I now refer to a humorous situation that sounds like make-believe. An acquaintance of mine was called into court by one of the ABC "public service" administrative agencies to be cross-examined to discover information from him to be used against him. He was asked to take the witness stand. They asked him to raise his right hand after which the clerk of the court said, "Do you solemnly swear to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, so help you God?" He responded, "No, I do not!" Everyone in the court gasped. (Remember, the right to say "Yes" also includes the right to say "No!") The judge instructed the clerk to re-read the swearing-in again, supposing that he just did not understand the question. He responded the second time, "I heard you the first time, and my answer is, No, I do not!" You can imagine the uncomfortable and embarrassing situation into which this placed the judge. He asked why he would not swear to tell the truth, and he said, "The Bible says, 'Let God be true, but every man a liar,' " (referring to Rom. 3:4), and "I am a man, and a liar."

The judge came unglued and threatened him with jail if he did not swear to tell the truth. He responded,

"Judge, you asked me a straight-forward question requiring either a yes, or a no answer. I gave you a straight-forward answer to your question, and that was No, I do not. You can't say I did not answer your question, for I did answer it, but you just don't like my answer. If you didn't want to hear my answer, then don't ask me the question. And judge, on what basis do you threatened me with jail? Is it because I answered your question truthfully? Or is it because you wanted me to lie, and I didn't do it? Or is it because you believe I am lying to you when I tell you I am a man, and a liar?"

The judge threw him in jail for three days, after which he brought him forth to swear him in again. He said, "Judge, my answer to you is still the same as three days ago. I am still a man, and still a liar, and no amount of jail time can change that. The judge again threatened him with jail, to which he responded:

"On what basis do you threaten me with jail? Is it because I answered your question truthfully, and you want me to lie? Or is it because you believe I am lying to you when I tell you I am a man, and a liar?"

The system just does not know how to handle people who question the actions of government when all the government is only trying to get your approval to what they do to you. If you don't agree to the Contract Agreement, then they do you the favor of "agreeing" for you even if it is against your will, without consideration. As I say, this is not quite like you saying "I do" at the altar, but the judge spake and it was so.

Other examples are, when you are called to jury duty, the judge makes you raise your right hand and agree to follow the law as interpreted to you by the judge. But wait, it is not the judge or the jurors who are entitled to a jury trial, but the defendant who is constitutionally entitled to a fully informed and unencumbered jury which must judge on both the law and the facts. Here we have a judge seeking to induce the defendant's jurors to conspire with him against the defendant. How can the judge, in conspiracy with the jurors, lawfully agree to waive the rights of the defendant? They can't. It is the defendant that is entitled to a fair and impartial trial, "In all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy ... an impartial jury." Jurors who have been induced to conspire with the judge cannot possibly be "an impartial jury." Fifth Amendment, U.S. Constitution.

Then there are the various taxing agencies who want you to enter into a "Contract Agreement" with them. They kindly provide you with a pre-printed line on their forms to agree with their offer of a "Contract Agreement." But if you choose not to accept their offer, can one go to jail? Not constitutionally. However, they somehow want you to believe that if you do not accept their offer, then you are obligated to comply with their "Imposed Criminal Administrative Law," for after all, you don't want to go to jail because you violated the law.

Remember, anything that requires your signature, or a swearing thereto in order to give it application, is not law, but a contract. A contract must entail:

1. Being fully cognizant of all its terms.
2. Agreeing to all those terms.
3. Having equal right to say yes or no.
4. Offering you a consideration to which you would rather have than retaining your constitutional rights and saying no.
5. Being totally done without duress in any way.

Anything otherwise fails the test of a contract.

3.14 Personal Responsibility

All rights come from duties and all rights imply duties on your part. You can't have rights without accepting complete and exclusive responsibility for yourself. The following subsections will show why this is and also illustrate what happens to your rights when we refuse to accept personal responsibility and try to transfer it to the government.

3.14.1 We The People are the American Government

Nancy Levant

NewsWithViews.com

We, the citizens of the United States of America, ARE the American government. This Constitutional fact has been forcibly and underhandedly stolen from the conscious understand of the citizenry. We do not understand our Constitution. Most American people have never read the document.

For decades, the public school system has steadily removed the reading and study of the Constitution, and we now have a citizenry that is ignorant of their rights and responsibilities as American people. Equally, American students have never been taught the true meaning and history of Socialism, Marxism, Fascism, and Communism.

American people, minus older generations, are now a manufactured political body – one manufactured in the public school system and in American universities. They have never been privy to the knowledge that they are, according to the Constitution of the United States of America, themselves, the government. Instead, they have been manipulated into believing that once representatives are elected into power, those representatives ARE the power and must be believed and followed as elected powers. This misinterpretation of citizenship is the downfall of America as a sovereign nation and the downfall of freedom for American citizens. And this is why, at the end of 2005, the American people must read the Constitution, as families, and specifically to children of all ages. It's a small task and a small request. It's one dinner conversation, and I am asking all readers to take this request most seriously. We are at the end of the line. The last generation that has the intellectual ability to help to restore our government is aging. We MUST understand our Constitutional rights AND responsibilities AS DEFINED by our Constitution – THE DOCUMENT THAT ALL ELECTED ARE SWORN TO UPHOLD.

Once read, American people, including children, will realize that America IS the American people and so defined by that document. America IS NOT a government where decisions are made by elected representatives. THEY do not tell us what we are going to do. WE tell THEM what they are going to do. They have no power minus our dictates and decisions. But this is not the current state of affairs in this nation, and we have got to get the control of our government back into our hands. Also note that the current re-districting, called “regionalizing,” that is taking place in all states, is being implemented, specifically, to eliminate local governance and local voting. When “stakeholders” arrive in your neighborhoods, they are political decision makers who are “appointed” to power instead of “elected” into power. The new stakeholding/partnership bureaucracy is systematically taking your voting power from you. When you hear about “partnerships, visions, and/or stakeholders” in your neighborhoods, you better get out there and fight against their plans and that system. Its specific mission is to remove your vote from your community.

Our Constitution has been literally destroyed by a smoke screen – literally destroyed. The ideological intent of globalist-corporate special interest has been steadfastly erasing our rights, our intellectual understanding and potential, and our ability to recognize what is clearly a cultural-communistic revolution – one that, due to our ignorance, is taking place right beneath our noses. We have been re-trained and re-socialized into a compliant and debt-ridden workforce that serves corporate intention, and one that is afraid to think and act outside of corporate mandates.

We were manipulated into un-payable debt, and fear was the foundation of that education. While they dismembered our national intellect and placed the entire population into chronic debt, they layered fearsome, futuristic scenarios, one after another, upon our psyches. They then told us they could fix all problems via THEIR expertise and wisdom, and then proceeded to tell us what THEY intended to do. And now, we have a government, with their many new policing forces, that is set up to protect them from us.

Americans who believe in their Constitutional rights are now considered by our elected representatives to be “terrorists”. Americans who disagree with our elected are considered to be aiding the enemy. Our community police forces are being trained, as we speak, that we, the people of the United States of America, are terrorists. This begs the question of why, and who decided to have law abiding American people listed as potential threats – and threats to what?

When I hear “elected” representatives tell the American people what they are going to legislate, either through out-and-out disregard for the laws of this nation, or through Executive Orders that are Communistic by their very natures, I realize that our government has been seized, and that we, the people, are operating outside of our government. I realize that OUR government is now in the hands of what appears to be Bolshevik-style dictators. We are not being represented by anyone. We are being dictated to, and our Constitutional rights are being completely, 100% ignored.

You will find the following in the 2nd Amendment of our Constitution:

“A well regulated militia, being necessary to the security of a free state, the right of the people to keep and bear arms, shall not be infringed.”

Every year and for decades, our “elected” have attempted to slice and dice the 2nd Amendment. Let’s think about this. We are told, on a daily basis, that we are living in terror laden times, and that terrorism is right around our corners, in our neighborhoods, and that homeland “terrorism” is not “if” but “when.” We have politically dissolved international borders – all borders – that allow anyone from any country into our nation, day or night, 365 days a year. We have epidemic child kidnappings via the slave trade operating in the United States of America. How many children are missing from Katrina, and where are their bodies? We have a deployed American military that has been permanently deployed in “foreign” conflicts for nearly 100 years. Now, we have internationalized and trained, new breed policing forces EVERYWHERE in the U.S., and our “elected” continue to pick away at the 2nd Amendment, with the specific intent (and United Nations mandate) to disarm the masses.

So the question is this – if, as per our Constitution, a militia is necessary to the security of our states, why then aren’t state legislators reawakening and restoring the NEED for a well-regulated militia, which is REQUIRED by our Constitution to preserve freedom from tyranny? The 2nd Amendment is of far greater importance than simply the right to keep and bear arms. It demands that a fully armed population guards freedom from tyranny, including professional, corporate, political “ideological” tyranny. It was written to guard against overthrow. This is the overlooked meaning and intent of the 2nd Amendment. It is not simply the right to keep and bear. You must realize that the Constitutional right to keep and bear arms was written to ensure the freedom of each and every state in the United States of America. Each state was to have a well-organized militia to protect itself from tyrants – both foreign and domestic.

The massive web of international agreements, charters, and treaties, to which the American people were never privy, demonstrates that our elected leadership is running with ideological and political intentions of their own. They have violated the Constitution and their oaths of office ten thousand times and more, and the Judiciary is fully in compliance and following suit as it reinterprets and shreds the meaning and intent of OUR Constitution.

Do you want to see where America is headed? Type “Inter- American Democratic Charter” into your search engines. This charter, which was signed by the United States of America via the Organization of American States (www.oas.org), was adopted on September 11, 2001, in Peru. Read it! Your media didn’t report the adoption of this charter. Your politicians did not tell you about this charter.

Most importantly, read and understand Dr. Edwin Vieira, who can be found at NewsWithViews.com and via search engines. His understanding of Constitutional law is critical to all of us as a free people. He teaches us how to fight on the turf where this country’s decisions are made and how to re- Constitute the states’ militias, and understand this well: Dr. Vieira is not talking about “militias” as we now understand them – meaning radical fringe groups. He is talking about the Constitutional definition of militia, and the Constitutional REQUIREMENT that ALL people, in order to secure our states from foreign and domestic tyranny, be prepared to protect and defend Constitutionally guaranteed FREEDOM from conquering entities.

Here’s our assignment:

- Read, discuss, study, and debate YOUR Constitution and YOUR LAWFUL Constitutional rights as American people. This is a family assignment.
- Read the “Inter-American Democratic Charter” to see where we are headed under the direction of our “elected” representatives. I also strongly suggest that you read Agenda 21 (United Nations Agenda for the 21st Century). This document is what initiated the land grabbing by eco-land trust organizations, kick started the un-Constitutional abuse of Eminent Domain, and is the directorate document that has transformed the single-family household into “community” neighborhoods and landless living under corporate-political direction. Read, discuss, study, and debate the writings of Dr. Edwin Vieira. He has a plan to legally reinstate, through individual state legislatures, the Constitutional militia, as defined by American law. This may be the only real hope for a continuance of our law of the people, for the people, and by the people. We need help. Dr. Vieira is offering that help. If you are a patriot currently in office or intend to run for office, you need Dr. Vieira.

Our window of opportunity is waning. We, as united people, must get our government under our control or, guaranteed, we are going to lose it to a global and very elitist dictatorship, which THEY are calling a global democracy. The United States is not a democracy. All democracies, in all of history, have failed, and our Constitution was purposefully set up as a “Republic” and NOT a democracy. It’s time to take back our knowledge, which was stolen from us. It’s time to assert ourselves as the legitimate leaders of our government. Read, study, and pass all knowledge forward. This is our last chance. We’ve got to clean house in Congress, but we’ve got to know what to do once WE are back in power. WE are the United States of America – WE – the masses of the American people. The foreign-led aristocrats in office are on borrowed time. We are not outside of our government. We ARE our government, and we must step up to the plate before it’s too late.

3.14.2 The Unlimited Liability Universe

*“The hand of the diligent will rule,
But the lazy [or irresponsible] man will be forced labor.”
[Prov. 12:24, Bible, NKJV]*

In Section 3.10.5 entitled “Why All Man-Made Law is Religious In Nature”, we showed how the shift in our culture away from Biblical law has taken us down the path to “humanism”, which turns the “state” or government into a religion and a law system that eventually focuses itself on eradicating all other competing religions and law-systems in the society in order to ensure its own survival. Humanism is the worship of the “state” and it is the essence of socialism. Recall that a “state” is simply a collection of people within a political jurisdiction.

“State. A people permanently occupying a fixed territory bound together by common-law habits and custom into one body politic exercising, through the medium of an organized government, independent sovereignty and control over all persons and things within its boundaries, capable of making war and peace and of entering into international relations with other communities of the globe. United States v. Kusche, D.C.Cal., 56 F.Supp. 201 207, 208. The organization of social life which exercises sovereign power in behalf of the people. Delany v. Moralitis, C.C.A.Md., 136 F.2d. 129, 130. In its largest sense, a “state” is a body politic or a society of men. Beagle v. Motor Vehicle Acc. Indemnification Corp., 44 Misc.2d. 636, 254 N.Y.S.2d. 763, 765. A body of people occupying a definite territory and politically organized under one government. State ex re. Maisano v. Mitchell, 155 Conn. 256, 231 A.2d. 539, 542. A territorial unit with a distinct general body of law. Restatement, Second, Conflicts, §3. Term may refer either to body politic of a nation (e.g. United States) or to an individual government unit of such nation (e.g. California).”

[Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1407]

We will build on that theme in this section to show how the inexorable growth of the power and influence of the state and of humanism is perpetrated in our culture. Much of the content of this section derives once again from the excellent book The Institutes of Biblical Law, Rousas John Rushdoony, 1973, The Craig Press, Library of Congress Catalog Card Number 72-79485, pp. 664-669. The premise of this section is that the growth of humanism, socialism, and collectivism requires the government to exploit the weaknesses of the people. Thomas Jefferson warned us about this tendency of government, when he said:

“In every government on earth is some trace of human weakness, some germ of corruption and degeneracy, which cunning will discover, and wickedness insensibly open, cultivate and improve.”
[Thomas Jefferson: Notes on Virginia Q.XIV, 1782. ME 2:207]

The chief weakness that covetous governments have learned to exploit in order to expand their power is to appeal to people’s sinful need to avoid responsibility of all kinds and to thereby evade the consequence of their sinful, lazy, apathetic, and ignorant actions. People by nature are lazy and will always take the path of least resistance. They will often pay any price to evade responsibility for themselves and their actions, including giving up all their rights. In legal terms, the government therefore expands its power by:

1. Writing laws and creating programs that insulate people from responsibility for their actions and themselves.
2. Calling those who receive the benefit of these laws “privileged”
3. Instituting a tax on the “privileged” activities.
4. Persecuting those who speak out about the above types of exploitation.

In effect, the government “wolf” takes over the public fool (school) system, regulates the media, and coerces apathetic and cowardly employers everywhere into helping them manufacture “sheep” that it may devour and enslave.

“Most assuredly, I say to you, he who does not enter the sheepfold by the door, but climbs up some other way [using the Federal Reserve, the IRS, the media, and taking over the public schools], the same is a thief and a robber.”
[Jesus in John 10:1, Bible, NKJV]

“If you make yourselves sheep, the wolves will eat you.”
[Benjamin Franklin]

“A democracy is a sheep and two wolves deciding on what to have for lunch. Freedom is a well armed sheep contesting the results of the decision.”
[Benjamin Franklin]

[Tiberius Caesar]

These sheep are “preprogrammed” to be irresponsible, dependent on government, dysfunctional, ignorant, apathetic, and lazy. They are taught to evade personal responsibility for every aspect of their behavior. In short, their sin and violation of God’s laws has made them unable to govern or support themselves, and so they have given government the moral authority to step in as their “Parens Patriae”, or government parent, to take over their lives and become an agent of plunder to support their sinful and irresponsible lifestyle. These sheep are trained and conditioned by our government “servants”, like Pavlov’s dogs, to succumb to the enticements of an evil government (called a “Beast” in the book of Revelation in the Bible) by participating in and partaking of the benefits of socialism and in so doing, they surrender their sovereignty to the totalitarian democratic “collective”.

And leads him in a way that is not good
He winks his eye to devise perverse things;
He purses [covers] his lips [by not telling the whole truth] and brings about evil.”*
[Prov. 16:29-30, Bible, NKJV]

The brainwashed sheep are unwittingly recruited to join a mob full of treacherous socialists who want to plunder the rich by abusing their voting rights and their power sitting as a jurist. If a member of the flock of sheep balks at joining the socialist mob, they are censured and punished usually financially for being politically incorrect. They are denied a job or a socialist benefit and/or credit if they refuse to take the mark of the Beast, the Socialist Security Number, or refuse to fill out a W-4 to begin withholding taxes. Those who participate in this brand of socialism all share “one purse”, and make the government effectively into one big social insurance company to insulate themselves from responsibility for their own laziness, apathy, greed, and sin. The role of government in a republic then transitions from that of only protecting the people to that of punishing and plundering success while rewarding and encouraging failure. Here is how the Bible says we should view this, and note that it says this is “evil” and that we should not participate in it:

Avoid Bad Company

“My son, if sinners [socialists, in this case] entice you,
Do not consent
If they say, “Come with us,
Let us lie in wait to shed blood;
Let us lurk secretly for the innocent without cause;
Let us swallow them alive like Sheol,
And whole, like those who go down to the Pit:
We shall fill our houses with spoil [plunder];
Cast in your lot among us,
Let us all have one purse”--
My son, do not walk in the way with them,
Keep your foot from their path;
For their feet run to evil,
And they make haste to shed blood.
Surely, in vain the net is spread
In the sight of any bird;
But they lie in wait for their own blood.
They lurk secretly for their own lives.
So are the ways of everyone who is greedy for gain;
It takes away the life of its owners.”
[Proverbs 1:10-19, Bible, NKJV]

God, however, wants us to follow His sacred law, and the result of doing so makes government unnecessary, because we become self-governing and self-supporting and do not make government into a false god or become idolaters in the process:

*“He [God] brings the princes to nothing.
He makes the judges of the earth useless.”
[Isaiah 40:23, Bible, NKJV]*

*“How long will you slumber, O sluggard?
When will you rise from your sleep?
A little sleep, a little slumber,
A little folding of the hands to sleep--
So shall your poverty come on you like a prowler,
And your need like an armed man [from the government/IRS].”
[Prov. 6:9-11, Bible, NKJV]*

*“The hand of the diligent will rule,
But the lazy man will be put to forced labor [working for the government through income taxes].”
[Prov. 12:24, Bible, NKJV]*

After government has exploited our own sinfulness in this way so as to make us ripe for their political control, domination, and oppression, a huge monolithic government bureaucracy steps in as our “sugar daddy” or “Parens Patriae” and not only offers but demands to help us run our marriages, our financial affairs, our businesses, and forces us to pay taxes to support the infrastructure needed to do this. In many cases, they force us to pay for services and benefits that we don’t want! What business within a truly free economy could force you to buy or use their product other than a monopoly, and aren’t monopolies illegal under the Sherman Antitrust Act? Tyrants in government thereby appear to the ignorant and complacent masses of sheep as God’s avengers to “harvest” (STEAL) our property, our liberty, our labor, and everything else they covet and lust after, and we not only willingly accept their domination, but we beg for it by demanding ever more increasing amounts of “free” government services! The resulting evasion of responsibility and acquiescence to government usury by the sheep manifests itself in many forms, a few of which we have summarized below:

Table 3-10: The characteristics of the irresponsible and how the government panders to them

#	Type of irresponsibility	How the government and liberal culture exploits this form of irresponsibility for their own gain	How the churches reward and encourage this type of irresponsibility
1	Do not want to take responsibility for the consequences of their sin	Passing laws that legalize sinful behaviors. Promising to pass such laws during election time in order to curry favor with voters.	Smorgasbord religion. Pick the set of beliefs that best benefits you. Focus on “grace” and “love” absent an emphasis on obeying God’s laws.
2	Do not want to take responsibility for supporting themselves	Creating Social welfare programs such as Medicare, Welfare, Temporary Aid to Needy Families (TANF), food stamps.	Tithes the churches receive are supposed to be used for charity purposes but pastors jealously guard their contributions to maximize their “take”. Then they try to steer the sheep toward government entitlement programs to make up for their greed and their lack of charity.
3	Do not want to take responsibility for their sexual sin	Passes laws allowing children to get condoms in schools. Teaches sex education instead of abstinence in schools. Institutes “don’t ask don’t tell” policies in the military. Supreme court declaring abortion legal, which is the murder of defenseless children.	Churches look the other way when parishoners get abortions and do not protest the holocaust of abortion by participating in such things as Operation Rescue.
4	Do not want to take responsibility for making their marriage work	Offer marriage licenses that put family court judges in charge of you, your income, and all your assets.	Churches also demanding that their parishoners get a marriage license before they will officiate a ceremony. That way people getting married don’t become the churches problem, but instead can be handled by corrupted family courts.
5	Do not want to take responsibility for educating or raising their kids	Offer public schools, so that parents do not have to confederate and start private Christian schools to educate their children. Teaching the young sinful behaviors such as homosexuality, abortion, drugs so they make easy serfs of government. Showing them how to fill out income tax returns in high school before they even know how to balance a checkbook.	Pastors avoiding moral training in church, so that children growing up in single-parent families never learn how to govern themselves from their busy parents and must therefore depend on government to do for them what they cannot do for themselves.
6	Do not want to take responsibility for their retirement	Offer Socialist Security and federal retirement programs and do not offer employees the option of taking money earmarked for retirement and investing and controlling it themselves. This leaves large sums of money in control of the government, which they then use as a carrot to force you to pay income taxes because if you don’t, they will turn it over to the IRS.	Not warning people that they should not depend on government and that they should take 100% responsibility for themselves.
7	Do not want to tithe to their church	Federal subsidies for charities, which carry with it the requirement for the churches to not criticize government or oppose its illegal enforcement of income tax code. Example: President Bush’s faith-based initiative.	Pastors not chastising parishoners who do not tithe for their greed and robbery of God, for fear of scaring away the sheep. Pastors ingratiating or poaching generous parishoners (sheep) from other churches to join their church.
8	Do not want to take responsibility for bad business decisions	Creating a privileged status called “corporations”, in which liability for wrongdoing is limited. This encourages reckless investment, bad business practices, and corruption like we have been seeing lately with Enron, Worldcom, etc. Income taxes on corporations then, amount essentially to “liability insurance”.	Not censuring or excommunicating those in the congregation who have committed civil crimes involving business corruption and refuse to repent.
9	Do not want to take responsibility for hurting others in the process of operating a motor vehicle	Government passes laws forcing people to have insurance in order to have the “privilege” of driving.

The ultimate result of the universal and complete adoption of the above concepts is as follows, which is a parody of the content of the Bible, Psalm 23:

Democrat’s 23rd Psalm

*The government is my Shepherd, therefore I shall not work.
It alloweth me to lie down on a good job.
It leadeth me beside still factories;
it destroyeth my initiative,
It leadeth me in the path of a parasite for politic’s sake.*

*Yea, though I walk through the valley of laziness and deficit spending,
I will fear no evil, for the government is with me.*

It prepareth an economic Utopia for me,
by borrowing from future generations.
It filleth my head with false security;
my inefficiency runneth over.

Surely the government should take care of me all the days of my life!
And I will dwell in a welfare state forever and ever.

In the legal field, the process of evading responsibility is called “avoiding liability”. Amazingly, the government openly admits that it is one big insurance company which exists to insulate people from all types of liability! Here is what one Congressman said during the Congressional debates on the Sixteenth Amendment, which is the income tax amendment:

“M. Thiers, the great French statesman, says, ‘a tax paid by a citizen to his government is like a premium paid by the insured to the insurance company, and should be in proportion to the amount of property insured in one case and the other to the amount of property protected or defended [or managed] by the government.’”

The natural consequence of the logic of the quote above is that the less responsibility and liability we are willing to assume for ourselves, the greater will be our tax rate and the corresponding slavery to government that goes with it. If you trace the percentage of the average American family’s income which goes to pay state and federal taxes over the last 100 years, we can see in numerical terms the shift away from personal responsibility and the rise of the “collective” as the sovereign in our society. This information reveals how we have abandoned the original Constitutional Republican model based on faith and personal responsibility, and gradually drifted to a socialist/humanistic economy like most of the rest of the nations in the world. God warned us that this would happen but we simply refuse to heed Him because of the hedonistic stupor our government has put us into by bribing us with “free” government benefits and programs subsidized with STOLEN loot through illegally enforcing the income tax code:

“And they rejected His statutes and His covenant that He had made with their fathers, and His testimonies [His Law/Bible] which He had testified against them; they followed [government] idols, became idolaters, and went after the nations who were all around them, concerning whom the LORD had charged them that they should not do like them. So they left all the commandments of the LORD their God, made for themselves a molded image and two calves, made a wooden image and worshiped all the host of heaven, and served Baal. And they caused their sons and daughters to pass through the fire, practiced witchcraft and soothsaying, and sold themselves [through usurious taxes] to do evil in the sight of the LORD, to provoke Him to anger. Therefore the LORD was very angry with Israel, and removed them from His sight; there was none left but the tribe of Judah alone.”
[2 Kings 17:15-18, Bible, NKJV]

One congressman has actually quantified this shift from personal to collective responsibility in a wonderful article entitled “The Coming Crisis: How Government Dependency Threatens America’s Freedom” available on the Internet at:

Governments therefore know that people don’t want to have to accept responsibility or liability and they use this sinful human tendency to expand their power and revenues by transferring responsibility to themselves. The transfer of responsibility from us as individuals to the government cannot occur, however, without a transfer of sovereignty with it. Sovereignty and dependency are mutually exclusive. The buck has to stop somewhere, and when we won’t take responsibility for ourselves, we have to surrender sovereignty to the collective democracy, and this eventually leads to socialism and humanism. This abdication of our responsibilities also amounts to a violation of God’s laws. Christians have a MUCH higher calling with their God than simply to depend on a bloated and evil socialist government to subsidize their idleness and hedonism with funds that were stolen from their brother through illegal extortion and constructive fraud:

“You shall not follow a crowd to do evil; nor shall you testify in a dispute so as to turn aside after many to pervert justice.”
[Exodus 23:2, Bible, NKJV]

“Now about brotherly love we do not need to write to you, for you yourselves have been taught by God to love each other. And in fact, you do love all the brothers throughout Macedonia. Yet we urge you, brothers, to do so more and more.

"Make it your ambition to lead a quiet life, to mind your own business and to work with your hands, just as we told you, so that your daily life may win the respect of outsiders and so that you will not be dependent on anybody."

[1 Thess. 4:9-12, Bible, NIV]

There is nothing new to this government approach of encouraging irresponsibility and indemnifying a person from liability for their own sinful actions. Government is simply imitating God's approach. Throughout the Bible, God warns us that we will be held personally liable for all of our choices and actions. That liability will occur on judgment day:

"And as it is appointed for men to die once, but after this the judgment, so Christ was offered once to bear the sins of many. To those who eagerly wait for Him He will appear a second time, apart from sin, for salvation. For the law, having a shadow of the good things to come, and not the very image of the things, can never with these same sacrifices, which they offer continually year by year, make those who approach perfect [in the sight of God]"

[Hebrews 9:27-28, 10:1, Bible, NKJV]

Here you can see that God is talking about final judgment for our actions and choices, and He is implying that unless we are perfect in His eyes at that judgment, then we are condemned. However, God is also promising indemnification from personal liability, which here is called "salvation" to those who "eagerly wait for Him". Faith in and obedience to Christ is basically being offered here as an insurance policy against the final judgment and wrath of God. That obedience manifests itself in following the two great commandments that Christ revealed to us in Mark 12:28-33:

Then one of the scribes came, and having heard them reasoning together, perceiving that He had answered them well, asked Him, "Which is the first commandment of all?"

Jesus answered him, "The first of all the commandments is: 'Hear, O Israel, the LORD our God, the LORD is one. And you shall love the LORD your God with all your heart, with all your soul, with all your mind, and with all your strength. This is the first commandment. And the second, like it, is this: 'You shall love your neighbor as yourself. There is no other commandment greater than these.'"

So the scribe said to Him, "Well said, Teacher. You have spoken the truth, for there is one God, and there is no other but He. And to love Him with all the heart, with all the understanding, with all the soul, and with all the strength, and to love one's neighbor as oneself, is more than all the whole burnt offerings and sacrifices."

[Mark 12:28-33, Bible, NKJV]

"For all the law is fulfilled in one word, even in this: 'You shall love your neighbor as yourself.'"

[Gal 5:14, Bible, NKJV]

The important thing to remember is that there is a BIG difference between man's and God's approach toward encouraging people to avoid liability. Faith produces salvation and indemnification because it makes us appear "perfect" in God's eyes, but it does not relieve us from personal liability for obeying God's laws.

Faith Without Works Is Dead

What does it profit, my brethren, if someone says he has faith but does not have works? Can faith save him? If a brother or sister is naked and destitute of daily food, and one of you says to them, "Depart in peace, be warmed and filled," but you do not give them the things which are needed for the body, what does it profit? Thus also faith by itself, if it does not have works, is dead.

*But someone will say, "You have faith, and I have works." Show me your faith without your works, and I will show you my faith by my works. You believe that there is one God. You do well. Even the demons believe--and tremble! But do you want to know, O foolish man, that faith without works is dead? Was not Abraham our father justified by works when he offered Isaac his son on the altar? Do you see that faith was working together with his works, and by works faith was made perfect? And the Scripture was fulfilled which says, "Abraham believed God, and it was accounted to him for righteousness." And he was called the friend of God. You see then that a man is justified by works, and not by faith only.

Likewise, was not Rahab the harlot also justified by works when she received the messengers and sent them out another way?

For as the body without the spirit is dead, so faith without works is dead also.

[James 2:14-26, Bible, NKJV]

Faith in God does not allow us to avoid the final judgment, but our works provide evidence of our faith and obedience at that judgment. The final judgment is like a court trial. With no admissible evidence of our faith at this trial, we will be convicted of our sin and suffer God's wrath.

"Then I saw a great throne and Him who sat on it, from whose face the earth and the heaven fled away. And there was found no place for them.

"And I saw the dead, small and great, standing before God, and books were opened. And another book was opened, which is the Book of Life. And the dead were judged according to their works, by the things which were written in the books.

"The sea gave up the dead who were in it, and Death and Hades delivered up the dead who were in them. And they were judged, each one according to his works.

"Then Death and Hades were cast into the lake of fire. This is the second death.

"And anyone not found written in the Book of Life was cast into the lake of fire."
[Revelation 20:11-15, Bible, NKJV]

The purpose of God's law is to teach us how to love God and our neighbor (see the Ten Commandments in Exodus 20). The Bible says that obedience to God's laws even after we profess faith is still mandatory:

"Not everyone who says to Me, 'Lord Lord,' shall enter the kingdom of heaven, but he who does the will of My Father in heaven."
[Matt. 7:21, Bible, NKJV]

"But whoever keeps His word, truly the love of God is perfected in him. By this we know that we are in Him."
[1 John 2:5, Bible, NKJV]

"For this is the love of God, that we keep His commandments. And His commandments are not burdensome."
[1 John 5:3, Bible, NKJV]

"Therefore, to him who knows to do good and does not DO it, to him it is sin."
[James 4:17, Bible, NKJV]

"Blessed are those who do His commandments, that they may have the right to the tree of life, and may enter through the gates into the city."
[Rev. 22:14; Bible, NKJV]

"But he who looks into the perfect law of liberty and continues in it, and is not a forgetful hearer but a DOER of the work, this one will be blessed in what he does."
[James 1:25, Bible, NKJV]

The government, on the other hand, tells us that we can be criminals under God's law and avoid liability and responsibility for our sins on earth as long as we join the "collective" and worship the politicians and the government as our false god by surrendering control over our earnings from labor to that god in the form of income taxes. Basically, we have to serve the government with our labor, and the Bible calls that kind of servitude "worship". Below is an excerpt from the Ten Commandments demonstrating this:

"You shall have no other gods before Me.

"You shall not make for yourself a carved image--any likeness of anything that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth; you shall not bow down to them nor serve [worship] them. For I, the LORD your God, am a jealous God, visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children to the third and fourth generations of those who hate Me,⁵ but showing mercy to thousands, to those who love Me and keep My commandments."

That false government promise of no liability for sin was the same promise that Satan made when he tempted the first sinner, Eve. Satan promised Eve that if she sinned by eating the forbidden fruit of the tree, then she would not suffer the consequence of death promised by God. Remember that the Bible says “The wages of sin is death” (Romans 6:23) and Satan lied when he promised Eve that she would not die. In short, there would be no liability for her violation of God’s law and instead, she would be a “god” herself:

Then the serpent said to the woman, “You will not surely die [no liability]. For God knows that in the day you eat of it your eyes will be opened, and you will be like God, knowing good and evil.”
 [Genesis 3:4-5; Bible, NKJV]

In a “collective” form of government such as a democracy, the “collective” is the false god to be worshipped. That collective is called the “state” in legal terms. When we join that collective, we become like a god, and share in the unjust authority and power that it has. That unjust authority expresses itself through the abuse of voting rights and jury service in a way that actually injures our neighbor and offends God because it attempts to indemnify us from the consequences and liability for our sin and irresponsibility.

A limited liability company is one in which the liability of each shareholder is limited to the amount of his shares or stocks, or to a sum fixed by guarantee called “limited liability guarantee”. The purpose of limited liability laws is to limit responsibility. Although the ostensible purpose is to protect the shareholders, the practical effect is to limit their responsibility and therefore encourage recklessness in investment. A limited liability economy is socialistic. By seeking to protect people, a limited liability economy merely transfers responsibility away from the people to the state, where “central government planning” supposedly obviates personal responsibility. Limited liability encourages people to take chances with limited risks, and to sin economically without paying the price. Limited liability laws rest on the fallacy that payment for economic sins need not be made. In actuality, payment is simply transferred to others. Limited liability laws were unpopular in earlier, Christian eras but have flourished in the Darwinian world. They rest on important religious presuppositions.

In a statement central to his account, C.S. Lewis described his preference, prior to his conversion to Christianity, for a materialistic, atheistic universe. The advantages of such a world are the very limited demands it makes on a man.

To such a craven and materialist’s universe has the enormous attraction that it offered you limited liabilities. No strictly infinite disaster could overtake you in it. Death ended all. And if ever finite disasters proved greater than one wished to bear, suicide would always be possible. The horror of the Christian universe was that it had no door marked Exit...But, of course, what mattered most of all was my deep-seated hatred of authority, my monstrous individualism, my lawlessness. No word in my vocabulary expressed deeper hatred than the word Interference. But Christianity placed at the center what then seemed to me a transcendental Interferer. If this picture were true then no sort of “treaty with reality” could ever be possible. There was no region even in the innermost depth of one’s soul (nay, there least of all) which one could surround with a barbed wire fence and guard with a notice of No Admittance. And that was what I wanted; some area, however small, of which I could say to all other beings, “This is my business and mine only.”¹⁰⁰

This is an excellent summation of the matter. The atheist wants a limited liability universe, and he seeks to create a limited liability political and economic order. The more socialistic he becomes, the more he demands a maximum advantage and a limited liability from his social order, an impossibility.

In reality, living with the fact that the universe and our world carry always unlimited liabilities is the best way to assure security and advantage. To live with reality, and to seek progress within its framework, is man’s best security.

The curses and the blessings of the law stress man’s unlimited liability to both curses and blessings as a result of disobedience or obedience to the law. In Deuteronomy 28:2 and 15, we are told that the curses and blessings come upon us and “overtake” us. Man cannot step outside of the world of God’s consequence. At every moment and at every point man is overtaken, surrounded, and totally possessed by the unlimited liability of God’s universe.

Man seeks to escape this unlimited liability either through a denial of the true God, or by a pseudo-acceptance which denies the meaning of God. In atheism, the attitude of man is well summarized by William Ernest Henley’s poem, “Invictus.” Henley boasted of his “unconquerable soul” and declared, ¹⁰⁰ C.S. Lewis, Surprised by Joy (New York: Harcourt, Brace, 1956), p. 171 f.

*I am the master of my fate;
I am the captain of my soul*

Not surprisingly, the poem has been very popular with immature and rebellious adolescents.

Pseudo-acceptance, common to mysticism, pietism, and pseudo evangelicals, claims to have "accepted Christ" while denying His law. One college youth, very much given to evangelizing everyone in sight, not only denied the law as an article of his faith, in speaking to this writer, but went further. Asked if he would approve of young men and women working in a house of prostitution as whores and pimps to convert the inmates, he did not deny this as a valid possibility. He went on to affirm that many of his friends were converting girls and patrons wholesale by invading the houses to evangelize one and all. He also claimed wholesale conversion of homosexuals, but he could cite no homosexuals who ceased the practice after their conversion; nor any whores or their patrons who left the houses with their "evangelizers." Such lawless "evangelism" is only blasphemy.

In the so-called "Great Awakening" in colonial New England, antinomianism, chiliasm, and false perfectionism went hand in hand. Many of these "holy ones" forsook their marriage for adulterous relations, denied the law, and claimed immediate perfection and immortality.¹⁰¹

What such revivalism and pietism espouses is a limited liability universe in God's name. It is thus atheism under the banner of Christ. It claims freedom from God's sovereignty and denies predestination. It denies the law, and it denies the validity of the curses and blessings of the law. Such a religion is interested only in what it can get out of God: hence, "grace" is affirmed, and "love," but not the law, nor God's sovereign power and decree. But smorgasbord religion is only humanism, because it affirms the right of man to pick and choose what he wants; as the ultimate arbiter of his fate, man is made captain of his soul, with an assist from God. Pietism thus offers limited liability religion, not Biblical faith.

According to Heer, the medieval mystic Eckhart gave to the soul a "sovereign majesty together with God. The next step was taken by the disciple, Johnannes of Star Alley, who asked if the word of the soul was not as mighty as the word of the Heavenly Father."¹⁰² In such a faith, the new sovereign is man, and unlimited liability is in process of being transferred to God.

In terms of the Biblical doctrine of God, absolutely no liabilities are involved in the person and work of the Godhead. God's eternal decree and sovereign power totally govern and circumscribe all reality, which is His creation. Because man is a creature, man faces unlimited liability; his sins have temporal and eternal consequences, and he cannot at any point escape God. Van Til has summed up the matter powerfully:

The main point is that if man could look anywhere and not be confronted with the revelation of God then he could not sin in the Biblical sense of the term. Sin is the breaking of the law of God. God confronts man everywhere. He cannot in the nature of the case confront man anywhere if he does not confront him everywhere. God is one; the law is one. If man could press one button on the radio of his experience and not hear the voice of God then he would always press that button and not the others. But man cannot even press the button of his own self-consciousness without hearing the requirement of God.¹⁰³

But man wants to reverse this situation. Let God be liable, if He fails to deliver at man's request. Let man declare that his own experience pronounces himself to be saved, and then he can continue his homosexuality or work in a house of prostitution, all without liability. Having pronounced the magic formula, "I accept Jesus Christ as my personal lord and savior," man then transfers almost all the liability to Christ and can sin without at most more than a very limited liability. Christ cannot be accepted if His sovereignty, His law, and His word are denied. To deny the law is to accept a works religion, because it means denying God's sovereignty and assuming man's existence in independence of God's total law and government. In a world where God functions only to remove the liability of hell, and no law governs man, man works his own way through life by his own conscience. Man is saved, in such a world, by his own work of faith, of accepting Christ, not by Christ's sovereign acceptance of him. Christ said, "Ye have not chosen me, but I have chosen you" (John 15:16). The pietist insists that he has chosen Christ; it is his work, not Christ's. Christ, in such a faith, serves as an insurance agent, as a guarantee against liabilities, not as sovereign lord. This is paganism in Christ's name.

In paganism, the worshipper was not in existence. Man did not worship the pagan deities, nor did services of worship occur. The temple was open every day as a place of business. The pagan entered the temple and bought the protection of a god by a gift or offering. If the god failed him, he thereafter sought the services of another. The pagan's quest was for an insurance, for limited liability and unlimited blessings, and, as the sovereign believer, he shopped around for the god who offered the most. Pagan religion was thus a transaction, and, as in all business transactions, no certainty was involved. The gods could not always deliver, but man's hope was that, somehow, his liabilities would be limited.

The "witness" of pietism, with its "victorious living," is to a like limited liability religion. A common "witness" is, "Praise the Lord, since I accepted Christ, all my troubles are over and ended." The witness of Job in his suffering was, "Though he slay me, yet will I trust him" (Job 13:15). St. Paul recited the long and fearful account of his sufferings after accepting Christ: in prison, beaten, shipwrecked, stoned, betrayed, "in hunger and thirst,...in cold and nakedness" (II Cor. 11:23-27). Paul's was not a religion of limited liability nor of deliverance from all troubles because of his faith.

The world is a battlefield, and there are casualties and wounds in battle, but the battle is the Lord's and its end is victory. To attempt an escape from the battle is to flee from the liabilities of warfare against sinful men for battle with an angry God. To face the battle is to suffer the penalties of man's wrath and the blessings of God's grace and law.

Apart from Jesus Christ, men are judicially dead, i.e., under a death sentence, before God, no matter how moral their works. With regeneration, the beginning of true life, man does not move out from under God's unlimited liability. Rather, with regeneration, man moves from the world of unlimited liability under the curse, to the world of unlimited liability under God's blessings. The world and man were cursed when Adam and Eve sinned, but, in Jesus Christ, man is blessed, and the world progressively reclaimed and redeemed for Him. In either case, the world is under God's law. Blessings and curses are thus inseparable from God's law and are simply different relationships to it.

Men inescapably live in a world of unlimited liability, but with a difference. The covenant-breaker, at war with God and unregenerate, has an unlimited liability for the curse. Hell is the final statement of that unlimited liability. The objections to hell, and the attempts to reduce it to a place of probation or correction, are based on a rejection of unlimited liability. But the unregenerate has, according to Scripture, an unlimited liability to judgment and the curse. On the other hand, the regenerate man, who walks in obedience to Jesus Christ, his covenant head, has a limited liability to judgment and the curse. The unlimited liability of God's wrath was assumed for the elect by Jesus Christ upon the cross. The regenerate man is judged for his transgressions of the law of God, but his liability here is a limited one, whereas his liability for blessings in this life and in heaven are unlimited. The unregenerate can experience a limited measure of blessing in this life, and none in the world to come; they have at best a limited liability for blessing.

Man thus cannot escape an unlimited liability universe. The important question is this: in which area is he exposed to unlimited liability, to an unlimited liability to the curse because of his separation from God, or to an unlimited liability to blessing because of his faith in, union with, and obedience to Jesus Christ?

Along the lines of this section, a reader sent us the following poem which summarizes why our lives will amount to nothing if we do not accept personal responsibility for ourself and learn to accept the unlimited liability that God bestowed upon us as part of his death sentence for our disobedience in the book of Genesis:

Risk..

To weep... is to risk appearing sentimental,

To hope... is to risk despair,

To reach out for another... is to risk involvement,

*To try...
is to risk failure,*

To expose feelings... is to risk exposing your true self,

To place your ideas, your dreams before the crowd...
is to risk their loss,

To love is to risk... not being loved in return,

To live...
is to risk dying,

But risks must be taken because the greatest hazard in life, is to risk nothing.

The person who risks nothing, does nothing, has nothing, and is nothing. They may avoid suffering and sorrow, but they cannot learn, feel, change, grow, love, and live. Chained by their certitudes, they are a slave, they have forfeited their freedom.

Only a person who risks.

3.14.3 “Public” v. “Private” employment: You will be ILLEGALLY Treated as a Public Officer if you Apply for or Receive Government “Benefits”¹⁰⁴

“All systems either of preference or of restraint, therefore, being thus completely taken away, the obvious and simple system of natural liberty establishes itself of its own accord. Every man, as long as he does not violate the laws of justice, is left perfectly free to pursue his own interest his own way, and to bring both his industry and capital into competition with those of any other man or order of men. The sovereign is completely discharged from a duty, in the attempting to perform which he must always be exposed to innumerable delusions, and for the proper performance of which no human wisdom or knowledge could ever be sufficient: the duty of superintending the industry of private people.”

The U.S. Supreme Court has said many times that the ONLY purpose for lawful, constitutional taxation is to collect revenues to support ONLY the machinery and operations of the government and its “employees”. This purpose, it calls a “public use” or “public purpose”:

“The power to tax is, therefore, the strongest, the most pervading of all powers of government, reaching directly or indirectly to all classes of the people. It was said by Chief Justice Marshall, in the case of McCulloch v. Md., 4 Wheat. 431, that the power to tax is the power to destroy. A striking instance of the truth of the proposition is seen in the fact that the existing tax of ten per cent, imposed by the United States on the circulation of all other banks than the National Banks, drove out of existence every *state bank of circulation within a year or two after its passage. This power can be readily employed against one class of individuals and in favor of another, so as to ruin the one class and give unlimited wealth and prosperity to the other, if there is no implied limitation of the uses for which the power may be exercised.

To lay, with one hand, the power of the government on the property of the citizen, and with the other to bestow it upon favored individuals to aid private enterprises and build up private fortunes, is none the less a robbery because it is done under the forms of law and is called taxation. This is not legislation. It is a decree under legislative forms.

Nor is it taxation. ‘A tax,’ says Webster’s Dictionary, ‘is a rate or sum of money assessed on the person or property of a citizen by government for the use of the nation or State.’ ‘Taxes are burdens or charges imposed by the Legislature upon persons or property to raise money for public purposes.’ Cooley, Const. Lim., 479.

Coulter, J., in Northern Liberties v. St. John’s Church, 13 Pa.St., 104 says, very forcibly, ‘I think the common mind has everywhere taken in the understanding that taxes are a public imposition, levied by authority of the government for the purposes of carrying on the government in all its machinery and operations—that they are imposed for a public purpose.’ See, also Pray v. Northern Liberties, 31 Pa.St., 69; Matter of Mayor of N.Y., 11 Johns., 77; Camden v. Allen, 2 Dutch., 398; Sharpless v. Mayor, supra; Hanson v. Vernon, 27 Ia., 47; Whiting v. Fond du Lac, supra.”

"A tax, in the general understanding of the term and as used in the constitution, signifies an exaction for the support of the government. The word has never thought to connote the expropriation of money from one group for the benefit of another."
 [U.S. v. Butler, 297 U.S. 1 (1936)]

Black's Law Dictionary defines the word "public purpose" as follows:

"Public purpose. In the law of taxation, eminent domain, etc., this is a term of classification to distinguish the objects for which, according to settled usage, the government is to provide, from those which, by the like usage, are left to private interest, inclination, or liberality. The constitutional requirement that the purpose of any tax, police regulation, or particular exertion of the power of eminent domain shall be the convenience, safety, or welfare of the entire community and not the welfare of a specific individual or class of persons [such as, for instance, federal benefit recipients as individuals]. "Public purpose" that will justify expenditure of public money generally means such an activity as will serve as benefit to community as a body and which at same time is directly related function of government. Pack v. Southwestern Bell Tel. & Tel. Co., 215 Tenn. 503, 387 S.W.2d. 789, 794.

The term is synonymous with governmental purpose. As employed to denote the objects for which taxes may be levied, it has no relation to the urgency of the public need or to the extent of the public benefit which is to follow; the essential requisite being that a public service or use shall affect the inhabitants as a community, and not merely as individuals. A public purpose or public business has for its objective the promotion of the public health, safety, morals, general welfare, security, prosperity, and contentment of all the inhabitants or residents within a given political division, as, for example, a state, the sovereign powers of which are exercised to promote such public purpose or public business."

A related word defined in Black's Law Dictionary is "public use":

Public use. Eminent domain. The constitutional and statutory basis for taking property by eminent domain. For condemnation purposes, "public use" is one which confers some benefit or advantage to the public; it is not confined to actual use by public. It is measured in terms of right of public to use proposed facilities for which condemnation is sought and, as long as public has right of use, whether exercised by one or many members of public, a "public advantage" or "public benefit" accrues sufficient to constitute a public use. Montana Power Co. v. Bokma, Mont., 457 P.2d. 769, 772, 773.

Public use, in constitutional provisions restricting the exercise of the right to take property in virtue of eminent domain, means a use concerning the whole community distinguished from particular individuals. But each and every member of society need not be equally interested in such use, or be personally and directly affected by it; if the object is to satisfy a great public want or exigency, that is sufficient. Ringe Co. v. Los Angeles County, 262 U.S. 700, 43 S.Ct. 689, 692, 67 L.Ed. 1186. The term may be said to mean public usefulness, utility, or advantage, or what is productive of general benefit. It may be limited to the inhabitants of a small or restricted locality, but must be in common, and not for a particular individual. The use must be a needful one for the public, which cannot be surrendered without obvious general loss and inconvenience. A "public use" for which land may be taken defies absolute definition for it changes with varying conditions of society, new appliances in the sciences, changing conceptions of scope and functions of government, and other differing circumstances brought about by an increase in population and new modes of communication and transportation. Katz v. Brandon, 156 Conn. 521, 245 A.2d. 579, 586.

See also Condemnation; Eminent domain.
 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1232]

Black's Law Dictionary also defines the word "tax" as follows:

"Tax: A charge by the government on the income of an individual, corporation, or trust, as well as the value of an estate or gift. The objective in assessing the tax is to generate revenue to be used for the needs of the public.

A pecuniary [relating to money] burden laid upon individuals or property to support the government, and is a payment exacted by legislative authority. In re Mytinger, D.C.Tex. 31 F.Supp. 977,978,979. Essential characteristics of a tax are that it is NOT A VOLUNTARY PAYMENT OR DONATION, BUT AN ENFORCED CONTRIBUTION, EXACTED PURSUANT TO LEGISLATIVE AUTHORITY. Michigan Employment Sec. Commission v. Patt, 4 Mich.App. 228, 144 N.W.2d. 663, 665. ..."

[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1457]

So in order to be legitimately called a “tax” or “taxation”, the money we pay to the government must fit all of the following criteria:

1. The money must be used ONLY for the support of government.
2. The subject of the tax must be “liable”, and responsible to pay for the support of government under the force of law.
3. The money must go toward a “public purpose” rather than a “private purpose”.
4. The monies paid cannot be described as wealth transfer between two people or classes of people within society
5. The monies paid cannot aid one group of private individuals in society at the expense of another group, because this violates the concept of equal protection of law for all citizens found in section 1 of the Fourteenth Amendment.

If the monies demanded by government do not fit all of the above requirements, then they are being used for a “private” purpose and cannot be called “taxes” or “taxation”, according to the Supreme Court. Actions by the government to enforce the payment of any monies that do not meet all the above requirements can therefore only be described as:

1. Theft and robbery by the government in the guise of “taxation”
2. Government by decree rather than by law
3. Extortion under the color of law in violation 18 U.S.C. §872.
4. Tyranny
5. Socialism
6. Mob rule and a tyranny by the “have-nots” against the “haves”
7. 18 U.S.C. §241: Conspiracy against rights. The IRS shares tax return information with states of the union, so that both of them can conspire to deprive you of your property.
8. 18 U.S.C. §242: Deprivation of rights under the color of law. The Fifth Amendment says that people in states of the Union cannot be deprived of their property without due process of law or a court hearing. Yet, the IRS tries to make it appear like they have the authority to just STEAL these people’s property for a fabricated tax debt that they aren’t even legally liable for.
9. 18 U.S.C. §247: Damage to religious property; obstruction of persons in the free exercise of religious beliefs
10. 18 U.S.C. §872: Extortion by officers or employees of the United States.
11. 18 U.S.C. §876: Mailing threatening communications. This includes all the threatening notices regarding levies, liens, and idiotic IRS letters that refuse to justify why government thinks we are “liable”.
12. 18 U.S.C. §880: Receiving the proceeds of extortion. Any money collected from Americans through illegal enforcement actions and for which the contributors are not “liable” under the law is extorted money, and the IRS is in receipt of the proceeds of illegal extortion.
13. 18 U.S.C. §1581: Peonage, obstructing enforcement. IRS is obstructing the proper administration of the Internal Revenue Code and the Constitution, which require that they respect those who choose NOT to volunteer to participate in the federal donation program identified under I.R.C., Subtitle A
14. 18 U.S.C. §1583: Enticement into slavery. IRS tries to enlist “nontaxpayers” to rejoin the ranks of other peons who pay taxes they aren’t demonstrably liable for, which amount to slavery.
15. 18 U.S.C. §1589: Forced labor. Being forced to expend one’s personal time responding to frivolous IRS notices and pay taxes on my labor that I am not liable for.

The U.S. Supreme Court has further characterized all efforts to abuse the tax system in order to accomplish “wealth transfer” as “political heresy” that is a denial of republican principles that form the foundation of our Constitution, when it issued the following strong words of rebuke. Incidentally, the case below also forms the backbone of reasons why the Internal Revenue Code can never be anything more than private law that only applies to those who volunteer into it:

*“The Legislature may enjoin, permit, forbid, and punish; they may declare new crimes; and establish rules of conduct for all its citizens in future cases; they may command what is right, and prohibit what is wrong; but they [the government] cannot change innocence [a “nontaxpayer”] into guilt [a “taxpayer”]; or punish innocence as a crime [criminally prosecute a “nontaxpayer” for violation of the tax laws]; or violate the right of an antecedent lawful private contract; or the right of private property. To maintain that our Federal, or State, Legislature possesses such powers [of THEFT and FRAUD], if they had not been expressly restrained; would, 389 in my opinion, be a political heresy, altogether inadmissible in our free republican governments.”

We also cannot assume or suppose that our government has the authority to make “gifts” of monies collected through its taxation powers, and especially not when paid to private individuals or foreign countries because:

1. The Constitution DOES NOT authorize the government to “gift” money to anyone within states of the Union or in foreign countries, and therefore, this is not a Constitutional use of public funds, nor does unauthorized expenditure of such funds produce a tangible public benefit, but rather an injury, by forcing those who do not approve of the gift to subsidize it and yet not derive any personal benefit whatsoever for it.
2. The Supreme Court identifies such abuse of taxing powers as “robbery in the name of taxation” above.

Based on the foregoing analysis, we are then forced to divide the monies collected by the government through its taxing powers into only two distinct classes. We also emphasize that every tax collected and every expenditure originating from the tax paid MUST fit into one of the two categories below:

Table 3-11: Two methods for taxation

#	Characteristic	Public use/purpose	Private use/purpose
1	Authority for tax	U.S. Constitution	Legislative fiat, tyranny
2	Monies collected described by Supreme Court as	Legitimate taxation	“Robbery in the name of taxation” (see Loan Assoc. v. Topeka , above)
3	Money paid only to following parties	Federal “employees”, contractors, and agents	Private parties with no contractual relationship or agency with the government
4	Government that practices this form of taxation is	A righteous government	A THIEF
5	This type of expenditure of revenues collected is:	Constitutional	Unconstitutional
6	Lawful means of collection	Apportioned direct or indirect taxation	Voluntary donation (cannot be lawfully implemented as a “tax”)
7	Tax system based on this approach is	A lawful means of running a government	A charity and welfare state for private interests, thieves, and criminals
8	Government which identifies payment of such monies as mandatory and enforceable is	A righteous government	A lying, thieving government that is deceiving the people.
9	When enforced, this type of tax leads to	Limited government that sticks to its corporate charter, the Constitution	Socialism Communism Mafia protection racket Organized extortion
10	Lawful subjects of Constitutional, federal taxation	Taxes on imports into states of the Union coming from foreign countries. See Constitution, Article 1, Section 8, Clause 3 (external) taxation.	No subjects of lawful taxation. Whatever unconstitutional judicial fiat and a deceived electorate will tolerate is what will be imposed and enforced at the point of a gun
11	Tax system based on	Private property VOLUNTARILY donated to a public use by its exclusive owner	All property owned by the state, which is FALSELY PRESUMED TO BE EVERYTHING. Tax becomes a means of “renting” what amounts to state property to private individuals for temporary use.

The U.S. Supreme Court also helped to clarify how to distinguish the two above categories when it said:

“It is undoubtedly the duty of the legislature which imposes or authorizes municipalities to impose a tax to see that it is not to be used for purposes of private interest instead of a public use, and the courts can only be justified in interposing when a violation of this principle is clear and the [87 U.S. 665] reason for interference cogent. And in deciding whether, in the given case, the object for which the taxes are assessed falls upon the one side or the other of this line, they must be governed mainly by the course and usage of the government, the objects for which taxes have been customarily and by long course of legislation levied, what objects or purposes have been considered necessary to the support and for the proper use of the government, whether state or municipal. Whatever lawfully pertains to this and is sanctioned by time and the acquiescence of the people may well be held to belong to the public use, and proper for the maintenance of good government, though this may not be the only criterion of rightful taxation."

If we give our government the benefit of the doubt by “assuming” or “presuming” that it is operating lawfully and consistent with the model on the left above, then we have no choice but to conclude that everyone who lawfully receives any kind of federal payment MUST be either a federal “employee” or “federal contractor” on official duty, and that the compensation received must be directly connected to the performance of a sovereign or Constitutionally authorized function of government. Any other conclusion or characterization of a lawful tax other than this is irrational, inconsistent with the rulings of the U.S. Supreme Court on this subject, and an attempt to deceive the public about the role of limited Constitutional government based on Republican principles. This means that you cannot participate in any of the following federal social insurance programs WITHOUT being a federal “employee”, and if you refuse to identify yourself as a federal employee, then you are admitting that your government is a thief and a robber that is abusing its taxing powers:

1. Subtitle A of the Internal Revenue Code. I.R.C. (26 U.S.C.) sections 1, 32, and 162 all confer privileged financial benefits to the participant which constitute federal “employment” compensation.
2. Social Security.
3. Unemployment compensation.
4. Medicare.

An examination of the Privacy Act, 5 U.S.C. §552a\(a\)\(13\), in fact, identifies all those who participate in the above programs as “federal personnel”, which means federal “employees”. To wit:

TITLE 5 > PART I > CHAPTER 5 > SUBCHAPTER II > § 552a
§ 552a. Records maintained on individuals

(a) Definitions.— For purposes of this section—

(13) the term “Federal personnel” means officers and employees of the Government of the United States, members of the uniformed services (including members of the Reserve Components), individuals entitled to receive immediate or deferred retirement benefits under any retirement program of the Government of the United States (including survivor benefits).

The “individual” they are talking about above is further defined in 5 U.S.C. §552a\(a\)\(2\) as follows:

TITLE 5 > PART I > CHAPTER 5 > SUBCHAPTER II > § 552a
§ 552a. Records maintained on individuals

(a) Definitions.— For purposes of this section—

(2) the term “individual” means a citizen of the United States or an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence;

The “citizen of the United States” they are talking about above is based on the STATUTORY rather than CONSTITUTIONAL definition of the “United States”, which means it refers to “national and citizen of the United States at birth” under 8 U.S.C. §1401 rather than a CONSTITUTIONAL or Fourteenth Amendment “Citizen” or “citizen of the United States” respectively born in and domiciled in states of the Union. We cover this in:

Why You are a “national”, “state national”, and Constitutional but not Statutory Citizen, Form #05.006
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

Also, note that both of the two preceding definitions are found within Title 5 of the U.S. Code, which is entitled “Government Organization and Employees”. Therefore, it refers ONLY to government “employees” and excludes private employees. There is no definition of the term “individual” anywhere in Title 26 (I.R.C.) of the U.S. Code or any other title that refers to private natural humans, because Congress cannot legislate for them. Notice the use of the phrase “private business” in the U.S. Supreme Court ruling below:

*"The individual may stand upon his constitutional rights as a citizen. He is entitled to carry on his private business in his own way [unregulated by the government]. His power to contract is unlimited. He owes no duty to the State or to his neighbor to divulge his business, or to open his doors to an investigation, so far as it may tend to criminate him. He owes no such duty to the State, since he receives nothing therefrom, beyond the protection of his life and property. His rights are such as existed by the law of the land long antecedent to the organization of the State, and can only be taken from him by due process of law, and in accordance with the Constitution. Among his rights are a refusal to incriminate himself, and the immunity of himself and his property from arrest or seizure except under a warrant of the law. He owes nothing to the public [including so-called "taxes" under Subtitle A of the I.R.C.] so long as he does not trespass upon their rights." Hale v. Henkel, [201 U.S. 43, 74 (1906)]

The purpose of the Constitution and the Bill of Rights instead is to REMOVE authority of the Congress to legislate for private persons and thereby protect their sovereignty and dignity. That is why the U.S. Supreme Court ruled the following:

"The makers of our Constitution undertook to secure conditions favorable to the pursuit of happiness. They recognized the significance of man's spiritual nature, of his feelings and of his intellect. They knew that only a part of the pain, pleasure and satisfactions of life are to be found in material things. They sought to protect Americans in their beliefs, their thoughts, their emotions and their sensations. They conferred, as against the Government, the right to be let alone - the most comprehensive of rights and the right most valued by civilized men." Olmstead v. United States, [277 U.S. 438, 478 (1928) (Brandeis, J., dissenting); see also Washington v. Harper, 494 U.S. 210 (1990)]

QUESTIONS FOR DOUBTERS: If you aren't a federal "employee" as a person participating in Social Security and the Internal Revenue Code, then why are all of the Social Security Regulations located in Title 20 of the Code of Federal Regulations under parts 400-499, entitled "Employee Benefits"? See for yourself:

http://ecfr.gpoaccess.gov/cgi/t/text/text-idx?sid=f073dcf7b1b49c3d353eaf290d735663&c=ecfr&tpl=/ecfrbrowse/Title20/20tab_02.tpl

Another very important point to make here is that the purpose of nearly all federal law is to regulate "public conduct" rather than "private conduct". Congress must write laws to regulate and control every aspect of the behavior of its employees so that they do not adversely affect the rights of private individuals like you, who they exist exclusively to serve and protect. Most federal statutes, in fact, are exclusively for use by those working in government and simply do not apply to private citizens in the conduct of their private lives. This fact is exhaustively proven with evidence in:

Why Statutory Civil Law is Law for Government and Not Private Persons, Form #05.037
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

Franchises of the National (not federal but national) government cannot apply to the private public at large because the Thirteenth Amendment says that involuntary servitude has been abolished. If involuntary servitude is abolished, then they can't use, or in this case "abuse" the authority of law to impose ANY kind of duty against anyone in the private public except possibly the responsibility to avoid hurting their neighbor and thereby depriving him of the equal rights he enjoys.

For the commandments, "You shall not commit adultery," "You shall not murder," "You shall not steal," "You shall not bear false witness," "You shall not covet," and if there is any other commandment, are all summed up in this saying, namely, "You shall love your neighbor as yourself."

Love does no harm to a neighbor; therefore love is the fulfillment of [the ONLY requirement of] the law [which is to avoid hurting your neighbor and thereby love him].
[Romans 13:9-10, Bible, NKJV]

"Do not strive with a man without cause, if he has done you no harm."
[Prov. 3:30, Bible, NKJV]

Thomas Jefferson, our most revered founding father, summed up this singular duty of government to LEAVE PEOPLE ALONE and only interfere or impose a "duty" using the authority of law when and only when they are hurting each other in order to protect them and prevent the harm when he said.

"With all [our] blessings, what more is necessary to make us a happy and a prosperous people? Still one thing more, fellow citizens--a wise and frugal Government, which shall restrain men from injuring one another, shall leave them otherwise free to regulate their own pursuits of industry and improvement, and shall not take from the mouth of labor the bread it has earned. This is the sum of good government, and this is necessary to close the circle of our felicities."

[Thomas Jefferson: 1st Inaugural, 1801. ME 3:320]

The U.S. Supreme Court confirmed this view, when it ruled:

"The power to 'legislate generally upon' life, liberty, and property, as opposed to the 'power to provide modes of redress' against offensive state action, was 'repugnant' to the Constitution. Id., at 15. See also United States v. Reese, 92 U.S. 214, 218 (1876); United States v. Harris, 106 U.S. 629, 639 (1883); James v. Bowman, 190 U.S. 127, 139 (1903). Although the specific holdings of these early cases might have been superseded or modified, see, e.g., Heart of Atlanta Motel, Inc. v. United States, 379 U.S. 241 (1964); United States v. Guest, 383 U.S. 745 (1966), their treatment of Congress' §5 power as corrective or preventive, not definitional, has not been questioned."
[City of Boerne v. Flores, Archbishop of San Antonio, 521 U.S. 507 (1997)]

What the U.S. Supreme Court is saying above is that the government has no authority to tell you how to run your private life. This is contrary to the whole idea of the Internal Revenue Code, whose main purpose is to monitor and control every aspect of those who are subject to it. In fact, it has become the chief means for Congress to implement what we call "social engineering". Just by the deductions they offer, people are incentivized into all kinds of crazy behaviors in pursuit of reductions in a liability that they in fact do not even have. Therefore, the only reasonable thing to conclude is that Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A which would "appear" to regulate the private conduct of all human beings in states of the Union, in fact:

1. Only applies to "public employees", "public offices", and federal instrumentalities in the official conduct of their duties on behalf of the municipal corporation located in the District of Columbia, which 4 U.S.C. §72 makes the "seat of government".
2. Does not CREATE any new public offices or instrumentalities within the national government, but only regulates the exercise of EXISTING public offices lawfully created through Title 5 of the U.S. Code. The IRS abuses its forms to unlawfully CREATE public offices within the federal government. In payroll terminology, this is called "creating fictitious employees", and it is not only quite common, but highly illegal and can get private workers FIRED on the spot if discovered.
3. Regulates PUBLIC and not PRIVATE conduct and therefore does not pertain to private human beings.
4. Constitutes a franchise and a "benefit" within the meaning of 5 U.S.C. §552a. Tax "refunds" and "deductions", in fact, are the "benefit", and 26 U.S.C. §162 says that all those who take deductions MUST, in fact, be engaged in a public office within the government, which is called a "trade or business":

TITLE 5 > PART I > CHAPTER 5 > SUBCHAPTER II > § 552a
§ 552a. Records maintained on individuals

(a) Definitions.— For purposes of this section—

(12) the term "Federal benefit program" means any program administered or funded by the Federal Government, or by any agent or State on behalf of the Federal Government, providing cash or in-kind assistance in the form of payments, grants, loans, or loan guarantees to individuals: . . .

5. Has the job of concealing all the above facts in thousands of pages and hundreds of thousands of words so that the average American is not aware of it. That is why they call it the "code" instead of simply "law": Because it is private law you have to volunteer for and an "encryption" and concealment device for the truth. Now we know why former Treasury Secretary Paul O'Neil called the Internal Revenue Code "9500 pages of gibberish" before he quit his job in disgust and went on a campaign to criticize government.

The I.R.C. therefore essentially amounts to a part of the job responsibility and the "employment contract" of EXISTING "public employees", "public officers", and federal instrumentalities. This was also confirmed by the House of Representatives, who said that only those who take an oath of "public office" are subject to the requirements of the personal income tax. See:

The total lack of authority of the government to regulate or tax private conduct explains why, for instance:

1. The vehicle code in your state cannot be enforced on PRIVATE property. It only applies on PUBLIC roads owned by the government

2. The family court in your state cannot regulate the exercise of unlicensed and therefore PRIVATE CONTRACT marriage. Marriage licenses are a franchise that make those applying into public officers. Family court is a franchise court and the equivalent of binding arbitration that only applies to fellow statutory government “employees”.
3. City conduct ordinances such as those prohibiting drinking by underage minors only apply to institutions who are licensed, and therefore PUBLIC institutions acting as public officers of the government.

Within the Internal Revenue Code, those legal “persons” who work for the government are identified as engaging in a “public office”. A “public office” within the Internal Revenue Code is called a “trade or business”, which is defined below. We emphasize that engaging in a privileged “trade or business” is the main excise taxable activity that in fact and in deed is what REALLY makes a person a “taxpayer” subject to the Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A:

26 U.S.C. Sec. 7701\(a\)\(26\)

“The term ‘trade or business’ includes the performance of the functions of a public office.”

Below is the definition of “public office”:

Public office

“Essential characteristics of a ‘public office’ are:

- (1) Authority conferred by law,
- (2) Fixed tenure of office, and
- (3) Power to exercise some of the sovereign functions of government.
- (4) Key element of such test is that “officer is carrying out a sovereign function”.
- (5) Essential elements to establish public position as ‘public office’ are:
 - (a) Position must be created by Constitution, legislature, or through authority conferred by legislature.
 - (b) Portion of sovereign power of government must be delegated to position,
 - (c) Duties and powers must be defined, directly or implied, by legislature or through legislative authority.
 - (d) Duties must be performed independently without control of superior power other than law, and
 - (e) Position must have some permanency.”

[Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1230]

Those who are fulfilling the “functions of a public office” are under a legal, fiduciary duty as “trustees” of the “public trust”, while working as “volunteers” for the “charitable trust” called the “United States Government Corporation”, which we affectionately call “U.S. Inc.”:

“As expressed otherwise, the powers delegated to a public officer are held in trust for the people and are to be exercised in behalf of the government or of all citizens who may need the intervention of the officer.”¹⁰⁵
Furthermore, the view has been expressed that all public officers, within whatever branch and whatever level of government, and whatever be their private vocations, are trustees of the people, and accordingly labor under every disability and prohibition imposed by law upon trustees relative to the making of personal financial gain from a discharge of their trusts.¹⁰⁶ That is, a public officer occupies a fiduciary relationship to the political entity on whose behalf he or she serves.¹⁰⁷ and owes a fiduciary duty to the public.¹⁰⁸ It has been said that the fiduciary responsibilities of a public officer cannot be less than those of a private individual.¹⁰⁹ Furthermore, it has been stated that any enterprise undertaken by the public official which tends to weaken public confidence and undermine the sense of security for individual rights is against public policy.¹¹⁰”

"Corporations are also of all grades, and made for varied objects; all governments are corporations, created by usage and common consent, or grants and charters which create a body politic for prescribed purposes; but whether they are private, local or general, in their objects, for the enjoyment of property, or the exercise of power, they are all governed by the same rules of law, as to the construction and the obligation of the instrument by which the incorporation is made. One universal rule of law protects persons and property. It is a fundamental principle of the common law of England, that the term freemen of the kingdom, includes 'all persons,' ecclesiastical and temporal, incorporate, politique or natural; it is a part of their magna charta (2 Inst. 4), and is incorporated into our institutions. The persons of the members of corporations are on the same footing of protection as other persons, and their corporate property secured by the same laws which protect that of individuals. 2 Inst. 46-7. 'No man shall be taken,' 'no man shall be disseised,' without due process of law, is a principle taken from magna charta, infused into all our state constitutions, and is made inviolable by the federal government, by the amendments to the constitution."
 Proprietors of Charles River Bridge v. Proprietors of Warren Bridge, [36 U.S. 420 (1837)]

TITLE 28 - JUDICIARY AND JUDICIAL PROCEDURE
PART VI - PARTICULAR PROCEEDINGS
CHAPTER 176 - FEDERAL DEBT COLLECTION PROCEDURE
SUBCHAPTER A - DEFINITIONS AND GENERAL PROVISIONS
Sec. 3002. Definitions

(15) "United States" means -
 (A) a Federal corporation;
 (B) an agency, department, commission, board, or other entity of the United States; or
 (C) an instrumentality of the United States.

Those who are acting as “public officers” for “U.S. Inc.” have essentially donated their formerly private property to a “public use”. In effect, they have joined the SOCIALIST collective and become partakers of money STOLEN from people, most of whom, do not wish to participate and who would quit if offered an informed choice to do so.

*“My son, if sinners [socialists, in this case] entice you,
Do not consent [do not abuse your power of choice]
 If they say, “Come with us,
 Let us lie in wait to shed blood [of innocent “nontaxpayers”];
 Let us lurk secretly for the innocent without cause;
 Let us swallow them alive like Sheol,
 And whole, like those who go down to the Pit:
 We shall fill our houses with spoil [plunder];
 Cast in your lot among us,
 Let us all have one purse [share the stolen LOOT]”--*

My son, do not walk in the way with them [do not ASSOCIATE with them and don't let the government FORCE you to associate with them either by forcing you to become a “taxpayer”/government whore or a “U.S. citizen”].
 Keep your foot from their path;
 For their feet run to evil,
 And they make haste to shed blood.
 Surely, in vain the net is spread
 In the sight of any bird;
 But they lie in wait for their own blood.
 They lurk secretly for their own lives.
 So are the ways of everyone who is greedy for gain [or unearned government benefits];
 It takes away the life of its owners.”
[\[Proverbs 1:10-19, Bible, NKJV\]](#)

Below is what the U.S. Supreme Court says about those who have donated their private property to a “public use”. The ability to volunteer your private property for “public use”, by the way, also implies the ability to UNVOLUNTEER at any time, which is the part no government employee we have ever found is willing to talk about. I wonder why....DUHHHH!:

“Men are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, -life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness;’ and to ‘secure,’ not grant or create, these rights, governments are instituted. That property [or income] which a man has honestly acquired he retains full control of, subject to these limitations: First, that he shall not use it to his neighbor's injury, and that does not mean that he must use it for his neighbor's benefit; second, that if he devotes it to a public use, he gives to the public a right to control that use; and third, that whenever the public needs require, the public may take it upon payment of due compensation.

[Budd v. People of State of New York, 143 U.S. 517 (1892)]

The reason governments are created, according to the Declaration of Independence, is exclusively to protect PRIVATE rights. The only thing MENTIONED in the Declaration, in fact, as the object of protection is HUMANS, not GOVERNMENTS. Government did not CREATE these PRIVATE, UNALIENABLE rights and therefore, they do not OWN them. They can only tax or regulate that which the CREATE, and the place they do the creating is in the definition section of franchise agreements. See:

Hierarchy of Sovereignty: The Power to Create is the Power to Tax, Family Guardian Fellowship
<http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/Remedies/PowerToCreate.htm>

The VERY first step in protecting PRIVATE rights held exclusively by HUMANS is to prevent them from being converted to PUBLIC rights or franchises without the EXPRESS written VOLUNTARY consent of those who have the legal capacity to consent. Governments should not be using word games, equivocation, or other forms of legal treachery to compel the conversion from PRIVATE to PUBLIC. If you would like to know the legal boundaries for this separation between PRIVATE and PUBLIC and how it is illegally circumvented by covetous public servants, see:

Separation Between Public and Private, Form #12.025
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

Now some rules for how PUBLIC and PRIVATE must be kept separated or else the government has violated its fiduciary duty to protect PRIVATE property. These rules derive from the above document:

1. The PRIVATE constitutional rights of human beings are UNALIENABLE according to the Declaration of Independence.
 - 1.1. Hence, you aren't even allowed to give them away, even WITH your consent.
 - 1.2. The only place that consent can lawfully be given is on federal territory where private or constitutional or unalienable rights DO NOT exist in the first place.
 - 1.3. The rights created by the consent can be enforced on federal territory not within a state of the Union. All law is prima facie territorial. That is why all public offices are REQUIRED by 4 U.S.C. §72 to be exercised IN the "District of Columbia" and "NOT elsewhere".
2. Statutory "persons" are PUBLIC fictions of law, agents, and/or offices created in civil statutes by government as a civil franchise. All civil franchises are contracts between the government grantor and the participant. Hence PRIVATE human beings whose rights are unalienable are UNABLE to consent to a franchise contract if standing on land protected by the Constitution and must do so on federal territory AT THE TIME consent is given.
3. A civil or statutory or legal "person", whether it be a natural person, a corporation, or a trust, may ADD to its duties or join specific franchises through consent. HOWEVER:
 - 3.1. Licensing and franchises may not be used to CREATE new public offices.
 - 3.2. If licensing or franchises are abused to create NEW public offices, then those who engage in said offices outside the place "expressly authorized" to do so by Congress are criminally impersonating a public officer in violation of 18 U.S.C. §912.
 - 3.3. A subset of those engaging in a "public office" are federal "employees", but the term "public office" or "trade or business" encompass more than just government "employees". Corporations, for instance, are public offices and instrumentalities of the government grantor.
4. In law, when a human being volunteers to accept the legal duties of a "public office", it therefore becomes a "trustee", an agent, and fiduciary (as defined in 26 U.S.C. §6903) acting on behalf of the federal government by the operation of private contract/franchise law. It becomes essentially a "franchisee" of the federal government carrying out the provisions of the franchise agreement, which is found in:
 - 4.1. Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A, in the case of the federal income tax.
 - 4.2. The Social Security Act, which is found in Title 42 of the U.S. Code.

If you would like to know more about the extreme dangers of participating in all government franchises and why you destroy ALL your Constitutional rights and protections by doing so, see:

1. Government Franchises Course, Form #12.012

<http://sedm.org/LibertyU/LibertyU.htm>

The IRS Form 1042-S Instructions confirm that all those who use Social Security Numbers are engaged in the “trade or business” franchise:

Box 14, Recipient’s U.S. Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN)

You must obtain and enter a U.S. taxpayer identification number (TIN) for:

- Any recipient whose income is effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business in the United States.

[IRS Form 1042-S Instructions, p. 14]

Engaging in a “trade or business” therefore implies a “public office”. All those who USE “Taxpayer Identification Numbers” are therefore treated, USUALLY ILLEGALLY IF THEY ARE OTHERWISE PRIVATE, as public officers in the national government. All property associated with the number then is treated effectively as “private property donated to a public use to procure the benefits of a government franchise”. At that point, the person in control of said property is treated as a de facto manager and trustee over public property created by that donation process. That public property includes his/her formerly private time and services. The “employment agreement” for managing this newly, and in most cases ILLEGALLY created public property is the Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A and the Social Security Act found in Title 42 of the U.S. Code.

The Social Security Number is therefore the equivalent of a “de facto license number” to act as a “public officer” for the federal government, who is a fiduciary or trustee subject to the plenary legislative jurisdiction of the federal government pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(39\), 26 U.S.C. §7408\(c\), and Federal Rule of Civil Procedure Rule 17\(b\), regardless of where he might be found geographically, including within a state of the Union. The franchise agreement governs “choice of law” and where it’s terms may be litigated, which is the District of Columbia, based on the agreement itself.

The invisible process of essentially consenting to become a public officer of the national and not state government is a FRAUD because:

1. They don’t protect your right to NOT volunteer.
2. They refuse to prosecute the fraud once discovered and respond with silence to criminal complaints directed at stopping it. Remember: It is a maximum of law that such gross negligence is in essence and substance, FRAUD itself.
3. They don’t recognize even the EXISTENCE of a “non-resident non-person”, who is someone who DID NOT volunteer. To do so would mean a surrender of their “plausible deniability” in front of a legally ignorant jury.
4. They call those who insist that the withholdings and/or reportings associated with the fraudulently created public office “frivolous”, and yet refuse to address the content of this section or to address specifically how your property was LAWFULLY converted from PRIVATE to PUBLIC WITHOUT your consent. Even the taxation process requires, as a bare minimum, CONSENT to become a public officer.

Now let’s apply what we have learned to your employment situation. God said you cannot work for two companies at once. You can only serve one company, and that company is the federal government if you are receiving federal benefits:

“No one can serve two masters [two employers, for instance]; for either he will hate the one and love the other, or else he will be loyal to the one and despise the other. You cannot serve God and mammon [government].”

[Luke 16:13, Bible, NKJV. Written by a tax collector]

Everything you make while working for your slave master, the federal government, is their property over which you are a fiduciary and “public officer”.

“THE” + “IRS” = “THEIRS”

A federal “public officer” has no rights in relation to their master, the federal government:

“The restrictions that the Constitution places upon the government in its capacity as lawmaker, i.e., as the regulator of private conduct, are not the same as the restrictions that it places upon the government in its capacity as employer. We have recognized this in many contexts, with respect to many different constitutional guarantees. Private citizens perhaps cannot be prevented from wearing long hair, but policemen can. Kelley v. Johnson, 425 U.S. 238, 247 (1976). Private citizens cannot have their property searched without probable cause, but in many circumstances government employees can. O'Connor v. Ortega, 480 U.S. 709, 723 (1987) (plurality opinion); id., at 732 (SCALIA, J., concurring in judgment). Private citizens cannot be punished for refusing to provide the government information that may incriminate them, but government employees can be dismissed when the incriminating information that they refuse to provide relates to the performance of their job. Gardner v. Broderick, [497 U.S. 62, 95] 392 U.S. 273, 277-278 (1968). With regard to freedom of speech in particular: Private citizens cannot be punished for speech of merely private concern, but government employees can be fired for that reason. Connick v. Myers, 461 U.S. 138, 147 (1983). Private citizens cannot be punished for partisan political activity, but federal and state employees can be dismissed and otherwise punished for that reason. Public Workers v. Mitchell, 330 U.S. 75, 101 (1947); Civil Service Comm'n v. Letter Carriers, 413 U.S. 548, 556 (1973); Broadrick v. Oklahoma, 413 U.S. 601, 616-617 (1973).”
[Rutan v. Republican Party of Illinois, 497 U.S. 62 (1990)]

Your existence and your earnings as a federal “public officer” and “trustee” and “fiduciary” are entirely subject to the whim and pleasure of corrupted lawyers and politicians, and you must beg and grovel if you expect to retain anything:

“In the general course of human nature, A POWER OVER A MAN'S SUBSISTENCE AMOUNTS TO A POWER OVER HIS WILL.”
[Alexander Hamilton, Federalist Paper No. 79]

You will need an “exemption” from your new slave master specifically spelled out in law to justify anything you want to keep while working on the federal plantation. The 1040 return is a profit and loss statement for a federal business corporation called the “United States”. You are in partnership with your slave master and they decide what scraps they want to throw to you in your legal “cage” AFTER they figure out whatever is left in financing their favorite pork barrel project and paying off interest on an ever-expanding and endless national debt. Do you really want to reward this type of irresponsibility and surety?

The W-4 therefore essentially is being deceptively and illegally MISUSED as a federal employment application. It is your badge of dishonor and a tacit admission that you can't or won't trust God and yourself to provide for yourself. Instead, you need a corrupted “protector” to steal money from your neighbor or counterfeit (print) it to help you pay your bills and run your life. Furthermore, if your private employer forced you to fill out the W-4 against your will or instituted any duress to get you to fill it out, such as threatening to fire or not hire you unless you fill it out, then he/she is:

1. Engaging in criminal identity theft. See:

Government Identity Theft, Form #05.046
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

2. Acting as an employment recruiter for the federal government.
3. Recruiting you into federal slavery in violation of the Thirteenth Amendment, and 42 U.S.C. §1994.
4. Involved in a conspiracy to commit grand theft by stealing money from you to pay for services and protection you don't want and don't need.
5. Involved in racketeering and extortion in violation of 18 U.S.C. §1951.
6. Involved in money laundering for the federal government, by sending in money stolen from you to them, in violation of 18 U.S.C. §1956.

The higher ups at the IRS probably know the above, and they certainly aren't going to tell private employers or their underlings the truth, because they aren't going to look a gift horse in the mouth and don't want to surrender their defense of “plausible deniability”. They will NEVER tell a thief who is stealing for them that they are stealing, especially if they don't have to assume liability for the consequences of the theft. No one who practices this kind of slavery, deceit, and evil can rightly claim that they are loving their neighbor and once they know they are involved in such deceit, they have a duty to correct it or become an “accessory after the fact” in violation of 18 U.S.C. §3. This form of deceit is also the sin most hated by God in the Bible. Below is a famous Bible commentary on Prov. 11:1:

“As religion towards God is a branch of universal righteousness (he is not an honest man that is not devout), so righteousness towards men is a branch of true religion, for he is not a godly man that is not honest, nor can he expect that his devotion should be accepted; for, 1. Nothing is more offensive to God than deceit in commerce. A false balance is here put for all manner of unjust and fraudulent practices [of our public servants] in dealing with any person [within the public], which are all an abomination to the Lord, and render those abominable [hated] to him that allow themselves in the use of such accursed arts of thriving. It is an affront to justice, which God is the patron of, as well as a wrong to our neighbour, whom God is the protector of. Men [in the IRS and the Congress] make light of such frauds, and think there is no sin in that which there is money to be got by, and, while it passes undiscovered, they cannot blame themselves for it; a blot is no blot till it is hit, Hos. 12:7, 8. But they are not the less an abomination to God, who will be the avenger of those that are defrauded by their brethren. 2. Nothing is more pleasing to God than fair and honest dealing, nor more necessary to make us and our devotions acceptable to him: A just weight is his delight. He himself goes by a just weight, and holds the scale of judgment with an even hand, and therefore is pleased with those that are herein followers of him. A balance cheats, under pretence of doing right most exactly, and therefore is the greater abomination to God.”
[Matthew Henry’s Commentary on the Whole Bible; Henry, M., 1996, c1991, under Prov. 11:1]

The Bible also says that those who participate in this kind of “commerce” with the government are practicing harlotry and idolatry. The Bible book of Revelations describes a woman called “Babylon the Great Harlot”.

“And I saw a woman sitting on a scarlet beast which was full of names of blasphemy, having seven heads and ten horns. The woman was arrayed in purple and scarlet, and adorned with gold and precious stones and pearls, having in her hand a golden cup full of abominations and the filthiness of her fornication. And on her forehead a name was written:

MYSTERY, BABYLON THE GREAT, THE MOTHER OF HARLOTS AND OF THE ABOMINATIONS OF THE EARTH.

I saw the woman, drunk with the blood of the saints and with the blood of the martyrs of Jesus. And when I saw her, I marveled with great amazement.”
[Rev. 17:3-6, Bible, NKJV]

This despicable harlot is described below as the “woman who sits on many waters”.

“Come, I will show you the judgment of the great harlot [Babylon the Great Harlot] who sits on many waters, with whom the kings of the earth [politicians and rulers] committed fornication, and the inhabitants of the earth were made drunk [indulged] with the wine of her fornication.”
[Rev. 17:1-2, Bible, NKJV]

These waters are simply symbolic of a democracy controlled by mobs of atheistic people who are fornicating with the Beast and who have made it their false, man-made god and idol:

“The waters which you saw, where the harlot sits, are peoples, multitudes, nations, and tongues.”
[Rev. 17:15, Bible, NKJV]

The Beast is then defined in Rev. 19:19 as “the kings of the earth”, which today would be our political rulers:

“And I saw the beast, the kings of the earth, and their armies, gathered together to make war against Him who sat on the horse and against His army.”
[Rev. 19:19, Bible, NKJV]

Babylon the Great Harlot is “fornicating” with the government by engaging in commerce with it. Black’s Law Dictionary defines “commerce” as “intercourse”:

“Commerce. ...Intercourse by way of trade and traffic between different peoples or states and the citizens or inhabitants thereof, including not only the purchase, sale, and exchange of commodities, but also the instrumentalities [governments] and agencies by which it is promoted and the means and appliances by which it is carried on...”
[Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 269]

If you want your rights back people, you can't pursue government employment in the context of your private job. If you do, the Bible, not us, says you are a harlot and that you are CONDEMNED to hell!

And I heard another voice from heaven saying, "Come out of her, my people, lest you share in her sins, and lest you receive of her plagues. For her sins have reached to heaven, and God has remembered her iniquities. Render to her just as she rendered to you, and repay her double according to her works; in the cup which she has mixed, mix double for her. In the measure that she glorified herself and lived luxuriously, in the same measure give her torment and sorrow; for she says in her heart, 'I sit as queen, and am no widow, and will not see sorrow.' Therefore her plagues will come in one day—death and mourning and famine. And she will be utterly burned with fire, for strong is the Lord God who judges her.

In summary, it ought to be very clear from reading this section then, that:

1. It is an abuse of the government's taxing power, according to the U.S. Supreme Court, to pay public monies to private persons or to use the government's taxing power to transfer wealth between groups of private individuals.
2. Because of these straight jacket constraints of the use of "public funds" by the government, the government can only lawfully make payments or pay "benefits" to persons who have contracted with them to render specific services that are authorized by the Constitution to be rendered.
3. The government had to create an intermediary called the "straw man" that is a public office or agent within the government and therefore part of the government that they could pay the "benefit" to in order to circumvent the restrictions upon the government from abusing its powers to transfer wealth between private individuals. That "straw man" is exhaustively described in :

Proof That There Is a "Straw Man", Form #05.042
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

4. The straw man is a "public office" within the U.S. government. It is a creation of Congress and an agent and fiduciary of the government subject to the statutory control of Congress. It is therefore a public entity and not a private entity which the government can therefore lawfully pay public funds to without abusing its taxing powers.
5. Those who sign up for government contracts, benefits, franchises, or employment agree to become surety for the straw man or public office and agree to act in a representative capacity on behalf of a federal corporation in the context of all the duties of the office pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b).
6. Because the straw man is a public office, you can't be compelled to occupy the office. You and not the government set the compensation or amount of money you are willing to work for in order to consensually occupy the office. If you don't think the compensation is adequate, you have the right to refuse to occupy the office by refusing to connect your assets to the office using the de facto license number for the office called the Taxpayer Identification Number.

