Workshops & Seminars: High-impact training from global leaders and experts.

Night Socials: Unwind and bond with like-minded changemakers at exclusive social events.

Interactive Sessions: MUN simulations, leadership workshops, and creative campaigns to bring out your best.

What Will You Be Involved In?

Delegates at Youthalic are hands-on, active, and engaged in everything:

Global Change Projects: Create and implement social impact projects that directly influence communities.

MUN Conferences: Debate real-world issues, develop solutions, and create new pathways for global cooperation.

Creative Campaigns: Launch dynamic social awareness campaigns and start a movement for what matters.

What we do:

Helping lonely patients: We visit hospitals to provide companionship and support to patients who are alone. Our volunteers spend quality time with patients, offering a listening ear, engaging in conversations, and bringing a sense of comfort and joy to their lives.

Planting trees: We organize tree-planting drives to promote environmental sustainability. By planting trees in local communities, schools, and public spaces, we contribute to a greener, healthier planet for future generations.

Problem-Solving Initiatives: We identify pressing community issues and engage students in finding practical solutions. Through interactive sessions and discussions, we develop actionable plans and ensure their implementation, fostering a sense of responsibility and civic engagement among the youth.

Helping the Needy: Our team is dedicated to assisting those in need, whether it's through distributing food and clothing, providing educational support, or helping with everyday tasks. We believe in lending a hand to uplift our fellow community members.

Model United Nations (MUN) Events: We organize inter-school MUN events in various districts, providing students with a platform to develop their debating, leadership, and diplomatic skills. These events simulate the workings of the United Nations, encouraging students to engage in global issues and develop solutions through dialogue and negotiation.

youthalic's first mun

History was made with the very first Youthalic Model United Nations (MUN), held at Spring Days School in Vellore. Another 300 delegates, not only a landmark event but also an event worth celebrating as much, here for two days of diplomacy, critical thinking, and the empowerment of youth.

The event started with an opening ceremony where the very eminent Ms. Gayathiri Ekambaram delivered a keynote address as part of the inaugural functions. An accomplished legal practitioner, Ms. Gayathiri has pursued Advanced Studies in International Dispute Settlement, Leiden University, Netherlands, and worked at The Hague as a Judicial Fellow with the International Court of Justice. Ms. Gayathiri could be said to be a well-rounded legal professional specialized in constitutional law, international law, and human rights law; she stirred souls with focusing her discussion on global diplomatic challenges and then asking for the youth's pivotal role in reshaping the world's vision. The speech was indeed a clarion call to the younger population to nurture breakthrough innovations that would tackle problems of the future.

It was after this that the committee sessions got underway, getting the delegates to lively debate and argument over current world issues. The spirit of the United Nations came out in action, getting delegates to demonstrate their knowledge and negotiation, not forgetting their creativity and problem-solving abilities.

Day Two carried the forward momentum with committee sessions in the morning, ending with a grand closing ceremony. The high achievers in their respective committees were noted and honoured with awards, reinforcing the emphasis of the event towards excellence and achievement.

The participants of the ceremony thus left with speeches from the five directors of Youthalic – representing Communication, Finance, Conferences, and Social
