On February 13, 2024, the Emerald Party US issued a “Declaration of Sovereignty” on its website. The Declaration text and video describe reasons for launching a new national political party outside of the two major, corporate parties. Emerald Party US Chair, Zac Moore, said, “It’s time that independents had a voice opposing perpetual, senseless wars, putting pragmatic solutions first before bizarre ideologies, and upholding American values like real justice for all and ecological stewardship. We must end corporate citizenship and end the blatant corruption and abuse of power rampant in the halls of government if we are going to have a sustainable economy that works for all Americans. We have been lied to about our government and must rethink how we go forward.” The Emerald Party US Board including Zac Moore, Christine Shahin-Wood, Chad Wilson, Richard Idriss, and Joe Oddo, are available for comment upon request.

The Emerald Party US is a political party with a unique focus on stewardship, sovereignty and eliminating government corruption through direct political action. We stand upon the four pillars of non-violence, ecological wisdom, justice for all, and democracy in governmental policy. We call for the abolition of corporate citizenship exclusively in favor of human sovereignty and ecological stewardship. Efforts to create a new national party called “Emerald Party US” began in 2023 and have evolved into a formalized structure to create state chapter affiliates, register voters, and fundraise for ballot access drives across the country. After holding a convention, the Emerald Party US plans to apply for national party recognition with the Federal Election Commission (FEC).