If you would like to know more about why Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A only applies to federal instrumentalities and payments to or from the federal government, we refer you to the free memorandum of law below:

3.14.4 Last Will and Testament of Jesse Cornish

"A good man leaves an inheritance to his children's children, but the wealth of the sinner is stored up for the righteous."
[\[Prov. 13:22, Bible, NKJV\]](#)

Last Will and Testament Of Jesse Franklin Cornish

I, Jesse Cornish, being of sound mind. do of my own accord, make this last will, bequeathing all of my earthly possessions as follows:

To my son, Jesse, and my daughter, Candy, I leave all my owned real estate and equities and all my liquid assets in the form of checking, savings, and other money accounts to share and share alike.

To my son, Jesse, I leave my guns, fishing gear, boats and all other personal effects a father would normally pass on to his son.

To my daughter, Candy, I leave the things her mother left. I leave her also certain family treasures, and pieces or collected art described on the attached sheets.

To both my son, Jesse, and my daughter, Candy, I leave my total collection of African art goods. my automobiles. items of jewelry, photographs, music albums, and all household valuables to share and share alike.

To my grandchildren, I leave the faith and hope that your parents will pass on to you whatever is left of this bequest on their demise. And to this I pray that they will add their lot. The bequests I have named appear in the will that is it be probated. It is already in the hands of my lawyers who will see it through for you.

In your own safe-deposit boxes, where you found this private copy is a sealed letter addressed to each of you. You may open it now. Inside you will find specific instructions leading you to the location of special forms of assets I have secured and left for you. This wealth may well be the only thing of real value I have to pass on to you.

It is in the form of gold and silver coins and bullion. Nobody knows I bought it, there is no record of them, and nobody knows where they are except you today.

I did not buy it to speculate. I bought it to get out of paper assets and to preserve capital.

The bullion coins are worth five times what I paid for them and some of the numismatic coins have appreciated over 6000 percent in the last ten years. As the next inflationary cycle reaches double digit, their values will also double.

The numismatic, rare coins along with their certification are in the packets here that bear your names. In your names also are these storage receipts from the warehouses in Montreal and Dallas. They represent the numerous pieces of fine ivory and ebony art carvings I brought out of Africa over the years. You may claim them in person at any time. All of these items are in demand and maintain high liquidity.

I depart this life with the prayer that you will have the foresight and self discipline to leave it as it is until this country regains fiscal sanity. When that finally comes about, there will be complete monetary reform.

Your gold, silver, and ivory will buy this new form of currency and could well be your only hope for financial survival. When I purchased the uncirculated coins to put away for you, I was afraid and didn't buy enough. Now I see they have provided the highest appreciation of all, and any further additions to this private part of my bequests to you will include more of the same. It grieves me to inform you that I have also passed on to you a "Legacy of Debt."

My generation found a way to lead the good life by borrowing from yours. We have lived out the last thirty years in a credit "dream world" of luxury and affluence and monetized the massive debt by offering the next two generations as collateral. The material wealth I leave to you will not even begin to pay your share of the bill we ran up during your lifetime and it will haunt you and cause you to ask, "How could my dad do this?"

Please know it was not what I did, but rather, what I failed to do. I just didn't bother to get personally involved in the affairs of government at any level.

I filled my days to earn large sums of dollars and spent too many nights celebrating when I did. Like millions of others, I stood by as inept elected officials bought votes with your money and changed America from a capitalistic, free enterprise country to a land ever-approaching mandated socialism.

The conventional investments I planned for your future failed the break-even point years ago. Savings, common stocks, and money funds were tied to the shrinking dollar and eroded away with inflation and taxes, just as they will when this economy turns around to monetize the most massive debt in history.

Over the past 15 years, most of my income was taken away in taxes to finance the enormous bureaucracy that now has a strangle hold on every aspect of our economy.

Even as I write this, I see the vultures circling -waiting to pick apart the probated portion of this will that was already riddled with taxes as I tried to keep it alive.

My final prayer is that you will use my shortcomings as a warning light to guide your way. And that you will try to find forgiveness in your hearts for the things I failed to do.

Get involved. Help get America back into the hands of the earners and the producers.

From my generation you have learned that you cannot feed and house the whole world. You also learned that the country's banks do not deserve blind faith. 60 of them failed this past year and 750 more are in trouble with assets represented by over-extended credit.

Don't be afraid of what lies out there ahead, and don't ever feel guilty about what you earned yourself. Don't let elected officials give it away to the plunderers for the sake of re-election and self enrichment.

When the day comes for you to retire, the Social Security program will be bankrupt and gone. I paid into it for nearly forty years but never withdrew a dime.

There is an automatic $275 burial fee you could withdraw for my funeral expenses. I have already designated funds to cover this so please turn it down and afford me the last dignity of paying my own way out.

In everlasting love,

Your dad,

Jesse Cornish

3.14.5 America?

Is the America described below the type of place you would be proud to call your home and your country? Is it still the "land of the free and home of the brave?" We don't think so. Instead, our government steals our money, uses it to subsidize failure and socialism, and then asks for yet more money to correct the problems that such failed policies produce. Any civilization that subsidizes and encourages failure and irresponsibility and decadence on the scale and of the kind described below is doomed to certain self destruction. The question is not if our society will collapse, but how long, unless we mend our ways, repent for our sins, and engage ourselves politically to force change and capitalism once again.

*I come for visit, get treated regal,
So I stay, who care I illegal?
I cross border, poor and broke,
Take bus, see employment folk.*

*Nice man treat me good in there,
Say I need to see welfare.
Welfare say, "You come no more,
We send cash right to your door."*

*Welfare checks, they make you wealthy,
Medicaid it keep you healthy!*

By and by, I got plenty money,
Thanks to you, American dummy.

Write to friends in motherland,
Tell them come as fast as you can.
They come in rags and Chebby trucks,
I buy big house with welfare bucks.

They come here, we live together,
More welfare checks, it gets better!
Fourteen families they moving in,
But neighbor's patience wearing thin.

Finally, white guy moves away,
Now I buy his house, and then I say,
"Find more aliens for house to rent."
And in the yard I put a tent.

Send for family (they just trash),
But they, too, draw the welfare cash!
Everything is mucho good,
And soon we own the neighborhood.

We have hobby--it's called breeding,
Welfare pay for baby feeding.
Kids need dentist? Wife need pills?
We get free! We got no bills!

American crazy! He pay all year,
To keep welfare running here.
We think America darn good place!
Too darn good for the white man race.

If they no like us, they can go,
Got lots of room in Mexico.

SEND THIS TO EVERY AMERICAN TAXPAYER YOU KNOW.

3.15 Jurisdiction

3.15.1 "Words of Art": Lawyer Deception Using Definitions

"The wicked man does deceptive work,
But to him who sows righteousness will be a sure reward.
As righteousness leads to life,
So he who pursues evil pursues his own death.
Those who are of a perverse heart are an abomination to the Lord,
But such as are blameless in their ways are a delight.
Though they join forces, the wicked will not go unpunished;
But the posterity of the righteous will be delivered."
[Prov. 11:18-21, Bible, NKJV]

"Integrity without knowledge is weak and useless, and knowledge without integrity is dangerous and dreadful."
[Samuel Johnson Rasselas, 1759]

"Beware lest anyone cheat you through philosophy and empty deceit, according to the tradition of men, according to the basic principles of the world, and not according to Christ."
[Colossians 2:8, Bible, NKJV]

Does anyone like politicians or the lawyers who write deceptive laws for them? After you read this section, you'll have even less reason to like them! The Internal Revenue Code ("IRC", also called 26 U.S.C.) is a masterpiece of deception designed by greedy and unscrupulous IRS lawyers to mislead Citizens into believing that they are subject to federal income tax. Most of the deception is perpetrated using specialized definitions of words. The Code contains a series of directory statutes using the word "shall", with provisions that are requirements for corporations, trusts, and other "legal fictions" but not for human beings (you and I). Even members of Congress are generally unaware of the deceptive legal meanings of certain terms that are consistently used in the IRC. These terms have legal definitions for use in the IRC that are very different from the general understanding of the meaning of the words. Such terms are called “words of art”. This situation is quite deliberate, and no accident at all.

Let’s start this section by defining the term “definition”:

definition: A description of a thing by its properties; an explanation of the meaning of a word or term. The process of stating the exact meaning of a word by means of other words. Such a description of the thing defined, including all essential elements and excluding all nonessential, as to distinguish it from all other things and classes.
[Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 423]

Lack of knowledge of legal definitions used in the Internal Revenue Code causes false presumption by uninformed Americans who are confused as to the correct interpretation of both the IRC and the true meaning of the tricky wording in IRS instructional publications and news articles. However, when you understand the legal definitions of these terms, the deception and false presumption is easily recognized and the limited application of the Code becomes very clear. This understanding will help you to see that filing income tax forms and paying income taxes must be voluntary acts for most Americans domiciled in states of the Union because the United States Constitution forbids the federal government to impose any tax directly upon individuals.

Most terms used within 26 U.S.C, which is the Internal Revenue Code, appear in Chapter 79, Section 7701. Anything having to do with employer withholding is defined in 26 U.S.C. §3401.

WARNING!: It is extremely important that you read and understand these definitions before you begin interpreting the tax codes! Deceiving definitions are the NUMBER ONE way that lawyers use to trick and enslave us so we should always question the meaning of words before we start trying to interpret the laws they write!

Another popular lawyering technique is to use words which are undefined. This has the effect of encouraging uncertainty, conflict, and false presumption in the application of the law, which increases litigation, which in turn makes the legal profession more profitable for the lawyers who write the laws and judges who enforce the laws after they leave public office and go back into private practice. Doesn’t that seem like a conflict of interest and an abuse of the public trust for private gain? It sure does to us!

For your edification, a library of definitions have been prepared in the Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Online, Form #10.004 area that you can and should refer to frequently on the Internet at:

<http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/FormsInstr.htm>

Click on “Cites by Topic” in the upper left corner to see our library of carefully researched definitions. This will allow you to see clearly for yourself how the conniving lawyers inhabiting the District of Criminals (Washington, D.C.) enticed us into slavery in violation of the Thirteenth Amendment and 18 U.S.C. §1581 by using deceiving definitions. Then these evil lawyers tried to cover-up their trick by violating our Fifth Amendment right of due process by adding the word “includes” to those definitions that were most suspect, like the following:

- Definition of the term “State” found in 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(10\) and 4 U.S.C. §110
- Definition of the term “United States” found in 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(9\)
- Definition of the term “employee” found in 26 U.S.C. §3401\(c\) and 26 C.F.R. §31.3401\(c\)-1 Employee
- Definition of the term “person” found in 26 C.F.R. § 301.6671-1 (which governs who is liable for penalties under Internal Revenue Code)

What Congress did by defining the word “includes” the way they did was give the federal courts so much “wigggle” room and license that they could define the IRC and federal tax jurisdiction any way they want, which transformed our government from a society of laws to a society of men, in stark violation of the intent of our founding fathers and of the Fifth and Sixth Amendment, and the “void for vagueness” doctrine:

"The government of the United States has been emphatically termed a government of laws, and not of men. It will certainly cease to deserve this high appellation, if the laws furnish no remedy for the violation of a vested legal right."

See sections 3.15.1.8 and 5.6.17 if you would like to learn more about how they perpetrated this fraud and hoax with the word "includes".

The definitions found in the U.S. Code apply NOT ONLY to the U.S. Code, but also to the Code of Federal Regulations (CFR's), which are the implementing regulations for the U.S. Code, and the IRS publications, which are guidelines to Americans that implement these regulations. The definitions in the U.S. Code in effect supersede and in some cases are repeated or are modified and expanded by the Code of Federal Regulations and the IRS publications. Incidentally, doesn't it seem strange that the DEFINITIONS, which describe what all of the Code means, are almost at the END of the code, instead of the beginning? Most other contracts and legal documents always START with the definitions first, and usually define ALL words open to confusion to prevent misinterpretation. Not so with the I.R.C. They leave the word "individual" undefined, for instance, because they don't want you knowing what "individual" is, since it appears on your 1040 income tax form. Wonder why they do this instead of just calling you a "Citizen"? Could it possibly be that the slick lawyers in the congress hope you won't wade through 9,500 pages of Code to get to the definitions and that you will run out of energy and interest before you read them? Are they trying to HIDE something? It is important to note that proper and clear definitions of these deceptive words never appear in any of the IRS publications, and this is part of the Great Deception we have talked about throughout this document.

As you read through these masterfully crafty deceits and definitions of IRS lawyers listed below and appearing in the Infernal (written by Satan directly from hell?), I mean Internal Revenue Code (I.R.C. , 26 U.S.C), ask yourself the following questions and critically consider the most truthful answers according the I.R.C. We compare the various definitions for each word to show you how it has been abused to cause deceit. You are probably going to be mad as hell (like I was) when you find out the trick these crafty IRS lawyers have played on you. Below are just a few examples of how these depraved, corrupt, arrogant, and power-hungry lawyers have used "legalese" to deceive you. The answers we give in the third column assume you are the average American domiciled in one of the 50 Union states and not one of the federal territories that are part of the "federal zone", which is subsequently explained in section 3.15.4:

Table 3-12: Questions to Ask and Answer as You Read the Internal Revenue Code

#	Question (using legal definitions)	Translation to everyday language ("non-legalese")	Answer (in most cases)
1	Am I an "employee"?	Do I hold a privileged federal "public office" that depends exclusively on rights and privileges granted to me by the citizens who elected or appointed me?	NO. Under the case of Simms. v. Ahrens (271 S.W. 720), people with everyday skills, trades, or professions or who do not work for the federal government are not considered to be employees as per the I.R.C., and therefore are not subject to "withholding".
2	Do I have "gross income" or "taxable income"?	Do I as a corporation have profit subject to indirect excise ?	NO. See: 1. Eisner v. Macomber , 252 U.S. 189, 207, 40 S.Ct. 189, 9 A.L.R. 1570 (1920); 2. Doyle v. Mitchell Bros. Co. , 247 U.S. 179, 185, 38 S.Ct. 467 (1918); 3. Stratton's Independence v. Howbert , 231 U.S. 399, 414, 58 L.Ed. 285, 34 Sup.Ct. 136 (1913):
3	What is an "individual" as indicated on my "1040 Individual Income Tax Return"?	What is an "individual" as indicated on my "1040 Individual Income Tax Return"?	One of the following: 1. A corporation, an association, a trust, etc. chartered in the District of Columbia with income subject to excise taxes . 2. A nonresident alien or alien as identified in 26 C.F.R. 1.1441-1.

4	Am I a "taxpayer" under Subtitle A of the Internal Revenue Code?	Am I a person who is "liable" for paying income taxes as per the I.R.C Subtitle A?	NO. The only persons liable (under Section 1461) of Subtitle A of the I.R.C. for anything are withholding agents as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(16). These withholding agents are transferees for U.S. government property under 26 U.S.C. §6901 and they are "returning" (hence the name "tax return") monies already owned by the U.S. Government and being paid out to nonresident aliens who are "public officers" of the United States Government as part of a pre-negotiated and implied employment agreement. Because the monies they are withholding already belong to the U.S. government even after they are paid out, the withholding agent is liable to return these monies. For private individuals who are not nonresident aliens engaged in a "public office" within the U.S. government, all "taxes" falling under Subtitle A are voluntary, which is to say that they are donations and not taxes. However, if you "volunteer" by submitting a tax return or instituting voluntary withholding using a W-4 form, you are referred to as a "taxpayer" because you made yourself "subject to" the tax code voluntarily and therefore are "presumed" to be liable under 26 C.F.R. 31.3401(a)-3. This artificial liability is then created in your IRS Individual Master File (IMF) by IRS agents committing deliberate fraud during data entry into their IDRS computer system. See Section 1.4.5 of the Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Manual , Form #10.005 for further details on how to expose this IMF fraud.
5	Am I a "tax payer"?	Have I unwittingly deceived the I.R.S. and the U.S. government, by my own ignorance and unknowing falsification on my 1040 income tax return, into thinking that I am a "taxpayer"?	YES. In most cases, people file and pay income taxes and erroneously label themselves as being "taxpayers" because of their own ignorance and the total lack of sources for truth about who are "taxpayers".
6	Am I am "employer"?	Am I someone who pays the salary and "wages" of a "public officer" of the federal political officer?	NO
7	"Must" I pay income taxes.	1. Do I have the "IRS" permission to "volunteer" to pay income taxes,	Definitely!

#	Question (using legal definitions)	Translation to everyday language ("non-legalese")	Answer (in most cases)
		even though I don't have to. 2. "May" I pay income taxes I'm not obligated to pay, please?
8	Do I live in a "State" or the "United States"?	Do I live in the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, Guam, the Virgin Islands, or any other U.S. federal territory or enclave within the boundaries of a state which the residents do NOT have constitutional protections of their rights (see Downes v. Bidwell , 182 U.S. 244 (1901)) and are therefore subject to federal income taxes?	NO
9	Do I make "wages" as an "employee"?	Do I receive compensation for "personal services" from the U.S. government as a "public officer" NOT practicing an occupation of common right?	NO
10	Am I a "withholding agent" per the tax code?	Do I pay income to a "public officer" of the U.S. government who has requested withholding on their pay or to a nonresident alien or corporation with U.S (federal zone) . Source income?	NO
11	Am I a "citizen of the United States" or a resident of the United States?	Was I born or naturalized in the District of Columbia or other federal territory or enclave or do I live there now?	NO
12	Am I a national but not citizen of the United States under 8 U.S.C. §1452?	Was I born in one of the 50 Union states outside of federal lands within those states?	YES
13	Do I conduct a "trade or business" in the "United States"?	Do I hold "public office" for the U.S. government in the federal United States or federal zone and thereby receive excise taxable privileges from the U.S. government?	NO
14	Do I make "gross income" derived from a "taxable source" as defined in 26 U.S.C. §§861 or 862?	Do I derive income from a privileged corporation that is registered and resident in the "federal zone" or from the U.S. government as a "public officer" of a U.S. Corporation?	NO
15	Do I perform "personal services"?	Am I a "public officer" of the U.S. government who receives a salary for my job?	NO

1 Jesus warned us that a thief would come to kill and hurt and destroy us by devious means, and this thief is our own
2 government and the legal profession!:

3 *"Most assuredly, I say to you, he who does not enter the sheepfold by the door, but climbs up some other way,
4 the same is a thief and a robber. But he who enters the door is the shepherd of the sheep.....The thief does
5 not come except to steal, and to kill, and to destroy. I have come that they may have life, and that they may* 6 have it more abundantly."
7 [John 10:1-9, Bible, NKJV]

8 We hope that one of the lessons you will walk away with after you discover the kind of deceit above is that educating our
9 young people to make them smart without giving them a moral or character or religious education causes major problems in 10 our society like that above. Cheating in our schools is now rampant, and once these dishonest students enter the job market
11 and become lawyers, politicians, and judges, their deceit is only magnified because of greed. It's no wonder that during the 12 first half century of this country, you needed to just about have a divinity degree before you could think about studying to 13 be a lawyer! No one with any sense of morality or decency or integrity would try to deceive the way the IRS lawyers have deceived us all with the tax code shown above. This also explains the quotes at the beginning of this chapter, where we provide bible verses in which Jesus condemned lawyers. He did this for a reason and now we know why! Let me repeat His very words again from the beginning of chapter 3 for your benefit:

*"Woe to you lawyers! for you have taken away the keys of knowledge; you did not enter yourselves, and you hindered those who were entering."
[Luke 11:52, Bible, NKJV]*

How did lawyers take away the keys to knowledge? They did it by destroying or undermining the meaning of words, and thereby robbing us of our liberty and our right of due process under the law. Because the law has been obfuscated, custody of our liberty has been transferred from the law and our own understanding of the law to the arbitrary whims of judges, the legal profession, and the courts, who we then are forced to rely upon to "interpret" the law and thereby tell us what our rights are. These tactics have transformed us from a society of laws to a society of men, which eventually will be our downfall and the means of totally corrupting our legal system if we don't correct it soon. Confucius said it best:

*"When words lose their meaning, people will lose their liberty."
[Confucius, 500 B.C.]*

Lastly, we'd like to offer you a funny anecdote to illustrate just what the affect has been in courtrooms all over the country of the law profession's "theft" of our words and distortion of our language. Playwright Jim Sherman wrote the script below just after Hu Jintao was named chief of the Communist Party in China in 2002. The dialog was patterned after a similar comedic exchange in the 1920's between the Abbott and Costello called "Who's On First?" The conversation depicted below is between George Bush and his Assistant for National Security Affairs, Condoleezza Rice. To apply this metaphor to a tax trial, imagine that George Bush is the jury and Condi is you, who are the accused person litigating to defend your rights. Notice how much confusion there is over words in this interchange. You will then understand just how difficult it is to explain to jurists that the most important words in the tax code don't conform to our everyday understanding of the human language in most cases.

HU'S ON FIRST

By James Sherman

(We take you now to the Oval Office.)

George: Condi! Nice to see you. What's happening?

Condi: Sir, I have the report here about the new leader of China.

George: Great. Lay it on me.

Condi: Hu is the new leader of China.

George: That's what I want to know.

Condi: That's what I'm telling you.

George: That's what I'm asking you. Who is the new leader of China?

Condi: Yes.

George: I mean the fellow's name.

Condi: Hu.

George: The guy in China.

Condi: Hu.

George: The new leader of China.

Condi: Hu.

1 George: The Chinaman!

2 Condi: Hu is leading China.

3 George: Now whaddya' asking me for?

4 Condi: I'm telling you Hu is leading China.

5 George: Well, I'm asking you. Who is leading China?

6 Condi: That's the man's name.

7 George: That's who's name?

8 Condi: Yes.

9 George: Will you or will you not tell me the name of the new leader of China?

10 Condi: Yes, sir.

11 George: Yassir? Yassir Arafat is in China? I thought he was in the Middle East.

12 Condi: That's correct.

13 George: Then who is in China?

14 Condi: Yes, sir.

15 George: Yassir is in China?

16 Condi: No, sir.

17 George: Then who is?

18 Condi: Yes, sir.

19 George: Yassir?

20 Condi: No, sir.

21 George: Look, Condi. I need to know the name of the new leader of China. Get me the Secretary General of the 22 U.N. on the phone.

23 Condi: Kofi?

24 George: No, thanks.

25 Condi: You want Kofi?

26 George: No.

27 Condi: You don't want Kofi.

28 George: No. But now that you mention it, I could use a glass of milk. And then get me the U.N.

29 Condi: Yes, sir.

30 George: Not Yassir! The guy at the U.N.

31 Condi: Kofi?

32 George: Milk! Will you please make the call?

Condi: And call who?

George: Who is the guy at the U.N?

Condi: Hu is the guy in China.

George: Will you stay out of China?!

Condi: Yes, sir.

George: And stay out of the Middle East! Just get me the guy at the U.N.

Condi: Kofi.

George: All right! With cream and two sugars. Now get on the phone.

Condi: Rice, here.

George: Rice? Good idea. And a couple of egg rolls, too. Maybe we should send some to the guy in China. And the Middle East. Can you get Chinese food in the Middle East?

3.15.1.1 “citizen” (undefined)

The term “citizen” is nowhere defined directly in the Internal Revenue Code and is defined in the implementing regulations found in 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(c) as follows:

26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(c): Income Tax on individuals

(c) Who is a citizen. Every person born or naturalized in the [federal] United States and subject to its exclusive federal jurisdiction under [Article 1, Section 8, Clause 17 of the Constitution] jurisdiction is a citizen. For other rules governing the acquisition of citizenship, see chapters 1 and 2 of title III of the Immigration and Nationality Act (8 U.S.C. 1401-1459). For rules governing loss of citizenship, see sections 349 to 357, inclusive, of such Act (8 U.S.C. 1481-1489), Schneider v. Rusk, (1964) 377 U.S. 163, and Rev. Rul. 70-506, C.B. 1970-2, 1. For rules pertaining to persons who are nationals but not citizens at birth, e.g., a person born in American Samoa, see section 308 of such Act (8 U.S.C. 1408). For special rules applicable to certain expatriates who have lost citizenship with a principal purpose of avoiding certain taxes, see section 877. A foreigner who has filed his declaration of intention of becoming a citizen but who has not yet been admitted to citizenship by a final order of a naturalization court is an alien.

The “citizen” described above as the proper subject of the income tax can be either a corporation or a human being born in the federal United States (federal zone), which includes territories and possessions of the United States and the District of Columbia. This is confirmed by reading 26 C.F.R. §31.3121(e) as follows:

26 C.F.R. §31.3121(e)-1 State, United States, and citizen

(b)...The term 'citizen of the United States' includes a citizen of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico or the Virgin Islands, and, effective January 1, 1961, a citizen of Guam or American Samoa.

Do you see anyone born in a state of the Union described above? The legal encyclopedia, Corpus Juris Secundum (C.J.S.), also confirms that corporations are “citizens”:

"A corporation is a citizen, resident, or inhabitant of the state or country by or under the laws of which it was created, and of that state or country only."
[19 Corpus Juris Secundum (C.J.S.), Corporations, §886 (2003); Legal encyclopedia]

Because corporations are STATUTORY but NOT CONSTITUTIONAL “citizens”, this fits in with the notion discussed in section 5.6.5 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 that “income” within the meaning of Subtitle A of the Internal Revenue Code can only mean “corporate profit”. The only human beings who are STATUTORY “citizens” and “individuals” within the Internal Revenue Code are instrumentalities or privileged public officers of the United States government, as we discussed later in section 3.15.1.10. The government has always had the authority to tax and regulate its own employees and agents.

People who are born in states of the Union, outside of federal legislative jurisdiction are not STATUTORY “citizens” or “U.S. citizens” or “citizens of the United States” under the Internal Revenue Code or under 8 U.S.C. §1401, but instead are “nationals” under 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21) . “Nationals” are “non-resident non-persons” if not engaged in a public office and “nonresident alien INDIVIDUALS” under the Internal Revenue Code, and this is confirmed by examining the 1040NR form itself, which actually mentions “U.S. nationals” as being “nonresident aliens”.

See the following for further details.

Why You are a “national”, “state national”, and Constitutional but not Statutory Citizen, Form #05.006

3.15.1.2 “Compliance” (undefined)

Element	Definition
Word:	Compliance
Context:	“Our tax system is based on individual self assessment and voluntary compliance.” Mortimer Caplin, former I.R.S. Commissioner.
Internal Rev. Code:	(undefined)
Black’s Law Dictionary:	Submission, obedience, conformance
Webster’s:	1) the act of complying; a yielding, as to a request, wish, desire, demand or proposal; concession; submission. 2) the act of complying; a yielding, as to a request, wish, desire, demand or proposal; concession; submission.
Comment:	In my opinion, the word “compliance” means “obedience to” or “yielding to.”

3.15.1.3 “Domestic corporation” (in 26 U.S.C. §7701 (a)(4))

(4) Domestic

The term “domestic” when applied to a corporation or partnership means created or organized in the United States or under the law of the United States or of any State unless, in the case of a partnership, the Secretary provides otherwise by regulations.

Did you notice they didn’t define “domestic” from the perspective of “income” or from the perspective of persons or individuals? The reason is because as far as the “United States” is concerned, we are all nonresident citizens of a foreign “State”. That is because the “United States” actually is the “federal zone”, which is made up of only the District of Columbia at the present time according to 26 U.S.C. §7701. We talk about the “federal zone” later in section 3.15.4 if you want to explore further. This definition is very important when you consider the “source” rules in section 861 of the code and when they use the term “foreign” or “domestic” in the context of those rules. The below court ruling of the New York Court of appeals helps clarify the meaning of the terms “foreign” and domestic.

3.15.1.4 “Employee” (in 26 U.S.C. §3401 (c))

26 U.S.C. §3401

Employee

For purposes of this chapter, the term “employee” includes [is limited to] an officer, employee, or elected official of the United States, a State, or any political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing. The term "employee" also includes an officer of a corporation.

Even more interesting is the regulation corresponding to this definition, which states:

26 C.F.R. §31.3401(c) Employee:

"...the term [employee] includes officers and employees, whether elected or appointed, of the United States, a [federal] State, Territory, Puerto Rico or any political subdivision, thereof, or the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing. The term 'employee' also includes an officer of a corporation."

Now isn't that interesting? The I.R.C. says you aren't considered an employee as far as payroll deductions unless you are an "public officer" of the United States in direct receipt of government privileges! And yet, the IRS will vociferously deny that the income tax is an excise tax, which is synonymous with "privilege" tax. This section means the U.S. Government has no authority whatsoever to be telling private employers to withhold pay or hold them liable for not withholding! Even more interesting is the definition of "employee" found in 5 U.S.C. §2105:

2105. Employee

(a) For the purpose of this title, "employee", except as otherwise provided by this section or when specifically modified, means an officer and an individual who is -
(1) appointed in the civil service by one of the following acting in an official capacity -
(A) the President;
(B) a Member or Members of Congress, or the Congress;
(C) a member of a uniformed service;
(D) an individual who is an employee under this section;
(E) the head of a Government controlled corporation; or
(F) an adjutant general designated by the Secretary concerned under section 709(c) of title 32;
(2) engaged in the performance of a Federal function under authority of law or an Executive act; and
(3) subject to the supervision of an individual named by paragraph (1) of this subsection while engaged in the performance of the duties of his position.

[...skipped a few entries since irrelevant...]

(d) A Reserve of the armed forces who is not on active duty or who is on active duty for training is deemed not an employee or an individual holding an office of trust or profit or discharging an official function under or in connection with the United States because of his appointment, oath, or status, or any duties or functions performed or pay or allowances received in that capacity.

Another very interesting insight comes from 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(c)-1, which states:

(c) Generally, physicians, lawyers, dentists, veterinarians, contractors, subcontractors, public stenographers, auctioneers, and others who follow an independent trade, business, or profession, in which they offer their services to the public, are not employees.

Basically then, you aren't a "federal employee" unless you work in the District of Columbia (the proper United States) or were appointed by the delegated authority of an elected official. Any other situation implies that you are practicing a business trade or profession that does not depend on the privileges incident to political office. (Rather twisted logic, isn't all of this!.. that's the way lawyers like it because that's where they get their job security from....COMPLEX LAWS!) Once again, the key to understanding this situation is to recognize that the jurisdiction of the government to tax results from the acceptance of government privileges in exchange for consent to waive one's rights to not pay taxes.

3.15.1.5 "Employer" (in 26 U.S.C. §3401 (d))

Employer

For purposes of this chapter, the term "employer" means the person for whom an individual performs or performed any service, of whatever nature, as the employee of such person, except that -

(1) if the person for whom the individual performs or performed the services does not have control of the payment of the wages for such services, the term "employer" (except for purposes of subsection (a)) means the person having control of the payment of such wages, and

(2) in the case of a person paying wages on behalf of a nonresident alien individual, foreign partnership, or foreign corporation, not engaged in trade or business within the United States, the term "employer" (except for purposes of subsection (a)) means such person.

You will note that because of the definition of "employee" listed in the previous section and in 26 U.S.C. §3401(c), which indicated that an employee is actually "an officer, elected official, or employee of the United States" (e.g. a "public officer" of the U.S. government), then an employer by definition is a federal government agency. Of course the government has jurisdiction over itself to require such "employers" to withhold income on nonresident aliens with U.S. source income under 26 U.S.C. §1441\(a\), but they don't have such jurisdiction over private employers in the 50 Union states who are not resident inside the federal zone.

3.15.1.6 "Foreign corporation" (in 26 U.S.C. §7701 (a)(5))

(5) Foreign

The term "foreign" when applied to a corporation or partnership means a corporation or partnership which is not domestic.

Did you notice they didn't define the term "foreign" or "domestic" from the perspective of "income" or from the perspective of persons or individuals? The reason is because as far as the federal law is concerned, we are all nonresident nationals and "nonresident aliens" of a foreign political jurisdictions, which are the states of the Union. This is very important when you consider the "source" rules in section 861 of the code and when they use the term "foreign" or "domestic" in the context of those rule.

Foreign Laws: "The laws of a foreign country or sister state. In conflicts of law, the legal principles of jurisprudence which are part of the law of a sister state or nation. Foreign laws are additions to our own laws, and in that respect are called 'jus receptum'." [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 647]

Foreign States: "Nations outside of the United States...Term may also refer to another state; i.e. a sister state. The term 'foreign nations', ...should be construed to mean all nations and states other than that in which the action is brought; and hence, one state of the Union is foreign to another, in that sense." [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 648]

3.15.1.7 "Gross Income" (26 U.S.C. §61)

"Gross income" is specifically defined in 26 U.S.C. Section 61 as follows:

Sec. 61. Gross income defined

(a) General definition

Except as otherwise provided in this subtitle, gross income means all income from whatever source derived, including (but not limited to) the following items:

(1) Compensation for services, including fees, commissions, fringe benefits, and similar items;

(2) Gross income derived from business;

(3) Gains derived from dealings in property;

(4) Interest;

(5) Rents;

(6) Royalties;

(7) Dividends;

(8) Alimony and separate maintenance payments;

(9) Annuities;

- (10) Income from life insurance and endowment contracts;
 (11) Pensions;
 (12) Income from discharge of indebtedness;
 (13) Distributive share of partnership gross income;
 (14) Income in respect of a decedent; and
 (15) Income from an interest in an estate or trust.

The items above are referred to as “items of gross income”. However, “items of gross income” identified above must derive from a situs, or “source” specifically indicated as taxable under 26 C.F.R. § 1.861-8(f), which is the implementing regulation pointed to by both 26 U.S.C. §861 for “sources within” and 26 U.S.C. §862 for “sources without” the [district/federal] “United States”. Even if the gross income is listed as an item in Section 61 above, it still must also derive from a taxable source identified in 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f) in order to be the taxable type of gross income that goes on a tax return.

Items that the law includes in “income” are described in Code sections listed under the title of “Items Specifically Included in Gross Income”, which covers I.R.C. Sections 71 through 86. Nowhere in these sections and nowhere else in the Code is there any mention of wages, salaries, commissions, or tips as being “income”. As a matter of fact, “wages” used to be explicitly listed in section 22(a) of the 1939 version of the Internal Revenue Code and was deliberately removed in the 1954 code! Here is what that section said:

§22. Gross income—(a) General definition

“Gross income” includes gains, profits, and income derived from salaries, wages, or compensation for personal services (including personal service as an officer or employee of a State, or any political subdivision thereof, or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing), of whatever kind...”

Why would Congress eliminate “wages” if they wanted wages to continue to be taxable?

Likewise, to deceive and intimidate waitresses into declaring their tips to be income is a double fraud. First, tips are gifts, earned outside of federal jurisdiction to persons who do not file a W-4 with the employer are not “wages”. According to the IRC, gifts are not subject to income tax. In fact, even if tips were considered to be wages, they would still not be “income” and would not be subject to an income (excise) tax unless one enters them as “income” on a tax return form. Refer to section 5.6.7 for further details on the taxability of wages.

3.15.1.8 "Includes" and "Including" (26 U.S.C. §7701 (c))

"trade or business"	26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26)
"United States"	26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9)

The Internal Revenue Service wants you to believe that the Tax Code covers everything that is listed in the Code, and can be expanded to involve anything else they may decide upon at any later date without the need to rewrite the law! Look at the “definition” written in the Internal Revenue Code:

“Sec. 7701(c) INCLUDES AND INCLUDING. - The terms ‘include’ and ‘including’ when used in a definition contained in this title shall not be deemed to exclude other things otherwise within the meaning of the term defined.”

This would, at first glance, seem to say that these words are used in the Code in an expansive way, not a limiting way. (However, if you carefully analyze this “definition,” you discover that it is a classic example of “double-talk.” It really doesn’t say ANYTHING!) But, going along with their game, if you are supposed to believe that these words are expansive in nature, how can you explain the definition for “GROSS INCOME” as stated in the Code?

“SEC. 61(a) GENERAL DEFINITION. - Except as otherwise provided in this subtitle, gross income means all income from whatever source derived, including (but not limited to) the following items...” [Emphasis added]

Why did they feel compelled to add “(but not limited to)?” The answer is self-evident: they knew that “including” is a LIMITING term! The reason they included this phrase also has to do with a rule of statutory construction documented in a book entitled Federal Tax Research: Guide to Materials and Techniques, Fifth Edition, Gail Levin Richmond, 1997, ISBN 1-56662-457-6 on page 40:

“expressio unius, exclusio alterius”—if one or more items is specifically listed, omitted items are purposely excluded. Becker v. United States, 451 U.S. 1306 (1981)

If our deceitful lawmakers wanted to have the flexibility to contend that items other than those itemized in the Code could be added to the definition of Gross Income, they had to specifically reserve the right to add other things - hence the addition of “(but not limited to).”

You need to understand that the words “include” and “includes,” when used in the Tax Code, DO NOT mean that other things can be included or added arbitrarily, but rather the definition is limited to the items specifically listed in the law. The Treasury definition of includes published in the Federal Register confirms this:

Treasury Decision 3980, Vol. 29, January-December, 1927, pgs. 64 and 65 defines the words includes and including as:

“(1) To comprise, comprehend, or embrace...(2) To enclose within; contain; confine...But granting that the word ‘including’ is a term of enlargement, it is clear that it only performs that office by introducing the specific elements constituting the enlargement. It thus, and thus only, enlarges the otherwise more limited, preceding general language...The word ‘including’ is obviously used in the sense of its synonyms, comprising; comprehending; embracing.”

“Includes is a word of limitation. Where a general term in Statute is followed by the word, ‘including’ the primary import of the specific words following the quoted words is to indicate restriction rather than enlargement. Powers ex re. Covon v. Charron R.I., 135 A.2nd. 829, 832 Definitions-Words and Phrases pages 156-156, Words and Phrases under ‘limitations’.”

Treasury Decision No. 3980, Vol. 29, January-December 1927, and some 80 court cases have also adopted the restrictive meaning of these terms.

As you probably know, Black’s Law Dictionary is the Bible of legal definitions. See what it says:

“Include. (Lat. Includere, to shut in. keep within.) To confine within, hold as an inclosure. Take in, attain, shut up, contain, inclose, comprise, comprehend, embrace, involve. Term may, according to context, express an enlargement and have the meaning of and or in addition to, or merely specify a particular thing already included within general words theretofore used. “Including” within statute is interpreted as a word of enlargement or of illustrative application as well as a word of limitation. Premier Products Co. v. Cameron, 240 Or. 123, 400 P.2d. 227, 228.”
[Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 763]

In other words, according to Black, when INCLUDE is used it expands to take in all of the items stipulated or listed, but is then limited to them!

Further, Bouvier’s Law Dictionary (written by the U.S. Supreme Court Justice with the same name) has the following definitions:

“INCLUDE (Lat. in claudere to shut in, keep within). In a legacy of ‘one hundred dollars including money trusted’ at a bank, it was held that the word ‘including’ extended only to a gift of one hundred dollars; 132 Mass. 218...”

"INCLUDING. The words 'and including' following a description do not necessarily mean 'in addition to,' but may refer to a part of the thing described. 221 U.S. 425."

And, in everyday life, the meaning of these words is a RESTRICTIVE one, not an EXPANSIVE one.

Read the American College Dictionary:

"include, v.f.;-cluded, -cluding. 1. to contain, embrace, or comprise, as a whole does parts or any part or element."

"included, adj. 1. enclosed; embraced; comprised. 2. But. not projecting beyond the mouth of the corolla, as stamens or a style."

Note that here, even the Botanical meaning is a confining use! Now, Roget's Thesaurus:

"include, v.f. comprise, comprehend, contain, admit, embrace, receive; enclose, circumscribe, compose, incorporate, encompass; recon or number among, count in; refer to, place under, take into account."

So, when you see "including" or "includes," whether in normal usage or in a Internal Revenue Code, understand that it is limited to the items listed and spelled out in the Law and nothing more. This must be so because the expansive use of the word "includes" and "including" violates our Fifth Amendment due process protections as shown below in the U.S. Supreme Court case of Connally vs. General Construction Co., 269 U.S. 385 (1926) :

"A statute which either forbids or requires the doing of an act in terms so vague that men and women of common intelligence must necessarily guess at its meaning and differ as to its application, violates the first essential of due process of law."

If the act doesn't specifically identify what is forbidden or "included" and we have to rely not on the law, but some judge or lawyer or politician or a guess to describe what is "included", then our due process has been violated and our government has thereby instantly been transformed from a government of laws to a government of men.

The concept of "due process of law" as it is embodied in Fifth Amendment demands that a law shall not be unreasonable, arbitrary, or capricious and that the means selected shall have a reasonable and substantial relation to the object being sought.

If the word "includes" is used in its expansive sense, we have, in effect, subjected ourselves to the arbitrary whims of however the currently elected politician or judge wants to describe what is "included". That leads to massive chaos, injustice, and unconstitutional behavior by our courts and our elected representatives. It also promotes unnecessary litigation over the meaning of the tax code, to the benefit of lawyers, lawmakers, and the American Bar Association, which is a clear conflict of interest.

Why did the Congress define "include" the way they did? Because that way they can define and interpret the Internal Revenue Code however they want! They needed to leave wiggle room for the IRS and the Treasury in the writing of the interpreting regulations. In particular, the interpreting regulations in 26 C.F.R. have a much broader definition of "employer" and "employee" that is not consistent with the U.S. Code section 7701 and 3401, so they had to leave room for the IRS to defend their interpretation of the code by saying:

"The code does not define or limit everything that is taxable because the word 'include' is not restrictive, and so we can write our regulations however we want to and disregard the codes entirely."

This is obviously tyranny in action, and it must be stopped! See section 3.12.12 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302, entitled "26 C.F.R. § 31: Employment Taxes and Collection of Income Taxes at the Source" for an expose on how the IRS and Treasury distorted its regulations because of this tyrannical trick with the word "includes".

According to tax paralegal Eddie Kahn (<http://www.eddiekahn.com/>), because the term "includes" is defined expansively in 26 U.S.C. §7701(c), any "definition" that uses this word is a NON definition and cannot be relied upon to clearly and unambiguously define the meaning of a word. We disagree, and think that the term "includes" is and always has been a word of limitation. Mr. Kahn argues that any definition that uses "means" instead of "includes", however, is a legitimate definition that does properly bound the meaning of a word, and we agree with this. You will note that 26 U.S.C. §7701 has a mixture of definitions, some of which use the word "means" and others use the word "includes". Be cautious with the definitions that use the word "includes" because they are designed to deliberately confuse you if you use the expansive, or non-limiting version of "includes" that we don't endorse. This kind of double speak is evident, for instance, in the definition of the term "United States" found in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)9, and represents a violation of due process

Finally, the U.S. Supreme Court put a nail in the coffin of the expansive use of the word "includes" when it said the following:

In the interpretation of statutes levying taxes, it is THE ESTABLISHED RULE NOT TO EXTEND their provisions, by implication, BEYOND THE CLEAR IMPORT OF THE LANGUAGE USED, OR TO ENLARGE their operations SO AS TO EMBRACE MATTERS NOT SPECIFICALLY POINTED OUT".
[Gould v. Gould, 245 U.S. 151]

For a more thorough and passionate treatment of the subject of the word "includes", refer to section 8.2.20 later in this book.

3.15.1.9 "Income" (not defined)

Most people mistakenly believe all monies they receive, such as wages, salaries, and tips, are "income". However, for years, IRS publication #525, entitled "Taxable and Nontaxable Income", has acknowledged that wages and salaries are not "income". Publication #525 states:

"Wages and salaries are the main source of income for most people."

In the court decision of Graves v. People of the State of New York ex rel O'Keefe, 59 S.Ct. 595 (1939), the United States Supreme Court ruled that a source of income is not income, and the source is not subject to income tax. In that decision, the Court stated:

"A tax on income is not economically or legally a tax on its source."

However, wages, salaries, commissions, and tips (sources of money for human beings) are considered to be "income" for an individual when he lists them as "income" on an IRS tax return form, even if they aren't classified as "income" by the Constitution.

When a human being signs the tax form under penalty of perjury, he has made a voluntary oath that his wages, salary, commissions, and tips listed on the return are "income" and that he is subject to the tax. In the still standing decision of Brushaber v. Union Pacific Railroad Company, 240 U.S. 1, the United States Supreme Court ruled that the federal income tax is an excise tax under the Sixteenth Amendment (the income tax amendment). The Court explained that the income tax cannot be imposed as a direct tax (a tax on individuals or on property) because the United States Constitution still requires that all direct taxes must be apportioned among the States. "Apportioned" means that a direct tax is laid upon the State governments in proportion to each State's population. The Court ruled that income tax can be constitutional only as an indirect (excise) tax -- that is, a tax on profits earned by corporations or privileges granted by federal government. In other words, said the Supreme Court, in order for there to be "income", there must be profits or gains received in the exercise of a privilege granted by government. As an example, a lawyer is granted the government privilege of being an officer of the government court when he represents clients in litigation.

As you will learn later, in section 5.6.5, "income" can only mean "corporate profit", according to the U.S. Supreme Court in Doyle v. Mitchell Bros. Co., 247 U.S. 179, 185, 38 S.Ct. 467 (1918). By that we mean profits of either state or federal corporations involved in foreign commerce, within the meaning of the U.S. Constitution, according to the U.S. Supreme Court. The Supreme Court also determined in Eisner v. Macomber, 252 U.S. 189, 207, 40 S.Ct. 189, 9 A.L.R. 1570 (1920) that Congress, cannot by legislation or the Internal Revenue Code, define "income". You can't have "gross income" until you have "income". Therefore, how can Congress even define "gross income", since it depends on the definition of "income"? Once you have "gross income", you must apply 26 C.F.R. § 1.861-8(f) to determine the portion of your gross income that is "taxable income", as per 26 U.S.C. Section 863. After applying that test, most people have no taxable income and should put zero under income on their tax return, if they even file an income tax return.

3.15.1.10 "Individual" (26 C.F.R. § 1.1441-1(c)(3))

The term “individual” is used in sections 26 U.S.C. §1 and is also used in 26 U.S.C. §6012\(a\) but it is never defined anywhere in the Internal Revenue Code (I.R.C). The reason it is not defined is that doing so would expose the government’s secret weapon, which is the abuse of words to expand the jurisdiction of the federal government beyond its Constitutional limitations. The U.S. Code elsewhere defines the term “person” as follows, but this definition is superseded by that found in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(1) shown later:

§8. “Person”, “human being”, “child”, and “individual” as including born-alive infant

(a) In determining the meaning of any Act of Congress, or of any ruling, regulation, or interpretation of the various administrative bureaus and agencies of the United States, the words “person”, “human being”, “child”, and “individual”, shall include every infant member of the species homo sapiens who is born alive at any stage of development.

(b) As used in this section, the term “born alive”, with respect to a member of the species homo sapiens, means the complete expulsion or extraction from his or her mother of that member, at any stage of development, who after such expulsion or extraction breathes or has a beating heart, pulsation of the umbilical cord, or definite movement of voluntary muscles, regardless of whether the umbilical cord has been cut, and regardless of whether the expulsion or extraction occurs as a result of natural or induced labor, cesarean section, or induced abortion.

(c) Nothing in this section shall be construed to affirm, deny, expand, or contract any legal status or legal right applicable to any member of the species homo sapiens at any point prior to being “born alive” as defined in this section.

Therefore, we have to look in the legal dictionary for the definition. Below is the definition found in Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, on p. 773:

Individual. As a noun, this term denotes a single person as distinguished from a group or class, and also, very commonly, a private or natural person as distinguished from a partnership, corporation, or association; but it is said that this restrictive signification is not necessarily inherent in the word, and that it may, in proper cases, include [be limited to] artificial persons.

[Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 773]

Note that this definition above does not necessarily imply a natural (biological) person. Therefore, the Internal Revenue Code cannot yet be said to necessarily apply to human beings. Here is the proper definition of “individual” in the context of the IRS form 1040 and within the meaning of the code, as we understand it:

Individual

An artificial federally-chartered entity, meaning a federal (but not state) chartered corporation or partnership or trust. Also, an alien or nonresident alien who is an elected or appointed officer of the United States government with income originating from the federal United States government. This “individual” is NOT a natural person with income from outside the district (federal) United States who is living and working for a private employer in the 50 united States of America because of the restrictions on direct taxes imposed by Article 1, Section 9, Clause 4, and Article 1, Section 2, Clause 3 of the U.S. Constitution..¹¹¹

The term “individual” is referenced in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(1) under the definition of “person” as follows:

TITLE 26 > Subtitle F > CHAPTER 79 > Sec. 7701.
Sec. 7701. - Definitions

(a)(1) Person

The term “person” shall be construed to mean and include an individual, a trust, estate, partnership, association, company or corporation.

Note the very important phrase “an individual” rather than “all individuals”. This is a VERY important clue that the Internal Revenue Code applies only to a very specific type of “individual” who is involved in a taxable activity, and not to all individuals generally. A law that only applies to a special subset of “individuals” is called a “special law”. Your mission, should you choose to accept it, is to figure out exactly what kind of “individual” fits the above description. We only need to look in three places in the code to determine who this individual is:

1. 26 U.S.C. §6331(a) says the only proper person against whom distraint may be exercised are “public officers” of the United States government, who by implication are involved in a “public office”.
2. 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) defines and limits the term “trade or business” to “the functions of a public office”.
3. 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(31) says that all those who are not involved in a “trade or business” are not the proper subject of the Internal Revenue Code.

Simple, isn’t it? A tax researcher named Frank Kowalik, who wrote the book IRS Humbug (see section 5.6.13 later), also concludes that the term “individual” means only a “public officers” of the United States government and he presents mountains of evidence to back that up in his book. Here’s the way he describes it in his book on pages 122 through 123:

I emphasized that section 6012(a) applies to “every individual” who received “gross income.” The word “individual” is not directly defined in the I.R. Code. Still, Congress indirectly, but distinctly, limited the meaning of the term “individual” by use of the word “an” rather than “any” in the general definition of the word “person” [see definition above in 7701(a)(1)] for the I.R. Code. When a section of law applies to all persons living under the laws of the United States of America, the words “any person” are used. When limited to specific classes of persons, the phrase “a person” or “an individual” is used. Hence, Congress distinctly made only those “individuals” who perform personal services for the U.S. Government fall within the class of individuals (natural persons) subject to the I.R. Code laws by the definition of “person” in section 7701(a)(1). All other individuals are, by implication, excluded.

Even though section 6012(a) contains the word “every” (usually meaning without exception) in conjunction with the term “individual,” Congress limited this statute to Federal Government employees. The restriction was accompanied by adding “having... gross income.” Only federal government employees receive “gross income” subject to I.R. Code laws because of their “wages.” Private sector employees do not.

Congressmen must have intended the term “every individual” to be misunderstood and interpreted broadly rather than restrictively. Yet it would be manifestly incompatible with the intent of the law of the United States of America for Congress to expand the word “individual” to all persons considering the fact that compelling anyone to make private information public in a document would be a violation of their First, Fourth, and Fifth Amendment rights. This is why there can be no I.R. Code law mandating the making of a “U.S. Individual Income Tax Return.”¹¹²

We agree wholeheartedly with him, and 26 U.S.C. §6331\(a\) and 26 U.S.C. §3401(c) confirm this conclusion. Frank points out that the above definition uses the word “an” in front of “individual” so as to emphasize that “person” does not include all “individuals”, but only certain individuals defined elsewhere in the code. If Congress had intended the code to apply to all individuals, they would have used the term “all individuals” or “all persons”, but they didn’t. They didn’t because doing so would violate the intent and spirit of the Constitutional prohibition against direct taxes found in 1:2:3 and 1:9:4 of the U.S. Constitution.

We will now examine the definition of “individual” found in 26 C.F.R. § 1.1441-1(c)(3):

26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1 Requirement for the deduction and withholding of tax on payments to foreign persons.

(c) Definitions

(3) Individual.

(i) Alien individual.

The term alien individual means an individual who is not a citizen or a national of the United States. See Sec. 1.1-1(c).

(ii) Nonresident alien individual.

The term nonresident alien individual means a person described in section 7701(b)(1)(B), an alien individual who is a resident of a foreign country under the residence article of an income tax treaty and Sec. 301.7701(b)-7(a)(1) of this chapter, or an alien individual who is a resident of Puerto Rico, Guam, the Commonwealth of ¹¹² IRS Humbug, Frank Kowalik, ISBN 0-9626552-0-1, 1991, pp. 122-123.

Northern Mariana Islands, the U.S. Virgin Islands, or American Samoa as determined under Sec. 301.7701(b)-1(d) of this chapter. An alien individual who has made an election under section 6013 (g) or (h) to be treated as a resident of the United States is nevertheless treated as a nonresident alien individual for purposes of withholding under chapter 3 of the Code and the regulations thereunder.

The above definition ought to raise some BIG red flags! First of all, if you live in the [federal] United States as a human being, you aren't an "individual" because the definition of "individual" doesn't include citizens of the United States! Note also that the above definition doesn't constrain itself to a specific section of the code by saying something like "for the purposes of chapter 3 of the I.R.C....". In fact, this is the ONLY definition of the term "individual" found ANYWHERE in either the Internal Revenue Code or the Regulations. Therefore, the tax code can't apply to you even if you claim to be a U.S. citizen! This is also consistent with our findings earlier. It also explains why a U.S. citizen is defined as someone who lives in the Virgin Islands, Guam, Puerto Rico, or American Samoa, as follows:

26 C.F.R. §31.3121(e)-1 State, United States, and citizen.

(b)...The term 'citizen of the United States' includes a citizen of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico or the Virgin Islands, and, effective January 1, 1961, a citizen of Guam or American Samoa.

The definition for "individual" that the government wants you to incorrectly assume, however, is that found in 5 U.S.C. §552a\(a\)\(2\):

26 U.S.C. §552a(a)(2)

(2) the term "individual" means a citizen of the United States or an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence;

But this definition of "individual" is superseded by the only definition of "individual" found in the Regulations for taxes in 26 C.F.R. 1.1441-1 above. You therefore can't be a "individual" who can be the "person" against whom the income tax is imposed under 26 U.S.C. § 1 unless you either reside OUTSIDE the "United States" under 26 C.F.R. § 1.1441-1(c)(3) or you reside INSIDE the United States and are not a U.S. citizen. That's why they created a definition of "U.S. citizen" that means you are living outside the United States (in the Virgin Islands) so they can "pretend" that you are taxable! That way, even when you tell them you live in the "United States" by giving them an address in the 50 Union states on your tax return, they can still claim that you live in Puerto Rico or the Virgin Islands because of your status as a "U.S. citizen"! This whole scheme can be confirmed by ordering a copy of your Individual Master File (IMF) from the IRS and looking at the transaction codes on the IMF. If you look at your IMF and you have been filing 1040 forms for a while, chances are your record reflects that you reside in the Virgin Islands, even if you really live in one of the 50 Union states outside the federal zone! That's why the IRS made the Publication 6209, which is used for decoding the IMF file, "For Official Use Only", which is short for "Don't let Citizens get their hands on this at all costs!". They know they are committing fraud and they don't want you, the Citizen, to know the horrible truth and expose that fraud, because then they lose their ability to claim "plausible deniability".

I bet this all sounds pretty crazy to you, right(?), but I swear to God it's the truth! These are the kinds of sneaky tricks that IRS lawyers make their living dreaming up in order to make the illegal fraud and extortion called the income tax look more "civilized" and believable and well hidden from public view. They have consumed more than 90 years and thousands of revisions of the code in the process of concocting the deliberately vague and unconstitutional mess we have now. If they wanted the truth in public view, they would have put the definitions of "U.S. citizen" and "individual" in the Internal Revenue Code, right? But they instead buried it deep inside regulations that few Citizens ever view and only the agency itself usually looks at because they wanted to hide it!

The above definitions of "Alien individual" and "Nonresident alien individual" in 26 C.F.R. § 1.1441(c)(3) can also seem a little confusing initially. You will find out that we suggest to people in section 1.5.3.13 of the Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Manual, Form #10.005 that they should renounce their "U.S. citizenship" and become "nationals but not citizens of the United States" as defined in 8 U.S.C. §1452. However, looking at 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3)(i) above leads one to believe that they cannot be a nonresident alien if they are a "national". However, 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(B) reveals that:

26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(B)

(B) Nonresident alien

An individual is a nonresident alien if such individual is neither a citizen of the United States nor a resident of the United States (within the meaning of subparagraph (A)).

A person can therefore be a “national” and not a “U.S. citizen” and live outside the federal zone in a state and be a nonresident alien individual. Our guidance is sound and based on the law.

Even if you believe you are an “individual”, which in most cases you are not as a “human being” living on nonfederal land inside the 50 Union states, you still don’t have any income that equates to a taxable source or situs identified in 26 C.F.R. § 1.861-8(f) and there isn’t a statute making you liable for the tax anyway unless you volunteer to be liable, which we don’t suggest. More on this subject later.

QUESTION FOR DOUBTERS: If you don’t believe an “individual” can only be defined as an “alien” or “nonresident alien” as above or that the above definition is the only definition of “individual” anywhere in the Internal Revenue Code” or 26CFR, then we challenge you to find a definition in either of these two sources of law (not IRS publications, which we will find out later are a fraud, but the law) that defines the word “individual” as also including “U.S. citizens” or “citizens of the United States”. We searched the entire I.R.C. and 26 C.F.R. (20,000 pages) electronically and found NO other definitions! Furthermore, we challenge you to explain why the 1040 income tax form doesn’t say “U.S. Citizen or Resident” instead of “U.S. Individual” at the top of the form!

(a)(21) Levy

The term “levy” includes the power of distraint and seizure by any means.

Note that this definition of “levy” does not necessarily mandate a court order and therefore conflicts with the legal definition of “levy” found below:

Levy, n. A seizure. The obtaining of money by legal process through seizure and sale of property; the raising of the money for which an execution has been issued.

The process whereby a sheriff or other state official empowered by writ or other judicial directive actually seizes, or otherwise brings within her control, a judgment debtor’s property which is taken to secure or satisfy the judgment.

[Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 907]

It is because of the difference between the legal definition of “levy” and the “levy” described in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(21) that the federal courts can claim that levies without due process or which are not empowered by a writ or other judicial directive are Constitutional and legal. See 9.9 for further details on this subject. Remember, however, that the “Notice of Levy” (Form 668A-c\(DO\)) and the “Levy” (Form 668-B) cannot be lawfully issued outside of the federal United States against persons who are not “U.S. citizens” because they would be unconstitutional and a violation of the Fourth and Fifth Amendment. The key is that you must be a “U.S. citizen” to be the subject of a levy that does not involve a judicial proceeding or a judgment. “nationals”, which is what most of us are, are not the proper subject of the IRS “Notice of Levy” (Form 668A-c\(DO\)) or “Levy” (Form 668-B). IRS agents, and especially those with Administrative Pocket Commissions, who issue a Notice of Levy against persons who are “nationals” or who live outside of the federal zone are violating the law by operating outside their jurisdiction and in violation of the Constitution, and can be tried for any number of violations of the law, including:

- Conspiracy against rights under 18 U.S.C. §241
- Extortion under 18 U.S.C. §872 .
- Wrongful actions of Revenue Officers under 26 U.S.C. §7214
- Engaging in monetary transactions derived from unlawful activity under 18 U.S.C. §1957
- Mailing threatening communications under 18 U.S.C. §876
- False writings and fraud under 18 U.S.C. §1018
- Taking of property without due process of law under 26 C.F.R. §601.106\(f\)\(1\)
- Retaliating against or harassing a taxpayer under IRS Restructuring and Reform Act, section 1203

- Unauthorized collection activity under 26 U.S.C. §7433
- Fraud under 18 U.S.C. §1341

3.15.1.12 “Liable” (undefined)

Element	Definition
Word:	Liable
Context:	“Every person liable for any tax imposed by this title, or for the collection thereof, shall keep such records, render such statements, make such returns, and comply with such rules and regulations as the Secretary from time to time prescribe...” --Portion of Sec. 6001, Chap. 61, I.R.C.
Internal Rev. Code:	(undefined)
Black’s Law Dictionary:	Bound or obliged in law or equity; responsible; chargeable; answerable; compellable to make satisfaction, compensation or restitution.
Webster’s:	1) legally bound; answerable; responsible
Comment:	In my opinion, the word “liable” means “responsible” and “bound by law.” This sentence points out that if a person is “liable,” and the I.R.C. section designates said person as “liable” (bound by law), then he must do those things, i.e., keep such records, make such returns, etc., as set forth in Sec. 6001. Without careful scrutiny, an individual could believe that the word “liable” means “to owe (something)” and that he must “pay (something)” —the payment of taxes; rather it serves to give the reader a clue as to what he must do if he determines he is the “person liable.”

3.15.1.13 “Must” means “May”

Element	Definition
Word:	Must
Context:	“You must fill in all parts of the tax form that apply to you.” –IRS Notice 609, Rev. Oct 1986
Internal Rev. Code:	(undefined)
Black’s Law Dictionary:	This word, like the word “shall” is primarily of mandatory effect (cite omitted)..and in that sense is used in antithesis to “may.” But this meaning of the word is not the only one, and it is often used in a merely directory sense, and consequently is a synonym for the word “may” not only in the permissive sense of that word, but also in the mandatory sense which it sometimes has.
Webster’s:	An auxiliary used with the infinitive of various verbs to express: (a) compulsion, obligation, requirement, or necessity; as I must pay her; (b) probability; as, then you must be my cousin; (c) certainty or inevitability; as, it must have rained while we were in.

Most people have never studied the IRC and their understanding of the law is generally based on hearsay, newspaper articles and IRS instructional materials. These instructions make frequent use of the deceptive word “must” in describing the things that the IRS wants you to do, because “must” is a forceful word that people mistakenly believe to mean “are required”. Very few people realize that “must” is a directory word similar to “shall” and that, in IRS instructions to the public, it means “may”, the same as the word “shall”.

Because of the constitutional conflicts explained earlier in this document, the word “must”, similar to the word “shall”, cannot have a mandatory meaning for human beings. It therefore means “may” when used in IRS instruction publications.

The IRS instructions for Form 1040 state that you “must” file a return if you have certain amounts of income. IRS withholding instructions state that employers “must” withhold money from paychecks for income tax, “must” withhold social security tax (an income tax also), and “must” send to the IRS any W-4 withholding statement claiming exemption from withholding, if the wages are expected to usually exceed $200 per week. An understanding of the legal meaning of the word “must” exposes the deception by the IRS and makes it clear that the actions called for are voluntary actions for individuals that are not required by law. If these actions were required by law, the instructions would not use the word "must", but would say that the actions were "required".

3.15.1.14 "Nonresident alien" (in 26 U.S.C. §7701 (b)(1)(B))

United States Code
TITLE 26 - INTERNAL REVENUE CODE
Subtitle F - Procedure and Administration
CHAPTER 79 - DEFINITIONS

(B) Nonresident alien

An individual is a nonresident alien if such individual is neither a citizen of the United States nor a resident of the United States (within the meaning of subparagraph (A)).

Note that you can be a "nonresident alien" and a "national" without being an "alien", so long as you live and were born on nonfederal land in the sovereign 50 states of the union.

3.15.1.15 "Person" (in 26 U.S.C. §7701 (a)(1))

Element	Definition
Word:	person
Context:	"Every person liable for any tax imposed by this title, or for the collection thereof, shall keep such records, render such statements..." –Portion of Sec 6001, Chap. 61, I.R.C.
Internal Rev. Code:	(1) Definition found in Chapter 79. –Definitions* Sec. 7701(a)(1) Person. The term "person" shall be construed to mean and include an individual, a trust, estate, partnership, association, company or corporation. [NOTE: Chapter 61 of the IRC contains sections 6001 and 6011, in which context the word "person" is found. Definitions for certain words in each chapter are usually found within the chapter. The word "person" is not defined in Chapter 61; thus Chapter 79's definition holds.] (2): Definition found in Chapter 75. Sec. 7343. Definition of term "person." The term "person" as used in this chapter includes an officer or employee of a corporation, or a member of employee of a partnership, who as such officer, employee, or member is under a duty to perform the act in respect of which the violation occurs.
Black's Law Dictionary:	In general usage, a human being (i.e., natural person), though by statute term may include a firm, labor organizations, partnerships, associations, corporations, legal representatives, trustees, trustees in bankruptcy, or receivers.
Webster's:	1) an individual human being, especially as distinguished from a thing or lower animal; an individual man, woman or child. ..6) in law, any individual or incorporated group having certain legal rights and responsibilities.

Interestingly, the above word "individual" used in the definition of "person" is never defined anywhere in the Internal Revenue Code, so we have to use the definition from the legal dictionary. Don't use the definition from the conventional dictionary or you'll really confuse yourself! Here is the definition of "individual" in Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 773, we find:

Individual. As a noun, this term denotes a single person as distinguished from a group or class, and also, very commonly, a private or natural person as distinguished from a partnership, corporation, or association; but it is said that this restrictive signification is not necessarily inherent in the word, and that it may, in proper cases, include [be limited to] artificial persons.

So naming "individuals" as "persons" liable for tax in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(1) still doesn't imply human beings like you and me, and according to the above legal definition, "individual" most commonly refers to artificial persons, which in this case are corporations and partnerships as point out in chapter 5 extensively. The only thing Congress has done by using the word "individual" in the definition of "person" is create a circular definition. Such a circular definition is also called a "tautology": a word which is defined using itself, which we would argue doesn't define anything! If Congress wants to include human beings as those liable for the income tax, then they must explicitly say so or the Internal Revenue Code is void for vagueness. Therefore, we must conclude that “persons” may only mean artificial entities unless and until Congress explicitly and clearly specifies otherwise.

“In view of other settled rules of statutory construction, which teach that a law is “Keeping in mind the well-settled rule that the citizen is exempt from taxation unless the same is imposed by clear and unequivocal language, and that where the construction of a tax law is doubtful, the doubt is to be resolved in favor of those upon whom the tax is sought to be laid.”
[Spreckels Sugar Refining Co. v. McClain, 192 U.S. 397 (1904)]

People generally consider the term “person” to mean a human being. But, IRC Section 7701(a)(1), entitled “Definitions”, includes an individual, corporation, a trust, an estate, a partnership, an association, or company as being a “person”. All of these legal entities are “persons” at law, so it is legally correct but very misleading when the federal income (excise) tax on corporations is described by the deceptive title of “Personal Income Tax”. This misleading description leads most people to incorrectly believe that it means a tax on human beings.

“Persons” are actually divided into two main groups:

1. A Natural Born person (what most people think of as a “person”).
2. A “legal fiction” that exists because of a privilege granted by government, including corporations, associations, partnerships, companies, etc.

There is a big difference between the legal rights of a human being and an artificial person and the distinction is never explained or clarified anywhere in the U.S. Code or Internal Revenue Code. The latter are subject to the Uniform Commercial Code (U.C.C.) and have no constitutional rights under the Bill of Rights. Instead, their rights are defined and circumscribed by the privileges granted to them solely by the government within the laws written and enforced by that government. Natural born persons, on the other hand, have fundamental constitutional rights that “legal fictions” don’t. For instance, a natural born person cannot, under the 5th Amendment, be compelled to testify against himself in a court of law, but a “legal fiction”, such as a corporation can be compelled because it depends on privileges and recognition granted by the government for its existence and therefore falls under the jurisdiction of that government. That is why the constitution permits income taxes as indirect, excises placed upon “legal fictions”, such as corporations, businesses, partnerships, trusts, etc., while it does not permit direct taxes on “natural born persons”, which are not “legal fictions” but instead creations of God with inalienable rights, and whose creation and existence precedes and supersedes that of government. You could say that the obligation to pay taxes on the part of a “legal fiction” like a corporation is part of the price paid for the right to exist and have the entity recognized and protected by the government and the courts. For instance, one benefit that corporations have that natural born persons don’t have is limited liability, where individuals within the corporation aren’t personally liable for the financial obligations of the company. This privilege or right of a corporation, which is recognized in the law and by the courts, comes with a price. That price is the obligation of the corporation to pay income taxes as excises to the government.

The legal term “person” has an even more restricted definition when used in IRC Chapter 75, which contains all the criminal penalties in the Code. In Section 7343 of that Chapter, a “person” subject to criminal penalties is defined as: ...

[A]n officer or employee of a corporation, or a member or employee of a partnership, who, as such officer, employee or member, is under a duty to perform the act in respect of which the violation occurs.

An individual who is not in such a capacity is not defined as a “person” subject to criminal penalties. Unprivileged human beings, who do not impose the income (excise) tax upon themselves by volunteering to file returns and be liable, are not subject by law to the tax and they are not “persons” who can lawfully be subjected to criminal charges for not filing a return or not paying income tax. Sections of the Code relating to the requirements for filing returns, keeping records, and disclosing information state that those sections apply to “every person liable” or “any person made liable”. These descriptions mean “any person who is liable for the tax”. They do not state or mean that all persons are liable. The only persons liable are those “persons” (legal entities such as corporations or employees or corporations) who owe an income (excise) tax, and are therefore subject to the requirements of the IRC. If you substitute the word “corporation” for the term “person” (a corporation is a person at law) when reading the Code or other articles and publications relating to income tax, the true meaning of the Code becomes more apparent.

For further information about what the court’s think about this section, read some of the cites in section 5.7 of the Tax Fraud Prevention Manual, Form #06.008, which talks about “not a person” and read the court cases that are cited. Note that all the cases cited by Mr. Becraft in that section are at the circuit court level and none are at the U.S. Supreme Court level. The only authoritative cites, according to the Internal Revenue Manual, are those that come from the Supreme Court.

3.15.1.16 “Personal services” (not defined)

The term “personal services” is nowhere defined in the Internal Revenue Code and is defined only once in the entire 26 C.F.R.. That definition is indicated below:

26 C.F.R. Sec. 1.469-9 Rules for certain rental real estate activities.

(b)(4) PERSONAL SERVICES. Personal services means any work performed by an individual in connection with a trade or business. However, personal services do not include any work performed by an individual in the individual's capacity as an investor as described in section 1.469-5T(f)(2)(ii).

Note that the term “personal services” is used in conjunction with “trade or business”, which we will learn later in section 3.15.1.23 means an activity connected with the holding of public office. Why a public office? Because Subtitle A income taxes are excise taxes on federal corporate privileges. The U.S. government is a federal corporation and the officers of the corporation are in receipt of excise taxable privileges. We clarify this further in section 5.6.5, where we prove that “income” means profit from a corporation involved in foreign (overseas) commerce.

United States Code
TITLE 28 - JUDICIARY AND JUDICIAL PROCEDURE
PART VI - PARTICULAR PROCEEDINGS
CHAPTER 176 - FEDERAL DEBT COLLECTION PROCEDURE
SUBCHAPTER A - DEFINITIONS AND GENERAL PROVISIONS
Sec. 3002. Definitions
(15) “United States” means -
(A) a Federal corporation;
(B) an agency, department, commission, board, or other entity of the United States; or
(C) an instrumentality of the United States.

Why must “personal services” always be connected with a “trade or business”? Because Subtitle A income taxes are actually salary taxes on “public officers” of the United States Government as enacted into law in the Public Salary Tax Act of 1939, 76th Congress, 1st Session, Chap. 59, pgs 574-579! The “public” in the title of that act means public office:

Public Salary Act of 1939, TITLE I—“Section 1. §22(a) of the Internal Revenue Code relating to the definition of ‘gross income’, is amended after the words ‘compensation for personal service’ the following: ‘including personal service as an officer or employee of a State, or any political subdivision thereof, or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing.’”

3.15.1.17 “resident” (in 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A))

Element	Definition
Word:	Resident
Context:	26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(30) definition of “U.S. person”
Internal Rev. Code:	26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A)
Black’s Law Dictionary:	Resident. “Any person who occupies a dwelling within the State, has a present intent to remain within the State for a period of time, and manifests the genuineness of that intent by establishing an ongoing physical presence within the State together with indicia that his presence within the State is something other than merely transitory in nature. The word “resident” when used as a noun means a dweller, habitant or occupant; one who resides or dwells in a place for a period of more, or less, duration; it signifies one having a residence, or one who resides or abides. [Hanson v. P.A. Peterson Home Ass’n, 35 Ill.App.2d. 134, 182 N.E.2d. 237, 240] [Underlines added] Word “resident” has many meanings in law, largely determined by statutory context in which it is used. [Kelm v. Carlson, C.A.Ohio, 473, F.2d. 1267, 1271] [Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1309]
Webster’s:	resident : One who has a residence in a particular place but does not necessarily have the status of a citizen. [1] Note that even when a person is not a resident, he or she may elect to be treated as a resident with his or her consent. The rules for electing to be treated as a resident are found in IRS Publication 54: Tax Guide for U.S. Citizens and Resident Aliens Abroad . [Merriam Webster's Dictionary of Law]

In all tax laws throughout the world that we have seen, “resident” universally means an alien. This is consistent with the definition of “resident” found in the Law of Nations which was used by the Founding Fathers to write the Constitution.

Residents, as distinguished from citizens, are aliens who are permitted to take up a permanent abode in the country. Being bound to the society by reason of their dwelling in it, they are subject to its laws so long as they remain there, and being protected by it, they must defend it, although they do not enjoy all the rights of citizens. They have only certain privileges which the law, or custom, gives them. Permanent residents are those who have been given the right of perpetual residence. They are a sort of citizens of a less privileged character, and are subject to the society without enjoying all its advantages. Their children succeed to their status; for the right of perpetual residence given them by the State passes to their children.
SOURCE: <http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/CitesByTopic/Resident-LawOfNations.pdf>]

The above definition is also consistent with that found in 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A) , which is the only definition of “resident” in the Internal Revenue Code:

26 U.S.C. §7701\(b\)\(1\)\(A\) Resident alien

(b) Definition of resident alien and nonresident alien

(1) In general

For purposes of this title (other than subtitle B) -

(A) Resident alien

An alien individual shall be treated as a resident of the United States with respect to any calendar year if (and only if) such individual meets the requirements of clause (i), (ii), or (iii):

(i) Lawfully admitted for permanent residence

Such individual is a lawful permanent resident of the United States at any time during such calendar year.

(ii) Substantial presence test

Such individual meets the substantial presence test of paragraph (3).

(iii) First year election

Such individual makes the election provided in paragraph (4).

To put it even more succinctly, a resident is an alien with a domicile or “residence” in the “United States”, which is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(9\) and (a)(10) as the District of Columbia ONLY. If you don’t maintain a domicile there, then you aren’t a “resident” even if you are an alien and live there. This is more carefully thoroughly explained later in section 5.4.7 through 5.4.7.14. An alien who is present somewhere but does not have a domicile there is called a “transient foreigner”.

[Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1498]

A “transient foreigner” is someone who chooses not to obtain his protection from the government in the place where he lives. If he has no domicile in any country on earth, such as in heaven, then he is a nontaxpayer everywhere on earth. Taxes pay for protection and those who provide their own protection and choose no earthly domicile essentially have fired all governments on earth and taken responsibility to provide their own protection. It is their natural right to do so pursuant to the First Amendment, which guarantees us a right of freedom from compelled association.

3.15.1.18 “Required” (not defined)

Element	Definition
Word:	Required
Context:	26 U.S.C. §6012(a)(1)(A). Every individual having for the taxable year gross income which equals or exceeds the exemption amount, except that a return shall not be required of an individual -
Internal Rev. Code:	(undefined)
Black's Law Dictionary:	Submission, obedience, conformance
Webster's:	1) to demand; to ask or claim as by right or authority;...3) to order; to command; to call upon to do something.
Comment:	In my opinion, "required" means when one is compelled to do something by written authority; in this case, file a tax return. Further, when something is "required" by law, there is usually a corresponding penalty attached for not doing the "required" act.

The word "required" does not necessarily mean "liable". To give you an example of how tricky the use of the above section 6012 of the Internal Revenue Code is, consider the following:

1. The title of 26 U.S.C. §6012 says "Persons required to make returns of income" BUT, the title of a code section cannot be interpreted as law by the following statute:

United States Code
TITLE 26 - INTERNAL REVENUE CODE
Subtitle F - Procedure and Administration
CHAPTER 80 - GENERAL RULES
Subchapter A - Application of Internal Revenue Laws Sec. 7806. Construction of title

b) Arrangement and classification

No inference, implication, or presumption of legislative construction shall be drawn or made by reason of the location or grouping of any particular section or provision or portion of this title, nor shall any table of contents, table of cross references, or similar outline, analysis, or descriptive matter relating to the contents of this title be given any legal effect. The preceding sentence also applies to the sidenotes and ancillary tables contained in the various prints of this Act before its enactment into law

- If you look inside the section, the section does not state who is "required" or "liable" to file returns, only who is not "required" to file. It instead uses the term "shall be made" in 6012(a), which we will learn in the following section can mean "may be made".

3.15.1.19 "Shall" actually means "May"

Element	Definition
Word:	Shall
Context:	"Returns with respect to income taxes under Subtitle A shall be made by the following:..." –Sec. 6012, I.R. Code as referred to by IRS Privacy Act Notice 609, Rev. Oct. 1986
Internal Rev. Code:	(undefined)
Black's Law Dictionary:	As used in statutes, contracts or the like, this word is generally imperative or mandatory in common ordinary parlance, and in its ordinary signification, the term "shall" is a word of command, and one which has always or which must be given a compulsory meaning; as denoting obligation. It has a peremptory meaning, and it is generally imperative or mandatory. It has the invariable significance of excluding the ideas of discretion, and has the significance of operating to impose a duty which may be enforced, particularly if public policy is in favor of this meaning, or when addressed to public officials, or when a public interest is involved, or where the public person have rights which ought to be exercised or enforced, unless a contrary intent appears. People v. O'Rourke , 124 Cal.App. 752, 13 P.2d. 989, 992. But it may be construed as merely permissive or directory (as equivalent to "may,") to carry out the legislative intention and in cases where no right or benefit to anyone depends on its being taken in the imperative sense, and where no public or private right is impaired by its interpretation in the other sense. Wisdom v. Board of Supp'rs of Polk County , 236 Iowa 669, 19 N.W.2d. 602, 607, 608.

Webster's:	(a) to express futurity in the first person, and determination, compulsion, obligation, or necessity in the second and third persons.

In general use, the word "shall" is a word of command with a mandatory meaning. In the IRC, "shall" is a directory word that has a mandatory meaning when applied to corporations. The IRC contains a series of directory statutes using the word "shall" in describing the actions called for in those sections of the law. The provisions of these directory statutes are requirements for corporations, because corporations are created by government and, consequently, are subject to government direction and control. Since corporations are granted the privilege to exist and operate by government-issued charters, they do not have the constitutionally guaranteed rights of individuals. This government-granted privilege legally obligates corporations to make a "return" of profits and gains earned in the exercise of their privileged operations when directed to do so by law. This is why the tax form is called a "return".

However, directory words in the Code merely imply that individuals are required to perform certain acts, but directory words are not requirements for individuals when a mandatory interpretation of the directory words would conflict with the constitutionally guaranteed rights of human beings/individuals. Courts have repeatedly ruled that in statutes, when a mandatory meaning of the word "shall" would create a constitutional conflict, "shall" must be defined as meaning "may". The following are quotes from a few of these decisions. In the decision of Cairo & Fulton R.R. Co. v. Hecht, 95 U.S. 170, the U.S. Supreme Court stated:

As against the government the word "shall" when used in statutes, is to be construed as "may," unless a contrary intention is manifest.

In the decision of George Williams College v. Village of Williams Bay, 7 N.W.2d. 891, the Supreme Court of Wisconsin stated:

"Shall" in a statute may be construed to mean "may" in order to avoid constitutional doubt.

In the decision of Gow v. Consolidated Coppermines Corp., 165 Atlantic 136, the court stated:

If necessary to avoid unconstitutionality of a statute, "shall" will be deemed equivalent to "may"

Sections 6001 and 6011 of the IRC are cited in the Privacy Act notice in the IRS 1040 instruction booklet in order to lead individuals to believe they are required to perform services for tax collectors. Note the use of the word "shall" in the following sections of the Code:

Section 6001 states:

Every person liable for any tax imposed by this title, or for the collection thereof, shall keep such records, render such statements, make such returns, and comply with such rules and requirements as the Secretary may from time to time prescribe.

Section 6011 states:

When required by regulations prescribed by the Secretary any person made liable for any tax imposed by this title, or for the collection thereof, shall make a return or statement according to the forms and regulations prescribed by the Secretary.

Note that Sections 6001 and 6011 apply to "every person liable" and "any person made liable", but not to human beings (people like you and I). However, THERE IS NO SECTION IN SUBTITLE A OF THE IRC THAT MAKES INDIVIDUALS LIABLE FOR PAYMENT OF INCOME TAX because any law imposing a federal tax on individuals would be unconstitutional, for it would violate the taxing limitations in the U.S. Constitution which prohibit direct taxation of individuals by the federal government. People are often confused when reading the Code because, under Subtitle A, Chapter 1, which covers income taxes, Part 1 of Subchapter A has the misleading title of "Tax on Individuals". The title is misleading because Part 1 imposes the tax on "income", but contains no requirement for individuals to pay it. But an individual becomes a "person liable" for the tax when he files an income tax form, thereby swearing that he is liable for (owes) the tax, even if he technically didn't owe anything!

The Privacy Act notice in the instruction booklet for IRS Form 1040 also shows that disclosure of information by individuals is not required. The notice states:

Our legal right to ask for information is Internal Revenue Code sections 6001 and 6011 and their regulations.

The IRS does not say that those sections require individuals to submit the information; those sections only give the IRS the authority to ask for it.

Section 6012 states:

Returns with respect to income taxes under Subtitle A shall be made by the following: (1)(A) Every individual having for the taxable year gross income which equals or exceeds the exemption amount"

Subsections (2) through (6) list corporations, estates, trusts, partnerships, and certain political organizations as also being subject to this section.

Any requirements compelling unprivileged individuals to keep records, make returns and statements, or to involuntarily perform any other services for tax collectors, would be violations of constitutionally guaranteed rights.

The Thirteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution forbids compelling individuals to perform services involuntarily. The Amendment states:

Neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, except as punishment for crimes whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, shall exist within the United States, or any place subject to their jurisdiction.

The Fourth Amendment in the Bill of Rights of the United States Constitution states that the people's right to privacy of their papers shall not be violated by government. To compel individuals to disclose information taken from their papers would violate this right.

The Fifth Amendment in the Bill of Rights protects the right of individuals not to be required to be witnesses against themselves. To compel individuals to disclose information by submitting statements or information on a tax return form, all of which could be used against them in criminal prosecutions, would violate their Fifth Amendment right.

These examples show some constitutional conflicts that would result from defining the word "shall" as meaning "is required to". Thus, "shall" in the above mentioned statutes must be interpreted as meaning "may". Consequently, for individuals, keeping records, making statements, and making returns are clearly voluntary actions that are not required by law.

3.15.1.20 "State" (in 26 U.S.C. §7701 (a)(10))

State

The term "State" shall be construed to include the District of Columbia, where such construction is necessary to carry out provisions of this title.

After reading this, do you live in a "State". I don't! Can Congress write clear laws? Some people look at this and say: "This must be a mistake. Why would they write this?" Below is a Supreme Court Cite that might help explain why:

"The law of Congress in respect to those matters do not extend into the territorial limits of the states, but have force only in the District of Columbia, and other places that are within the exclusive jurisdiction of the national government."
[Caha v. United States, 152 U.S. 211 (March 5, 1894)]

Another confirmation of the meaning of "State" can be found in the Buck Act of 1940, which is contained in 4 U.S.C. Sections 105-113. Section 110(d) defines "State" as follows:

TITLE 4 - FLAG AND SEAL, SEAT OF GOVERNMENT, AND THE STATES
CHAPTER 4 - THE STATES

(d) The term "State" includes any Territory or possession of the United States.

While we can't use this definition within the context of the IRC, it does help explain why Congress didn't define the meaning of "State" better in the IRC...because they would have to admit that they have no jurisdiction to impose income taxes! You will find out in detail in later sections that the definition of "State" in the IRC above actually means federal possessions and territories, to include the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, Guam, etc. We refer to this area as "the federal zone". The federal zone DOES NOT include the 50 Union states. We refer you to section 5.6.12.2 of the Great IRS Hoax entitled "The definition of the word 'state', key to understanding Congress' limited jurisdiction to tax personal income" for a fascinating and complete discussion of why we reach this startling conclusion.

Finally, the District of Columbia qualifies as a "State", which is part of the federal zone or federal United States:

4 U.S.C.S. §113

"(2) the term 'State' includes the District of Columbia."

However, the District of Columbia does not qualify as a "state", all of which are outside the federal United States:

"1. The District of Columbia and the territories are not states within the judicial clause of the Constitution giving jurisdiction in cases between citizens of different states."
[O'Donoghue v. United States, 289 U.S. 516, 53 S.Ct. 740 (1933)]

3.15.1.21 "Tax" (not defined)

After reading all the laws referenced in this section, it is quite reasonable for one to ask why what is described in the Internal Revenue Code is called a "tax" at all insofar as most Americans living in the states with only earnings from within the 50 Union states are concerned. Aren't taxes something we have to pay? In the case of federal income taxes on citizens living and working in the 50 Union states, they aren't! In reality, the contributions to the federal government described by the Internal Revenue Code amount to a "charitable donation" to the U.S. Government for American nationals living and working in the 50 Union states who do not have foreign income!

In the case of all other types of gifts that we give to friends and loved ones, people thank you for your donation. But in the case of the U.S. Government, they wrongfully prosecute, intimidate, harass, and even imprison you for "failure to file", or in this case "failure to volunteer to gift your income" to the government. Now isn't that nice of them? In every other walk of life, this kind of treatment is called extortion and people are sent to prison for it. In the case of the U.S. Government, a judicial conspiracy founded on the complete disregard for the petition clause of the constitution (see section 7.10 of the Tax Fraud Prevention Manual, Form #06.008 on How the Federal Judiciary Stole the Right to Petition), stealth, complex legalese in the tax code, and intimidation tactics by the IRS in ignoring our legal questions, and violation of our 5th and 14th Amendment due process rights by taking of property without a trial by jury, is what continues to feed the socialist U.S. Government beast that oppresses us with this kind of tyranny. If we "stole" property from people the way the government does to us, however, we would go to jail. That is clearly a pernicious evil that we must surely rid ourself of as a country.

3.15.1.22 "Taxpayer" (in 26 U.S.C. §7701 (a)(14))

26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(14)
Taxpayer

The term "taxpayer" means any person subject to any internal revenue tax.

This same definition is repeated in 26 U.S.C. §1313(b):

26 U.S.C. §1313(b)

(b) Taxpayer

Notwithstanding section 7701(a)(14), the term "taxpayer" means any person subject to a tax under the applicable revenue law.

The deceptive term "taxpayer" is a legal term created by combining the words "tax" and "payer". The general understanding of the term's meaning is different from its legal definition in the IRC. Section 7701(a)(14) gives the legal definition of the term "taxpayer" in relation to income tax. It states: "The term 'taxpayer' means any person subject to any internal revenue tax." (All internal revenue taxes are excise taxes.) Note that the section does not say that all persons are "taxpayers" subject to internal revenue tax. Corporations are "taxpayers", for they are "persons" subject to an internal revenue (excise) tax.

The term "taxpayer" is used extensively throughout the IRC, in IRS publications, news articles, and instructional literature as a verbal trap to make uninformed Citizens believe that all individuals are subject to federal income tax and to the requirements of the IRC. These materials state that "taxpayers" are required to file returns, keep records, supply information, etc. Such statements are technically correct, because "taxpayers" are those legal "persons" previously described that are subject to an excise tax, but unprivileged individuals are not "taxpayers" within the meaning of the IRC. The confusion about the meaning of the term leads most people to mistakenly assume that they are "taxpayers" because they pay other taxes such as sales taxes and real estate taxes. Those people are tax payers, not "taxpayers" as defined in the IRC. When they read articles and publications related to income tax, describing the legal requirements for "taxpayers", they erroneously believe that the term applies to them as individuals. It is very important to understand that the IRC requirements apply to IRC-defined "taxpayers" only, and not to unprivileged individuals. Corporations and other government-privileged legal entities are "taxpayers under the Internal Revenue Code"; unprivileged individuals are not, unless they voluntarily file income tax returns showing they owe taxes, thus legally placing themselves in the classification of "taxpayers". Because of its legal definition, the term "taxpayer" should never be used in relation to income tax, except to describe those legal entities subject to a federal excise tax.

Why does Congress and the IRS want to refer to us as "taxpayers" instead of "Citizens" in the Internal Revenue Code, the Code of Federal Regulations, and the IRS publications? Because then you as a Citizen would start looking in the index for the U.S. Codes and find out that there are no references to liability for taxes as Citizens! They would also have to start talking about your constitutional rights as an American, and the fact is that you have no constitutional rights as a U.S. Citizen (see Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901)), but you do as a Citizen of the United States of America, or the [u]nited States! The words you use in describing yourself make all the difference in the world! So instead of calling you a Citizen and then having to justify what makes you a taxpayer, they try to fool you by calling everyone taxpayers and then never defining anywhere in the Internal Revenue Code who specifically is and is not personally liable for paying income taxes, and by arrogantly and petulantly refusing to discuss such issues with you when you call the IRS 800 help number so they can claim "plausible deniability" of the fraud that is going on! They leave the risk entirely up to you in deciding if you are a taxpayer and give you no help whatsoever in deciding what to believe. In effect, they make it so complicated, expensive (hiring lawyers), and so bothersome to keep your money and have your constitutional rights to privacy and property respected, that you just give up in laziness, apathy, disorganization, disgust, and ignorance and surrender 50% of your income to the various taxes that we all pay! That, in a nutshell, describes how the personal income tax game works. Leave it up to the devious lawyers in Washington to devise such a game and shame on us for electing people like that to public office! We owe it as a patriotic duty to our children and our fellow Americans to ensure that this kind of racketeering, chicanery, and extortion be stopped immediately! We must take out this kind of trash from office immediately!

