

Workshop Proposal

Intro

In a world driven by deadlines and digital screens, nature often takes a backseat. That's where Terra Nepal comes in — Nepal's first and only commercial Terrarium company dedicated to reconnecting people with nature through self-sustaining, artistic green ecosystems.

We don't just make terrariums; we create living experiences that blend mindfulness, sustainability, and creativity. With over 1,000 participants trained across Nepal and India, our terrarium workshops have become powerful tools for:

- Enhancing employee well-being
- Promoting sustainability education
- Supporting team bonding in a refreshing, nature-infused format

From esteemed institutions like Kathmandu University, Kavya School, and SOS Children's Village, to renowned organizations such as Oxford University Clinical Research Unit, NMB Bank, Jagadamba Group, and SecurityPal — Terra Nepal has been trusted to deliver workshops that leave a lasting impact.

This proposal outlines how your organization can benefit from a Terra Nepal workshop — a chance to bring creativity, calm, and conscious living into your workplace or community.

Let's grow something meaningful — together.

About Us

Welcome to Terra Nepal — where nature meets nerdy and wild meets wise!

Co-founded by agriculture whisperer Angel Kafle and tech wizard Bishal Wagle, we're on a mission to rescue your spaces from the cold clutches of fake plastic plants. Instead, we build miniature jungles in glass jars — real, self-sustaining terrariums that thrive with zero drama and very little maintenance.

We're not just decorating. We're rewilding your room, refreshing your mind, and reminding your soul what real green feels like. Whether it's a corporate lobby or a classroom corner, our ecosystems don't just sit pretty — they breathe, grow, and tell a story of balance, calm, and connection.

Because in a world buzzing with notifications, sometimes all you need... is a little glass garden whispering, "Breathe."

🌿 Our Vision & Mission: Nature's Comeback Tour

At Terra Nepal, we're not just adding plants — we're starting a quiet revolution. Our vision? To turn sterile spaces into living, breathing ecosystems that soothe your soul and shrink your stress. Think of it as interior design... but with roots, life, and purpose.

Our mission is crystal clear (like the glass of our terrariums):

🌟 Ditch the fake.

🌱 Grow the real.

🤝 Include everyone.

🇳🇵 Teach sustainability — the cool way.

We believe every desk, office, and classroom deserves a touch of the wild — not just for beauty, but for mental wellness, environmental mindfulness, and a deeper bond with nature. The future's greener with us. Literally.

What We Do

🌱 We Don't Just Make Terrariums — We Grow Little Worlds.

At Terra Nepal, we're in the business of planting peace in a glass jar. These aren't just pretty green things — they're living, breathing ecosystems that whisper nature's rhythm into the heart of the concrete jungle.

We say goodbye to those sad, dusty plastic plants, and hello to real, rooted magic. Our self-sustaining terrariums bring calm, curiosity, and creativity back into offices, schools, and homes.

And the real thrill? Our workshops.

It's not just crafting — it's creating your own tiny universe, where every pebble, plant, and drop of moisture matters. It's meditative. It's exciting. It's eco-conscious therapy in the shape of a glass dome.

So come for the green... but stay for the mindful transformation. Let's make your space breathe again.

Terrarium Workshop

— Where Green Meets Genius.

Step into a world where science flirts with art — welcome to Terra Nepal's Terrarium Workshop. This isn't your typical team-building exercise. It's a hands-on journey into nature's magic, where every participant becomes a creator of their own tiny living universe — built layer by layer in a glass jar.

With every handful of soil and every carefully placed plant, we explore the beautiful balance between plants, soil, and micro-life — a real-time lesson in sustainability and mindfulness. It's calm, it's creative, and yes — it's strangely therapeutic.

Perfect for corporate offices, schools, or wellness retreats, our workshops do more than teach. They inspire a reconnection with nature and each other — and offer a green, living reminder that growth begins within.

So, ready to trade stress for soil? Let's get our hands dirty — mindfully.

🌿 Terrarium Workshop for Curious Young Minds

Where Science Sparks, Soil Speaks, and Ecosystems Come Alive.

Terra Nepal invites students into the captivating world of self-sustaining glass gardens — our Terrarium Workshop, thoughtfully designed to blend education with imagination. We begin with story-rich sessions that explore closed ecosystems — tiny green worlds that thrive without a single drop of outside help. Students dive into the science of balance, learning how plants breathe, how micro-life behaves, and how nature sustains itself inside a simple jar.

But the magic doesn't stop at theory.

In our hands-on DIY Terrarium Lab, each participant rolls up their sleeves to become a mini eco-architect — layering soils, choosing plants, and building their own sealed biosphere. From the right substrate mix to the quiet role of insects, they'll master the rhythm of harmony in nature.

This isn't just a workshop — it's an experience that plants seeds of sustainability, creativity, and ecological awareness in every young heart.

🧠 Workshop Flow:

- 🌍 Into the Ecosystem — The secret life of closed systems
- 🌱 Terrariums Explained — Purpose, power, and beauty
- 🍃 Plant Physiology — How life thrives in a glass world
- 🌿 Substrate Science — Ratios, layering, and growth hacks
- 🐞 Nature's Symphony — Insects + plants = balance
- 🛠️ DIY Terrarium Lab — Craft your green masterpiece

Let's grow a greener future — one jar at a time.