3.15.1.23 "Trade or business" (in 26 U.S.C. §7701 (a)(26))

The term "trade or business" includes the performance of the functions of a public office.

All income that derives from sources "within" the United States (the District of Columbia and other federal territories but not the nonfederal areas of the 50 Union states) requires receipt of privileges and respects the fact that the income tax is an excise tax on "privileges" as ruled many different times by the U.S. supreme Court. Holding public office is a government "privilege", just as existing as a corporation is a privilege, and therefore both are subject to the income tax because both occur in federal territories over which the U.S. has exclusive legislative jurisdiction.

Even if we aren't an elected U.S. public official, millions, if not most people, ignorantly claim they are involved in a "trade or business" and thereby make themselves liable for the income tax. For instance, when we file an IRS 1040, this is exactly what we do. We in effect make an "Election to treat our income and property as effectively connected with a trade or business in the U.S." as described in 26 C.F.R. §1.871-10 and IRS Publication 54 (called a "Choice" in that publication). That makes us liable for the graduated income tax found in 26 U.S.C. §871. The reason people don't realize what they are doing when they commit this error is because they haven't read the law for themselves and have relied exclusively on IRS publications that are a fraud (see Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.), Section 4.10.7.2.8 (05-14-1999)) and on hearsay from friends and family members, as well as ignorant IRS employees and employers who have never read the law for themselves.

When we file as a nonresident alien, 26 U.S.C. §871(b) makes our income derived from a "trade or business in the United States" taxable, which as shown above is a code word for saying that we have income derived from holding federal "public office". Most of us don't have this type of income, but the IRS publications never define the meaning of "trade or business" and that is how we are deceived into volunteering into the income tax system by the IRS. Juries in federal courts are deceived about this because judges don't allow the law to be discussed in the courtroom, thus perpetuating the fraud and abuse of citizens rights. After we make our initial "election" by filing our first 1040 form, we have a year to revoke the election and thereafter, according to 26 C.F.R. §1.871-10, we must ask the IRS for permission to revoke the election, or we must file an IRS form 1040NR and include certain information with our return, as indicated in IRS publication 54 under "Ending your choice". If we never bother to revoke our election, then we will continue to be subject to the jurisdiction of the federal courts to force us to pay graduated income taxes as a public official. Isn't that sneaky?

26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9)
United States

The term "United States" when used in a geographical sense includes only the States and the District of Columbia.

The above phrase "the States" ought to look familiar because it is a federal State. Remember the title of the Buck Act found in 4 U.S.C. §110(d)?

TITLE 4 - FLAG AND SEAL, SEAT OF GOVERNMENT, AND THE STATES
CHAPTER 4 - THE STATES
Section 110: Same; Definitions

(d) The term "State" includes any Territory or possession of the United States.

You will also note that "States" is the plural for State, which was defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701 as the District of Columbia. Under this definition, California, for instance, is NOT a State because it is not a territory or possession of the United States. It is, instead, a sovereign entity of its own. See section 5.2.8 later for further details on this important subject. Rewriting the above definition with the definition for State found in section 3.15.1.20 above (26 U.S.C. §7701), we have the following definition for "United States":

United States

The term "United States" when used in a geographical sense includes only the District of Columbia and the District of Columbia.

The tricky IRS lawyers who wrote the tax code knew they couldn't explicitly define "States" as all of the geographical 50 states in the union, because these states are sovereign, which is why Britain had to sign 13 separate treaties after the War of Independence instead of just one. The sovereign 50 Union states are also outside the territorial jurisdiction of the United States Government. Therefore, they tried to fool readers of the tax code above into thinking that United States refers geographically to the 50 Union states, but they would have stated this directly if that is indeed what they meant. See sections 3.15.1 and especially 5.2.7 for further details on the meaning of the term "United States" found in the Internal Revenue Code.

Are you a “citizen of the United States” under federal statutes and “acts of Congress”? YES or NO? Here’s the definition of “citizen of the United States” directly from the Treasury Regulations:

26 C.F.R. 31.3121(e)-1 State, United States, and citizen.

(b) ...The term 'citizen of the United States' includes a citizen of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico or the Virgin Islands, and, effective January 1, 1961, a citizen of Guam or American Samoa.

The answer to the question asked above, "Are you a United States citizen?" (in most cases), is emphatically:

NO!

Incidentally, you can be a “citizen of the United States” under Section 1 of the Fourteenth Amendment without being a “citizen of the United States” under federal statutes such as 8 U.S.C. §1401. Why? Because the term “United States” has a completely different meaning in the U.S. Constitution than it has in most federal statutes. In federal statutes, the term “United States” means the federal zone or federal “United States” while in the Constitution, it means the collective states of the Union. The federal government exploits this confusion over definitions to their advantage in order to illegally expand their jurisdiction. In fact, the only people who are “citizens of the United States” under 8 U.S.C. §1401 are those persons who are born in the District of Columbia, Guam, Virgin Islands, and Puerto Rico, according to 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(36), 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(38), and 8 C.F.R. §215.1(f). Watch out!

Now if you are stupid enough and gullible enough to file a form 1040 and assess yourself with an unrealistic and mistaken income tax liability, amazingly, the only way the IRS agent can then process your form is to identify you in most cases as a resident of the Virgin Islands! No kidding! People like Dan Meador (<http://www.lawresearch-registry.org>) have studied the Individual Master File (IMF) of hundreds of individuals and determined that this indeed is exactly what the IRS agents do to process your 1040 form! Agents in fact have to lie to the AIMS computer and tell it you live in the Virgin Islands to get it to accept your 1040 return and your tax liability!

Barron's Law Dictionary indicates that in the United States, there are TWO types of citizenship:

"Citizenship is the status of being a citizen. In the United States there is usually a double citizenship, that is, citizenship in the nation and citizenship in the state in which one resides."

Generally in the United States one may acquire citizenship by birth in the United States or by naturalization therein. 59 S.Ct. 884...¹¹³

Here again, you have been tricked! The "United States" is the legal, proper, formal name, created by our founding fathers, for the home or seat of the "federal government" and its "territory!" In nearly all “acts of Congress” and federal statutes, it is the Proper Name for Federal Land (the District of Columbia and federal territories, including Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, etc.). Refer again to 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) above for a definition of "United States".

The individual States, which joined forces and formed the "united States of America," should not be confused with the title of "United States," or "States", which is reserved for the District of Columbia and the territories controlled by the federal government. Obviously, in the light of what we have always thought we knew, this sounds a little bizarre.

However, the united States supreme Court (Editors Note: This is the CORRECT capitalization of this name) addressed the question of the meaning of the term "United States" in the case of Hooven & Allison Co. v. Evatt (1945).

The court ruled that the term "United States" has three uses:

1. "...either as the name of a sovereign occupying the position analogous to that of other sovereigns in the family of nations, or
2. "...as designating the territory over which the sovereignty of the United States (Federal government) extends, or
3. "...as the collective name for the states which are united by and under the Constitution."

¹¹³ Law Dictionary, Barron's, Copyright 1996, ISBN 0-8120-3096-6, p. 77.

In other words, the term "United States" means:

1. "'These united States', or
2. "the District of Columbia and all other federal lands such as Puerto Rico, Virgin Islands, Guam, Marianas Islands, American Samoa, etc. or,
3. "The union of states which is the 'united States of America'."

So, assuming you were born in one of the 50 freely associated sovereign states of the Union, you are a Citizen (note Capitalization) and a national of the state in which you were born, and as a result are a Citizen of the Union of states known as the "united States of America," but you are not now, and never have been, a "citizen of the United States" under any federal statute or "act of Congress". If you have an American Passport, look at it. Notice that it is from the "United States of America" (NOT the "United States"), and that it does not contain a Social Security Number!

You will note that people who are "citizens of the United States" instead of the united States, who are living in the District of Columbia and federal territories, are not citizens of individual CONSTITUTIONAL states and therefore they have no constitutionally-protected rights. This is what makes it legal to assess income taxes on them and to deprive them of their property without due process of law in violation of the constitutional rights that the rest of us enjoy. Please refer to section 4.5 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 for details on this important subject.

Another way to verify this is to read that marvelous founding document, the Constitution. Remember that the writers of this remarkable document were extremely well educated and articulate men. They knew the meaning of the words they used.

Please turn to Article 10, which is the Tenth Amendment:

Article [X]

The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people."
[underlines added]

Obviously, the "United States" and the "States" used here CAN NOT be the same thing, or the sentence is redundant. The framers of the Constitution and the Bill of Rights knew exactly what they were writing -- that the powers not designated to the "federal" government were reserved to the several freely associated States and the people!

Remember that, under the Constitution, ALL power originated with the PEOPLE -- who delegated some of it to the States, which in turn delegated some of their power to the "federal" government to do those things for the Union that the individual states could not do well for themselves (foreign embassies, etc.).

The Constitution is designed to LIMIT the power of the "central" government, not expand it. The founding fathers had, after all, just fought the Revolutionary War to make sure that the new "central" government did not have the power, such as King George III exercised, to usurp the "unalienable rights" they had proclaimed in the Declaration of Independence ten years earlier.

Probably all your life, you've been told that you are a citizen of the United States. You were even intentionally taught this falsehood in school (which, no doubt was federally funded -- and had its curriculum in large measure dictated by Washington).

Well, Congratulations! NOW you know who you really are. And you know just a little bit of the freedom and power bequeathed to you by the architects of this incredible land.

What you have just learned about is an unprecedented GRAB for power by the "federal" government! (We do not have a "national" government.) In fact, Agents of the "federal" government have NO jurisdiction within the borders of these separate and sovereign united States -- unless you give it to them!

That includes agents of ANY federal government agency: EPA, IRS, any agency! They are foreign to the sovereign States!

3.15.1.27 "Wages" (in 26 U.S.C. §3401 (a))

For the purposes of collection of income taxes at the source by employers, the following definition of wages applies, as derived from 26 U.S.C. §3401(a):

(a) Wages

For purposes of this chapter, the term "wages" means all remuneration (other than fees paid to a public official) for services performed by an employee for his employer, including the cash value of all remuneration (including benefits) paid in any medium other than cash; except that such term shall not include remuneration paid -

- (1) for active service performed in a month for which such employee is entitled to the benefits of section 112 (relating to certain combat zone compensation of members of the Armed Forces of the United States) to the extent remuneration for such service is excludable from gross income under such section; or
- (2) for agricultural labor (as defined in section 3121(g)) unless the remuneration paid for such labor is wages (as defined in section 3121(a)); or
- (3) for domestic service in a private home, local college club, or local chapter of a college fraternity or sorority; or
- (4) for service not in the course of the employer's trade or business performed in any calendar quarter by an employee, unless the cash remuneration paid for such service is $50 or more and such service is performed by an individual who is regularly employed by such employer to perform such service. For purposes of this paragraph, an individual shall be deemed to be regularly employed by an employer during a calendar quarter only if -
 - (A) on each of some 24 days during such quarter such individual performs for such employer for some portion of the day service not in the course of the employer's trade or business; or
 - (B) such individual was regularly employed (as determined under subparagraph (A)) by such employer in the performance of such service during the preceding calendar quarter; or
- (5) for services by a citizen or resident of the United States for a foreign government or an international organization; or
- (6) for such services, performed by a nonresident alien individual, as may be designated by regulations prescribed by the Secretary; or
- (7) Repealed. Pub. L. 89-809, title I, Sec. 103(k), Nov. 13, 1966, 80 Stat. 1554)
- (8)
 - (A) for services for an employer (other than the United States or any agency thereof) -
 - (i) performed by a citizen of the United States if, at the time of the payment of such remuneration, it is reasonable to believe that such remuneration will be excluded from gross income under section 911; or
 - (ii) performed in a foreign country or in a possession of the United States by such a citizen if, at the time of the payment of such remuneration, the employer is required by the law of any foreign country or possession of the United States to withhold income tax upon such remuneration; or
 - (B) for services for an employer (other than the United States or any agency thereof) performed by a citizen of the United States within a possession of the United States (other than Puerto Rico), if it is reasonable to believe that at least 80 percent of the remuneration to be paid to the employee by such employer during the calendar

- year will be for such services; or
- (C) for services for an employer (other than the United States or any agency thereof) performed by a citizen of the United States within Puerto Rico, if it is reasonable to believe that during the entire calendar year the employee will be a bona fide resident of Puerto Rico; or
- (D) for services for the United States (or any agency thereof) performed by a citizen of the United States within a possession of the United States to the extent the United States (or such agency) withholds taxes on such remuneration pursuant to an agreement with such possession; or
- (9) for services performed by a duly ordained, commissioned, or licensed minister of a church in the exercise of his ministry or by a member of a religious order in the exercise of duties required by such order; or
- (10)
- (A) for services performed by an individual under the age of 18 in the delivery or distribution of newspapers or shopping news, not including delivery or distribution to any point for subsequent delivery or distribution; or
- (B) for services performed by an individual in, and at the time of, the sale of newspapers or magazines to ultimate consumers, under an arrangement under which the newspapers or magazines are to be sold by him at a fixed price, his compensation being based on the retention of the excess of such price over the amount at which the newspapers or magazines are charged to him, whether or not he is guaranteed a minimum amount of compensation for such services, or is entitled to be credited with the unsold newspapers or magazines turned back; or
- (11) for services not in the course of the employer's trade or business, to the extent paid in any medium other than cash; or
- (12) to, or on behalf of, an employee or his beneficiary -
- (A) from or to a trust described in section 401(a) which is exempt from tax under section 501(a) at the time of such payment unless such payment is made to an employee of the trust as remuneration for services rendered as such employee and not as a beneficiary of the trust; or
- (B) under or to an annuity plan which, at the time of such payment, is a plan described in section 403(a); or
- (C) for a payment described in section 402(h)(1) and (2) if, at the time of such payment, it is reasonable to believe that the employee will be entitled to an exclusion under such section for payment; or
- (D) under an arrangement to which section 408(p) applies; or
- (13) pursuant to any provision of law other than section 5(c) or 6(1) of the Peace Corps Act, for service performed as a volunteer or volunteer leader within the meaning of such Act; or
- (14) in the form of group-term life insurance on the life of an employee; or
- (15) to or on behalf of an employee if (and to the extent that) at the time of the payment of such remuneration it is reasonable to believe that a corresponding deduction is allowable under section 217 (determined without regard to section 274(n)); or
- (16)
- (A) as tips in any medium other than cash;
- (B) as cash tips to an employee in any calendar month in the course of his employment by an employer unless the amount of such cash tips is $20 or more; [1]
- (17) for service described in section 3121(b)(20); [1]
- (18) for any payment made, or benefit furnished, to or for the benefit of an employee if at the time of such payment or such furnishing it is reasonable to believe that the employee will be able to exclude such payment or benefit from income under section 127 or 129; [1]
- (19) for any benefit provided to or on behalf of an employee if at the time such benefit is provided it is reasonable to believe that the employee will be able to exclude such benefit from income under section 74(c), 117, or 132; [1]
- (20) for any medical care reimbursement made to or for the benefit of an employee under a self-insured medical reimbursement plan (within the meaning of section 105(h)(6)); or
- (21) for any payment made to or for the benefit of an employee if at the time of such payment it is reasonable to believe that the employee will be able to exclude such payment from income under section 106(b).

This makes it sound like "wages" is everything an "employee" makes, but in the very narrow definition of "employee" found in 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(c) constrains such wages to only those made by "public officers" of the United States government or of corporations. Furthermore, since the definition of wages above excludes public officials, then wages, in effect can't be taxed at all!

So how do our corrupt feds turn compensation for labor into something that fits the legal definition "wages" above so it can be taxed? Once again, you have to dig deep into the regulations to find the secret:

26 C.F.R. Sec. 31.3401(a)-3 Amounts deemed wages under voluntary withholding agreements.

(a) IN GENERAL. Notwithstanding the exceptions to the definition of wages specified in section 3401(a) and the regulations thereunder, the term "wages" includes the amounts described in paragraph (b)(1) of this section with respect to which there is a voluntary withholding agreement in effect under section 3402(p). References in this chapter to the definition of wages contained in section 3401(a) shall be deemed to refer also to this section (Section 31.3401(a)-3).

(b) REMUNERATION FOR SERVICES.

(1) Except as provided in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph, the amounts referred to in paragraph (a) of this section include any remuneration for services performed by an employee for an employer which, without regard to this section, does not constitute wages under section 3401(a). For example, remuneration for services performed by an agricultural worker or a domestic worker in a private home (amounts which are specifically excluded from the definition of wages by section 3401(a)(2) and (3), respectively) are amounts with respect to which a voluntary withholding agreement may be entered into under section 3402(p). See Sections 31.3401(c)-1 and 31.3401(d)-1 for the definitions of "employee" and "employer".

So the bottom line is, if you fill out a W-4 and request voluntary withholding:

1. Even though you aren't a "taxpayer" or "public official" engaged in a "trade or business", then you begin earning "wages" as legally defined pursuant to 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(a)-3(a) above. The same scam is again repeated in 26 C.F.R. §31.3402(p)-1, which also creates a "presumption" that all amounts withheld constitute "gross income" that is therefore taxable pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §61.

26 C.F.R. §31.3402(p)-1 Voluntary withholding agreements.

(a) In general.

An employee and his employer may enter into an agreement under section 3402(b) to provide for the withholding of income tax upon payments of amounts described in paragraph (b)(1) of §31.3401(a)-3, made after December 31, 1970. An agreement may be entered into under this section only with respect to amounts which are includible in the gross income of the employee under section 61, and must be applicable to all such amounts paid by the employer to the employee. The amount to be withheld pursuant to an agreement under section 3402(p) shall be determined under the rules contained in section 3402 and the regulations thereunder. See §31.3405(c)-1, Q&A-3 concerning agreements to have more than 20-percent Federal income tax withheld from eligible rollover distributions within the meaning of section 402.

2. The receipt of "wages" is reported on the IRS form W-2. 26 U.S.C. §6041 says this is an information return that connects you with a "trade or business", which is legally defined as "the functions of a public office" in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26). Therefore, your earnings, after submitting an IRS form W-4, become "trade or business" earnings that are excise taxable and prima facie "gross income" within the meaning of the I.R.C.
3. You have essentially been recruited into working for the Federal Government and your private employer is now hiring you as the equivalent of a Kelly Girl for the government.
4. If you started as a "nontaxpayer", you have transformed your status into that of a "taxpayer", unless and until you rebut the false IRS form W-2 that will surely result from submitting the IRS Form W-4 to your private employer.

The above ruse is why we don't recommend filling out W-4 Exempts and instead prefer to use the W-8 form. Note that we do not intend to convey the mistaken belief that "wages" are not taxable or are not "income". They absolutely are. The issue is not whether they are taxable, but under what circumstances a person can earn them. A person who doesn't submit a W-4 voluntary withholding form does not earn "wages" as legally defined in this section and no one can do any of the following without violating the law:

1. Force you to sign or submit this form as a condition of being hired or not fired.
2. Report anything but ZERO for "Wages, tips, and other compensation" on an IRS form W-2 if you do not voluntarily sign and submit an IRS form W-4. Even if the IRS commands the private employer to withhold at single zero, that withholding STILL can only be on the amount of "wages" earned, which are ZERO for a person who does not voluntarily sign a W-4 withholding agreement.
3. Put an SSN or TIN on any government form or report and send it in to the government without your voluntary consent. This is a violation of the Privacy Act of 1974, 5 U.S.C. §552a.

3.15.1.28 "Withholding agent" (in 26 U.S.C. §7701 (a)(16))

Withholding agent

The term "withholding agent" means any person required to deduct and withhold any tax under the provisions of section 1441, 1442, 1443, or 1461.

Section 1441 is entitled "Withholding of tax on nonresident aliens". Section 1442 is entitled "Withholding tax on foreign corporations". Section 1443 is entitled "Foreign tax-exempt organizations". Section 1461 is entitled "Liability for withheld tax" and provides that:

"Every person required to deduct and withhold any tax under this chapter is hereby made liable for such tax and is hereby indemnified against the claims and demands of any person for the amount of any payments made in accordance with the provisions of this chapter."

3.15.2 The Three Definitions of "United States"

Most of us are unaware that the term "United States" has several meanings and that it is up to us to know and understand these differences, to use them appropriately, and to clarify exactly which one we mean whenever we sign any piece of paper (including voter registration, tax documents, etc). If we do not, we could unknowingly, unwillingly and involuntarily be creating false presumptions that cause us to surrender our Constitutional rights. The fact is, most of us have unwittingly been doing just that for most, if not all, of our lives. We have become so casual in our use of the term "United States" that it is no longer understood, even within the legal profession, that there are actually three different legal meanings to the term. In fact, the legal profession has contributed to this confusion over this term by removing its definitions from all legal dictionaries currently in print that we have looked at. See Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 section 6.13.1 for details on this scam.

Most of us have grown up thinking the term United States indicates and includes all 50 states of the Union. This is true in the context of the U.S. Constitution but it is not true in all contexts. As you will see, this is the third meaning assigned to the term "United States" by the united States supreme Court. But, usually when we (Joe six pack) use the term United States we actually think we are saying the united States, as we are generally thinking of the several states or the union of States. There are times when you could be mistaken and as you will come to realize, this could be a very costly assumption.

First, it should be noticed that the term United States is a noun. In fact, it is the proper name and title "We the people..." gave to the corporate entity (non-living thing) of the federal (central) government created by the Constitution. This in turn describes where the "United States" federal corporation was to be housed as the Seat of the Government - In the District of Columbia, not to exceed a ten mile square.

Constitution (Article 1, Section 8, Clause 17):

To exercise exclusive Legislation in all Cases whatsoever, over such District (not exceeding ten Miles square) as may, by Cession of particular States, and the Acceptance of Congress, become the Seat of the Government of the United States, and to exercise like Authority over all Places purchased by the Consent of the Legislature of the State in which the Same shall be for the Erection of Forts, Magazines, Arsenals, dock-Yards, and other needful Buildings;—And [underlines added]

Below is how the United States Supreme Court addressed the question of the meaning of the term “United States” (see Black’s Law Dictionary) in the famous case of Hooven & Allison Co. v. Evatt, 324 U.S. 652 (1945). The Court ruled that the term United States has three uses:

“The term ‘United States’ may be used in any one of several senses. It may be merely the name of a sovereign occupying the position analogous to that of other sovereigns in the family of nations. It may designate the territory over which the sovereignty of the United States extends, or it may be the collective name of the states which are united by and under the Constitution.”

[Hooven & Allison Co. v. Evatt, 324 U.S. 652 \(1945\)]

We will now break the above definition into its three contexts and show what each means.

Table 3-14: Meanings assigned to “United States” by the U.S. Supreme Court in Hooven & Allison v. Evatt

#	U.S. Supreme Court Definition of “United States” in Hooven	Context in which usually used	Referred to in this article as	Interpretation
1	“I may be merely the name of a sovereign occupying the position analogous to that of other sovereigns in the family of nations.”	International law	“United States*”	“These United States ,” when traveling abroad, you come under the jurisdiction of the President through his agents in the U.S. State Department, where “U.S.” refers to the sovereign society. You are a “Citizen of the United States” like someone is a Citizen of France, or England. We abbreviate this version of “United States” with a single asterisk after its name: “United States*” throughout this article.
2	“It may designate the territory over which the sovereignty of the United States extends, or”	Federal law Federal forms	“United States”	“The United States (the District of Columbia, possessions and territories)”. Here Congress has exclusive legislative jurisdiction. In this sense, the term “United States” is a singular noun. You are a person residing in the District of Columbia, one of its Territories or Federal areas (enclaves). Hence, even a person living in the one of the sovereign States could still be a member of the Federal area and therefore a “citizen of the United States.” This is the definition used in most “Acts of Congress” and federal statutes. We abbreviate this version of “United States” with a two asterisks after its name: “United States” throughout this article. This definition is also synonymous with the “United States” corporation found in 28 U.S.C. §3002(15)(A).
3	“...as the collective name for the states which are united by and under the Constitution.”	Constitution of the United States	“United States”	“The several States which is the United States of America .” Referring to the 50 sovereign States, which are united under the Constitution of the United States of America . The federal areas within these states are not included in this definition because the Congress does not have exclusive legislative authority over any of the 50 sovereign States within the Union of States. Rights are retained by the States in the 9th and 10th Amendments, and you are a “ Citizen of these United States .” This is the definition used in the Constitution for the United States of America. We abbreviate this version of “United States” with a three asterisks after its name: “United States” throughout this article.

The U.S. Supreme Court helped to define which of the three definitions above is the one used in the U.S. Constitution, when it said:

*“The earliest case is that of Hepburn v. Ellzey, 2 Cranch, 445, 2 L.Ed. 332, in which this court held that, under that clause of the Constitution limiting the jurisdiction of the courts of the United States to controversies between citizens of different states, a citizen of the District of Columbia could not maintain an action in the circuit court of the United States. It was argued that the word ‘state,’ in that connection, was used simply to denote a distinct political society. ‘But,’ said the Chief Justice, ‘as the act of Congress obviously used the word ‘state’ in reference to that term as used in the Constitution, it becomes necessary to inquire whether Columbia is a state in the sense of that instrument. The result of that examination is a conviction that the members of the American confederacy only are the states contemplated in the Constitution, . . . and excludes from the term the signification attached to it by writers on the law of nations.’ This case was followed in Barney v. Baltimore, 6 Wall. 280, 18 L.Ed. 825, and quite recently in Hoove v. Jamieson, 166 U.S. 395, 41 L.Ed. 1049, 17 Sup.Ct.Rep. 596. The same rule was applied to citizens of territories in New Orleans v. Winter, 1 Wheat. 91, 4 L.Ed. 44, in which an attempt was made to distinguish a territory from the District of Columbia. But it was said that ‘neither of them is a state in the sense in which that term is used in the Constitution.’ In Scott v. Jones, 5 How. 343, 12 L.Ed. 181, and in Miners’ Bank v. Iowa ex rel. District Prosecuting Attorney, 12 How. 1, 13 L.Ed. 867, it was held that under the judiciary act, permitting writs of error to the supreme court of a state in cases where the validity of a state statute is drawn in question, an act of a territorial legislature was not within the contemplation of Congress.”*

Downes v. Bidwell, [182 U.S. 244 (1901)]

Another important distinction needs to be made. Definition 1 above refers to the country “United States”, but this country is not a “nation”, in the sense of international law. This very important point was made clear by the U.S. Supreme Court in 1794 in the case of Chisholm v. Georgia, 2 Dall. (U.S.) 419, 1 L.Ed. 440 (1793), when it said:

This is a case of uncommon magnitude. One of the parties to it is a State; certainly respectable, claiming to be sovereign. The question to be determined is, whether this State, so respectable, and whose claim soars so high, is amenable to the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court of the United States? This question, important in itself, will depend on others, more important still; and, may, perhaps, be ultimately resolved into one, no less radical than this 'do the people of the United States form a Nation?'

A cause so conspicuous and interesting, should be carefully and accurately viewed from every possible point of sight. I shall examine it; 1st. By the principles of general jurisprudence. 2nd. By the laws and practice of particular States and Kingdoms. From the law of nations little or no illustration of this subject can be expected. By that law the several States and Governments spread over our globe, are considered as forming a society, not a NATION. It has only been by a very few comprehensive minds, such as those of Elizabeth and the Fourth Henry, that this last great idea has been even contemplated. 3rdly. and chiefly, I shall examine the important question before us, by the Constitution of the United States, and the legitimate result of that valuable instrument.
[Chisholm v. Georgia, 2 Dall. (U.S.) 419, 1 L.Ed. 440 (1793)]

Black’s Law Dictionary further clarifies the distinction between a nation and a society by clarifying the differences between a national government and a federal government, and keep in mind that our government is called “federal government”:

“NATIONAL GOVERNMENT. The government of a whole nation, as distinguished from that of a local or territorial division of the nation, and also as distinguished from that of a league or confederation.

“A national government is a government of the people of a single state or nation, united as a community by what is termed the ‘social compact,’ and possessing complete and perfect supremacy over persons and things, so far as they can be made the lawful objects of civil government. A federal government is distinguished from a national government by its being the government of a community of independent and sovereign states, united by compact.” Piqua Branch Bank v. Knoup, 6 Ohio St. 393.”
[Black’s Law Dictionary, Revised Fourth Edition, 1968, p. 1176]

So the “United States*” the country is a “society” and a “sovereignty” but not a “nation” under the law of nations, by the Supreme Court’s own admission. Because the supreme Court has ruled on this matter, it is now incumbent upon each of us to always remember it and to apply it in all of our dealings with the Federal Government. If not, we lose our individual Sovereignty by default and the Federal Government assumes jurisdiction over us. So, while a sovereign Citizen will want to be the third type of Citizen and on occasion the first, he would never want to be the second. A person who is a “citizen” of the second is called a statutory “U.S. citizen” under 8 U.S.C. §1401, and he is treated in law as occupying a place not protected by the Bill of Rights, which is the first ten amendments of the United States Constitution. Below is how the U.S. Supreme Court described this “other” United States, which we call the “federal zone”:

“The idea prevails with some, indeed it has found expression in arguments at the bar, that we have in this country substantially two national governments; one to be maintained under the Constitution, with all of its restrictions; the other to be maintained by Congress outside the independently of that instrument, by exercising such powers [of absolutism] as other nations of the earth are accustomed to.. I take leave to say that, if the principles thus announced should ever receive the sanction of a majority of this court, a radical and mischievous change in our system of government will result. We will, in that event, pass from the era of constitutional liberty guarded and protected by a written constitution into an era of legislative absolutism.. It will be an evil day for American liberty if the theory of a government outside the supreme law of the land finds lodgment in our constitutional jurisprudence. No higher duty rests upon this court than to exert its full authority to prevent all violation of the principles of the Constitution.”
[Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901)]

The second definition of “United States*” above is also a federal corporation. This corporation was formed in 1871. It is described in 28 U.S.C. §3002(15)(A):

TITLE 28 > PART VI > CHAPTER 176 > SUBCHAPTER A > Sec. 3002.
TITLE 28 - JUDICIARY AND JUDICIAL PROCEDURE
PART VI - PARTICULAR PROCEEDINGS
CHAPTER 176 - FEDERAL DEBT COLLECTION PROCEDURE

SUBCHAPTER A - DEFINITIONS AND GENERAL PROVISIONS

Sec. 3002. Definitions

(15) "United States" means -

(A) a Federal corporation;

(B) an agency, department, commission, board, or other entity of the United States; or

(C) an instrumentality of the United States.

The U.S. Supreme Court, in fact, has admitted that all governments are corporations when it said:

"Corporations are also of all grades, and made for varied objects; all governments are corporations, created by usage and common consent, or grants and charters which create a body politic for prescribed purposes; but whether they are private, local or general, in their objects, for the enjoyment of property, or the exercise of power, they are all governed by the same rules of law, as to the construction and the obligation of the instrument by which the incorporation is made [the Constitution is the corporate charter]. One universal rule of law protects persons and property. It is a fundamental principle of the common law of England, that the term freemen of the kingdom, includes 'all persons,' ecclesiastical and temporal, incorporate, politique or natural; it is a part of their magna charta (2 Inst. 4), and is incorporated into our institutions. The persons of the members of corporations are on the same footing of protection as other persons, and their corporate property secured by the same laws which protect that of individuals. 2 Inst. 46-7. 'No man shall be taken,' 'no man shall be disseised,' without due process of law, is a principle taken from magna charta, infused into all our state constitutions, and is made inviolable by the federal government, by the amendments to the constitution." Proprietors of Charles River Bridge v. Proprietors of, [36 U.S. 420 (1837)]

If we are acting as a federal "employee", then we are representing the "United States federal corporation". That corporation is a statutory "U.S. citizen" under 8 U.S.C. §1401 which is completely subject to all federal law. Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17\(b\) says that when we are representing that corporation as "officers" or "employees", we therefore become statutory "U.S. citizens" completely subject to federal territorial law:

"A corporation is a citizen, resident, or inhabitant of the state or country by or under the laws of which it was created, and of that state or country only." [19 Corpus Juris Secundum (C.J.S.), Corporations, §886 (2003)]

Yet on every government (any level) document we sign (e.g. Social Security, Marriage License, Voter Registration, Drivers License, BATF 4473, etc.) they either require you to be a "citizen of the United States" or they ask "are you a resident of Illinois?". They are in effect asking you to assume or presume the second definition, the "United States", when you fill out the form, but they don't want to tell you this because then you would realize they are asking you to lie on a government form. They in effect are asking you if you wish to act in the official capacity of a public employee of the federal corporation. The form you are filling out therefore is serving the dual capacity of a federal job application and an application for benefits. The reason this must be so, is that they are not allowed to pay "benefits" to private citizens and can only lawfully pay them to public employees. Any other approach makes the government into a thief. See the article below for details on this scam:

Why Your Government is Either a Thief or You are a "Public Officer" for Income Tax Purposes, Form #05.008
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

If you accept their false presumption, or you answer "Yes" to the question of whether you are a "citizen of the United States" or a "U.S. citizen" on a federal or state form, usually under penalty of perjury, then you have committed perjury under penalty of perjury and also voluntarily placed yourself under their jurisdiction as a public official/"employee" and are therefore subject to Federal & State Codes and Regulations (Statutes). The Social Security Number they ask for on the form, in fact, is prima facie evidence that you are a federal employee, in fact. Look at the proof for yourself:

Resignation of Compelled Social Security Trustee, Form #06.002

Most laws passed by government are, in effect, law only for government. They are private law or contract law that act as the equivalent of a government employment agreement. We the People, as the Sovereigns, are not subject to it unless we sign an employment agreement that can take many different forms: W-4, SS-5, 1040, etc. The W-4 is a federal election form and you are the only voter. They are asking you if you want to elect yourself into "public office", and if you say "yes", then you got the job and a cage is reserved for you on the federal plantation:

"The restrictions that the Constitution places upon the government in its capacity as lawmaker, i.e., as the regulator of private conduct, are not the same as the restrictions that it places upon the government in its capacity as employer. We have recognized this in many contexts, with respect to many different constitutional guarantees. Private citizens perhaps cannot be prevented from wearing long hair, but policemen can. Kelley v. Johnson, 425 U.S. 238, 247 (1976). Private citizens cannot have their property searched without probable cause, but in many circumstances government employees can. O'Connor v. Ortega, 480 U.S. 709, 723 (1987) (plurality opinion); id., at 732 (SCALIA, J., concurring in judgment). Private citizens cannot be punished for refusing to provide the government information that may incriminate them, but government employees can be dismissed when the incriminating information that they refuse to provide relates to the performance of their job. Gardner v. Broderick, [\[497 U.S. 62, 95\]](#) 392 U.S. 273, 277-278 (1968). With regard to freedom of speech in particular: Private citizens cannot be punished for speech of merely private concern, but government employees can be fired for that reason. Connick v. Myers, 461 U.S. 138, 147 (1983). Private citizens cannot be punished for partisan political activity, but federal and state employees can be dismissed and otherwise punished for that reason. Public Workers v. Mitchell, 330 U.S. 75, 101 (1947); Civil Service Comm'n v. Letter Carriers, 413 U.S. 548, 556 (1973); Broadrick v. Oklahoma, 413 U.S. 601, 616-617 (1973)." [Rutan v. Republican Party of Illinois, 497 U.S. 62 (1990)]

By making you into a public official or employee, they are destroying the separation of powers that is the main purpose of the Constitution and which was put there to protect your rights.

"To the contrary, the Constitution divides authority between federal and state governments for the protection of individuals. State sovereignty is not just an end in itself: "Rather, federalism secures to citizens the liberties that derive from the diffusion of sovereign power." Coleman v. Thompson, 501 U.S. 722, 759 (1991) (BLACKMUN, J., dissenting). "Just as the separation and independence of the coordinate branches of the Federal Government serve to prevent the accumulation of excessive power in any one branch, a healthy balance of power between the States and the Federal Government will reduce the risk of tyranny and abuse from either front." Gregory v. [505 U.S. 144, 182] Ashcroft, 501 U.S., at 458. See The Federalist No. 51, p. 323. (C. Rossiter ed. 1961)." [New York v. United States, 505 U.S. 144 (1992)]

They are causing you to voluntarily waive sovereign immunity under the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act, 28 U.S.C. §1601-1611. 28 U.S.C. §1605\(a\)\(2\) of the act says that those who conduct "commerce" within the legislative jurisdiction of the "United States" (federal zone), whether as public official or federal benefit recipients, surrender their sovereign immunity.

§ 1605. General exceptions to the jurisdictional immunity of a foreign state

(a) A foreign state shall not be immune from the jurisdiction of courts of the United States or of the States in any case—

(2) in which the action is based upon a commercial activity carried on in the United States by the foreign state; or upon an act performed in the United States in connection with a commercial [employment or federal benefit] activity of the foreign state elsewhere; or upon an act outside the territory of the United States in connection with a commercial activity of the foreign state elsewhere and that act causes a direct effect in the United States;

They are also destroying the separation of powers by fooling you into being a statutory U.S. citizen under 8 U.S.C. §1401. 28 U.S.C. §1332(c) and (d) specifically excludes such statutory "U.S. citizens" from being foreign sovereigns who can file under diversity of citizenship. This is confirmed by the Department of State Website:

"Section 1603(b) defines an "agency or instrumentality" of a foreign state as an entity (1) which is a separate legal person, corporate or otherwise, and (2) which is an organ of a foreign state or political subdivision thereof, or a majority of whose shares or other ownership interest is owned by a foreign state or political subdivision thereof, and (3) which is neither a citizen of the a state of the United States as defined in Sec. 1332(c) and (d) nor created under the laws of any third country." [Department of State Website, http://travel.state.gov/law/info/judicial/judicial_693.html]

In effect, they kidnapped your legal identity and made you into a resident alien employee working in the "king's castle", the District of Criminals, and changed your status from "foreign" to "domestic" by creating false presumptions about citizenship and using the Social Security Number, W-4, and SS-5 forms to make you into a "subject citizen" and a public employee with no constitutional rights.

The nature of most federal law as private law is carefully explained below:

Requirement for Consent, Form #05.003
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

As you will soon read, the government uses various ways to mislead and trick us into their private laws (outside our Constitutional protections) and make you into the equivalent of their “employee”, and thereby commits a great fraud on the American People.

The essentials of their deception include the following, to which this document is dedicated to exposing:

1. Which United States are they talking about (this article)?
2. What is a “person”?
3. What is an “individual”?
4. How can there be two of you?
5. What constitutes “foreign income” and “domestic income”?
6. What is the SOLUTION?

I hope you will take the time to STUDY this information thoroughly, then commence to use it, in an effort to untangle yourself from this web of deceit. It is the only sure, nonviolent way to regain your Constitutional Rights as it guarantees you your individual sovereignty as a freeman.

3.15.3 Two Political Jurisdictions: “National Government” vs. “Federal/general government”

Many people are blissfully unaware that there are actually two mutually exclusive political jurisdictions within United States the country. Your citizenship status determines which of the two political jurisdictions you are a member of and you have an option to adopt either. This book describes how to regain the model on the right, the “Federal government”, which we also call the “United States of America” throughout this book. We have prepared a table to compare the two and explain what we mean. The vast majority of Americans fall under the model on the left, and their own ignorance, fear, and apathy has put them there. The model on the left treats the everyone as part of the federal corporation called the “United States”, which is how the law defines it in 28 U.S.C. §3002\(15\)\(A\). This area is also called “the federal zone” throughout this book. The “United States” first became a federal corporation in 1871 and you can read this law for yourself right from the Statutes At Large:

It generally designates, when so employed, a republican frame of government, one in which the welfare and rights of the entire mass of people are the main consideration, rather than the privileges of a class or the will of a monarch; or it may designate the body of citizens living under such a government.” (Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, page 278)

Characteristic	“National government”	“Federal/general government”
	Remember, democracy never lasts long. It soon wastes, exhausts, and murders itself. There never was a democracy that never did commit suicide.” John Adams, 1815.
Status	U.S. continues to be in a permanent state of national emergency since March 9, 1933, and possibly as far back as the Civil War. See Senate report 93-549.	No state of Emergency and is not at war.
Pledge	"I pledge allegiance to the IRS, and to the tyrannical totalitarian oligarchy for which it stands. One nation, under fraud, indivisible, with slavery, injustice, and atheism for all."	"I pledge allegiance to the united states of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation, under God , indivisible, with liberty and justice for all
Form of government	De facto (unlawful) (See our article entitled " How Scoundrels Corrupted Our Republican Form of Government " in section 6.1 for details on how our government was rendered unlawful)	De jure (lawful)
Constitution	Constitution of the “United States” (See http://www.access.gpo.gov/congress)	Constitution of the “United States of America” (See http://www.access.gpo.gov/congress)
Creator	Merchants, bankers through President Lincoln and his Cohorts by act of treason. This martial law government is a fiction managing civil affairs	Created by God and sovereign Citizens acting under His delegated authority (see Gen. 1:26 and Gen. 2:15-17 in the Bible)
Origins	Gettysburg Address in 1864 and the Incorporation of District of Columbia by Act of February 21, 1871 under the Emergency War Powers Act and the Reconstruction Act	Started with the Declaration of Independence in 1776, Articles of Confederation in 1778, and the Constitution in 1787
Existence	Still existing as long as: 1. “state of war” or “emergency” exists. 2. The President does not terminate “martial” or “emergency” powers by Executive Order or decree, or 3. The people do not resist submission and terminate by restoring lawful civil courts, processes and procedures under authority of the “inherent political powers” of the people.	Adjournment of Congress sine die occurred in 1861
Governing body	The President (Caesar) rules by Executive Order (Unconstitutional). Congress and the Courts are under the President as branches of the Executive Department. Congress sits by resolution not by positive law. The Judges are actually administrative referees and cannot rule on constitutional rights.	"We the People", who rule themselves through their servant elected representatives. See Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, in which he said: “A government of the people, for the people, and by the people” Three separate Departments for the servants : 1. Executive. 2. Legislative-can enact positive law . 3. Judicial Citizenship	“ U.S. citizen ” (Chattel Property of the government) are belligerents in the field and are “subject to its jurisdiction” (Washington,	“ nationals ” is “sovereign”, “Freemen”, and “Freeborn”. Unless that right is given up knowingly, intentionally, and voluntarily.

Implications of citizenship	“ U.S. citizens ” were declared enemies of the U.S. by F.D.R. by Executive Order No. 2040 and ratified by Congress on March 9, 1933. FDR changed the meaning of The Trading with the Enemy Act of December 6, 1917 by changing the word “ without ” to citizens “ within ” the United States	“ nationals ” are Sovereign citizens who supersede the U.S. Government is the enemy of liberty and should be kept as small as practical. “Government big enough to supply everything you need is big enough to take everything you have. The course of history shows that as a government grows, liberty decreases.” Thomas Jefferson
Jurisdiction	Expands and conquers by deceit and fraud. Uses “words of art” to deceive the people.	Restricted by the Constitution to the 10 mile square area called Washington D.C., U.S. possessions, such as Puerto Rico, Guam, and its enclaves for forts and arsenals.
Civic duties-qualifications for	Must be a “citizen of the United States” to vote or serve jury duty	Must clarify citizenship when registering to vote and serving jury duty. In some states, cannot vote or serve jury duty
Vote	Is recommendation only.	Counts like one of the Board of Directors.
Rights and privileges	Inalienable rights. Rights from the corporate government. Statutory taxable “privileges” “Invisible contract” with federal government to “buy” (bribe into existence) these statutory privileges through taxes. See 48 U.S.C. §1421b : Bill of Rights. “The privileges and immunities clause of the 14 th Amendment protects very few rights because it neither incorporates the Bill of Rights nor protects all rights of individual citizens. Instead, this provision protects only those rights peculiar to being a citizen of the federal government; it does not protect those rights which relate to state citizenship. ” Jones v. Value of the individual	Bond Servant To cover the debt in 1933 and future debt, the corporate government determined and established the value of the future labor of each individual in its jurisdiction to be $630,000. A bond of $630,000 is set on each Certificate of Live Birth. The certificates are bundled together into sets and then placed as securities on the open market. Welfare/social security	YES: Socialism-allowed and encouraged	NO: Not allowed. Everyone takes care of themselves.

FAMILY

Purpose of sex	Recreation and sin. When children result from such sin, then abortion (murder) frees sexual perverts and fornicators from the consequences of or liability for such sin and maintains their quality of life. Permissiveness by government of abortion becomes a license to sin without consequence.	Procreation. Gen. 1:22 : "And God blessed them, saying, "Be fruitful and multiply, and fill the waters in the seas, and let birds multiply on the earth." Psalm 127: 4-5 : "Like arrows in the hand of a warrior, So are the children of one's youth. Happy is the man who has his quiver full of them; They shall not be ashamed, But shall speak with their enemies in the gate."
Purpose of marriage	An extension of the "welfare state" that financially enslaves men to the state and their wives and thereby undermines male sovereignty in the family. Prov. 31:3 says: "Do not give your strength [or sovereignty] to women, nor your ways to that which destroys kings."	To make families self-governing by creating a chain of authority within them (see Eph. 5:22-24). Honor God and produce godly offspring. (Malachi 2:15)
Birth certificate	Birth Certificate when the baby's footprint is placed thereon before it touches the land . The certificate is recorded at a County Recorder, then sent to a Secretary of State which sends it to the Bureau of Census of the Commerce Department. This process converts a man's life, labor, and property to an asset of the U.S. government when this person receives a benefit from the government such as a drivers license, food stamps, free mail delivery, etc. This person becomes a fictional persona in commerce . The Birth Certificate is an unrevealed "Trust Instrument" originally designed for the children of the newly freed black slaves after the 14th Amendment. The U.S. has the ability to tax and regulate commerce EVERYWHERE.
Education of young	Public schooling (brain washing of the young). School vouchers not allowed. This is a central plank in the Communist Manifesto. Purpose is to create better state "serfs".	Private schooling and school vouchers. Prayer permitted in schools.

STATES

TWO POLITICAL JURISDICTIONS WITHIN OUR COUNTRY

Characteristic	"National government"	"Federal/general government"
The word "State"	In U.S. Titles and Codes "State" refers to U.S. possessions such as Puerto Rico, Guam, etc.	"state" when used by itself refers to the "Republics" of The u nited s tates of America
State governments	Politicians of each state formed a new government and incorporated it into the federal U.S. government corporation and are therefore under its jurisdiction. e.g. "State of California" corporate California California State	All of the states are " Republics " e.g. "The Republic of California" "California republic" "California state" or just "California"
Origins of the states	The corporate States are controlled by the corporate U.S. government by its purse strings such as grants, funding, matching funds, revenue sharing, disaster relief, etc. The c itizens of such States are "subjects" and are called " Residents "	Sovereign Citizens created the states (Republics) and are Sovereign over the states. The Republics and the people created the USA government and are sovereign over the USA government.
State constitution	The original constitution was revised and adopted by the corporate State of California on May 7, 1879. It has been revised many times hence.	California was admitted into the union as a Republic on September 9, 1850. The people created the original state constitution to give the government limited powers and to act on behalf of, and for the people. Called The "Organic" state constitution.
Rights of citizens in state	A one word change in the original State (California) constitution from "unalienable" to "inalienable" made rights into privileges. "Inalienable" means government given rights. "Unalienable" means God given rights.	Adjournment sine die occurred in California in April 27, 1863

JUSTICE SYSTEM

Judicial function	Judicial B ran c h under the President	Judicial D epart m ent
Separation of powers	It is n ot separate, but is an arm of the legislature	Separate from all other Departments
Purpose of federal courts	Maximize power and control and revenues of federal government	Protect the Constitutional rights of persons domiciled in states of the Union
Constitutional authority for federal courts	Article I, II, and IV ("U.S. District Courts" and "Tax Court")	Article III (district courts in the District of Columbia, Hawaii, and the Court of Claims)
Venue	federal (feudal) venue	judicial venue
Courts	Corporate Administrative Arbitration Boards Consisting of an Arbitrator (so-called "Judge") and a panel of corporate employees (so-called "Juries") Panel decisions (recommendation) can be reversed by the Arbitrator	Constitutional Judicial Courts with real Judges and real Juries who can judge the law as well as the facts Jury decisions cannot be reversed by the judge
Type of courts	Equity Courts, Municipal Courts--Merchant Law, Military Law, Marshall Law, Summary Court Martial proceedings, and administrative ad hoc tribunals (similar to Admiralty/Maritime) now governed by "The Manual of Courts Martial (under Acts of	Common Law Court(s)

Trials	All legal actions are pursued under the " color of law " Color of law means "appears to be" law, but is not	The 7th Amendment guarantees a trial by jury according to the rules of the common law when the value in controversy exceeds $20
Requirements of law	Covers a vast number of volumes of text that even attorneys can't absorb or comprehend such as: 1. Regulations 2. Codes 3. Rules 4. Statutes Prior to bankruptcy of 1933 " Public Law " Now the so-called courts administer " Public Policy " through the " Uniform Commercial Code " (instituted in 1967)	Common Law Has two requirements: Do not Offend Anyone Honor all contracts
Basis of judicial decisions	No stare decisis Means no precedent binds any court, because they have no law standard of absolute right and wrong by which to measure a ruling—what is legal today may not be legal tomorrow. So-called "court decisions" are administrative opinions only and are basically decided on the basis of "What is best for the corporate government."	Constitution Supreme Law of the land restricting governments. The "organic" Constitution and its amendments are created by the Sovereign living souls (We the people...) to institute, restrict, and restrain a limited government.
Nature of acts regulated	Legal or Illegal	Lawful or Unlawful
Lingo	"at Law" "Attorney at law"	"in-law" (i.e. "Son-in-law" or a "covenant in law")
Counsel	Attorney an " Esquire " (British nobility) Attorney-at-law (licensed agents of the corporate administrative courts and tribunals in the U.S. for the Crown of England) Attorneys swear an oath to uphold the "BAR ASSOCIATION". The first letter of B.A.R stands for "British". (British Accreditation Registry) The BAR was First organized in Mississippi in 1825. The " integrated bar " movement, meaning "the condition precedent to the right to practice law," was initiated in the U.S. in 1914 by the American Jurisprudence Society. --Black's Law Dictionary, 4th edition	Counsel or "Counselor in -Law" (Lawyer)
Claims	"Charge" or "Complaint" (administrative jurisdiction)	"Claim" (equity/common law jurisdiction)
Plaintiff/damaged party.	Compels performance No damaged party is necessary.	Must have damaged party
Court proceeding	"Public"	"Private"

TWO POLITICAL JURISDICTIONS WITHIN OUR COUNTRY

Characteristic	"National government"	"Federal/general government"
Rights under justice system	No rights except statutory Civil Rights granted by Congress. Restricts freedoms and liberties.	Maintains rights, freedoms, and liberties
Role of courts	U.S. citizens are at the mercy of government and the administrative courts and tribunals Servants (subjects/ bond-servants) cannot sue the Master (Corporate government).	Unalienable rights, fundamental rights, substantial rights and other rights of living souls are all protected by The Law and protected by The "organic" Constitution and its amendments.
Bill of rights	The actual " Bill of Rights " was a declaration in 1689 by King William and Queen Mary to their loyal subjects of the British crown. If you are in this jurisdiction, you are a subject of the crown as well?	The first ten articles of amendment to the constitution are sometimes referred to as " Bill of Rights " which is incorrect. They are not a "Bill" but are simply amendments.
Due process	Due Process is optional--Sometimes Gestapo-like tactics without reservation.	Due Process is required Writ of habeas corpus
Innocence before the law	Guilty until proven innocent	Innocent until proven guilty
Juries	The juror judges only the facts and NOT the law--The judge gives the statute, regulation, code, rule, etc. Juries selected ONLY from within the federal zone	Jurors judge the law as well as the facts. Juries selected ONLY from within states of the Union and NOT the federal zone.

DEBT

Bankruptcy	First bankruptcy was in 1863 In 1865 the total debt was $2,682,593,026.53 A portion was funded by 1040 Bonds to run not less than 10 nor more than 40 years at an interest rate of 6% Members of Congress are the official Trustees in the bankruptcy of the U.S. and the re-organization	None
Income tax revenues necessary to pay debt	"All individual Income Tax revenues are gone before one nickel is spent on services taxpayers expect from government" --Ronald Reagan, 1984 Grace Commission Report	Wouldn't it be nice to be completely out of debt, personally, and have a stash of gold and silver besides?

TAXATION

Federal income taxes	1. Illegally enforced. Government lies to citizens to steal their money. Corruption in the court. 2. States destroy personal liberties to get their share of federal matching funds. Example: Requirement to provide SSN to get a state driver's license.	Federal government has very limited income from only taxing foreign imports into states. Can't twist state's arm to destroy civic rights because it has so little income it won't give it away.
State income taxes	Treated as a "nonresident" of your state living on federal property (See, for example: http://www.leginfo.ca.gov/cgi-bin/displaycode?section=rtc&group=17001-18000&file=17001-17039.1 and look at 17016 and 17018 off the California website at http://www.leginfo.ca.gov/cgi-bin/calawquery?codesection=rtc&codebody=&hits=20)	Treated as a resident of your state and not taxed because it would violate the Bill of Rights and 1:9:4 and 1:2:3 of the U.S.A. Constitution.
Personal Income tax rates	High : 50-70% because working is a	None : Working is a "right"

Limits	No limit on taxation	Limits on taxation
Purpose of taxation	1. Wealth redistribution (socialism) and to appease the whims of the democratic majority in spiteful disregard of the Bill of Rights. 2. Stabilize fiat currency system	Support only the government and not the people in any way. See Loan Assoc. v. Topeka , 87 U.S. (20 Wall.) 655 (1874)
Income taxes	Income taxes are legal and ever increasing	Direct taxes such as " Income taxes " are unlawful
Indirect taxes	Other taxation's such as inheritance taxes are legal	Indirect taxes such as excise tax and import duties are lawful
IRS	IRS's 1040 forms originated from the 1040 Bonds used for funding Lincoln's War 1863, first year income tax was ever used in history of U.S. . The IRS is a collection arm of the Federal Reserve. The Federal Reserve was created by the Bank of England in 1913 and is owned by foreign investors. The IRS is not listed as a government agency like other government agencies.	No IRS

FLAG

Flag	 Not an American flag Some say it is a flag of Admiralty/Maritime type jurisdiction and is not suppose to be used on Land. Others say it's not a flag at all, but fiction. However, the gold fringe which surrounds the flag gives notice that the American flag has been captured and is now being used by the corporate so-called "government".	 American Flag plain and simple--no gold fringe or other ornaments and symbolism attached
Requirements for flags	Appears to be an "American flag" but has one or more of the following: Gold fringe along its borders (called "a badge") Gold braided cord (tassel) hanging from pole Ball on top of pole (last cannon ball fired) Eagle on top of pole Spear on top of pole Yellow fringed flag is not described in Title 4 of USC and therefore is illegal on land except for maybe (1) the President since he is in charge of Naval Forces on high seas, and (2) naval offices and yards. President Eisenhower settled the debate on the width of the fringe.	Prior to the 1950's, state republic flags were mostly flown, but when a USA flag was flown it was one of the following: Military flag--Horizontal stripes, white stars on blue background Peace flag--vertical stripes, blue stars on white background--last flown before Civil War Has no fringe, braid (tassel), eagle, ball, spear, etc. (Although the codes do not apply here, the USA Military flag is described in Title 4 of USC) The continental USA is at peace

	The so-called justification for a Navel/Maritime flag to be on land is that all land was under the high water mark at one time even if it was eons ago.

BENEFITS

Benefits	Inalienable rights Government given rights that are really "Privileges" that can be taken away at any time So-called "privileges"/Benefits are as follows: 1. Social Security (You paid all your working life and there are no guarantees that there will be money for you) 2. Medicare 3. Medicaid 4. Grants 5. Disaster relief 6. Food Stamps 7. Licenses and Registration (Permission) 8. Privileges only, no Rights 9. Experimentation on citizens without their consent.  Corporate government steals your money and gets credit for helping others with it. Politicians in return create more such programs to get more votes. Eventually there is no more to collect and give. Everyone becomes takers and there are no givers. The government then collapses within. That is why democracy never survives, because the looters eventually outnumber the producers.	Unalienable rights God given rights "...incapable [emphasis added] of being aliened, that is, sold and transferred." Black's Law Dictionary, Revised Fourth Edition, 1968, page 1693. Enjoy: 1. Life 2. Liberty 3. pursuit of Happiness 4. full property ownership. No U.S. benefits--Every living soul is responsible for themselves and has the option of helping others. Each living soul gives accordingly to help others in need and receives the credit or gives the credit to his Maker and Provider. No tax burdens or government debt obligations.

RECORDS

Location of records	County Clerk Recorder's Office Created by statute to keep track of the corporate government's holdings which are applied as collateral to the increasing debt. The written records are a continuation of the "Doomsday Book" which keeps track of the Crown of England's holdings. The "Doomsday Book" originated as a written record of the conquered holdings of king William, which was later the basis of his taxes and grants.	Ex-officio clerks County Clerk is also Clerk of the superior court, (i.e. a court of common law) and courts of record Records are also kept by Citizens such as in a family Bible

You are king of your castle 4. No government intrusion, involvement, or controls

MONEY

Money	Has no substance--Built on credit Controlled by U.S. Treasury	Has substance Controlled by Treasury of the united States of America
Money symbol	Phony/Fiat Money All computer programs are designed with the "$" having only one line through it	Real Money Most of us were taught to write the "S" with two lines through it. The two lines was a derivative of the "U" inside the "S" signifying real U.S. currency based on the American silver dollar and gold-backed currency.
Legal tender	1. Federal Reserve Notes (FRN's) 2. Bonds 3. Other Notes--evidences of debt 4. Cashless society--Electronic banking Issued by the Federal Reserve Bank (FRB)--A private corporation created by the Bank of England in 1913 and is owned by foreign bankers/investors The Federal Reserve is a continuation of the " Exchequer " of the Crown of England.	Silver coins* (Silver dollar--standard unit of value) Gold Coins* Paper currency redeemable in gold or silver* Spanish milled dollar *Issued by the Treasury Department of the USA (A Republic).

TWO POLITICAL JURISDICTIONS WITHIN OUR COUNTRY

Characteristic	"National government"	"Federal/general government"
Minting of money	The government must borrow before FRN's are printed. The FRB pays 2½ ¢ per FRN note printed whether $1 or $1000. The U.S. in-turn pays FRB interest indefinitely for each outstanding note or representation of a note. With electronic banking FRN's are created out of nothing and nothing being printed. What a deal!	Coinage started in 1783. The first paper currency was issued in 1862. "Silver Certificates" last printed in 1957. Coinage of Silver coins for circulation ended with the 1964 coins. Redemption of "Silver Certificates" ended on June 24, 1968.
History	The Greenback Act was revoked and replaced with the National Banking Act in 1863. An Act passed on April 12, 1866 authorized the sale of bonds to retire currency called greenbacks. FRN's (Federal Reserve Notes) were first issued in 1914. Just prior to the Stock Market crash of 1929, millions of dollars of gold was taken out of this Country and transferred to England.

ROADWAYS

Use of roadways	Drivers Licenses are required, because driving is a privilege .	Sovereigns have a right to use the public ways.
Driving "privileges"	May lose privilege or have it suspended at the whim of government	" Liberty of the common way"
Driver's licenses	Must comply with the Department of Motor Vehicles, the Vehicle Code, which is ever changing, and the Highway Patrol. Even a "Class 3" Driver's license is a "commercial" license. A "Driver" is one who does commercial business on the highways	No "Driver's License" is required for private, personal, and recreational use of the roadways. A "driver's license" can only be required for those individuals or businesses operating a business within the rights-of-ways such as Taxi Drivers, Truck Drivers, Bus Drivers, Chauffeurs, etc.
Definition of "Vehicle"	"Vehicle"--automobile or truck doing business on the highway	"Car"--short for "carriage" such as "horseless carriage" for private use
"Passenger"	"Passenger"--A paying customer who wants to be transported to another location	"Guest"--One who comes along for pleasure or private reasons without cost
Movement	"Drive"--The act of commercial use of the right-of-way	"Travel"--The act of private, personal, and recreational use of the roadways

MAIL

Types of mail	Domestic Mail that moves between D.C., possessions and territories of the U.S.	Non-domestic Mail that moves outside of D.C. its possessions and territories

GUNS
Philosophy on gun ownership	This government wants to disarm the Citizens so as to have complete control and power. Every tyrannical government in the past has taken away the guns to prevent any serious opposition or rebellion. History continues to repeat itself because the new generations who come along don't know or tend to forget about the past and will say it will not happen here.	Sovereign Citizens have a right to own and use guns--"Right to bear arms" against "enemies foreign and domestic ". The founding fathers knew the importance of protecting themselves from governments who get out of hand.
Legal constraints on gun ownership	Disregards the 2nd Amendment or justifies what weapons should not be legal. Ever changing and ever restrictive. Requires registration of guns . If any of you saw the motion picture called " Red Dawn " would realize that the enemy finds these lists and then goes door to door collecting all of the guns.	2nd Amendment Protects the Right of the people to keep and bear arms.
RELIGION
Relationship between church and state	This government wants to control the churches by having them come under their jurisdiction as corporations under Section 501(c)(3). This is to prevent the clergy, Pastors, Ministers, etc. from having any political influence on its members or the public in general. This government regulates what is to be said and not to be said. These churches also display the gold fringe flag. Their faith is in the government and not in God. They exist by permission of this government not by God alone.  They signed away their Birthright for a so-called benefit: "Tax-exempt corporation".	Churches exist alone. No permission of government required.  1st Amendment Protects against government making a law that would respect an establishment of religion or prohibit the free exercise of a religion.

Some of our readers have written us to inquire about our use of the term “United States of America” in the above table by reporting that they studied the term “United States of America” in federal statutes and implementing regulations and could not find where it is legally defined. In fact, it is not defined but is referenced in federal law within the following contexts:

- 28 C.F.R. §0.64-1
- 28 C.F.R. §0.96b

Even though the term “United States of America” is nowhere defined in federal law, we use it to refer to the collection of sovereign states of the Union which form our “republic”. The federal zone is technically not part of our “republic” because the Bill of Rights, which is the first ten Amendments to the Constitution, forms the essence of the republic and it does not apply within the federal zone.

3.15.4 The Federal Zone

In 1818, the Supreme Court stated that:

"The exclusive jurisdiction which the United States have in forts and dock-yards ceded to them, is derived from the express assent of the states by whom the cessions are made. It could be derived in no other manner; because without it, the authority of the state would be supreme and exclusive therein," 3 Wheat., at 350, 351.

The above case establishes that the federal government only has jurisdiction over federal property that it owns within the states or coming under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 17 of the U.S. Constitution. In other places, it has no legislative or judicial jurisdiction. Places coming under the sovereignty or exclusive legislative jurisdiction of the federal government under 1:8:17 of the Constitution include the District of Columbia, federal territories, and enclaves within the state and we call these areas “the federal zone” throughout this book. When Congress is operating in its exclusive jurisdiction over the “federal zone”, it is important to remember that the U.S. Government has full authority to enact legislation as private acts pertaining to its boundaries, and it is not a state of the union of states because it exists solely by virtue of the compact/constitution that created it. The U.S. Constitution does not say that the District of Columbia must guarantee a Republican form of Government to its own subject citizens within its territories. (See Hepburn & Dundas v. Ellzey, 6 US. 445(1805); Glaeser v. Acacia Mut. Life Ass'n., 55 F.Supp., 925 (1944); Long v. District of Columbia, 820 F.2d. 409 (D.C. Cir. 1987); Americana of Puerto Rico, Inc. v. Kaplus, 368 F.2d. 431 (1966), among others).

Within the federal zone, there are areas where the Bill of Rights (the first ten amendments) applies and areas where it does not. The best place to go for a clarification of where it applies is the Supreme Court case of Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901). Below are quotes from that case establishing that we have two national governments:

"The idea prevails with some -- indeed, it found expression in arguments at the bar -- that we have in this country substantially or practically two national governments; one, to be maintained under the Constitution, with all its restrictions; the other to be maintained by Congress outside and independently of that instrument, by exercising such powers as other nations of the earth are accustomed to exercise."

The U.S. Constitution limits federal government jurisdiction over the state Citizens using the Bill of Rights. The federal government has unlimited powers over federal citizens within territories of the United States because it is acting outside of the Constitution. Administrative laws are private acts, also called “special law”, and are not applicable to state Citizens. The Internal Revenue Code is administrative law and “special law”. Here are some more quotes from Downes that reinforce our point:

"Loughborough v. Blake, 5 Wheat. 317, 5 L.Ed. 98, was an action of trespass or, as appears by the original record, replevin, brought in the circuit court for the District of Columbia to try the right of Congress to impose a direct tax for general purposes on that District. 3 Stat. at L. 216, chap. 60. It was insisted that Congress could act in a double capacity: in one as legislating [182 U.S. 244, 260] for the states; in the other as a local legislature for the District of Columbia. In the latter character, it was admitted that the power of levying direct taxes might be exercised, but for District purposes only, as a state legislature might tax for state purposes; but that it could not legislate for the District under art. 1, 8, giving to Congress the power 'to lay and collect taxes, imposts, and excises,' which 'shall be uniform throughout the United States,' inasmuch as the District was no part of the United States. It was held that the grant of this power was a general one without limitation as to place, and consequently extended to all places over which the government extends; and that it extended to the District of Columbia as a constituent part of the United States. The fact that art. 1, 2, declares that 'representatives and direct taxes shall be apportioned among the several states . . . according to their respective numbers' furnished a standard by which taxes were apportioned, but not to exempt any part of the country from their operation. 'The words used do not mean that direct taxes shall be imposed on states only which are represented, or shall be apportioned to representatives; but that direct taxation, in its application to states, shall be apportioned to numbers.' That art. 1, 9, 4, declaring that direct taxes shall be laid in proportion to the census, was applicable to the District of Columbia, 'and will enable Congress to apportion on it its just and equal share of the burden, with the same accuracy as on the respective states. If the tax be laid in this proportion, it is within the very words of the restriction. It is a tax in proportion to the census or enumeration referred to.' It was further held that the words of the 9th section did not 'in terms require that the system of direct taxation, when resorted to, shall be extended to the territories, as the words of the 2d section require that it shall be extended to all the states. They therefore may, without violence, be understood to give a rule when the territories shall be taxed, without imposing the necessity of taxing them.'"

"There could be no doubt as to the correctness of this conclusion, so far, at least, as it applied to the District of Columbia. This District had been a part of the states of Maryland and [182 U.S. 244, 261] Virginia. It had been subject to the Constitution, and was a part of the United States[]. The Constitution had attached to it irrevocably. There are steps which can never be taken backward. The tie that bound the states of Maryland and Virginia to the Constitution could not be dissolved, without at least the consent of the Federal and state governments to a formal separation. The mere cession of the District of Columbia to the Federal government relinquished the authority of the states, but it did not take it out of the United States or from under the aegis of the Constitution. Neither party had ever consented to that construction of the cession. If, before the District was set off, Congress had passed an unconstitutional act affecting its inhabitants, it would have been void. If done after the District was created, it would have been equally void; in other words, Congress could not do indirectly, by carving out the District, what it could not do directly. The District still remained a part of the United States, protected by the Constitution. Indeed, it would have been a fanciful construction to hold that territory which had been once a part of the United States ceased to be such by being ceded directly to the Federal government."

"Indeed, the practical interpretation put by Congress upon the Constitution has been long continued and uniform to the effect [182 U.S. 244, 279] that the Constitution is applicable to territories acquired by purchase or conquest, only when and so far as Congress shall so direct. Notwithstanding its duty to 'guarantee to every state in this Union a republican form of government' (art. 4, 4), by which we understand, according to the definition of Webster, 'a government in which the supreme power resides in the whole body of the people, and is exercised by representatives elected by them,' Congress did not hesitate, in the original organization of the territories of Louisiana, Florida, the Northwest Territory, and its subdivisions of Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois, and Wisconsin and still more recently in the case of Alaska, to establish a form of government bearing a much greater analogy to a British Crown colony than a republican state of America, and to vest the legislative power either in a governor and council, or a governor and judges, to be appointed by the President. It was not until they had attained a certain population that power was given them to organize a legislature by vote of the people. In all these cases, as well as in territories subsequently organized west of the Mississippi, Congress thought it necessary either to extend to Constitution and laws of the United States over them, or to declare that the inhabitants should be entitled to enjoy the right of trial by jury, of bail, and of the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus, as well as other privileges of the bill of rights."

[Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901)]

Based on the above and further reading of Downes, we can reach the following conclusions about the applicability of the Constitution within United States the country:

1. That the District of Columbia and the territories are not states within the judicial clause of the Constitution giving jurisdiction in cases between citizens of different states;
2. That territories are not states within the meaning of Rev. Stat. 709, permitting writs of error from this court in cases where the validity of a state statute is drawn in question;
3. That the District of Columbia and the territories are states as that word is used in treaties with foreign powers, with respect to the ownership, disposition, and inheritance of property;
4. That the territories are not within the clause of the Constitution providing for the creation of a supreme court and such inferior courts as Congress may see fit to establish;
5. That the Constitution does not apply to foreign countries or to trials therein conducted, and that Congress may lawfully [182 U.S. 244, 271] provide for such trials before consular tribunals, without the intervention of a grand or petit jury;
6. That where the Constitution has been once formally extended by Congress to territories, neither Congress nor the territorial legislature can enact laws inconsistent therewith, or retract the applicability of the Constitution to those territories.

7. That Article 1, Section 8, Clause 1 of the Constitution authorizing duties, imposts, and excises (indirect taxes) empowers congress to apply these taxes throughout the sovereign 50 Union states, and not just on federal land. Here is the quote from Downes confirming that:

"In delivering the opinion [Loughborough v. Blake, 5 Wheat. 317, 5 L.Ed. 98], however, the Chief Justice made certain observations which have occasioned some embarrassment in other cases. 'The power,' said he, 'to lay and collect duties, imposts, and excises may be exercised, and must be exercised, throughout the United States. Does this term designate the whole, or any particular portion of the American empire? Certainly this question can admit but of one answer. It is the name given to our great Republic which is composed of states and territories. The District of Columbia, or the territory west of the Missouri, is not less within the United States than Maryland or Pennsylvania; and it is not less necessary, on the principles of our Constitution, that uniformity in the imposition of imposts, duties, and excises should be observed in the one than in the other. Since, then, the power to lay and collect taxes, which includes direct taxes, is obviously coextensive with the power to lay and collect duties, imposts, and excises, and since the latter extends throughout the United States, it follows that the power to impose direct taxes also extends through- [182 U.S. 244, 262] out the United States.' So far as applicable to the District of Columbia, these observations are entirely sound. So far as they apply to the territories, they were not called for by the exigencies of the case."

The only limitation on the above powers to impose indirect excise taxes throughout the United States* (the country) is that appearing in the statutes and the requirement of Article 1, Section 8, Clause 3 of the Constitution. The Constitution only authorizes federal jurisdiction over foreign commerce with other countries and not intrastate commerce (commerce within a state). The Constitution forbids federal jurisdiction over exports from states under Article 1, Section 9, Clause 5 of the Constitution. The only thing left for the federal government to tax and regulate under the Constitution, under these circumstances, is imports from outside the country, which is what "foreign commerce" means. The feds can impose duties, imposts, and excises only on imports or profit derived from imports. The imports, however, must be done by corporations or else they are not taxable.

8. Once a state is accepted into the union of states united under the Constitution, all lands in the state at that time are then covered by the Constitution in perpetuity excepting land under federal jurisdiction (enclaves). If the federal government then chooses to purchase state lands back after the state joins the union to set up a federal enclave, such as a military base or federal courthouse or national park, then the land that facility resides on that formerly was governed by the Constitution continues in perpetuity to be governed by the Constitution, even though it then becomes subject to the exclusive legislative jurisdiction of the federal government under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 17 of the Constitution.
9. States east of the Mississippi had very little land that continued under federal jurisdiction at the time they were admitted to the union as states of the Union. Therefore, nearly the entire state in these cases is covered by the Constitution. The opposite is true in states west of the Mississippi, where large portions continued under federal jurisdiction after these territories were admitted as states. Those areas that were federal enclaves at the date of admission which continue to this day to be under federal jurisdiction are not subject to the Constitution or the Bill of Rights.
10. Direct federal taxes and rights conferred by the Bill of Rights are mutually exclusive. You will note that when a new state is admitted to the Union, its lands then irrevocably have the Constitution attached to them and are covered by the Bill of Rights while at the same time, a new requirement to apportion all direct taxes is added in the former territory. The reason is that once people have rights, they become sovereign and at that point, it becomes impossible for the federal government under the Bill of Rights and Constitutional protections to encroach on those rights by trying to collect direct taxes because direct taxes then must be apportioned to each state as required under Article 1, Section 2, Clause 3, and Article 1, Section 9, Clause 4 of the Constitution. This is consistent with the Supreme Court's ruling in Knowlton v. Moore, 178 U.S. 41 (1900):

"Direct taxes bear immediately upon persons, upon the possession and enjoyment of rights; indirect taxes are levied upon the happening of an event as an exchange."
[Knowlton v. Moore, 178 U.S. 41 (1900)]

We now summarize the above findings graphically to make them crystal clear and useful in front of a judge and jury in court:

IMPORTANT: Those areas listed above where there are no Constitutional rights are the only areas where direct income taxes under Subtitle A can be applied to individuals without apportionment and without violating (clauses 1:9:4 and 1:2:3 of) the Constitution. Everyplace else, it isn't a tax, but a donation.

The federal zone, or federal "United States", is the area of land over which the Congress exercises an unrestricted, exclusive legislative jurisdiction. The Congress, however, does not have unrestricted, exclusive legislative jurisdiction over any of the 50 sovereign states. It is bound by the chains of the Constitution. This point is so very important, it bears repeating throughout the remaining chapters of this book and it also explains why the use of the word "State" in the Internal Revenue Code doesn't by default (26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(9\) and (10)) mean one of the 50 sovereign states of the union. As in the apportionment rule for direct taxes and the uniformity rule for indirect taxes, Congress cannot join or divide any of the 50 sovereign states without the explicit approval of the Legislatures of the state(s) involved. This means that Congress cannot unilaterally delegate such a power to the President. Congress cannot lawfully exercise (nor delegate) a power which it simply does not have.

For further evidence of what constitutes the "federal zone" and a "State" within the IRC, we refer you to the fascinating analysis found in section 5.2.8 entitled "'State' in the Internal Revenue Code means 'federal State' and not a Union State'".

Lastly, let us carefully clarify the important distinctions between "States", "territories", and "states" in the context of federal statutes to make our analysis crystal clear. Remember that federal "territories" and "States" are synonymous as per 4 U.S.C. §110\(d\). Keep in mind also that Indian reservations, while considered "sovereign nations" are also federal "States":

Your ZIP Code determines which ZIP Code region you live in. ZIP Code regions are federal areas and are part of the federal zone. The IRS has adopted the ZIP Code regions as IRS regions. If you accept mail that has a ZIP Code on it, you are treated as though you reside in a federal territory and thus are subject to the IRS and all other municipal laws of the District of Columbia.

3.15.5 Police Powers

To fully understand our Constitutional government of balanced and limited powers, you must understand the concept of "police powers". First, let's define the term:

"Police power. An authority conferred by the American constitutional system in the Tenth Amendment, U.S. Const., upon the individual states, and, in turn, delegated to local governments, through which they are enabled to establish a special department of police; adopt such laws and regulations as tend to prevent the commission of fraud and crime, and secure generally the comfort, safety, morals, health, and prosperity of the citizens by preserving the public order, preventing a conflict of rights in the common intercourse of the citizens, and insuring to each an uninterrupted enjoyment of all the privileges conferred upon him or her by the general laws.

The power of the State to place restraints on the personal freedom and property rights of persons for the protection of the public safety, health, and morals or the promotion of the public convenience and general prosperity. The police power is subject to limitations of the federal and State constitutions, and especially to the requirement of due process. Police power is the exercise of the sovereign right of a government to promote order, safety, security, health, morals and general welfare within constitutional limits and is an essential attribute of government. Marshall v. Kansas City, Mo., 355 S.W.2d. 877, 883." [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1156]

In nearly all cases, "police powers" and "legislative jurisdiction" are synonymous terms. Nearly all "Acts of Congress" are "private laws" or "special laws" that only apply within federal territories and not to states of the Union. We talk about this in greater detail in section 7.3 of the Tax Fraud Prevention Manual, Form #06.008 and its subsections.

Both state and the federal governments under our Constitutional system possess police powers within their own respective territories:

1. States within their own borders, but generally not on land ceded to the federal government, including any area within the "federal zone".
2. Federal government to all its territories and possessions and the enclaves that it owns within the union states consisting of lands ceded by the state legislature to the federal government. These areas are called the "federal zone" in this book. The states of the union are not regarded as "territories" of the federal government. Instead, they are the equivalent of sovereign nations who have delegated a portion of their power to the federal government but who collectively reserve sovereignty over that government.

Below is one of many statements made by the Supreme court confirming the limited nature of federal police powers within the sovereign states of the Union:

"By the tenth amendment, 'the powers not delegated to the United States by the constitution, nor prohibited by it to the states, are reserved to the states, respectively, or to the people.' Among the powers thus reserved to the several states is what is commonly called the 'police power,'-that inherent and necessary power, essential to the very existence of civil society, and the safeguard of the inhabitants of the state against disorder, disease, poverty, and crime. 'The police power belonging to the states in virtue of their general sovereignty,' said Mr. Justice STORY, delivering the judgment of this court, 'extends over all subjects within the territorial limits of the states, and has never been conceded to the United States.' Prigg v. Pennsylvania, 16 Pet. 539, 625. This is well illustrated by the recent adjudications that a statute prohibiting the sale of illuminating oils below a certain fire test is beyond the constitutional power of congress to enact, except so far as it has effect within the United States (as, for instance, in the District of Columbia) and without the limits of any state; but that it is within the constitutional power of a state to pass such a statute, even as to oils manufactured under letters patent from the United States. U.S. v. Dewitt, 9 Wall. 41; Patterson v. Kentucky, 97 U.S. 501. [135 U.S. 100, 128] The police power includes all measures for the protection of the life, the health, the property, and the welfare of the inhabitants, and for the promotion of good order and the public morals. It covers the suppression of nuisances, whether injurious to the public health, like unwholesome trades, or to the public morals, like gambling-houses and lottery tickets. Slaughter-House Cases, 16 Wall. 36, 62, 87; Fertilizing Co. v. Hyde Park, 97 U.S. 659; Phalen v. Virginia, 8 How. 163, 168; Stone v. Mississippi, 101 U.S. 814. This power, being essential to the maintenance of the authority of local government, and to the safety and welfare of the people, is inalienable. As was said by Chief Justice WAITE, referring to earlier decisions to the same effect: 'No legislature can bargain away the public health or the public morals. The people themselves cannot do it, much less their servants. The supervision of both these subjects of governmental power is continuing in its nature, and they are to be dealt with as the special exigencies of the moment may require. Government is organized with a view to their preservation, and cannot divest itself of the power to provide for them. For this purpose the largest legislative discretion is allowed, and the discretion cannot be parted with any more than the power itself.' Stone v. Mississippi, 101 U.S. 814, 819. See, also, Butchers' Union, etc., Co. v. Crescent City, etc., Co., 111 U.S. 746, 753, 4 S.Sup.Ct.Rep. 652; New Orleans Gas Co. v. Louisiana Light Co., 115 U.S. 650, 672, 6 S.Sup.Ct.Rep. 252; New Orleans v. Houston, 119 U.S. 265, 275, 7 S.Sup.Ct.Rep. 198." [Leisy v. Hardin, 135 U.S. 100 (1890)]

An example of the exercise of police powers is the enactment of criminal laws to protect citizens and inhabitants from crime and other injurious activities. Exercise of police powers encompasses such things as the regulation of intoxicating liquors, public health, vaccination programs, healthcare, and many other subjects. Within the federal government, the function of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, and Firearms (BATF), for instance, is to exercise general police powers within the federal zone only over alcohol, tobacco, and firearms and this power is conferred under Title 27 of the U.S. code. At one time, federal police powers over alcohol extended into states of the Union under the Eighteenth Amendment, but this amendment was subsequently repealed with the passage of the 21st Amendment. The Drug Enforcement Agency, or DEA, has exclusive federal jurisdiction over drug trafficking inside the federal zone. These federal agencies, however, have no jurisdiction over such activities that are exclusively within a state. The minute that such activities cross state borders and become interstate commerce, these agencies obtain jurisdiction under the Commerce Clause found in the Constitution under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 3.

In some cases, a delegation of authority to enforce criminal or tax code may occur by the federal government, whereby federal legislation is enacted to permit the laws of federal "States" laws to apply to federal enclaves within a federal "State". These federal "States" are in fact territories of the United States, as shown in 4 U.S.C. §110(d). An example of such legislation is the Buck Act of 1940, codified in 5 U.S.C. §105-113. This Act gave authority to federal territories (called federal "States" in federal law) only to impose their income taxes on business activities exclusively within federal enclaves located within federal territories. The act DID NOT and CANNOT authorize states of the Union to impose direct taxes within federal enclaves, because this would:

1. Break down the separation of powers between the state and federal governments.
2. Violate the mandate in Article 4, Section 4 of the Constitution to provide a "Republican form of government".
3. Force people in federal territories to serve two masters (state and federal), which violates God's laws found in Luke 16:13.
4. Create collusion and conspiracy against the rights of people in federal territories by the state and federal government. It also incentivizes states of the Union to pretend like their citizens live in federal enclave so that they can steal money from them. This coordinated theft of the sovereign people's income is done using the Agreements on Coordination of Tax Administration between the Secretary of the Treasury and states of the Union. All the states now have been bribed by the federal government to pretend like their citizens live in federal territories and come under the Buck Act.

The Buck Act, in fact, is the exclusive authority for the income and sales taxes in most states of the Union. That's right, income and sales taxes in most states are only authorized inside the federal zone on nonresidents of each state! A person who lives in a federal enclave within a state is "nonresident" to the state.

The important thing that you need to know about police powers is that they are required in order to enforce tax laws. You can't outlaw something by passing a criminal statute against it unless you have police powers within the region you are trying to tax. An example of such criminal statutes are 26 U.S.C. §§7201-7217, which are the criminal provisions of the Internal Revenue Code that most people in the states of the union "think" apply to them but in fact do not. Why? Because the federal government has no police powers within the borders of the states unless they are exercising powers specifically granted to them by the Constitution. Even the Supreme Court agrees with this conclusion:

"It should never be held that Congress intends to supersede or by its legislation suspend the exercise of the police powers of the States, even when it may do so, unless its purpose to effect that result is clearly manifested."
Reid v. Colorado, [187 U.S. 137, 148 (1902)]

"The principle thus applicable has been frequently stated. It is that the Congress may circumscribe its regulation and occupy a limited field, and that the intention to supersede the exercise by the State of its authority as to matters not covered by the federal legislation is not to be implied unless the Act of Congress fairly interpreted is in conflict with the law of the State. See Savage v. Jones, 225 U.S. 501, 533."

"If Congress is authorized to act in a field, it should manifest its intention clearly. It will not be presumed that a federal statute was intended to supersede the exercise of the power of the state unless there is a clear manifestation of intention to do so. The exercise of federal supremacy is not lightly to be presumed."
Schwartz v. Texas, [344 U.S. 199, 202-203 (1952)]

"While states are not sovereign in true sense of term but only quasi sovereign, yet in respect of all powers reserved to them they are supreme and independent of federal government as that government within its sphere is independent of the states."

"It is no longer open to question that the general government, unlike the states, Hammer v. Dagenhart, 247 U.S. 251, 275, 38 S.Ct. 529, 3 A.L.R. 649, Ann.Cas.1918E 724, possesses no inherent power in respect of the internal affairs of the states; and emphatically not with regard to legislation."
Carter v. Carter Coal Co., [298 U.S. 238, 56 S.Ct. 855 (1936)]

With regard to that last quote, the Internal Revenue Code is classified as "legislation". The ability to directly tax human beings within the 50 states of the union was never conferred upon the federal government anywhere in the Constitution, Sixteenth Amendment or otherwise. As a matter of fact, in Chapter 3, we cited several Supreme Court rulings stating specifically that the Sixteenth Amendment "conferred no new powers of taxation" (see Stanton v. Baltic Mining, 240 U.S. 103 (1916) and many others). We will reiterate this fact for you later in section 5.2.11 and we will also show in section 5.1.1 that the only type of taxation authorized by the Constitution within states of the Union is indirect excise taxes on privileged artificial entities such as corporations and partnerships who are involved only in foreign or interstate commerce under Art. 1, Section 8, Clause 3 of the U.S. Constitution.

To summarize the findings of this section on police powers, we will present in the table below a list of definitions. This table clarifies the distinctions between the various terms relating to "States", "states", and "United States" in the various state and federal laws so that the impact of the separation of police powers between federal and state governments can be clearly seen in a meaningful way:

3.16 "Resident", "Residence", and "Domicile"

3.16.1 "Resident" defined

We are all the time being asked "are you a resident of the state of Illinois?" (or whatever State) and we always answer "yes". But are we really? Let us take a much closer look and see.

Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1309:

Resident. "Any person who occupies a dwelling within the State, has a present intent to remain within the State for a period of time, and manifests the genuineness of that intent by establishing an ongoing physical presence within the State together with indicia that his presence within the State is something other than merely transitory in nature. The word "resident" when used as a noun means a dweller, habitant or occupant; one who resides or dwells in a place for a period of more, or less, duration; it signifies one having a residence, or one who resides or abides. Hanson v. P.A. Peterson Home Ass'n, 35 Ill.App.2d. 134, 182 N.E.2d. 237, 240 [Underlines added]

Word "resident" has many meanings in law, largely determined by statutory context in which it is used. [Kelm v. Carlson, C.A.Ohio, 473, F.2d. 1267, 1271][Underline added]

Did you notice the distinct use of "the State" in the above definition? That was no accident. Below are a few clues to its meaning from federal statutes, which is where the above definition says we should look:

26 U.S.C. Sec. 7701(a)(10): State

The term "State" shall be construed to include the District of Columbia, where such construction is necessary to carry out provisions of this title.

8 U.S.C. Sec. 1101(a)(36): State [citizenship and naturalization]

¹¹⁶ See, for instance, U.S. Constitution Article IV, Section 2.

The term "State" includes the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, Guam, and the Virgin Islands of the United States.

8 U.S.C. Sec. 1101\(a\)\(36\)

TITLE 4 - FLAG AND SEAL, SEAT OF GOVERNMENT, AND THE STATES

CHAPTER 4 - THE STATES

Sec. 110. Same; definitions

(d) The term "State" includes any Territory or possession of the United States.

The above cites are definitions of "State" from federal law, but even most state income tax statutes agree with this definition! Below is the California Revenue and Taxation Code definition of "State":

6017. "In this State" or "in the State" means within the exterior [outside] limits of the [Sovereign] state of California and includes [only] all territory within these limits owned by or ceded to the United States

[which don't include the 50 sovereign states but do include federal areas within those states]

The sovereign 50 Union states are NOT territories or possessions of the "United States". The states are sovereign over their own territories. The "State" mentioned above in the California Revenue and Taxation Code is a federal enclave within the exterior boundaries of the California Republic. People living within these areas are "residents" under the Internal Revenue Code and in that condition, they live in the "federal zone".

The document upon which the founders wrote our Constitution, and which is mentioned in Article 1, Section 8, Clause 10, confirms that the term "resident" refers ONLY to aliens domiciled within the territory of a nation. Below is what it says in Book 1, Chapter 19, section 213, page 87:

"Residents, as distinguished from citizens, are aliens who are permitted to take up a permanent abode in the country. Being bound to the society by reason of their dwelling in it, they are subject to its laws so long as they remain there, and, being protected by it, they must defend it, although they do not enjoy all the rights of citizens. They have only certain privileges which the law, or custom, gives them. Permanent residents are those who have been given the right of perpetual residence. They are a sort of citizen of a less privileged character, and are subject to the society without enjoying all its advantages. Their children succeed to their status; for the right of perpetual residence given them by the State passes to their children."
[The Law of Nations, Vattel, Book 1, Chapter 19, Section 213, p. 87]

3.16.2 "Resident" in the Internal Revenue Code

The only type of "resident" defined in the Internal Revenue Code is a "resident alien", as demonstrated below:

26 U.S.C. §7701\(b\)\(1\)\(A\) Resident alien

(b) Definition of resident alien and nonresident alien

(1) In general

For purposes of this title (other than subtitle B) -

(A) Resident alien

An alien individual shall be treated as a resident of the United States with respect to any calendar year if (and only if) such individual meets the requirements of clause (i), (ii), or (iii):

(i) Lawfully admitted for permanent residence

Such individual is a lawful permanent resident of the United States at any time during such calendar year.

(ii) Substantial presence test

Such individual meets the substantial presence test of paragraph (3).

(iii) First year election

Such individual makes the election provided in paragraph (4).

Therefore, the terms “resident”, “alien”, and “resident alien” are all synonymous terms within the Internal Revenue Code. Most state income taxation statutes also use the same definition of “resident”, and therefore the same definition applies for state income taxes as well.

QUESTION FOR DOUBTERS: If you believe we are wrong, then please show us a definition of the term “resident” within either the Internal Revenue Code or the implementing regulations that includes “citizens of the United States” as defined under 8 U.S.C. §1401. There simply isn’t one! You are not free to “presume” or “assume” that “citizens of the United States” are also “residents” without the authority of a positive law that authorizes it. We’ll also give you the hint, as you will learn in sections 5.4.1 through 5.4.1.5 of the Great IRS Hoax, that even the Internal Revenue Code is neither “law” nor “positive law”, so you can’t use it as evidence of anything. To make this or any other assumption in a court of law would violate our right to “due process or law”, because “presumption” or “assumption” of anything in the legal realm is a violation of due process. Everything must be proven with evidence, and that which is neither law nor which is explicitly stated cannot be presumed.

The only way you can come under the jurisdiction of Subtitle A of the Internal Revenue Code is to meet one or more of the following criterias below:

1. A “U.S. person” domiciled within the “federal zone” as defined under 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(30):

Sec. 7701. - Definitions

(a)(30) United States person

The term “United States person” means -

(A) a citizen or resident of the United States,

(B) a domestic partnership,

(C) a domestic corporation,

(D) any estate (other than a foreign estate, within the meaning of paragraph (31)), and

(E) any trust if -

(i) a court within the United States is able to exercise primary supervision over the administration of the trust, and

(ii) one or more United States persons have the authority to control all substantial decisions of the trust.

The above “U.S. person” is technically either an “alien” or a federal corporation only. A corporation can also be an “alien” if it was incorporated outside of federal jurisdiction but has a presence inside the federal zone. Under 26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1, these are the only entities who are required to provide any kind of identifying number on their tax return! That regulation requires the furnishing of a “Taxpayer Identification Number” for these legal “persons”, but 26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1(d)(3) says that Social Security Numbers are not to be treated as “Taxpayer Identification Numbers”. Consequently, natural persons with a Social Security Number do not have to provide any kind of identifying number on their return because they aren’t the proper subject of Subtitle A of the Internal Revenue Code. See section 5.4.17 later for further details on this scandal.

2. A “nonresident alien” under 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(a)(2)(ii) or 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3) who has income “effectively connected with a trade or business”, which means a political office in the United States government under 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26). See 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(a)(2)(ii).

Under item 1 above, the term “citizen of the United States” is used in describing a “U.S. person”, but that “person” is technically only a federal corporation, as confirmed by the following:

1. The legal encyclopedia, Corpus Juris Secundum confirms that corporations are treated in law as “citizens of the United States”:

“A corporation is a citizen, resident, or inhabitant of the state or country by or under the laws of which it was created, and of that state or country only.”

[19 Corpus Juris Secundum (C.J.S.), Corporations, §886 (2003)]

2. The definition of “income” as including only “corporate profit” under our Constitution limits the entire Internal Revenue Code to corporations only. See section 5.6.5 later for complete details on this subject.

Human beings (people) who are “citizens of the United States” under the provisions of 8 U.S.C. §1401 are born only in the District of Columbia or federal territories or possessions. Federal territories and possessions are the only “States” within the Internal Revenue Code as confirmed by 4 U.S.C. §110(d). These statutory “citizens of the United States” cannot legally be classified as “residents”/“aliens” under the Internal Revenue Code and are not authorized by the code to “elect” to be treated as one either. The reason is because the purpose of law is to protect, and a person cannot elect to lose their constitutional rights and protection, even if they want to! However, by filing an IRS form 1040 or 1040A, they in effect make this illegal election anyway, and the IRS looks the other way and does not prosecute such unintentional deceit because they benefit financially from it. The pronouncements of the U.S. Supreme Court also identify this kind of constructive fraud on the part of the IRS as an invalid election if this unwitting choice did not involve fully informed consent. Did you know that you were agreeing to be treated as an “alien” by the IRS when you signed and sent in your first Form 1040 or 1040A?:

[Brady v. U.S., 397 U.S. 742 (1970)]

The reason Constitutional rights are being waived is because people who are “residents”/“aliens” within the federal zone have no constitutional rights in law. The only way to avoid this involuntary election is to instead either file nothing or to file a 1040NR form with the IRS instead of a 1040 or 1040A form. You will learn starting in the next section that people who are born in states of the Union are not “citizens of the United States” under 8 U.S.C. §1401, but are instead the equivalent of “non-citizen nationals” under 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21) who are in fact “nonresident aliens” under the Internal Revenue Code who should file only the 1040NR form if they file anything with the IRS. The rules for electing to be treated as a “resident” or “resident alien” are found in IRS Publication 54: Tax Guide for U.S. citizens and Resident Aliens Abroad. See the following sections for amplification on this subject: 5.5.2, 5.5.3, and 5.4.12.

IMPORTANT: If you were born in a state of the Union, NEVER, EVER file a 1040, 1040A, or 1040EZ form unless you want to throw your Constitutional rights in the toilet! If you determine that you must file a tax form with the IRS, then only send in a 1040NR form in order to preserve your status as a “non-citizen national” under 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21) and a “nonresident alien” who is outside of federal jurisdiction! Nonresident aliens cannot be penalized under the Internal Revenue Code because they don’t reside there! When you send in the 1040NR form, make sure to change the perjury statement at the end to put yourself outside of federal jurisdiction as follows:

“I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the United States of America in accordance with 28 U.S.C. §1746(1) that the foregoing facts are true, correct, and complete to the best of my knowledge and ability, but only when litigated with a jury in a court of a state of the Union and not a federal court.”

You will learn later in section 5.4.5 that the IRS has no legal authority to institute penalties against human beings because of the prohibition against Bills of Attainder found in Article 1, Section 10 of the Constitution, but they will try to illegally do it anyway. Since IRS likes to try to illegally penalize people for changing the “jurat” or perjury statement at the end of the 1040NR form, then you can accomplish the equivalent of physically modifying the words in the perjury statement by redefining the words in the statement or redefining the whole statement in its entirety in an attached letter. Physically changing the words in the statement is the only thing IRS incorrectly “thinks” they can penalize for, and especially if the return was completed and submitted outside of federal jurisdiction in a state of the Union and the perjury statement accurately reflects that fact. Remember that crimes can only be punished based on where they are committed, and if your perjury statement reflects the fact that you are outside of federal jurisdiction, then IRS can’t penalize you no matter how hard they try or how many threats they make.

So being a “resident of the State” under federal statutes above makes you a nonresident alien in your own state and an “alien” under federal jurisdiction who is the proper subject of both state and federal income taxes codes! Because as a “resident of the State” you are presumed to reside inside the federal zone, you don’t have any constitutional rights according to the U.S. supreme Court. Listen to the dissenting opinion from Justice Harlan in the case of Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901) which ruled that the federal zone doesn’t have constitutional protections:

restrictions; the other to be maintained by Congress outside the independently of that instrument, by exercising such powers [of absolutism] as other nations of the earth are accustomed to.. I take leave to say that, if the principles thus announced should ever receive the sanction of a majority of this court, a radical and mischievous change in our system of government will result. We will, in that event, pass from the era of constitutional liberty guarded and protected by a written constitution into an era of legislative absolutism.. It will be an evil day for American liberty if the theory of a government outside the supreme law of the land finds lodgment in our constitutional jurisprudence. No higher duty rests upon this court than to exert its full authority to prevent all violation of the principles of the Constitution."

[Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901)]

When you accept the false notion that you are "liable" for federal income taxes under Subtitle A of the Internal Revenue Code and subsequently file a 1040 tax return (bad idea!), you are admitting under penalty of perjury that you are an alien "individual" of your own country (not a "national" or "citizen") who lives in the federal zone. The only definitions of "individual" found in 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3) and 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(a)(2)(ii) confirm that the only people who are "individuals" in the context of federal income taxes are "aliens"/"residents" residing in the federal "United States" or "nonresident aliens". That lie or mistake on the tax return you never should have submitted to begin with caused you to become the equivalent of a "virtual inhabitant" of the federal zone in law and from that point on you are treated as such by both the federal government and the state government, even if you don't want to be and never intended to do this! Here is more proof showing that even if you weren't located in the federal zone when you submitted the false 1040 return, you gave your tacit permission to be treated as a resident of the District of Columbia:

TITLE 26 > Subtitle F > CHAPTER 79 > Sec. 7701.
Sec. 7701. – Definitions

(a)(39) Persons residing outside [the federal] United States

If any citizen or resident of the United States does not reside in (and is not found in) any United States judicial district, such citizen or resident shall be treated as residing in the District of Columbia for purposes of any provision of this title relating to -

(A) jurisdiction of courts, or
 (B) enforcement of summons.

What the above means is that if you filed a 1040 or 1040A form, you are telling the federal government that you are an "alien"/"resident" who lives in the federal zone and consequently, the courts will treat you like you have a domicile in the District of Columbia, which we call the District of Criminals. A similar provision appears under 26 U.S.C. §7408(c) :

TITLE 26 > Subtitle F > CHAPTER 76 > Subchapter A > § 7408
§7408. Action to enjoin promoters of abusive tax shelters, etc.

(d) Citizens and residents outside the United States If any citizen or resident of the United States does not reside in, and does not have his principal place of business in, any United States judicial district, such citizen or resident shall be treated for purposes of this section as residing in the District of Columbia.

Here is what the 2003 IRS Published Products Catalog says about the proper use of the form 1040A on page F-15, and notice is says it is only for "citizens" and "residents", neither of which describe those born in and inhabiting states of the Union on land not under federal ownership:

Those who file that false 1040 form are admitting that they are living in the King's Castle and from that point on, they better bow down to the king as slaves by paying "tribute" with all their earnings! Important about the above is the fact that "nationals" and "nonresident aliens" are not included in the phrase "citizens or residents", because they are outside the jurisdiction of the federal courts! One more big reason why we don't want to be a "U.S. citizen" in the context of federal statutes such as 8 U.S.C. §1401! That false 1040 tax return they submitted, which said "U.S. individual" at the top, became a contract with criminals from the "District of Criminals" (the "D.C." in "Washington D.C.") to take themselves out of the Constitutional Republic and out of the protections of the Bill of Rights. They united with or "married" Babylon the Great Harlot mentioned in Rev. 17 and 18 and they live where she lives: inside of a totalitarian socialist democracy devoid of constitutional rights and predicated solely on the love of money and luxury. They declared themselves to be an "employee" of the Harlot, and the false W-4 form they submitted proves that, because the upper left corner says "employee", and the only people who are "employees" as defined in 26 U.S.C. §3401(c) work for the federal government. They have joined the "Matrix" and become a socialist federal serf. Welcome, comrade!"

"You were bought at a price; do not become slaves of men [and remember that government is made up of men]." [1 Cor. 7:23, Bible, NKJV]

Who says we don't live in a police state, and not many people even know about this because we have been so deceived by our public "dis-servants". Can you see how insidious this lawyer deception is? The American people and our media are asleep at the wheel folks!...and it's going to take a lot more to fix than blind and ignorant patriotism and putting an idiotic flag or bumper sticker on your car. That's right: if you are a "resident of the United States" or of "the State", then you're a federal serf and a ward of the socialist government who is nonresident to his own state! You better to do what you're told, pay your taxes, and shut up, BOY, or we'll confiscate all your property, give you 40 lashes and send you to bed without dinner or a blanket. Watch out!

To summarize the preceding discussion of "resident", for the purposes of taxation, one establishes that they are a "resident" of the federal zone by any of the following techniques:

1. Filing a form 1040 or 1040a or 1040EZ
2. Filling out a W-4 form, which is only for use by federal "employees", all of whom work only in the federal zone.
3. Claiming to be "U.S. citizen", "U.S. resident", or "U.S. person" on any federal form.

If you never did any of the above, then it can't be said that you ever consented to participate in the federal income tax system and the federal government has no jurisdiction or proof of jurisdiction over you for the purposes of Subtitle A of the Internal Revenue Code. If they wrongfully proceed at that point over your objections by attempting unlawful collection and/or assessment actions against you in violation of 26 U.S.C. §6020(b) or the Constitution, then they:

1. Are involved in identity theft because they moved your legal identity under the I.R.C. to a physical place where you neither intend to live or actually live, which is the District of Columbia.
2. Are involved in:
 - 2.1. Racketeering in violation of 18 U.S.C. §1951.
 - 2.2. Extortion in violation of 18 U.S.C. §872.
 - 2.3. Conspiracy against rights in violation of, 18 U.S.C. §241.
3. Can and should be prosecuted individually for fraud in violation of 18 U.S.C. §1001, kidnapping in violation of 18 U.S.C. §1201, and all of the above crimes under both state and federal law.

3.16.3 "Domicile" and "residence" compared

Now we'll examine and compare the word "domicile" with "residence" to put it into context within our discussion:

domicile. A person's legal home. That place where a man has his true, fixed, and permanent home and principal establishment, and to which whenever he is absent he has the intention of returning. Smith v. Smith, 206 Pa.Super. 310m 213 A.2d. 94. Generally, physical presence within a state and the intention to make it one's home are the requisites of establishing a "domicile" therein. The permanent residence of a person or the place to which he intends to return even though he may actually reside elsewhere. A person may have more than one residence but only one domicile. The legal domicile of a person is important since it, rather than the actual residence, often controls the jurisdiction of the taxing authorities and determines where a person may exercise the privilege of voting and other legal rights and privileges. The established, fixed, permanent, or ordinary dwellingplace or place of residence of a person, as distinguished from his temporary and transient, though actual, place of residence. It is his legal residence, as distinguished from his temporary place of abode; or his home, as distinguished from a place to which business or pleasure may temporarily call him. See also Abode; Residence.

"Citizenship," "habitation," and "residence" are severally words which in particular cases may mean precisely the same as "domicile," while in other uses may have different meanings.

"Residence" signifies living in particular locality while "domicile" means living in that locality with intent to make it a fixed and permanent home. Schreiner v. Schreiner, Tex.Civ.App., 502 S.W.2d. 840, 843.

For purpose of federal diversity jurisdiction, "citizenship" and "domicile" are synonymous. Hendry v. Masonite Corp., C.A.Miss., 455 F.2d. 955.
[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 485]

Note the word "permanent" used in several places above. Note also that in the above definition that the taxes one pays are based on their "domicile" and "residence". Here is what it says again:

"The legal domicile of a person is important since it, rather than the actual residence, often controls the jurisdiction of the taxing authorities and determines where a person may exercise the privilege of voting and other legal rights and privileges."

Below is what a famous legal publisher has to say about the term "residence" in relation to "domicile" and "citizenship":

The general rule is that a person can maintain as many residences in as many states or nations as he pleases, and can afford, but that only place can qualify as that person's "domicile". This is because the law must often have, or in any event has come to insist on, one place to point to for any of a variety of legal purposes.

A persons' "domicile" is almost always a question of intent. A competent adult can, in our free society, live where she pleases, and we will take her "domicile" to be wherever she does the things that we ordinarily associate with "home": residing, working, voting, schooling, community activity, etc.

One resides in one's domicile indefinitely, that is, with no definite end planned for the stay. While we hear "permanently" mentioned, the better word is "indefinitely". This is best seen in the context of a change of domicile.

*In the United States, "domicile" and "residence" are the two major competitors for judicial attention, and the words are almost invariably used to describe the relationship that the person has to the state rather than the nation. We use "citizenship" to describe the national relationship, and we generally eschew "nationality" (heard more frequently among European nations) as a descriptive term.
[Conflicts in a Nutshell, Second Edition; David D. Siegel, West Publishing, 1994, ISBN 0-314-02952-4, pp. 14-15]*

These issues are very important. To summarize the meaning of "domicile" succinctly then, one's "domicile" is their "legal home". One's "domicile" is the place where we claim to have political and legal allegiance to the courts and the laws. Since allegiance must be exclusive, then we can have only one "domicile", because no man can serve more than one master as revealed in Luke 16:13. Since the first four Commandments of the Ten Commandments say that Christians can only have allegiance to "God" and His laws in the Holy Book, then their only "domicile" is Heaven based on allegiance alone.

3.16.4 "resident"=employee or contractor

The discussion in the preceding section brings out a very subtle point we would like to further expound upon, which is that "residence" is created ONLY through the operation of private law and your right to contract. We allege that the term "permanent" found in the definition of "domicile" in the previous section really means "consent" to the jurisdiction of the government. Below is the proof, right from the definitions within Title 8 of the U.S. Code, which is entitled "Aliens and Nationality":

TITLE 8 > CHAPTER 12 > SUBCHAPTER I > § 1101
§ 1101. Definitions

(a) As used in this chapter—

(31) The term “permanent” means a relationship of continuing or lasting nature, as distinguished from temporary, but a relationship may be permanent even though it is one that may be dissolved eventually at the instance either of the United States or of the individual, in accordance with law.

Note that the term “permanent” as used above has no relationship as to time, but instead can exist only in the presence of your voluntary consent. This is one of the implications of the Declaration of Independence, which states that “to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their JUST powers for the CONSENT of the governed.” What they are pointing out above is that what really makes the relationship “permanent” is your voluntary consent. This consent, the courts call “allegiance”. Below is how the U.S. Supreme Court describes the practical effect of choosing or consenting to a “domicile” within the jurisdiction of a specific “state”:

“Thus, the Court has frequently held that domicile or residence, more substantial than mere presence in transit or sojourn, is an adequate basis for taxation, including income, property, and death taxes. Since the Fourteenth Amendment makes one a citizen of the state wherein he resides, the fact of residence creates universally reciprocal duties [e.g. CONTRACTUAL DUTIES!!] of protection by the state and of allegiance and support by the citizen. The latter obviously includes a duty to pay taxes, and their nature and measure is largely a political matter. Of course, the situs of property may tax it regardless of the citizenship, domicile, or residence of the owner, the most obvious illustration being a tax on realty laid by the state in which the realty is located.”
Miller Brothers Co. v. Maryland, [347 U.S. 340 (1954)]

The only legitimate purpose of all law and government is “protection”. A person who selects or consents to have a “domicile” or “residence” has effectively contracted to procure “protection” of the “sovereign” or “state” within its jurisdiction. In exchange for the promise of protection by the “state”, they are legally obligated to give their allegiance and support. All allegiance must be voluntary and any consequences arising from compelled allegiance may not be enforced in a court of law. When you revoke your voluntary consent to the government’s jurisdiction and the “domicile” or “residence” contract, you change your status from that of a “domiciliary” or “resident” or “inhabitant” or “U.S. person” to that of a “transient foreigner”. Transient foreigner is then defined below:

[Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1498]

Note again the language within the definition of “domicile” from Black’s Law Dictionary found in the previous section relating to the word “transient”, which confirms that what makes your stay “permanent” is consent to the jurisdiction of the “state” located in that place:

“Domicile. [. . .] The established, fixed, permanent, or ordinary dwellingplace or place of residence of a person, as distinguished from his temporary and transient, though actual, place of residence. It is his legal residence, as distinguished from his temporary place of abode; or his home, as distinguished from a place to which business or pleasure may temporarily call him. See also Abode; Residence.”
[Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 485]

Since your Constitutional right to contract is unlimited, then you can have as many “residences” as you like, but you can have only one legal “domicile”, because your allegiance must be undivided or you will have a conflict of interest and allegiance.

“No one can serve two masters; for either he will hate the one and love the other, or else he will be loyal to the one and despise the other. You cannot serve God and mammon.”

Remember, “resident” is a combination of two word roots: “res”, which is legally defined as a “thing”, and “ident”, which stands for “identified”.

Res. Lat. The subject matter of a trust or will. In the civil law, a thing; an object. As a term of the law, this word has a very wide and extensive signification, including not only things which are objects of property, but also such as are not capable of individual ownership. And in old English law it is said to have a general import, comprehending both corporeal and incorporeal things of whatever kind, nature, or species. By “res,” according to the modern civilians, is meant everything that may form an object of rights, in opposition to “persona,” which is regarded as a subject of rights. “Res,” therefore, in its general meaning, comprises actions of all kinds; while in its restricted sense it comprehends every object of right, except actions. This has reference to the fundamental division of the Institutes that all law relates either to persons, to things, or to actions.*

Res is everything that may form an object of rights and includes an object, subject-matter or status. In re Riggle's Will, 11 A.D.2d. 51 205 N.Y.S.2d. 19, 21, 22. The term is particularly applied to an object, subject-matter, or status, considered as the defendant in an action, or as an object against which, directly, proceedings are taken. Thus, in a prize case, the captured vessel is "the res"; and proceedings of this character are said to be in rem. (See In personam; In Rem.) "Res" may also denote the action or proceeding, as when a cause, which is not between adversary parties, is entitled "In re _____".
[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, pp. 1304-1306]

When you become a "resident" in the eyes of the government, you become a "thing" that is now "identified" and which is within their legislative jurisdiction and completely subject to it. Notice that a "res" is defined as the object of a trust above. That trust is the "public trust" created by the Constitution and all laws passed pursuant to it.

"Part 1 -- PRINCIPLES OF ETHICAL CONDUCT"

"Section 101. Principles of Ethical Conduct. To ensure that every citizen can have complete confidence in the integrity of the Federal Government, each Federal employee shall respect and adhere to the fundamental principles of ethical service as implemented in regulations promulgated under sections 201 and 301 of this order:

"(a) Public service is a public trust, requiring employees to place loyalty to the Constitution, the laws, and ethical principles above private gain.

Sec. 2635.101 Basic obligation of public service.

(a) Public service is a public trust. Each employee has a responsibility to the United States Government and its citizens to place loyalty to the Constitution, laws and ethical principles above private gain. To ensure that every citizen can have complete confidence in the integrity of the Federal Government, each employee shall respect and adhere to the principles of ethical conduct set forth in this section, as well as the implementing standards contained in this part and in supplemental agency regulations.

All those who swear an oath as "public officers" are also identified as "trustees" of the "public trust":

"As expressed otherwise, the powers delegated to a public officer are held in trust for the people and are to be exercised in behalf of the government or of all citizens who may need the intervention of the officer.¹¹⁷ Furthermore, the view has been expressed that all public officers, within whatever branch and whatever level of government, and whatever be their private vocations, are trustees of the people, and accordingly labor under every disability and prohibition imposed by law upon trustees relative to the making of personal financial gain from a discharge of their trusts.¹¹⁸ That is, a public officer occupies a fiduciary relationship to the political entity on whose behalf he or she serves.¹¹⁹ and owes a fiduciary duty to the public.¹²⁰ It has been said that the fiduciary responsibilities of a public officer cannot be less than those of a private individual.¹²¹ Furthermore, it has been stated that any enterprise undertaken by the public official which tends to weaken public confidence and undermine the sense of security for individual rights is against public policy.¹²²"

[63C American Jurisprudence 2d, Public Officers and Employees, §247 (1999)]

A person who is “subject” to government jurisdiction cannot be a “sovereign”, because a sovereign is not subject to the law, but the AUTHOR of the law. Only citizens are the authors of the law because only “citizens” can vote.

“Sovereignty itself is, of course, not subject to law, for it is the author and source of law; but in our system, while sovereign powers are delegated to the agencies of government, sovereignty itself remains with the people, by whom and for whom all government exists and acts. And the law is the definition and limitation of power.”

The implication is that you cannot be sovereign if you have a “domicile” or “residence” in any earthly place or in any place other than Heaven or the Kingdom of Heaven on Earth. If you choose a “domicile” or “residence” any place on earth, then you become a “subject” in relation to that place and voluntarily forfeit your sovereignty. This is NOT the status you want to have! A “resident” by definition MUST therefore be within the legislative jurisdiction of the government, because the government cannot lawfully write laws that will allow them to recognize or act upon anything that is NOT within their legislative jurisdiction. All law is territorial in nature, and can act only upon the territory under the exclusive control of the government or upon its franchises and contracts, which are “property” under its management and control. The only lawful way that government laws can reach beyond the territory of the sovereign who controls them is through explicit, informed, mutual consent of the individual parties involved, and this field of law is called “private law”.

“Judge Story, in his treatise on the Conflicts of Laws, lays down, as the basis upon which all reasonings on the law of comity must necessarily rest, the following maxims: First 'that every nation possesses an exclusive sovereignty and jurisdiction within its own territory'; secondly, 'that no state or nation can by its laws directly affect or bind property out of its own territory, or bind persons not resident therein, whether they are natural born subjects or others.' The learned judge then adds: 'From these two maxims or propositions there follows a third, and that is that whatever force and obligation the laws of one country have in another depend solely upon the laws and municipal regulation of the latter; that is to say, upon its own proper jurisdiction and polity, and upon its own express or tacit consent.'” Story on Conflict of Laws §23.

The very same principles as government operates under with respect to “resident” also apply to Christianity as well. When we become Christians, we consent to the contract or covenant with God called the Bible. That covenant requires us to accept Jesus Christ as our Lord and Savior. This makes us a “resident” of Heaven and “pilgrims and sojourners” (transient foreigners) on earth:

“For our citizenship is in heaven, from which we also eagerly wait for the Savior, the Lord Jesus Christ”
[Philippians 3:20, Bible, NKJV]

“Now, therefore, you are no longer strangers and foreigners, but fellow citizens with the saints and members of the household of God.”
[Ephesians 2:19, Bible, NKJV]

[Hebrews 11:13, Bible, NKJV]

“Beloved, I beg you as sojourners and pilgrims, abstain from fleshly lusts which war against the soul...”
[1 Peter 2:11, Bible, NKJV]

For those who consent to the Bible covenant with God the Father, Jesus becomes our protector, spokesperson, Counselor, and Advocate before the Father. We become a Member of His family!

Jesus' Mother and Brothers Send for Him

While He was still talking to the multitudes, behold, His mother and brothers stood outside, seeking to speak with Him. Then one said to Him, “Look, Your mother and Your brothers are standing outside, seeking to speak with You.”

But He answered and said to the one who told Him, “Who is My mother and who are My brothers?” And He stretched out His hand toward His disciples and said, “Here are My mother and My brothers! For whoever does the will of My Father in heaven is My brother and sister and mother.”

By doing God's will on earth and accepting His covenant or private contract with us, which is the Bible, He becomes our Father and we become His children. The law of domicile says that children assume the same domicile as their parents and are legally dependent on them:

A person acquires a domicile of origin at birth.¹²³ The law attributes to every individual a domicile of origin,¹²⁴ which is the domicile of his parents,¹²⁵ or of the father,¹²⁶ or of the head of his family;¹²⁷ or of the person on whom he is legally dependent,¹²⁸ at the time of his birth. While the domicile of origin is generally the place where one is born¹²⁹ or reared,¹³⁰ may be elsewhere.¹³¹ The domicile of origin has also been defined as the primary domicile of every person subject to the common law.¹³²

The legal dependence they are talking about is God's Law, which then becomes our main source of protection and dependence on God. We as believers then recognize Jesus' existence as a "thing" we "identify" in our daily life and in return, He recognizes our existence before the Father. Here is what He said on this subject as proof:

Confess Christ Before Men

"Therefore whoever confesses Me [recognizes My legal existence under God's law, the Bible, and acknowledges My sovereignty] before men, him I will also confess before My Father who is in heaven. But whoever denies Me before men, him I will also deny before My Father who is in heaven."
[Matt. 10:32-33, Bible, NKJV]

Let's use a simple example to illustrate our point in relation to the world. You want to open a checking account at a bank. You go to the bank to open the account. The clerk presents you with an agreement that you must sign before you open the account. If you won't sign the agreement, then the clerk will tell you that they can't open an account for you. Before you sign the account agreement, the bank doesn't know anything about you and you don't have an account there, so you are the equivalent of an "alien". An "alien" is someone the bank will not recognize or interact with or help. They can only lawfully help "customers", not "aliens". After you exercise your right to contract by signing the bank account agreement, then you now become a "resident" of the bank. You are a "resident" because:

1. You are a "thing" that they can now "identify" in their computer system and their records because you have an "account" there. They now know your name and "account number" and will recognize you when you walk in the door to ask for help.
2. You are the "person" described in their account agreement. Before you signed it, you were a "foreigner" not subject to it.
3. They issued you an ATM card and a PIN so you can control and manage your "account". These things that they issued you are the "privileges" associated with being party to the account agreement. No one who is not party to such an agreement can avail themselves of such "privileges".
4. The account agreement gives you the "privilege" to demand "services" from the bank of one kind or another. The legal requirement for the bank to perform these "services" creates the legal equivalent of "agency" on their part in doing what you want them to do. In effect, you have "hired" them to perform a "service" that you want and need.
5. The account agreement gives the bank the legal right to demand certain behaviors out of you of one kind or another. For instance, you must pay all account fees and not overdraw your account and maintain a certain minimum balance.

¹³² N.Y.—In re McElwaine's Will, 137 N.Y.S. 681, 77 Misc. 317.

The legal requirement to perform these behaviors creates the legal equivalent of “agency” on your part in respect to the bank.

6. The legal obligations created by the account agreement give the two parties to it legal jurisdiction over each other defined by the agreement or contract itself. The contract fixes the legal relations between the parties. If either party violates the agreement, then the other party has legal recourse to sue for exceeding the bounds of the “contractual agency” created by the agreement. Any litigation that results must be undertaken consistent with what the agreement authorizes and in a mode or “forum” (e.g. court) that the agreement specifies.

The government does things exactly the same way. The only difference is the product they deliver. The bank delivers financial services, and the government delivers “protection” and “social” services. The account number is the social security number. You can’t have or use a social security number and avail yourself of its benefits without consenting to the jurisdiction of the “contract” that authorized its’ issuance, which is the Social Security Act found in Title 42 of the U.S. Code.

CALIFORNIA CIVIL CODE
DIVISION 3. OBLIGATIONS
PART 2. CONTRACTS
CHAPTER 3. CONSENT

1589. A voluntary acceptance of the benefit of a [government benefit] transaction is equivalent to a consent to all the obligations [and legal liabilities] arising from it, so far as the facts are known, or ought to be known, to the person accepting.

Therefore, you can’t avail yourself of the “privileges” associated with the Social Security account agreement without also being a “resident” of the “United States”, which means an alien who has signed a contract to procure services from the government. That contract can be explicit, which means a contract in writing, or implicit, meaning that it is created through your behavior. For instance, if you drive on the roads within a state, that act implied your consent to be bound by the vehicle code of that state. In that sense, driving a car became a voluntary exercise of your right to contract.

A mere innocent act can imply or trigger “constructive consent” to a legal contract, and in many cases, you may not even be aware that you are exercising your right to contract. Watch out! For instance, the criminal code in your state behaves like a contract. The “police” are simply there to enforce the contract. As a matter of fact, their job was created by that contract. This is called the “police power” of the state. If you do not commit any of the acts in the criminal or penal code, then you are not subject to it and it is “foreign” to you. You become the equivalent of a “resident” within the criminal code and subject to the legislative jurisdiction of that code ONLY by committing a “crime” identified within it. That “crime” triggers “constructive consent” to the terms of the contract and all the obligations that flow from it, including prison time and a court trial. This analysis helps to establish that in a free society, all law is a contract of one form or another, because it can only be passed by the consent of the majority of those who will be subject to it. The people who will be subject to the laws of a “state” are those with a “domicile” or “residence” within the jurisdiction of that “state”. Those who don’t have such a “domicile” or “residence” and who are therefore not subject to the civil laws of that state are called “transient foreigners”. We will build extensively upon this concept further, in sections 5.4 through 5.4.4.5 later. This is a very interesting subject that we find most people are simply fascinated with, because it helps to emphasize the “voluntary nature” of all law.

3.16.5 Christians cannot have an earthly “domicile” or “residence”

We said earlier that the word “domicile” implied a “permanent legal home”. Now for the $64,000 question: “If you are a Christian and God says you are a citizen of heaven and not of earth, then where is your permanent domicile from a legal perspective? Where is it that you should ‘intend’ to live as a Christian?” The answer is that it is in heaven, and not anywhere on earth! Here are some reasons why:

“For our citizenship is in heaven, from which we also eagerly wait for the Savior, the Lord Jesus Christ”
[Philippians 3:20]

“Now, therefore, you are no longer strangers and foreigners, but fellow citizens with the saints and members of the household of God.”
[Ephesians 2:19, Bible, NKJV]

"These all died in faith, not having received the promises, but having seen them afar off were assured of them, embraced them and confessed that they were strangers and pilgrims on the earth."
[Hebrews 11:13]

"Beloved, I beg you as sojourners and pilgrims, abstain from fleshly lusts which war against the soul..."
[1 Peter 2:11]

Furthermore, if "the wages of sin is death" (see Romans 6:23) and you are guaranteed to die eventually and soon because of your sin, then can anything here on earth be called "permanent" in the context of God's eternal plan? Why would anyone want to "intend" to reside permanently in a place controlled mainly by Satan and which is doomed to eventual destruction? If you look in the book of Revelation, you will find that the earth will be completely transformed when Jesus returns to become a new and different earth, so can our present earth even be called "permanent"? The answer is NO. To admit that your physical or spiritual "domicile" or your "residence" is here on earth and/or is "permanent" is to admit that there is no God and no Heaven and that life ends both spiritually and physically when you die! You are also admitting that the only thing even close to being permanent is the short life that you have while you are here. Therefore, as a Christian, you can't have a "domicile" or a "residence" anywhere on the present earth from a legal perspective without blaspheming God. Consequently, it also means that you can't be subject to taxes upon your person based on having a "domicile" or "residence" in any earthly jurisdiction: state or federal. You are a child of God and you are His "bondservant" and "fiduciary" while you are here. Unless the government can tax "God", then it can't tax you acting as His agent and fiduciary:

"For this is the will of God, that by doing good you may put to silence the ignorance of foolish men— as free, yet not using liberty as a cloak for vice, but as bondservants of God."
[1 Peter 2:15-16, Bible, NKJV]

You are "just passing through". This life is only a temporary test to see whether you will evidence by your works the saving faith you have which will allow you to gain entrance into Heaven and the new earth God will create for you to dwell in mentioned in Rev. 21:1.

The definition of "domicile" above establishes also that "intent" is an important means of determining domicile as follows:

"...the place to which he intends to return even though he may actually reside elsewhere".
[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 485, under "domicile"]

So once again as a Christian, the only place you should want to inhabit or "intend" to return to is Heaven, because the present earth is a temporal place full of sin and death that is ruled exclusively by Satan. Your proper biblical and legal "intent" as a person whose exclusive allegiance is to God should therefore be to return to Heaven and to leave the present corrupted earth as soon as possible and as God in His sovereignty allows. God has prepared a mansion for you to live in with the Father, and that mansion cannot be part of the present corrupted earth:

"In My [Jesus'] Father's house are many mansions; if it were not so, I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you. And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again and receive you to Myself; that where I am, there you may be also. And where I go you know, and the way you know."
[John 14:2-4, Bible, NKJV]

So why don't they teach these things in school? Remember who runs the public schools?: Your wonderful state government. Do you think they are going to volunteer to clue you in to the fact that you're the sovereign in charge of the government and don't have to put up with being their slave, which is what their legal treachery has made you into? The only kind of volunteering they want you to do is to volunteer to be subject to their corrupt laws and become a "taxpayer", which is a person who voluntarily enlisted to become a whore for the government as you will find out in chapter 5. Even many of our Christian schools have lost sight of the great commission and awesome responsibility they have to teach our young people the profound truths in the Bible and this book in a way that honors and glorifies God and allows them to be the salt and light of the world.

3.16.6 You're NOT a "resident" if you were born in America

There is much which can be said about our earlier legally acceptable definition of the term "resident" from Black's Law Dictionary, but one thing which is perfectly clear, nowhere does it say a word about a "resident" being a Citizen, of anything. As a matter of fact if you are not a citizen, then there is only one other thing you can be, and that is an alien. It does not matter what other name they might decide to call it. Here then is an example of its usage:

Let's say, for whatever reason, you move to France for a time. First, it is obvious you are an alien to France. Right? After having moved to France you then become a resident of France.

Why are you a resident of France? Because you are now living there, but you still are not a citizen. Why are you not a citizen of France? Because you are an alien. So, it goes that a resident is an alien. Why? Because he is not a citizen, hence the term resident alien. Get it?

Now, the question becomes: what are you when you answer to the question "are you a resident of the state of Illinois?" Like we do when we go to the Motor Vehicle Dept. Are you not declaring that you are an alien? Well that is exactly what you are doing. Why is this important? Because, only Citizens of the several states of the Union have Constitutional Rights, aliens do not. [Whoops]

So, if you are a Citizen of any one of the several states of the Union, then you are not an alien and therefore not a "resident". You then have your full Constitutional Rights, which includes the Right to "Liberty", which is the Right to travel FREELY amongst the several States, untaxed and unlicensed.

You simply cannot regulate a Right. If you could it wouldn't be a Right, it would be a privilege. Our Creator granted these Rights to us, and no man or government can legislate or regulate an (unalienable) Right. The government can only legislate and regulate the exercise of benefits offered by their "statutes", which can only offer immunities and privileges, but not bona fide Rights. Hence all the trickery to coerce you into saying you are something you are not.

We must stop looking to Webster's Dictionary for the legal definitions. Buy a copy of Black's Law Dictionary – it is there that you will find a whole new world of meaning. The biggest trick of all has been to redefine common, every day terms to mean something else within the statute-laws, and you didn't know they did it [to you], did you.. that is, until you read this book?

"The sovereignty has been transferred from one man to the collective body of the people - and he who before was a 'subject of the king' is now 'a citizen of the State'."
[State v. Manuel, North Carolina, Vol. 20, Page 121 (1838)] [Underline added]

Think about it. The Constitution talks about Citizens. Why then do state governments feel the need to change it to "residents"? It just seems that to be clear and unambiguous, they would have used the same words and phrases already understood and accepted and stated as part of the Constitution and the Bill of Rights.

Oh, by the way, here is the definition of a resident alien:

Resident alien. "One, not yet a citizen of this country, who has come into the country from another with the intent to abandon his former citizenship and to reside here."
[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1309, Underlines added]

Remember the phrase "transitory in nature" in the above definition of a resident? The nature part is the Creator. As a child of God we are merely traveling through life ("Liberty"), hopefully on our way to the great beyond, which is the transitory part. But, if you claim to be a "resident" you are not a child of God and therefore not a Sovereign Citizen of the State, and therefore an alien of God, who has NO CONSTITUTIONAL RIGHTS. This is accomplished when we accept the term "person" as underlined in the above definition of the term "resident", and as you will also come to realize, this too is a trick to coerce you into subjection to government regulation.

3.16.7 Convertibility between "resident" and "citizen" status

Below is a table that succinctly summarizes everything we have learned in this section in tabular form. The left column shows what you are now and the two right columns show what you can "elect" or "volunteer" to become under the authority of the Internal Revenue Code based on that status:

1 Table 3-19: Convertibility of citizenship or residency status under the Internal Revenue Code

	“Individuals” (see 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3))
	“Alien” (see 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3)(i))	“Nonresident alien” (see 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3)(ii) and 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(B))
“citizen of the United States” (see 8 U.S.C. §1401)	“citizen” may unknowingly elect to be treated as an “alien” by filing 1040, 1040A, or 1040EZ form. This election, however, is not authorized by any statute or regulation, and consequently, the IRS is not authorized to process such a return! It amounts to constructive fraud for a “citizen” to file as an “alien”, which is what submitting a 1040 or 1040A form does.	No “citizen of the United States” can be a “nonresident alien”, nor is he authorized under the I.R.C. to “elect” to become one. Likewise, no “nonresident alien” is authorized by the I.R.C. to elect to become a “citizen of the United States” under 8 U.S.C. §1401.
“resident” (not defined anywhere in the Internal Revenue Code)	All “residents” are “aliens”. “Resident”, “resident alien”, and “alien” are equivalent terms.	A “nonresident alien” may elect to be treated as an “alien” and a “resident” under the provisions of 26 U.S.C. §6013(g) or (h).

"Rebellion to tyrants is obedience to God."
[Benjamin Franklin¹³³]

"The strongest reason for the people to retain the right to keep and bear arms is, as a last resort, to protect themselves against tyranny in government."
[Thomas Jefferson]

"The time is now near at hand which must probably determine whether Americans are to be free men or slaves [to the income tax], whether they are to have any property they can call their own, whether their houses and farms are to be pillaged and destroyed [by the IRS] and themselves confined to a state of wretchedness from which no human efforts will deliver them. The fate of unborn millions will now depend, under God, on the courage of this [tax honesty] army. Our cruel and unrelenting enemy [the IRS and our own national government] leaves us only the choice of brave resistance or the most abject submission. We have, therefore, to resolve to conquer [by eliminating the income tax] or die."
[George Washington]

"We must obey GOD rather than men."
[Acts 5:29, Bible, NKJV]

"Those people who are not governed by GOD will be ruled by tyrants."
[William Penn]

"Where the people fear the government, you have tyranny; where the government fears the people, you have liberty."
[Citizens Rule Book, Whitten Printers, page 9; Whitten Printers, (602) 258-6406; Phoenix, AZ]

"A democracy is a sheep and two wolves deciding on what to have for lunch. Freedom is well armed sheep contesting the results of the decision."
[Benjamin Franklin]

"I am only one, but I am one. I cannot do everything, but I can do something. What I can do, I should do and, with the help of God, I will do!"
[Everett Hale]

"Of all the things that can be forced upon men; freedom cannot; this each man must take for himself. Freedom being the most precious of commodities; it is not obtained at bargain prices; it is costly; and by Heaven rightfully so. Honor, courage, sacrifice, and vigilance are the coin by which freedom is obtained. A day gone without payment rendered – is a day without freedom."
[Thomas Clark]

"Keep sound wisdom and discretion, so they will be life to your soul and grade to your neck. Then you will walk safely in your way, and your foot will not stumble. When you lie down, you will not be afraid; yes, you will lie down and your sleep will be sweet. Do not be afraid of sudden terror, nor of trouble from the wicked when it comes; for the Lord will be your confidence, and will keep your foot from being caught."
[Prov. 3:21-26, Bible, NKJV]

"And he that overcometh, and keepeth my works unto the end, to him will I give power over the nations."
[Revelation 2:26]

"In the world ye shall have tribulation: but be of good cheer; I have overcome the world."
[John 16:33b]

"Never interrupt your enemy when he is making a mistake."
[Napoleon Bonaparte]

"Make yourself a sheep and the wolves will eat you."
[Benjamin Franklin]

"In the beginning of change, the patriot is a scarce man; brave, hated and scorned. When his cause succeeds, however, the timid join him, for then it costs nothing to be a patriot."

"[Every] purpose is established by counsel: and with good advice make war."
[Proverbs 20:18]

"Excellence is the result of caring more than others think is wise, risking more than others think is safe, dreaming more than other think is practical, and expecting more than others think is possible."

"Excellence is never an accident; it is always the result of high intention, sincere effort, intelligent direction, skillful execution and the vision to see obstacles as opportunities."

"Some people dream of success..... while others wake up and work hard at it."

"Unless you try to do something beyond what you have already mastered, you will never grow."

This chapter provides detailed procedures that are useful to the freedom fighter in defending his liberties and rights under the law. There is a very good reason why we put the chapter on how the IRS operates before this one. The reason is that before we can win the battle, we must fully and completely understand the enemy:

If you know the enemy and know yourself, you need not fear the result of a hundred battles. If you know yourself but not the enemy, for every victory gained you will also suffer a defeat. If you know neither the enemy nor yourself, you will succumb in every battle.
[Sun-Tzu (~300 BC)]

4.1 The secret to remaining free, sovereign, and foreign in respect to a corrupted government

The most important principles we want to emphasize throughout this document in order for you to protect and defend your status as free, Sovereign, and "foreign" but not "alien" in respect to a government that is obviously totally corrupted are that:

1. You must study and learn the law if you want to be free.

"One who turns his ear from hearing the law [God's law or man's law], even his prayer is an abomination."
[Prov. 28:9, Bible, NKJV]

"This Book of the Law shall not depart from your mouth, but you shall meditate in it day and night, that you may observe to do according to all that is written in it. For then you will make your way prosperous, and then you will have good success. Have I not commanded you? Be strong and of good courage; do not be afraid, nor be dismayed, for the LORD your God is with you wherever you go."
[Joshua 1:8-9, Bible, NKJV,
IMPLICATION: If you aren't reading and trying to obey God's law daily, then you're not doing God's will and you will not prosper]

"But this crowd that does not know [and quote and follow and use] the law is accursed."
[John 7:49, Bible, NKJV]

"Salvation is far from the wicked, For they do not seek Your [God's] statutes."
[Psalm 119:155, Bible, NKJV]

"Every man is supposed to know the law. A party who makes a contract or enters into a [franchise, which is also a contract] with an officer [of the government] without having it reduced to writing is knowingly accessory to a violation of duty on his part. Such a party aids in the violation of the law."
[Clark v. United States, 95 U.S. 539 (1877)]

2. You must learn how to diligently seek, discern, accept, and act on the Truth: 2.1. The truth is the most important thing you can possess.

"Buy the truth, and do not sell it, also wisdom and instruction and understanding."
[Prov. 23:23, Bible, NKJV]

*"Happy is the man who finds wisdom,
And the man who gains understanding;
For her proceeds are better than the profits of silver,
And her gain than fine gold.*

She is more precious than rubies,
And all the things you may desire cannot compare with her."
[Prov. 3:13-15, Bible, NKJV]

2.2. The only source of absolute, unchanging Truth is God.

Jesus said to him, "I am the way, the truth, and the life. No one comes to the Father except through Me."
[John 14:6, Bible, NKJV]

"Sanctify them by Your truth. Your [God's] word is truth."
[John 17:17, Bible, NKJV]

"The entirety of Your word is truth, And every one of Your righteous judgments endures forever."
[Psalm 119:160, Bible, NKJV]

"Your righteousness is an everlasting righteousness, And Your law is truth."
[Psalm 119:142, Bible, NKJV]

2.3. Knowledge and understanding of the Truth BEGINS with loving and knowing God:

"The fear of the LORD is the beginning of knowledge,
But fools despise wisdom and instruction."
[Prov. 1:7, Bible, NKJV]

"The fear of the LORD is to hate evil: Pride and arrogance and the evil way And the perverse mouth I hate."
[Prov. 8:13, Bible, NKJV]

2.4. The Truth is codified in God's Holy Laws:

Laws of the Bible, Form #13.001
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

2.5. The Truth can be verified by both the Holy Spirit and also by evidence, especially in the legal field.

2.6. The Truth never conflicts with itself. Anyone who contradicts themselves is a liar.

"But if one walks in the night, he stumbles, because the light [Truth] is not in him."
[John 11:10, Bible, NKJV]

2.7. The Truth is best obtained from those who are not trying to sell you anything:

"It is good for nothing," cries the buyer; But when he has gone his way, then he boasts.
[Prov. 20:14, Bible, NKJV]

2.8. If, in seeking the truth, you become confused, it is usually because someone with an agenda is trying to hide or conceal the truth, usually with "words of art" and deception:

"For where [government] envy and self-seeking [of money they are not entitled to] exist, confusion [and deception] and every evil thing will be there."
[James 3:16, Bible, NKJV]

"Shall the throne of iniquity, which devises evil by law, have fellowship with You?" *They gather together against the life of the righteous, and condemn innocent blood. But the Lord has been my defense, and my God the rock of my refuge. He has brought on them their own iniquity, and shall cut them off in their own wickedness; the Lord our God shall cut them off."
[Psalm 94:20-23, Bible, NKJV]*

2.9. If you seek to eliminate confusion, ask of the Lord in all sincerity of heart and in fervent prayer, and it will be revealed to you:

"If any of you lacks wisdom, let him ask of God, who gives to all liberally and without reproach, and it will be given to him."
[James 1:5, Bible, NKJV]

*"Trust in the LORD with all your heart,
And lean not on your own understanding;*

In all your ways acknowledge Him,
And He shall direct your paths.”
[Prov. 3:5-6, Bible, NKJV]

2.10. Those who refuse to learn, accept, and act upon the Truth will first be deceived and ultimately destroyed:

“For the mystery of lawlessness is already at work; only He [God] who now restrains will do so until He is taken out of the way. And then the lawless one [Satan] will be revealed, whom the Lord will consume with the breath of His mouth and destroy with the brightness of His coming. The coming of the lawless one [Satan] is according to the working of Satan, with all power, signs, and lying wonders, and with all unrighteous deception among those who perish, because they did not receive the love of the truth, that they might be saved [don’t be one of them!]. And for this reason God will send them strong delusion [from their own government], that they should believe a lie, that they all may be condemned who did not believe the truth but had pleasure in unrighteousness.”
[2 Thess. 2:3-17, Bible, NKJV]

3. The Thirteenth Amendment outlawed slavery EVERYWHERE, including on federal territory.

“That it does not conflict with the Thirteenth Amendment, which abolished slavery and involuntary servitude, except as a punishment for crime, is too clear for argument. Slavery implies involuntary servitude—a state of bondage; the ownership of mankind as a chattel, or at least the control of the labor and services of one man for the benefit of another, and the absence of a legal right to the disposal of his own person, property, and services [in their entirety]. This amendment was said in the Slaughter House Cases, 16 Wall, 36, to have been intended primarily to abolish slavery, as it had been previously known in this country, and that it equally forbade Mexican peonage or the Chinese coolie trade, when they amounted to slavery or involuntary servitude and that the use of the word ‘servitude’ was intended to prohibit the use of all forms of involuntary slavery, of whatever class or name.”
[Plessy v. Ferguson, 163 U.S. 537, 542 (1896)]

“Other authorities to the same effect might be cited. It is not open to doubt that Congress may enforce the Thirteenth Amendment by direct legislation, punishing the holding of a person in slavery or in involuntary servitude except as a punishment for a crime. In the exercise of that power Congress has enacted these sections denouncing peonage, and punishing one who holds another in that condition of involuntary servitude. This legislation is not limited to the territories or other parts of the strictly national domain, but is operative in the states and wherever the sovereignty of the United States extends. We entertain no doubt of the validity of this legislation, or of its applicability to the case of any person holding another in a state of peonage, and this whether there be municipal ordinance or state law sanctioning such holding. It operates directly on every citizen of the Republic, wherever his residence may be.”
[Clyatt v. U.S., 197 U.S. 207 (1905)]

Consequently, the government is without authority to write law that imposes ANY kind of duty or obligation against you other than simply avoiding injuring the equal rights of others.

Love does no harm to a neighbor; therefore love is the fulfillment of [the ONLY requirement of] the law [which is to avoid hurting your neighbor and thereby love him].
[Romans 13:9-10, Bible, NKJV]

[Prov. 3:30, Bible, NKJV]

“With all [our] blessings, what more is necessary to make us a happy and a prosperous people? Still one thing more, fellow citizens--a wise and frugal Government, which shall restrain men from injuring one another, shall leave them otherwise free to regulate their own pursuits of industry and improvement, and shall not take from the mouth of labor the bread it has earned. This is the sum of good government, and this is necessary to close the circle of our felicities.”
[Thomas Jefferson: 1st Inaugural, 1801. ME 3:320]

If someone is trying to abuse the authority of civil law to impose a mandatory duty upon you, then the only kind of law they can be enforcing is private or contract law to which you had to expressly consent at some point. Your reaction should always be to insist that they produce evidence of your consent IN WRITING. This is similar to what the courts do in the case of the government, where they can’t be sued or compelled to do anything without you producing an express waiver of sovereign immunity. They got that authority and that sovereignty from you(!), because it was delegated to them by We The People, so you must ALSO have sovereign immunity. Your job as a vigilant American who cares about his freedom and rights is then to discover by what lawful mechanism you waived that sovereign immunity and the following document is very helpful in determining that mechanism:

Requirement for Consent, Form #05.003

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

4. The purpose of all government forms is to create and enforce usually false and prejudicial presumptions about your status that will damage your Constitutional rights.

4.1. They use terms that are deliberately not defined in order to encourage false presumptions about what they mean and to facilitate the abuse of “words of art”.

4.2. Nothing on government forms or in government publications are trustworthy or reliable.

“IRS Publications, issued by the National Office, explain the law in plain language for taxpayers and their advisors... While a good source of general information, publications should not be cited to sustain a position.”

[Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.), Section 4.10.7.2.8 (05-14-1999)]

4.3. It is foolish to sign a government form under penalty of perjury that even the government agrees is untrustworthy. For further details on the above scam, see:

Reasonable Belief About Income Tax Liability, Form #05.007

5. You will always lose when you play by their rules or use their biased forms. He who makes either the forms or the rules or officiates either always wins.
6. If you want a form to accurately describe your status as a “nontaxpayer”, you will have to make your own or modify what they offer. The only types of forms the government makes are for franchisees called “taxpayers”. This is confirmed by the IRS Mission Statement contained in Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.), Section 1.1.1.1, which empowers the IRS to help and “service” only “taxpayers”.
- 6.1. For modified versions of IRS forms, see:

Federal Forms and Publications, Family Guardian Fellowship

<http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Forms/IRS/IRSFormsPubs.htm>

- 6.2. For replacement forms for use by persons not engaged in government franchises or who are “nontaxpayers”, see:

SEDM Forms Page

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

7. If you don’t want to play by their rules, you cannot describe yourself as ANYTHING they have jurisdiction over or anything mentioned anywhere in their deliberately void for vagueness “codes”, such as:
- 7.1. “person” as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(1), 26 U.S.C. §6671(b), and 26 U.S.C. §7343.
- 7.2. “individual” as defined in 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3).
- 7.3. “taxpayer” as defined in 26 U.S.C. §§7701(a)(14) and 1313.
- 7.4. “U.S. citizen” as defined in 26 U.S.C. §1401 or 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(c).
- 7.5. “U.S. resident” as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A).
- 7.6. “U.S. person” as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(30).
- 7.7. Engaged in the “trade or business” franchise, which is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) as “the functions of a public office”.
8. To avoid being associated with any of the privileged statuses in the previous item, you should consistently do the following:
- 8.1. Avoid filling out government forms.
- 8.2. If compelled to fill out government tax forms, write on the tax form “Not Valid Without the Attached Tax Form Attachment and Affidavit of Citizenship, Domicile, and Tax Status” and attach the following forms to every tax form you are compelled to fill out:
- 8.2.1. Tax Form Attachment, Form #04.201
- <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
- 8.2.2. Affidavit of Citizenship, Domicile, and Tax Status, Form #02.001
- <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
9. There are only TWO ways that they can enforce their rules against you. All of these rules are documented in Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b):
- 9.1. If you have a domicile on their territory.
- 9.2. If you are acting in a representative capacity as a “public officer” of the United States federal corporation described in 28 U.S.C. §3002(15)(A). This includes participation in any government franchise because all such franchises inevitably turn you into government agents and officers. See:

Government Instituted Slavery Using Franchises, Form #05.030

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

Another way of stating the above two rules is that whenever a sovereign wants to reach outside its physical territory, it may only do so using its right to contract with other fellow sovereign states and people. If you aren't domiciled on their territory, they have to produce evidence that you consented to some kind of contract or agreement with them. This is consistent with the maxim of law that debt and contract know no place:

Debitum et contractus non sunt nullius loci.

Debt and contract [franchise agreement, in this case] are of no particular place.

Locus contractus regit actum.

The place of the contract [franchise agreement, in this case] governs the act.

[Bouvier's Maxims of Law, 1856;

SOURCE: <http://famguardian.org/Publications/BouvierMaximsOfLaw/BouviersMaxims.htm>]

10. If you don't want them enforcing their rules against you, you can't act like someone they have jurisdiction over either by:

10.1. Describing yourself as a "person", franchisee (e.g. "taxpayer"), or entity referenced in their private law franchise agreement.

10.2. Invoking the benefits or protections of any portion of the franchise agreement. For instance, the following remedy is ONLY available to franchisees called "taxpayers" and may not be invoked by "nontaxpayers":

TITLE 26 > Subtitle F > CHAPTER 76 > Subchapter B > § 7433

§ 7433. Civil damages for certain unauthorized collection actions

(a) In general

If, in connection with any collection of Federal tax with respect to a taxpayer, any officer or employee of the Internal Revenue Service recklessly or intentionally, or by reason of negligence, disregards any provision of this title, or any regulation promulgated under this title, such taxpayer may bring a civil action for damages against the United States in a district court of the United States. Except as provided in section 7432, such civil action shall be the exclusive remedy for recovering damages resulting from such actions.

10.3. Filling out their forms that are only for use by franchisees called "taxpayers". The IRS mission statement at Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.), Section 1.1.1.1 says they can ONLY help or assist "taxpayers" and the minute you ask for their help, you are implicitly admitting you are a franchisee called a "taxpayer" engaged in the "trade or business" franchise. Do you see "nontaxpayers" or persons who are sovereign and not privileged in their mission statement:

I.R.M. 1.1.1.1 \(02-26-1999\)

IRS Mission and Basic Organization

The IRS Mission: Provide America's taxpayers top quality service by helping them understand and meet their tax responsibilities and by applying the tax law with integrity and fairness to all.

10.4. Asking for licenses such as a Taxpayer Identification Number or Social Security Number on IRS Forms W-7, W-9, or SS-4 respectively. The only people who need such "licenses" are those receiving some kind of government benefit. All such benefits are listed in the IRS Form 1042-S Instructions, where they identify the criteria for when you MUST provide a "Taxpayer Identification Number":

Box 14, Recipient's U.S. Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN)

You must obtain a U.S. taxpayer identification number (TIN) for:

- Any recipient whose income is effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business in the United States.
Note. For these recipients, exemption code 01 should be entered in box 6.
- Any foreign person claiming a reduced rate of, or exemption from, tax under a tax treaty between a foreign country and the United States, unless the income is an unexpected payment (as described in Regulations section 1.1441-6(g)) or consists of dividends and interest from stocks and debt obligations that are actively traded; dividends from any redeemable security issued by an investment company registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940 (mutual fund); dividends, interest, or royalties from units of beneficial interest in a unit investment trust that are (or were, upon issuance) publicly offered and are registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission under the Securities Act of 1933; and amounts paid with respect to loans of any of the above securities.

- Any nonresident alien individual claiming exemption from tax under section 871(f) for certain annuities received under qualified plans.
- A foreign organization claiming an exemption from tax solely because of its status as a tax-exempt organization under section 501(c) or as a private foundation.
- Any QI.
- Any WP or WT.
- Any nonresident alien individual claiming exemption from withholding on compensation for independent personal services [services connected with a “trade or business”].
- Any foreign grantor trust with five or fewer grantors.
- Any branch of a foreign bank or foreign insurance company that is treated as a U.S. person.

If a foreign person provides a TIN on a Form W-8, but is not required to do so, the withholding agent must include the TIN on Form 1042-S.

[IRS Form 1042-S Instructions, Year 2006, p. 14]

10.5. Failing to rebut the use of government issued identifying numbers against you by others. See:

About SSNs and TINs on Government Forms and Correspondence, Form #05.012

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

10.6. Submitting the WRONG withholding paperwork with your private employer, bank or financial institution. The correct paperwork is the an AMENDED version of the IRS Form W-8BEN. Everything else will unwittingly make you into a “U.S. person”, a “resident alien”, a “person”, and an “individual” in the context of the IRS:

About IRS Form W-8BEN, Form #04.202

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

10.7. Failing to rebut false Information Returns such as IRS Forms W-2, 1042-s, 1098, and 1099 filed against you by ignorant people who aren’t reading or properly obeying the law. All such documents connect you with the “trade or business” franchise and make you into a person in receipt of federal “privilege” and therefore subject to federal jurisdiction. See:

Correcting Erroneous Information Returns, Form #04.001

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

10.8. Petitioning a “franchise court” called “United States Tax Court” that is ONLY for franchisees called “taxpayers”. Tax Court Rule 13(a) says that the court is ONLY available to “taxpayers”. You can’t petition this administrative tribunal without indirectly admitting you are a “taxpayer”. See:

The Tax Court Scam, Form #05.039

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

Although Crowell and Raddatz do not explicitly distinguish between rights created by Congress and other rights, such a distinction underlies in part Crowell's and Raddatz' recognition of a critical difference between rights created by federal statute and rights recognized by the Constitution. Moreover, such a distinction seems to us to be necessary in light of the delicate accommodations required by the principle of separation of powers reflected in Art. III. The constitutional system of checks and balances is designed to guard against “encroachment or aggrandizement” by Congress at the expense of the other branches of government. Buckley v. Valeo, 424 U.S., at 122, 96 S.Ct., at 683. But when Congress creates a statutory right [a “privilege” in this case, such as a “trade or business”], it clearly has the discretion, in defining that right, to create presumptions, or assign burdens of proof, or prescribe remedies; it may also provide that persons seeking to vindicate that right must do so before particularized tribunals created to perform the specialized adjudicative tasks related to that right.FN35 Such provisions do, in a sense, affect the exercise of judicial power, but they are also incidental to Congress' power to define the right that it has created. No comparable justification exists, however, when the right being adjudicated is not of congressional creation. In such a situation, substantial inroads into functions that have traditionally been performed by the Judiciary cannot be characterized merely as incidental extensions of Congress' power to define rights that it has created. Rather, such inroads suggest unwarranted encroachments upon the judicial power of the United States, which our Constitution reserves for Art. III courts. [Northern Pipeline Const. Co. v. Marathon Pipe Line Co., 458 U.S. at 83-84, 102 S.Ct. 2858 (1983)]

Because a number of people don’t understand the above subtleties, they discredit themselves by claiming to be a “nontaxpayer” not subject to the I.R.C. and yet ACTING like a “taxpayer”. The IRS and the courts fine and sanction such ignorant and presumptuous conduct.

11. Franchises are the main method for destroying your sovereignty. Unless and until you understand exactly how they work and how they are used to trap and enslave the ignorant and those who don’t consent, you will never be free. Government “benefits” are the “bribe” that judges and tyrants use to entice you to participate in government franchises and thereby surrender your sovereign immunity and contract away your rights. Government franchises are exhaustively explained below:

Government Instituted Slavery Using Franchises, Form #05.030

12. You can't accept a financial "benefit" or payments of any kind from the government without becoming part of the government. In that sense, there are always "strings" attached to money you get from the government, many of which are completely invisible to most people. The only thing the government can lawfully pay public monies to are public officers and agents. Those who engage in such benefits must have a government license (a TIN or SSN) and thereby become a government officer or agent.

"A tax, in the general understanding of the term and as used in the constitution, signifies an exaction for the support of the government. The word has never thought to connote the expropriation of money from one group for the benefit of another."

[U.S. v. Butler, 297 U.S. 1 \(1936\)]

13. All government "benefits" or payments do not constitute "consideration" that can lawfully make the subject of any enforceable contract or franchise in the case of most Americans. The reason is because:

- 13.1. The "benefits" are paid with Federal Reserve Notes that have no intrinsic value because they are not redeemable by the government in anything of value. See:

The Money Scam, Form #05.041

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 13.2. The government doesn't have an obligation that is enforceable in a true, constitutional court in equity to those who sign up for it. All the remedies they give you are in administrative "franchise courts" that are not true constitutional courts and all participants in these proceedings are biased because they are executed by "franchisees" with a criminal conflict of interest in violation of 18 U.S.C. §208, 28 U.S.C. §455, and 28 U.S.C. §144. You will always lose in these tribunals. You ought to avoid begging for anything from the government because you will be tricked into becoming their slave and whore. See:

The Government "Benefits" Scam, Form #05.040

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

14. The only group of people the government can write law for are its own agents, officers, and employees for the most part. See:

Why Statutory Civil Law is Law for Government and Not Private Persons, Form #05.037

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

15. You will never be free as long as you are conducting commerce with the government and thereby subject to their jurisdiction. All such commerce implies a waiver of sovereign immunity pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §1605 and inevitably makes you into a slave and a serf of tyrants. Black's Law Dictionary defines "commerce" as "intercourse". This is the same "intercourse" that Babylon the Great Harlot is having with the Beast, which the Bible defines as the kings and political rulers of the earth in Rev. 19:19.

"Commerce. ...Intercourse by way of trade and traffic between different peoples or states and the citizens or inhabitants thereof, including not only the purchase, sale, and exchange of commodities, but also the instrumentalities [governments] and agencies by which it is promoted and the means and appliances by which it is carried on..."

[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 269]

"Come, I will show you the judgment of the great harlot [Babylon the Great Harlot] who sits on many waters, with whom the kings of the earth [politicians and rulers] committed fornication, and the inhabitants of the earth were made drunk [indulged] with the wine of her fornication."

[Rev. 17:1-2, Bible, NKJV]

"And I saw the beast, the kings of the earth, and their armies, gathered together to make war against Him who sat on the horse and against His army."

[Rev. 19:19, Bible, NKJV]

On the subject of not associating with a corrupted government, the bible says the following:

"Come out from among them the unbelievers and [government idolaters]

And be separate, says the Lord.

Do not touch what is unclean [the government or anything made by man].

And I will receive you.

I will be a Father to you.

And you shall be my sons and daughters.

Says the Lord Almighty."

[2 Corinthians 6:17-18, Bible, NKJV]

"And have no fellowship [or association] with the unfruitful works of [government] darkness, but rather reprove [rebuke and expose] them."
[Eph. 5:11, Bible, NKJV]

"But if you are led by the Spirit, you are not under the law [man's law]."
[Gal. 5:18, Bible, NKJV]

"Shall the throne of iniquity [the U.S. Congress and the federal judiciary], which devises evil by [obfuscating the] law [to expand their jurisdiction and consolidate all economic power in their hands by taking it away from the states], have fellowship with You? They gather together against the life of the righteous, and condemn innocent blood of "nontaxpayers" and [persons outside their jurisdiction, which is an act of extortion and racketeering]. But the Lord has been my defense, and my God the rock of my refuge. He has brought on them their own iniquity, and shall cut them off in their own wickedness; the Lord our God [and those who obey Him and His word] shall cut them off from power and from receiving illegal bribes cleverly disguised by an obfuscated law as legitimate "[taxes".]
[Psalm 94:20-23, Bible, NKJV].
QUESTION FOR DOUBTERS: Who else BUT Congress and the judiciary can devise "evil by law"?)

"Nevertheless, God's solid foundation stands firm, sealed with this inscription: 'The Lord knows those who are His,' and, 'Everyone who confesses the name of the Lord must turn away from [not associate with] wickedness [wherever it is found, and especially in government].'"
[2 Tim. 2:19, Bible, NKJV]

"It shall be a statute forever throughout your generations, that you may distinguish between holy and unholy, and between unclean and clean, and that you may teach the children of Israel all the statutes [laws] which the LORD [God] has spoken to them by the hand of Moses."
[Lev. 10:9-11, Bible, NKJV]

If you want a simplified checklist for accomplishing everything in this section, see:

Path to Freedom, Form #09.015
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

4.2 The Price of Liberty: How much are you willing to pay?

"Those who expect to reap the blessing of freedom must, undergo the fatigue of supporting it."
[Thomas Paine (1737-1809)]

"Every citizen should be a soldier. This was the case of the Greeks and the Romans and must be that of every free state."
[Thomas Jefferson (1743-1826)]

"We the people are the rightful masters of both congress and the court, not to overthrow the Constitution, but to overthrow the men who pervert the Constitution. To sin by silence when they should protest makes cowards of men."
[Abraham Lincoln (1809-1865)]

Have you ever wondered what happened to the 56 men who signed the Declaration of Independence? These men sacrificed their lives to protest two things:

- Taxation without representation
- Direct taxes

They were freedom fighters and men of principle who defended liberty and their right to worship their God freely. Liberty and faith, for them, were inseparable, and their temporary visit to earth was a brief stewardship and a test of their faith and obedience to God on their journey to be eventually reunited with their Creator for eternity. If you have read this far, it's likely you, like us, are just like them. Being a freedom fighter, a patriot, and defending our right to not be forced to pay income taxes means we must be willing to take risks. Below are some of the risks our patriotic founding fathers volunteered to assume on our behalf and in defense of liberty. If we learn anything from their experiences, it should be that "freedom isn't free" and being a patriot often comes at a high price:

1. Five signers were captured by the British as traitors, and were tortured before they died.
2. Twelve had their homes ransacked and burned.

3. Two lost their sons serving in the Revolutionary Army.
4. Another had two sons captured.
5. Nine of the 56 fought and died from their wounds or of the hardships of the Revolutionary War.
6. They signed and they pledged their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor. What kind of men were they?
7. Twenty-four were lawyers and jurists, Eleven were merchants, nine were farmers and large plantation owners; men of means, well educated. But they signed the Declaration of Independence knowing full well that the penalty would be death if they were captured, and that in the process, they were committing treason against Britain.
8. Carter Braxton of Virginia, a wealthy planter and trader, saw his ships swept from the seas by the British Navy. He sold his home and properties to pay his debts and died in rags.
9. Thomas McKean was so hounded by the British that he was forced to move his family almost constantly. He served in the Congress without pay, and his family was kept in hiding.
10. His possessions were taken from him and poverty was his reward.
11. Vandals or soldiers looted the properties of Dillery, Hall, Clymer, Walton, Gwinnett, Heyward, Rutledge and Middleton.
12. At the battle of Yorktown, Thomas Nelson, Jr. noted that the British General Cornwallis had taken over the Nelson home for his headquarters. He quietly urged General George Washington to open fire. The home was destroyed and Nelson died bankrupt.
13. Francis Lewis had his home and properties destroyed. The enemy jailed his wife and she died within a few months.
14. John Hart was driven from his wife's bedside as she lay dying. Their 13 children fled for their lives. His fields and his gristmill were laid to waste. For more than a year he lived in forests and caves, returning home to find his wife dead and his children had vanished.
15. A few weeks later he died from exhaustion and with broken heart. Norris and Livingston suffered similar fates.

Such were the stories and sacrifices of the American Revolution. These were not wild eyed rabble rousing ruffians. They were all soft-spoken men of faith and means and education and principle. They had security, but they valued liberty and faith more. Standing tall, straight and unwavering, they pledged:

FOR THE SUPPORT OF THIS DECLARATION, WITH FIRM RELIANCE ON THE PROTECTION OF THE DIVINE PROVIDENCE, WE MUTUALLY PLEDGE TO EACH OTHER, OUR LIVES, OUR FORTUNES AND OUR SACRED HONOR.

They gave you and me a free and independent America. The history books never told us a lot of what happened during the Revolutionary War. We did not just fight the British. We were British subjects at that time and we fought our own government! So many of us take these liberties so much for granted. We shouldn't! So take a couple of minutes while enjoying your 4th of July holiday and silently thank these patriots. It's not too much to ask compared with the price they paid! As a matter of fact, our founding fathers are probably turning in their grave now as they watch what we are letting our own federal government do to this country, as describes in section 2.11.6 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book in our article entitled "The Ghost of Valley Forge"!

We'd like to caution you that your quest for protection of liberty from the evil and dishonest politicians and the IRS may be just as tumultuous and risky as it was for our founding fathers. You should expect that. To the extent that your faith and your beliefs, like those of Jesus, transcend the importance in your mind of living comfortably, securely, and risk free, then you will continue to have the blessings of liberty. Otherwise, your apathy and political correctness will doom us all to slavery to and fear of these tyrants (and lawyers) and the laws they write for the rest of our lives! You can either be admired and remembered affectionately for your bravery and courage against the wiles of the IRS and a socialist government, or you can be despised because of your apathy and cowardice. We've written this book to equip you with the truth and knowledge needed to choose which side you want to be on, but you can't just hide somewhere in the middle of the two sides and passively watch what happens and let other people get the hard work done and take the risks for you, because nothing will ever get done and we will all continue to suffer! The Bible reiterates this:

*"He who is not with Me is against Me, and he who does not gather with Me scatters abroad."
[Jesus, Matt 12:30
TRANSLATION: You have to choose sides!]*

*"Every kingdom divided against itself is brought to desolation, and every city or house divided against itself will not stand."
[Jesus, Matt 12:25]
[TRANSLATION: Unity is important!]*

"He who walks righteously and speaks uprightly, He who despises the gain of oppressions, Who gestures with his hands, refusing bribes, Who stops his ears from hearing the bloodshed, And shuts his eyes from seeing evil: He will dwell on high; His place of defense will be the fortress of rocks; Bread will be given him, His water will be sure".

[Isaiah 3:15-16]

[TRANSLATION: There is a reward for doing what is right!]

"So then, because you are lukewarm, and neither cold nor hot, I will vomit you out of my mouth! Because you say, 'I am rich, have become wealthy, and have need of nothing—and do not know that you are wretched, miserable, poor, blind, and naked—I counsel you to buy from Me [with your blood, sweat and tears] gold refined in the fire, that you may be rich; and white garments, that you may be clothed, that the shame of your nakedness may not be revealed; and anoint your eyes with eye salve [knowledge and wisdom], that you may see. As many as I love [using the wickedness and evil that is in the world and the IRS], I rebuke and chasten. Therefore be zealous and repent. Behold, I stand at the door and knock [with the gift of the Holy Spirit that is in you]. If anyone hears My voice [conscience] and opens the door, I will come in to him and dine with him, and he with Me. To him who overcomes [evil and the IRS] I will grant to sit with Me on my throne, as I also overcame and sat down with My Father on His throne. He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says..."

[Jesus in the Bible, Rev. 4:16-22]

[TRANSLATION: Indecisiveness and political correctness earns us a place in hell!]

"Therefore, to him who knows to do good and does not do it, to him it is sin." (Bible, James 4:17)

Which of the two approaches would you rather have your kids and loved ones remember you for long after you are gone? Without faith in God the Almighty, your fight will be ten times harder! Could this explain why most of our founding fathers believed in God? With God, the battle is MUCH easier:

"Therefore take up the whole armor of God, that you may be able to withstand in the evil day, and having done all, to stand. Stand therefore, having girded your waist with truth this book, the [Family Constitution, and the Bible], having put on the breastplate of righteousness, and having shod your feet with the preparation of the gospel of peace; above all, taking the shield of faith with which you will be able to quench all the fiery darts of the wicked one [the IRS]. And take the helmet of salvation, and the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God; praying always with all prayer and supplication in the Spirit, being watchful to this end with all perseverance and with supplication for all the saints—and for me, that utterance may be given to me, that I may open my mouth boldly to make known the mystery of the gospel, for which I am ambassador in chains; that in it I may speak boldly, as I ought to speak."

[Ephesians 6:13-20]

"GOD BLESS AMERICA...WITH LIBERTY AND JUSTICE FOR ALL!!"

If you make the wrong choice and choose the dishonorable path, then here is the life that awaits you:

When you get what you want in your struggle for self
And the world makes you king for a day,
Just go to a mirror and look at yourself,
And see what that man has to say.

For it isn't your father or mother or wife,
Who judgment upon you must pass;
The fellow whose verdict counts most in your life
Is the one staring back from the glass.

He's the fellow to please, never mind all the rest.
For he's with you clear up to the end,
And you've passed the most dangerous, difficult test
If the man in the glass is your friend.

You may fool the whole world down the pathway of years.
And get pats on the back as you pass,
But your final reward will be the heartaches and tears
If you've cheated the man in the glass.

But if you choose the right path, the going will be tough. Freedom isn't free. That is why we say to our Patriot friends:

"It is unfortunate, but many of us are as canaries in the coal mines of Liberty"

Finally, John Stuart Mill had the most insightful thing to say about passive people who aren't willing to stick up for their liberties:

"War is an ugly thing but not the ugliest of things; the decayed and degraded state of moral and patriotic feelings which thinks that nothing is worth fighting for is much worse. A man who has nothing for which he is willing to fight, nothing he cares about more than his personal safety, is a miserable creature who has no chance of being free unless made and kept so by the exertions of better men than himself."
[John Stuart Mill]

4.3 How Do We Kill This Beast?

"The greatest obstacle to peace [and freedom and prosperity, for that matter] is a modern tyranny led by a small group [at the IRS and Treasury] who have abandoned their faith in God. These tyrants [at the IRS] have forsaken ethical and moral beliefs.

They believe that only force makes right. They are aggressively seeking to expand the area of their domination. Our effort to resist and overcome this tyranny is essentially a moral effort.

Those of us who belief in God, and who are fortunate enough to live under conditions where we can practice our faith, cannot be content to live for ourselves alone, in selfish isolation. We must work constantly to wipe out injustice and inequality, and to create a world order consistent with the faith that governs us. ...

It is the moral and religious beliefs of mankind which alone give our strength meaning and purpose. The struggle for peace is a struggle for moral and ethical principles. ...

In everything we do, at home and abroad, we must demonstrate our clear purpose, and our firm will, to build a world order in which men everywhere can walk upright and unafraid, and do the work of God."
[Harry Truman, May 11, 1950 at Gonzaga University in Spokane]

In this case, the "Beast" is the very same beast referred to in Revelation 13:16-18 in the Bible which we talked about in section 2.7.2 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book. In that reference, the beast gives everyone a number as its means of control and domination. Don't take a number!!! How do we kill this evil, totalitarian, socialist, Gestapo, police-state, tyrant beast that oppresses us and destroys our property rights and our liberties and which is epitomized by the Federal Reserve and the IRS? Here is the prescription we focus on throughout this book:

1. Cut off the food source (money) that feeds the beast. This includes:

- 1.1. Get educated. Most people are victimized and plundered by the government because they are ignorant of the law and therefore accommodating of whatever the government demands.
- 1.2. Educate your children about the frauds discussed in this document so they aren't plundered either.
- 1.3. Stop withholding in whatever way you can.
- 1.4. Do not use banks in this country. Instead, have someone else maintain your account in their name and put your money in their accounts, and have a private agreement with them in writing that says you, not them, are liable for any consequences resulting from these accounts. You can also use third party checks from others to pay your bills.
- 1.5. Use cash for most transactions and do not produce a paper trail for any transaction.
- 1.6. Use E-Gold to exchange funds, which is perfectly protected from encroachments by the government.
- 1.7. Refuse to use U.S. currency for your transactions, bartering.
- 1.8. Put your assets inside of a pure trust so that your estate is "plunder-proof"
- 1.9. Make yourself judgment proof.
- 1.10. Get a Common Law marriage, so that your relationship is protected from state intervention.
- 1.11. Expatriate so that you become a nonresident alien who does not owe tax.

2. Cut off the information and intelligence that allows it to find food (extorted money). This includes:

- 2.1. Do NOT get a marriage license. Instead, get a common law marriage so that the state has ABSOLUTELY NO jurisdiction over you or your family.
- 2.2. Use your Fourth and Fifth Amendment rights to protect your privacy.
 - 2.2.1. Tell NO ONE that you have ANY books or records.
 - 2.2.2. Ensure that your marital agreement and common law marriage protects your privacy by requiring your spouse to NOT testify against you or about you in any trial.
 - 2.2.3. DO NOT provide any books, records, or testimony to any government official unless it favors your position.

2.2.4. If you are subpoenaed or summoned to a court hearing, then make sure you show up but plead the Fifth Amendment in answer to every question.

2.2.5. You ARE NOT obligated to justify why you plead that way to a judge or anyone else, and don't let an extortionist federal judge call you into his chambers in private to ask you questions and have you tell him ANYTHING in order to establish that it is OK for you to plead the Fifth because you aren't required to!

2.3. Do not give Socialist Security Numbers to your children.

2.4. Protect your privacy vigilantly.

2.5. Perform transactions in cash.

2.6. Use barter.

2.7. Use offshore bank accounts.

2.8. Insist that your federal government employer respect your Privacy Act rights by not divulging either your Social Security Number or other personal information to the federal government.

2.9. Keep your personal records in a safe place in the custody of an anonymous third party.

3. Create an environment where the beast must expend more energy finding food than it gets from the limited sources of food that it can find. This includes:

3.1. Lawyers are very expensive. Unhesitatingly litigate in pro per (without full-counsel but with a legal coach instead) against the U.S. government every time they violate your rights or try to impose an income tax that they have no jurisdiction to impose. This will cause their legal expenses to be greater than any taxes or plundered property they might be able to seize from you illegally.

3.2. Flood their overworked revenue agents with correspondence and use the Uniform Commercial Code and the Law of Presumptions to establish facts in your favor by their default and failure to respond.

3.3. Use the law itself to give their auditors and revenue agents a difficult time using the tactics found in this book, and especially during audits or in your correspondence.

3.4. Demand due process and a court hearing before they seize, lien, or levy your property.

3.5. Shift the burden of proof to them to show your income tax liability. Use the UCC to do this.

3.6. Reference this book and the website it appears on and our movie in all your correspondence with the IRS, so that their agents begin to learn the truth for themselves, and quit in droves. This will create a severe training and workload problem for their personnel.

3.7. Apply the knowledge you gain in this book whenever you serve jury duty. Surreptitiously nullify any case you serve on that involves collection of income taxes. This is how slavery and abolition were ended in the northern states after the civil war and it's called jury nullification.

Robert Schulz, Chairman of the We The People Foundation (<http://www.givemeliberty.org>) insightfully and passionately described how to kill The Beast that oppresses us and where its Achilles heel is. He described our moral obligation and our great and righteous commission to oppose the tyranny we presently live under in a speech given on the steps of the Capitol on November 14, 2002 at the culmination of the Freedom Drive 2002. Below is the entire text of that very powerful and inspiring speech:

REDRESS OF GRIEVANCES BEFORE TAXES

*Especially When The Taxes Are Used To Compound The Grievances
(No Answers, No Taxes)*

Bob Schulz wishes to acknowledge and thank Anthony Hargis for his fine research paper, "The Lost Right, Redress of Grievances." (undated). Bob's speech draws heavily on that research and the underlying documents.

The founding fathers, in an act of the Continental Congress in 1774, said, "If money is wanted by Rulers who have in any manner oppressed the People, [the People] may retain [their money] until their grievances are redressed, and thus peaceably procure relief, without trusting to despised petitions or disturbing the public tranquility." see [Journals of the Continental Congress, Wednesday, October 26, 1774]

This very American Right of Redress of Grievances Before Taxes is deeply embedded in our law.

The founding fathers could hardly have used words more clear when they declared, "the people ... may retain [their money] until their grievances are [remedied]."

By these words, the founding fathers fully recognized and clearly stated: that the Right of Redress of Grievances includes the right of Redress Before payment of Taxes, that this Right of Redress Before Taxes lies in the hands of the People, that this Right is the People's non-violent, peaceful means to procuring a remedy to their grievances without having to depend on -- or place their trust in -- the government's willingness to respond to the People's petitions and without having to resort to violence.

Before going further, I'd like to clarify two points: first, the question we are dealing with here is not whether the government has the power to tax, but whether the government is abusing its constitutionally limited power to tax; and second, there is the question of whether the government is using the tax revenue to effect other abuses of its authority.

The founding fathers were well acquainted with the fact that government is the enemy of Freedom, that those wielding governmental power despise petitions from the People; the representatives of the People, in a popular assembly, seem sometimes to fancy that they are the People themselves and exhibit strong symptoms of impatience and disgust at the least sign of opposition from any quarter.

The founding fathers knew that it was possible for the institutions of the Congress, the Executive and the Courts to someday begin to fail in their duty to protect the people from tyranny. They knew that unless the People had the right to withhold their money from the government their grievances might fall on deaf ears and Liberty would give way to tyranny, despotism and involuntary servitude.

The First Amendment to the United States Constitution states clearly and unambiguously, "Congress shall make NO law ...abridging ...the right of the people ... to petition the government for a redress of grievances."

While some Rights are reserved with qualifications in the Bill of Rights, there are none whatsoever pertaining to the Right of Redress. There are no limits on the Right of Redress. Any constitutional offense is legitimately petitionable.

We have established that the Founding Fathers clearly declared that the Right of Redress of Grievances includes the Right to withhold payment of taxes while the grievance remains. By the 1st Amendment, the founding fathers secured for posterity the Right of Redress of Grievances Before payment of Taxes and they made the Right of Redress Before Taxes operate against "the government," that is, against all branches of "the government," -- the legislative, the executive and the judicial branches. Redress reaches all.

Notice that the founding fathers, sitting as the Continental Congress in 1774, held that this Right of Redress Before Taxes was the means by which "the public tranquility" was to be maintained. Then, sitting as the Constitutional Convention, the founding fathers declared that one of the major purposes of the (federal) government was to "insure domestic tranquility." Therefore, whenever this Right of Redress is violated, the People have a double grievance: a denial of justice by the government and, an incitement by the government to general unrest.

Today, our concern is the grievance that falls under the heading of a design to subvert the Constitution and laws of the country by those wielding governmental power.

Under this heading, all officers of the government are liable, if they strayed from their oath of office.

If we are to secure our Rights, we must rely on the laws of nature and a reasoned sense of innovation. To rely on precedent is to oppress posterity with the ignorance or chains of their fathers. Being forced by the government to rely on precedent is, itself, a grievance.

The sequence of Redress Before Taxes was well established in English law at a time when great numbers of Englishmen traveled to America. They brought with them English history and English law: they brought with them the principle of "taxes with consent"; the unlawfulness of "troops quartered in private homes," of "cruel and unusual punishments," and a whole collection of Rights, such as Redress, Speech, Assembly and Trial by Jury.

Any notion, spurious act of Congress or opinion by a Court that taxes must be paid before Redress is a perversion of Natural Law, of modern English law, of the American Constitution and of Truth and Justice.

The reverse principle of "Taxes Before Redress" is based on the essence of monarchy and kingly power: the king owns everything under his domain. People possess property under a monarch by his grace alone. Since a king owns everything under his domain, he merely has to speak to lawfully dispose of his property. Thus, if a king imposed a tax on land he imposed it on his own land and whoever occupied the land was obligated to pay the tax to the king's treasury. A tax, then, being a part of the king's property, was legally presumed to be in the possession of the king before and after its assessment.

Since the landholder, or landless subject, enjoyed the privilege of tenancy on the land only by the will of the king, he could be required to pay over the tax before he could contest the assessment—or redress a grievance.

Thus, the theory that a tax must be paid before redress rests on the presumption that society is organized as a monarchy; that all people living therein exist by grace of an autocrat – whether one man or an assembly of men. This proposition was soundly rejected by the Founders in designing our unique system of governance.

In America, such presumptions constitute grievances. The first duty of any officer is to uphold the Constitution – the entire Constitution, without reservation and without bribery or blackmail.

Petitioning the government for a Redress of Grievance naturally includes the ability to compel admissions – the production of information and answers to questions.

Jefferson wrote, "The right of freely examining public characters and measures, and of free communication among the people thereon, ...has ever been justly deemed the only effectual guardian of every other right."

According to the Right of Redress, as the Founders described it, we have a right to withhold taxes if government violates our rights. But, as American courts describe the Right, we must suffer the injury, pay the taxes, and only then, sue for Redress against an adversary with unlimited resources.

The idea that taxes are to be paid before redress is asserted by Congress in the Internal Revenue Code at Section 7421 [the Anti Injunction Act], which states, "no suit for the purpose of restraining the assessment or collection of any tax shall be maintained in any court by any person"

How repugnant! American government is supposed to be organized to protect American citizens; but section 7421 [the Anti Injunction Act] authorizes the IRS to destroy them with impunity and the judiciary is cooperating with the executive and legislative branches in a collective decision to deny the People their constitutional Rights. Such acts of government are unconstitutional and must be stopped.

In America, the right to petition our government for redress of grievances is the basis of our liberty. Our founders explicitly recognized this right in the first amendment to our constitution -- for they understood that without it, we could not have a servant government whose power is defined and limited by the consent of the people.

In America, the right to petition our government for a Redress of Grievances is an unalienable right. It derives from our faith in a supreme being - an ultimate moral authority from whom we gain our understanding of equality, justice and the rule of law. Implicit in our first amendment constitutional right to petition our government for a redress of grievances, is the government's absolute moral and legal obligation to respond honestly and completely to the people's petition.

This is the essential cornerstone of Popular Sovereignty -- a government of the People, by the People and for the People.

In 1791, the right to petition became primary among the Rights of the People of the United States of America, as expressed in, and guaranteed by, the First Amendment.

Some would now have us believe that our First Amendment right of petition is nothing more than a guarantee of free speech; that this vital constitutional protection - the very basis of our liberty - is simply a right to voice our grievances to the government. Some would try to convince us that We The People do not have the absolute right to an honest and complete response to our petitions -- or the authority to demand that our government correct the abuses and violations of our liberties that result in our petitions. Some would even go so far as to say it is merely a Right to complain, with no expectation of response.

This is nonsense! This is dangerous talk to a free people. We will not listen to those who would denigrate our Constitution, and undermine the principles of liberty and justice that gave birth to our nation. At best they are imbeciles, and at worst they are tyrants -- or "sharing bedrooms" with tyrants.

We must guard against this nonsense. We must harden our hearts to these false notions that government is God. We must recognize that even in the long run government can never be rational, without a principled Constitution firmly rooted in Liberty. Government has but one legitimate purpose -- to serve and protect all of the people equally. Government is not God. It is our servant. It is accountable to the People.

The right to Petition for Redress of Grievances is the final protection -- the final, peaceful check and balance in our system of Constitutional government in which the government derives its limited powers from the consent of the sovereign people. This is the right which publicly reveals and reiterates for all, who is Master and who is Servant.

The way the system is now working is in sharp contrast to the way it was designed to work. The servant is taking over the House: the government has brought us to the brink; the Constitution is hanging by a thread.

Not only is the government neglecting its duties, it is operating outside the boundaries the People have drawn around its powers.

These are some of our grievances.

First: In violation of the War Powers Clauses of the Constitution, the President has colluded with the Congress to pass legislation that authorizes the President to apply the armed forces of the United States of America in hostilities in Iraq without a congressional Declaration of War.

Second: In a hasty response to widespread fear and panic following 9/11, our elected representatives voted on the "U.S.A. Patriot Act" (with many having not read it), which by the plain language of the Act, violates and seizes a number of the unalienable rights of the People.

Third: Our government has relinquished direct control of the monetary system of this nation to a privately owned central bank and has transformed our money into nothing but limitless debt. And, a significant portion of the Federal Reserve stock is held by foreign entities.

And Fourth, the U.S. Department of Justice and the Internal Revenue Service reneged on their July 2001 agreement to appear at a public forum to answer the People's Remonstrance and well-documented legal charges directly asserting the lack of statutory or Constitutional authority for the federal income tax and the systemic abuses of our unalienable rights in the daily operations of the IRS.

These are tyrannical and despotic acts. Are they to be tolerated by the People?

Let us thank our forefathers for their vision, foresight and innate understanding of the nature of man, political power, and government corruption in recognizing the explicit right of the People to petition their government for redress.

On October 7, 2002, four Petitions for Redress of these grievances were posted on the internet. The four Petitions, signed by thousands of American citizens who reside in all 435 Congressional Districts, were hand delivered to the offices of each member of the House of Representatives and each member of the Senate (in Washington DC) on November 8, 2002 (last Friday). Then, the Petitions were each formally served on the President on the twelfth.

The Petitions address specific constitutional grievances relating to: 1) the War Powers Clauses of the Constitution and the Iraq Resolution; 2) the privacy, due process and free speech clauses of the Constitution and the USA Patriot Act; 3) the money clauses of the Constitution and the Federal Reserve System; and 4) the tax-related clauses of the Constitution and the federal Income Tax system.

With the exception of the Income Tax Petition, the Petitions for Redress include specific questions, which We the People expected to be answered. The Petitions respectfully requested each congressperson and the President to send a representative to meet with the People at 2 P.M. today, right here on the National Mall, to either answer the questions OR tell the People when the questions will be answered.

With respect to the Income Tax Petition, we are further along. Those questions have already gone unanswered by the government following its receipt of an earlier Petition for Redress. The current, second, Petition on the Income Tax Grievances moved the petitioning process to the next level with its list of demands. There is more to the petitioning process than the mere submittal of the "despised" petitions.

With today's failure to respond, we can see a clear pattern. Our elected representatives do not feel compelled to respond to the People.

We must take the appropriate next step. As of two o'clock today, the government has left us no choice but to engage in civil action -- a pro-active, non-violent mass movement, with the explicit goal of restoring the Republic by bringing the government back under the control of the People and our Rule Book -- the Constitution of the United States of America.

This meeting here on the National Mall is the culmination of Freedom Drive 2002. On November 8, citizens from across the nation began driving in caravans toward Washington DC, to peaceably assemble here to await the government's response to their Petitions.

We appear to have reached the point where the institutions of the Court and the Congress and the Executive have failed in their Constitutional duty to protect the people from tyranny. The government is refusing to answer the People's allegations of governmental wrongdoing. Unless the People withhold their money from the government their grievances will fall on deaf ears and Liberty will give way to tyranny, despotism and involuntary, economic servitude.

Every adult in this nation has a personal duty and a moral responsibility, that stem directly from our heritage, to repel the tyrannical acts of those to whom the People have granted well defined and limited powers.

The right to Petition is the foundation of Popular Sovereignty and is the direct vehicle for the peaceful, non-violent resolution of matters involving errant government. This right is the procedural mechanism that enables the People to call any branch of their servant government before them.

In America, there are only two things that stand between the people and government tyranny -- our Constitution, and our will as a free people to protect and defend it.

These petitions are about us -- We the People. They are proof of our resolve to correct our government's abusive and unlawful behavior.

As a People, who are we? And who do we want to be? What kind of country do we want to leave to our children and future generations of Americans?

Will we tolerate tyranny merely to be comfortable?

Again, we ask: What does a free People do when confronted with a government that refuses to honor, and systemically schemes to evade, the boundaries and limitations established for it by We the People?

We stand at the brink of a Constitutionally unauthorized war and the meltdown of a monetary system based on the endless conjuring of debt. Under the guise of "protecting" us from terrorists, our government is attempting to seize our most fundamental rights and deprive us of their protections. To finance it all, the IRS and the Department of Justice use intimidation by, and the power of, the police state to enforce and prosecute offenses of tax "laws" --- yet they continue to refuse to cite the specific legal authority that purportedly allows them to enforce those laws.

If the People fail to act, we will end forever the chapter in human history when a People reigned sovereign, and the chains of a written constitution limited and bound their government to their service.

We have a choice. YOU have a choice.

We came for answers, but we did not get them. Now we demand that our government obey the Constitution, which, after all is a strongly worded set of principles to govern the government, not the people.

By the terms and provisions of the Constitution the People have not only formed their government and enabled the government to act in certain ways, they have purposely and markedly restricted and prohibited the government from acting in certain other ways.

The nature of our resistance is clear. It is not an act of anarchy or rebellion; rather it is an act of resistance to a government that is violating the purposes for which the Creator -- through the People and the Constitution -- has ordained civil government.

We are not "anti-war." We are not "anti-tax." We are "pro-constitution" and "anti-fraud."

Thus far we have pursued peaceful reconciliation and petition. It is the President and the Congress who have refused to respond to our Petitions for Redress of Grievances, in violation of the 1st Amendment.

We did not initiate this conflict. We have been fully committed to peaceful reconciliation and have pursued that course for decades.

We have no desire for resistance or violence of any kind. However, in the People's peaceful reconciliation attempts, the People's petitions and appeals have been met with force, and in some instances with near- military force.

The defense of our homes, families, properties and possessions is a most important point to us. It is our heritage. It is our Right.

There is not the most distant thought of subverting the government or of hurting the interest of the people of America, but of defending our personal Rights, Freedoms and Liberties from unjust encroachment.

There was not the least desire of withdrawing our allegiance from the leaders of the branches until it became absolutely necessary -- and, indeed, it has been their own choice.

Our political leaders know that our cause is just.

They know that we, the People, struggle for that freedom to which all men are entitled -- that we struggle against oppression, seizure, plunder, extortion and more than savage barbarity.

We are not moved by any light or hasty suggestion of anger or revenge. Through every possible change of fortune we adhere peaceably to this determination.

Our property and happiness have been attacked. Our self-defense against an aggressor government is righteous.

Our civil action is for the cause of civil justice -- a righteous struggle, undertaken in defense of our property, our happiness and our families. It is to oppose the invasions of usurped power. We will bravely suffer present hardships and face future dangers, to secure the rights of humanity and the blessings of freedom for generations yet unborn.

It is our obligation, as responsible citizens of this country, to set a proper value upon, and to defend to the utmost, our just rights and the blessings of Life and Liberty. Without this personal commitment, a few unprincipled individuals would tyrannize the People, and make the passive multitude the slaves of their power. Thus it is that civil action is not only justifiable, but an indispensable duty to correct these wrongs.

It is upon these principles that we are resisting the government and will oppose force with force.

How?

Any wage earner who gives money to the federal government and any employer who withholds money from the paychecks of working Americans is undermining the People's Rights, Freedoms and Liberties. Under the present circumstances, their behavior must be considered to be un-American.

As our Founders said so clearly: "If money is wanted by Rulers who have in any manner oppressed the People, [the People] may retain [their money] until their grievances are redressed, and thus peaceably procure relief, without trusting to despised petitions or disturbing the public tranquility."

How?

We the People must get Redress of Grievances before payment of taxes.

No Answers. No Taxes!

Finally, the book of Nehemiah chapter 5 describes what both we and our government must do in order to repair a very abusive, unjust, and unfair income tax system. Nehemiah, the governor, wrote the passage below. Think of him as the U.S. Congress, the President, and our state legislators and governors, who collectively are the "governors" of our time:

"And there was a great outcry of the people and their wives against their Jewish brethren. For there were those who said, 'We, our sons, and our daughters are many; therefore let us get grain, that we may eat and live.'"

There were also some who said, "We have mortgaged our lands and vineyards and houses, that we might buy grain because of the famine."

There were also those who said, "We have borrowed money for the king's tax on our lands and vineyards. Yet now our flesh is as the flesh of our brethren, our children as their children; and indeed we are forcing our sons and our daughters to be slaves, and some of our daughters have been brought into slavery. It is not in our power to redeem them, for other men have our lands and vineyards."

And I became very angry when I heard their outcry and these words. After serious thought, I rebuked the nobles and rulers, and said to them, "Each of you is exacting usury from his brother." So I called a great assembly against them. And I said to them, "According to our ability we have redeemed our Jewish brethren who were sold to the nations [the Federal Reserve, in this case, which is a foreign organization and the chief creditor of the U.S. government]. Now indeed, will you even sell your brethren? Or should they be sold to us?" Then they were silenced and found nothing to say. [Remember: Bob Schulz and We the People confronted the U.S. Congress, DOJ, and IRS in a very similar manner and he TOO was met with the same type of silence]

Then I said, "What you are doing is not good. Should you not walk in the fear of our God because of the reproach of the nations, our enemies? I also, with my brethren and my servants, am lending them money and grain. Please, let us stop this usury! Restore now to them, even this day, their lands, their vineyards, their olive groves, and their houses, also a hundredth of the money and the grain, the new wine and the oil, that you have charged them."

So they said, "We will restore it, and will require nothing from them; we will do as you say." Then I called the priests [in our case, the IRS and the federal judges would need this oath], and required an oath from them that they would do according to this promise. Then I shook out the fold of my garment and said, "So may God shake out each man from his house, and from his property, who does not perform this promise. Even thus may he be shaken out and emptied." And all the assembly said "Amen!" and praised the Lord. Then the people did according to this promise.

Moreover, from the time that I was appointed to be their government in the land of Judah, from the twentieth year until the thirty-second year of King Artaxerxes, twelve years, neither I nor my brothers ate the governor's provisions. But the former governors who were before me laid burdens on the people, and took from the bread and wine, besides forty shekels of silver. Yes, even their servants bore rule over the people, but I did not do so, because of the fear of God.

Indeed, I also continued the work on this wall, and we did not buy any land. All my servants were gathered there for the work. And at my table were one hundred and fifty Jews and rulers, besides those who came to use from the nations around us. Now that which was prepared daily was one ox and six choice sheep. Also fowl were prepared for me, and once every ten days an abundance of all kinds of wine. Yet in spite of this I did not demand the governor's provisions, because the bondage was heavy upon this people. Remember me, my God, for good, according to all that I have done for this people.
[Nehemiah 5:1-19, Bible, NKJV]

So the key to fixing our tax system is:

1. For our rulers to repent of their greed and wickedness and to confront and rebuke the IRS for the usury and injustice they have done.
2. To stop the usury and the income tax.
3. For all past income tax debts and judgments to be forgiven both by the government against the citizens and the citizens against the government.

"Our Father in heaven, hallowed be Your name. Your kingdom come. Your will be done on earth as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors. And do not lead us into temptation, but deliver us from the evil one. For Yours is the kingdom and the power and the glory forever. Amen."

4. To approach the American people and the churches and make them promise not to hold anything against their rulers for this fraud and not to litigate, but to forgive, just as their rulers have forgiven their debts.
5. For the government to publish the truth about the income tax, in black and white, on every government website and tell people they are freed from the bondage of this financial slavery and usury.
6. To cut the federal expenditures by the 41% needed to balance the federal budget after Subtitle A income taxes are eliminated.

4.4 Restoring Your Sovereignty

We get a lot of questions about being "sovereign" and what it means to be "sovereign". To us, being "sovereign" means that the government does not control any aspect of your life, so that God and not them are fully in control of your life. Remember, the only authority government has comes from passing laws against crime, and if you don't violate any of God's laws, then the government has no jurisdiction whatsoever over you:

1 "But if you are led by the Spirit, you are not under the law [man's law]."
2 [Gal. 5:18, Bible, NKJV]

3 "...the law is not made for a righteous person, but for the lawless and insubordinate, for the ungodly and for 4 sinners, for the unholy and profane, for murderers of fathers and murderers of mothers, for manslayers, for
5 fornicators, for sodomites, for kidnappers, for liars, for perjurers, and if there is any other thing that is contrary
6 to sound doctrine, according to the glorious gospel of the blessed God which has committed to my trust."
7 [1 Tim. 1:9-11, Bible, NKJV]

8 "You were bought at a price; do not become slaves of men [and remember that 9 government is made up of men]."
10 [1 Cor. 7:23, Bible, NKJV]

11 A person who is "sovereign" is either explicitly excluded or exempted from most statutes or codes, or at least is not subject
12 to their provisions because he is either not mentioned therein or is not liable for anything even though his status is defined
13 there. The Supreme Court explained why this is, when it said:

14 "Sovereignty itself is, of course, not subject to law, for it is the author and source of law; but in our system,
15 while sovereign powers are delegated to the agencies of government, sovereignty itself remains with the people,
16 by whom and for whom all government exists and acts. And the law is the definition and limitation of power."
17 [Yick Wo v. Hopkins, 118 U.S. 356 (1886)]

18 A legal "person" who is not subject to the laws or jurisdiction of a government is "foreign" with respect to it. This explains
19 why the federal government and the states are "foreign" with respect to each other's legislative jurisdiction:

20 Foreign Laws: "The laws of a foreign country or sister state. In conflicts of law, the legal principles of 21 jurisprudence which are part of the law of a sister state or nation. Foreign laws are additions to our own laws,
22 and in that respect are called 'jus receptum'."

25 Foreign States: "Nations outside of the United States...Term may also refer to another state; i.e. a sister state.
26 The term 'foreign nations', ...should be construed to mean all nations and states other than that in which the 27 action is brought; and hence, one state of the Union is foreign to another, in that sense."
28 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 648]
29

30 "A federal corporation operating within a state is considered a domestic corporation rather than a foreign 31 corporation. The United States government is a foreign corporation with respect to a state."
32 [19 Corpus Juris Secundum (C.J.S.), Corporations, §883 (2003)]

33 The status of being "foreign" as a "sovereign" is also found in scripture, which says on this subject:

34 "Adulterers and adulteresses! Do you now know that friendship [and "citizenship"] with the world [or the 35 governments of the world] is enmity with God? Whoever therefore wants to be a friend ["citizen" or 36 "taxpayer" or "resident"] of the world makes himself an enemy of God."
37 [James 4:4, Bible, NKJV]

38 "Do not love [be a permanent inhabitant or resident of] the world or the things in the world. If anyone loves
39 the world, the love of the Father is not in him. For all that is in the world--the lust of the flesh, the lust of the 40 eyes, and the pride of life--is not of the Father but is of the world. And the world is passing away [not 41 permanent], and the lust of it; but he who does the will of God abides forever."
42 [1 John 2:15, Bible, NKJV]

43 "For our citizenship is in heaven, from which we also eagerly wait for the Savior, the Lord Jesus Christ"
44 [Philippians 3:20, Bible, NKJV]

45 "These all died in faith, not having received the promises, but having seen them afar off were assured of them,
46 embraced them and confessed that they were strangers and pilgrims on the earth."
47 [Hebrews 11:13, Bible, NKJV]

48 "Beloved, I beg you as sojourners and pilgrims [temporarily occupying the world], abstain from fleshly lusts 49 which war against the soul..."
50 [1 Peter 2:1, Bible, NKJV]

"Do you not know that friendship [and citizenship] with the world is enmity with God? Whoever therefore wants to be a friend for "resident" of the world makes himself an enemy of God."
[\[James 4:4, Bible, NKJV\]](#)

"And do not be conformed to this world, but be transformed by the renewing of your mind, that you may prove what is that good and acceptable and perfect will of God."
[\[Romans 12:2, Bible, NKJV\]](#)

"Come out from among them [the unbelievers]
And be separate [foreign], says the Lord.
Do not touch what is unclean.
 And I will receive you.
 I will be a Father to you,
 And you shall be my sons and daughters,
 Says the Lord Almighty."
[\[2 Corinthians 6:17-18, Bible, NKJV\]](#)

"Pure and undefiled religion before God and the Father is this; to visit orphans and widows in their trouble, and to keep oneself unspotted from [foreign with respect to] the world [and the corrupted governments and laws of the world]."
[\[James 1:27, Bible, NKJV\]](#)

"And you shall be holy to Me, for I the Lord am holy, and have separated you [and made you "foreign"] from the peoples, that you should be Mine."
[\[Leviticus 20:26, Bible, NKJV\]](#)

"I am a stranger in [foreign to] the earth;
 Do not hide Your commandments from me."
[\[Psalm 119:19, Bible, NKJV\]](#)

"I have become a stranger [foreign] to my brothers,
And an alien to my mother's children;
 Because zeal for Your house has eaten me up,
 And the reproaches of those who reproach You have fallen on me."
[\[Psalm 69:8-9, Bible, NKJV\]](#)

A legal "person" who has taken the appropriate legal steps to become "sovereign" and has accumulated legal evidence in support of that status:

1. Is described as "foreign" with respect to the statutes and codes of the jurisdiction within which he is "sovereign".
2. Is protected by the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act (FSIA), codified in 28 U.S.C. Chapter 97, §§1602 to 1611.
3. Cannot be in receipt of any federal privileges or financial benefits. The reason is that the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act, in section 28 U.S.C. §1605\(a\)\(2\), includes an exception in which those who engage in "commerce" within the legislative jurisdiction of the "United States", which is the federal zone, are exempted from the Act. The bible describes "the Beast" as the "kings of the earth" in Rev. 19:19, who today are our political leaders. "Babylon the Great Harlot" is described in Rev. 17-18 as the woman who commits fornication with the kings of the earth. Black's Law Dictionary defines "commerce" as "intercourse".

"Commerce. ...Intercourse by way of trade and traffic between different peoples or states and the citizens or inhabitants thereof, including not only the purchase, sale, and exchange of commodities, but also the instrumentalities [governments] and agencies by which it is promoted and the means and appliances by which it is carried on..."
[\[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 269\]](#)

Christians are described throughout the Bible as God's "bride". A bride who has "intercourse" outside of her marriage to her husband is a fornicator. If she does it for money, then she is also a harlot. Therefore, we as Christians are literally becoming part of "Babylon the Great Harlot" by partaking of financial benefits provided by the government, or by sending the government our money as private individuals. This also implies that churches CANNOT apply or receive an IRS 501(c)(3) designation either.

4. Cannot be described as a "resident" or "citizen" under federal law, because both of these statuses include a requirement that the party has made the "United States", meaning the federal zone, their domicile. This in turn makes them subject to exclusive federal jurisdiction. The federal zone is NOT covered by the Bill of Rights and all those domiciled there have absolutely no rights, but only legislatively granted "privileges" bestowed upon them by Congress. A person without rights within the legal realm cannot be "sovereign" and instead becomes simply a "subject" of their landlord, which is the federal mafia. A sovereign instead can only be a "national" but not a "citizen" under federal law. This is also consistent with the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act, which refers to 28 U.S.C. §1332\(c\) and (d) and says that if you are a "citizens of the United States", meaning a person born in the District of Columbia or the territories or possessions of the United States, then you are not covered by the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act. For evidence supporting why you are not a "resident" under federal law, consult section 4.10 or the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book. For evidence supporting why you are not a "citizen" under federal law, consult sections 4.11 through 4.11.13 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book.

5. Is protected from persecution within federal exclusive jurisdiction by 18 U.S.C. §112.
6. Becomes a "non-resident non-person" under both state and federal tax codes. This is described in: Non-Resident Non-Person Position, Form #05.020
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

The focus of this entire chapter, as a matter of fact, defines all the procedures and steps that you must do in order to be, in deed and in fact, "sovereign", at least with respect to federal jurisdiction. If you follow the steps in this chapter faithfully and in order and pay attention to detail, then you will fit the description of being "sovereign" as we describe it. Don't, however, assume, that any government or judge or court will ever fully understand or recognize what "sovereign" means until you explain it to them. We describe why, as a Christian, you have a biblical obligation to become sovereign in Section 1.6, when we describe "Natural Order".

In the context of individuals, below is a list of things we think define the necessary conditions and prerequisites needed to classify a person as being "sovereign" and in the order they need to be accomplished. Collectively, we classify these as the process of "judgment proofing".

1. You must faithfully and honorably follow God's laws as best you can so that you don't become a criminal under the jurisdiction of the government.
2. You must be self-supporting and earn enough money from other than the government to take 100% of the responsibility for your life and your family. You must not be a burden to either the government or your fellow man. Anytime you suck the government tit, you become a privileged person without rights. No food stamps, no welfare, no AFDC, no Socialist Security, no Medicare, or any other government entitlement program.
3. You must be educated, and preferably have completed at least high school so that you can be functional within society. Sometimes we wonder, however, whether the public FOOL, I mean "school" system is enough. Private school is better.
4. You should have a computer and know how to use a word processor and a web browser as a bare minimum. This will allow you to acquire the knowledge and have the tools needed to be able to defend yourself in court. We mention this in section 4.5.2.4.
5. You must at all times be fully informed about your legal rights. If you don't know what your rights are or you have to depend on anyone else to know what they are, then you are either an intellectual or a financial slave or both and can be easily manipulated and abused by an unethical legal profession and your government. Therefore, you must have read at least the first six chapters of this book and done your best to understand it.
6. You should understand the criminal laws and the tax laws so that you can present your case well to a judge and jury. Here is what the U.S. Supreme Court says on this subject:

"Every citizen of the United States is supposed to know the law,..."
[Pierce v. United States, 7 Wall (74 U.S. 169) 666 (1869)]

"He that turneth away his ear from hearing the law, even his prayer [shall be] abomination."
[Proverbs 28:9]

7. You must be fully prepared to personally litigate to defend your rights. You cannot depend on a lawyer to do this for you, and if you do, you will become a financial slave to him defending yourself, and that will lead to financial ruin and becoming another "ward of the state" eventually.
8. You should not have a state drivers license, and especially if it requires you to provide an SSN. Instead, get an international drivers permit. We describe how to do this later in section 4.5.3.11.
9. You must acquire a post office box, preferably in a foreign country, and have all your mail forwarded to your real domicile. That way, no one can find out from any computer database, where you physically live. This will protect your privacy. We describe how to do this later in section 4.5.3.3.
10. You must remove the header and the phone number from your fax machine, so that when you fax things to others, they cannot know your phone number.

11. You must copyright your name so that you can prohibit its use by the government.
12. You should take the necessary steps to protect your assets, including removing Slave Surveillance Numbers from all your assets and putting them in the name of a trust or artificial entity.
13. You cannot have a marriage license from the state and if you have one, you must eliminate it. Instead, get either a common law marriage or a contract, but not a marriage license. We describe how to do this later in section 4.5.3.2.
14. You must be either a “state national” or a “U.S. national” instead of a privileged or presumptive “U.S. citizen”. We describe how to do this later in section 4.5.3.13
15. You must reside inside a union state on non-federal land. This will ensure that you are not subject to the totalitarian socialist democracy that is in control inside the federal zone.
16. You must remove Socialist Security Numbers from all your financial accounts and your real property. We describe how to do that in:
Resignation of Compelled Social Security Trustee, Form #06.002
 FORMS PAGE: <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
 DIRECT LINK: <http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Forms/Emancipation/SSTrustIndenture.pdf>
17. You must use cash for most of your transactions so that your transactions cannot be traced.
18. You should keep your financial records in a place away from your home or in encrypted electronic form so that no organization can subpoena or seize them from your home. Furthermore, you cannot tell anyone what records you have, or you surrender your right to not disclose them.
19. You should not provide a social security number to any employer, and if you do give it to them, the W-4 or IRS Form W-8BEN you file stopping withholding must have an explicit copyright statement and nondisclosure statement saying that “acceptance of this form by employer constitutes consent not to disclose this form to any outside third parties, including government, and if this requirement is violated, the form was filed involuntarily and under duress and constitutes a criminal tort and invasion of privacy”. We describe how to do this in section 4.5.4.13.
20. If you MUST have a Social Security Number, you should start an artificial business name that is your full name in all capital letters. Get a taxpayer identification number using an IRS form W-9 for the business entity that has your name and use that. If you are asked for a Socialist Security Number, provide the one for the business, rather than a personal one.

4.5 The Process to Restore and Maintain Personal Sovereignty

“If a man hasn’t discovered something he would die for, he isn’t fit to live.”
 [Martin Luther King (1929-1968)]

“In the beginning of change, the patriot is a scarce man; brave, hated and scorned. When his cause succeeds, however, the timid join him, for then it costs nothing to be a patriot.”
 [Mark Twain (1835-1910)]

 [African Proverb]

“A journey of a thousand miles begins with a single step.”
 [Chinese Proverb]

“In times of prosperity friends will be plenty, in times of adversity not one in twenty.”
 [English Proverb]

“Having integrity... means being completely true to what is inside you-- to what you know is right... what you feel you must do, regardless of the immediate cost of sacrifice... to be honorable and to behave decently.”
 [Samuel Goldwyn, 1960]

“Therefore whosoever heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them, I will liken him unto a wise man, which built his house upon a rock:”
 [Matt. 7:24, Bible, NKJV]

This section is meant to present a menu of options that Citizens may wish to use in their fight to achieve and defend their personal sovereignty. One important aspect of that process is eliminating illegal enforcement of the Internal Revenue Laws by the IRS. We are not recommending any one specific course of action, because that depends on your legal situation. The decision on what to do is up to you, and if you are unsure of what to do and you don't wish to do the legal research yourself to answer your questions, then please don't call us for advice. Instead, you should pursue the services of a competent tax attorney (assuming one can be found, who is familiar with what is in this document). The subsections below are listed in the order you might want to consider doing them. If you get out of order, you might have problems or get yourself into trouble. We'll try to emphasize the importance of the sequence and what happens when you get out of sequence with each step, so you can avoid anticipated problems. The subsections are written with the idea in mind that you are just starting out, have never been a freedom fighter before, and want to get to the point where you can stop paying not "taxes", but "extortion under the color of law" to the IRS with a minimum of risk to yourself and your family. Most subsections within this section will begin with a text box that has pointers to related forms and information which are useful to people who are viewing the electronic version of the book. The links within these boxes are live so that you can be taken immediately to the information and resources that are relevant to that process step.

WARNING: The fact that a technique documented or suggested in this chapter or a form provided in Chapter 5 does not work in your specific case may be an indication of any one of the following circumstances that you should be aware of:

1. You did something too late.
2. You did not follow the instructions exactly and skipped some steps.
3. The law has changed after you got your copy of this book and you didn't update to the latest version of the book as updates came out.
4. The IRS agent you are dealing with is ignorant of the law or is not motivated enough to want to take time to understand your position. Therefore, he may choose an irrelevant but intimidating response to scare you into compliance to test your resolve and knowledge level.
5. The solution you selected or employed does not apply to your specific situation.
6. You may not have properly completed the steps previous to the one that didn't work. For instance, you filed for a refund using a 1040NR form with zeros but did not expatriate first or revoke your election, so you were not legitimately a nonresident alien and your claim was disallowed.
7. The documents you submitted to the IRS contained typographical errors that rendered them an easy target for a denial of your claim. For such a case, the IRS might also accuse you of fraud. Check the accuracy of your documents by proofreading them several times before you submit them!
8. The people you are dealing with at the IRS are downright dishonest and understand your predicament but won't cooperate. This is the case most of the time. Instead of granting you your refund or claim or zero tax assessment, like a spoiled child they will try to play a game of chicken and test your patience and resolve by challenging you up to the very last minute with irrelevant or downright wrong arguments. When this happens, they are testing whether you have sufficient knowledge to repel their arguments and if you don't because you haven't taken the time to do your homework and read most of this book, then they will eat your lunch. Ignorant people who haven't done their homework or study make ready prey for the IRS. Get informed...your freedom depends on it!
9. We made an error or missed something in this document, in which case please let us know immediately so we can update our documentation so everyone can benefit from your lessons learned. The tax process can be complicated and no one person can every hope to have all the answers. You'll make mistakes starting off just as we did while you are learning. You will always be learning in this field, because laws are always changing.

4.5.1 Good Citizenship

*"A republic is not an easy form of government to live under, and when the responsibility of citizenship is evaded, democracy decays and authoritarianism takes over."
[Earl Warren, "A Republic, If You Can Keep It", p 13]*

Before there is a prayer of impacting the tax system for good, you need to be an informed, engaged, and responsible Citizen. This means reading newspapers, watching what your elected representatives are doing, voting consistently for what you believe in, being a responsible and enthusiastic juror, following new legislation on the internet and calling your Congressman when things get out of hand, and knowing and following the law, as we will now show. We have written an article on this subject, found in section 4.11.12 of the following entitled "Duties and Responsibilities of Citizens"

Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302

4.5.1.1 Don't Give Your Children Social Security Numbers

"Once bona fide First Amendment issue is joined, burden that must be shouldered by government to defend a regulation with impact on religious actions is a heavy one, and the basic standards is that a compelling state interest must be demonstrated."

"Notwithstanding fact that use of social security numbers, combined with computers, was an important tool in efforts to combat instances of welfare fraud, parents, who were recipients of welfare aid, could not be compelled against their sincerely held religious beliefs to furnish social security numbers for their children as a condition to continued receipt of assistance...."

"Plaintiffs do believe that, were their children to obtain these numbers, their spiritual well-being and chance to enter Heaven would be seriously jeopardized; since the children would not be able to shed these numbers when they reach adulthood, a decision by the parents to comply would effectively foreclose the children from deciding the question anew for themselves in the future."

[Stevens v. Berger, 428 F.Supp. 896 (1977)]

Public Law 94-455 at section 1211 "Use of Social Security Numbers?" states:

Under the Privacy Act of 1974, it is unlawful for a Federal, State, or local government agency to deny to any individual any right, benefit, or privilege provided by Law because of the individual's refusal to disclose his social security account number..."

[Public Law 94-455, Section 1211]

Parents have been led to believe that Social Security Numbers must be obtained for their children before they can be claimed as little exemptions on a tax return. Once again, the truth within the Law prevails over the popular mind set. There is no law requiring you to give Social Security Numbers to your children. Whether or not they get one should be up to them, not the parents. The Social Security Administration website states that you don't have to get an SSN for your children:

<http://www.ssa.gov/pubs/10023.html>

The Federal Government has also attempted, through the Enumeration At Birth Program (see section 2.5.2.1 for further details) to assign Social Security Numbers to infants at birth right in the hospital. Be advised that there is no obligation for you to participate in this or any other program that seems to require your child to have a Social Security Number. In fact, all you need to do instead is provide a copy of an affidavit signed by you and notarized stating that:

1. Your child is in fact yours-perhaps including a notarized photocopy of your child's birth recorded in the family Bible or form other personal records, and lives with you at your home address.
2. That you provide for more than 50% of your child's needs.
3. That your child is not being taken as a deduction on any other tax return, you can take your child who does not have a Social Security Number as a deduction on your tax return, assuming, of course, you believe you are required to file a return in the first place.

And what is an affidavit? It's simply a letter stating the facts in a given situation, signed under penalties of perjury and notarized by a notary public or signed by two witnesses who are residents of your State. It's just that simple. And the IRS has no choice but to accept this and allow the parents the exemption with no penalties assessed. Why? Because there is no Law requiring the child to have a Social Security Number.

Family Guardian Fellowship talked about the Enumeration At Birth Program of the Social Security Administration in Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302, Section 2.8.7.1, where we said that the government has been trying to fool you into thinking that your children had to have Socialist Security Numbers immediately upon birth. When I think of this evil situation of giving Socialist Security Numbers to children who haven't even touched the ground with their feet yet, I can't help but think of the story found in Chapter 37 of the Book of Genesis in the Bible. In that chapter, Joseph, the favorite son of his father Jacob, was despised and envied (See Genesis 37:11) by all of his brothers. They were jealous of his birthright and the favoritism shown by his father to him above the other sons. His brothers therefore plotted to sell him into slavery. They did so by luring him out of his camp and far into the wilderness where his father did not know they were. Once in the unknown wilderness they cast Joseph into a pit. At that point they wanted to kill him but one brother calmed them down enough to convince them to sell him into slavery. They waited till strangers came by and then sold him for twenty shekels of silver.

1 The Social Security Number is the modern day equivalent of exactly what happened to Joseph. Here are the parallels:

Object or event in the parable	Modern day equivalent
Joseph	American citizens, and especially those who are Christian and who put God above the government in their priority list.
Joseph's brothers	The employees of the IRS and the Social Security Administration. People who work for our government are out brothers and our neighbors and often even go to church with us!
The envy and spite of Joseph's brothers for Joseph	The envy of the IRS and the Social Security Administration for the money we have, and the freedom and empowerment it produces.
Jacob, Joseph's father	God (our spiritual father)
Twenty shekels of silver	The money generated by the income tax, which is what incentivizes the judges and the IRS to continue with their extortion and rewards them for lying and deceiving.
The pit Joseph was thrown into to immobilize and control him	Income tax returns, which make us and every aspect of our lives subject to the scrutiny and involvement of the government and immobilizes us with fear because of the invasion of our privacy. Submitting tax returns that could incriminate you is just as bad as being forced to strip naked in front of a government agent for inspection. Do you think our Constitution permits or encourages that kind of tyranny? Without privacy, we are slaves under the complete control of our government, which immobilizes us and subjects us to the possibility of persecution by our government for our political views and our free speech. Since the government already has all the evidence they need to bury, all they need is a political reason to persecute us and they can bring you down with your own tax returns. If you look at anything long enough and hard enough, you can find something wrong. What if you make a mistake, are they going to prosecute you for fraud?
Slavery	The Socialist Security Number and the financial slavery to the income tax that it facilitates.
Tearing Joseph's clothes and dipping them in blood to show to their father when they returned to make the false report.	The deception contained in the IRS publications, which are a fraud designed to convince people to pay an illegal and unlawful income tax.
The lies the brothers told their father when they returned about Joseph being killed	The lies the IRS tell the Congress, their own conscience, and the American people to keep us participating in the slavery to the income tax.
Jacob's mourning when he learned that his son Joseph had died (based on lies from the brothers)	The reaction of God when he learns that the evil actions of others, including our brothers, could hurt his beloved children.

2 Don't do it! Don't sell your kids into slavery! Read Revelation 13:16-18, and 16:1-2 and then section 2.8.2.1 and you will
 3 know that you can't give them the Mark of the Beast and sell them into slavery without denying your Christian faith and
 4 committing idolatry. As a bare minimum, let them decide if they want the number and if they conclude that they can't 5 survive without a number, advise them to:

- 6 1. Apply for a fictitious business name similar to their own real name with their local city. Fictitious business names
 7 can be revoked at any time. Use a PO box in a foreign country for the mailing address of the registration, so the 8 government can't locate the applicant. The business name should be in all capital letters, to emphasize that it is 9 the legal you rather than the natural you.
- 10 2. Get a temporary Taxpayer ID Number (TIN) from the IRS for that temporary fictitious business name.
- 11 3. Use that business TIN to apply for all accounts and jobs they need.

Then after your kids get the job, or loan, or other account they need, cancel the business and/or the TIN also. Another approach is to change the TIN or the name of the business every couple of years! If the money they make comes under a business, then they can write off all their expenses to maintain the business, instead of subjecting all their income to taxation and to be treated as profit!

If you would like detailed procedures for living successfully without a Slave Surveillance Number, then the book identified below may prove useful:

"Government is established for the protection of the weak against the strong. This is the principal, if not the sole motive for the establishment of all legitimate government. It is only the weaker party that lose their liberties, when a government becomes oppressive. The stronger party, in all governments are free by virtue of their superior strength. They never oppress themselves. Legislation is the work of this stronger party; and if, in addition to the sole power of legislation, they have the sole power of determining what legislation shall be enforced, they have all power in their hands, and the weaker party are the subjects of an absolute government. Unless the weaker party have a veto, they have no power whatever in the government and...no liberties... The trial by jury is the only institution that gives the weaker party any veto upon the power of the stronger. Consequently it is the only institution that gives them any effective voice in the government, or any guaranty against oppression."
[Lysander Spooner]

Another crucial aspect of being a responsible juror is to ensure that you respond properly to all jury summons from both the State and Federal governments. Most state and federal jury summons ask if you are a “U.S. citizen” and tell you that if you aren’t, you can’t serve on jury duty. What they are doing, in effect, is to say:

“Serving on jury duty is a taxable privilege. If you don’t want to be a slave of the state by claiming to be a U.S. citizen and thereby making yourself responsible to pay taxes, then we’re going to deny your fundamental right to serve on a jury.”

Therefore, you should respond to the jury summons by saying one of the following:

- You are a “non-citizen national” as defined in 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21) and 8 U.S.C. §1452 and not a statutory “U.S. citizen” as defined in 8 U.S.C. §1401, and so are the vast majority of other persons serving on the jury duty, and that it is a fraud to permit others who are not legitimate U.S. citizens from serving on the jury. If they are going to disqualify you, then they have a duty to disqualify most other prospective jurors as well, and that they have a duty to ask those jurors whether they were born in the federal United States and explain what that means.
- Put an asterisk next to the term “U.S. citizen” and at the bottom of the summons explain exactly what you mean as follows:

“U.S. citizen” in this case means “national” as defined in 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21) and 8 U.S.C. §1452. However, it does not mean a statutory “U.S. citizen” as defined in 8 U.S.C. §1452.

4.5.1.3 Vote Consistently for the Representatives and Issues That You Believe In and Against Those You Don’t!

It is extremely important that you research the resumes and backgrounds and voting histories of the representatives that you elect to office before you cast a vote in their favor. You should elect only those representatives who are aware of the issues discussed in this document and who will advocate a position on them that you can agree with. A good place to research the voting history of candidates for political office is at the Project Vote-Smart website. This website does the most extensive and objective political research on the largest number of candidates that we have seen. You can find them at:

It is fair to say that the Libertarian party advocates a position that is usually most aligned with the tax policies advocated in this document.

It is also extremely important that when you register to vote, that your voter registration includes your proper citizenship status, which is that of a “U.S. national” and not a “U.S. citizen”. Section 3.5.6 includes a Voter Registration Attachment, Form #06.003 to use that will properly reflect your status so you don’t get trapped into claiming a type of citizenship that makes you liable for either state or federal income taxes.

4.5.1.4 Send a Letter to Your Congressmen and Elected Officials

Section 3.3.1 has a sample letter you can send to your Congressman regarding the income tax fraud described in this document. This letter will alert him to IRS abuses and may deflect litigation if your Congressman contacts the IRS.

If you have questions about the tax laws, your Congressman is a good person to ask, and this is especially true of questions about the definitions for “United States” and “State” found in 26 U.S.C. §7701. A number of Congressmen, and especially the ones who are junior and were just elected for the first time, aren’t aware of the nuances of the tax code and have been known to respond to questions by eager tax freedom fighters with research from the Congressional Research Service that were very revealing about the limited application of the tax code. We’d advise targeting for your questions mostly junior Congressmen in preference over more seasoned ones who are already “programmed” by their more experienced fellow extortionists to conceal the truth. Unfortunately, it is often only by talking to naïve new congressmen that we can get honest answers to some of our tougher tax questions and a passionate response to our concerns.

Many people are intimidated by the law, because we learn so little about it in the course of our education. We believe this isn't an accident, but a result of the fact that the government runs the public schools and sheep who are trained in the public schools make more compliant puppets who will question their authority less often. That's why we recommend getting your children out of the public schools as soon as possible.

The only way to conquer one's fear of the IRS and of litigation is with knowledge. Knowledge conquers fear and empowers people to defend their rights, and this is especially true in the information age! A well-prepared Citizen who owns a computer and has a high-speed Internet connection, has access to a law library, and who has patience and free time can educate him/herself on the law and become a capable litigator without ever setting foot in a law school classroom. That is the approach I am taking and it works quite well.

If you will be litigating your case in court, we recommend reading chapter 6 of the Tax Fraud Prevention Manual, Form #06.008 entitled “Federal Tax Litigation Fundamentals”, which gives you a very good background on how to successfully litigate tax issues in federal courts. Chapter 7 of that book also points to many of the legal resources you will need to use and have in order to be adequately prepared to litigate your own case against the IRS...if it comes to that, which hopefully it won't, because your knowledge of the law will prevent the abuses they execute on most Americans, who will be less educated than you. That chapter has pointers to a number of sources for U.S. Codes, Code of Federal Regulations, and Supreme Court cases. The FindLaw website is among the very best sites for doing legal research and we highly recommend it. However, their case databases are very small and only go back a couple years at best:

<http://www.findlaw.com/>

If you want to go much further back than a couple years with FindLaw, then you will also need a subscription to the following case research website, available inexpensively for $8.95 per month for basic service billed electronically to your checking account automatically every month.

Versus Law, <http://versuslaw.com/>.

We recommend their premium service for $19.95/month because it has a lot of value for the dollar. This site has Federal and State Supreme court cases, Federal and state appellate court cases, federal district court cases, statutes at the state and federal level, and state administrative regulations. They have a tremendous search engine as well. The best of breed and quite affordable for the pro per litigant, this site is the best place to get all of your case cites without the trouble of maintaining a large and bulky paper library or spending a lot of money on subscriptions and updates.

Part of knowing the law also consists of putting together your own mini law library. A good source for legal books to help you get started as a pro per or pro se litigant is Nolo Press, at <http://www.nolo.com>. They don't publish laws, but their books are very easy to understand for the layman and give you a very good grounding in courtroom etiquette, legal research, discovery procedure, pleadings, etc. You can save yourself a ton of money and avoid law school if you buy and carefully and diligently read and highlight their books. The first legal book I ever read was written by them, and it was called: Represent Yourself In Court, Paul Bergman, ISBN 0-87337-402-9. In addition to this book, other indispensable books and software you will want in your library include:

[George Orwell]

Because our federal income tax system is perpetuated by a combination of fear of the IRS and the ignorance of the law that allows that fear to be perpetuated, it is extremely important for you to inform everyone you know of the truth about the federal income tax and the laws that it is based on! Excitedly and repeatedly make everyone you know aware of what you have found out and how their ignorance of the truth is not only hurting them, but destroying the freedoms and economic independence of their children and their families. You can increase your effectiveness at spreading the truth by increasing your credibility. You should do as much of your homework as you can if you are meeting people one-on-one to spread and “evangelize” the truth, because they will certainly have a lot of questions. You should try your best to anticipate their questions and give them well-researched answers that will get them more interested in doing the research themselves. Here are some ideas for evangelizing the truth about the Great Deception:

1. Give people a copy of this book as a gift to your loved ones and family members.
2. Take the afternoon off from work on April 15 every year. Print copies of the “We The People Foundation” (<http://www.givemeliberty.org>) adds in USA Today and posted on this website. Hand out the adds along with a pointer to the Family Guardian Website to everyone who begrudgingly comes to mail their tax return at the eleventh hour. People who come late usually owe money, and want to delay paying it. Tell them they can get EVERYTHING they paid back! This will get them really excited.
3. If you are retired, become a teacher of the tax laws in the public schools. As we stated in section 1.8.3, the IRS and the ABA are invited into public schools to “program and propagandize” kids on their legal obligation to pay taxes. Use the Freedom Of Information Act (FOIA) to request a schedule of IRS/ABA visits to schools regarding tax instruction. Arrange a similar “tax resistance” class the day before they arrive and tell the kids the WHOLE story! They will be boo’ed out of the room when they show up! You can also make a tape of your presentation and request that it be shown the day before the IRS/ABA arrive. If the school shows bias and will let the IRS and the ABA show up but not you, then sue them for discrimination.
4. Be excited and enthused about what you know. Tell people the truth has changed your life and your perspective forever! When you are passionate and enthused and informed, people will listen to you!

“Do your homework and know your facts, but remember that it’s PASSION that persuades!”

5. Spread the truth at social events, family gatherings, work, and every opportunity that presents itself. Print out little flyers and hand them out to people. Mention the Family Guardian Website and any others you think appropriate.
6. Gain access to the Public Access TV channel in your area. Get on there in a suit and tie and patiently tell people every chance you get about the federal income tax fraud. Point them to the Family Guardian Website if they want more information.
7. Send emails to the media. Email them copies of this book or point them at the Family Guardian Website. This is especially effective right around tax time (April 15 every year). Get them interested in doing a story on the illegality of the federal income tax.
8. Go to sporting events and hand out copies of the USA Today adds we have on the Family Guardian Website (in the Sovereignty Forms and Procedures area). Tell them they aren’t liable to pay federal income tax and give them our web address so they can download the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book.
9. Be ready to debate with anyone on a moment’s notice. Do your homework and be well-informed, because you will be very convincing if you have. If you aren’t sure about something, don’t guess, because people might research the answer and try to embarrass you. Try to develop trust and credibility with the people you are trying to convince by giving well-researched answers.
10. Join and sponsor tax freedom organizations that spread the truth, like “We the People” (<http://www.givemeliberty.org>).
11. Get a copy of several marketing databases from friends or public sources. Send out mass e-mailings to people who are in the database with the Public Letter we have on the Family Guardian Website and point readers to this website and other websites of that promote the truth about the income tax. We are developing an automated Microsoft Access database to simplify these mass mailings. Send hundreds or thousands of people an email pointing them to this website and every other website that exposes the truth!
12. Get people mad that they have been lied to in the IRS publications. And once you get them mad, ask them what they are going to do about it!

13. Show them some of the scandals that have been going on in Chapters 2 and 6 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 document to get them motivated and interested to learn more and researching the laws for themselves.
14. Help friends and relatives prepare their tax filings to free them of the need to pay most federal income taxes.
15. Organize a tax freedom group in your area. Make the focus of the group to educate people about the federal income tax fraud. Give lessons on the contents of this tax book and any others that you might find.
16. Do NOT make your efforts to spread the truth into a for-profit enterprise, because people will question your motives and your integrity. If you can't or don't want to be a volunteer, then we encourage you not to be involved at all, because you will damage the tax freedom movement and the credibility of the people in it.

It is very difficult for fear of the IRS and the tax laws to survive after people learn the truth and spread it. You can be the messenger of truth. You can be the Paul Revere that spreads the word that allows us to win the tax honesty Revolution and correct the massive fraud that only survives because of our ignorance, silence, apathy, disorganization, and fear.

4.5.2 Preparation

Once you have done everything you can to be a responsible American (not U.S., but American) Citizen, then the next thing to do is begin preparations for doing battle with the IRS. We show in this chapter what it takes to do a good job preparing for battle. Your Christian faith and liberty are the cornerstone of your battle preparation, because without the will of God and a personal relationship with Him first and foremost in your mind, then you are much more likely to lose the battle, as we can see below from the Bible, in Ephesians 6:11-17:

Put on the whole armor of God, that you may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil. 12 For we do not wrestle against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against spiritual hosts of wickedness in the heavenly places. 13 Therefore take up the whole armor of God, that you may be able to withstand in the evil day, and having done all, to stand. 14 Stand therefore, having girded your waist with truth, having put on the breastplate of righteousness, 15 and having shod your feet with the preparation of the gospel of peace; 16 above all, taking the shield of faith with which you will be able to quench all the fiery darts of the wicked one. 17 And take the helmet of salvation, and the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God.
[Eph. 6:11-17, Bible, NKJV]

A very good place to start in preparing yourself spiritually to do battle is to read our Family Constitution, Form #13.003 (<http://famguardian.org/Publications/FamilyConst/FamilyConst.htm>). This is an inspiring and detailed look at how to build healthy relationships with all the people in your life who you love and care about. It is based on very thorough research and Christian principles. We'd especially encourage you to read section 2.5.3 of that document, which is entitled "God's Memorandum to Us". That section is very inspiring, encouraging, and emotionally charged. You can download this book free from the following website:

Family Constitution, Form #13.003
<http://famguardian.org/Publications/FamilyConst/FamilyConst.htm>

4.5.2.1 Maintain a journal of all aspects of your case

Write in it using pen and date every entry. Whenever anything happens that affects your case, log that fact for later reference. Journals can be very helpful in organizing your case and reconstructing the time-related happenings in your case so you can better argue the case if it has to go to court.

Of course, computers are more useful for journaling, but they aren't as convenient or portable as a simple journal book. An excellent tool to facilitate the journaling process is our Family Legal Assistant (FLA) software, which is available free for the downloading from the Family Guardian Website at <http://famguardian.org/>.

4.5.2.2 Get Informed and Be Prepared!

"The British are Coming!"
 [Paul Revere] ----> "The IRS are coming!"

Knowledge is power.

The price of Liberty is eternal vigilance.

1 "My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge."
 2 [Hosea 4:6, Bible, NKJV]

3 "Knowledge will forever govern ignorance; and a people who mean to be their own governors must arm
 4 themselves with the power which knowledge gives."
 5 [James Madison, Letter to W.T. Barry, August 4, 1822]

6 Liberty cannot long survive without an educated and informed and God fearing populace that is willing to stick up for what 7 they believe. That is how this country was founded. We need to invest in ourselves and get educated about government,
 8 the political process, and especially the legal field. Passivity about these issues are the main reasons how we got to such a 9 point of oppression by our government at this time and why things will continue to get worse until more people get
 10 involved in the political process and in defending and litigating their rights.

11 The best place we know of to obtain materials for getting informed is the Sovereignty Education and Defense Ministry

21 4.5.2.3 Plan and Organize!

22 "Measure a thousand times and cut once."
 23 [Turkish Proverb]

24 You can't fight an organization without organization, and especially if that organization's chief goal is organized crime,
 25 extortion, and racketeering! There is nothing more important in the legal field than planning and organization. Of course
 26 there are other skills you will need as well, including good writing and presentation skills and a lot of patience and
 27 discipline to see your case through. But don't be discouraged, you can do it as thousands of individuals and companies
 28 have already done (see Taxation Topic, Section 17, Family Guardian Fellowship;
 29 <http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/taxes.htm> for Case Studies)! Remember that your fight to force the IRS to obey the 30 law is a war of attrition. They are counting on the fact that like most citizens (notice we didn't say taxpayers), you won't
 31 have the guts or the energy or the legal wherewithal to stick up for what you believe, and they believe that most Americans
 32 don't have the tenacity and moral and financial fortitude to defend their constitutional rights. The more preparation and 33 planning you do, the less likely they will be to want to litigate or compel you unlawfully. Don't ever give up and stick to
 34 what you believe in. It's not impossible and you can do it! The only way you can win the IRS mind game is to plan better
 35 and have more organization, energy, discipline, legal knowledge, vision, and skill than they can compete with or afford.
 36 And the less of YOUR money they get, the harder it will be to afford to litigate against you the next time or to afford expert
 37 legal advice. Another source of encouragement can be found in the fact that if you are wrongfully prosecuted, you can
 38 request an award of attorney fees against the IRS for wrongful prosecution. This will force them to pay your attorney fees 39 because of their errors in interpreting or applying the tax laws.

the industry standard word processor, Microsoft Word. You will need this skill because litigating your case will require good writing skills and excellent organization of your plan of attack.

We recommend getting Windows 10 and NOT earlier versions of Windows as operating systems. Make the password to your account long and ensure that you encrypt all directories having to do with your financial or property or business matters. This will prevent unwanted individuals from viewing your private information, and especially the IRS.

4.5.2.5 Join a Tax Freedom Organization

"[Every] purpose is established by counsel: and with good advice make war."
[Proverbs 20:18, Bible, NKJV]

*"A man who isolates himself seeks his own desire;
He rages against all wise judgment."*
[Prov. 18:1, Bible, NKJV]

*"In a multitude of people is a king's honor,
But in the lack of people is the downfall of a prince."*
[Prov. 14:28, Bible, NKJV]

The second best website on income tax reform we have found is called the Law Research and Registry (we are the BEST!). The site is a tremendous resource and provides forms and instructions for every aspect of tax litigation. This can be especially useful to pro se Americans who want to litigate themselves. It is found at:

<http://lr-n-r.org/>

They have an affiliates area that has a wealth of useful forms you can apply to your tax situation in winning against the IRS. They also have a community of members who help each other out with email and phone calls, as well as a tremendous set of learning and teaching resources. Highly recommended!

Think of it this way: a single pencil is easy to snap with your bare hands, but a bundle of pencils is not. By standing together, tax freedom fighters, using organizations like We The People Foundation (<http://www.givemeliberty.org>) and Save-A-Patriot Fellowship (<http://www.save-a-patriot.org>) can force bureaucrats back within the confines of the Law and arrest America's wild rush toward perpetual debt, economic slavery to the government, and a totalitarian socialist state.

The Supreme Court stated in the case American Communications Association v. Douds, 339 U.S. 382 (1950):

"It is not the function of our government to keep the citizen from falling into error; it is the function of the citizen to keep the government from falling into error."

It's regrettable that, in a "free country" private citizens need a nationwide "Neighborhood Crime Watch" organization to force the government to stay within the bounds of its own legal authority as stated in the law and keep its paws out of our back pocket, but, unfortunately, we do. That's why we should join and sponsor and volunteer to help these organizations!

We'd also like to emphasize that it's not enough to just passively join one of these organizations. We also must be very active participants, because as I said in the Preface to this document, if we don't hang together, the IRS will definitely ensure that we hang separately. Being an active participant means:

1. Sending regular donations to the organization. If you are no longer paying income taxes, you should send EXTRA money to these organizations, because chances are they helped you achieve the freedom that you enjoy. We'd recommend at least $400/year to an organization of your choice. We favor We The People Foundation (<http://www.givemeliberty.org>), because they are very politically active and "in your face" with the politicians in Washington, D.C.
2. Volunteering your time generously to help these organizations, including passing out pamphlets at public events, working in their office, and even starting a chapter for the organization in your area!
3. Logging in frequently to their websites and participating in the events they sponsor.
4. Helping recruit and educate new members by, for instance, making copies of this book and giving them as gifts to friends and loved ones.

5. Publicizing our free website and our free book by handing out flyers at popular public places (banks, libraries, military bases).

Get involved! The price of freedom is eternal vigilance. It's time for another American Revolutionary War Against tyranny and taxes and you are "Paul Revere".

Get the word out!!

One final important note. Tax law is a complicated subject and it is easy to be misled about the subject by even the most well-intentioned and sincere person, and this applies as equally to lawyers as it applies to non-lawyers. The same rules that apply to your treatment of the IRS therefore also apply to any tax freedom organization you might encounter: Always verify what people are telling you about your tax liability with your own in-depth legal research. A healthy bit of skepticism is always prudent and can keep you out of a lot of trouble in the long run. That is why we encourage you to investigate even the claims made in this book for yourself and refute anything and everything that you find is wrong. We get comments back all the time from our readers along these lines, which is how this book got to be so good. (Thanks!)

26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(14) defines the word "taxpayer" as:

26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(14) Definitions

Taxpayer

The term "taxpayer" means any person subject to any internal revenue tax.

Now if we look up the definition of "subject to" in Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1425, we find the following:

"Liable, subordinate, subservient, inferior, obedient to; governed or affected by; provided that; provided; answerable for. Homan v. Employers Reinsurance Corp., 345 Mo. 650, 136 S.W.2d. 289, 302. [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1425]

So being a "taxpayer" means being either someone who is liable to pay tax or who isn't liable but who has chosen to "volunteer" for the tax or be subservient to it. When one volunteers for the tax, they are considered to be liable because they assess themselves and claim they have taxable income, even if their income is not, in fact, taxable under the law. By definition then, a "taxpayer" is someone liable for paying tax no matter how you look at it. Incidentally, this is the term the government and especially the IRS uses to describe EVERYONE, which by implication deceives EVERYONE into thinking they are liable for the tax. They win the war before it ever gets started just by the language they use. You have to watch these weasels! You should therefore refuse to allow any IRS or State revenue office to call you a "taxpayer" and you should emphatically challenge every use of the word. Here is the way one of our readers humorously described it, and we LOVE his metaphor!:

I refuse to allow any IRS or State revenue office to call me or any client a "taxpayer". Just because I may look like one or have the attributes of one does not necessarily make me one. To one IRS lady, and I have no reason to doubt that she fits this category, I use the following example. "Miss you have all of the equipment to be a whore, but that does not make you one by presumption." Until it is proven by a preponderance of evidence I must assume you are a lady and you will be treated as such. Please have the same respect for me, and don't slander my reputation and defame my character by calling me a whore for the government, which is what a "taxpayer" is.
[Eugene Pringle]

Therefore, we should be VERY CAREFUL with the language we use, and NEVER describe ourselves as a "taxpayer" to anyone, and especially the IRS or the courts. Instead, use the term "American" and vehemently renounce anyone who uses the "taxpayer" word to describe us. When they use the word, tell them they are wrong and demand that they satisfy the burden of proof under the Administrative Procedures Act, 5 U.S.C. §556\(d\), which says:

Sec. 556. Hearings; presiding employees; powers and duties; burden of proof; evidence; record as basis of decision

(d) Except as otherwise provided by statute, the proponent of a rule or order has the burden of proof. Any oral or documentary evidence may be received, but the agency as a matter of policy shall provide for the exclusion of irrelevant, immaterial, or unduly repetitious evidence. A sanction may not be imposed or rule or order issued except on consideration of the whole record or those parts thereof cited by a party and supported by and in accordance with the reliable, probative, and substantial evidence. The agency may, to the extent consistent with the interests of justice and the policy of the underlying statutes administered by the agency, consider a violation of section 557\(d\) of this title sufficient grounds for a decision adverse to a party who has knowingly committed such violation or knowingly caused such violation to occur. A party is entitled to present his case or defense by oral or documentary evidence, to submit rebuttal evidence, and to conduct such cross-examination as may be required for a full and true disclosure of the facts. In rule making or determining claims for money or benefits or applications for initial licenses an agency may, when a party will not be prejudiced thereby, adopt procedures for the submission of all or part of the evidence in written form.

Always leave the burden of proving you are liable for tax up to the IRS or you will lose every time!

We also need to thoroughly understand how to apply the guidance in this section to legal settings and litigation. If we take the government into court to defend our Constitutional right to not pay income taxes, it is very important that we not use as the basis for our claim any statute from law that depends on us being a "taxpayer", because by doing so, we are claiming to be a "taxpayer"!

*"This record does not call upon us to examine into this challenge of the validity of these statutory provisions, similar as they are to those of many other states and of a seemingly equitable character, for the reason that the appellants, by their action in instituting a proceeding for the valuation of their stock, pursuant to these statutes, which is still pending, waived their right to assail the validity of them. Great Falls Mfg. Co. v. Atty. Gen. 124 U.S. 581, 31 L.Ed. 527, 8 Sup.Ct.Rep. 631; Electric Co. v. Dow, 166 U.S. 489, 41 L.Ed. 1088, 17 Sup.Ct.Rep. 645; Pierce v. Somerset R. They cannot claim the benefit of statutes and afterwards assail their validity. There is no sanctity in such a claim of constitutional right as prevents its being waived as any other claim of right may be."

Below is an example of just such a statute from the IRS Restructuring and Reform Act of 1998. Note that we have underlined and boldfaced the word “taxpayer” for emphasis:

SEC. 1203. TERMINATION OF EMPLOYMENT FOR MISCONDUCT.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Subject to subsection (c), the Commissioner of Internal Revenue shall terminate the employment of any employee of the Internal Revenue Service if there is a final administrative or judicial determination that such employee committed any act or omission described under subsection (b) in the performance of the employee's official duties. Such termination shall be a removal for cause on charges of misconduct.

(b) ACTS OR OMISSIONS.—The acts or omissions referred to under subsection (a) are—

- (1) willful failure to obtain the required approval signatures on documents authorizing the seizure of a taxpayer's home, personal belongings, or business assets;
 - (2) providing a false statement under oath with respect to a material matter involving a taxpayer or taxpayer representative;
 - (3) with respect to a taxpayer, taxpayer representative, or other employee of the Internal Revenue Service, the violation of—
 - (A) any right under the Constitution of the United States; or
 - (B) any civil right established under—
 - (i) title VI or VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964;
 - (ii) title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972;
 - (iii) the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967;
 - (iv) the Age Discrimination Act of 1975;
 - (v) section 501 or 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973; or
 - (vi) title I of the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990;
 - (4) falsifying or destroying documents to conceal mistakes made by any employee with respect to a matter involving a taxpayer or taxpayer representative;
 - (5) assault or battery on a taxpayer, taxpayer representative, or other employee of the Internal Revenue Service, but only if there is a criminal conviction, or a final judgment by a court in a civil case, with respect to the assault or battery;
 - (6) violations of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, Department of Treasury regulations, or policies of the Internal Revenue Service (including the Internal Revenue Manual) for the purpose of retaliating against, or harassing, a taxpayer, taxpayer representative, or other employee of the Internal Revenue Service;
 - (7) willful misuse of the provisions of section 6103 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 for the purpose of concealing information from a congressional inquiry;
 - (8) willful failure to file any return of tax required under the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 on or before the date prescribed therefor (including any extensions), unless such failure is due to reasonable cause and not to willful neglect;
 - (9) willful understatement of Federal tax liability, unless such understatement is due to reasonable cause and not to willful neglect; and
 - (10) threatening to audit a taxpayer for the purpose of extracting personal gain or benefit.
- (c) DETERMINATION OF COMMISSIONER.—
- (1) IN GENERAL.—The Commissioner of Internal Revenue may take a personnel action other than termination for an act or omission under subsection (a).
 - (2) DISCRETION.—The exercise of authority under paragraph (1) shall be at the sole discretion of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue and may not be delegated to any other officer. The Commissioner of Internal Revenue, in his sole discretion, may establish a procedure which will be used to determine whether an individual should be referred to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue for a determination by the Commissioner under paragraph (1).

 (3) NO APPEAL.—Any determination of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue under this subsection may not be appealed in any administrative or judicial proceeding.
 (d) DEFINITION.—For purposes of the provisions described in clauses (i), (ii), and (iv) of subsection (b)(3)(B), references to a program or activity receiving Federal financial assistance or an education program or activity receiving Federal financial assistance shall include any program or activity conducted by the Internal Revenue Service for a taxpayer.

If you try to prosecute an IRS agent and use any of the above statutes that use the word “taxpayer” as the legal basis for your claim, then you are a Fool with a capital “F”. You don’t need a statute like the above to sue an IRS agent, and if you cite the above statute, you are indirectly claiming that you are a “taxpayer”...BAD IDEA! Instead, all you need to do is invoke the equity jurisdiction of any federal court and show that your property rights were invaded and injured. You can cite as your authority, for instance, the Supreme Court case of Marbury v. Madison, which states:

“The very essence of civil liberty certainly consists in the right of every individual to claim the protection of the laws, whenever he receives an injury. One of the first duties of government is to afford that protection...”

“it is the general indisputable rule, that where there is a legal right, there is also a legal remedy by suit, or action at law, whenever that right is invaded....”

“The government of the United States has been emphatically termed a government of laws, and not of men. It will certainly cease to deserve this high appellation, if the laws furnish no remedy for the violation of a vested legal right...”

“The government of the United States is the latter description. The powers of the legislature are defined and limited; and that those limits may not be mistaken, or forgotten, the constitution is written. To what purpose are powers limited, and to what purpose is that limitation committed to writing, if these limits may, at any time, be passed by those intended to be restrained? The distinction between a government with limited and unlimited powers is abolished, if those limits do not confine the persons on whom they are imposed, and if acts prohibited and acts allowed, are of equal obligation. It is a proposition too plain to be contested, that the constitution controls any legislative act repugnant to it; or, that the legislature may alter the constitution by an ordinary act.”

You can also cite other parts of the U.S. codes as your basis, but only when they use the word “person” instead of “taxpayer” when referring to the injured party, which is going to be you. Here are a few examples of statutes that do not use the word “taxpayer” for the most part, and instead use the word “person”:

- 26 U.S.C. §6304: Fair tax collection practices
- 26 U.S.C. §7214: Offenses by Officers and Employees of the United States

Likewise, when you are dealing with state taxing authorities, watch your use of the word “this State” or “State of” or “State”. If you use these terms to describe your residency or yourself, this is tantamount to admitting that you are a resident of the federal zone who has no Constitutional rights! Here’s the federal definition of “State”:

26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(10) State. -- The term “State” shall be construed to include the District of Columbia, where such construction is necessary to carry out provisions of this title.

And here is California’s definition of “State”, right from the California Revenue and Taxation Code:

6017. “In this State” or “in the State” means within the exterior [outside] limits of the [Sovereign] state of California and includes [only] all territory within these limits owned by or ceded to the United States

 [which don’t include the 50 sovereign states but do include federal enclaves within those states]

You can read the last quote above for yourself at: <http://www.leginfo.ca.gov/cgi-bin/displaycode?section=rtc&group=17001-18000&file=17001-17039.1>. Instead of using “State of” or “this State”, you should just use the name of the state, such as “I’m a citizen of California and I live in California” rather than “I’m a citizen of the State of California and I live in the State of California.”

Similar arguments apply to the following important terms:

- “United States”
- “employee”
- “person”
- “includes”
- “income”
- “individual”
- “trade or business”

We can't very well tell you to stop using certain words without replacing them with something. We have therefore prepared a table showing you how you need to modify your language to avoid throwing yourself into a due process trap or creating false presumptions about yourself. The left column is the word you used to use and the middle column is the replacement word. The right column of the below table describes why you need to use the substitute word instead of the original word. The terms in the left column are in alphabetical order:

Table 4-2: Due process word traps to avoid

Common word	Replacement word	Reason for the change
“address”	“dwelling” and write address as follows: John Paul Jones © “without prejudice” c/o 4606 Any Court Oakland, California [99999]	The “Address” is a “federal area” commercial term.
“citizen of the United States”	“national” pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §§1101(a)(21) and “national of the United States*” under 22 C.F.R. §51.2 and “a person who, though not a citizen of the United States, owes permanent allegiance to the United States” under 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(22)(B).	Being a U.S. citizen is BAD because such persons have no rights.
“date of birth”	“nativity”	“Date of Birth” is a legal commercial term.
“home”	“dwelling”	26 U.S.C. §911 and 26 U.S.C. §162(a)(2) define your “tax home”.
“includes”	“means”	Includes is a slippery word that the government likes to use to basically turn a definition into a non-definition and violate your due process rights.
“income”	“monies”	The Supreme Court defines “income” as “corporate profit” and you aren't a corporation.
“name”	“Christian name and surname”	One's name in law states one's identity
“non-assumpsit”	NA	Sign “non-assumpsit” on any traffic ticket you get. Go to court within 3 days-ask if intend to pursue prosecution. If yes, demand that the government present a “verified complaint”. All crimes need an injured party and asking for a “verified complain” requires the government to produce an injured party. Traffic tickets don't have injured parties.
“person”	“human being”	A person is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(1) as an “individual” and an “individual” is defined in 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3) as an alien or nonresident alien. “U.S. citizens” are not included in the definition of “person”.
“residence”	“dwelling” (not domicile)	Residence is a place of conducting a “trade or

Common word	Replacement word	Reason for the change business”
“resident”	“transient foreigner” or “stateless person”	A “resident” is defined as someone who lives in the federal zone.
Signature	Add a copyright symbol next to your signature and put “Authorized Representative” and then put “All rights reserved without prejudice, U.C.C. 1-207”.	Signing without qualifying your signature or copyrighting it or reserving your rights invites creates the possibility that you may be signing away your rights and inviting the government to enter your name or personal information into their computer systems. They can’t enter anything copyrighted into their computer system.
“taxpayer”	“nontaxpayer” or “NOT a taxpayer as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(14)”	“taxpayers” are liable for tax and subject to the Internal Revenue Code, and you don’t want to be one of these!
“trade or business”	“Work not connected to a “public office” or performed in the “United States”	“trade or business” is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) as “the functions of a public office”. All “taxpayers” are public officers in the government.
“under penalty of perjury”	“I declare (or certify, verify, or state) under penalty of perjury under the laws of the United States of America 28 U.S.C. §1746(1) that the foregoing is true and correct”	This ensures that you don’t inadvertently fool the government doesn’t think that you are in the federal zone when you are signing.
“United States”	“United States of America”	Use “United States of America” to describe your “dwelling” place. In referring to the applicability of federal income taxes, qualify “United States” by adding the word “federal” to the beginning.
“U.S. citizen”	“national” pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §§1101(a)(21) and “national of the United States*” under 22 C.F.R. §51.2 and “a person who, though not a citizen of the United States, owes permanent allegiance to the United States” under 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(22)(B).	Being a statutory “U.S. citizen” as defined in 8 U.S.C. §1401 is BAD because such persons have no rights.
“wages”	“earnings” not connected with a “trade or business” from outside the “United States” which are part of a “foreign estate” pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(31)	26 U.S.C. §3401(a) defines “wages” as “all remuneration for services performed by an “employee” (a “public officer” of the U.S. government defined in 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(c)-1) for his “employer”. Since you aren’t an “employee” as legally defined, then you don’t earn “wages”.

1 IMPORTANT!: Any government form that you see with the above words in the left column, you should replace them
2 with the words in the middle column. Be sure to read and understand the whole table above before you start filling out
3 government forms, and especially tax or citizenship or voter registration or jury service forms. We have modified several
4 IRS forms to remove all the presumptions indicated above, and the modified forms appear on the Family Guardian Website
5 at the address below:

6 <http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Forms/IRS/IRSFormsPubs.htm>

7 Don’t let evil and idolatrous and greedy politicians, lawyers, and IRS employees distort and destroy the very meaning of 8 our language with their profane babblings, because:

“When words lose their meaning, people will lose their liberty.”
[Confucius, 500 B.C.]

Instead, God commands us to shun the “profane babblings” of such evildoers in 2 Timothy 2:15-17:

“Be diligent to present yourself approved to God, a worker who does not need to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth. But shun profane babblings for they will increase to more ungodliness. And their message will spread like cancer.”
[2 Timothy 2:15-17, Bible, NKJV]

Knowledge, diligent action, and speaking out against injustice frequently are the only weapons we have against the government and their evil propaganda. We need to learn to think and communicate with precision, passion, and force if we will ever win this war of words!

In the tax field, ignorance is NOT bliss: it is SLAVERY! We warn you throughout this book to not take anyone's word for it and to question and verify everything you can, including what is in this book. It's a necessary step in your empowerment and growth and progress toward personal sovereignty. We also do this because there is a massive amount of legal DISinformation in the tax freedom community that is readily available, especially on the Internet. Naively using or believing this information without validating and verifying its authenticity and relevance for yourself can and will get you into a LOT of trouble, not to mention very quickly destroy your credibility in a courtroom and with both the judge and the jury. Beware! Some of this disinformation is planted on the Internet deliberately by the government to mislead or sabotage efforts to end the income tax. Most of the disinformation, however, appears to be needlessly caused by a combination of the following causitive factors:

- Legal ignorance or inexperience of the author.
- Inability to use the law library to look up court cases and do legal research on what is presented BEFORE using it in court or administratively against the government.
- Did not follow our suggestion in section 4.5.1.5 earlier and sign up for an online legal research service such as Versuslaw.com. You must do this if you are going to be properly equipped to do battle with your enemy.
- Laziness in validating information sources.
- Procrastinating doing research until the last minute, when you are under the gun and the time available to do detailed research is very limited.

The time to prepare for war is long before the war starts and when you are not under the gun. You should daily be training your mind, building your information arsenal, and sharpening your sword for battle so that when the battle starts, you can have the right weapons in the waiting and strike swiftly and decisively to defeat your opponent before he even knows what hit him. As we say in the Navy:

If you believe everything that people, and especially the government, tell you or everything you read on a website about taxes, then you’re headed for BIG trouble eventually. The government loves incompetent opponents because they make sitting ducks in the courtroom. They are easy prey for extortion and plunder, both by the IRS and the legal profession. We want to spare you this anguish and keep you from becoming an easy target by replacing fear and ignorance with knowledge, wisdom, faith, and discretion.

A very important initial step in achieving sovereignty is visiting and familiarizing yourself with your local law library. You need to become as good as you can at doing legal research. Below is a list from the U.S. Government Printing Office (GPO) of Federal Depository Libraries that have all the federal and state laws, regulations, and court cases on file. Find one near you and pay them a visit for at least a solid month of weekends if you can:

http://www.gpo.gov/su_docs/locators/findlibs/index.html

You should do this field trip BEFORE you begin your administrative war with the IRS, ask for a refund, or receive your first Notice of Deficiency, if possible. Your efforts to educate yourself will be apparent to the IRS clerk reading your letters and may cause them to believe that you will be such a “high maintenance taxpayer” that they will just leave you alone and go for the low hanging fruit instead: the next poor ignorant sucker who hasn’t read our book or done anything to prepare himself for battle.

A good place to start is to go to the beginning of this book in the Table of Authorities and look up several references from each of the categories below:

- Constitution provisions
- Statutes
- Regulations
- Cases
- Other authorities

If you find any errors in our Table of Authorities, please let us know so we can fix them promptly. In order to look up legal references, you must understand legal abbreviations and how case and authority cites work. Chapter 11 of this book is the best place to learn the basics of federal tax litigation, what a legal cite is, and how to do legal research. Below is a link to an alphabetized list of most of the major legal abbreviations which we have prepared and posted on the Family Guardian Website for your reuse:

Legal Abbreviations, Family Guardian Fellowship
<http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/LegalRef/Abbreviations/LegalAbbrev.htm>

We have also prepared a list of online legal research sources at the link below:

Legal Research Sources, Family Guardian Fellowship
<http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/LegalRef/LegalResrchSrc.htm>

Both of the previous two links appear in the following under “LEGAL REFERENCE” in left window:

Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Online, Form #10.004
<http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/FormsInstr.htm>

If you are having trouble locating certain authorities, ask the Reference Librarian at your local law library, who knows where to find most types of legal resources.

What good is all the knowledge and research skill in the world if you don’t know how to organize or explain what you know or defend it in an argument with an “arrogant asshole” lawyer opponent? After you have mastered the above, you will therefore also need to polish your debate skills. A good place to start is on a tax researcher group on Yahoo or MSN. There are a lot of tax attorneys lurking anonymously on these boards who just love arguing and sharpening their sword.

Another good place is to engage debates via email at famous anti-tax protester sites. The lower left hand corner of the Taxation Topic has a list of these anti-tax protester websites at:

Taxation Topic Page, Family Guardian Fellowship
<http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/taxes.htm>

You can also join a Toastmasters in your area to sharpen your debate and public speaking skills. You need to learn to feel comfortable speaking in crowds so that you will feel comfortable in a courtroom. You can also form a tax research group in your area by standing up a website and holding twice monthly meetings. Hold mock trials and help each other out at the meetings by sharing research and forms. You can also watch CourtTV on your cable network.

Another very good way to learn is to watch the professionals at work. Take several days off work and go to your local federal courthouse. Arrive early and examine the docket. Sit in on a several tax trials and hearings so you can learn courtroom etiquette. Dress so you look like an attorney and carry a briefcase around so they will mistake you for counsel. This is your camouflage for undercover operations in enemy territory. Start up a chat when the hearing ends before the lunch hour. Introduce yourself to every judge and attorney in every courtroom so they will recognize you and know you by name. They won't know what hit them when their number comes up later and you are sitting opposite them in the courtroom. Tell them you are "clerking" for another attorney, which is true, and that "attorney" is the one you will become after they teach you the ropes with their "On-The-Job" training in front of you! The person that future "attorney" will be representing is the artificial you, your "legal twin", the all caps fictitious "taxpayer" version of you that the IRS refers to when they correspond: While at the courthouse, ask judges what they think of the attorneys you watched litigating when lunch recess begins and the people are filing out. Then go to the clerk's office and check out the case file on some of the cases you want to watch BEFORE the hearing. It's very educational. After you find some of the best attorneys at work, check out the casefile for some of the cases he is working and photocopy some of his pleadings to get ideas on how to make your own templates for various types of pleadings. That's what we do: Fight fire with fire! Use your opponent's own work against him. Set your sights high and learn from the best for free! How do you compete with that?

Lastly, you must become skilled at using a word processor, and internet browser, and a computer. Our favorite word processor is Microsoft Word, which was used to write this book and which is indispensable when creating correspondence and legal pleadings. We cover buying your computer earlier in section 4.5.2.4 and how to secure your computer later in section 4.5.3.1.

4.5.3 Making Yourself Judgment Proof

"A prudent man foresees evil and hides himself, but the simple pass on and are punished. By humility and fear of the Lord are riches and honor and life. Thorns and snares are in the way of the perverse; he who guards his soul will be far from them."
 [Prov. 22:3, Bible, NKJV]

After you have made your preparations for battle, and girded yourself with knowledge, wisdom, truth, faith, and liberty, the next step is to establish and fortify your defenses against the several legally illiterate and in some cases wicked and dishonest people you will be dealing with in the IRS and the federal courts. Note that we aren't saying all government employees are wicked and dishonest, but the IRS seems to attract more than its fair share of the dregs of society. This was true in Jesus' time and it's even more true now! By doing this, you will be in an offensive mode with your opponent, rather than constantly on the defensive.

[U.S. v. Dickerson, 413 F.2d. 1111, 1969]

Privacy and the law are the only protections you have for your freedom and liberty. The Fourth Amendment of the Constitution protects our right to privacy by preventing unlawful search and seizure of our possessions. However, in the event that those protections are blatantly and illegally violated by the IRS, it always makes sense to take preemptive measures to protect your privacy from unwanted intrusion should any of your information or possessions unwittingly or unexpectedly get into the "hostile" hands of a socialist lawbreaking extortionist of the IRS. Below are a few practical ideas to help you accomplish this goal:

1. Computer setup:

- 1.1. Add a password to your computer's BIOS (Basic Input Output System). This way, people cannot tamper with the boot setup of your machine or even boot it up without having a password.
- 1.2. Boot your computer into the BIOS screen, and set the computer to boot ONLY from the hard disk and to not check the floppy drive. This way, people cannot boot from a floppy drive and use a DOS program to inspect and unsecure your machine.
- 1.3. Use Windows 10 rather than earlier versions. This will ensure that users who want to examine or steal information off your computer will have a MUCH harder time because:
 - 1.3.1. Every user who wants to access information must have a user account and an assigned password, or they won't get past the login.
 - 1.3.2. Windows 10 has a much more refined implementation with better security protections.
 - 1.3.3. Windows 10 implements file and directory on-the-fly encryption.
- 1.4. Change the username of your default Windows 10 "Administrator" to some other name that only you know. Most cyber attacks hit on the "Administrator" or some other privileged and known account and simply iterate until they stumble on the correct password.
- 1.5. Do not use an account with administrator privileges for your normal work. That way, if you do get infected with a virus during your usual work, the amount of damage the virus can do will be very limited.
- 1.6. Lock down your Windows 10 account security: This will prevent hackers from trying to crack in:
 - 1.6.1. Login to your machine using an account that has administrator privileges.
 - 1.6.2. From your desktop select START->RUN and then type in "gpedit.msc" and hit ENTER. The Group Policy Editor window will appear.
 - 1.6.3. In the Local Computer Policy/Computer Configuration/Windows Settings/Security Settings/Account Lockout directory of the Group Policy Editor, make the following security changes:
 - 1.6.3.1. Account lockout threshold=5 invalid logon attempts (or less depending on your preferences). This will ensure that if someone tries to crack your administrator password from over the Internet, they will be locked for 30 minutes out after 5 tries.
 - 1.6.3.2. Account lockout duration=30 minutes (or more)

- 1.6.4. In the Local Computer Policy/Computer Configuration/Windows Settings/Security Settings/Password Policy directory of the Group Policy Editor, make the following security changes:
 - 1.6.4.1. Minimum password length=8 characters (or more). Use complex passwords that people can't guess.
- 1.7. Buy and install firewall software if your computer is connected to the Internet. An inexpensive and effective product for personal use is the Symantec Personal Firewall, available from <http://www.symantec.com>.
 - 1.7.1. Train the firewall software to permit only http transfers and disallow all other things, like cookies and Trojan horse backdoors like the SubSeven Trojan.
 - 1.7.2. Have the firewall log all information flow to and from your machine, including web hits.
 - 1.7.3. Scan the log of the firewall at least weekly to determine if your system has had security breaches. Chances are, you have had several Trojan attacks on your system if it is normally connected to the internet and always on, and especially if it is a web server that someone wants to shut down. Look in the firewall log especially for programs on your computer that are transferring unauthorized information about you out of your computer. The most prevalent culprit of this are finance programs, including QuickBooks and Quicken. Watch out! We needed the firewall to shut down these Inuit programs!
- 1.8. Buy and install antivirus software. An inexpensive and effective product is Symantec Norton Antivirus available from <http://www.symantec.com/>.
- 1.9. Uninstall or disable a program called Webhancer, which sends information about your web viewing habits to third parties without your knowledge or consent. You can do so by selecting START->SETTINGS->CONTROL PANEL->ADD/REMOVE PROGRAMS and then uninstalling Webhancer.
- 1.10. If to have to write down your passwords somewhere, then don't write them down clear text! Instead, swap certain predetermined digits in the password and make sure you are the only one who knows the scrambling algorithm. Keep your written passwords locked up in a safe place.
- 1.11. We recommend that you encrypt all finance, property, contact, litigation, and business-related information by putting it in a single subdirectory. If you right-click on the directory from within Windows 2000 and look at the properties of that directory, go to the "General tab" and click on the "Advanced" button. Then apply encryption to the directory.
- 1.12. Ensure that you install a virus checker and keep your virus files up to date at all times. Scan your computer at least weekly. Hackers or IRS agents can email you a virus that snoops on you and sends information about you back to their "electronic eavesdropping" department.
- 1.13. Most of the time, use a user account on your system that does not have administrator rights. That way, if you accidentally run a virus-infected program that you either downloaded or someone emailed to you, the program won't install successfully and therefore the damage it can do to your system will be severely limited.
- 1.14. DO NOT double-click on or run ANY kind of executable file that anyone emails to you, because this is the most common method for infecting systems with viruses. This includes files with any of the following extensions. These files can install Trojans in your system and corrupt your system so bad that you will have to completely start over:
 - 1.14.1. *.VBS
 - 1.14.2. *.BAT
 - 1.14.3. *.PIF
 - 1.14.4. *.EXE
 - 1.14.5. *.COM
- 1.15. If you have to install executable programs on your system, do so from only trusted commercial sources using programs provided on CD-ROM.
- 1.16. Maintain an emergency computer first-aid kit in a zip lock bag in a safe place at all times. This kit should contain your operating system disks, driver disks, and hardware reference manual for your computer, as well as setup parameters, like phone numbers of your ISP, passwords for your ISP access, etc. Use this Computer First-Aid kit in case of emergencies in order to quickly restore your system to fully functional status.
- 1.17. Backup your computer weekly and keep at least one backup offsite in a secret place in case your computer or hard disk either gets stolen or confiscated. The backup should hopefully be password protected or if the backup media isn't password protected, it should be locked up for safekeeping.
- 1.18. If you are running Windows 2000, you also might want to buy a second hard drive that is the same size and preferably the same brand and model number as your original drive. Plug the second hard drive into your computer, reboot, and then use the second drive to create a mirror of your entire computer hard disk using the Computer Management, Disk Management node. After you have mirrored your entire hard drive, take the secondary hard disk and move it offsite somewhere that is not connected with your name or lock it up in a safe place. If your computer ever gets stolen or confiscated by the IRS mafia, then you can go retrieve your hard disk and very quickly be back up and running. You might want to retrieve the backup disk every few weeks and resync it with the master in order to make sure it is current at all times. Windows 2000 automatically handles the resyncing when you plug in the secondary drive if you have the two drives mirrored and have set up the mirror properly.

2. Electronic privacy, email, and postal mail:

- 2.1. Send all email regarding finance or business or litigation using Bitlocker encryption. You can get information about Bitlocker encrypters from: <http://www.microsoft.com/>.
- 2.2. Check with your Internet Service Provider (ISP) to ensure that they don't provide information about your Internet usage patterns to third parties or in response to subpoenas.
- 2.3. If you are using Microsoft Word or Excel or Access, assign a password in order to view or open these files if they relate to business, finance, or litigation issues. This will keep prying eyes out. Make the passwords as long as possible. If you are using Microsoft Access, use the User Level Security Wizard to add user security to your database and also encrypt the database so it can't be scanned and decoded manually or with "snooping software".
- 2.4. Obtain statements from Microsoft of the following:
We do not reveal or provide to any third parties or governments access to tools, software, or methods that would facilitate breaking into our products once security or passwords are applied to data produced by our products.

3. Business dealing:

- 3.1. When you make application to any organization for any kind of service or benefit, ask the clerk what fields are optional and what fields are mandatory. Fill in the fewest fields you can on any application form to give people the minimum information possible about yourself.
- 3.2. Ensure that those people who you deal with relative to your business and financial dealings have signed a nondisclosure agreement regarding information about you and your accounts and dealings. This will prevent release of any information about you.
- 3.3. If you are an employer, avoid obtaining an employer ID number. If you hire only U.S. citizens and they work exclusively in the 50 union states, there would appear to be no reason to have an employer ID number or to do withholding, unless of course the employees themselves insist on "volunteering". This will keep you out of the IRS' scrutiny.

4. General:

- 4.1. Buy and use a paper shredder. Destroy every piece of business or financial correspondence you are throwing away! That way no one can go through your trash and get evidence you don't want them having.
- 4.2. Do not provide your social security number to anyone unless you cannot obtain a benefit without it, and even then, ensure that the organization who takes it does not share that information with outside organizations or allow it to be used to search for you by outside organizations.
- 4.3. Maintain the original copies of all documents in a safe place away from your residence, and under a name other than yourself to avoid it being found. Keep as many of them as possible in encrypted electronic form on your hard disk. Scan them in with your scanner and save them to disk rather than paper form.
- 4.4. Do NOT use cordless or cellular phones in any conversations that you have regarding finances. The air waves are a public resource and it is perfectly legal to surveil and record otherwise confidential conversations without a warrant if they are transmitted over the air waves.

5. Financial conduct:

- 5.1. Ensure that any financial accounts you open do not use Social Security Numbers. You can get an account without an SSN by being a nonresident alien and filing a form W-8 when you open the account. If you can't find a bank that will open an account without an SSN, you can open overseas accounts instead.
- 5.2. After you have taken the appropriate measures from Chapter 8 ("Solutions"), ensure that you discontinue filing 1040 so that you don't provide any information to the IRS that they can use to keep track of you. File 4868's or a Tax Statement instead.
- 5.3. Conduct as many of your transactions in cash or gold as you can.
- 5.4. Use money orders where you can instead of personal checks, and especially to pay your state or federal government any amount due in taxes. This way they cannot determine where your financial accounts are. Do NOT accept direct deposit of tax your refund from the state or federal government.
- 5.5. Do not maintain safe deposit boxes, because they are required by law to have a social security number, which allows the IRS, creditors, and legal opponents to seize the assets in them. Instead, hide your assets in a safe place as far away from banks as possible. Alternatively, open a safe deposit box without an SSN by filing a W-8 with the bank..

6. Legal dealings:

6.1. Create a trust and put assets under the trust so that they will be harder to track down. Refuse to provide a social security number for any of the trust holders to make it harder to search for the trust. Form the trust overseas if they won't permit you to establish the trust without an SSN.

7. Marriage/family:

7.1. Have a prenuptial agreement or marriage contract between you and your spouse that respects the right of each party to have "separate property" and invalidates the idea of "community property", and especially if you are marrying or living in a community property state. This will allow you to protect each other's assets for safekeeping when there are legal actions against the other spouse. Without the protection of a prenuptial agreement and the absence of jurisdiction by the state over your marriage, creditors and the IRS can come after the assets of both parties to satisfy the liabilities of only one of them. A sample pre-nuptial agreement for California can be found in Chapter 9 of the Family Constitution, Form #13.003, available free for the asking from the author of this document or from the website at <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>.

7.2. Ensure that your marriage contract protects the privacy of each spouse by prohibiting disclosing of the address or any contact information about the other spouse to third parties, and especially financial institutions or the IRS.

7.3. If a creditor or agent of government plunder illegally goes after your assets in court, then transfer your assets to the separate property of your spouse for safekeeping during the litigation process, so that you will be "judgment proof".

8. Records and evidence:

8.1. DO NOT admit to the existence of any records to ANYONE! You waive your right not to produce them if the IRS knows about the records and they can compel you to provide them!

8.2. Only present records or evidence to third parties if it will advantage your case and not expose or implicate you criminally in any way.

8.3. When you must present or provide information, for instance in response to a subpoena or subpoena duces tecum, ensure that you provide everything you already told people you have (which should be nothing) and as little as possible.

9. Phone Calls

9.1. You should install Caller ID blocking on your phone for outgoing calls and Caller ID for incoming calls. Buy a service from your phone company so that all people who call you MUST disclose their phone number, so you know who is calling.

9.2. Whenever you call a toll free number, such as one that starts with "888" or "800" number, you unwittingly reveal your phone number, and this applies even if you have Caller ID blocking installed on your phone line!

9.3. If you must communicate with a government organization on their toll free number, then we recommend one of the following two approaches:

9.3.1. Calling from a phone booth so that disclosure of the number won't reveal your home phone.

9.3.2. Calling the operator and having them connect the call without revealing your number. There is an additional charge but it is easy to do.

10. Social Security Numbers

Don't give out your Social Security Number! It's a crime to force someone to reveal it:

TITLE 42 - THE PUBLIC HEALTH AND WELFARE

CHAPTER 7 - SOCIAL SECURITY

SUBCHAPTER II - FEDERAL OLD-AGE, SURVIVORS, AND DISABILITY INSURANCE BENEFITS

Sec. 408. Penalties

(a) In general

Whoever -...

(8) discloses, uses, or compels the disclosure of the social security number of any person in violation of the laws of the United States; shall be guilty of a felony and upon conviction thereof shall be fined under title 18 or imprisoned for not more than five years, or both.

Also, during audits or interactions with the IRS, the Paperwork Reduction act specified the maximum information that the IRS can legally ask you for. Refer to the table located in 26 C.F.R. §602.101. The IRS cannot ask you for more information than this Table shows is required, in association with any demand for information made under any given code section from Title 26 (the Internal Revenue Code).

Lastly, the IRS and state taxing authorities are required to protect the privacy of the information you send them. Refer to IRS Publication 1075 entitled Tax Security Guidelines for Federal, State, and Local Agencies for further information.

As was said in section 4.14.6 of the Great IRS Hoax et seq, you are making a BIG mistake when you get a state marriage license. Here is some specific help based on your marriage situation:

1. Not married yet

- 1.1. Complete and file the Notice of Intent to Marry in Section 3.4.1 and file with your county recorder.
- 1.2. Both parties get independent legal counsel of their own. Each has their own family law attorney review the Marriage Contract in Section 3.4.2 and make the necessary modifications in a way that is acceptable to both parties.
- 1.3. The two parties and their attorneys and three witnesses sign two original copies of the marriage contract. Note that the signing MUST happen before the wedding. Each party gets their own copy of the contract and puts it in a safe place. The contract is NOT provided to third parties or filed with the county courthouse.
- 1.4. Get married, and have the priest, three witnesses, and the spouses sign in two family bibles...one for her and one for him. This is all the proof you need of a common law marriage.

2. Already married

- 2.1. Both parties get independent legal counsel of their own. Each has their own family law attorney review the Marriage Contract in Section 3.4.2 and make the necessary modifications in a way that is acceptable to both parties.
- 2.2. Get divorced by normal methods prescribed by your state by filing the appropriate papers with the family law court in your county. The best way to do this is with a summary dissolution and for both of you to do it in pro per. That way no attorneys need be involved and there is not litigation.
- 2.3. After the parties are divorced, the two parties and their attorneys and three witnesses sign two original copies of the marriage contract. Each party gets their own copy of the contract and puts it in a safe place. The contract is NOT provided to third parties or filed with the county courthouse.

4.5.3.3 Use an internet and postal “remailer” service

An important part of protecting your privacy is to use a “re mailing service” when corresponding with the IRS, any part of the government, or your financial institutions. Remailers are preferred over P.O. boxes or boxes at Mailboxes etc. or other outlets because regulations regarding P.O. boxes require the party who owns them to provide the physical address where they live, presumably in the interests of helping to cut down on mail fraud, which we don't condone either. A remailing service basically:

1. Accepts either email or postal mail addressed to you and redirects it to your real address.
2. Accepts outbound email or postal mail from you and changes the source email or postal address.

This approach is perfectly legal and very powerful for maintaining complete privacy and confidentiality, both geographically and electronically. To find an email remailer service, simply search for the word "remailer" on the Internet, and you will be amazed at what you find.

To find a postal remailer service, search on the Internet with the phrase "remailer AND letter". If you don't want to pay for a postal remailer service, you can use a friend to forward your mail as well.

Whatever approach you decide on, ensure that there is no way contractually that they are allowed to give out your real identity or physical address, whether it be by court order or by some government agent calling your provider up and simply asking. If the provider can give out information about you under any circumstance, then you are wasting your money to pay for the service.

4.5.3.4 Get an Opinion Letter from a Tax Professional

Related forms:

- [S. Jackson Opinion Letter
http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Forms/OpinionLtrs/JacksonSteadman.htm](http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Forms/OpinionLtrs/JacksonSteadman.htm)

The purpose of an opinion letter is as a defense for Citizens against "Willful Failure To File" charges under 26 U.S.C. §7203. The need for one arises out of the U.S. Supreme Court case of Cheek v. United States, 498 U.S. 192 (1991), which was discussed in Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302, Section 3.14.30. In this case, the Supreme court of the United States concluded that a subjective belief that one is not liable to pay income taxes is something the jury must consider in determining the aspect of "willfulness". The failure can't be willful if it was your understanding that you did not owe income tax, and if you got that opinion from a licensed professional. There is no better way to prove that you had good reason to believe that you did not owe income tax than to have in your possession an affidavit signed under penalty of perjury by a tax professional stating that you had no "gross income" under 26 U.S.C. §861 income "sources." Section 5.2 of this document has some sample opinion letters you might want to use.

4.5.3.5 Educate and Screen Your Employer, Financial Institutions, and County Recorder

It's no secret that most employers, financial institutions, and the county recorders and the less educated people working at these organizations simply don't know what the federal laws say about the lack of authority of the Internal Revenue Service to lien and levy and seize both real and personal property without a court order. They aren't equipped to be legal experts and don't want to be. When these institutions receive an IRS Form 668-A\(c\)\(DO\) "Notice of Levy" or a IRS Form 668-B "Levy" from the IRS (which incidentally the IRS is not authorized to institute), it is very common that financial institutions won't question the authority of the IRS to levy such assets under law. Instead, they will blindly surrender over to the IRS whatever proceeds are asked for by the agent, often without the consent or approval or even the knowledge of the account holder. County recorders will record illegal liens on property issued by the IRS on a "Notice of tax lien" statement. If the institution improperly or illegally honors the request, then the financial institution, county clerk, and/or the IRS agent can both be held liable for violating the regulations and the Fifth Amendment. The IRS agent can also be criminally charged in such an instance under 26 U.S.C. §7214 and may lose his job or the agency can be fined between $100,00 and $1,000,000!

With the above in mind, it's very important that you choose financial institutions to park your assets in that are very familiar with the legal authority of the IRS and state taxation authorities to lien, levy, and seize property in satisfaction of a tax debt. Even if the financial institution or county recorder isn't familiar with the laws on tax liens and levies, you can often win them over by taking the time to patiently educate both them and their legal counsel on the authority of the IRS to seize, lien, and levy property. You are invited to use materials provided in this book to that end and you should do this whenever you open a new account at any institution and if you own real property in your name. If you haven't already done so, you should also do it for all existing accounts that you have.

Below is the actual law for you to read for yourself and for use in providing to your financial institution to educate them on the authority of the IRS to use force (distrain):

26 U.S.C. §6331. Levy and distraint

(a) Authority of Secretary

If any person liable to pay any tax neglects or refuses to pay the same within 10 days after notice and demand, it shall be lawful for the Secretary to collect such tax (and such further sum as shall be sufficient to cover the expenses of the levy) by levy upon all property and rights to property (except such property as is exempt under section 6334) belonging to such person or on which there is a lien provided in this chapter for the payment of such tax. Levy may be made upon the accrued salary or wages of any officer, employee, or elected official, of the United States, the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of the United States or the District of Columbia, by serving a notice of levy on the employer (as defined in section 3401(d)) of such officer, employee, or elected official. If the Secretary makes a finding that the collection of such tax is in jeopardy, notice and demand for immediate payment of such tax may be made by the Secretary and, upon failure or refusal to pay such tax, collection thereof by levy shall be lawful without regard to the 10-day period provided in this section.

(b) Seizure and sale of property

The term "levy" as used in this title includes the power of distraint and seizure by any means. Except as otherwise provided in subsection (e), a levy shall extend only to property possessed and obligations existing at the time thereof. In any case in which the Secretary may levy upon property or rights to property, he may seize and sell such property or rights to property (whether real or personal, tangible or intangible).

In most cases, the IRS "Notice of Levy" is sent out with ONLY paragraph (b) above on the back, and with paragraph (a) conspicuously removed (I wonder why?...those IRS scoundrels!). You should ensure that the financial institution and the county recorder have read the WHOLE of section 6331 and understand the definition of "employee" appearing in 26 U.S.C. §3401(c), which reads:

26 U.S.C. §3401(c)

Employee

For purposes of this chapter, the term "employee" includes [is limited to] an officer, employee, or elected official of the United States, a State, or any political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing. The term "employee" also includes an officer of a corporation.

You can view this section for yourself on the web at:

<http://law.cornell.edu/uscode/text/26/6331>

Your financial institution and the county recorder should also read the definition of "employee" found in 5 U.S.C. Sec. 2105:

2105. DEFINITIONS

- (a) For the purpose of this title, "employee", except as otherwise provided by this section or when specifically modified, means an officer and an individual who is -
- (1) appointed in the civil service by one of the following acting in an official capacity -
 - (A) the President;
 - (B) a Member or Members of Congress, or the Congress;
 - (C) a member of a uniformed service;
 - (D) an individual who is an employee under this section;
 - (E) the head of a Government controlled corporation; or
 - (F) an adjutant general designated by the Secretary concerned under section 709(c) of title 32;
 - (2) engaged in the performance of a Federal function under authority of law or an Executive act; and
 - (3) subject to the supervision of an individual named by paragraph (1) of this subsection while engaged in the performance of the duties of his position.

[...skipped a few entries since irrelevant...]

(d) A Reserve of the armed forces who is not on active duty or who is on active duty for training is deemed not an employee or an individual holding an office of trust or profit or discharging an official function under or in connection with the United States because of his appointment, oath, or status, or any duties or functions performed or pay or allowances received in that capacity.

It ought to be clear that only those “public officers” who depend on a privilege granted to the government by virtue of the authority they exercise in carrying their duties are subject to distraint or force in the collection of taxes owed.

Another interesting fact is that the use of distraint in the collection of taxes is ONLY authorized for use by the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, and Firearms but NOT the IRS. The parallel table of authorities in the Code of Federal Regulations makes this very plain, in that it shows that the parallel authority for 26 U.S.C. §6331 shows the following:

TITLE 27--ALCOHOL, TOBACCO PRODUCTS AND FIREARMS CHAPTER I--BUREAU OF ALCOHOL, TOBACCO AND FIREARMS, DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY
SUBCHAPTER F--PROCEDURES AND PRACTICES
PART 70--PROCEDURE AND ADMINISTRATION

The above clearly indicates that distraint is NOT authorized in the collection of income taxes appearing under 26 C.F.R. Section 6331, and is ONLY authorized for licensed, privileged, regulated industries involving the sale or manufacture of alcohol, tobacco, and firearms. You can view the parallel table of authorities on the web at the website below:

http://www.access.gpo.gov/nara/cfr/parallel/parallel_table.html

Following the education process of your financial institution(s), it is necessary to put your foot down by telling them that you will with certainty withdraw your money, close your account, and abandon them if they will not sign a form stating that they:

1. Have a fiduciary duty to protect and not give away assets in your account.
2. Understand the law and the authority of the IRS and state taxing authorities to lien, levy, and/or seizure property as described in 26 U.S.C. §6331.
3. That 26 U.S.C. §6331 defines and constrains the authority of the Secretary of the Treasury to lien, levy, and seize property so that distraint may ONLY be used in the case of “public officers” of the United States government.
4. That private citizens of the 50 union states who are not appointed or elected officials of the United States government may not be the subject of a valid lien, levy, or seizure.
5. That the parallel authorities for 26 U.S.C. §6331 reference 27 C.F.R. Chapter I, Subchapter F, Part 70 and are connected with ONLY the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, and Firearms but NOT the IRS. The IRS therefore has no power of distraint when it comes to income tax delinquency and collections.

A simple contract indicating the above that you and your financial institution can sign appears in Section 3.5.2 for you to reuse. This contract is useful to keep the IRS from stealing your assets illegally with the cooperation and blessing of the financial institution and facilitated by the ignorance of the people working at that institution. In the event that your financial institution won't sign this contract, then you should immediately close your account and look for a more cooperative institution, because sooner or later, your assets will just magically disappear and you will have to litigate against both the IRS and the institution in order to get them back.

We also have a letter from the IRS posted on the Family Guardian Website admitting that distraint (force) may only legally be used against “public officers” of the U.S. government that might help to convince your financial institution of the above. See:

<http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Evidence/Jurisdiction/ClaudieBakerLetter.pdf>

4.5.3.6 Close Your Safe Deposit Boxes and Put Valuables in a Hidden Place

All safe deposit boxes are required by law to have your social security number or other identifying information associated with them. Most banks will not grant you a safe deposit box without a Social Security Number. Banks can then quickly locate that box on behalf of the IRS if they are on a fishing expedition to get evidence to illegally prosecute you for being a tax protester or not paying your "unlawful" income tax.

4.5.3.7 Move Personal Financial Records to a Hidden Place

Do NOT keep financial these records at your residence if you are being prosecuted by the IRS! If you put them at another location, ensure that it is not connected with your name or any identifying numbers associated with you or your address. A friend, for instance, could keep the records for you. That way, when the IRS does an asset search or a search for safe deposit boxes by Social Security Number, they will find nothing and can't seize anything that might damage your legal defense.

Keep electronic copies of your financial records in encrypted form on your computer so you can still organize your defense, and back them up regularly. Keep the encrypted back-up with the hidden records in case they seize your computer also. Microsoft Access, for instance, allows you to create an encrypted, password-protected database. Microsoft Excel and Word, for instance, allow you to assign passwords to spreadsheets and word processing documents so that you can't open them up without a password. These can be very handy approaches for protecting your privacy.

Finally, NEVER, under any circumstances, admit to the existence of any kind of records to anyone. If you must provide records, then provide the minimum subset needed to advantage your case and not subject you to criminal prosecution. If you tell your opponent you have records, then you implicitly forfeit your 5th Amendment right to not provide them, even if they would incriminate you!

We'd like to emphasize that the suggestions in this section is not intended to violate 26 U.S.C. §7206 item (4), which makes it a crime to conceal assets otherwise lawfully owed:

(4) Removal or concealment with intent to defraud.

Removes, deposits, or conceals, or is concerned in removing, depositing, or concealing, any goods or commodities for or in respect whereof any tax is or shall be imposed, or any property upon which levy is authorized by section 6331 with intent to evade or defeat the assessment or collection of any tax imposed by this title; or shall be guilty of a felony and, upon conviction thereof, shall be fined not more than $100,000 ($500,000 in the case of a corporation), or imprisoned not more than 3 years, or both, together with the costs of prosecution.

If the other options presented elsewhere in this document are observed, then the reader will lawfully owe no income taxes and therefore, it will not be a criminal act to follow the suggestions in this section. We know who the real criminal is here, don't we?

4.5.3.8 Move Your Assets to Banks that Don't Require Social Security Numbers

IRS finds your assets to unlawfully seize using your social security number. Some banks don't require SSN's, and especially overseas banks.

When you open bank accounts, use the AMENDED IRS Form W-8BEN filled out per the instructions at the link below so that you can open an account based on your true status as a nonresident alien not engaged in a "trade or business" and therefore who is not required to have or use identifying numbers:

4.5.3.9 Avoid Using Banks

YOU CAN STILL "TAKE IT TO THE BANK" --AND CRY ALL THE WAY HOME!!!

by: William Huff, Sr., Editor of Reasonable Action, a newsletter of the Save-A-Patriot foundation.

1 They did it again!!!

2 These words are heard all too often here at the Fellowship when we receive calls from members and friends who have
3 predictably lost large amounts of money that they had placed in the reliable hands of their trusted and "ethical" bankers.

4 We have tried banks and mattresses (and a few other depositories) and, in all our experience, the bank is by far the least
5 safe. If it were only occasional, it would be one thing, but it seems to be more and more frequent that we receive calls from 6 members as well as other patriots, who are amazed that all the money they had kept in a bank is gone.

7 We are not amazed--only frustrated when we consider the resources that are being lost; when we consider how these 8 resources might be put to better use.

9 Precious financial resources are being senselessly wasted because many folks just don't seem to get it. Banks routinely turn 10 over property without due process.

11 The fact that patriots who have been involved in the movement for a substantial period of time would call here and express
12 total surprise at such a loss continues to baffle everyone at the Fellowship. If you want to place your property in jeopardy,
13 we cannot think of a better way to do it than to put it in a bank. This is especially true if you have already made a
14 determination that you are not the subject of the Internal Revenue Code or any of its liability for filing provisions.

15 If you want to leave one dollar in an account somewhere, just as a teaser, that would be entirely up to you. However, if you
16 decide for whatever reason, that you must maintain a bank account for purposes of "doing business" be forewarned that the 17 amount in the account is roughly equivalent to the amount that might be in jeopardy--or gone, depending on the whim of 18 the trusted banker combined with the zeal of your local IRS agent.

19 All property that is in the control of third parties who may not choose to confront the IRS or another federal foraging
20 agency with the law must be considered to be in jeopardy. These may include all sorts of financial institutions, brokers, 21 "trusts", etc.

22 Remember, the Fellowship is about the return of lawful government. None of this commentary has anything to do with 23 situations in which a lawful tax has been lawfully assessed [as rare as this might be].

24 Before you open an account, try asking a bank officer if he is more afraid of you or the IRS. Ask him for the policy of his 25 institution regarding a Notice of Levy from the IRS. Ask him if the bank would ever question the lawful basis of any action
26 by the IRS or any other government agency. Ask him to provide examples where his bank has stood firm against the IRS
27 when it has asked for funds to be frozen or transferred to the IRS. Ask him if he can document any legal challenge of his 28 bank against the IRS in the history of its operation.

29 Don't base your decision on whether or not to open an account on any plans to take legal action against the bank after your 30 money is gone. The bankers set up the whole plan in the first place.

31 Your local branch manager is not very high in the food chain. He is probably only a couple steps above the drive-in 32 window at the local McDonald's in the real scheme of things. Don't expect him to become a hero overnight. The banks
33 are not your friend. We have been trying to get some things down to where everyone can readily understand them.

34 Therefore, we have coined a new term to describe this new linguistic science "Free-Bonics". While we don't want to be 35 condescending, we are not above using a little humor to make a very serious point. We cannot offer legal advice, but we 36 can tell you about the stupidest things we see happening again and again. A word to the wise may not be enough in this 37 case.

38 While old habits are hard to break, old habits can become very expensive in this case. I know the bank names inspire a
39 false sense of confidence. That's how a con-game works

40 Why do you suppose they often include words like "fidelity," "trust," "covenant" etc? They know these terms inspire undue
41 confidence. Do you suppose it was anyone other than a banker who "coined" the term "it's in the bank?"

REPEAT AFTER ME:

ALL THE PROPERTY IN THE HANDS OF IRRESPONSIBLE THIRD PARTIES IS PRESUMED TO BE IN JEOPARDY, AND JEOPARDY IS BAD.

BANKERS, WHO MUST BE CONSIDERED IRRESPONSIBLE THIRD PARTIES (because they turn over your property without due process of law--and probably without blinking) MUST BE CONSIDERED UNARMED AND VERY DANGEROUS!

Please do not take offense at our use of humor. We deeply regret it, if you are realizing the importance of these warnings after the fact. We will continue to take every opportunity to warn one and all that "money in the bank" may not be.

Each of us must take complete individual responsibility for ourselves and our property. We must use every available means to protect ourselves and each other from unlawful actions of government agencies that will not be prevented by our friendly bankers.

To be forewarned is to be forearmed! If you want to continue using banks, you certainly are free to do so at your own risk. We were not responsible in the first place, but now you will have even less of an excuse. The Fellowship functions quite well without using banks. From time to time we have to educate businesses and even government agencies that we have every right not to participate in the banking scam. The Fellowship does not place any funds in banks. It has no bank accounts. The IRS has found this to be very inconvenient, but we are not interested in becoming one of their "customers".

4.5.3.10 Move Your Financial Assets Overseas Where the IRS Can't Illegally Seize Them

Find an overseas bank that doesn't require social security numbers and has secrecy laws that protect your privacy. This will prevent putting your assets in jeopardy. We'd like to emphasize that the advice in this section is not intended to violate 26 U.S.C. §7206 item (4), which makes it a crime to conceal assets otherwise lawfully owed:

(4) Removal or concealment with intent to defraud Removes, deposits, or conceals, or is concerned in removing, depositing, or concealing, any goods or commodities for or in respect whereof any tax is or shall be imposed, or any property upon which levy is authorized by section 6331, with intent to evade or defeat the assessment or collection of any tax imposed by this title; or shall be guilty of a felony and, upon conviction thereof, shall be fined not more than $100,000 ($500,000 in the case of a corporation), or imprisoned not more than 3 years, or both, together with the costs of prosecution.

If the other options presented elsewhere in this document are observed, then the reader will lawfully owe no income taxes and therefore, it will not be a criminal act to follow the advice in this section. As a matter of fact, following the options presented will instead make it quite clear that the true criminal conspirator is the U.S. Government, or more precisely the IRS, who have obfuscated the tax laws in order to conceal the fact that you rightfully own the income and property that they otherwise would like to confiscate from you through the fraud that is the income tax.

4.5.3.11 Eliminate Your State Driver's License and Get an International Driver's Permit

- Ads for International Drivers' Licenses or Permits Could Be a Dead End-Federal Trade Commission

Many states currently require persons applying for a driver's license to divulge their Social Security Number, and if they don't have one, to get one. This is an invasion of privacy and we discourage people from having licenses from states that have this requirement. One way around this is to get a driver's license in a state that doesn't require SSN's. The other way is to obtain an International Driver's Permit (IDP). Per international rules, you cannot be issued an IDP in the country that you live in. The driver's permit must be issued for a country outside of your home country.

One easy way get an IDP for other than your home country is to obtain a P.O. box and postal remailing service at a foreign address outside of the country by looking up providers on the Internet. The P.O. box must also offer "remailing services", which means that if anything comes destined for you at the P.O. box, it is forwarded in bulk every so many weeks or days to your address in the states. Make sure the foreign address used by the postal remailing service doesn't say "P.O. box", but instead looks like a real street address. This will not draw attention to the fact that you might be using a foreign P.O. box.

After you get your foreign P.O. box, then use that address on your International Driver's permit application and have them mail the IDP to that P.O. box, which will then be forwarded to you in the states. Any AAA office also issues International Driver's Permits good for any country other than the one you reside in. After you get the International Driver's Permit, cancel your state driver's license so you and your Social Security Number are removed from the state database, making it harder for them to locate you by your social security number. The beauty of using an IDP over a state driver's license is that the IDP cannot be revoked by a state court, nor can they record demerits on the permit, which means you can't lose it.

In some cases, the officer who is stopping you may ask for your state driver's license or another form of ID. One of our readers came up with an ingenious solution to this dilemma that has worked several years for him. Here is how he solved this problem:

1. Got a sign and hung it on his house that had one word in big letters, and that word was the word for a state other than the one he lived in that he wanted a driver's license in. For instance, he lived in Nevada so he got big sign for his house that said "Idaho". He did this so that he wouldn't be lying or committing fraud by saying that he "lived in Idaho". The best state to pick in order to name your home is one that is furthest away from the one you live in so that the cop who stops you won't know what the license is supposed to look like anyway.
2. He got a color photocopy of the Idaho driver's license so he would know what it was supposed to look like.
3. He went down to the county business office and applied for a fictitious business name that was the same as his real name, but in all capital letters. If the application required the SSN, he used the one obtained below.
4. He filled out a W-9 and got an SSN for the business from the Social Security Administration. He used his PO Box for the address.
5. He made his own laminated driver's license that looked just like the real thing for "Idaho". On the license, he used his fictitious business name in all caps and put the SSN of the business he had just obtained. He used the PO box address for himself as the address on the license. The license expired in five years.
6. He cancelled his business license and SSN and continued using the license he had just made for five years. Every five years, he would make himself a new license.
7. When stopped, he would present his license and the IDP. If the cop asked him if he lived in "Idaho", he could truthfully say yes, even though he also lived in Nevada.

Pretty creative, huh? This keeps you from being charged with fraud because everything on the license is completely accurate but also totally unrelated to you personally, so there is no trail.

The same trick with the SSN and business name above can be used to get a state-issued driver's license as well. Get the license for your BUSINESS instead of for you, and use the SSN of your BUSINESS.

4.5.3.12 Avoid Actions that Would Incur Suspicion from the IRS

The IRS is very protective of the computer application algorithm that it uses to detect whether a Citizen is a good target for an audit. Court cases have been fought over getting a copy of the program so that Citizens can know whether they are likely to be audited. Therefore, we can't tell you the criteria that the IRS might use to decide if you are a good candidate for an audit or what constitutes a suspicious tax return or tax situation. Below are some common sense reasons why we believe the IRS might want to target you for either a Deficiency Notice or an audit.

4.5.3.12.1 Deficiency Notice

Below are some common sense situations where we believe the IRS might want to send you a Deficiency Notice.

1. Taxes not paid in previous years are still owed.
2. Amount of federal tax paid for the year is inconsistent with income reported by employers, resulting in an underpayment.
3. Amount of federal tax paid for the year by employer does not cover 1099 forms received on Citizen, resulting in an underpayment.

4.5.3.12.2 Audit/Examination Vulnerability

Below are a few common sense situations where we believe the IRS might want to target you for an audit or tax examination.

1. Citizen previously filed 1040 forms and paid tax and stopped doing either, especially without explanation or justification.
2. Wage income is high (over $100,000)
3. 1099 Income is high or comes from over 10 sources.
4. Multiple overseas bank accounts appearing on return.
5. Multiple large transactions over $10,000 reported to IRS (law requires transactions over $10,000 to be reported, to prevent money laundering).
6. Amount of deductions are too high.
7. Alternative Minimum Tax (AMT) is applied.
8. Income is significantly less than last year's.
9. Received W-2's from employers that had a nonzero amount for block 10 "Wage, salary, tips, and other compensation" but no 1040 form received.
10. Received no W-2 or a zero amount for wages, salaries, tips, and other compensation, even though Citizen has filed and paid income taxes for the past several years.
11. Citizen does not sign return or provides inaccurate information.
12. Citizen files a frivolous return. This might include the word "duress" in the signature block of the 1040, in violation of the Jurat amendment, which will incur a $500 fine.
13. Citizen writes a letter to the IRS raising any of the USC 861/source issues identified in this document or asks IRS what law it is that requires them to pay income taxes on domestic income as a U.S. Citizen.

Deceiving Americans into mis-representing their citizenship status on government forms and legal pleadings is the number one method by which the government destroys the sovereignty of the people. 28 U.S.C. §1603\(b\)\(3\) says that a person who is a STATUTORY "citizen of the United States", where "United States" is used in a statutory context and means the federal zone, may not be a foreign sovereign. The first step to becoming sovereign then is to ensure that our proper citizenship status is reflected in ALL EVIDENCE that the government and private businesses have about us. This includes the following mostly government documents:

1. Any state or federal tax returns we file (some of which as if either we or our children are "U.S. citizens").
2. State voter registration (most states require us to declare under penalty of perjury that we are a "U.S. citizen" in order to be able to register to vote).
3. State driver's license.
4. Jury duty summonses.
5. Military service record and security clearance (most security clearances ask a person if they are a "U.S. citizen")
6. Social security records.
7. Passport applications (most passport applications ask us if we are a "U.S. citizen").
8. Birth certificates.
9. The paperwork our employer maintains on us (employment applications frequently ask us if we are a "U.S. citizen").
10. The paperwork our bank and financial institutions maintain on us.

All of these sources of evidence may be subpoenaed by the government if or when we have to litigate to defend our rights, and we don't want to give them ANY ammunition they can use against us to prove their case that we are a citizen subject to federal law. First, let's define some terms:

8 U.S.C. §1101 DEFINITIONS-

(a)(21) The term "national" means a person owing permanent allegiance to a state.

(a)(22) The term "national of the United States" means (A) a citizen of the United States, or (B) a person who, though not a citizen of the United States, owes permanent allegiance to the United States.

(a)(38) The term "United States", except as otherwise specifically herein provided, when used in a geographical sense, means the continental United States, Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, Guam, and the Virgin Islands of the United States.

Are you a "U.S. citizen" as defined in the Internal Revenue Code? You decide. Here's the ONLY definition of "U.S. citizen" we could find anywhere in either the Internal Revenue Code and the Implementing Regulations after an electronic search of the entire code and regulations:

26 C.F.R. §31.3121\(e\) State, United States, and citizen.

(b)...The term 'citizen of the United States' includes a citizen of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico or the Virgin Islands, and, effective January 1, 1961, a citizen of Guam or American Samoa.

The answer is EMPHATICALLY NO! In order not to be classified as a “U.S. citizen”, we must have proof, or there is a presumption that we are. The American Jurisprudence Legal Encyclopedia, at 3C Am.Jur.2d. 204 in section 2677 entitled “Presumptions concerning citizenship” says the following:

As a general rule, it is presumed, until the contrary is shown, that every person is a citizen of the country in which he or she resides.¹³⁴ Furthermore, once granted, citizenship is presumably retained unless voluntarily relinquished,¹³⁵ and the burden rests upon one alleging a change of citizenship and allegiance to establish that fact. Consequently, a person born in the United States is presumed to continue to be a citizen until the contrary is shown, and where it appears that a person was once a citizen of a particular foreign country, even though residing in another, the presumption is that he or she still remains a citizen of such foreign country, until the contrary appears.

[3C Am.Jur.2d. 204 Presumptions concerning citizenship]

The number one argument the government and the IRS will use against us in tax matters goes something like this:

“You are a U.S. citizen and EVERYONE knows that U.S. citizens are liable to pay income tax!”

Here is a real-life example of that from a real court case trial:

“Unless the defendant can prove he is not a citizen of the United States, the IRS has the right to inquire and determine a tax liability.”

[U.S. v. Slater, 545 Fed. Supp. 179,182 (1982).]

As a practical matter, we should point out that it is a legal impossibility to prove a NEGATIVE, that is, that you ARE NOT a “citizen of the United States”. However, the U.S. Supreme Court has already established that all those who are CONSTITUTIONAL “citizens of the United States” ARE NOT STATUTORY “citizens of the United States” or “nationals and citizens of the United States at birth” per 8 U.S.C. §1401. The case is Rogers v. Bellei, 401 U.S. 815 (1971). For further details, See:

Why You are a “national”, “state national”, and Constitutional but not Statutory Citizen, Form #05.006, Section 2.4
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

The false presumption that you are a “U.S. citizen” under the STATUTES of Congress is the main argument they use in front of juries as well. This exact statement is what the IRS revenue agent told us when we called to report that we had no income tax liability. This argument, however, falls apart if they can’t affirmatively prove your U.S. citizenship because they don’t have any evidence, and because you have evidence to the contrary! If you aren’t a “U.S. citizen”, then you must be a “non-resident non-person” if you are PRIVATE. If you are ALSO a public officer, then you are a “nonresident alien” because NRAs are defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(B) as persons who are not “U.S. citizens”. We also know from chapter 5 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 that non-resident non-persons who are not “public officers” of the U.S. government (the recipient of government privileges) don’t have to pay income tax because they have no “U.S. source” income under 26 U.S.C. §871(a)! Note from 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(22)(B) that you can be a “national” without being described as a “U.S. citizen”. That is the category we want to be.

The above argument derives from the idea that the federal government may tax a STATUTORY “U.S. citizen” (under 8 U.S.C. §1401) wherever he is, including in geographical areas abroad that are outside its general territorial jurisdiction within the federal zone. In the U.S. Constitution Annotated, under the Fifth Amendment (see <http://caselaw.lp.findlaw.com/data/constitution/amendment05/13.html> - 6), here is what it says about this subject:

In laying taxes, the Federal Government is less narrowly restricted by the Fifth Amendment than are the States by the Fourteenth. The Federal Government may tax property belonging to its citizens [statutory “U.S. citizens” under 8 U.S.C. §1401, but not “citizens” as used in the Fourteenth Amendment or the Constitution], even if such property is never situated within the jurisdiction of the United States.¹³⁶ and it may tax the income of a citizen or resident abroad, which is derived from property located at his residence.¹³⁷ The difference is explained by the fact that protection of the Federal Government follows the citizen wherever he goes, whereas the benefits of state government accrue only to persons and property within the State's borders.

[Fifth Amendment Annotated]

This point is VERY important, because it clearly indicates from where the jurisdiction of the United States government to tax derives. It isn't mainly a geographical jurisdiction, but instead originates mainly from the taxable activities we engage in, such as a "trade or business", and also from our domicile. Calling a person a "citizen" under the Internal Revenue Code simply implies that they maintain a "domicile" on federal territory, which the "United States" is geographically defined as in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10). See:

Why Domicile and Becoming a "Taxpayer" Require Your Consent, Family Guardian Fellowship
<http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/Articles/DomicileBasisForTaxation.htm>

The jurisdiction to tax "trade or business" income doesn't extend into the sovereign 50 Union states because the power of income taxation is reserved by the states under 1:2:3 and 1:9:4 of the Constitution. However, federal jurisdiction to tax domiciliaries of the federal zone does extend to foreign countries under 26 U.S.C. §911. The U.S. Supreme also admitted this in Cook v. Tait, 265 U.S. 47 (1924). Those who are born in and domiciled in a state of the Union, however, are not counted as "citizens" under the Internal Revenue Code, as revealed in our article below:

<http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/Citizenship/NotACitizenUnderIRC.htm>

Instead, people domiciled in states of the Union are "nationals" or "state nationals" and should be careful to properly document their citizenship status on all government forms to ensure that the federal government is not deceived into thinking that they are domiciliaries of the federal zone.

WARNING: The content of this section is THE single most important thing you need to do if you don't want to be destroyed by the federal courts! They have complete power over you and can deny your constitutional rights if you are a U.S. citizen, resident, or a U.S. person, , all of whom have in common a virtual "domicile" in the District of Columbia under the I.R.C. See 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(39) and 26 U.S.C. §7408(d) for proof.

Let's first start off with a definition of "expatriation":

"Expatriation: The voluntary act of abandoning or renouncing one's country, and becoming the citizen or subject of another."
[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 576]

Based on the above definition, we don't need to abandon our NATIONALITY or allegiance to the country, we want to abandon our "U.S. citizen" or "citizen of the [federal] United States" status under all "acts of Congress" and federal statutes as described in 8 U.S.C. §1401, so "expatriation" is definitely not the right word to describe exactly what we want to do. Therefore, we have to invent a new word, and we'll call it "amending" or "correcting" or "converting" your citizenship status. There are two possible statuses that we can "convert" to:

1. "national" under 8 U.S.C. §1101\(a\)\(22\)\(B\)
2. "State national". Same as above.

Which of these above two statuses you choose to convert to depends on the choice you make and your situation. Below is a table summarizing the advantages and disadvantages of each as we understand them:

NOTES:

1. In the case of items 3, 4, and 9 above, some of our readers have been able to obtain these benefits as "state nationals" or "nationals" by virtue of amending the government's forms electronically and identifying themselves as "California Nationals", for instance. Another popular and successful technique is to redefine the term "U.S. citizen" used on the form to mean "California National" or to redefine the term "United States" to mean "United States*" the country, and not "United States" the federal zone. The ignorant government clerks processing the forms have not noticed this and approved their applications anyway.
2. The table above has one question mark that we aren't sure of based on reading the instruction. That is the one under item 8 above. 32 C.F.R. §1602.3\(b\)\(1\) says that either "nationals" or "U.S. citizens" can serve in the U.S. military. Secretary of the Navy Instruction 5510.30A, Appendix I, page I-1 also says that for the purposes of security clearances, "nationals" and "U.S. citizens" are equivalent. The implication is therefore that you can be a "national" and still not lose your retirement benefits, but DOD 7000.14-R, Volume 7B, Chapter 6 doesn't explicitly say this.

The table above has one question mark that we aren't sure of based on reading the instruction. That is the one under item 7 above. 32 C.F.R. §1602.3\(b\)\(1\) says that either "nationals" or "U.S. citizens" can serve in the U.S. military. Secretary of the Navy Instruction 5510.30A, Appendix I, page I-1 also says that for the purposes of security clearances, "nationals" and "U.S. citizens" are equivalent. The implication is therefore that you can be a "national" and still not lose your retirement benefits, but DOD 7000.14-R, Volume 7B, Chapter 6 doesn't explicitly say this.

The procedures for achieving "national but not citizen of the United States at birth" rather than STATUTORY "U.S. citizen" status are documented in 8 U.S.C. §1452. This section only pertains to those in U.S. possessions such as American Samoa and Swains Island. It does not relate to those who are "state nationals". The procedures for becoming a "state national" are almost identical. Only the citizenship correction notice in Section 5.6.9 is different.

Before we discuss the "how to" of "amending" your citizenship status, we'd like to emphasize that the U.S. Court of Appeals, D.C. Circuit, has stated in a still unchallenged ruling in 1957 that the right of expatriation is absolute in the case of Walter Briebl v. John Foster Dulles, 248 F.2d. 561, 583 (1957):

*"Almost a century ago, Congress declared that 'the right of expatriation is a natural and inherent right of all people, indispensable to the enjoyment of the rights of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness,' and decreed that 'any declaration, instruction, opinion, order, or decision of any officers of this government which denies, restricts, impairs, or questions the right of expatriation, is hereby declared inconsistent with the fundamental principles of this government.' 15 Stat. 223-224 (1868), R.S. § 1999, 8 U.S.C. § 800 (1940).¹³⁸ Although designed to apply especially to the rights of immigrants to shed their foreign nationalities, that Act of Congress 'is also broad enough to cover, and does cover, the corresponding natural and inherent right of American citizens to expatriate themselves.' Savorgnan v. United States, 1950, 338 U.S. 491, 498 note 11, 70 S.Ct. 292, 296, 94 L.Ed. 287.¹³⁹ The Supreme Court has held that the Citizenship Act of 1907 and the Nationality Act of 1940 'are to be read in the light of the declaration of policy favoring freedom of expatriation which stands unrepealed.' Id., 338 U.S. at pages 498-499, 70 S.Ct. at page 296. That same light, I think, illuminates 22 U.S.C.A. § 211a and 8 U.S.C.A. § 1185. Since expatriation is today impossible without leaving the country,¹⁴⁰ the policy expressed by Congress in 1868 and never repealed precludes a reading of the passport and travel control statutes which would permit the Secretary of State to prevent citizens from leaving."*

You can read this case on the Family Guardian Website in its entirety below:

<http://famguardian.org/Subjects/LegalGovRef/Citizenship/BriehlVDulles248F2d561.htm>

You will note that the 15 Statutes at large mentioned above, which authorize expatriation were passed by the U.S. Congress in 1868, just before the 14th Amendment was passed, and allows people to change their citizenship as a way to escape encroachments on their life and liberty caused by the passage of both the 13th and the 14th Amendment. Because correcting government records falsely representing your citizenship status is undertaken for the same reasons as expatriation above, it is just as valid a thing to do as expatriation.

How do you avoid being falsely "presumed" as a domiciliary of the federal zone, which includes "U.S. citizen" under 8 U.S.C. §1401 or a "U.S. resident" under 26 U.S.C. §7701\(b\)\(1\)\(A\) so you can be treated as a "non-resident non-person" in the context of the income tax?...by changing government documentation containing false information you filled out in ignorance to properly reflect your status as a "national" under federal statutes, or by "expatriating" from the country altogether. Expatriation is the process of renouncing one's citizenship in a country or a political jurisdiction. Many people do it as a way to escape paying income taxes. As a matter of fact, there is a whole section of the Internal Revenue Code, found in 26 U.S.C. §877 entitled "Expatriation to avoid tax" that tries to limit people's ability to expatriate in order to avoid tax. Therefore, it must be an effective tool to avoid income taxes because lawmakers have tried to outlaw it! For your reference, below are a few of the laws dealing with expatriation that you might want to examine as you research the process and consequences of expatriation, which you can hotlink to from the Family Guardian Website at <http://famguardian.org/Subjects/LegalGovRef/Citizenship/Expatriation.htm>:

"Expatriating" is one way we can guarantee that the federal government can never assert jurisdiction over us to impose income taxes. "Converting" our citizenship has the same affect and is less drastic. However, WHAT JURISDICTION should we "expatriate" or "convert" to, because there are three definitions of the term "United States" according to the U.S. Supreme Court in Hooven & Allison Co. v. Evatt, 324 U.S. 652 (1945)? You might want to go back and review the definition of "United States" from section 4.6, entitled "The Three 'United States'" at this time.

We'd like to clarify at this point that the term "nonresident alien" is a "word of art" that only has applicability within the context of limited income tax jurisdiction found in 26 U.S.C., and that its meaning is different there than it is elsewhere in the U.S. codes, and especially different from the definition found in 8 U.S.C., which talks about citizenship in U.S.* The Country, also known as the United States of America. The reason is because of the definition of the term "United States" found in 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(10\), which is covered in sections 3.9.1.24 and 4.5.1 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book as meaning the "federal zone"/U.S. and not United States the country. However, we must follow the same procedures to abandon the U.S./federal zone and our presumed federal "U.S. citizen" status under "acts of Congress" and federal statutes as we would use to expatriate our nationality in the country United States, because the presumptions and burden of proof standards are the same.

What is the procedure to abandon our statutory "U.S. citizen" status but not our "Nationality"? Below is a synopsis of the procedure, along with the reference from which that step derives based on our research:

Table 4-4: A Process to Correct your citizenship status

#	Title	Reference(s)	Description	Note(s)- see below	Date accomplished √
1	Do a rescission on all IRS Form 1040 signatures	None	Invalidate all signatures on all previous 1040 forms, because they represent an election to be treated as a U.S. citizen AND a resident of the U.S..	1
2	Revoke Your Election to be Treated as U.S. citizen and resident	IRS Publication 54 for general information. 26 C.F.R. §1.871-10 (for method of revocation of election) 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(4)(F) for authority 26 U.S.C. §6013(g) for background	Revocation of Election process is covered in section 5.3.4 of the Great IRS Hoax , Form #11.302 book. See also IRS Publication 54, page 6 (year 2000 version). See Section 3.6.5 for a sample form to do this.	2
3	Rescind your application for Social Security by sending a revised SS-5 form and an Affidavit of Rescission to the Social Security Administration	26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1(b)	Use the “Affidavit of Rescission” found in Section 3.6.4.	7
4	Change your voter registration	See the election laws and statutes within your state.	Some states require you to declare under penalty of perjury that you are a “U.S. citizen” and don’t bother to clarify which of the three “United States” they are referring to. Clarify your status as a U.S.* and U.S. but not a U.S. citizen. Clarify that you do not live in the “State of _____” but instead live in _____(statename). Make your citizenship conditioned on the nonpayment of state and federal income taxes. See Section 3.6.6 for a sample form that accomplishes this.	3
5	Update your government security clearance application (if you have one)	None	Clarify your status as a “non-citizen national” but not a statutory “U.S. citizen”. Clarify that you are not domiciled in and are not a citizen of “The State of _____” but instead are a national but not citizen of _____(statename).	4
6	Notice the Secretary of State of the U.S. via Certified mail with a Proof of Service of Your Change in Citizenship Status. See the following websites for a mailing addresses http://www.state.gov/	8 U.S.C. §1481(a)(6)	Law says: “(6) making in the United States a formal written renunciation of nationality in such form as may be prescribed by, and before such officer as may be designated by, the Attorney General, whenever the United States shall be in a state of war and the Attorney General shall approve such renunciation as not contrary to the interests of national defense; “	5

8	Publish a notice in the paper of your new citizenship status and obtain an “Affidavit of Notice” from your newspaper.	See your state’s legal notice requirement in the statutes.	Use the same language as item 5 above.	6
9	File an IRS Form W-8 with the IRS via Certified mail with a Proof of Service and ask them to update their records to reflect “nonresident alien” status for the purposes of income taxes	IRS Publication 519-U.S. Tax Guide for Aliens	This clarifies your status with the IRS as a “nonresident alien” for the purposes of the income tax and ensures that their records reflect your proper status. See section 5.3 of the Great IRS Hoax , Form #11.302 entitled “Know Your Proper Filing Status” for more details. Declares your reasons for expatriation.	8
10	File an IRS Form W-8 with your employer and ask them to update their records to reflect “nonresident alien” status for the purposes of income taxes.	IRS Publication 519-U.S. Tax Guide for Aliens	This clarifies your status with your employer as a “nonresident alien” for the purposes of the income tax and ensures that their records reflect your proper status.
11	Update/reapply for your U.S. passport	Department of State form DS-011 : Application for Passport	Turn in your old passport to the Secretary of State and apply for a new one with the DS-011 form. On the form, do the following: 1. Blocks 14, 15, 16: Check no for “U.S. citizen” and replace with “National under 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(22)(B)” 2. Block 4, Place of birth: Put your city and state (e.g. California) 3. COUNTRY: Put your state name (e.g. California). Do not provide an SSN and use the form for a NEW passport, not a renewal.	9

NOTES:

1. Doing a Rescission on all IRS Form 1040 Signatures with the IRS. This step involves stating the following:

I, _____, Citizen _____ of _____ (state) and domiciled in _____ [county],

_____, one of the American union States, hereby extinguish, rescind, revoke, cancel, abrogate, annul, nullify, discharge, and make void ab initio all signatures, belonging to me, on all previously filed Internal Revenue Service, W-4 Forms, 1040 Forms and all State Income Tax Forms and all powers of attorneys, real and implied, connected thereto, on the grounds that my purported consent was not voluntarily and freely obtained, but was made through mistake, duress, fraud, and undue influence exercised by your agency and my employer. Pursuant to Contract Law: “All 1040 and W-4 Forms are, hereby, extinguished by this rescission.”

Rescission: (Black’s 6th Edition Law Dictionary) “To abrogate, annul, avoid, or cancel a contract; particularly, nullifying a contract by the act of a party. The right of rescission is the right to cancel (rescind) a contract upon the occurrence of certain kinds of default by the contracting party. To declare a contract void in its inception and to put an end to it as though it never were. Russel v. Stephens, 191 Wash. 314, 71 P.2d. 3031....A rescission amounts to the unmaking of a contract, or an undoing of it from the beginning. It necessarily involves a repudiation of the contract and a refusal of the moving party to be bound by it...”

I was induced by fraud and duress to sign such forms and I was denied full disclosure of the voluntary nature of such forms. I was misled by those who knew, or should have known, into believing that filing such forms was mandatory and/or implied, were unconscionable and grossly unfair to me. I was unduly influenced by the stronger bargaining power of my employer, the Internal Revenue Service and the State Tax agency, and acted under an implied threat and fear of losing my job and my property and out of fear of potential imprisonment for non-compliance. Any alleged consent is null and void as it was given under duress, by mistake, and by fraud. Notwithstanding any information which you may have to the contrary, any forms that have been filed, and any implied quasi contracts that you may feel you have with me, were filed illegally and unlawfully and are without force/and or effect.

I further revoke, rescind, and make void ab initio all powers of attorney pertaining to me for any and all governmental/quasi/colorable agencies and/or Departments created under the authority of Art. I, Sec. 8, Cl. 17, and/or Art. IV, Sec. 3, Cl. 2 of the Constitution of the United States.

2. Revoking your Election to Treat Real Property Income as Effectively Connected to a Trade or Business in the United States:

2.1. WARNING!: An election to treat real property (real estate) income as effectively connected with a trade or business in the United States is automatically made when one files an IRS form 1040 for the first time, and can only be revoked by strictly following procedures. This is discussed further in section 5.3.4, which we won’t repeat here.

2.2. 26 C.F.R. §1.871-10(a) states:

The election may be made whether or not the taxpayer is engaged in trade or business in the United States during the taxable year for which the election is made or whether or not the taxpayer has income from real property which for the taxable year is effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business in the United States, but it may be made only with respect to that income from sources within the United States which, without regard to this section, is not effectively connected for the taxable year with the conduct of a trade or business in the United States by the taxpayer.

If for the taxable year the taxpayer has no income from real property located in the United States, or from any interest in such property, which is subject to the tax imposed by section 871(a) or 881(a), the election may not be made.

*But if an election has been properly made under this section for a taxable year, the election remains in effect, unless properly revoked, for subsequent taxable years even though during any such subsequent taxable year there is no income from the real property, or interest therein, in respect of which the election applies.

2.3. To revoke your election, follow the procedures shown in 26 C.F.R. §1.871-10. Below is what you need to do:

2.3.1. “If the taxpayer revokes the initial election without the consent of the Commissioner he must file amended income tax returns, or claims for credit or refund, where applicable, for the taxable years to which the revocation applies.” 26 C.F.R. §1.871-10(d)

2.3.2. Revocation of election requires the consent of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue:

“(iii) Written request required. A request to revoke an election made under this section when such revocation requires the consent of the Commissioner, or to make a new election when such election requires the consent of the Commissioner, shall be made in writing and shall be addressed to the Director of International Operations, Internal Revenue Service, Washington, DC 20225. The request shall include the name and address of the taxpayer and shall be signed by the taxpayer or his duly authorized representative. It must specify the taxable year for which the revocation or new election is to be effective and shall be filed within 75 days after the close of the first taxable year for which it is desired to make the change. The request must specify the grounds which are considered to justify the revocation or new election. The Director of International Operations may require such other information as may be necessary in order to determine whether the proposed change will be permitted. A copy of the consent by the Director of International Operations shall be attached to the taxpayer's return required under section 6012 and the regulations thereunder for the taxable year for which the revocation or new election is effective. A copy of such consent may not be filed with any return under section 6851 and the regulations thereunder." 26 C.F.R. §1.871-10(d)(2)(iii)

2.3.3. You will note that you DON'T need the IRS commissioner's consent to make a voluntary election and you can revoke it within the first taxable year you make it by filing a 1040 form, but you need his consent to revoke an election. You will also note that the regulations don't prescribe the criteria under which the commissioner may deny a Revocation of Election. This, of course, represents a violation of due process of law and the 5th Amendment property protections and represents a "trap" set by the government to suck you into the federal zone and keep you there so they can rob you blind. This is skullduggery at its finest, and there is no reason why you should need to ask for someone else's permission to have control of your assets and income back. The one-way diodes and check valves in the District of Criminals (Washington, D.C.) came up with this trick to make it easy to continue plundering your assets.

2.4. We have a sample form in Section 5.6.5 for accomplishing the revocation of election.

3. Change Your Voter Registration:

3.1. Most states require you to sign a voter registration affidavit stating that you are a "U.S. CITIZEN" in order to vote in state elections. They almost never define what they mean by this term on the form or in their election laws so you should specify what it means on the form. This form is microfilmed by the registrar of voters and made into an official recorded state document. You need to be sure that the form properly reflects your choice of citizenship status by modifying the form to add the following explanatory paragraph in any area they give you room to write on the form:

I, _____ (your name) do declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of my state from "without" the federal United States that I do not reside or have a domicile on federal property or territory and that I am a not federal "U.S. citizen" or "citizen of the [federal] United States" under "acts of Congress" as identified in 8 U.S.C. §1401. I hereby abandon any privileges and immunities granted therein by virtue of my failure to intend or consent to having such citizenship status. I retain my natural born status as a "national of the United States of America" or a "non-citizen national" as described in 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(22)(B). I preserve and reserve all my unalienable Rights that are inherent from my Creator, at all times. I waive no rights at any time, including by operation of any implied contract asserted by the government. UCC 1-207

3.2. In case what you write on the form is unclear, you also need to attach an additional page. If you attach an additional page to this affidavit, the attachment is usually not recorded with the original affidavit and does not become evidence, so you will need to put a note on the Affidavit form not close to the borders so it will be microfiched successfully that states "Not valid without attached additional Affidavit of Clarification and Citizenship for Voter Registration".

3.3. You will find a copy of the recommended page to attach to your voter registration in Section 3.6.6 entitled Voter Registration Affidavit Attachment.

3.4. Get a notarized copy of your voter registration that includes the attachment from your county recorder after you file your affidavit in the manner above. This will become very important legal evidence should your citizenship ever be questioned in court.

4. Update your government security clearance. Add the Affidavit of Clarification of Citizenship for Security Clearance found in Section 5.6.7 to your security clearance. If you have already made the security clearance application, come in after the fact and have them attach the affidavit to your application. This will clarify your citizenship.

5. Notice the Secretary of State of the U.S. and the Attorney General via Certified mail with a proof of service of your Citizenship Status:

Send them a letter stating the following:

Legal Notice of Change in Domicile/Citizenship Records and Divorce from the United States, Form #10.001

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

6. Publish a notice in the newspaper of new citizenship status.

6.1. Publish the following notice in your local newspaper, and conform with your State's legal notice requirements:

DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

"I, John [and/or Jane Doe] in the name of the Almighty Creator, By [my/our] Declaration of Independence solemnly Publish and Declare [my/our] intention and my right to abandon "citizen of the [federal] United States" status under 8 U.S.C. §1401 and under all federal statutes and to return to my natural born status as a "non-citizen national" or a "national of the United States" under 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(22)(B). I hereby relinquish [my/our] res in trust to the foreign jurisdiction known as the municipal corporation of the District of Columbia, a democracy, and return to the Republic. Any and all past and present political ties implied by operation of law or otherwise in trust with the democracy as a consequence of any citizenship ties the government might allege, is hereby dissolved. I, John [and/or Jane Doe] have full power to contract, establish commerce as guaranteed by the full 10 Amendments to the Bill of Rights to the Constitution of the [u]nited States of America, a Republic. <http://famguardian.org/Publications/GreatIRSHoax/GreatIRSHoax.htm>"

6.2. Obtain an "Affidavit of Notice" from the newspaper after you publish the above.

7. Rescind your application for Social Security to the Social Security Administration

7.1. Send in the following:

Resignation of Compelled Social Security Trustee, Form #06.002

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

7.2. There is a presumption found in 26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1\(b\) that if you submit a tax return to the U.S. government, then you are by default a "U.S. person" unless you refute this presumption with proof. As a presumed STATUTORY "U.S. citizen" or a "U.S. person", you have NO constitutional rights! Here is what the law says about the requirement to provide a social security number when furnishing returns:

(b) Requirement to furnish one's own number--(1) U.S. persons. Every U.S. person who makes under this title a return, statement, or other document must furnish its own taxpayer identifying number as required by the forms and the accompanying instructions.

The point is that if you aren't a U.S. citizen, then you AREN'T required to provide an identifying number on any tax return. That's the foundation of the reason in this section why we want you to follow these procedures.

7.3. Even more interestingly, under 26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1\(g\), having a social security number creates a presumption that you are a "U.S. citizen" and you therefore have to rebut the presumption. If you want to overcome the presumption that you are a U.S. citizen or U.S. person, then you must request a change in the status of your Social Security Number! Here is what the law says about the requirement to provide a social security number when furnishing returns:

(g) Special rules for taxpayer identifying numbers issued to foreign persons--(1) General rule--(i) Social security number. A social security number is generally identified in the records and database of the Internal Revenue Service as a number belonging to a U.S. citizen or resident alien individual. A person may establish a different status for the number by providing proof of foreign status with the Internal Revenue Service under such procedures as the Internal Revenue Service shall prescribe, including the use of a form as the Internal Revenue Service may specify. Upon accepting an individual as a nonresident alien individual, the Internal Revenue Service will assign this status to the individual's social security number.

7.4. We have a sample letter in Section 3.6.8 entitled "SSA Notice of Change in Citizenship" for you to attach to your SS-5 form.

8. Update Your U.S. Passport

Procedure for updating your passport are contained in the following:

Getting a USA Passport as a "state national", Form #10.013

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

WARNING: When you call the IRS, like we did, and you remind them that you are a non-resident non-person, the first question they will ask you is: "What country are you a citizen of?" They will do this to see if you are expatriating to avoid tax under 26 U.S.C. §877. They will ask the question without knowing or understanding such things as:

- The definition of the term "United States" in federal statutes, which means the federal zone by default.
- That there are two classes of citizens defined in the U.S. codes: "Nationals" and "citizens" of the United States.

This is a trap to take the conversation off the critical issues and you ought to avoid it. The safest answer to this question that will keep the discussion focused where it needs to be is to say:

"I was a constitutional citizen at the time of birth but I am not a U.S. citizen under any act of Congress. Instead, I'm a non-resident non-person not subject to the acts of Congress domiciled in a legislatively but not constitutionally foreign state. The fact that the states of the Union are legislatively but not constitutionally foreign in respect to the national government is a product of the separation of powers doctrine."

Your typical and misinformed and ignorant IRS agent, like the one we spoke with, will probably interrupt you in mid-sentence and go into a long and angry tirade and try to pull a guilt trip on you by saying such things as:

- "I'm a taxpayer and I don't enjoy paying for freeloaders like you!"
- "You ought to be ashamed of yourself for accepting the blessings of living in this country and not paying for them!"
- "Someone has to pay for the roads you drive on, and who if it isn't you?"
- "I'm sorry, but I just can't control myself. This makes me mad! If you think I'm angry now, just keep talking."

Those of you educated in psychology will recognize this type of behavior immediately as "verbal abuse" and "harassment". The only way it wouldn't be harassment and verbal abuse is if the agent was calm, reasonable, able and willing to listen and respond to opposing points of view, and willing to offer facts and evidence to support his position. If you want to learn more about how verbal abuse works, we refer you to the following:

Family Constitution, Form #13.003, Section 3.10

<http://famguardian.org/Publications/FamilyConst/FamilyConst.htm>

The manipulative agent will then say he is so mad that he doesn't want to talk any longer because he might get more uncivil. He won't even give you the chance to respond or get equal time, because he isn't interested in the law or the facts...only in getting his way. He is trained to use such verbally abusive techniques because they are effective against weak-willed or budding new patriots who refuse to pay a voluntary income tax for which they aren't liable. It keeps the "sheeple" (docile and ignorant people) in line. It is the same fear and intimidation approach that DOJ lawyers who prosecute tax avoiders will use in front of juries. You should get used to it and have a good comeback for it that you have practiced on friends and associates.

If you are cornered into addressing these kinds of verbally abusive socialist arguments, the best approach to use against demagoguery of this kind is to quote the research in section 1.12, where there is a detailed analysis of the federal budget and proved that we can fund all of the core functions of the government WITHOUT mandatory income taxes, including defense, roads, courts, and jails. You should say:

- Both the U.S. Congress in the Statutes At Large and the federal courts have reiterated that I am perfectly within my rights to abandon "U.S. citizen" status under 8 U.S.C. §1401 to become a "non-citizen national" under 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(22)(B) because all citizenship must be consensual and I don't consent, nor are you authorized to tell me what my intentions are related to citizenship. Shame on you for criticizing me for exercising rights that are protected by law. Here is what our Congress said about expatriating our citizenship:

"the right of expatriation [including expatriation from the District of Columbia or "U.S. Inc", the corporation] is a natural and inherent right of all people, indispensable to the enjoyment of the rights of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness," and decreed that "any declaration, instruction, opinion, order, or decision of any officers of this government which denies, restricts, impairs, or questions the right of expatriation, is hereby declared inconsistent with the fundamental principles of this government."

[15 Stat. 223-224 (1868), R.S. § 1999, 8 U.S.C. § 800 (1940)]

- The reason it is so hard to pay for the core functions of government is because the lazy and irresponsible Congress just doesn't have the discipline to balance the budget, so we accumulate all this debt that interferes with paying for more important government functions and this unnecessarily raises the federal budget.
- We have a moral obligation to take care of older people but should not have a legal obligation or liability, and it ought to be a function of the family and the church to do this but not the government.
- You are a true blue socialist who doesn't belong in a free country like this. There is no reason why capitalism can't work in the government like it works everywhere else. Why do you insist on forcing me to pay for benefits I don't want? Is a compelled benefit really a benefit, or just slavery disguised as government benevolence? I don't want socialist security or Medicare or unemployment insurance from the government and I will take care of myself, thank you.
- The roads are paid for by gas taxes, and if they aren't, we ought to raise those taxes! The military, the roads, and the prisons are paid for by import taxes and excise taxes other than income taxes.

- If you don't believe me, then download your free copy of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book and read section 1.12 for yourself. Or better yet, do your own research and prove me wrong. I'm perfectly willing to engage in extended debate with you founded on real facts if you'd like. I would enjoy that. Your unwillingness to debate the real facts and research is just evidence of how unreasonable your position is. I don't need to hear your verbal abuse, I need to hear the facts you base your conclusions on.
- The only thing income taxes pay for is SOCIALISM and the welfare state, which I strongly disapprove of and object to my tax payer dollars going to. All the socialist programs, including Social Security and Medicare, are going bankrupt anyway so why do we support them? Do you honestly believe your Social Security will support you when you are old? In countries like Chile, they had to eliminate their social security program and privatize it, because it destroyed itself. I don't object to welfare programs, I just object to being forced to participate in or subsidize them. Let those people who want the programs pay for them, but don't force me to participate in them because this is a free country.

In the past, some memberse tried to obtain a "certificate of non-citizen National Status" under the authority of 8 U.S.C. §1452. A number of readers tried this, but eventually the Department of State discontinued the practice. The reason they gave for doing so was as follows:

"As the Department has received few requests, there is no justification for the creation of a non-citizen national certificate. Designing a separate document that includes anti-fraud mechanisms was seen as an inefficient expenditure of resources. Therefore, the Department determined that those who would be eligible to apply for such a certificate may apply for a United States passport that would delineate and certify their status as a national but not a citizen of the United States." [see http://travel.state.gov/noncit_cert.html]

It's important to note that a passport is not an adequate substitute for a "certificate of non-citizen national status" under 8 U.S.C. §1452. The reason is because the only thing the passport says is "citizen/national" and doesn't distinguish which of the two that you are. The only thing that reflects your true "non-citizen national status" is the passport application itself and not the passport that they issue. Furthermore, when you get the passport, the Department of State agent will tell you that they aren't allowed to give you a certified copy of the original Form DS-11 passport application you submitted. They obviously don't want the slaves to have the key to their chains so they can escape the federal plantation. Consequently, you must send a Privacy Act Request to the U.S. Department of State asking for a certified copy of the original passport application. This will become the equivalent of your "certificate of non-citizen National Status" under 8 U.S.C. §1452. Below is a link to an instruction sheet we obtained through the Freedom of Information Act explaining how to get an Authenticated copy of your passport application and other records.

To get a certified copy of your passport records, you must send a check for $30 for the first copy and $20.00 for each additional copy. There is no charge when a request is submitted in connection with a request for Federal, State, or municipal benefits or when a court of competent jurisdiction orders production of the record. Send your request to:

When we say "change your filing status" in the title of this section, we don't mean to suggest that changing documentation is going to change who or what you lawfully and truly are, nor are we suggesting that you misrepresent your status or any of your lawful choices. Instead, we are referring to the fact that the you have been unknowingly filling out the wrong tax form, the IRS Form 1040, for most of your adult life, and doing so has caused the IRS to believe facts that were not in fact true about you. At this point in your reading, if you have followed the previous steps, you now know that:

1. You, as a person born within a state of the Union and outside of exclusive federal jurisdiction are a "nonresident alien", a "national" under 8 U.S.C. §1101\(a\)\(21\), and not a statutory "U.S. citizen" under 8 U.S.C. §1401.
2. I.R.C. Subtitle A income taxes presume a "domicile" in the District of Columbia as a prerequisite and that you don't have a domicile there and are therefore a STATUTORY "non-resident non-person". See:
Why Domicile and Becoming a "Taxpayer" Require Your Consent, Form #05.002
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
3. The only people who can lawfully and correctly file the IRS form 1040 are those with a domicile in the District of Columbia, which includes STATUTORY but not CONSTITUTIONAL "U.S. Residents" and "U.S. citizens" who are temporarily abroad and come under 26 U.S.C. §911.
4. The only thing that can go on IRS form 1040 is "trade or business" income from sources within the "United States", which is defined as the District of Columbia in 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(9\) and (a)(10).
5. Most people don't have "trade or business" income, because most people do not have contracts or employment with the federal government. Therefore, the W-2 and 1099 forms filed against them are false and need to be amended. See:
 - 5.1. Correcting Erroneous IRS Form 1099's, Form #04.005:
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
 - 5.2. Correcting Erroneous IRS Form W-2's, Form #04.006:
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
6. "nonresident aliens" can elect to be treated as "residents" under 26 U.S.C. §6013\(g\), which is the only case in which they can lawfully file IRS form 1040. Otherwise, the only form they can file is IRS form 1040NR.
7. That those who have and use "Social Security Numbers" are all treated as federal "employees". See:
Why Your Government is Either a Thief or You are a "Public Officer" for Income Tax Purposes, Form #05.008:
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
8. That earnings in connection with a "trade or business" essentially are earnings as a federal "employee", contractor, or agent. See Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302, Sections 5.6.12 through 5.6.12.15 and:
The "Trade or Business" Scam, Form #05.001
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
9. You are not a "taxpayer" if you have no earnings connected to a "trade or business". Therefore, every piece of IRS correspondence that comes to you which says "Dear Taxpayer" is erroneous and is not addressing you. See:
<http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/Articles/TaxpayerVNontaxpayer.htm>
10. The only people who need government numbers are federal "employees", contractors, agents, and "taxpayers". Since you are none of these, the identifying number in nearly every government record about you is simply WRONG and needs to be eliminated.

This section will therefore show you how to correctly explain and document your truthful, lawful status on government forms so that you can immediately quit committing perjury under penalty of perjury and stop misleading the government about your true status. This will get you out of their databases and off the RADAR screen that you never should have been on to begin with if they had put the WHOLE truth in the IRS publications and quit lying to the public about what the law says. See:

Federal Courts and the IRS' own IRM Say the IRS is NOT RESPONSIBLE for Its Actions or Its Words or For Following Its Own Written Procedures!, Family Guardian Fellowship
<http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/Articles/IRSNotResponsible.htm>

We also emphasize that this section is intended for use by those who have lawfully exercised their political rights to follow all the previous steps in the process up to this point as best they can. If you haven't done this, then please go back and make sure you have, because if you haven't, then you may be committing perjury or putting false information on government forms by completing some parts of this step. We certainly don't ever want that to happen, so please be careful because everything described in this book is meant only to describe lawful activities that are beyond reproach. For instance, if you haven't completed the following form:

Resignation of Compelled Social Security Trustee, Form #06.002
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

. . .then you may still be a "federal employee" and therefore a "taxpayer" in certain circumstances. Therefore, following the steps outlined here in the sequence presented is important so you don't discredit yourself or us, and so that you are never accused of committing perjury or fraud or violating any law. The content of this book is intended to keep you out of trouble and allow you to lawfully protect and defend your sovereignty.

The other very important thing to remember at this point, is that although this step, when properly done, is entirely lawful, it could easily be misrepresented by a corrupted government lawyer in court to "appear" unlawful. If this is done, and you haven't done your homework and read at least chapters 3 through 5 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book, then he will victimize you in court with your own ignorance and then use that win as an excuse to call everything in this book or on the Family Guardian website a scam, which you know isn't the case if you have read this far. Therefore, we cannot emphasize enough throughout this book:

1. You should not be doing anything documented in this book unless you meet the criteria identified in the Disclaimer statement under the section entitled "Intended Audience":
<http://famguardian.org/disclaimer.htm>
2. Get thoroughly educated BEFORE you even consider applying anything in this book, should you decide to do so. Read at least chapters 3 through 5 of our free Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book and make sure you understand it as best you can. This book is not a war against the government, it is a war against ignorance. Legal ignorance of the general public is what has caused most of the corruption and injustice that exists in our present tax system.
3. After you have educated yourself, you will have a good defense against most tax crimes. All tax crimes under the Internal Revenue Code have "willfulness" as a prerequisite, which means that you must know that a legal requirement exists to do something and you must decide voluntarily to disregard that requirement. See the following:

Reasonable Belief About Income Tax Liability, Form #05.007

- If you have studied the law for yourself, know how to do legal research to investigate the false claims of others, and have a firm personal conviction that what is contained here is true based on your own reading of the law, and most importantly, if you can forcefully and convincingly explain that conviction using the law yourself, then you will have a strong defense if anyone ever tries to accuse you of committing a tax crime or falsifying a government form.
4. Do not do anything documented in this book unless you understand exactly what it is being done and why it is being done. If you find something that is inconsistent with the law, then please let us know so we can fix it IMMEDIATELY. We don't ever want to be accused of providing false or misleading information to anyone, even though that is standard operating procedure for the IRS. If you can't explain in your own words what is being done and why it is being done for any step in this book, and you are blindly following some procedure that you don't understand, then you will surely and eventually become a victim of your own ignorance, and the person who will exploit that ignorance is a deceitful and covetous government that wants to trick you out of your money and thereby make you into their slave in violation of the Thirteenth Amendment. Remember what the "IRS" stands for: "Ignorance Related Slavery".

"My [God's] people are destroyed [and enslaved] for lack of knowledge [and the lack of education that produces it]."

[Hosea 4:6, Bible, NKJV]

REAL PROPERTY:

If you own real property and the property has a social security number associated with it, you should write the county recorder and tell them that the SSN they have registered for you is wrong and needs to be removed, but don't provide a replacement. By doing so, you are resigning from federal employment and changing the status of your real property from "public property" to "private property". Remember, the Social Security Number is identified in the regulations at 20 C.F.R. §422.103\(d\) as property of the government, which means that anything that has the number attached to it is devoted to a "public use" and comes under federal jurisdiction, which is very bad. We have a sample letter for doing this in section 3.6.11 of this book and also in electronic form on the Family Guardian Website in the Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Online, Form #10.004 (<http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/FormsInstr.htm>). This will make it more difficult for creditors and especially the IRS to locate property they can illegally lien or levy. When we tried this, the county recorder called us back to ask for the new social security number, stating that we would qualify for a $70 annual homeowner's exemption if we provided the number. They are trying to control you and the number makes it easier. We told them that we didn't want the exemption and didn't want a wrong number associated with our real property.

FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS:

After you have removed your social security number from your real property, the next step is to remove it from all of your financial accounts. In order to remove SSN's and TIN's from your bank and financial accounts, you will need to declare yourself to be a non-resident non-person using the procedures we describe subsequently in section 4.5.3.13. You will have a very hard time by any other method. We aren't saying it's impossible, but it is very difficult any other way. You will also make your task of obtaining an account easier if it is a non-interest bearing account, since this kind of account can have no tax consequences because it doesn't earn interest. Without tax consequences, there is no reason for the bank to require an SSN anyway.

Most financial institutions will tell you that you can't remove social security number from an existing account. In most cases, you will need to close the account and then open your new account without a social security number by providing an amended IRS Form W-8 or W-8 BEN documenting your "non-resident non-person" status. 26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1\(g\) allows that nonresident aliens do not need a social security number or other identifying number. Therefore, attempt to open the account first by walking into the bank with a W-8 BEN form. Most banks will have the form for you to fill out, but you might want to bring your own along. Use the Substitute W-8 for that purpose, which you can download off our site in the Income Tax Forms and Instructions area. If they give you a bad time about the foreign address you use on the W-8 form because you used an address within the United States (outside the federal zone), then refer to Section 5.7.1, which has a sample letter you can use to send to your financial institution after your in-person visit that authenticates your non-resident non-person status and your lack of need to have a social security number. The simplest way to avoid having to send this letter is to ensure that you use a valid foreign permanent address in block (5). We'll explain how to get one of these later.

Whenever the bank states that there is a legal requirement or liability for you to do something, insist that they at least tell you the Treasury Regulation and the section of the Internal Revenue Code from which the requirement derives. Be patient and polite but insist on them telling you the law. Most of the time, the clerk you are dealing with won't know the law and can't answer this question. Therefore, you should insist that they call the corporate legal counsel for assistance. Tell them you won't leave until they answer your question.

Before you go to the bank to open an account without an SSN, grab a fine ball-point pen. When you try to open the account, the bank, if they know the law, will say that your account is subject to backup withholding under 26 U.S.C. §3406(a)(1), which states:

*United States Code
TITLE 26 - INTERNAL REVENUE CODE
Subtitle C - Employment Taxes
CHAPTER 24 - COLLECTION OF INCOME TAX AT SOURCE ON WAGES
Sec. 3406. Backup withholding*

*(a) Requirement to deduct and withhold
(1) In general*

In the case of any reportable payment, if -
 (A) the payee fails to furnish his TIN to the payor in the manner required,
 (B) the Secretary notifies the payor that the TIN furnished by the payee is incorrect,
 (C) there has been a notified payee underreporting described in subsection (c), or
 (D) there has been a payee certification failure described in subsection (d), then the payor shall deduct and withhold from such payment a tax equal to 31 percent of such payment.
 (2) Subparagraphs (C) and (D) of paragraph (1) apply only to interest and dividend payments
 Subparagraphs (C) and (D) of paragraph (1) shall apply only to reportable interest or dividend payments.

When you declare yourself a non-resident non-person to escape a requirement to use an SSN, the bank will ask you to prepare and sign an IRS form W-8BEN. This form is an IRS fraud and a hoax for several reasons and can be extremely damning if you don't fill it out correctly. Read the entire form and attached instructions carefully before you fill in or sign anything. We have a sample form on the Family Guardian Website of both the W-8BEN and the W-8 forms. The IRS commits a ruse and a hoax using this form because of the way it defines "beneficial owner", which is as follows:

The beneficial owner is the person who is the owner of the income for tax purposes and who beneficially owns the income. Thus, a person receiving income as a nominee, custodian, or agent for another person is not the beneficial owner of the income. Generally, a person is treated as the owner of the income to the extent it is required under U.S. tax principles to include the amount paid in gross income on a tax return. A person who is the owner of income is considered a beneficial owner of that income unless that person is a conduit entity whose participation in a transaction can be disregarded. Generally, the principles of section 7701(1) and Regulations section 1.881-3 apply to determine if a person is a conduit entity.

The above underlined statement is technically incorrect and creates a false presumption (which amounts to duress and violation of due process) that the person in receipt of the income is liable for tax. You should therefore prevent yourself from stepping into this due process trap by carefully doing the following to your form:

1. Attach the W-8 Attachment form to your W-8, W-8BEN, or Substitute W-8 and put a mention of a note at the bottom of the form saying "Not valid without two page attachment entitled 'W-8 Attachment' which includes my signature" and get a double-sided photocopy for your records of everything you submitted.

WARNING: If you don't put the attachment on your form, then in many cases, and especially with large international financial organizations and/or mutual funds, the organization may decide to start reporting your income and withholding taxes for the country where your permanent address is! This is clearly a result to be avoided.

2. Somewhere on the form in very small print where the clerk won't notice, put the word "duress" and your initials, to point out that you were coerced into signing this form. This will invalidate the form for use as evidence in court, because everything used in court can only be used if it was submitted voluntarily, which means freely and willfully and without duress. Duress is the presence of unlawful force or restraint. See Section 4.4.6, which talks about evidence illegally obtained through duress being inadmissible, in the case of Weeks v. United States. The coercion is as follows:
 - 2.1. The IRS lied to you on the form with their definition of "beneficial owner", because that definition is inconsistent with the tax laws as we explained.
 - 2.2. The form is an unlawful demand for information about you that violates the Privacy Act and the Paperwork Reduction Act, and therefore illegally encroaches on your Fifth Amendment right of non self-incrimination.
 - 2.3. It is against the law for any government agency, and by implication any private company acting as an agent of the government by forcing signing of government forms, to compel disclosure of SSN's when there is no demonstrated tax consequence to the transaction. Here is an excerpt from that section:

42 U.S.C. Sec. 408 provides that:

Whoever ... (8) discloses, uses, or compels the disclosure of the social security number of any person in violation of the laws of the United States; shall be guilty of a felony and upon conviction thereof shall be fined under title 18 or imprisoned for not more than five years, or both.

3. In block (5), which is the “permanent foreign address”, the address must list an address in a foreign country. We all know based on reading chapter 5 that even the 50 union states qualify as foreign countries, but the ignorant bank clerk processing your form will freak out if you put an address in the 50 union states. To avoid a scene and to avoid having to write a letter of clarification to the bank management to overrule the clerk found in Section 3.5.1, put a real address in a real foreign country. Many people don’t have a real address they live at in a foreign country, but consider the following:
 - 3.1. One option is to look up a legitimate address in a foreign country on the internet and use that. Rooms or apartments for rent listed on the internet are a good source for this kind of information. If the address isn’t posted, then call the number and ask them for the address.
 - 3.2. The form doesn’t say the permanent address in block (5) has to be a place where you live in the foreign country. It’s just a permanent mailing address. If you don’t have relatives in a foreign country, then you can locate an office services company like Postal Annex or similar postal outlet with PO boxes in a foreign country, say Canada or Mexico. Then you can tell them that you need for them to be a forwarding agent for you at their office for a fee. Tell them you don’t want a P.O. box, but instead only need for them to forward your mail received at their office to the address you give them in the states. Some financial organizations won’t accept a “Permanent address” that is a PO box on the W-8 form. For such a case, choose a mail forwarding service that doesn’t use PO box numbers, but instead uses “Suite XXX” or something similar for the PO box number. That way the address doesn’t raise any flags at the financial organization receiving your W-8.
 - 3.3. There is no regulation or statute that requires someone to live in a foreign country in order to be a non-resident non-person or even a “nonresident alien”. You can live in one of the 50 union states outside of the federal zone and still be a non-resident non-person. When a bank told us the Permanent Address had to be outside the country, we demanded the Treasury Regulation that required this, and the legal counsel for the bank (Wells Fargo) gave us a fake regulation number that didn’t even exist! The Treasury has exceeded their authority to instruct banks to expect this when you complete the W-8 form. This is a devious way to keep Natural Born Sovereign Citizens who expatriated their U.S. citizenship from getting accounts without SSN’s.
 - 3.4. If you filed the legal notice of change in citizenship document we recommend in section 3.6.8, then you shift from being under the jurisdiction of the United States government as your “god” to that of the Lord Jesus Christ. Therefore, your permanent home is really in heaven and during your time on earth, you are just passing through. This is a religious belief that it will be very difficult for the courts to fight. For that reason, if you want to put an accurate statement on the form under “Permanent address” that is outside the country and outside the federal zone, you can put “Heaven” and be 100% accurate and consistent with your Christian beliefs! It would be very interesting indeed watching the IRS tangle with that approach in court without violating the First Amendment!
4. The W-8 form also includes a place for a “mailing address”. We make the following recommendations with respect to this address:
 - 4.1. Use your foreign address if the financial institution will let you.
 - 4.2. If the institution won’t let you use a foreign address for both your mailing and permanent address, then use a PO box address in the 50 union states.
 - 4.3. If you can’t use a PO box or don’t want to, as a bare minimum, at least append something to the end of your address to thoroughly confuse the government. For instance, if you live on “2565 Main Street”, then at least add something to the end of the address to make it appear that you live at a different location than anything else they might try to match up to this, like the IRS records. In this case, file your tax forms with the street address of “2565 Main Street, Apartment 35” and put on your W-8 forms “2565 Main Street, Apartment 60”. This way, they can’t use either the SSN or the street address to match things up. Do the same kind of trick with your phone numbers as well. For instance, give the IRS your work number and put your home number on anything else, or play with your pager and your cell phone numbers. There should be nothing that allows them to match the identities up between what’s on the W-8, your employer, and the IRS. The IRS will be so confused they won’t know which way is up!

Another trick the IRS and the banks pull with the W-8BEN form is to hand you a “Substitute W-8BEN” form which is entitled something like “Certificate of Foreign Status of Beneficial Owner for United States Tax Withholding and/or Foreign Person Claim for Exemption From Withholding on Income Effectively Connected With the Conduct of a Trade or Business in the United States”. That last phrase “Income Effectively Connected With the Conduct of a Trade or Business in the United States” is a trap, as we learned in Section 3.15.1.23, where we showed you the legal definition of “trade or business”, which is a code word for the holding of a political office! If you aren’t a Congressman, then you shouldn’t be signing anything that associates you with a “trade or business in the United States” because you are in effect saying:

"I'm a taxpayer. Come rape me, beat me, and abuse me, because I don't want any rights."

Wherever you see that phrase "trade or business in the United States" on the form, you ought to line it out and replace it with "business in the United States of America" or line it out entirely and initial it. This is the only way to stay out of trouble and prevent committing fraud on the form.

Keep in mind that because the courts and the IRS itself have ruled that IRS forms and publications cannot be relied upon to sustain a position or a good-faith belief, then the very words on the form may not really mean what you think they mean! This is the same trick the IRS and the Congress played in the tax code. They could mean anything. For instance, they don't define the term "foreign" anywhere on the form. It's anybody's best guess what that means. You shouldn't rely even on the words contained in a form the government itself has said you can't trust, should you? Furthermore, even the Form W-8BEN the government makes the bank give you does not meet the requirements of the Privacy Act, because it does not say whether it is "mandatory" or "voluntary" and does not contain an expiration date! They state under the Paperwork Reduction Notice at the end of the instructions for the form that you are "required" to complete the form, but they never cite the Privacy Act nor ANY law that makes you liable to complete the form. If you want examples of properly prepared Privacy Act compliant forms, refer to the Sovereignty Forms and Procedures area or the Family Guardian Website and then select Evidence in the upper left corner. Scroll down to the bottom in the left window and examine several forms that are Privacy Act Compliant. The reason the government doesn't put the notice on this form is because if they told you the truth, that completing the form is "voluntary" because no law makes you liable to fill it out, then no one would fill it out!

Therefore, the W-8BEN is a bogus (fraudulent) government form. You obviously can't trust anything on a bogus and fraudulent government form. That means you can put whatever you want on the form and not be held accountable because you can't trust what is on the form or even what it is that you are agreeing to. Below are some of the cites from which this position is derived:

"IRS Publications, issued by the National Office, explain the law in plain language for taxpayers and their advisors... While a good source of general information, publications should not be cited to sustain a position."
[\[Internal Revenue Manual \(I.R.M.\), Section 4.10.7.2.8 \(05-14-1999\)\]](#)

Luhring v. Glotzbach, 304 F.2d. 560 (4th Cir. 1962).
Einhorn v. DeWitt, 618 F.2d. 347 (5th Cir. 1980).
United States v. Goldstein, 342 F.Supp. 661 (E.D.N.Y. 1972).
Boulez v. C.I.R., 810 F.2d. 209 (D.C. Cir. 1987).
United States v. Will, 671 F.2d. 963, 967 (6th Cir. 1982).

Regardless of what you put on your W-8BEN form, the form is considered confidential and the top says "Give this form to the withholding agent or payer. Do not send to the IRS." Therefore, the government won't find out what is on your form after you give it to the bank anyway. However, just to make sure your privacy is protected, you should insist on signing an Opt-Out form preventing the bank from sharing any information about your account with anyone without a valid court order. You would also be wise to put a copyright notice on the W-8 form you submit, telling the bank that they aren't authorized to enter the information into any computer system or share it with anyone outside of their organization. Alternatively, you could use the "Service Contract With Financial Institution to Assure Security of Account from Unlawful Seizure, Lien, or Levy" found in Section 3.7.2 of this document.

REMOVING SOCIAL SECURITY NUMBERS FROM MILITARY SERVICE RECORDS:

If you are or were in the U.S. military, you should send to them a DD form 149 entitled "Application for Correction of Military Record Under the Provisions of Title 10, U.S. Code, Section 1552". Indicate on the form that the Social Security Number is incorrect and needs to be removed from your service record completely. If you are still on active duty, you should also check out your service record from the personnel department and then proceed to line out in thick black felt pen every instance of a Social Security Number on every form you ever signed. This will ensure that the number is never reintroduced into your service record again.

SOCIAL SECURITY NUMBERS AND EMPLOYERS:

You should not provide any social security or Taxpayer ID Number (TIN) to your employers or prospective employers when they ask for it, nor are you obligated to under law. As mentioned in section 2.9.2 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book entitled "Social Security is Voluntary Not Mandatory", you aren't obligated to provide your social security number to your employer nor to deduct Social Security taxes from your payroll. However, if you intend to ever collect

Social Security benefits, there may be problems with the correct amounts being credited under your name without providing a social security number. Therefore, we recommend that you keep meticulous records of your social security contributions so that you can qualify for benefits later and get the right amount of benefits.

Internal Revenue Code, Section 6109\(a\)\(3\) states:

Any person required under the authority of this title to make a return, statement or other document with respect to another person, shall request from such person, and include in any such return, statement or document, such identifying number as may be prescribed for securing proper identification of such person.

26 U.S.C. §6109(a)(3) (Supp. 1992)"

The IRS regulation interpreting section 6109 provides:

"If he does not know the taxpayer identifying number of the other person, he shall request such number of the other person. A request should state that the identifying number is required to be furnished under the law. When the person filing the return, statement, or other document does not know the number of the other person, and has complied with the request provision of this paragraph, he shall sign an affidavit on the transmittal document forwarding such returns, statements, or other documents to the Internal Revenue Service so stating.."

Treas. Reg. 301.6109-1(c) (1991)

However, Internal Revenue Code Section 6724, 26 U.S.C. §6724 (Supp. 1992), provides for a waiver of any penalties assessed under this code section upon a showing of reasonable cause. Section 6724(a) provides:

No penalty shall be imposed under this part with respect to any failure if it is shown that such failure is due to reasonable cause and not willful neglect.

26 U.S.C. §6724\(a\) (Supp. 1992)

You should state to the employer that you recognize that honoring your request will result in them not being able to provide complete information on any 1099 forms they might submit about you to the IRS. However, you should try to reassure them based on the above law that this will not result in any additional financial or legal liability to them or to you if you provide a simple affidavit with your 1099 form (if requested by the IRS) explaining only the following facts (and nothing more):

- The employer asked me for an SSN as required per 26 U.S.C. §6109\(a\)\(3\).
- You did not provide one.
- The employer are not legally responsible for any penalties for noncompliance as per 26 U.S.C. §6724\(a\)

If the employer wishes further reassurance, tell them to do a search for themselves on the phrase "1099" on the following website to look up all the Treasury/IRS regulations that pertain to 1099 forms.

<http://www.access.gpo.gov/cgi-bin/cfrassemble.cgi?title=200026> (Code of Federal Regulations)

<http://law.cornell.edu/uscode/> (U.S. Code)

EXCEPTIONS:

There is an exception to this for Federal employees, who under 5 U.S.C. §8422, must withhold OASDI for Federal Employee Retirement System (FERS) employees. You can read a copy of this section of law at: <http://uscode.house.gov/usc.htm>. Below is a copy of that law:

"(b) Each employee or Member is deemed to consent and agree to the deductions under subsection (a). Notwithstanding any law or regulation affecting the pay of an employee or Member, payment less such deductions is a full and complete discharge and acquittance of all claims and demands for regular services during the period covered by the payment, except the right to any benefits under this subchapter, or under subchapter IV or v. of this chapter, based on the service of the employee or Member."

DOD Financial Management Regulation, DOD7000.14-R, Volume 8, paragraph 0404 also requires DOD to withhold OASDI and Medicare from DOD employee pay. You can read a copy of this at: <http://www.dtic.mil/comptroller>.

RESPONSE TO FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTION:

Some of our readers look at the Preface to this document and our statements about how liberty means “freedom with personal responsibility” and then say something like the following:

“On the one hand you say that everyone should be personally responsible for themselves throughout this book and that if they choose not to be, then they will have to exchange their rights for government privileges and thereby surrender their sovereignty to the government. At the same time, you advocate that everyone should eliminate their participation in Social Security and their Social Security Number. This would leave the government no way to hold people responsible and accountable for their liabilities, such as bank loans, credit card debt, court judgments, etc, and it would also make it much more difficult for the government to track down individuals. Without a unique and global number used for everything about that person, no one could track or account for your debts and responsibilities or recover them when they aren’t paid and you go into default. Doesn’t this accomplish the opposite result by undermining the ability of the government and financial institutions to hold individuals personally accountable for their promises and contracts? How do you propose to deal with the social problems created by people not having Social Security Numbers?”

This is a very astute observation that we are enthusiastic about addressing. First of all, there is no reason why the number that the banks use and the number that the government uses has to be the same or that it even has to be a national or single number for each person. We could have one number for government use and one number for private financial use, for instance. As long as these numbers are unique so that no two individuals have the same number, it doesn’t matter what the number is or who issues it. The networking industry has developed schemes over the last twenty years for managing unique numbers as Ethernet MAC addresses, and has assigning blocks of addresses to specific organizations and decentralizing the management and accounting of the numbers. There has never been the need for a national databank to identify specific users of the numbers so the industry has never developed one. The same approach can and should be used for banking and any other purpose.

The number used for financial institutions and credit can and should be issued by a private consortium and the data bank should be maintained outside of the jurisdiction of any government so that only the banks and financial institutions can use it or access it to ensure privacy. We will call the financial number the “Credit Identifier” for future reference, or “CI” for short and the person they are maintaining credit information about we call the “debtor”, and the Credit Agency shall be called the CA. The CI records themselves should be owned by the debtor and in the custody of the CA as their fiduciary. They should be stored on a USB flash drive provided by the debtor to the CA. Because that record would be private property of the debtor in the fiduciary custody of the CA, it would be a violation of the Fourth Amendment for the government as part of any legal proceeding to subpoena the records contained thereon, thus guaranteeing privacy. Remember that banks cannot refuse to provide data to the government when subpoenaed, but only if the data and the records they are providing are the property of the business and not the debtor! The CA should have a fiduciary relationship with the debtor, and the written agreement between the CA and the debtor should say that the records belong to the debtor, and that only the fiduciary CA can change them, but is excluded by contract from giving away your property, which is the USB drive you own that contains your data. No standards should be published to enable debtors to go in and make unauthorized changes to the electronic record. Furthermore, it should be against the law for government agents or employees to access the credit history, because it is only used for obtaining credit histories, and not for any other purpose. This would prevent a conspiracy against the right of privacy between financial institutions and the government, and would prevent the government from searching and seizing our records from businesses with impunity, or using the records the government maintain on us to help the financial institutions. This might put somewhat of a damper on the loan industry, but people could still borrow money and maintain credit histories that only financial institutions could access.

As far as Social Security Numbers used by the government, we propose that participation in the Social Security program be voluntary and that the Social Security Agency cannot share information about SSN’s to any other federal agency because it would violate the Privacy Act, 5 U.S.C. §552a\(b\). Without a liability statute under Subtitle A of the I.R.C., the IRS has no lawful authority to request or provide any information to or from the Social Security Agency (SSA) for either criminal or civil enforcement purposes. Furthermore, the IRS isn’t an enforcement agency and doesn’t come under the Undersecretary for Enforcement inside the Treasury. Look at the diagram below for proof:

Also remember that the IRS is not an agency of the federal government because 5 U.S.C. §551\(1\)\(C\) says that governments and agencies of the territories of the federal United States are excluded from the definition of “federal agency”. Therefore, the IRS and the Social Security Administration have never had the lawful authority to share information between them about Americans in the context of Subtitle A income taxes, even if they volunteer to be “taxpayers”. Since they can’t share information legally under Subtitle A without a liability statute, then these agencies don’t need SSN’s to do computer matching of records they maintain about individuals anyway! Therefore, the IRS should not and need not have the same number as the SSN for biological people.

Furthermore, the Privacy Act does not authorize the Social Security Administration (SSA) to share information about your records with state law enforcement or other federal agencies unless you have committed a crime under federal jurisdiction or permitted them to by signing a consent decree, which you should not do. If you aren’t a “U.S. citizen” but a “national” as we recommend being in this book, then only under extremely rare circumstances would you ever be subject to the jurisdiction of the federal government. Consequently, the IRS and the SSA would have to operate alone and not conspire against your privacy by sharing information about you either between them or with agencies, law enforcement, or businesses in the states. Payment of federal income taxes under Subtitle A could then not be tied to payment of Social Security taxes or receipt of SSA benefits because data couldn’t be matched between agencies. Each agency would have to pursue collection activity and enforcement actions independently, and could still prosecute wrongdoing and hold people responsible, but it would be a little less convenient and less susceptible to automation or information sharing. This would significantly enhance privacy and the government’s control over your life without allowing people to be irresponsible about their financial obligations to the federal government.

4.5.3.15 Protect the Privacy of Your Financial Transactions

The key to staying out of trouble with the IRS and avoiding becoming a target of illegal enforcement of income taxes is to eliminate the paper trail that ties any income to you or your family members. Most of that paper trail originates in the following:

1. Deposits to accounts you maintain at various financial institutions.
2. Checks written to various family members drawn by you on accounts you maintain at various financial institutions.
3. Deposits to financial accounts, and especially those made by check.
4. Forms filled out by the bank when you deposit large sums of cash exceeding $2,999 into your accounts.

4.5.3.15.1 Endorsing and forwarding checks written out to us

In order to exploit the financial system to protect the privacy of our financial transactions, we must keep in mind that most checks processed for deposit in our account are processed via computer and therefore are seldom examined for whether they are made out to the individual who is in custody of the check and cashed the check. This is especially true of ATM deposits. We also need to keep in mind that the reason we are depositing the money in our account in the first place is so that we can pay our bills. Now if we are depositing money to pay our bills, the question is: Why not pay the bills directly with the checks we are depositing to take out the middle man so we aren’t implicated? Here is how to do exactly that:

1. Endorse the check on the back with your signature.
2. Write “Pay to _____ (institution name), acct # _____”, where we fill in the name of the third party whose bill we want to pay under “institution name”.
3. Mail in the third party check with our bill or statement.

The kind of income we should do this with is income received in check form from employers and third parties for wages or personal business revenue. It is also very effective for rental income.

4.5.3.15.2 Use of Blank Payees on Checks

Another relatively simple technique that is good for avoiding tying income to oneself is to instruct people who pay you money by check to leave the payee field deliberately blank. When you are ready to redeem the check, fill in the payee field with the name of an organization that you owe money to and mail it in with your bill. For instance, fill in the name of your mortgage company in the payee field of the blank check and use it to pay your home mortgage. This causes checks to behave like cash, which is helpful in protecting your privacy.

One side-effect of this technique is that it complicates accounting but it's still manageable. For instance, the checks you send to pay bills must always be LESS than the amount of the bill you are paying or you will overpay, which means that you will have to send a second check to make up the difference.

4.5.3.15.3 Avoiding the Use of Direct Deposit

It is very important to avoid linking specific accounts to your employer. Employers, when threatened by the IRS, will frequently violate your privacy by giving out information about you to the IRS. Among the things they will give out include the financial account that you direct deposit your paycheck to. Therefore, we recommend one of two approaches:

- Stop doing direct deposit altogether and get a paycheck. Then get cash for the check and finally deposit the check.
- Keep most of your money in accounts that are not linked to you by direct deposit.

4.5.3.15.4 Change your financial institutions frequently to cover your tracks

When you itemize deductions on a 1040A tax return, the IRS demands that you include a Schedule C if you had more than $400 in interest earnings. On the form, they require you to specify the institution which you earned the interest from but they do not ask for the account number. Some of you may wonder why they only ask for the institution. There are two reasons why they take this approach:

1. If they are pursuing you, then they will most often want to do “discovery”, which is a fancy legal term for the process of gathering evidence they can use against you to support their case. The law does not allow them to send random requests for information to ALL financial institutions in order to find out which ones have your money because that would be a massive violation of your privacy. Therefore, they must target only specific institutions which they KNOW have your money and request the information they want directly from them. If you are stupid enough to tell them all the institutions that you bank with, then they have all the information they need in order to hang you and will send out a subpoena or discovery request directly to your banking institutions demanding your account statements and cancelled checks. The recent Banking Secrecy Act makes this event even easier for them, because unless you specifically “opted out”, then banks will think they are authorized by federal law to provide information about you to third parties including the IRS without your specific knowledge or consent. This is a very bad situation to put yourself in and you are hazarding your liberty and your property if you don't explicitly opt-out at every financial institution you do business with and make sure that all your accounts DO NOT have SSN's on them! The same Congressmen who want to STEAL your money by obfuscating the Internal Revenue Code also want to make sure they can destroy enough of your privacy so that it's convenient and cost effective to find out whatever they want to know about you to make it easier to steal the money.
2. If the IRS wants to steal your money, after they find out who you bank with, they will try to send out an IRS Form 668-A(c)(DO) “Notice of Levy” form. They can't send out this notice until they at least know who you bank with and what is in your accounts. Don't be stupid enough to tell them because you are outside the jurisdiction of the Internal Revenue Code and because the Fifth Amendment says you can't be compelled under both criminal or civil proceedings to incriminate yourself. The purpose of the 668-A(c)(CO) form is to convince the financial institution to surrender your money to the IRS and to do so:
 - 2.1. In violation of 26 U.S.C. §6331(a), which says that only “public officers” of the U.S. government may be levied upon. Paragraph (a) of this section is conveniently removed from the back of the form.
 - 2.2. In violation of the Fourth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, which says that our right to due process demands that a search warrant or seizure warrant must be issued by an impartial Magistrate before the federal government is authorized to seize or search your property.
 - 2.3. In violation of 42 U.S.C. §407(a), which says that Social Security payments may not be levied upon.
 - 2.4. In violation of 26 U.S.C. §6331(h)(1), which says that continuing levies may not exceed 15% of your salary.

Based on the above considerations, you should avoid making it easy for them to either do discovery with any of your present or past financial institutions or attempt illegal enforcement actions against you. You can accomplish this by the following techniques:

1. Change your banking institutions frequently. Do so at least once per year. This is especially true if you have direct deposit, because the IRS will often try to twist the arm of your employer to divulge where they do the direct deposit. Your employer may even divulge on your W-2 form and your monthly leave and earnings statements where your direct deposit is sent to. This makes you easy prey for a levy. By changing your financial institution frequently, when the IRS attempts discovery by serving a subpoena on your financial institution, the only account they will get any information back about is the account you had for the last year but not previous accounts. That way they won't get enough historical information to do a cash flow analysis or go further back than the present year to develop evidence about prior year imputed liabilities, which would be likely to involve penalties and interest that they can run up large debts against you to twist your arm to settle with.

2. Do NOT attach a Social Security Number to any of your financial accounts. We show you in Section 4.5.3.14 how to open a financial account without a Social Security Number. Keep in mind also that you don't have a valid Social Security Number because (see section 3.6.1 entitled "Social Security Asseveration of Coercion for further details):
 - 2.1. The number was assigned when you were not an adult without your consent.
 - 2.2. The program is compulsory because the government does not provide a way for you to terminate your participation, which means that you are compelled to be a witness against yourself in violation of the Fifth Amendment.
3. Avoid the use of credit. Most lenders will extend credit to only if you provide them with a Social Security Number. This provides another paper trail to track you down, and a way to find your real property so they can attach a lien to it. They can use the credit reporting bureaus like TRW, Trans Union, and Equifax to pull a credit report on you and track down your loans, and if they find a real estate loan that has a high dollar value, then they will go hunting for your property and serve the county recorder with an illegal "Notice of Lien", which incidentally violates the Fourth Amendment. Therefore, if you must use credit cards, have no more than one and preferably get them from other countries or international banks that have branches outside the country. Debit cards that are non-interest bearing also provide an attractive alternative that you can easily get without an SSN.
4. If you file tax returns, DO NOT fill out Schedule C forms. Instead, simply don't declare any institution you bank with or any earnings you might have and put "duress" under your signature on the return because you are outside the territorial or subject matter jurisdiction of the Internal Revenue Code, which only applies inside the federal zone, and because there is no statute making anyone liable for Subtitle A income taxes.

4.5.3.16 Make Yourself "Judgment Proof"

This step requires a lot of planning and organization and even some cooperation from your spouse. Being judgment proof means that even if the IRS does win against you in a court of law, they won't be able to collect from you because you have taken great care to ensure that they can't get to any assets to levy or seize, because they either can't find them or can't legally take those that they have found. We'd like to emphasize that the advice in this section is not intended to violate 26 U.S.C. §7206 item (4), which makes it a crime to conceal assets otherwise lawfully owed:

(4) Removal or concealment with intent to defraud.

Removes, deposits, or conceals, or is concerned in removing, depositing, or concealing, any goods or commodities for or in respect whereof any tax is or shall be imposed, or any property upon which levy is authorized by section 6331 with intent to evade or defeat the assessment or collection of any tax imposed by this title; or shall be guilty of a felony and, upon conviction thereof, shall be fined not more than $100,000 ($500,000 in the case of a corporation), or imprisoned not more than 3 years, or both, together with the costs of prosecution.

Note that the key word above is "defraud". After reading the truths in this document, we know who is really doing the "defrauding here", don't we? Consequently, if the other options presented elsewhere in this document are observed, then the reader will lawfully owe no income taxes and therefore, it will not be a criminal act to follow the advice in this section.

There are a number of areas you need to work on to become judgment proof:

1. Your marriage.

1.1 Before 1923, most people didn't even get marriage licenses. Instead, they just recorded the strictly religious marriage ceremony in their family bibles. Then the lawyers and the government in 1923 tried to get involved so they could more easily get jurisdiction and control over marital assets in court and violate people's constitutional rights in the process. They passed the Uniform Marriage and Marriage License Act, which gave the government jurisdiction over your marriage and your property no matter where you lived. That was about the time the Uniform Commercial Code was passed and the lawyers wanted a way to eliminate the constitutional protections people had within a marriage (right not to testify against self in 5th Amendment) so they could force spouses to testify against each other in financial matters and more easily recover judgments. Think about this: A license is a permission from the state to do something that would otherwise be illegal. Is it illegal to get married without a state marriage license? Absolutely NOT!! Marriage licenses are just a power grab by the state to take away more of your constitutional rights. The original purpose of marriage licenses was to permit interracial marriages, which were otherwise forbidden! Don't become a slave of the state and surrender your rights when you get married: That's a violation of the separation of church and state and makes you into a polygamist. Why? Because if you get married and get a license, then you not only married your spouse, you also married the state and your pastor who does the ceremony and signs the license is both a pastor and an agent of the state when he does the ceremony!

1.2 In community property states, such as California, New York, and Texas, where both spouses have a state marriage license, if the IRS tries to collect from you, they can take half of the collection from assets that are only in your spouse's name, unless you take measures to prevent this.

1.3 How can you protect your spouse? Here are some options:

1.3.1 Don't get a state marriage license. Then they can't prove you are married. Keep the evidence of your marriage in your family bibles (both your spouse and you) and don't let them see the bibles. That way they have no "state" or "government" documents proving you are married.

1.3.2 Get a "Common Law Marriage" and annul your marriage license. You can also download the extensive book on the subject below:

Sovereign Christian Marriage, Form #06.009
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

1.3.3 Keep everything in separate names with no joint accounts they can levy or seize.

1.3.4 If they try to take assets from any of your spouse's accounts, then prosecute them for wrongfully taking taxes.

1.3.5 File separate returns so they don't know who your spouse is and don't reveal your spouse's name on your tax returns.

1.3.6 Have a premarital or post-marital agreement that specifies the property rights of each spouse and which protects spouses from collection activities against the other spouse. Make sure you show this to the IRS before they try to collect any money from you so they know what they CAN'T do.

1.3.7 Just before collection activity begins by the IRS, gift your assets to your spouse and ensure that it is in his or her name. Before you do this, you better ensure that you trust your spouse and that you have a pre-marital agreement that keeps the assets of each spouse separate. Without an agreement, and especially in community property states like California, this doesn't work because the courts consider everything, regardless of whose name it is in, to be community property.

1.3.8 NEVER discuss with anyone why you have a premarital agreement or why you gift assets to anyone, because the IRS will try to establish that you got it to protect your assets.

2. Your business.

2.1 When you get a business license and ask the government to recognize your "fictitious business name", then you are subject to their legal jurisdiction and have to surrender your constitutional rights and privileges because you are relying on a privilege granted by the government to run your business under the "Collective Entity Rule". There is an unspoken contract that is signed when you get the business name that basically says:

"Caesar has recognized my business name and agrees to limit and protect my liability in running this business. Therefore, I must pay tribute (bribe) to the king as a reward for having that privilege and surrender all my constitutionally protected rights."

2.2 Because of the above, you should avoid using fictitious business names or getting a business license and if you have them, you should not keep any of your financial accounts or property in the name of your business. Being forced to get a business license violates your right to the pursuit of life, liberty, and happiness under the constitution. Instead, keep all accounts in your personal name or in the name of you and/or your spouse. That way, you still have constitutional rights, like the 5th Amendment right not to incriminate yourself or your spouse by not responding to a discovery request, subpoena, or deposition.

2.3 You are warned once again that businesses with fictitious names have a legal obligation to provide any and all documents and records about themselves in any legal proceeding, even if it might incriminate them, and against the 5th Amendment! This is because of a thing called the "Collective Entity Rule", which is talked about in section 3.17.3 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book. That's why the government wants you to get a business license: so they can have jurisdiction over you and can violate your constitutionally protected rights!

3. Moving your assets into trusts.

3.1 Trusts are a good vehicle to protect assets being illegally taken from you, both from IRS collections and from probate. The one problem with trusts is that people who have them don't have 5th amendment rights and must incriminate themselves as a "legal fiction" under the collective entity rule.

3.2 Get a living trust so that your assets don't have to go through probate and aren't subject to any IRS collection activity.

4. Moving your assets overseas.

4.1 Put them in bank accounts that don't require social security numbers and in banks that have strict confidentiality laws against the IRS.

5. Keeping your money out of banks.

5.1 Banks typically are ignorant of the law and will often honor an IRS "Notice of Levy", which isn't valid if you aren't a federal employee.

5.2 Ensure that your bank is aware of the IRS' authority to levy BEFORE you open an account. Show them the law and ask them to tell you how they handle IRS levies and under what circumstances they will honor the levy.

5.3 If you still insist on having most of your assets in banks, ensure that you provide to them a letter sent via registered mail and keep a copy of the receipt. The letter should have a clear explanation of the rights under the law of the IRS to levy accounts. Remind all of the banks you deal with in the letter that the only kind of financial account that can be levied is that of a government employee.

6. Avoiding cash and using gold coins and barter, so transactions are not traceable.

The Socialist Security Number is the key to the government's control over you. It is the mark of the beast. If you can get rid of that number and your participation in their socialist program, you will be in an offensive position. The most frequent question we hear from our readers is: "How can I quit the system?" You can use our free document below:

Resignation of Compelled Social Security Trustee, Form #06.002

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

If you don't like the Resignation of Compelled Social Security Trustee, Form #06.002 document or want other alternatives, then other additional methods are also available using government form. How you exit the system by approved government methods depends on your citizenship status. If you are a "U.S. citizen" (BAD IDEA!), IRS form 4029 is the form to use in order to initiate your exit from their system. This form allows you to terminate all taxes and contributions to the Social Security system, but you can only do it for religious reasons and when you do it, you surrender your right to collect any future benefits. We have this form online in our Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Online, Form #10.004 area under form 4.26. The direct link is below:

<http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Forms/IRS/IRSForm4029.pdf>

If you are a "national" or a "state national" as a person born within and domiciled within a state of the Union, then you aren't under federal law and you should be able to lawfully terminate payroll deductions for Social Security or Medicare by submitting a IRS Form W-8BEN to your employer at any time. See:

Federal and State Tax Withholding Options for Private Employers, Form #09.001

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

Furthermore, any tax paid under duress is refundable, and this includes Social Security Taxes, so if you quit their system, you can sue for a refund of back taxes. Here is what Bouvier's Law Dictionary, Vol. II, Third Revision, Eighth Edition, 1914, pp. 3230-3238 says on the subject of refunds for taxes paid under duress:

"Income tax: In order to invoke the powers of a court of equity to restrain the collection of illegal taxes, the case must be brought within the well recognized foundations of equitable jurisdiction [* ] and it must clearly appear not only that the tax is illegal, but that the property owner has no adequate remedy at law, and that there are special circumstances bringing the case under some recognized head of equity jurisdiction..." [Cites omitted.]

"Taxes become a lien on property only by statute..."

"Taxes illegally assessed and paid may always be recovered back, if the collector understands from the payor that the taxes are regarded as illegal and that suit will be instituted to compel the refunding of them; Erskine v. Van Arsdale, 15 Wall. (U.S.) 75, 21 L.Ed. 63, a case of internal revenue taxes."

"Where a state official receives money for a tax paid under duress with notice of its illegality, he has no right to it and the name of the state does not protect him from suit; Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co. v. O'Connor, 223 U.S. 280, 32 Sup.Ct. 216, 56 L.Ed. 436, Ann.Cas. 1913C, 1050."

"The rule is firmly established that taxes voluntarily paid cannot be recovered back, and payments with knowledge and without compulsion are voluntary; when paid under protest or with notice of suit, a recovery may, on occasion, be had, although, generally speaking, even protest or notice will not avail if the payment be made voluntarily, with full knowledge, and without any coercion by the actual or threatened exercise of power possessed, or supposed to be possessed, over person or property, from which there is no means of immediate relief than payment; Chesebrough v. United States, 192 U.S. 253, 24 Sup.Ct. 262, 48 L.Ed. 432 (purchase of war revenue stamps for deed without protest or notice)."
[Bouvier's Law Dictionary, Vol. II, Third Revision, Eighth Edition, 1914, pp. 3230-3238]

The key is proving you were under duress. Section 2.15 covers this subject in detail.

If you try to use the IRS Form W-8BEN to stop withholding of ALL taxes, some ignorant employers will not honor this form, and if they do, you will need to meet with their legal counsel and try to educate him or her as we suggest in section 4.5.3.5. If education doesn't help to change their mind, then the next alternative you have is to go independent and contract yourself out so you handle your own pay and benefits. If that doesn't work, as a last resort, you may need to sue your employer for violation of your property rights and conspiracy to commit grand theft under state law in the state that you work if they are a private employer or in federal court if they are a federal employer.

Minimizing risk exposure is probably the main reason why most people continue to pay taxes even though they know that doing so is illegal. Certainly then, minimizing risk exposure is a very important requirement for those "nontaxpayers" who want to follow the dictates of their conscience and the content of this book. We have already described many of the ways to minimize risk exposure in this chapter, but we haven't treated this as a separate topic until now. Minimizing your risk exposure consists in the following elements:

1. Getting educated so you can't be victimized by your own legal ignorance or an unscrupulous attorney. Reading as much of this book as you can will solve that problem.
2. Protecting your assets. We talked about this in sections 4.5.3.6 through 4.5.3.10.
3. Picking the approach to taxes that is right for you. We'll talk about this subject in this section.
4. Joining an insurance or indemnification program. We'll talk about this subject in this section.

We will now cover the last two items above in more detail.

Picking an approach to taxes that is right for you

There are basically four approaches you can take with payment of taxes. If you decide to fight to protect your hard-earned money from extortion and plunder by an out-of control government that is violating the law, then you will need to pick at least one of the strategies below before you begin your fight and prepare as best you can for whatever outcome is expected in order to minimize the damage. We have listed the four approaches here in increasing order of risk, where the highest number is the highest risk:

1. Become self-employed so no income is reported by an employer. You can do this by becoming an independent contractor or starting your own small business. This eliminates the middle man and puts you in control, but at the same time carries with it new risks of its own.
2. Working for an existing employer:
 - 2.1. Withhold now with your present employer under duress and try to litigate later to get it back. Make sure you document the existence of duress by getting notarized evidence from your employer of that fact so you have ammunition later to litigate with. Also take a third party witness who is not employed by the same company along when you submit your paperwork to your employer who can testify that you did so under duress.
 - 2.2. Stop withholding now and defend yourself later if the IRS goes after you for nonpayment. This approach should be used with employers who are cooperative and will allow you to stop withholding without firing you.
 - 2.3. Withhold if your employer forces you to by threatening to fire you if you don't and then sue your employer or withholding agent privately to recover your losses. This takes a lot of balls and could get you fired.

Option 1: The most risk-free method is #1 above because it puts you in complete control. No employer is violating the law by snitching on you and reporting “wages” on a W-2 that you don’t in fact have. Remember from reading section 5.6.7 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book that you only earn “wages” under the I.R.C. if you have a voluntary withholding agreement in place with your “employer” and that the only entities who qualify as “employers” under the Internal Revenue Code are the federal government and the governments of territories of the U.S.. You will also learn later in section 4.5.4.13 that the W-2 form provided by employers to the IRS should either not be provided at all or at least should contain zero for “wages” if you do not have a voluntary withholding agreement in place with your private employer.

Option 2.1: The second most risky method is to withhold taxes under duress. This method is to be undertaken as a last resort by persons whose employers have threatened or are expected to threaten to terminate their employees if they stop withholding income taxes. It is important if you choose this approach to get evidence that you were in fact under duress. There are lots of ways that you can do this: 1. By putting a duress statement on your withholding form and have your employer sign it acknowledging receipt; 2. By bringing along a witness who doesn’t work for your employer and isn’t a relative who can testify in court when you litigate to get your money back; 3. By putting saying under penalty of perjury on any income tax refund requests you submit that you were under duress when you paid the tax because of an errant employer.

Option 2.2: The third most risky approach is to stop withholding and then prepare yourself to litigate against the IRS if they come after you later to recover what they wrongfully think you owe. The advantage of this approach is that when the IRS finally does come after you, there will be a big pile of money to fight them with and also to support yourself with if you lose your job in the process. You might lose your job because the employer will at first reluctantly allow you to stop withholding and not tell you that they don’t like it, and then later invent some lame excuse to lay you off that you know is a lie because they don’t want to deal with a “high maintenance employee” and don’t want to risk being sued for discrimination later. If you take this approach, it’s best to make sure that you load your IRS administrative record down with tons of evidence that they can’t keep out of court and which you can present to a jury in your defense. That way, if they go after you for willful failure to file or tax evasion, you will have plenty of ammunition to defend yourself with that they can’t keep out of the court record or out of evidence at trial.

Option 2.3: The most risky approach of all is to sue your employer if the employer tells you that you will be terminated if you refuse to withhold. This approach probably works best for those who can litigate their own case and don’t need to hire an attorney. The reason is because it is hard to afford an attorney when you are unemployed or looking for work. If you choose this approach, bring along someone to witness what your employer tells you when you communicate your withholding wishes to him. Make sure it isn’t a relative and isn’t a fellow coworker who can be pressured by your boss. That way, you can be sure to have a witness, that he is an objective and disinterested witness because he isn’t a relative, and you can be sure that he won’t be pressured by your boss not to talk if you have to litigate. It’s also important to ensure that you save up a cash stash to live with or have other work or additional part-time work lined up so that if or when you get fired, you have the financial resources to fight the malicious and criminal employer with. This takes guts and knowledge because it is very confrontational.

Joining an insurance or indemnification program

Another good technique is to pursue some kind of insurance or indemnification program to protect yourself from financial or criminal liability. The purpose of an indemnification program is to prevent you from being criminally convicted or to reimburse you for financial losses incurred because of an illegal taking of property by the IRS through a lien or levy. We know of three such programs so far that do this:

1. The Save-A-Patriot fellowship (<http://save-a-patriot.org>) has a membership program that costs $925 to join and $70/year thereafter plus $40 per letter for each piece of correspondence that is required to respond to an IRS letter. Members indemnify each other if their property is levied or taken. Whenever there is an illegal taking of property by the IRS, an assessment letter is sent out to the members for their share of the amount needed to reimburse the member for the property or money that was taken. The members then mail their share of the assessment to the aggrieved party and he is fully reimbursed for the amount of his loss. It's a unique program and no one else offers anything like it.
2. The Free Enterprise Society (<http://www.freeenterprisesociety.com/>) has a program they call the "Legal Defense Fund" for nonfilers which protects them from criminal prosecution for failure to file. If anyone participating in this program is prosecuted for either willful failure to file or a false W-4, then Free Enterprise Society will defend you in court at their own expense. The initial cost is $850 and the annual maintenance fee is $300 per year thereafter.
3. The We the People Organization (<http://www.givemeliberty.org>) has been trying to start a legal defense fund similar to the Free Enterprise Society's beginning in 2003 that protects both employers and employees. They have been trying to get the membership levels high enough where they could hire a full-time staff but so far have not been able to get started.

One of the alternatives above may satisfy your requirement to minimize risk in the process of following the tax laws. Which one, if any, that you choose is up to you. Of the alternatives presented, the Save-A-Patriot program has been in existence the longest and has the most financial resources and members behind it.

4.5.3.19 Respond properly when the IRS comes knocking on your door

Resources:

- What to Do When the IRS Comes Knocking, Form #09.002-pamphlet that carefully explains exactly what you and your family members should do when the IRS comes knocking on your door
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
- United States v. Powell, 379 U.S. 48 (1964)-case that describes what the IRS has the burden of proving in order to enforce a summons or search

- 26 U.S.C. §6091: Place returns filed
<http://law.cornell.edu/uscode/text/26/6091>

It's very important that you learn how to respond properly if the IRS should pay you a personal visit. If you don't know how to respond, then you could incriminate yourself and give away all of the important defenses that you have worked hard to build up over the years to render yourself judgment proof. We have written a short pamphlet explaining exactly how to do this which you can download at the following:

What to Do When the IRS Comes Knocking, Form #09.002
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

You should give the above pamphlet to everyone in your family and have them read it. Follow the reading with a quiz to make sure everyone understands. You might even want to have a mock, unannounced raid where you pretend you are the IRS and see how your family members respond. Then have a family meeting afterward and critique each other.

4.5.4 The Administrative Battle

"A wise man gets more use from his enemies than a fool from his friends."

[Balthasar Gracian]

"If ye love wealth better than liberty, the tranquility of servitude better than the animating contest of freedom, go home from us in peace. We ask not your counsels or arms. Crouch down and lick the hands which feed you. May your chains set lightly upon you, and posterity forget that ye were our countrymen."
[Samuel Adams, speech at the Philadelphia State House, August 1, 1776]

"Walk in wisdom toward those who are outside [the Christian faith, or those in Government or the IRS], redeeming the time. Let your speech always be with grace, seasoned with salt, that you may know how you ought to answer each one."
[Colossians 4:5-6, Bible, NKJV]

The administrative battle is one fought primarily with clerks and agents at the IRS. You will be well-prepared to offensively do administrative battle after you have laid all of the groundwork we suggested earlier, including: being an informed and good Citizen, doing the preparation, and erecting strong defenses by making yourself judgment proof. The chief weapon you will be fighting against is your own ignorance and the complexities of the massive bureaucracy at the IRS that your plundered tax dollars have created over the years which feeds on and destroys your constitutional rights and liberties. If the remedies indicated in this subsection are ineffective and have all been exhausted, the next step after the administrative battle is a legal battle with the IRS in court.

4.5.4.1 Create and Maintain a Casefile

You will need to create and organize the documents related to your case so they can quickly be located. The casefile should go into a legal sized folder with bend-over tabs and at least five sections. You can buy these folders at the office supply store. We recommend the following product to organize your case files, which is available at your office supply store:

Name: Durable Pressboard Classification Folders, 2 Interior Partitions & 6 Fasteners; Legal Size, 10x14 ¾ Inches

Manufacturer: Globe-Weis; Eagle OPG, Inc.; St Louis, MO U.S.A;

<http://www.filing.com/top-tab-classification-folders.aspx>

Part Number: PU564 RED; UPC 64021

Bar code: 0-78973-64021-9

You will need three Classification Folders of the type indicated above:

Table 4-5: Individual Casefiles Required

#	Folder label (front cover)	Purpose
1	Internal Revenue Service	For all your administrative and legal dealings with the Internal Revenue Service related to the federal income tax.
2	State Income Tax	For all your administrative and legal dealings with your state income tax authority.
3	Emancipation	Used to record all your efforts at emancipation from the government, including denumbering yourself, expatriating, etc.

Below is an outline of recommendations for organizing your folders for your federal and state (#1 and #2 respectively) income taxes:

1. The folder will have six sections or areas you can put things. We recommend allocating the six sections as follows:
 - 1.1. Case Summary: A sheet of paper that has the following information. This should be at the front of your folder or on the cover page, so that you will easily be able to contact all of the involved parties:
 - 1.1.1. Plaintiff information, including attorney and client name, voice number, fax number, mailing address, email address, and home phone.
 - 1.1.2. Defendant information, including attorney and client name, voice number, fax number, mailing address, email address, and home phone.
 - 1.1.3. Court contact information, including the judge name, address, clerk name, clerk voice and fax phone numbers, and court hours or schedule, which are usually part of the local rules.
 - 1.2. Index. This is a sequential log of all documents pertaining to your case. It has the matter name and the case number at the top of the index. Below the title is a list of documents, with four columns, including Date, serial number, Title, and Notes. Each document gets a serial number as it comes in, and this number, along with the date received, goes in the upper right hand corner of each document BEFORE it is filed in the sections below. The entries are made in chronological order, and the first document gets serial number 1. Going through this index will help you

1.3. Discovery. This section contains subpoenas, deposition transcripts, Requests for Admissions, Notice to Produce Documents, FOIA requests and responses, etc. Note that these types of documents generally are NOT filed with the court.

1.4. Pleadings (legal papers filed with the court, such as petitions, responses, motions, proof of service, etc.).

1.5. Correspondence. This is all of the letters, notes, and communications made with the opposing counsel.

2. When new documents come it or are produced by you and served on the opposing side, you should first serialize them (give them a sequential serial number and record the number, the title, the source or destination in the Index). We pencil these numbers on the upper right corner of the first page of each correspondence received or sent. Then you should file the document(s) immediately. You should stamp or write the date received or sent on every piece of correspondence going both directions. Don't throw anything away and keep copies of everything you send because you may need it! It is very important to stay organized and to exercise due diligence at all times so you are prepared for any kind of legal emergency. What type of emergency might that be? The opposing side might call an Ex Parte hearing on very short notice in order to catch you off guard.

3. Every piece of correspondence you receive should have a response. Don't ignore anything or you will find yourself in trouble. Some patriots also get sets of colored tabs and put the yellow tabs on letters received and blue tabs on the response, and put the two tabs next to each other in sequence to make it easy to see if they still need to complete a response.

4. There are many different software packages to automate the management of case information. These programs are called Case Management Systems. We have developed a custom one of our own called the Family Legal Assistant (FLA) and we eventually intend to offer it (on the Family Guardian Website) to Tax Freedom Fighters like yourself free of charge as time and resources permit. It is very extensive, is based on Microsoft Access, and it easy to use. It also has a built-in help system.

For the Emancipation folder, we recommend the following organization. This is how we have ours organized, and each section is one of the six separate sections in the folders we recommend. Put them in the order listed below:

1. Expatriation. Has the following documents:

1.1. Expatriation document that you sent to the U.S. Attorney General.

1.2. Proof of service and certified mail receipts for all Expatriation documents.

1.3. IRS Form W-8

1.4. SS-5 form showing you are an American Citizen instead of a "U.S. citizen"

1.5. Documents related to the government's response to your expatriation document.

2. Government. This contains:

2.1. Your voter registration affidavit and attachment. (Certified copy.)

2.2. Government Security clearance application showing you declaring yourself an "American Citizen" instead of a "U.S. Citizen". (Certified copy.)

2.3. Jury summons response showing you as an American Citizen instead of a "U.S. citizen". (Certified copy.)

3. Financial. This contains:

3.1. Account applications for all your financial accounts, showing the application and the W-8BEN attachment showing you are a non-resident non-person.

3.2. Any correspondence received or sent related to your non-resident non-person status to or from your employer.

4. Employers/Clients. This contains the following documents submitted to your employers over the years:

4.1. W-4 Exempt forms you submitted.

4.2. W-8 Certificate of Foreign Status forms you submitted.

4.3. IRS form 6450's.

4.4. Copies of any documents or job applications you submitted that asked if you were a "U.S. citizen" and showing your answer as "Sovereign American Citizen" instead of "U.S. citizen".

4.5. Any correspondence received or sent related to your non-resident non-person status to or from your employer.

You will need a two-hole punch to punch each document as it comes in so that it can be added to your files easily. It's also a good idea to get a laminated labeling machine and use it to label each folder and each section in each folder with white tape a black letters. We bought the Brother PT-310 labeling machine at Office Depot and a plastic case to keep it in. This will help keep everything organized and pretty so you are prepared and ready to do battle.

4.5.4.2 Understand the Tax Process and the Laws that govern it

Tax litigation normally follows the approximate sequence below. Your situation may be different than this. This process was extracted from IRS publication 1 Entitled “Your Rights As a Taxpayer” and a study of the regulations. There is an irony in the name of the publication 1. Did you notice it? The implication is that if you aren’t a “Taxpayer” (e.g., one who is not liable for tax), then you have no rights! Why don’t they have another publication entitled “Your Rights as a Nontaxpayer and an American Citizen”?

Both IRS and citizen should work diligently to gather as much evidence about what the other side knows as possible. This will ensure that FUD (Fear, Uncertainty, and Doubt tactics cannot be used at the bargaining table to gain advantage).

What's important to note about this process is that American Citizens are deprived of their property WITHOUT due process at step 16, which means that their property is seized and levied before they ever have a chance to have their case heard in a court of law that is part of the Judiciary branch. This clearly violates the 5th and 14th amendment Constitutional protections of the citizen, which is at the heart of what is wrong with the tax system. It is this very violation of due process that creates most of the terror in citizens minds about paying their taxes when due and without objection. As long as it is economical and simple to in effect "steal" citizens property or seize it without a court hearing, we have a tyrannical state that will oppress the people.

4.5.4.3 Structure your dealings to maximize evidence collection

At every stage of both the administrative and the legal process, it is extremely important that you structure your dealings with the tax authorities in such a way as to maximize the production of authentic evidence that will be useful for you in court should you ever have to litigate your case. Such evidence is a very effective offensive weapon in the courtroom. Furthermore, it gives you plenty to talk about when you walk into court, and an effective way to entertain and enlighten the jury about the government fraud and extortion that is going on vis a vis the income tax. Because most judges don't like especially pro per litigants talking about the law in the courtroom (see section 6.11.1 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book, the case of Dr. Phil Roberts as one example), having lots of evidence of your good-faith dealings and your sincere search for truth and justice will prevent you from being prosecuted for a "Willful Failure To File" 26 U.S.C. §7203 charge and could make the IRS look really bad. For instance, if you can record an IRS agent being unhelpful, obnoxious, or unwilling to provide evidence of his authority or the law that makes you liable, then it will be easier to smear the IRS.

Below are some pointers on how to maximize evidence gathering that we have found effective:

1. Send everything to your employer and the IRS as an affidavit with a proof of service by mail. Keep the certified mail receipts and copies of all correspondence for your records stapled together.
2. Insist that all responses from both the IRS, your employer, or your financial institutions must be IN WRITING and that you will not accept phone calls unless you initiate them at a prearranged time so you can record them at home.
3. All items of evidence should be serialized with a sequential number, locked up in a safe place, and the serial number and document description entered into a log book or electronic record. All evidence needs to be carefully protected, organized, and maintained under your positive control at all times. This is the only way you can authenticate the evidence for the judge and the court and later get it admitted.
4. IMPORTANT: When you send correspondence requesting the IRS or your state income taxing authority confirm certain findings of yours, always give them a time limit to respond, and notify them quite clearly that if they don't respond, they have admitted the truthfulness of your conclusions. Identify your correspondence as a "Legal Notice" and tell them you are abiding by the Uniform Commercial Code section 1-205, which allows that as long as you give them advance notice of the established rule, they must conform. If they refuse to respond to any of your issues and instead respond with a notice that your tax return is frivolous, send them a "Verified Affidavit of Default" documenting the facts they have admitted to and sign it under penalty of perjury.
5. If you want to increase the authority of your "Verified Affidavit Of Default" above, then you can tell the IRS to send their response to your correspondence to the Notary Public instead of directly to you, and have the Notary Public sign the "Verified Affidavit of Default" instead of you. The Notary Public is a licensed officer of the court who has more credibility than you do.
6. Buy a video recorder, a tripod, and have spare tapes and batteries. If the IRS visits your house or calls you in for a deposition or a summons, then record the entire event on video tape.
7. Buy a Telephone Recording Control unit online and hook it up to the microphone jack on your computer. This device plugs into your sound card mic input and monitors both sides of a telephone conversation surreptitiously.
8. Buy sound recording software. Our favorite is Audio Recorder Pro for $29. This program records any audio coming into the mic jack as an MP3 file. It is available at:
<http://www.ezaudiorecorder.com/>
9. Make all calls related to income taxes to either your employer or the IRS from your home phone so you can record them. Before you start the call, open the Audio Recorder Pro. You can access this from the START->Programs->Audio Recorder Pro>Audio Recorder Pro menu.

NOTE: The Windows Sound Recorder can record for no more than 60 seconds at a time. If you want to record longer phone conversations, you will need to buy a third party program like Audio Recorder Pro. We surveyed and tried several programs and this turns out to be the easiest to use, cheapest, and most functional of them all.

10. On the Audio Recorder Pro, select the Source->Microphone.
11. Create a shortcut on your Windows STARTBAR with the Sound Recorder icon so you can very quickly start up the Sound Recorder if the IRS calls you unannounced. Be prepared so you don't lose evidence.
12. Select START->Control Panel->Sounds and Audio Devices. The Audio Devices dialog box will appear.
13. On the Sounds and Audio Devices dialog box, click the Audio tab.

- 14. In the Audio Properties dialog box, click on the Volume button for the Sound Recording option group.
- 15. Check the Select check box under the MIC input to select the Telephone Recording Control connected to the MIC input for recording.

- 16. Start the Audio Recorder Pro in Record mode by clicking on the Red Dot and then make your call.
- 17. When you contact the person you wish to speak with, tell them the following:

I'd like to remind you that this call is being recorded for quality control purposes

This will keep you out of trouble. Some states are what is called “two party” states, where the consent of parties on BOTH ends of the conversation must be obtained in order to avoid committing a crime in the process of recording an otherwise private conversation.

18. At the conclusion of the conversation, stop the Sound Recorder and save your *.WAV file. Save the sound file it with a standard filename such as the following:

IRSYYYYMMDD-800-432-6566.WAV

Where:

IRS=The person you talked to YYYY=The four digit year.

MM=The month

DD=The day

800-432-6566= The phone number you dialed.

19. Keep everything related to evidence on your computer backed up. We bought a 2 GB Iomega Jaz drive and back everything up frequently. We also keep an off-site backup in case the IRS decides to get cute and raid you with the blessing of some corrupt judge’s court order to destroy your evidence.
20. DO NOT accept calls from the IRS at work because you can’t record them! Instead, insist with everyone you deal with that you initiate all calls at a prearranged time from your home so you can record everything. Don’t give them your work number, because they will try to call you there unannounced and catch you off guard.

For your entertainment and education, we have recorded most of our calls with the IRS and have them posted on the Family Guardian Website to educate you on some of the tactics you can use in dealing with the IRS on the phone.

4.5.4.4 Learn Proper Administrative Procedure

In order to beat the IRS at its own game, you will need to know the rules and procedures they must comply with. This means you will need to understand the Administrative Procedures Act, the Freedom of Information Act, and the rules of evidence.

Below are some links and resources you can used to educate yourself on administrative procedure:

In the legal field, discovery is the process of gathering evidence for use in either an administrative or judicial proceeding. The Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) found in 5 U.S.C. §552 and the Privacy Act of 1974, found in 5 U.S.C. §552a can be powerful tools in your arsenal that are very useful for discovery of information relating to the IRS and the federal government. The FOIA is used for any government information that is not protected by the privacy act, such as any IRS system of records. The Privacy Act of 1974 protects personal information about human beings but also allows those persons to get copies of any and all such information provided they authenticate themselves when they request it with a notarized signature. Note that these two acts have no jurisdiction on your state governments. Each state has its own laws and is foreign to the U.S. government, so you will need to look at the laws for your individual state to find out if it has laws equivalent to these two acts at the state level. A good place to start in searching your state laws is on the Family Guardian Website at the following address:

<http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/Research/StateIncomeTaxes.htm>

There are specific procedures and processes you must follow when you use the Freedom of Information Act and the Privacy Act of 1974 to do discovery. The best place to find out about these procedures and processes is to read the law and underlying regulations yourself. The links below contain the full text of these two acts:

Freedom of Information Act:

<http://law.cornell.edu/uscode/text/5/552>

Privacy Act of 1974:

<http://law.cornell.edu/uscode/text/5/552a>

NOTE: Requesting personal information about yourself requires that you cite your right to the records under the Privacy Act (5 U.S.C. §552a) and provide a notarized signature authenticating who you are. This ensures that the government organization you are making the request of will have proper authority to release the information. Part of the reason they are so careful about personal information is that such information cannot be released to third parties without the express written consent of the person whose records are being requested. The only exception to this confidentiality rule for personal information is information about the activities of federal agencies and public servants acting in their official capacity.

You should send your FOIA/Privacy Act request to the address you locate on the following website under “Service Centers”:

<http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/Contacts/Contacts.htm>

Address your FOIA inquiry to the address identified above and on the second line of the address, indicate “Disclosure Officer”.

The Freedom of Information Act is useful for public records that don’t contain information about specific human beings. It applies to everyone in the federal government EXCEPT Congress.

Of course Congress exempted themselves: they wrote the law! Hypocrites!

One of the most useful documents you can get your hands on is Part II of the Federal Register, Vol. 63, No. 242, pages 69716 through 69929 for the year 1998. This document lists all systems of records published by the Department of the Treasury, which includes the Internal Revenue Service. Our IMF Request Letter found later in section 3.15.5 of this book, item #8, includes a request for this document, and that letter has been successful in getting that document for previous FOIA requests. Once you have this document, you can use it to determine other candidate records you can request using the FOIA. This entire document has been entered into our Master File Decoder program so that it is electronically searchable. The program also automates the production of FOIA requests appropriate for your specific situation in order to simplify the discovery process. You can download this excellent program below:

Master File Decoder

<http://sedm.org/ItemInfo/Programs/MFDecoder/MFDecoder.htm>

Most FOIA responses are provided free of charge by the IRS. The Response to the IMF Request Letter appearing in section 3.15.5 coming back from the IRS was 89 pages and they didn’t charge us for it.

The response that we got back from our FOIA request to the IRS for our IMF included IRS Notice 393 (Rev. 4-94), Catalog Number 45803X. That notice is a warning about withheld records. We repeat it below for your benefit.

INFORMATION ON AN IRS DETERMINATION TO WITHHOLD RECORDS EXEMPT FROM THE FREEDOM OF INFORMATION ACT-5 U.S.C. §552

Appeal Rights

You may file an appeal with the Internal Revenue Service within 35 days after we (1) determine to withhold records, (2) determine that no records exist, or (3) deny a fee waiver or a favorable fee category. If some records are released at a later date, you may file within 35 days after the date the last records were released.

The appeal must be in writing, must be signed by you, and must contain the following information:

- Your name and address
- description of the requested records
- date of the request (and copy, if possible)
- date of the letter denying the request (and a copy, if possible)

Mail your appeal to:

Internal Revenue Service
Richmond Appeals Office-FOIA Appeal
2727 Enterprise Parkway, Suite 100
Richmond, VA 23229

Judicial Review

If we deny your appeal, or if we do not send you a reply within 20 days (not counting Saturdays, Sundays, or legal public holidays) after the date we received the appeal, you may file a complaint with the U.S. District Court in the district where (1) you reside, (2) your principal place of business is located, or (3) the records are located. You may also file in the District Court for the District of Columbia.

The court will treat your complaint according to the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure (F.R.C.P.). Service of process is governed by Rule 4(d)(4) and (5), which requires that a copy of the summons and complaint be (1) personally served on the United States Attorney for the district in which the lawsuit is brought; (2) sent by registered or certified mail to the Attorney General of the United States at Washington, D.C.; and (3) sent by registered or certified mail to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Attn: CC:El:D, 1111 Constitution Avenue, N.S., Washington, D.C. 20224.

In such a court case, the burden is on the Internal Revenue Service to justify withholding the requested records, determining that no records exist, or denying a fee waiver or a favorable fee category. The court may assess against the United States reasonable attorney fees and other litigation costs incurred by the person who takes the case to court and who substantially prevails. You will have substantially prevailed if the court determines, among other factors, that you had to file the lawsuit to obtain the records you requested and that the Internal Revenue Service had no reasonable grounds to withhold the records. See Internal Revenue Service Regulations 26 C.F.R. § 601.702 for further details.

Exemptions

The Freedom of Information Act, 5 U.S.C. §552, does not apply to matters that are—

- (b)(5) inter-agency or intra-agency memorandums or letters which would not be available by law to a party other than an agency in litigation with the agency;

- (b)(7) records or information compiled for law enforcement purposes, but only to the extent that the production of such law enforcement records or information

- (A) could reasonably be expected to interfere with enforcement proceedings,

- (C) could reasonably be expected to constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy,
- (D) could reasonably be expected to disclose the identity of a confidential source, including a State, local or foreign agency or authority or any private institution which furnished information on a confidential basis, and, in the case of a record or information compiled by criminal law enforcement authority in the course of a criminal investigation, or by an agency conducting a lawful national security intelligence investigation, information furnished by a confidential source,
- (E) would disclose techniques and procedures for law enforcement investigations or prosecutions, or would disclose guidelines for law enforcement investigations or prosecutions if such disclosure could reasonably be expected to risk circumvention of the law, or

- 6 3. Citations of the implementing regulations that authorize the IRS to assess, collect, or penalize in the context of 7 Subtitles A through C of the Internal Revenue Code. There simply are no such implementing regulations! The IRS
 8 will try to say that Part 301 of 26 C.F.R. are the implementing regulations, but this is a lie. The implementing 9 regulations must be contained in the regulations coming under section 1 of the code!

13 Most congressmen get a lot of questions and correspondence from their constituents and after they have been around a
 14 while, they know exactly which questions to avoid to keep the IRS out of trouble. Therefore, they are likely to avoid 15 questions about the above, and especially if they demonstrate unusual legal skill and research. Therefore, you should try to 16 keep the requests as simplistic as possible. The best type of lawmaker to make such requests to are the most junior
 17 members of Congress who just got into office on their first term and are green behind the ears. Hit them between the eyes
 18 with questions about the above and sound innocent. Don’t reveal why you need to know or that it even relates to income
 19 taxes. Create a diversion to make it sound like, for instance, you are a patriotic high school student who is excited about 20 being a Congressman some day and whose teacher asked them to do a research project. Snow the crap out of them so they 21 won’t know what hit them, even though you will use their answer to nail the IRS up to the wall and torture them at an
 22 examination hearing and in court with it! If you get some solid answers to the above, please send them to us so we can post
 23 them on the Family Guardian Website!

24 In many cases, the Congressman you write with your questions won’t have the answer no matter how simple your question.
 25 For such cases, he or she will likely turn the question over to the Congressional Research Service or the IRS. Requests that
 26 are simple enough to answer without much research will usually be answered by sending to the constituent a copy of Congressional Research Service Report 97-59A along with a short letter of explanation. The rebutted version of that report appears in its entirety in section 5.2 of the Tax Fraud Prevention Manual, Form #06.008. You should be ready for the answers they will give out of that report, and might want to include with your questions either the entire rebutted report or the excerpts that are pertinent to the question you are asking. Force them to respond to the rebutted version of the report so they don't have any room to wiggle out of telling the truth.

For those requests that are forwarded on the IRS, the Congressman will then get the response back from the IRS and forward it with a cover letter. The IRS responses are rather blunt and threatening in most cases. One of our readers said their request to their Congressman for information resulted in a threatening letter from the IRS (Individuals Representing Satan) that said he should spend less time asking questions and more time paying his taxes! Extortionists!

Another means of discovery are interrogatories, requests for admissions, subpoenas, and depositions you might hold during the litigation phase of your case. How to accomplish these means of discovery is beyond the scope of this book. However, Nolo Press sells some very good legal self-help books that are written specifically for those without much legal training that teach you how to prepare these types of discovery. Their website is at:

The Lawyer Jokes section of their website is hilarious!

4.5.4.6 Protect Yourself from Prejudice and False Presumption on Government Forms

The war to free yourself from taxes is a technical war. It involves structure, process, discipline, and the same kind of devious tactics the IRS uses. If you are going to win the war, you have to fight dirty but obey the law. This section contains several pointers on how to fight dirty:

1. Redefine terms used on IRS forms

- 1.1. None of the terms found on any IRS form are legally defined using sections of enacted positive law. Even if they were defined on the form or the IRS website, the IRS Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.), Section 4.10.7.2.8 says that you can't trust the definitions anyway. Therefore, you are encouraging false presumption that will prejudice your rights if you sign any government form without at providing a legal definition of the terms on the form.
- 1.2. Employers will frequently coerce employees to submit W-4 forms and will tell them that they must sign the form and not make any changes to the form. Also, some persons who have been convicted of tax crimes will be ordered by the court to submit 1040 forms as a condition of their parole and that these forms must be signed and cannot be modified or altered.
- 1.3. The above abuses and coercion are a violation of the First Amendment, which says that we have a right to free speech. Implicit in this right is the right to not communicate with our government on a tax form or by any other means.
- 1.4. When you are backed into a corner by a corrupt judge or ignorant employer as described above, one very helpful technique is to do the following:
 - 1.4.1. Fill out the form as they request.
 - 1.4.2. Put a prominent notice somewhere on the form stating: "Not valid without attached statement."
 - 1.4.3. Then on the attached statement, modify the definition of terms used on the form. This approach, by the way, is exactly the trick the government pulls to make you liable to begin with: word games. Fighting fire with fire can be very effective.
- 1.5. Some terms you might want to explain or modify the definitions of on the W-4 and 1040 forms include:
 - 1.5.1. "United States": means the federal United States, which includes the District of Columbia, federal territories, and enclaves within the states as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)9) and (a)(10).
 - 1.5.2. "Penalty of perjury": means under fraud, duress, coercion, non-consensually, involuntarily, and in violation of the law.
 - 1.5.3. "Your middle name": Make it "nontaxpayer". You are entitled to use any name you want, as long as the intent is not to commit fraud.
 - 1.5.4. "Employee": person who receives money in an equal exchange for the value of his labor from a private, nongovernmental entity not subject to either the territorial or subject matter jurisdiction of the federal government under Subtitles A or C of the Internal Revenue Code.
 - 1.5.5. "income": within the context of I.R.C. Subtitle A means ONLY "corporate profit" according to the U.S. Supreme Court under the following cases (and others):

1.5.5.1. Bowers v. Kerbaugh-Empire Co., 271 U.S. 170, 174 (1926)

1.5.5.2. Flint v. Stone Tracy Co., 220 U.S. 107, 55 L.Ed. 389, 31 Sup.Ct.Rep. 342 Ann. Cas.;

1.5.5.3. Doyle v. Mitchell Bros. Co., 247 U.S. 179, 185, 38 S.Ct. 467 (1918);

1.5.5.5. U.S. v. Whiteridge, 231 U.S. 144, 34 S.Sup. Ct. 24 (1913)

2. Quit Social Security and Invalidate the social security number in every correspondence with the IRS.

2.1. Nearly every tax liability a person can have originates from one's status as a federal "employee", agent, contractor, or benefit recipient. If this relationship is eliminated, then in most cases the liabilities go away as well. See the following form at:

Why Your Government is a Thief Or You Are A Federal Employee for Federal Income Tax Purposes, Form #05.008

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

2.2. An important and essential way to terminate at least part of this employment relationship with the federal government is to terminate participation in Social Security. This may be accomplished as follows:

Resignation of Compelled Social Security Trustee, Form #06.002

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

2.3. Once the employment relationship has been terminated, the government will try to falsely "assume" or "presume" that the relationship continues to exist. They will continue to use the Social Security Number, even though it no longer may lawfully be associated with you. If they do this when sending you a notice or communicating with you, you can legitimately claim that the number the IRS has been using for you is no longer valid and wrong. This will turn their world upside down because they can't track you without the number any more. See the form below:

Wrong Party Notice, Form #07.002

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

2.4. To ensure that the IRS correctly eliminates and removes the SSN do the following: Under "SSN" on every tax form, line it out in thick black pen and then write "WRONG See attached Wrong Party Notice". Then in your letter mention the following:

2.4.1. State that the social security number used on all previous forms and correspondence both from you and to you has used the wrong social security number and there is not correct one.

2.4.2. State that there is a severe criminal penalty for using the wrong identifying number as provided under the following laws:

2.4.2.1. Social Security Benefit Act, P.L 97-123, Section 4.

2.4.2.2. Tax Reform Act of 1976 (P.S. 94-455).

2.4.2.3. Social Security Act, Section 209: 1 year in jail and a $1,000 fine.

2.4.3. Congressional Research Service Report 97-59A entitled Frequently Asked Questions Concerning the Federal Income Tax, Question #5 entitled "Do Taxpayers Have the Right, under the Fifth Amendment, Not to Answer Questions on Their Tax Returns?" says you can claim the Fifth Amendment and not answer questions, regardless of 26 U.S.C. §6109 that talks about a requirement for identifying numbers.

2.4.4. IRS Handbook for Special Agents, Form #09.032, Section 342.12 and 342.15, which clearly states that persons can refuse to disclose information about themselves based on their Fifth Amendment rights. See Form #09.032 for a free downloadable copy of this book.

2.5. Declare a fictitious business name with the Secretary of State in your State and request a new Taxpayer ID number for the business. Put all your accounts under that name and ID number so the IRS can't find your assets based on the SSN.

3. Include a "duress" statement with everything you file or sign, making it inadmissible as evidence in court

3.1. As stated in the Supreme Court case of Weeks v. United States, 232 U.S. 383 (1914), evidence that was illegally obtained cannot be used in court! Without evidence, the IRS can't prosecute you!

3.2. Illegally obtained evidence includes evidence obtained through either fraud or duress. Here are your defenses for each:

3.2.1. Fraud occurred on the IRS W-4 (see section 6.9.8 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book), the W-8BEN (see section 6.9.15 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book). The courts have agreed that these forms are untrustworthy in the following cases:

3.2.1.1. Luhring v. Glotzbach, 304 F.2d. 560 (4th Cir. 1962).

3.2.1.2. Einhorn v. DeWitt, 618 F.2d. 347 (5th Cir. 1980).

3.2.1.3. United States v. Goldstein, 342 F.Supp. 661 (E.D.N.Y. 1972).

3.2.1.4. Boulez v. C.I.R., 810 F.2d. 209 (D.C. Cir. 1987).

3.2.1.5. United States v. Will, 671 F.2d. 963, 967 (6th Cir. 1982).

3.2.2. The IRS' own Internal Revenue Manual states that its publications cannot be trusted:

"IRS Publications, issued by the National Office, explain the law in plain language for taxpayers and their advisors... While a good source of general information, publications should not be cited to sustain a position."
[\[Internal Revenue Manual \(I.R.M.\), Section 4.10.7.2.8 \(05-14-1999\)\]](#)

3.2.3. Duress and force was obtained in getting you to prepare and sign the form. Such duress includes, but is not limited to:

- Your past threatening correspondence, in which you threatened $1,000 in fines for allegedly frivolous returns, a 25% penalty for failure to file a return by the due date, even though I provided a return that I still say is accurate in Ref. (2). A $69 enforcement fee. This kind of disrespectful, threatening, and harassing correspondence does not permit me to sign anything voluntarily that I might send to you.
- Penalties under sections 19131-19132 and 19177 through 19179 of the California R&TC:
 - 19131 Failure to file
 - 19132 Penalties
 - 19177 Abusive tax shelters
 - 19178 Aiding or abetting understatement of tax liability
 - 19179 Frivolous returns
- Scare stories from my coworkers and friends about mistreatment by the Franchise Tax Board and the Internal Revenue Service, including strong-arm tactics like your Ref. (1), levies, liens, and seizures.
- 26 U.S.C. §7201: Attempt to evade or defeat tax (up to $100,000 fine or imprisonment not more than 5 years along with attorney fees).
- 26 U.S.C. §7203: Willful Failure to File (fine up to $25,000 or imprisonment for one year or both)
- Hundreds of different penalties for late filing or underpayment, as documented in Part 20 of the Internal Revenue Manual, available at: <http://www.irs.gov/irm/part20/index.html>
- IRS Liens and levies being imposed for nonpayment of taxes.
- Receipt of threatening mail communications from the IRS (e.g. CP-515 "Notice of Deficiency" and subsequent Notice of Lien and Levy").
- Constant anxiety from and harassment by IRS agents (by telephone and otherwise).

3.2.4. The signature under "penalty of perjury" is obviously invalid because you were not competent to understand or interpret the Internal Revenue Code properly or to assess yourself properly and could not rely on any IRS forms or publications because of the courts have ruled that they can't be trusted.

3.2.5. If the IRS sends you anything via certified mail, make sure you write in big capital letters in pen "DURESS" next to or above your signature on the return receipt when you accept delivery.

4. If you are filing a 1040NR form, this form and the accompanying booklet completely violates the Privacy Act (see section 5.5.9 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book) and is bogus and need not be completed. State that you are not obligated to complete the form at all under such circumstances and that the IRS ought to feel lucky for getting anything from you. Tell them you want an indication in writing of the following aspects of the form:

4.1. The expiration date.

4.2. Whether completion of the form is "mandatory" or "voluntary" and if it is "mandatory", the section of the code that creates the tax liability that makes it "mandatory".

5. If you are filing enclosures or attachments with your forms or returns, ensure that every enclosure is marked "Not valid without attached forms and all enclosures." This prevents the IRS from removing and conveniently losing the attachments to a return that documents your reasons or rationale for making the claims you did, which then can make it appear that your return is frivolous when in fact it wasn't if the attachment had been kept.

6. Say that you will gladly pay the tax and admit to being guilty if the IRS will show you the law that makes you liable for paying income taxes. This looks very good in front of juries. And since there is no law establishing liability for Subtitles A through C personal income taxes, they won't be able to answer.

7. Do a rescission on all past signatures which involved other than a zero assessment.

7.1. Say that any signatures on tax forms you filed, including 1040, 1040NR, or 2555, which imply other than a zero tax liability are null and void because they were filed under duress, mistake, and coerced fraud. We have a sample statement of this kind with our Request for Refund letter for you to reuse.

8. Give legal notice in your correspondence to the IRS requiring a response to your correspondence within a short period or tell them they are admitting your position, and then mail it at the end of the waiting period. Unless you keep the postmark with the original correspondence, like we do, it's hard to defend yourself against this tactic. The IRS has tried this on us before!

9. Include a Copyright Notice on every form you file stating the following:

COPYRIGHT NOTICE: You do NOT have my permission to share any part of this tax return with parties outside of your organization, including any other government agency or the Internal Revenue Service, absent a signed court order permitting discovery. This would clearly violate my wishes and the COPYRIGHT that applies to this return.

10. Include a Constructive Notice at the beginning of every form you file:

CONSTRUCTIVE NOTICE

IF THIS AFFIDAVIT IS NOT PROPERLY REBUTTED WITH A COUNTER-AFFIDAVIT WITHIN THIRTY (30) DAYS FROM THE DATE OF ITS MAILING, ALL PARAGRAPHS NOT DENIED SHALL BE CONFESSED AFFIRMED, BY SUCH DEFAULT, AND SHALL BE ACCEPTED AS DISPOSITIVE, CONCLUSIVE FACTS BY THE DEPARTMENT OF TREASURY-INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE, AND/OR STATE TAX AGENCY WHEREIN THE DISTRICT DIRECTOR AND/OR THE CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICER OR OTHER PROPERLY DELEGATED AUTHORITY, HAD THE OPPORTUNITY AND "FAILED TO PLEAD." ALL COUNTER-AFFIDAVITS MUST BE SIGNED WITH THE VALID LEGAL NAME OF THE RESPONDENT. FICTITIOUS OR INCOMPLETE NAMES OF RESPONDENTS OR THOSE NOT CONTAINING COMPLETE LEGAL FIRST, MIDDLE, AND LAST NAMES AND EMPLOYEE NUMBER AND PHOTOCOPY OF DRIVER'S LICENSE SHALL NOT CONSTITUTE A VALID RESPONSE BECAUSE NOT PROPERLY AUTHENTICATED. COUNTER-AFFIDAVIT MUST ALSO PROVIDE LEAL EVIDENCE DOCUMENTING YOUR POSITION OR THE RESPONSE SHALL BE CONSIDERED A FRIVOLOUS NON-RESPONSE SUBJECT TO A $500 PENALTY FOR WASTING MY PRECIOUS TIME AND LABOR, BOTH OF WHICH THE SUPREME COURT HAVE SAID ARE MY PROPERTY IN BUTCHER'S UNION v. CRESCENT CITY CO., 111 U.S. 746 (1883).

This Affidavit and all attached documents have been made a part of the Public Record and will be used for evidence in administrative and judicial proceedings at law, or equity regarding this case. ALL of these documents must be maintained in Claimant's Administrative File.

Signature

11. Date and tab (exhibit #) every document you file with the IRS for date of receipt or sending.

12. Respond immediately to every letter:

12.1. Deny everything you can: the status they assign you, your duty to respond or file anything.

12.2. Accuse them of any impropriety you identify: failure to give notice, lack of authority, failure to respond to something you sent.

12.3. Question everything: authority, applicability.

12.4. Demand everything: proof of authority, applicability, liability.

12.5. Give a deadline for action or response.

12.6. Declare your intentions: file suit, write to higher authority.

12.7. Set forth the legal/factual basis for your position.

13. Make a copy of everything and keep it in a marked file for quick retrieval.

14. Send related exhibits with every letter.

15. Have a witness for your insertions in the envelope, acknowledged on your file copy.

16. Send everything certified or registered mail.

Apart from the obvious value of having your evidence at hand when needed, you are causing the agents to act with extreme caution in dealing with you, hopefully encouraging them simply to leave you be. You are just too much trouble for too little money.

You must now follow through by gathering the evidence to stop the IRS. You examine their correspondence to find everything which might pertain to a lack of an OMB number, or which involves any interpretation of a law or regulation, or the things which require authority for the IRS action involved. Send a request under FOIA for the documents. Request a Technical Determination of your tax status from the District Director.¹⁴¹ File a Petition for Redress of Grievances.¹⁴²

¹⁴² Constitution, Amendment 1.

The Revenue Code imposes penalties upon government agents for improper disclosure of tax information. An improper assessment gives rise to an invalid lien, which is a publication of confidential information.¹⁴³ You should threaten to sue for this, also.¹⁴⁴ Similarly, agents are liable for damages when they willfully disregard the provisions of the Code which protect the taxpayer.¹⁴⁵ The government cannot refuse to disclose the identity of their personnel who are violating the rights of the citizens.¹⁴⁶ If an IRS agent uses extortive or oppressive measures on a citizen, he can be prosecuted and fined $10,000, or get 5 years, or both.¹⁴⁷

4.5.4.7 Don't Get Discouraged by IRS tactics during your fight

"Yes, all of you be submissive to one another, and be clothed with humility, for

*God [and his followers] resists the proud,
But gives grace to the humble.*

Therefore humble yourselves under the mighty hand of God, that He may exalt you in due time, casting all your care upon Him, for He cares for you.

Be sober, be vigilant; because your adversary the devil walks about like a roaring lion, seeking whom he may devour.

Resist him, steadfast in the faith, knowing that the same sufferings are experienced by your brotherhood in the world.

But may the God of all grace, who called us to His eternal glory by Christ Jesus, after you have suffered a while, perfect, establish, strengthen, and settle you."

[1 Peter 5:5-9, Bible, NKJV]

"Nothing in the world can take the place of persistence. Talent will not; . . . Genius will not; . . . Education will not; . . . Persistence and determination alone are omnipotent."

[Calvin Coolidge]

The chief IRS weapon is fear. Fear is the most potent weapon they have to in effect compel people to "voluntarily comply". How do they perpetuate this fear?

1. By making your experiences with them so painful, complex, costly, and time-consuming that you try to avoid the hassle by just paying your taxes and don't "question authority" as we encourage you to do throughout this document.
2. By trying to shift the burden of proof to the Citizen. By default, if you don't dispute prima facie evidence presented against you about your income tax liability, then they are guaranteed to eventually win their case. As soon as you learn that your gross or taxable income is misreported by your employer, you should promptly bring it to their attention and raise a formal complaint, and submit evidence to the contrary that they then have an obligation to refute with the law.
3. By abusing the due process rights guaranteed to you by the 5th and 14th Amendments to U.S. Constitution. This means they will try to take your property from you without a hearing or a trial. Then after they have taken your property, you can't afford to litigate to defend your rights so they have won.
4. By refusing to discuss the legal aspects of the tax laws with you. We called their 800 number and were put on hold for almost an hour and then an arrogant agent came on the phone who wouldn't even give us his name for fear of retribution. Do you think if they were really focused on helping people and telling them the truth about the tax laws, that they would need to worry about retribution? Then he proceeded to tell us that he isn't there to give me legal advice. I didn't ask for legal advice, but I asked him for what legal authority makes me liable for income taxes as a Citizen of the United States (not a U.S. Citizen, big difference!) who has income only from within the 50 union states. I asked him what his interpretation of 26 U.S.C. §861 was that justified his position, and he got belligerent and tried to hang up on me. Then I asked him who in the IRS can answer my technical (not legal) questions about 26 U.S.C. §861 since he refused to. He said "the courts". I said "who specifically, and what is their phone number." "I don't have a name." "You're not being very helpful, and you're wasting my tax money running me in circles like this. Please quit avoiding my question and just give me a name and phone number and email address of someone in the IRS who can answer the technical question you currently refuse to answer," I said. He wouldn't help me, and I was polite but never wavered off the point.

¹⁴⁴ Rorex v. Travnor, 771 F.2d. 383, 386.

¹⁴⁵ 26 U.S.C. §7433(a) and (b).

¹⁴⁶ Bivens v. Six Unknown Federal Agents, 403 U.S. 388 (1971).

5. By not being legally responsible for any of the advice they might give you when you call them for help and ensuring that you know that. They also evade responsibility by operating anonymously by refusing to give you their full real or legal name, agent number, and physical address where they can be served with legal papers.
6. By making the tax laws as long and as complicated as they can (the Internal Revenue Code, Title 26 of the U.S. Code, is 9,500 pages!) to discourage you from reading and understanding them. And then when you do the research and interpret them correctly, using scare tactics that are just meaningless babble, such as:
 - 6.1 "I believe your interpretation of the law is wrong." When you hear this kind of nonsense, then ask them "What interpretation of 26 U.S.C. §861 supports any your position or any position but the one I have mentioned?" and watch them try to tap dance around the issue and tell you that you need your own attorney, as though attorneys are the ones who hold the truth hostage for a ransom that equals your income tax check.
 - 6.2 "The courts have consistently ruled against that issue." Ask them for just one case citation that proves their theory and ask them if it has ever been appealed or overruled. Then look up the case on the website at <http://www.findlaw.com/> or on <http://versuslaw.com> and call them back about it. The 26 U.S.C. §861/source position advocated in this document has never been ruled on in their favor by the U.S. supreme Court, but there are plenty of examples where it has been ruled against them, most notably in the case of Evens v. Gore, 247 U.S. 165, where the supreme Court ruled:

"After further consideration, we adhere to that view and accordingly hold that the Sixteenth Amendment does not authorize or support the tax in question. " [A direct tax on salary income of a federal judge]

- 6.3 "You are going to end up in jail if you pursue that course of action." More scare tactics to compel you with fear to be compliant.
7. By using confusing terms and language in the tax code (obfuscating it). This is pointed out in section 3.9.1 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book entitled "Words of Art: Lawyer Deception Using Definitions" and also in: Legal Deception, Propaganda, and Fraud, Form #05.014 <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
8. By obfuscating the issues raised in this document by creating a series of IRS publications that conflict with the tax laws as written (the Internal Revenue Code, in particular), and claiming "plausible deniability" by pretending they are unfamiliar with the issues you raise. Of course they are going to do this, since they undoubtedly know that they can be fired and the IRS fined up to $1M for wrongful taking of taxes if they try to collect more taxes than a Citizen is liable for. Ask them when you call them what takes precedence, the Internal Revenue Code or the IRS publications. They won't advertise to you that the IRS publications don't have the force of law and aren't usable as evidence of belief in a court of law. They are simply hearsay not admissible as evidence and are subordinate to the Internal Revenue Code. And yet when you talk to the IRS, they will refuse to discuss the law with you (the I.R.C.) and the fraud it exposes with you and will try to steer you back to the IRS publications!
9. By firing their own IRS historian so citizens can't find out the history and the truth behind the IRS and how the truth about income taxes has been buried and hidden deeper and deeper with "legalese" in the tax code every year.
10. By hiding any evidence they might have about you from the discovery process. Refusing to show you the evidence they have against you and not giving you a chance to cross-examine any witnesses who are testifying against you. Refusing to respond to your Freedom Of Information Act queries for their files on you.
11. By mailing you legal notices that expire in 10 days and dating them ten days before they actually mailing them, so that they are expired before you even get them! You should be on the look-out for this and write the date received and the date postmarked on the back of every letter. You might even want to tape the postmark onto the back of each correspondence you get from them.

For all the above reasons, you can expect that if you raise any of the issues in this document, you are very likely to be stonewalled by the IRS or frivolously and illegally penalized in seeking or applying the truths found here. That's the only tactic they can use to stay out of trouble and not play a game they know they can't win. Basically, as the IRS has done to so many others before you who pursued the issues raised in this document, they will likely refuse to respond to your official correspondence or evidence or refute any of your claims. This behavior by government we call a "Fifth Amendment" response and you need not be afraid of it because you can use it to your advantage in the next section.

As you begin to learn techniques for fighting the IRS beast, you may encounter occasions when they are attempting to assess you with penalties and compound interest. This has happened to us. It is established clearly in section 5.4.16 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book that the IRS has no lawful authority to assess such penalties or interest for Subtitle A income taxes. It is also established in section 5.4.15 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book that the IRS has no lawful authority to assess you with a Subtitle A income tax liability because the only person who can create such a liability is you. We have used the Notary Certificate of Default Method documented in Notary Certificate of Dishonor Process, Form

#07.006 to completely eliminate $2,500 in proposed penalties by the California Franchise Tax Board (FTB) and the IRS. It has worked very successfully for us and chances are very good that it will work for you as well! Even if you have to pay a few penalties initially, the best way to look on these penalties is as “tuition” in the process of learning how to be sovereign and free again. It is an investment in your freedom and sovereignty. As your techniques and knowledge improve and expand, the penalties will be eliminated and you will teach the ignorant and incompetent agents you are corresponding with the truth eventually. You can also prosecute these same agents for malfeasance, conspiracy against rights, constructive fraud, obstruction of justice, racketeering, mailing threatening communications, and several other crimes.

How can you fight your irrational fears about the IRS as you are learning to be free and the government is trying to abuse you so you will be incentivized to stay ignorant and stay a slave? Knowledge and love and preparedness and organization cast out fear. Be in loving relationships but more importantly, GET EDUCATED ABOUT THE LAW by reading this publication! Be an informed Citizen, pro per litigant, voter, and juror. Know your rights and understand the law. Be more organized and disciplined in your fight than they are! Then they will lose the biggest weapon they have to create fear: your own laziness and ignorance and disorganization. Knowledge and a disciplined approach truly are power, especially in the legal field. James Madison, one of our founding fathers, said about this issue in a letter to W.T. Barry, August 4, 1822:

"Knowledge will forever govern ignorance; and a people who mean to be their own governors must arm themselves with the power which knowledge gives."
[James Madison]

The more you know and the more persuasively and skillfully you can communicate it, the more likely it is that you will win in your fight with the tyrant thieves at the IRS. This document is a very good starting point for getting informed enough to be very dangerous to their hidden agenda of fear. You can do it! When the going gets tough, the tough get going! One of our readers had the following very insightful things to say about the writings in this book:

Dear sir,

I'm writing to say thank you for all the information you have gathered and the free document you created [The Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302] to help further the truth. I think what you are doing is noble. I think what you are doing is Christian. Your efforts are monumental. With all that said, I have to confess to you that I have come to the conclusion that we live in a conquered country. We are conquered financially and legally. There is blatant disregard for fair, impartial judgment where the legal system is manned by people who get benefits from perpetuating the status quo. You, who are far more ahead of me in the legal realm, have probably come to this conclusion but remain hopeful that the government that perpetrated this fraud would suddenly feel ashamed and stop defrauding billions of dollars from its slave force.

This, I believe, they will never let happen. I would like to remain optimistic and believe there is a shred of decency left in Washington but I don't believe that to be true. Right now the veil is in place and the legal community chooses to overlook people like you who know the law because there isn't enough "meat" (Booty, Loot, Pillage) to go after [if they do] and in their eyes people like us are annoying but until such time as they no longer have to keep a semblance of freedom, liberty and just law in this country, they pull the curtain back in place and the man behind it goes on with his machinations.

I do tell everyone I know about your site. I even keep pieces of paper with [your] web address on it to hand out to anyone who cares to listen. Unfortunately, we live in a country of cloth and stick wavers (flag), who believe every bit of propaganda passed to them through the media and from its elected officials. They wouldn't know their rights if the book fell on their heads. Case in point, Bob Schulz, laboring away to get redress from his government. He expects them to respond. Yet many people see this and regard Bob and his people "extremists". I don't understand their reasoning other than they have lived all their life under a slave mentality and would never think of questioning the legality of anything put before them by the Washington ruling elect.

I will close by saying that what you are doing is good, decent work. The problem is we don't know freedom because we have never lived free. We have always been under rule and by today's standards our fore-fathers would be considered 'terrorists'. I am saddened to think that the titles 'patriot', 'militia' or 'constitutionalist' have been transmogrified into slander and evil. But then we live in a conquered country.

Timothy L. Harrington

Here was our response to that insightful inquiry:

Tim,

That was a tremendously insightful way to explain the fraud and slavery we are currently living under. I'm very impressed and thank you for sharing your thoughts on the subject.

The slavery continues because of ignorance. The only thing I can do is educate and thereby liberate the masses of sheep that are out there and hope they will use their new found knowledge prudently in order to free themselves from the slavery. This world would be a pretty dreary place without hope that things could ever get better and that freedom was the light at the end of the tunnel that we are all heading for.

“But sanctify the Lord God in your hearts, and always be ready to give a defense to everyone who asks you a reason for the hope that is in you, with meekness and fear; having a good conscience, that when they defame you as evildoers, those who revile your good conduct in Christ may be ashamed. For it is better, if it is the will of God, to suffer for doing good than for doing evil.”
[1 Peter 3:15-17, Bible, NKJV]

God bless you for your diligence in learning and spreading the truth. Keep up the good work, my friend and brother.

Family Guardian Fellowship

Therefore, when you are really discouraged about our present situation and the slavery to the legal field that we find ourselves under, we recommend reading Matthew 5:1-12 in the Bible, where Jesus offers encouragement to all those who believe in him. Pay special attention to Matt. 5:10-12, which are the last three verses:

3 Blessed are the poor in spirit, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.

4 Blessed are those who mourn, for they shall be comforted.

5 Blessed are the meek, for they shall inherit the earth.

6 Blessed are those who hunger and thirst for righteousness, for they shall be filled.

7 Blessed are the merciful, for they shall obtain mercy.

8 Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God.

9 Blessed are the peacemakers, for they shall be called sons of God.

10 Blessed are those who are persecuted for righteousness' sake, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.

11 Blessed are you when they revile and persecute you, and say all kinds of evil against you falsely for My sake.

12 Rejoice and be exceedingly glad, for great is your reward in heaven, for so they persecuted the prophets who were before you.

See also 1 Peter 4:12-17 for more inspiration. When our wicked government has afflicted you and persecuted you for following the law, which clearly says we don't owe income taxes, use the occasion not only to learn man's law, but also God's law:

“It is good for me that I have been afflicted, that I may learn Your statutes.” The law of Your mouth is better to me than thousands of coins of gold and silver.”
[Psalm 119:71-72, Bible, NKJV]

Do not worry what you will say when you go up in front of the judge:

“Now when they bring you to the synagogues and magistrates and authorities, do not worry about how or what you should answer, or what you should say. For the Holy Spirit will teach you in that very hour what you ought to say.”
[Luke 12:11, Bible, NKJV]

And remember that Jesus is your Lawyer and your Counselor!:

“And His name will be called Wonderful, Counselor, Mighty God, Everlasting Father, Prince of Peace.”
[Isaiah 9:6, Bible, NKJV]

You will be blessed by God Himself for fighting the IRS monster and for doing what is right above and beyond your own selfish interests. It may not happen during your earthly lifetime, but for eternity and the life hereafter you will be blessed and you will sit at the right hand of your Father in Heaven. What greater honor could there be? This life is only an illusion and a test of your faith to see if you are worthy to survive the judgment talked about in Revelation. You couldn't get this kind of blessing from God by asking for it or by what you do. You can only get it by being persecuted by the ignorant and evil people at the IRS who are greedy deceivers, liars, and who disdain God's word. Don't be discouraged because you will be blessed for your perseverance!

“Today's mighty oak is just yesterday's nut that held its ground.”

4.5.4.8 Use the UCC and IRS Incompetency To Your Advantage

<http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Forms/DelinquencyAndCollection/VerifiedAffidavitOfDefault.htm>

We talked generally about Commercial Law and the Uniform Commercial Code \(U.C.C.\) in section 2.15. We also talked about the Notary Certificate of Default Method in section 2.18.5. Now we'll try to apply that knowledge to your tax situation and give you a new weapon to use in battle against the incompetent and corrupt IRS and state taxing authorities.

As we read in Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.301, Chapter 2, we learned about the evil, unscrupulousness, incompetency, and gross negligence of the IRS in administering the U.S. tax laws. That incompetency and gross negligence usually manifests itself in the following ways:

1. Ignoring claims, affidavits and assertions made by citizens in their tax correspondence.
2. Focusing on irrelevant issues to keep attention off of more important ones.
3. Choosing the weakest argument in your correspondence and only discussing that one and ignoring all the others.
4. Sending responses to citizen correspondence that is not signed or authenticated, so the actual author is unknown.
5. Using fictitious names or incomplete identifying information about the IRS revenue officer who is responding.
6. Diverting attention away from the main issues, which are liability (see section 5.6.1 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book), non-resident non-person status (Non-Resident Non-Person Position, Form #05.020, and section 5.6.13 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book), and the Constitutional definition of “income” (see section 5.6.5 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book), so they don't have to answer for it.

Amazingly, we can use the above IRS tactics to our advantage using the Uniform Commercial Code (U.C.C.)! Their incompetency can actually help us establish an irrefutable fact in court. Recall that in the world of commerce and under the Uniform Commercial Code, the un rebutted affidavit or claim stands as truth. An affidavit is a written document signed under penalty of perjury, witnessed by a notary public, and sent to the IRS with a Proof of Service to demonstrate that it indeed was sent. If everything we send the IRS is an affidavit and if they refuse to rebut it or don't identify who is rebutting it, then our affidavits will stand as more than adequate proof of the truth in any tax proceeding in court, regardless of the subterfuge and rhetoric used by DOJ lawyers we might be fighting against.

But remember that the “Fifth Amendment” response by the IRS gives you an advantage in court, because any valid fact in your affidavit that isn't rebutted by them is considered “prima facie evidence” against them in court. This is called “The Law of Presumptions”. The Law of Presumptions relies on the UCC and you can use it to your extreme advantage. The IRS will try to pretend like they never received your correspondence, which is why you should always send things certified mail to the IRS to prove they got it, and in some cases send it with a “Proof of Service by Mail.” This gives you a prima facie case against them. This approach is the basis for the very effective “Notary Certificate of Default Method” mentioned earlier in section 2.18.5. The IRS may also try to pretend like they invited you to a due process hearing and then deliberately send the invitation to the wrong address to make sure that you never show up (send your mailing address via certified correspondence in the first contact you have with them to ensure they don't pull this trick).

You can use the IRS' tactic of ignoring legitimate tax protests to your advantage by obtaining a default judgment against them in court like the author of the website at <http://www.tax-freedom.com/> did, when the IRS refused to show up in court to defend themselves. All you have to do is show the judge the notarized affidavit proving that they did not respond and citing the facts they admitted to by their nonresponse. The fact that they can't refute your evidence or claims using their own laws is evidence that they are attempting to play a game of chicken and don't want to research the issues because then they have to surrender their claim of "plausible deniability" or "ignorance of the law" when they are prosecuted for taking more than they are legally entitled to and subsequently fired and fined using the claims presented in section 6.8 of the Tax Fraud Prevention Manual, Form #06.008.

Here are some simple tactics to use in all your dealings with the IRS that are based on the U.C.C. and which can be very effective in establishing truth and evidence in your favor about your tax situation should you ever need to litigate. These tactics also help to protect your rights under the U.S. Constitution:

1. Sign every document at the bottom with the following below your signature:

"Signed from without the 'United States'. All Rights Reserved Without Prejudice, UCC 1-207"

2. Send every document signed under penalty of perjury with a Proof of Service. We have a sample proof of service in section 3.14.1. You should integrate the content of this into the end of every correspondence and faithfully use it.
3. Put a Legal Notice at the beginning of every document you send the IRS stating the following:

CONSTRUCTIVE NOTICE

IF THIS AFFIDAVIT IS NOT PROPERLY REBUTTED WITH A COUNTER-AFFIDAVIT WITHIN THIRTY (30) DAYS FROM THE DATE OF ITS MAILING, ALL PARAGRAPHS NOT DENIED SHALL BE CONFESSED AFFIRMED, BY SUCH DEFAULT, AND SHALL BE ACCEPTED AS DISPOSITIVE, CONCLUSIVE FACTS BY THE DEPARTMENT OF TREASURY-INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE, AND/OR STATE TAX AGENCY WHEREIN THE DISTRICT DIRECTOR AND/OR THE CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICER OR OTHER PROPERLY DELEGATED AUTHORITY, HAD THE OPPORTUNITY AND "FAILED TO PLEAD." ALL COUNTER-AFFIDAVITS MUST BE SIGNED WITH THE VALID LEGAL NAME OF THE RESPONDENT. FICTITIOUS OR INCOMPLETE NAMES OF RESPONDENTS OR THOSE NOT CONTAINING COMPLETE LEGAL FIRST, MIDDLE, AND LAST NAMES AND EMPLOYEE NUMBER AND PHOTOCOPY OF DRIVER'S LICENSE SHALL NOT CONSTITUTE A VALID RESPONSE BECAUSE NOT PROPERLY AUTHENTICATED.

This Affidavit and all attached documents have been made a part of the Public Record and will be used for evidence in administrative and judicial proceedings at law, or equity regarding this case. ALL of these documents must be maintained in Claimant's Administrative File.

Signature

4. If the IRS fails to respond to the facts or assertions made in a previous correspondence and/or ignores important claims or assertions made in such correspondence or fails to completely identify (as shown above) themselves in the response, you should immediately serve them with a Notice of Default stating precisely the facts that have been admitted by their failure to respond or improper response. We have a sample of such a Notice in sections 9.10.7 entitled "Verified Affidavit of Default" and 9.12.2 entitled "Affidavit of Default and Estoppel" of this book.
5. Include a list or carefully written questions with supporting evidence with each correspondence if you need some question answered in order to establish your tax liability. Each question should have a default answer specified by you immediately after the question that is based on your legal research and which cites a specific court case or reference to something in either 26 U.S.C. (the I.R.C.) or the Treasury Regulations found in 26 C.F.R.. Tell the IRS that you must have these questions answered in order to properly determine your tax liability, and that their failure to respond means they selected the default answer provided for each question. The line of questions should conform with the following guidelines, which are also useful in preparing interrogatories, depositions, and requests for admissions (legal lingo):

- 5.1. Start with general, high-level questions and transition to increasing specificity toward the end of the questions.
 - 5.2. Try to stick with questions that can be made into multiple choice or discrete answers such as YES/NO; TRUE/UNTRUE.
 - 5.3. Specify the discrete options that are available in answer to each question. For instance: ____YES ____NO.
 - 5.4. Avoid open-ended questions that allow a narrative response that can be vague or misleading or evasive.
6. We have a complete list of sample questions appearing the following for this purpose at:

Tax Deposition Questions, Form #03.016

<http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Forms/Discovery/Deposition/Deposition.htm>

7. Finally, learn the SNEAKY way to say NO to things the IRS wants. For example, if they sent you a demand for payment, then instead of saying NO, respond with a CONDITIONAL YES, and make the conditions very specific and in your favor and state them in such a way that there is a high probability that they will say NO to your conditions. This will keep the focus on their bad faith, noncompliance, and their uncooperativeness. That way, if you have to take them to court, the jury will hammer them because they are being unreasonable! Here is an example of a CONDITIONAL YES in response to a Notice and Demand for payment.

I promise to pay the amount demanded if all of the conditions set forth below are complied with by the government within 45 days from the date of this correspondence:

1. You identify the type of tax I am imputed to owe (subtitle, section imposed).
2. You show me the statute and the corresponding implementing regulation that makes me liable for the imputed tax or penalty.
3. You show me the statute that identifies me specifically as the type of "person" to whom the tax or penalty may be applied. For instance, 26 C.F.R. 301.6671-1 indicates that "person" in the context of penalties can only mean an employee of a corporation, of which I am not. Furthermore, the "individual" identified in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(1) is defined in 26 C.F.R. 31.3121(e)-1 as either a nonresident alien or an alien rather than a "U.S. citizen", and this is the only definition of "individual" found anywhere in the IRC or the Treasury regulations.
4. You demonstrate your authority to collect and enforce the collection of the item in question by providing a notarized copy of your Delegation Order and Pocket Commission.
5. You authenticate who you are with a notarized affidavit that includes the address of your workplace, your email address, your individual phone number, your supervisor's contact information (address, phone, email address). PO boxes not accepted.
6. You eliminate all fraud and duress upon this offer and upon me by you so that the offer and its acceptance will be completely voluntary and consensual. The evidence and questions found at <http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Forms/Discovery/Deposition/Deposition.htm> conclusively and compellingly show that there is evidence of massive fraud and illegal duress upon the American public with regard to the payment of Subtitle A income taxes. "Consent" as legally defined simply cannot exist until all evidence of fraud or mistake are eliminated on my part.

"Consent. "A concurrence of wills. Voluntarily yielding the will to the proposition of another; acquiescence or compliance therewith. Agreement; approval; permission; the act or result of coming into harmony or accord. Consent is an act of reason, accompanied with deliberation, the mind weighing as in a balance the good or evil on each side. It means voluntary agreement by a person in the possession and exercise of sufficient mental capacity to make an intelligent choice to do something proposed by another. It supposes a physical power to act, a moral power of acting, and a serious, determined, and free use of these powers. Consent is implied in every agreement. It is an act unclouded by fraud, duress, or sometimes even mistake.

Willingness in fact that an act or an invasion of an interest shall take place. Restatement, Second, Torts §10A.

As used in the law of rape "consent" means consent of the will, and submission under the influence of fear or terror cannot amount to real consent. There must be an exercise of intelligence based on knowledge of its significance and moral quality and there must be a choice between resistance and assent. And if a woman resists to the point where further resistance would be useless or until her resistance is overcome by force or violence, submission thereafter is not "consent".

voluntary."
[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 305]

I'd like to remind you that according to the U.S. Supreme Court, our income tax system is VOLUNTARY and MUST be based on "consent" as defined above.

"Our system of taxation is based upon voluntary assessment and payment, not upon distraint."
[Flora v. U.S., 362 U.S. 145 (1960)]

"Consent" which you have compelled or threatened in order to obtain is not consent at all, but simply CRIMINAL EXTORTION that violates several laws and statutes, including but not limited to:

- (1) Obstruction of justice under 18 U.S.C. Chapter 73
- (2) Conspiracy against rights under 18 U.S.C. §241
- (3) Extortion under 18 U.S.C. §872.

If your employer has withheld federal taxes from your pay, then chances are they have reported this fact to the IRS and your state on a form W-2. A very important step is to ensure that they report the correct numbers on this form in Block 1 under "Wages, tips, other compensation". Most of you who have worked for an employer are aware of the report of income paid to you on the IRS Form W-2. This section covers legal facts about the IRS W-2 form that you must be made aware of immediately.

The term "Wages", as most terms in the Internal Revenue Code, has a very specific legal definition within the Code and is found in 26 U.S.C. §3401(a). Because this term is defined in the code, you can assume by the rules of statutory construction that the commonly understood definition does not apply. "Wages" is not a term to be taken lightly. Listing any amount for "Wages" in Block 1 of the W-2 implies that you are engaged in a "public office" in the United States government, in fact, pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §6041.

The Internal Revenue Code states that what you are receiving is simply "remuneration", which is not intended to have "Income taxes" withheld from it... who shall you believe in order to confirm this, the Secretary of the Treasury and the published tax laws or your ignorant tax preparer who has never even seen or read the law?

For decades employers have operated under a false presumption that they should withhold from and report ALL remuneration paid to their employees as if the amounts were "Wages/compensation". In fact, they have been doing so wrongly because they were misled by fraudulent IRS publications which the federal courts have routinely refused to punish the IRS for. The IRS' own Internal Revenue Manual confirms that you can't rely on these publications and by implication, any of the forms they publish or the terms they use on the forms!

"IRS Publications, issued by the National Office, explain the law in plain language for taxpayers and their advisors... While a good source of general information, publications should not be cited to sustain a position."
[Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.), Section 4.10.7.2.8 (05-14-1999)]

Keep in mind once again that all IRS forms fall into the category of "IRS publications"! The question then is:

"If we can't trust IRS forms, why then are we filling them out and signing under penalty of perjury that what we entered is consistent with them?"

Beats us!

The federal courts have also repeatedly stated that the IRS cannot be held responsible for statements they make to you or following the procedures contained in 26 C.F.R. Part 601. See the following link for more information about this:

<http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/Articles/IRSNotResponsible.htm>

Another question also comes to mind:

"How is it that the Department of Injustice can prosecute what it calls 'scam artists' and 'tax cheats' for publishing allegedly false information in books and ban those books as 'unprotected commercial speech', like they did with Irwin Schiff's Federal Mafia book on April 7, 2003, and yet at the same time hypocritically not be held responsible for the fraudulent and downright harmful information that the IRS puts in ITS publications?"

Beats us! As a matter of fact, we assert that this type of hypocrisy violates the Constitution, where it says in Article 1, Section 9, Clause 8 that:

No Title of Nobility shall be granted by the United States: And no Person holding any Office of Profit or Trust under them, shall, without the Consent of the Congress, accept of any present, Emolument, Office, or Title, of any kind whatever, from any King, Prince or foreign State.

In effect, what the government has done is refused to live by the same rules that its citizens have to abide by, which makes it above the law and in effect, a “monarch”. That is tyranny, in fact.

The research exposed here reveals that there is no legal or statutory basis for why your employer should feel obligated to report any of the money you earn as “wages” if you did not elect to have taxes taken out of your paycheck. We go into this further in Federal and State Tax Withholding Options for Private Employers, Form #09.001. Furthermore, only the foreign earned income of U.S. Citizens over $70,000 is included in the definition of “gross income” under Section 911 so that there is no reason why most Americans would need to withhold federal income taxes from their pay to begin with.

This is the position of the Secretary of the Treasury in the regulations, and it must certainly be correct as the Congress has stated in 26 U.S.C. § 3401(a)(8)(A)(i) that the only remuneration paid by employers to be defined as “wages” are the amounts included in gross income under 26 U.S.C. §911. It is apparent that only the mis-application of the legal definition of “wages” by employers has caused the W-2 forms to be reporting incorrect amounts to the IRS, when such a claim is completely without legal foundation.

This ‘error’ in application of the law must be known about by some lawyer or Official with the IRS, but has obviously been overlooked (unquestionably by accident) and perpetuated in the Tax Profession as well as our educational institutions, to not only draw Americans living and working in states of the union into subjection to the ‘Income Tax’, but also give the CPA’s, accountants, and Tax Attorneys in this country a multitude of potential clients.

The false and fallacious claims on this W-2 form are the beginning of so many problems for the average American, such as assessments, which cause deficiencies, liens and then levies. Even the IRS’ Criminal Investigative Division (CID) uses these forms sent to the IRS to claim that “gross income” was made, thus returns were to be filed.

4.5.4.9.1 Formally Request that Your Employer Provide Correct W-2’s

Before you file your first Request for Refund (see sections 4.5.4.12 and 9.9.1), you will need to formally request that your employer provide correct W-2’s that accurately reflect your earnings in a way that is consistent with the tax laws. The notification should be via Certified Mail with Return Receipt Requested. This letter is very important in establishing your prima facie case against federal income tax liability, which is the next step in the tax freedom process that includes the Request for Refund letter. It will also be used to demonstrate your good faith efforts to resolve federal income tax issues at the lowest administrative level before escalating the matter into court. If you have to go to court, the jury and the judge will both respect that you are doing your best to take the least resistance/cost administrative path, especially if the award of attorney fees has been requested against you by the other side (IRS/DOJ). You may use the sample letter provided in Section 3.5.3 and entitled: “Letter to Employer Requesting Accurate W-2’s”.

The letter should establish the following things:

1. That you are a “non-citizen national” or a “state National” and a “non-resident non-person”.
2. That you are not liable for federal income tax and the legal foundation for your beliefs, and demand that they prove otherwise in writing.
3. That they are not authorized to be a withholding agent. See section 5.4.24 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book for details.
4. That you don’t earn “wages” as legally defined because you don’t have a voluntary withholding agreement in place. See section 5.6.7 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book for details.
5. That you do not want any private information provided to the IRS other than what you put on your W-8BEN or substitute letter in lieu of the W-8BEN (if you did either of these). Make sure that these forms DO NOT show your mailing address or your social security number, by the way.
6. If the employer is a government employer, state that your personal information is protected from disclosure outside the agency you work for by the Privacy Act of 1974, which is found in 5 U.S.C. §552a, and that your employer would be violating that law if they disclosed your SSN or your mailing address to any agency other than the one you work for, including the IRS or the Social Security Administration.
7. If your employer is a government agency, describe the ethical constraints they are operating under, as described in the Government Code of Ethics in section 2.1 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book. These ethics include the requirement to “uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic”, for instance, which is impossible with our current income tax system.

8. State that you want your First, Fourth, and Fifth Amendment rights protected, and that any attempt to coerce or intimidate you into giving up these rights is a punishable offense and the specific punishment from the U.S. Codes and your state law. State that it would also be discrimination and a conspiracy against rights for them to escalate this issue to anyone in the chain of authority above you as this matter concerns only your right to privacy and does not concern your supervisors. Emphasize that involving anyone else could do nothing to contribute to the resolution of any problems other than to further slandering, threatening, coercing, or intimidating you to involuntarily give up your rights Constitutional rights.
9. Take along witnesses or a tape recorder or demand everything to be in writing whenever you interact with your employer on this specific issue. If you are going to prove duress, you must have witnesses. It’s better if these witnesses do not work for your company because then your boss can’t coerce them into not talking.
10. Be polite, civilized, respectful, but firm in asserting your rights. Convince them that you have done your homework and cannot be intimidated to surrender your Constitutional rights.
11. Suggest the possibility of legal action (if you feel brave) against them if they do not honor your request.

4.5.4.9.2 Understanding the Geographical Limitations of Withholding

In the Internal Revenue Code (also known as Title 26 of the U.S. Code, or 26 U.S.C for short) there are many definitions that are limited in their applications by words such as "for purposes of this chapter", "for purposes of this subchapter" and "for purposes of this subpart".

In contrast, Section 1402 contains definitions of terms upon which there is no such limitations upon their application, so the definitions therein apply throughout the entire Code. Section 1402(d) of the IRC states as follows:

"Sec. 1402(d). Employee and wages.

The term "employee" and the term "wages" shall have the same meaning as when used in Chapter 21 (sec. 3101 and following, relating to the Federal Insurance Contributions Act).

Note the absence in this Code definition of any words of limitation such as "for purpose of this chapter" or "for purposes of this subchapter." The definition means, therefore, that whenever and wherever the terms "employee" and "wages" are used anywhere throughout the Code, their applications are limited to those people involved in activities within the four island possessions, the same as in Chapter 21, the FICA tax chapter.

The Internal Revenue Code chapter which relates to withholding is Chapter 24, titled "COLLECTION OF INCOME TAX AT SOURCE". It is extremely important to note that this chapter contains no section imposing any tax. Rather, the entire chapter is written to establish and authorize provisions for withholding of tax merely as a method for the payment of taxes which may be imposed in other sections of the Code.

Whenever a tax is imposed, there is always a section containing words such as "there is hereby imposed a tax...". But in Chapter 24, no such wording exists in any section; so clearly the entire chapter merely sets forth the procedures for collecting taxes imposed elsewhere in the Code by the withholding methods described in the Code sections of the chapter.

Provisions of this withholding chapter are applicable only to "employees" as defined in Code Section 1402(d) shown above and 3401(c) reproduced here:

"Sec. 3401(c). Employee.

For purposes of this chapter, the term "employee" includes an officer, employee, or elected official of the United States, a State, or any political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing. The term "employee" also includes an officer of a corporation.

It is revealing that this definition includes the term "State" which is defined in Code section 7701(a)(10) as the District of Columbia (only). Remember that "includes," as a word used in laws, is a word of confinement, not enlargement according to the Supreme Court in Monello Salt v. Utah, 221 U.S. 452 (1911).

"The determining word is, of course the word 'including.' It may have the sense of addition, [221 U.S. 452, 465] as we have seen, and of 'also;' but, we have also seen, 'may merely specify particularly that which belongs to the genus.' Hiller v. United States, 45 C. C. A. 229, 106 Fed. 73, 74. It is the participle of the word 'include,' which means, according to the definition of the Century Dictionary, (1) 'to confine within something; hold as in an inclosure; inclose; contain.' (2) 'To comprise as a part, or as something incident or pertinent; comprehend; take in; as the greater includes the less; . . . the Roman Empire included many nations.' 'Including,' being a participle, is in the nature of an adjective and is a modifier."

"...The court also considered that the word 'including' was used as a word of enlargement, the learned court being of opinion that such was its ordinary sense. With this we cannot concur. It is its exceptional sense, as the dictionaries and cases indicate. We may concede to 'and' the additive power attributed to it. It gives in connection with 'including' a quality to the grant of 110,000 acres which it would not have had, - the quality of selection from the saline lands of the state. And that such quality would not exist unless expressly conferred we do not understand is controverted. Indeed, it cannot be controverted...."

[Montello Salt v. Utah, 221 U.S. 452 (1911)]

Hence this definition limits the application of the term employee to those working for the Federal government, for the District of Columbia, for U.S. possessions, and officers or a government owned corporation.

Section 3401(d) identifies the "employer" as one for whom the "employee" works. This means that the meaning of the term "employer" is limited to those entities listed in Section 3401(c)--the U.S. government, District of Columbia, etc.

The term "employer" does not apply to any non-government employer or business. On the basis of these definitions alone, most of the nation's population is not subject to the withholding provisions in this chapter. In addition to those limitations on the application of the term "employee" shown above, Section 1402(d) limits the application of the term "employee" and the term "wages" to activities within the four island possessions only.

Therefore, the withholding provisions of Chapter 24 can apply only to those working for the Federal government or the District of Columbia, etc. within these four Island possessions--not within the fifty states of the union.

IR Code Section 3402(a)(1) contains tricky wording which could readily lead businesses and individuals into erroneously believing that they are required to deduct and withhold taxes from the pay of these they hire. It is worded as follows:

"Section 3402. Income tax collected as source.

(a) Requirement of withholding.

(1) In general. Except as otherwise provided in this section, every employer making payment of wages shall deduct and withhold upon such wages a tax determined in accordance with tables or computational procedures prescribed by the Secretary. Any tables or procedures prescribed under this paragraph shall...

Note that this Section 3402(a)(1) says that the "employer" (Federal government, District of Columbia, etc) shall deduct and withhold from "wages" a tax determined in accordance with the Secretary's tables and computational procedures.

We previously showed that the meaning of the term "wages" is limited by Section 1402(d) to payments for activities occurring within the four island possessions only, the same as provided in Chapter 21 imposing the so-called Social Security (FICA) tax.

These "tables and procedures" are authorized to be provided by the Secretary under Section 3402(p)(3):

"Sec. 3402(p)(3). Authority for other voluntary withholding.

The Secretary is authorized by regulations to provide for withholding-

(A) from remuneration for services performed by an employee for the employee's employer which (without regard to this paragraph) does not constitute wages, and

(B) from any other type of payment with respect to which the Secretary finds that withholding would be appropriate under the provisions of this chapter, if the employer and employee, or the person making and the person receiving such other type of payment agree to such withholding. Such agreement shall be in such form and manner as the Secretary may by regulations prescribe. For purposes of this chapter (and so much of subtitle F as relates to this chapter), respect to which such agreement is made shall be treated as if they were wages paid by an employer to an employee to the extent that such remuneration is paid or other payments are made during the period for which the agreement is in effect.

Note that the Secretary is authorized to provide for withholding by issuing tables computational procedures, and other instructional material on withholding that apply to only those who have voluntarily agreed to withholding. An agreement exists only when an individual who is hired voluntarily requests that money be deducted and withheld from his pay for payment of taxes and the one for whom he works completes the agreement by his voluntary act of collecting money as an unpaid tax collector for the government.

Despite the general mistaken belief that the deduction and withholding of money for taxes is required by law, a simple reading of this Code section shows that such is not the case. Mandatory withholding would conflict with two key provisions in the U.S. Constitution: the Fifth Amendment right to due process states that no person shall be deprived of property (having his pay withheld) without due process of law (a ruling by a court) and the Thirteenth Amendment prohibition against slavery or involuntary servitude, such as being forced to be an unpaid worker (slavery) or an unpaid Federal tax collector.

The use of the words "the person making" and "the person receiving such other type of payment" in 26 U.S.C. §3402(p)(3) relates to non-federal employers and employees who voluntarily "agree to such withholding". Federal regulation (CFR) Number 31.3402(p)(1) states:

Sub-Section 31.3402(p)-1 Voluntary withholding agreements. (T.D. 7096, filed 3-17-71; amended by TD 7577, filed 12-19-78).

(a) In general. An employee and his employer may enter into an agreement under section 3402(p) to provide for the withholding of income tax upon payments of amounts described in paragraph (b)(1) of Sub-Section 31.3401(a)-3, made after December 31, 1970. An agreement may be entered into under this section only with respect to amounts which are includible in the gross income of the employee under section 61, and must be applicable to all such amounts paid by the employer to the employee. The amount to be withheld pursuant to an agreement under section 3402(p) shall be determined under the rules contained in section 3402 and the regulations thereunder.

(b) Form and duration of agreement.

(1)(i) Except as provided in subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph, an employee who desires to enter into an agreement under section 3402(p) shall furnish to his employer with Form W-4 (Employee's Withholding Allowance Certificate) executed in accordance with the provisions of section 3402(f) and the regulations thereunder. The furnishing of such Form W-4 shall constitute request for withholding.

(ii) in the case of an employee who desires to enter into an agreement under section 3402(p) with his employer, if the employee performs services (in addition to those to be the subject of the agreement the remuneration for which is subject to mandatory income tax withholding by such employer, or if the employee shall furnish the employer with a request for withholding which shall be signed by the employee, and shall contain-

(a) The name, address, and social security number of the employee making the request.

(b) The name and address of the employer.

(c) A statement that the employee desires withholding of Federal Income tax, and, if applicable, of qualified State individual income tax (see paragraph (d)(3)(i) of Sub-Section 301.6361-1 of this chapter (Regulations on Procedure and Administration), and

(d) If the employee desires that the agreement terminates on a specific date, the date of termination of the agreement. If accepted by the employer as provided by subdivision (iii) of this subparagraph, the request shall be attached to, and constitute part of, the employee's Form W-4. An employee who furnishes his employer a request for withholding under this subdivision shall also furnish such employer with Form W-4 if such employee does not already have a Form W-4 in effect with such employer.

(iii) No request for withholding under section 3402(p) shall be effective as an agreement between the employer and employee until the employer accents the request by commencing to withhold from the amounts with respect to which the request was made.

Note the wording in sub-sections (b)(1)(ii) and (iii) of this regulation: "...an employee who desires to enter into an agreement" and "request for withholding", "desires withholding" and "mutually agree upon", all of which clearly and unambiguously show the voluntary nature of the entire withholding system.

The significance of a Form W-4 "Employee's Withholding Allowance Certificate" is clearly explained in this regulation which states:

"The furnishing of such Form W-4 shall constitute a request for withholding."

The printed heading on the Form W-4 confirms the voluntary nature of withholding; it states "Employee's Withholding Allowance Certificate". If withholding were mandatory, why would the form be called an "Allowance Certificate? To "allow" means to "permit"-if the law required the withholding of tax from your pay, no permission or request form would be needed!

To have a non-deceptive, clear meaning heading, the words could be rearranged to "Employees' Certificate Allowing Withholding".

Regulation Section 31.3402(p)(2) states:

26 C.F.R. §31.3402(p)(2).

An agreement under section 3402(p) shall be effective for such period as the employer and employee mutually agree upon. However, either the employer or the employee may terminate the agreement prior to the end of such period by furnishing a signed written notice to the other. Unless an employer and employee agree to an earlier termination date, the notice shall be effective with respect to the first payment of an amount in respect of which the agreement is in effect which is made on or after the first "status determination date (January 1, May 1, July 1, and October 1 of each year) that occurs at least 30 days after the date on which the notice is furnished. If the employee executes new Form W-4, the request upon which an agreement under section 3402(p) is based shall be attached to, and constitute a part of, such new form W-4.

This regulation states that the agreement "shall be effective for such period as the employer and employee mutually agree upon", and that either the employer or the employee "may terminate the agreement prior to the end of such period by furnishing a signed written notice to the other."

Therefore it is obvious that the withholding must be requested by the employee, must be agreed to by the employer, and MAY BE TERMINATED BY EITHER BY GIVING WRITTEN NOTICE TO THE OTHER.

4.5.4.9.3 How Non-Government Employers Are Deceived and Intimidated

Because employers have possession and control over their employee's earnings before the money is paid over to the employees, the key to the operation of the illegal withholding scam is the deception and intimidation of the employers to withhold money from their employees' pay even if their employees object to the withholding.

Most employers, as well as their accountants and attorneys, have never studied the IR Code carefully enough to understand its complexity. They are not aware of the geographical and other limitations in the Social Security (FICA) tax and upon the withholding provisions in Chapter 24 of the IR Code. They do not understand (as explained earlier in this article) that the FICA tax and the withholding provisions apply only within Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, Guam and American Samoa; that under Chapter 24 withholding is not mandatory for either the employer or the employee, and that the withholding provisions apply only to cases where both the employer and the employee voluntarily agree to the withholding.

If a non-government employer considers not withholding when his employees demand their full pay and consults his accountant, tax lawyer or the IRS about the matter, his attention is usually called to IR Code Section 3403. This section is a psychological bombshell designed to intimidate the non-government employer into ignoring and defying any employee's refusal to agree to withholding. IR Code Section 3403 states:

Sec. 3403. Liability for tax.

The employer shall be liable for the payment of the tax required to be deducted and withheld under this chapter, and shall not be liable to any person for the amount of any such payment.

This section usually erroneously convinces non-government employers that they are personally liable to pay to the IRS the amount the withholding tables specify even if they do not withhold the money from their employees pay.

Non-government employers rarely understand that the term "employer" as defined in the withholding provisions means only Federal Government related agencies and instrumentalities (listed in 26 U.S.C. §3401(d), see section 3.15.1.5 for further details).

Even then withholding applies only within the four island possessions and then only when there is a voluntary mutual agreement for withholding requested by the "employee" and agreed to by the "employer". Because of these facts there is no way a non-government employer within the fifty states or the union can be required to withhold tax under IR Code Chapter 24. He cannot be "liable" for payment of the tax unless he voluntarily acts as an unpaid tax collector for the government. As we discussed in section 3.15.1.28 about "Withholding agents", your typical private or commercial employer can't legally even be classified or ordered to act as a withholding agent as per the definition of "withholding agent" found in 26 U.S.C. §7701!

4.5.4.9.4 IRS Form W-4E (Exempt)

Many will make the conclusion in reading 26 U.S.C. §3402(n) that they can claim that they did not have a Subtitle A income tax liability for the prior year, and do not expect to have one for the next year, and thus they should be able to inform the private employer that they are not subject to withholding via a simple letter. This does not mean that they are "exempt", however! The term "exempt individual" has a very specific legal definition found in 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(5) that does not describe most Americans. This very fact is often used by the IRS to try to illegally penalize persons who submit the W-4 Exempt form, in fact. The use of the W-4 Exempt form therefore very often causes more problems and hardship than many people can endure. This is due to the fact that the legal term "Exemption" implies a status given by an authority over the one seeking "Exemption". In Black's Law Dictionary 5th Edition the first two words in the definition of "Exempt" are, "To release".

In order for someone to be released from something they must first be subject to it. Therefore, if one indeed has a release from the law administered by the IRS, then the IRS will be in possession of such a release. Correct? If you are outside the jurisdiction of the IRS and the Internal Revenue Code to begin as a "non-resident non-person", then it makes no sense to declare yourself as "exempt", in fact!

What happens when you make a claim, of being released or relieved from a liability which you never legally had, to a powerful and legally ignorant bureaucracy such as the IRS? What happens when they do not find any criteria in the administrative record supporting your claim to be released from withholdings, as you have filed returns of "Gross income" for prior years, like the years you were a student who could claim "EXEMPT" and filed returns to get more money back? How can you be released from a tax and withholding thereof on "gross income" you have never legally earned?

This is exactly why the W-4 exempt procedure alone is a failure when recognized by the IRS! The key is that before you stop withholding, you must establish a basis for reasonable belief and an administrative record at the IRS that shows that you do not owe income taxes. You can do this by, for instance, including the basis for your belief that you do not owe and doing it BEFORE you stop withholding. Without a basis for belief or prima facie evidence supporting that belief, the IRS has no choice but to assume that you continue to be liable for taxes because of your previous behavior of filing tax returns and of paying taxes. Until told otherwise, they have to continue to assume that you are liable for paying tax.

The IRS also plays games with the W-4 Exempt trick used by tax freedom advocates. With a W-4 that does not say exempt, it is effective indefinitely and never expires. However, W-4 Exempt forms expire annually on February 15, and must be "renewed" by the employee. This is done by filling out another W-4 Exempt form. If the employee doesn't fill out another form, then they are told by the IRS to continue to withhold at the single rate with no exemptions. We presume that they do this so that they can keep track of you and where you are and your status, since it is likely that if you are filing exempt, then you probably also aren't filling out tax returns. They want to "track you" with their big computer database and they can do it better if you have to keep sending them new forms every year, because they will find you by looking where the forms came from. That very fact, by the way, is why you should fill out "Fifth Amendment" under your address and social security number on that form whenever you submit it. On the other hand, if you didn't claim exempt and authorized withholding, then you are probably filing 1040 tax returns to get your refund, so they can track you that way. They want to keep the data in their computer fresh, so they can use it to harass you if they wrongfully decide you need to "pay up."

It therefore appears that our ignorance of the law has gotten us into a trap of not being able to easily establish the actual and legal truth behind our earnings and legal status.

The reality is that the law allows anyone to make a proper legal claim to stop withholding, but we must use the correct form, and it's not the W-4! The correct form is the W-8 or W-8BEN for most Americans. Yet, many "tax protesters" made use of the W-4 Exempt to escape from the withholding trap. Subsequently, the IRS has assumed regulatory authority to question all "EXEMPT" W-4's as well as those claiming over 9 deductions, despite there being no provision of law in the statutes in Chapter 24 allowing for such actions by the IRS.

In a document known as the "Croasman Memorandum", a meeting is documented that happened in 1973 that reveals the internal discussion of the IRS regarding the Exempt W-4 tactics employed at that time. In this document you will see that the IRS knew then that it needed legislation enacted in order to take the course of action that it sought. But guess what???... you've got it!... they never had any enabling statutory language enacted for them to be authorized and sanctioned by law to make any regulations to authorize that their determinations regarding W-4 forms.

This is an important fact as in many cases handled by the state of California Franchise Tax Board (FTB), they help us on this position as they have repeatedly cited this following portion of case law, which shows that the IRS and the Secretary of the Treasury Department cannot write a statute to expand its specific purpose:

*"The provisions of the act are unambiguous, and its direction specific, there is no power to amend it by regulation." Koshland v. Helvering, 298 U.S. 441 (1936), 80 L. Ed 1268 56 S.Ct. 7678.

To this day, the only person with the authority to make any determination about a W-4 form, according to 26 U.S.C. §3402, is the employer having to determine marital status when not claimed. The employee is the one who determines everything else on the form.

So, even to this day, despite the lack of statutory sanction, every employer is told by IRS instructions, set forth in fraudulent IRS publications, to send every Exempt W-4 or every W-4 claiming over 9 deductions to the IRS. Almost all of the decisions regarding these types of W-4's are made by the Detroit Computing Center, Questionable W-4 Program, despite there being no statutory authority for them to make, and inform employers, of such decisions. The only statutory authority that can be found at this time is given to the local District Director pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §7512, and its Regulations at 26 C.F.R. § 301.7512.

In these sections of law, it is plainly set forth that the District Director is the only person with the sole authority to order an "employer" (a federal employer, in fact) to withhold certain taxes, including the taxes withheld under §3402 (see 26 C.F.R. § 301.7512-1(a)(1) & (b)), from a worker. This can only be done by a letter of Notice (see 26 C.F.R. § 301.7512-1(d)) from the Director himself, hand delivered by an internal revenue officer or employee. However, we wish to emphasize that since an "employer" is someone who has "employees" (who by the way are all federal "public officers") as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701, then most non-governmental businesses don't even qualify as employers in the sense it is defined in the Internal Revenue Code, and therefore are NOT subject to the jurisdiction of the District Director!

This is really interesting, as the criminal penalties set forth in 26 C.F.R. §301.7512-1(f), cannot apply to any employer until the District Director sends his letter to them and that letter is hand delivered. These are the specifications of the law, and they obviously leave the employer out of the loop as to making any legal determinations of the status or correctness of the claims of the worker, and lay all such responsibility upon the local District Director, who will be solely and legally responsible for his legal determinations, not the IRS Computing Center in Detroit.

Nevertheless, and despite the limitations of the letter of the law as enacted by your Congress, the IRS justifies its actions by application of baseless Regulations promulgated by the Secretary of the Treasury, without foundational authority in the language of the statute, and thus the IRS Computing Center in Detroit Michigan will deny a person's claim of "EXEMPT" or their deductions, and often send out a false W-4 penalty letter with a penalty of $500. Keep in mind that under the U.S. Constitution in Article 1, Section 9, Clause 3, the IRS cannot legally penalize a person without a court hearing. But they can in fact penalize the government's own "employees", and that is exactly what you declare yourself to be when you submit the W-4, which once again is the WRONG form for most Americans.

If this were not enough of an affront to the Rule of Law in this nation, it must be noted that the IRS admits plainly and openly that there is no administrative appeal remedy at law..... Without any legal recourse, many who have followed the law to release themselves from withholding are permanently trapped at the maximum withholding rate of "Single O", de facto penalty for trying to assert their legal rights to all of their money. Likewise, if an employee does not provide a W-4 to their employer or they submit an invalid W-4 (see 26 C.F.R. §31.3402(f)(5)-1), then they also are trapped by the IRS at the single zero rate as per 26 C.F.R. §31.3402(f)(2)-1(a). This little problem is being approached as it is a clear denial of Due Process of law which is to be protected by the 5th and 14th Amendments, and our right to redress of grievance against any determinations made by the government, that effect the life liberty or property of the individual, pursuant to the 1st Amendment. The easy way to avoid all these conflicts is to use the correct form, which is the W-8BEN, or to submit a personal letter claiming not that you are exempt, but that you are not subject to the withholding, didn't earn any taxable income last year, and don't expect any for the coming year.

Had the law been followed by the employer, the person would not only have no withholdings taken from their pay, there would also be no returns sent to the IRS claiming that they effectively earned any "Wages, tips, or other compensation" in Block 1 of the W-2 form. This would have set the person free of all IRS filing and assessment woes, as the IRS computer would have no data entered into it to be manipulated by the employees in charge of the much defamed Assessment and Collection Divisions.

4.5.4.9.5 Correcting W-2's to Reflect the Correct Amount of "wages"

For decades employers have operated under an established custom to withhold from and report ALL remuneration paid to Americans as if the amounts were "wages/compensation". However, there is no legal or statutory justification in this custom, since only the foreign earned income of "U.S. Citizens" (which most Americans technically are NOT) over $70,000 is included in the definition of gross income under Sec. 911. This is confirmed in the Constitution under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 3, which authorizes the U.S. government to tax and regulate only foreign and interstate commerce. That is to say, the Constitution authorizes Congress to tax "income" derived only from commerce that is external to states of the union. This is also confirmed in the Federalist Paper #45 and talked about in section 5.2.3 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book if you want to check it out.

Even if we did earn "gross income" as legally defined, we must still have a voluntary withholding agreement in place in order to earn "wages" as legally defined in 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(a)-3(a):

26 C.F.R. Sec. 31.3401(a)-3 Amounts deemed wages under voluntary withholding agreements.

(a) IN GENERAL.

Notwithstanding the exceptions to the definition of wages specified in section 3401(a) and the regulations thereunder, the term "wages" includes the amounts described in paragraph (b)(1) of this section with respect to which there is a voluntary withholding agreement in effect under section 3402(p). References in this chapter to the definition of wages contained in section 3401(a) shall be deemed to refer also to this section (Section 31.3401(a)-3).

(b) REMUNERATION FOR SERVICES.

(1) Except as provided in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph, the amounts referred to in paragraph (a) of this section include any remuneration for services performed by an employee for an employer which, without regard to this section, does not constitute wages under section 3401(a). For example, remuneration for services performed by an agricultural worker or a domestic worker in a private home (amounts which are specifically excluded from the definition of wages by section 3401(a)(2) and (3), respectively) are amounts with respect to which a voluntary withholding agreement may be entered into under section 3402(p). See Sections 31.3401(c)-1 and 31.3401(d)-1 for the definitions of "employee" and "employer".

If we don't have such an agreement in place or if we submitted a IRS Form W-8BEN to stop withholding, then the employer:

- Cannot report any of the monies earned from labor as "Wages, tips, and other compensation" in Block 1 of the W-2 form under 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(a)-3(a). The amount appearing in that block should be zero.
- Cannot legally withhold any taxes, including Social Security or Medicare, from our pay. IF they do, they have committed grand theft, because the deductions were not authorized by you and this violates the Fifth Amendment, which says that you cannot be deprived of your property without due process of law or just compensation.

When we try to approach our employers about correcting the amount of “Wages, tips, and other compensation” reported in Block 1 of the W-2 form, many employers will claim that the law requires them to make the report as they have. This kind of response simply reveals their ignorance, and when you press them for the law, they will give you a blank stare and look at you like an alien. The way to deal with this is to try to educate them. When they won’t cooperate, then elevate it to the corporate counsel. When that won’t work, you have to submit an IRS form 4852 with your tax return instead of the W-2 provided by your employer. This form is a Substitute W-2, and allows you to specify corrected amounts on the erroneous report provided by your employer.

When the IRS is confronted with the IRS Form 4852 they inform the employer, the employer fails to check the facts of the law supporting their claim and confirms the W-2 claim numerically. So, the IRS may return to the individual submitting the 4852 and say something similar to the quote:

"We cannot change our... (position)...without a corrected statement from them (the third party employer/payor)."

You must keep in mind that the W-2 form is simply hearsay evidence which is inadmissible in court unless validated with an affidavit and unless it is completely consistent with the law. Typically, the affidavit that does this is your signature at the bottom of the tax return. Why do you help the government this way, because you aren’t obligated to? The IRS also does not have the authority to make such a determination as that above, and the federal courts have said that you can’t rely on ANYTHING they say anyway, so does it matter whether they say they can’t change their position? See:

<http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/Articles/IRSNotResponsible.htm>

This clearly demonstrates that all of our individual problems begin with these erroneous third party reports. How do we stop these erroneous reports? This has to be done by first informing the employer/payor of the erroneous claims that they have made, and the erroneous nature of the claims. Question #9 on the IRS Form 4852 asks the person filing the form what they had done to get a correction. If we have a paper trail showing that we tried to correct the W-2 amount it and they refused anyway, then we can defend our position with evidence.

Since this W-2 Form is informing the recipient and the IRS of the amount of Subtitle C Employment Taxes withheld, these forms would appear to be prima facie evidence of “gross income”, despite the fact that the copy of the W-2 sent to the worker does not have to be executed under penalty of perjury as required by 26 C.F.R. §1.6065-1. However, employment taxes under Subtitle C of the Internal Revenue Code are entirely different from Income taxes under Subtitle A. In fact, the IRS’ own IRS Document 6209 at the beginning of Chapter 4 classifies employment withholding classes in tax class 5, which means they are “gifts”, which means they are “donations” and not “taxes”! If these Subtitle C employment taxes had been associated with Subtitle A personal income taxes, they would instead have fallen into tax class 2, which is the class reserved for individual income tax! See section 5.2.7 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book for further details on this scam with employment taxes. See the link below to download your own copy of the IRS Document 6209:

<http://sedm.org/shop/irs-6209-manual/>

The information on the W-2 form is also, by the way, reflected on the corresponding 940 series and 1120 returns of the employers and payers, therefore, in substance these claims are made under penalty of perjury, in a not so direct way. In addition, there is a very common presumption that amounts claimed to be “wages”, “tips” etc. on these forms are expected to be entered onto the first line of the 1040 Income Tax Return and then signed under penalty of perjury. At that moment you mistakenly signed the tax return under penalty of perjury claiming that the content was true, the “gifts” and “donations” documented on incorrect W-2’s provided by your employer are then magically transformed into “gross income” and under 26 U.S.C. §6151 and 26 C.F.R. §1.6151, you then become responsible to pay the tax indicated on this incorrect return that you voluntarily submitted. Of course, we know from reading chapter 5 that the only way these “gifts” could technically be “gross income” is if you were a “public officer” of the United States government, and by submitting the W-4 form, that is exactly what you declared yourself to be! Look in the upper left corner of the form. The title says “Employee’s Withholding Allowance Certificate”. That word “employee” is defined in 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(c)-1 as a “public officer” of the United States government.

When you discover that you have not been receiving 'wages' all of these years, what strategy do you use to rightfully demand a refund of all the taxes withheld? You must once again:

1. Stop withholding using a letter to your employer and if that won't work, submit an IRS form W-8BEN or the W-8 form. Discontinue using the W-4 or W-4 Exempt because they identify you as an officer or employee of the United States government. Do not fill in the SSN or Address fields on this form and instead put "Fifth Amendment" so that the IRS can't track you down if they ever get this form. You are doing this not because you are evading anything, but because you want to protect your Fourth Amendment right of privacy. Also include a statement with the form that says "this form and any information on it is copyrighted and shall not be provided to any third parties without the advanced written consent of the author and this includes forms derived from information on it, such as the W-2".
2. Notify your employer in writing with a Certificate of Service and preferably via Certified mail with return receipt requested that he is reporting incorrect amounts on the W-2 under block 1 entitled "Wages, tips, and other compensation". That amount should be "0" if you do not have a "voluntary withholding agreement" in place as specified in 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(a)-3(a). Keep the original of the letter and mail your employer the copy so that you can use it as evidence in court. It's best if you have a Notary sign the "Certificate of Service" or "Proof of Mailing" and put his notary stamp on it.
3. If the employer won't correct the amounts he is reporting, use the IRS form 4852 as a substitute for the erroneous W-2 he provides and explain that you tried to get him to comply with the law and he refused and continues to report incorrect amounts.
4. File amended returns for those years that you may have mistakenly paid income taxes. We talk about this in section 4.5.4.12.

4.5.4.9.6 What to Do With Employers Who Won't Correct Erroneous W-2's

Some employers can be very obstinate in denying requests by employees to correct their W-2's. These employers have been operating in total disregard of the law for so long that they simply can't accept the reality of what the law says, and seldom are they even interested in what the law says. Why? Here are some very good reasons:

1. Most people hate lawyers and dealing with the law, that they have a mental block with even discussing it and see it as a "priesthood" that only lawyers are qualified to discuss. When confronted with this situation, the payroll person will usually approach the corporate legal counsel (who is an "officer of the government court" and who wouldn't have much to do or much authority if the company had no tax liability). The legal counsel will see his job as threatened. The counsel usually isn't a tax attorney and probably isn't interested in taxes, and won't research the issue. Instead, he will become reactive and emotional and will label your inquiries as ridiculous and you as "dangerous to the company and a source of unnecessary risk" in the companies dealings with the IRS.
2. Payroll managers and corporate legal counsel are often obstinate about changing their approach because to change it after doing it wrong for so many years would be an admission of their own incompetence. This situation can be quite an embarrassment for the average payroll manager that they certainly will want to avoid.
3. Changing the approach of the payroll department also requires the average payroll manager to have to admit to senior company management that they have misapplied the laws in the past, which exposes the company to criminal legal liability from their employees for misapplying the tax laws, which they will certainly want to avoid. No news is good news, in this case.
4. The IRS may be pressuring the payroll manager into "complying" (violating the tax laws) by threatening the company with fictitious penalties of taxes and interest if they change their approach to reporting, because it would reduce the IRS' tax revenues. This is a very common "bluff" that often makes employers so afraid that they will do whatever the IRS tells them. This approach, by the way, is how all of the people working in payroll departments today were "trained" over the years by the IRS to believe the "Great Deception", and to disregard the tax laws to begin with.

For these reasons and many others, most employers will simply deny your request to correct your W-2's and try to discredit you by saying "you don't know what you are talking about," as a way to keep themselves out of trouble. They may also threaten you with disciplinary action if you continue to push your stance, even though it is founded in law. They may treat the issue of you refusing to provide social security numbers the same way. The only recourse when backed into a corner like this by your employer is to pursue the following options, listed in decreasing order of risk and confrontation:

1. Sue them for misapplying the tax laws (the most confrontational approach), thereby forcing them to correct their approach. This is costly and could cause you to be terminated from the company.
2. File an IRS Form W-4E to make yourself exempt from paying income taxes, so the income they report is irrelevant and won't appear on a W-2. This is a less confrontational approach. However, before you do this, you must ensure that you establish a prima facie case against your income tax liability as we discuss in the next section, or the IRS will come back and tell your employer to ignore your W-2E and withhold at the single-zero rate, which will circumvent this approach.

3. Let them do what they want but ensure that you document your concerns and requests completely and provide the documentation when you file for your income tax refunds:

3.1. Send to your employer a certified letter documenting their misapplication of the tax laws and misreporting of "gross income" on your W-2 and ask them formally to fix it in writing. In the letter, ask them for a formal written response to your concerns so you have a paper trail you can use as evidence.

3.2. Submit a copy of the letter along with an IRS Form 4852 with your next tax return which corrects the amounts reported on the W-2 provided by the ignorant and uncooperative employer.

The approach we have taken of those presented above is item 3, because it is the least confrontational and involves the least risk, but also has a history of being effective with the IRS.

4.5.4.10 Establish a Prima Facie Case AGAINST Income Tax Liability

You can't just become a "nontaxpayer" and stop filing income tax returns or paying income taxes cold turkey or without explanation. This will just raise red flags in the IRS computers and eventually get you into BIG trouble. They will probably prosecute you for "Willful Failure to File" under 26 U.S.C. §7203 if you attempt this move without preparing properly. You have to remember that for previous years, you may have faithfully (and fearfully) filed for and paid monies to the government which in fact, there was not law that required you to pay. Even if you may have done so "voluntarily" and were not really liable to pay income taxes based on this document, the IRS most likely won't see it that way. In their view, you have been paying income taxes all these years because you thought you were "liable". They have "reasonable cause" legally to believe this because:

1. Your W-2's have incorrectly reflected "wages" every year, and you have never refuted or corrected the error.
2. You stated on your federal income tax return (in the upper left corner) that you were a "U.S. Individual", which is a "U.S. person" or person who resides in the federal United States. This was not correct because you didn't live in the District of Columbia or a federal possession. Being a "U.S. Person" also meant that you had no constitutionally protected rights because you were inside the federal zone.
3. You declared under penalty of perjury on previous tax returns that the information appearing on your income tax return was true, even though it wasn't. They have to believe you (and it is in their financial interest to believe you) until you declare otherwise.
4. You never bothered to declare to the Secretary of the Treasury that your income and your property were no longer "effectively connected with a trade or business in the United States", which means that the IRS continues to assume that you are a "public officer" of the United States government. The authority for this election is found in:
 - 4.1. 26 C.F.R. §1.871-10 (for method of revocation of election)
 - 4.2. 26 U.S.C. §7701\(b\)\(4\)\(F\) for authority
 - 4.3. 26 U.S.C. §6013\(g\) for background

All of these facts create a prima facie presumption at the IRS in favor of you being liable for federal income taxes. This presumption MUST be completely rebutted, refuted, and corrected with the IRS FIRST, before you can ever hope to get to the point where you can safely and confidently assert that you have no tax liability and your right not to file federal tax returns. Just like the "due process" requirements placed upon the IRS, you also have the same due process requirements placed upon yourself in your dealings with the IRS.

The best place to accumulate evidence that establishes a prima facie presumption of non-liability is in the IRS' own official administrative record on you BEFORE you have to go to trial. This is because everything in that record is admissible as evidence at trial and will likely be used by the IRS to prosecute you. You should get a complete copy of your administrative record under the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) and the Privacy Act before any trials or tax examinations. If the IRS then tries to leave out parts of your record that incriminate them or prove your nonliability, it makes them look bad in front of judges and juries. In effect, you are blackmailing them with their own information about you. The most important information they have on you is your Individual Master File (IMF file for short). The IMF is available upon request from your local IRS district office and in most cases it says for "nationals of the United States" or "U.S. nationals", which most people are, that they aren't liable for income tax. Being able to read and interpret the cryptic codes in the IMF is crucial to establishing your nonliability. IRS Publication 6209 is the manual you will need in order to decode and interpret your IMF report. You can obtain IRS Publication 6209 from:

<http://sedm.org/shop/irs-6209-manual/>

To establish a prima facie case, the following measures may prove helpful:

1. In your first Request for Refund, provide all the following:
 - 1.1. Provide evidence to the IRS that officially refutes all the false evidence of tax liability they have received over past years. This evidence needs to be in your official IRS administrative record and you should demand that it be put there.
 - 1.2. Provide evidence to the IRS that officially refutes your statutory “U.S. citizen” (District of Columbia) under 8 U.S.C. §1401 and assert your citizenship of the United States of America. This evidence needs to be in your official IRS administrative record and you should demand that it be put there.
 - 1.3. Once you have regained your constitutional rights by eliminating your statutory “U.S. citizen” (District of Columbia) under 8 U.S.C. §1401, you must reassert your constitutional rights as a sovereign National of the 50 union states.
 - 1.4. Provide evidence to the IRS that refutes the presumption that you have federal income tax liability, and you must do so without mentioning the IRS publications and relying entirely on the laws, including the Constitution, the U.S. codes, and the Code of Federal Regulations. This evidence needs to be in your official IRS administrative record and you should demand that it be put there.
 - 1.5. Insist that the IRS refer to you in all future correspondence as a “California National” (or whatever state you were born in) instead of a “taxpayer”, until such time as they can demonstrate tax liability on your part using only the law and not the IRS publications.
 - 1.6. Request a copy of your IRS Individual Master File (IMF), so that you can decode the content and use it to refute the presumption that you have tax liability. You should also get a copy of IRS Document Number 6209, which has all the information you need to decode your IMF file. You can obtain a copy of this from Freedom Law School at: <http://www.livefreenow.com/> for about $50, phone (714) 838-2896.
 - 1.7. Send in a copy of this document (Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302) attached to your Request for Refund as prima facie evidence against your tax liability. Refer to the document in your Request for Refund, and ensure that you insist that they keep it in your official administrative record because you will be referring to it in the future. Mark on the top of your Request for Refund “Not valid without all indicated attachments.”). If your case gets into federal court, this will give you a BIG advantage. This is because while federal judges will seldom allow you to talk about the law in their courtroom (which we think is scandalous, by the way), you CAN talk about the basis for your “reasonable cause belief” that you had no income tax liability. Because of the outcome of the Cheek v. United States Supreme Court case, 498 U.S. 192, you can read sections of the book and the laws in this book upon which your subjective beliefs are based in order to establish that your failure to file a return was not “willful” and that you were acting in good faith. This can become an “indirect” way you are allowed to bring evidence about the law into the courtroom so the jury can finally hear it for themselves.
 - 1.8. The IRS is famous for losing things or removing attachments to tax returns and then losing the attachments. They often will try to use this tendency to their advantage, for instance, by claiming there was no attachment and then only looking at the return rather than the attached letter of explanation that goes with it. You should protect yourself against this kind of incompetence and treachery by putting the following notice at the top of EVERY PAGE of your filing: “Filing NOT valid without tax return and all _____ enclosures listed on the attached affidavit.”
2. If the IRS refuses your Request for Refund, insist on an examination or informal meeting with the agent to discuss any issues he may have with your Request for Refund and offer him an opportunity to refute any and all of the claims in chapters 3 and 5 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 document. Tape record the meeting to ensure that you have evidence to back up your efforts to establish the truth and refute the falsehoods reported by your employer(s). During the meeting, keep asking the question: “Where is the law that makes me liable? I’ve spent six devoted months in the law library and haven’t been able to find such a law and I want and need your help in identifying the law. I have found plenty of statutes that say I am NOT liable, but none that say I am. If you’d just show me the law, I’d end this meeting right now and immediately file and pay my income tax.”
3. You should never ignore or disregard any letter or correspondence you receive from the IRS. Instead, you must diligently read EVERY correspondence received from them and refute every inaccurate or incorrect claim, fact, or statement they make with a detailed responsive letter that is provided via Certified Mail with Return Receipt. If you don’t do this, then they can establish a prima facie claim against you in favor of their position.
4. Follow proper procedures and proper rules of evidence at all times in executing all the above steps. There needs to be a paper trail for whatever you do and the paper trail has to rely on documentation from third parties instead of directly or only on your word (courts don't trust your word only because they don't trust you to be objective. Never mind that the federal judge has a TOTAL conflict of interest because he is paid with your extorted tax dollars.. that doesn't count!). This will ensure that you have adequate evidence with which to defend yourself in the event that litigation becomes necessary. This means that:

- 4.1. All correspondence with the IRS must be via Certified Mail with Return Receipt (from the Postal Service).
- 4.2. You should keep copies of the ORIGINAL of all correspondence locked up and mail the copy to the IRS.
- 4.3. You might want to accompany each correspondence with the IRS with a legal "Proof of Service by Mail" that you keep of copy. A Proof of Service is simply a form that documents the content of each correspondence and the fact that it was deposited into the U.S. Mail on a specific date and time by an impartial third party who is over 18 years old.
- 4.4. Your initial Request for Refund should be an affidavit, so that you have third-party proof that you filed it. Keep the original copy of it for yourself.
- 4.5. You want to bring friends or family members along with you to any meetings or tax examinations you have with the IRS. They make good witnesses.
- 4.6. You ask the IRS for all communications with you to be in writing and signed by the agent who authored the correspondence. Ask for his address, phone number, and email address so that you can maintain constant communication and accountability with him. You should emphasize that all anonymous correspondence or correspondence that is not signed will be completely ignored.
- 4.7. Whenever you get especially incriminating evidence against the government's position, go down to your county recorder and have them record it. This will make the evidence into a public record. Under Federal Rule of Evidence 902, all public records are admissible as evidence. At that point, the judge simply cannot keep such damning records from being admitted into evidence should your case go to trial, no matter how badly he may want to. You might want to use this technique, for instance, with the rebutted version of your IRS Individual Master File (IMF) which you sent to the IRS and asked to have corrected.

You will note that the above tactics are designed to shift the burden of proof from you to the IRS. You don't want the IRS to get you into the defensive position where you have to "prove a negative" (that you ARE NOT liable for federal income taxes). Rather, you want to change the evidentiary picture so they instead have to "prove a positive", which is that you ARE LIABLE for federal income taxes. It's always harder (if not impossible) to prove a negative than it is to prove a positive, and they know that. That's why the IRS and the tax code itself always calls EVERYONE "taxpayers" instead of "citizens", because they win the war before it ever gets started! "Guilty until proven innocent" is the ruthless approach they use, even though we know that too is unconstitutional within our legal system.

For further information on the process of creating a prima facie case, refer to section 4.5.4.5: Use the FOIA, Privacy Act, and Discovery to Gain an Advantage.

In the process of corresponding with the IRS, it is quite common to encounter the following unscrupulous and unethical tactics:

1. IRS picks the weakest argument in your correspondence and ignores all the rest.
2. IRS refuses to respond to all questions or concerns raised in your Request for Refund.
3. They completely ignore or lose your correspondence.

4. They unstaple the letter accompanying your tax return and conveniently “lose” it so they don’t have to respond to it. You can fight this by:
 - 4.1. Number each page, including the attached letter, with “Page ____ of ____”.
 - 4.2. Putting the phrase “Return invalid without attached letter and ALL ____ (number) numbered enclosures.”
5. Agent responding to your correspondence refuses to give his real or full name or identity, such that he or she can’t be held personally responsible for fraudulent response.
6. IRS lies in their response, because they responded anonymously and therefore can’t be held personally liable for fraud.
7. IRS will try to distract attention away from the questions asked to totally irrelevant subjects so they don’t have to answer.

Many people are victimized by these tactics, but they aren’t insurmountable and you don’t have to be. IRS regulations are in place requiring agents to determine liability in your specific circumstances, respond to your questions directly and completely, and be held personally accountable in their response. The Treasury Regulations found in 26 C.F.R. Subchapter H entitled “Internal Revenue Practice”, Part 601 entitled “Statement of Procedural Rules”, Regulation 601.201 (26 C.F.R. §601.201) identifies specifically how you can compel an authenticated and official response out of the IRS to your specific tax questions and your personal tax liability. It will cost you money, but at least you have a guaranteed way to get your questions answered relating to your tax liability. You can use the link below to examine these regulations:

Let’s take a closer look. First, we find in 26 C.F.R. §601.201(a)(1) the following:

Sec. 601.201 Rulings and determinations letters.

(a) General practice and definitions.

(1) It is the practice of the Internal Revenue Service to answer inquiries of individuals and organizations, whenever appropriate in the interest of sound tax administration, as to their status for tax purposes and as to the tax effects of their acts or transactions. One of the functions of the National Office of the Internal Revenue Service is to issue rulings in such matters.

If you read through this regulation, you find that there are five types of responses the IRS can prepare:

Table 4-7: Types of Responses Available from IRS

Format	Issued by:	Description
Rulings	National Office in Washington, D.C.	A ruling is a written statement issued to a taxpayer or his authorized representative by the National Office which interprets and applies the tax laws to a specific set of facts. Rulings are issued only by the National Office. The issuance of rulings is under the general supervision of the Assistant Commissioner (Technical) and has been largely redelegated to the Director, Corporation Tax Division and Director, Individual Tax Division. See 26 C.F.R. §601.201(a)(2) for further details.
Determination letters	District Director	A determination letter is a written statement issued by a district director in response to a written inquiry by an individual or an organization that applies to the particular facts involved, the principles and precedents previously announced by the National Office. A determination letter is issued only where a determination can be made on the basis of clearly established rules as set forth in the statute, Treasury decision, or regulation, or by a ruling, opinion, or court decision published in the Internal Revenue Bulletin. Where such a determination cannot be made, such as where the question presented involves a novel issue or the matter is excluded from the jurisdiction of a district director by the provisions of paragraph (c) of this section, a determination letter will not be issued. However, with respect to determination letters in the pension trust area, see paragraph (o) of this section. See 26 C.F.R. §601.201(a)(3) for further details.
Opinion letters	National Office in Washington, D.C.	An opinion letter is a written statement issued by the National Office as to the acceptability of the form of a master or prototype plan and any related trust or custodial account under sections 401 and 501(a) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954. See 26 C.F.R. §601.201(a)(4) for further details.

Information letters	National Office or District Director	An information letter is a statement issued either by the National Office or by a district director which does no more than call attention to a well-established interpretation or principle of tax law, without applying it to a specific set of facts. An information letter may be issued when the nature of the request from the individual or the organization suggests that it is seeking general information, or where the request does not meet all the requirements of paragraph (e) of this section, and it is believed that such general information will assist the individual or organization. See 26 C.F.R. §601.201(a)(5) for further details.
Revenue rulings	Internal Revenue Service	Revenue Ruling is an official interpretation by the Service which has been published in the Internal Revenue Bulletin. Revenue Rulings are issued only by the National Office and are published for the information and guidance of taxpayers, Internal Revenue Service officials, and others concerned. See 26 C.F.R. §601.201(a)(6) for further details.

The one you want is the determination letter. The determination letter is for income and gift tax matters, as indicated in 26 C.F.R. §601.201(c). We have a sample determination letter request on the Family Guardian Website at:

<http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Evidence/Discovery/DeterminationLetter.pdf>

The fee the IRS charges for a Determination Letter is $275. You don't need to follow the sample format we provide above and can instead, for instance, embed the entire determination letter request into your Request for Refund that we provide, which is a very prudent tactic. If you file the determination letter request with your Request for Refund or tax return, there are some important things to keep in mind:

(4) Notwithstanding the provisions of subparagraphs (1), (2), and (3), of this paragraph, a district director will not issue a determination letter in response to an inquiry which presents a question specifically covered by statute, regulations, rulings, etc., published in the Internal Revenue Bulletin, where (i) it appears that the taxpayer has directed a similar inquiry to the National Office, (ii) the identical issue involving the same taxpayer is pending in a case before the Appellate Division, (iii) the determination letter is requested by an industry, trade association, or similar group, or (iv) the request involves an industrywide problem. Under no circumstances will a district director issue a determination letter unless it is clearly indicated that the inquiry is with regard to a taxpayer or taxpayers who have filed or are required to file returns over which his office has or will have audit jurisdiction. Notwithstanding the provisions of subparagraph (3) of this paragraph, a district director will not issue a determination letter on an employment tax question when the specific question involved has been or is being considered by the Central Office of the Social Security Administration. Nor will district directors issue determination letters on excise tax questions if a request is for a determination of a constructive sales price under section 4216(b) or 4218(e) of the Code. However, the National Office will issue rulings in this area. See paragraph (d)(2) of this section.

Therefore, we need to request the determination letter BEFORE we file our return, and state in our return that includes the determination that the return is submitted FIRST as a determination letter, and after that, the materials provided are to be used as a tax return. Otherwise, the District Director we send it to won't rule. Also, we should send the determination letter request to other than the District Office that would service our claim, because according to the above:

Under no circumstances will a district director issue a determination letter unless it is clearly indicated that the inquiry is with regard to a taxpayer or taxpayers who have filed or are required to file returns over which his office has or will have audit jurisdiction.

Alternatively, one can also send the request for determination letter to the National Office letting them know your problem and asking them to send the request to whatever District Office can service it.

Determination letters must follow a strict format and be very clear and concise so that the IRS has no wiggle room to misinterpret or misunderstand your questions. The format of the request for determination letter, the cost, and the procedure required is described in Internal Revenue Bulletins, which you can read using the Tax Research CD-ROM we described earlier in section 4.5.1.5. You should follow the same format in your request for determination letter that lawyers would use when preparing a deposition, a request for admissions, and/or an interrogatory. Each question must have specific answers they can select or facts they can provide, and a default answer must be provided to each question so that if they don't answer the specific question, then there is still an answer they provide. Provide the questions on a separate attachment and require a full printed name and signature on the IRS response, as well as a witness and/or notary. Send everything via certified mail with return receipt. A recommended set of questions to include with your determination letter is contained in the Test for Federal Tax Professionals, Form #03.009 found in section 3.1 and available in editable format on the Family Guardian Website at:

<http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/FalseRhetoric/Questions.htm>

We have IRS instructions and a sample determination letter format found at:

Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Online, Form #10.004

<http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/FormsInstr.htm>

After you open the above page, select "FORMS" in the upper left corner and then scroll down on the left to items 13.6 through 13.8.

We wrote the IRS to ask them about determination letters. Below was the dialog along with their answer:

QUESTION:

For the purposes of requesting determination letters as described in 26 C.F.R. 601.201 for an individual taxpayer, is there a fee required, and if so, how much? May an individual taxpayer request a determination letter from the district office for the purposes of determining only the extent of his Subtitle A Income tax liability?

Anonymous

IRS ANSWER:

Thank you for contacting us. Publication 1375 provides procedures for issuing rulings, determination letters, and information letters and for entering into closing agreements on specific issues under the jurisdiction of the Associate Chief Counsel (Technical). The material is a reprint from the first weekly issue of the Internal Revenue Bulletin. The appendix contains a schedule of user fees. You may use this schedule to determine which fee is applicable to your request. Private letter rulings and advance letter rulings usually cost $200.00 and up.

Letter ruling requests cannot be submitted to the district office. Letter ruling request should be notated Ruling Request Submission and sent to:

*Internal Revenue Service Associate Chief Counsel (Technical),
Attn: CC: DOM: CORP: T
PO Box 7604
Ben Franklin Station
Washington, DC 20044*

You may download publication 1375 from our web site at www.irs.gov or you may order by phone at 1-800-829-3676

4.5.4.12 Requesting Income Tax Refunds for the Current Year and the Past Two Years

Since:

1. Filing requirements and change frequently, and we need a way to communicate current requirements in a timely, electronic manner.
2. We could easily come under fire for instructing people how to file, especially because "nontaxpayers" should NOT file at all.
3. It is incompatible with the Mission of those who offer this book to be instructing people how to file tax returns.

Then we have decided to offer the example return on a FREE website and no include it in this book. You can obtain an example form from the FREE website below:

<http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/FormsInstr.htm>

Look at item #8.1 through 8.6 on the left area for free examples. The State return example is item #8.1. Item 8.1 contains the refund example that Family Guardian Fellowship uses. This section should not be construed as advice about whether or how you should file or not file, but simply a pointer to free information that may prove useful should you make the independent decision on the subject.

4.5.4.13 Stopping Employer Withholding of Income Taxes

The subject of stopping employer withholding is covered exhaustively in a free book below:

Federal and State Tax Withholding Options for Private Employers, Form #09.001
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

It is redundant and unnecessary to discuss that subject here. The above free book has sample forms that are very useful, and even a quiz at the end that private employers can answer which proves all the issues upon which you are basing your beliefs.

Lastly, note that it is not the purpose of this book to stop “taxpayers” from withholding, or to advise anyone to either withhold or not to withhold. In our case, because we are a “non-resident non-person”, a “national”, and “nontaxpayer” not subject to the Internal Revenue Code and not liable under the I.R.C., then we have legally stopped withholding using the above free booklet. How you handle your own situation is your decision.

"The avoidance of taxes is the only pursuit that still carries any reward."
 [John Maynard Keynes]

If you have decided that you are a “nontaxpayer” and a “non-resident non-person”, as this book and the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 describe, then it will probably become important to take steps to:

1. Get your name and personal information out of government computers and “taxpayer” records maintained by the IRS.
2. Rebut false reports of receipt of income connected with a “trade or business” on W-2 and 1099 forms.

If you don’t do the above, you may unknowingly trigger a Notice of Deficiency from the IRS if the IRS gets a nonzero W-2 or 1099 Information Return on you and you don't file a return, but if they never get a W-2 or 1099 or the form they get is zero or has been proven to be false under penalty of perjury, then you remove the presumption of “taxable income” and therefore remove any reason for them to even contact or bother you again.

Several free resources are available for correcting false W-2 and 1099 reports. Below is a free article that shows how to correct false W-2 reports:

<http://sedm.org/Forms/Tax/CorrErrInfoRtns/FormW2/CorrectingIRSFormW2.htm>

Below is a free article that shows how to correct false 1099 reports:

<http://sedm.org/Forms/Tax/CorrErrInfoRtns/Form1099/CorrectingIRSForm1099.htm>

Remember, the goal is to remove false entries in IRS computers that identify you as a “taxpayer” or a person with “taxable income”. That process starts with filing the correct withholding forms, and ends with correcting false reports of receipt of income connected to a “trade or business” appearing on W-2 and 1099 forms. If you would like to learn more about how the W-2 and 1099 forms create a usually false presumption of receipt of earnings connected with a “trade or business”, we refer you to the article below:

If you have stopped withholding with your PRIVATE employer and/or you aren't filing income tax returns, it's VERY important to regularly and annually:

1. Verify and correct your withholding paperwork to ensure that it is consistent with:

Federal and State Tax Withholding Options for Private Employers, Form #09.001
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

2. Send corrected information returns to the IRS .

3. File a criminal complaint against all those filing information returns against you. This is contained in:

Corrected Information Return Attachment Letter, Form #04.002
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

4. If you want your money back, to file a nonresident nonstatutory claim for return of funds unlawfully withheld and paid to the government:

Federal Nonresident Nonstatutory Claim for Return of Funds Unlawfully Withheld by the Government, Form #15.001
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

The above actions will develop a good administrative record that will:

1. Immunize you from criminal prosecution for non-compliance
2. Prevent making you a target of unlawful IRS enforcement..
3. Develop legal evidence you can use to sue under equity and not law for a return for unlawfully withheld and paid earnings, should you choose to do so. This would typically be done in state court.

For the reason why you need a good administrative record and further assistance in developing one, see:

Techniques for Building a Good Administrative Record, Form #09.008
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

The IRS Taxpayer Rights statement says:

"Our mission is to show or help taxpayers."

This is a very good reliance defense against the IRS if they decide to prosecute you under 26 U.S.C. §7203 for "Willful Failure to File". The IRS will look very bad in front of a jury because they have no way to respond to a statement such as this and will typically refuse to respond and not give you the help you are asking for, which violates their Taxpayer Rights statement above. They have a responsibility to help taxpayers understand how they can legally assess themselves for and pay the correct amount of tax without violating their constitutional rights, and quite frankly, those two requirements can't be simultaneously fulfilled as the current tax system is implemented.

When trial comes up for "Willful failure to file", all you have to do is tell the jury:

"I asked for time because I wanted help. They wouldn't give me the help I needed. I'd file and pay right now if they would help me and show me how I can file without either committing a crime, misrepresenting my status on a government form, or committing perjury under penalty of perjury."

This is also a very good defense under 26 U.S.C. §6724, which states:

"No penalty shall be imposed under this part with respect to any failure if it is shown that such failure is due to reasonable cause and not to willful neglect."

Keep in mind that under the statute of limitations imposed by 26 U.S.C. §6501, if you are not filing returns, there is NO statute of limitation for litigating payment or refund of taxes for the following conditions:

1. False return
2. Willful attempt to evade tax
3. No return

The Internal Revenue Service has no legal authority to summons any third parties in connection with the enforcement or collection of income taxes under Subtitles A through C of the Internal Revenue Code. 26 U.S.C. §7602\(c\)\(1\) is the section that describes notice requirements for summons of third parties by the IRS. However, the only implementing regulations that give this section force are found in 27 C.F.R. Part 70, which is for Alcohol, Tobacco, and Firearms and not the Title 26 Income taxes. There are simply NO IMPLEMENTING REGULATIONS that authorize summons authority upon third parties in connection with Subtitles A through C income taxes. When the IRS begins collection activity against “persons”, they typically will send you a Notice 1219B, Catalog No. 73243V which is entitled “Notice of Potential Third Party Contact”. Here is what that notice says:

NOTICE OF POTENTIAL THIRD PARTY CONTACT

We are attempting to collect unpaid taxes from you. Generally, our practice is to deal directly with a taxpayer or a taxpayer's duly authorized representative. However, we sometimes talk with other persons, for example when we need information that the taxpayer has been unable to provide, or to verify information we have received.

This notice is provided to tell you that we may contact other persons. If we do contact other persons we will generally need to tell them limited information, such as your name. The law prohibits us from disclosing any more information than is necessary to obtain or verify the information we are seeking. Our need to contact other persons may continue as long as there is activity on this matter.
[IRS Notice 1219B, Catalog No. 73243V]

When you get one of these notices, you should notify the IRS immediately in writing with a proof of service that they are not authorized by law to summons or contact third parties about you, based on the lack of implementing regulations for 26 U.S.C. §7602 for Subtitles A through C income taxes.

The summons is normally instituted by the IRS using an IRS Form 2039. 26 U.S.C. §7609 contains special procedures for third party summons. You should read this section if your case is in a collection state and the IRS is contacting third parties about your financial records. We don't have the space here to go into all the intricacies of Third Party Summons, but we have a wealth of information at:

Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Online, Form #10.004
<http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/FormsInstr.htm>

Go to the EVIDENCE section in the upper left (click “VIEW EVIDENCE” and look in item section 6, which is titled “Discovery”. Items 6.3 and 6.4 in that section provide some very good background on IRS authority for third party summons.

If the summons is for you instead of a third party, once again, the IRS has no lawful authority and no regulations authorizing them to summons you for the same reasons as above. However, in practice, the courts have tended in the past to sanction those who don’t show up to their own summons even though it is instituted illegally. Therefore, even though you aren’t obligated legally to show up to an IRS meeting or examination, you should do so anyway. Here is what the IRS Handbook for Special Agents dated 4-15-82 on page 9781-88 says about your rights at such a summons or hearing:

Handbook for Special Agents, 4-15-82, Page 9781-88.

342.12 Books and Records of An Individual

- (14) An individual taxpayer may refuse to exhibit his/her books and records for examination on the ground that compelling him/her to do so might violate his/her right against self-incrimination under the Fifth Amendment and constitute an illegal search and seizure under the Fourth Amendment [Boyd v. U.S.; U.S. v. Vadner]. However, in the absence of such claims, it is not error for a court to charge the jury that it may consider the refusal to produce books and records, in determining willfulness (Louis C. Smith v. U.S.; Beard v. U.S.; Olson v. U.S.; Myres v. U.S.).
- (15) The privilege against self-incrimination does not permit a taxpayer to refuse to obey a summons issued under IRC 7602 or a court order directing his/her appearance. He/she is required to appear and cannot use the Fifth Amendment as an excuse for failure to do so, although he/she may exercise it in connection with specific questions (Landy v. U.S.). He/she cannot refuse to bring his/her records, but may decline to submit them for inspection on constitutional grounds. In the Vadner case, the government moved to hold a taxpayer in contempt of court for refusal to obey a court order to produce his/her books and records. He refused to submit them for inspection by the Government, basing his refusal on the Fifth Amendment. The court denied the motion to hold him in contempt, holding that disclosure of his assets would provide a starting point for a tax evasion case.
- (16) Where records are required to be kept as an aid to enforcement of certain regulatory functions enacted by Congress, such records have been held public records, whose production may be compelled without violating the Fifth Amendment. This reasoning has also been applied in some income tax evasion cases ((Falsone v. U.S.; Beard v. U.S.). Other income tax cases have stated that compulsory production of a taxpayer’s books and records for use in a criminal prosecution would violate the constitutional protection against self-incrimination. There has not yet been any Supreme Court decision holding the public records doctrine applicable in income tax cases.
- (17) The decision of the Supreme Court in Andresen v. Maryland appears to have resolved conflicting judicial precedents regarding the use of search warrants to seize books and records of financial transactions. IN this case the Court held that the search of Andresen’s office for business records, their seizure and subsequent introduction into evidence did not offend the Fifth Amendment. Although the seized records contained statements that the accused had committed to writing, he was never required to say anything. The search for an seizure of these records was conducted by law enforcement officers and introduced ab trial by prosecution witnesses.

You therefore don’t have to indicate you have records or bring them to the meeting. You will get yourself in trouble if you admit you have records at any time and refuse to provide them, so please ensure that you never admit to having any records. The only exception to this rule is if you have records that would prejudice the IRS or advantage your case, and those you should keep copies of before you take them to the hearing, summons, or meeting with the IRS and only give the copies and not the originals out, or they will conveniently and permanently disappear if an agent gets hold of one of these documents at a summons.

Another excellent source for information on Administrative Hearings and taxes in general is the following book:

Tax Procedure and Tax Fraud

Chapter 4 of the above book talks in detail about audits and administrative appeals. The book is part of the "In a Nutshell" Series and is compact, brief, inexpensive ($23 at most legal bookstores), and very concise. Highly recommended.

We also publish a book called the Nontaxpayer's Audit Defense Manual, Form #06.011, which has detailed forms, procedures, and evidence useful in preparing for and attending an IRS audit. You can learn more about this manual at:

Tax examinations are an extremely important administrative element in any tax litigation. The federal courts, and in particular the U.S. Tax Court, have ruled that executive agencies have an obligation to handle tax issues administratively at the lowest level possible in order to avoid clogging the courts with litigation and to ensure justice can be effected with minimal effort and expense. According to the Administrative Procedures Act, tax matters must be handled in good faith, which means that all prima facie evidence against an American must be presented to him and the laws which are being violated must be specifically identified. The accused must have the ability to know in advance who the witnesses are who are testifying against them. They must be notified when third parties are contacted for interviews or depositions so the accused can appear at the deposition as well. They must have the ability to examine any prima facie evidence that will be used against them and cross-examine witnesses. These requirements are all part of the due process protections guaranteed by the 5th and 14th Amendments of the U.S. Constitution. Unfortunately, the IRS very commonly violates our constitutionally-guaranteed due process rights, mainly because of ignorance of Americans about their rights and their desire to avoid litigation and expense by just caving in and "paying the ransom" to get their "freedom" back.

The tax examination meeting is the first administrative contact most accused Americans have with the IRS following receipt of a deficiency notice. Everything that is said and done and presented at the tax examination meeting becomes part of the official IRS "administrative record" for the accused. It is quite common for the following tactics to occur on the part of the IRS in the context of such a meeting:

1. Not notify accused Americans of the tax examination meeting.
2. Not allow the Citizen to call and make his own appointment prior to the meeting to ask questions. Instead, telling them that they would have to walk in and take a number. This tactic is designed to make it inconvenient for Americans to satisfy the due process requirement and burden of proof obligation of the IRS found in 5 U.S.C. §556(d).
3. Send the written notification of the tax examination meeting to the wrong address and not request a return receipt to verify the notification.
4. Not call the Citizen to confirm the examination.
5. Not identify the issues that will be discussed at the examination.
6. Not notify the accused Citizen of their 5th Amendment right to not incriminate themselves by not notifying the IRS of the existence of any records and not bringing such records to the meeting.
7. Refuse to refer to the case for technical advice when requested.
8. Tell parties who have a friend along that is there to represent them that they aren't allowed to do so. This is especially true if the representative is knowledgeable and experienced in the law, but is not an attorney or CPA. Treasury Circular 230 and 26 C.F.R. §601.502 both allow spouses to represent each other. In addition, 5 U.S.C. §500(d) indicates that the IRS may not interfere with your choice of representative, so you can safely bring anyone to represent you, whether or not they are enrolled agents, attorneys, CPA's, etc.
9. Come unprepared to the meeting without answering the written questions that we advise you to send them at least one month prior to the meeting.

10. Assign someone who is not authorized or not qualified to answer your questions and will play “dumb”. If they do this, insist at the meeting on someone who is knowledgeable and empowered to influence the situation, which is usually someone at the Group Leader level or higher.
11. When you ask for some particular information, the agent will go back to their desk and then come back and say they can't find it. For such an event, tell them this is your meeting and you are prepared to wait all day for the information if need be but that you won't leave until you get it. You can prevent this kind of procrastination by giving them a list of things to bring to the examination meeting with your list of questions at least one month before the meeting and telling them in writing via certified mail to come prepared with all the necessary information.
12. Tell any witnesses you bring along to the meeting that they must identify their name, address, and social security number. If they don't actively participate in the meeting and answer questions on your behalf, then they aren't required to tell the IRS anything.
13. If you scheduled for a court reporter to appear with you, then they commonly will call off the meeting either after everyone appears, or shortly before in order to inconvenience you and force you to pay the reporter for lost or wasted time.
14. Tell you that you can't tape record your meeting, even though the law allows this if you have notified them in advance at least ten days.

If you want someone to represent you at the meeting, you will need to fill out and provide an IRS Form 2848 "Power Of Attorney" authorizing them to do so and present it at the start of the meeting, as well as submit it into the record of your stenographer.

The foundation of what gets discussed at the meeting is the IRS' own files on you, including their IMF, or Individual Master File. All of the information they have about you is available under the Freedom of Information Act \(FOIA\) and the Privacy Act through a simple written, registered mail request. Therefore, before you show up at the examination meeting, you should ensure that you request a copy of your IMF and all the evidence they have on you using an FOIA request. Section 3.14.5 contains an FOIA request for your IMF that you can use as a sample. You can use our Master File (MF) Decoder program to decode your IMF after the IRS responds to your FOIA request. It is available for downloading at:

GETTING A DUE PROCESS HEARING:

Getting a due process hearing is very difficult! Many people have been reading this and other tax freedom books and know the secrets to success. Most sources advocate administrative activism on the part of the Citizen and the frequent use of your administrative due process rights to establish evidence and fact of nonliability. This means a lot of people have to go into the IRS office like bulldogs and latch on for their pound of flesh until the IRS gets off their back and eliminates the outstanding balance or collection activity. This also means there will likely be a line of people ahead of you demanding due process hearings, which are time consuming and delay you getting a hearing. Combine that with IRS Agents who know they don't have a leg to stand on against the techniques we suggest and you end up with the vast majority of IRS agents and offices that don't want Citizens getting due process hearings! In earlier days, when the truth was less widely known, it was easy to call the local IRS office and make an appointment for the due process meeting well in advance. Now, they tell you that appointments are only on a walk-in, first come first served basis. The excuse they use is that they are overworked and have a lot of walk-ins. This is a smokescreen for their real reasons, which is that they don't want:

1. To discuss the real basis for your liability or assessment.
2. To look at the statutes or implementing regulations. After they have learned the truth that the law says you aren't liable, then they have lost their excuse to claim “plausible deniability”, as we pointed out in section 2.4.2 of the Tax Fraud Prevention Manual, Form #06.008. At that point, they become targets for extortion under the color of office, which is the last thing they want. This is why even if they know the facts, they will play ignorant at your meeting most of the time. That is why you should send a list of questions in advance and tell them to have a person there who can give authoritative answers to the questions.
3. To give you a chance to bring along witnesses, photographers, or legal or expert counsel. It's very expensive to bring along such persons and have them sit around waiting if you can't make an appointment. This makes your visit punitively expensive, which is what the IRS wants but will never admit to you. Freedom has a price, and the IRS wants to make it as costly and inconvenient as they can! They do this in spite of the fact that the last word in their name is “Service”, and their mission statement says they are there to serve the needs of taxpayers at all times. However, taxpayers don't need much help because they can do their own returns. The real “high maintenance” people who need most of the help and the people who they don't want to serve are those who are sticking up for their rights to not pay tax!

As a result of the above considerations, when you call you should be friendly and flexible. Tell them that you are confused about the law and your liability and would like an opportunity to meet to discuss your specific situation with an agent. If you owe tax, tell them that you would be happy to pay the tax after you get your due process hearing and are convinced with determination documents of your liability, and that you won't pay it until you get it.

BEFORE THE EXAMINATION OR DUE PROCESS HEARING:

At least one month before the tax examination, we recommend sending the IRS the Test for Federal Tax Professionals, Form #03.009 appearing in section 3.1. Attach a letter to the Test for Tax Professionals similar to that in section 3.12.1 notifying the IRS that you intend to:

1. Tape the hearing. You must notify the examiner at least 10 days in advance of the intent to tape the hearing as per Internal Revenue Manual, 4.10.3.2.5 (05-14-1999).

WARNING: If you don't observe the 10 day notice requirement, you will not be able to record the meeting and will lose valuable evidence that could mean the difference between an acquittal and a conviction! Even if the agent lets you tape record the meeting without advance notice, you will not be able to use your recording as evidence in court, so make sure you give proper notice!

2. Bring witnesses.
3. Bring legal counsel or a representative.
4. Bring a court reporter.

It extremely common for the IRS agent you are interfacing with to try to call your bluff before the meeting after you notify him you will have a court reporter or recorder. He will try to scare you out of bringing court reporters, counsel, or witnesses in order to make his job easier. Below is an actual correspondence received by one of our readers from the IRS along these lines:

"Your hearing request makes several assertions that I must here address:

As a matter of national policy, Appeals no longer allows recording or stenography at due process hearings. Should you insist on recordation or stenography, I will make my determination in your case based on your written submissions and with no further opportunity for a hearing.

The courts have consistently ruled that there is no requirement for the production of documents at these hearings. Any such request should be directed to the IRS disclosure officer, at...

I will allow you to bring one observer...may not participate unless authorized...in addition two authorized reps. ..."

The above correspondence is lacking and completely beyond the scope of authority of the agent. 26 U.S.C. §7521(a)(1) REQUIRES that tape recording be allowed by the IRS at any "taxpayer" interview and it is a violation of this law for anyone to suggest otherwise. Even the U.S. Tax Court ruled on July 8, 2003 in the case of Curtis B. Keene v. C.I.R., 121 T.C. 2 (2003), that the IRS must to permit tape recording of interviews. Any demand an IRS or government employee agent makes must be authorized by law and if he doesn't cite a specific statute and implementing legislative regulation as his authority, then you can safely assume he is bluffing. Did you notice above that the agent did not cite any lawful authority? Sometimes, agents will try to fool you by citing a law that doesn't even apply to you as their authority if they think you know a little bit about the law. At this point, it becomes important to be able to distinguish what has the "force of law" and what doesn't. We have a listing of those authorities that have the force of law for your benefit on the Family Guardian Website at the following address:

Federal Courts and the IRS' own IRM Say the IRS is NOT RESPONSIBLE for Its Actions or Its Words or For Following Its Own Written Procedures!, Family Guardian Fellowship
<http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/Articles/IRSNotResponsible.htm>

Based on the above article on the Family Guardian Website, you can safely conclude that:

- The agent is not held accountable for his statements and they confer no rights upon you.
- He cannot cite as his authority any procedural regulation found in 26 C.F.R. Part 601 because these are only procedural regulations that are not published in the Federal register and therefore not only don't apply to the public, but the federal courts have ruled the IRS doesn't even have to follow them.
- He cannot cite as his authority any part of the Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.). The I.R.M. is not published in the Federal Register and therefore does impact the public at large.
- Any authority he does cite must be published in the Federal Register in order to be applicable to you and you should demand from him the Federal Register section that references the authority he is citing.
- If his delegation order, which is the document that gives him his lawful authority, does not give him the authority to make the determination about the recording, then he can't make the claim and is bluffing. You should demand a copy of his delegation order or tell him you won't listen to anything he says.

Don't worry about gathering together any books or records for the examination. There is no requirement for you to keep any books or records in complying with Internal Revenue Code Subtitles A and C income taxes, since these taxes are voluntary for "nontaxpayers", which hopefully includes you. Refer to section 5.5.5 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book for the requirements on keeping records.

Remember that these IRS agents are like most lawyers: greedy sharks who will do anything for money, including lie and/or deceive. Knowledge is power and freedom is not a spectator sport. Take lots of time to do your homework by carefully studying this book and the law yourself. Question everything and everyone, including this book. Don't trust or rely on anyone, including a so-called "professional" or tax attorney, to do your homework for you, because you will be mercilessly exploited and victimized if you do.

*"My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge."
[Hosea 4:6, Bible, NKJV]*

*"The mouth of the righteous speaks wisdom, and his tongue talks of justice. The law of his God is in his heart; none of his steps shall slide. The wicked watches the righteous, and seeks to slay him. The Lord will not leave him in his hand, nor condemn him when he is judged. Wait on the Lord, and keep His way, and He shall exalt you to inherit the land; when the wicked are cut off, you shall see it."
[Prov. 37:30-34, Bible, NKJV]*

*"My son, if you receive my words, and treasure my commands within you, so that you incline your ear to wisdom, and apply your heart to understanding; yes, if you cry out for discernment, understanding, if you seek her as silver, and search for her as for hidden treasures; then you will understand the fear of the Lord, and find the knowledge of God. For the Lord gives wisdom; from His mouth come knowledge and understanding; He stores up sound wisdom for the upright; he is a shield to those who walk uprightly; he guards the paths of justice, and preserves the way of His saints. Then you will understand righteousness and justice, equity and every good path."
[Prov. 2:1-9, Bible, NKJV]
[INTERPRETATION: You can't be free and deserve your liberty without treasuring and seeking wisdom and knowledge and understanding, which start with a reverence/fear and respect for God almighty!! Faith in God is the foundation of all good and lasting things in life.]*

Coming educated and prepared to the meeting or examination will allow you to dominate and control the meeting and intimidate the IRS to the point where they won't try to pull any bull-crap on you. Knowing the law will make you the master and the IRS agent(s) you are meeting with the servant, and that is what you want. If you show the slightest bit of weakness or ignorance or hesitation, we guarantee they, and possibly your own legal counsel, will try to exploit you. Knowing the tax law will also give you a BIG advantage over most IRS agents, because most of them are only taught procedures and never learn or study the statutes or regulations for themselves. Your assigned examination agent will be speechless in response to most of your legal questions, which is exactly what you want to get on tape with witnesses present. If they can't demonstrate their authority using the law and they have the burden of proof as the moving party, then it will be fairly simple to defeat them if the case ever goes to court. The more you know, the less likely they are to pick a fight with you in court, because they choose their battles very carefully to maximize their take. They won't try to bully you if they know they can't deceive you or intimidate you. Knowing and effectively communicating the truth really will set you free from their harassment!

Before the meeting, you should ensure that you gather the following documents and evidence for use at the meeting:

1. A copy of IRS Publication 1, which is entitled “Your Rights as a Taxpayer”. This publication will be helpful in establishing what you can expect from the IRS agent.
2. A copy of your IMF obtained through a the Freedom of Information Act request served on the IRS for the tax years in question. You can obtain copies of your IMF using the request found in section 3.15.5.
3. Printed copy of the Internal Revenue Code, available from RIA (<http://ria.thomson.com/>) at 800-432-9026 or <http://ria.thomson.com/>.
4. An electronic copy of our Tax Deposition Questions, Form #03.016 at the web address below:
<http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Forms/Discovery/Deposition/Deposition.htm>
Download each section as one Acrobat file and install Acrobat and the file on your laptop computer. Then use the computer to present the evidence and questions as you interview the IRS agent at the hearing. A computer projection panel works well for this.
5. As a defensive measure, if the IRS is calling the meeting or audit to question the accuracy of a return, then write up a notarized affidavit in advance of the hearing stating under penalty of perjury that the content of the return is accurate. You can use this at the hearing to give to the IRS auditor so that he may no longer question anything on your return. The W-2's, 1099's, bank statements, and other financial documents he might ordinarily want to ask you for during the hearing become irrelevant if you provide an affidavit as evidence because these forms of proof are hearsay evidence since not signed or authenticated, while your affidavit is authenticated. If the agent wants to question anything on the return, he must then provide evidence of at least an equal authority or quality to the affidavit in order to obligate you to offer proof to contradict his assertion of incorrectness. Since most agents aren't authorized to sign such affidavits, he won't know what to do.

If you are going to a Collection Due Process (CDP) Hearing, we have a sample transcript from an actual CDP hearing held by an experienced IRS agent that will be very helpful to read so you know how the meeting protocol will be handled. Refer to item 9.3 under the “EVIDENCE” section (select in the upper left corner) at:

Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Online, Form #10.004
<http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/FormsInstr.htm>

Or go directly to the transcript at:

<http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Evidence/Collection/CDP-Competent Agent.pdf>

It's also essential that you carefully read and try your best to understand the following document available on the Family Guardian Website at:

IRS Office of Chief Counsel Collection Due Process Guidelines
<http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Forms/DelinquencyAndCollection/cdp3.pdf>

DURING THE EXAMINATION OR DUE PROCESS HEARING:

During the meeting, if the IRS is the moving party asserting that you have a liability, always remember that THEY are the party who has the burden of proof, and this requirement comes right out of the code:

TITLE 5 - GOVERNMENT ORGANIZATION AND EMPLOYEES
PART I - THE AGENCIES GENERALLY
CHAPTER 5 - ADMINISTRATIVE PROCEDURE
SUBCHAPTER II - ADMINISTRATIVE PROCEDURE

Sec. 556. Hearings; presiding employees; powers and duties; burden of proof; evidence; record as basis of decision

(d) Except as otherwise provided by statute, the proponent of a rule or order has the burden of proof. Any oral or documentary evidence may be received, but the agency as a matter of policy shall provide for the exclusion of irrelevant, immaterial, or unduly repetitious evidence. A sanction may not be imposed or rule or order issued except on consideration of the whole record or those parts thereof cited by a party and supported by and in accordance with the reliable, probative, and substantial evidence. The agency may, to the extent consistent with the interests of justice and the policy of the underlying statutes administered by the agency, consider a violation of section 557(d) of this title sufficient grounds for a decision adverse to a party who has knowingly committed such violation or knowingly caused such violation to occur. A party is entitled to present his case or defense by oral or documentary evidence, to submit rebuttal evidence, and to conduct such cross-examination as may be required for a full and true disclosure of the facts. In rule making or determining claims for money or benefits or applications for initial licenses an agency may, when a party will not be prejudiced thereby, adopt procedures for the submission of all or part of the evidence in written form.

Bring several copies of this code section and make sure the agent has one of them. Also bring:

- At least one person who can act as your witness, and who is not a relative. A friend or fellow tax researcher can be helpful in this regard. That way, if you aren't able to tape record or transcribe the meeting, you can still prepare an affidavit of the proceedings and have your witness sign it so that you have some evidence of what was said.
- A copy of IRS Publication 1, the You Rights as a Taxpayer.
- Your IMF Specific file obtained through the Privacy Act and Freedom of Information Act request you did before the hearing. You are looking for an MFR01 code on that form, which says that you aren't required to file returns.
- TWO tape recorders, so you can give one copy of the tapes to the agent you are meeting with.
- A high resolution digital camera to take pictures of all the participants and any documents they present that they won't let you photocopy.
- Printed copy of the Internal Revenue Code, available from Freedom Books at <http://www.paynoincometax.com> for $38. This version is the best because they provide it with tabbed sections that are color-coded to make it very useful in the meeting. They also highlight the important sections. You can also order the book directly from the publisher, Research Institute of America at 800-432-9026 or <http://ria.thomson.com/>.

Your job at the examination meeting is to do the following in descending order of importance:

- Gather as much evidence as you can to show that they have no basis for assessing a liability, penalty, or interest.
- Successfully refute any proof they offer using mainly the 26 Code of Federal Regulations.
- Challenge and clarify all presumptions they are making about key words and definitions, such as "gross income", "trade or business", "employee", "income", "United States", "State", etc. Don't let them use a word without first defining or clarifying what it means direct from the law.
- Challenge their "presumption" that you are a "taxpayer" and instead object every time they use that word. Use the word "nontaxpayer" to describe yourself at the meeting and force them to show you why they think you are a "taxpayer".

Most of the time, the focus of the meeting all boils down to questioning jurisdiction and authority.

"The law requires PROOF OF JURISDICTION to appear on the Record of the administrative agency and all administrative proceedings."
Hagans v. Lavine, [415 U.S. 533 (1974)].

"It is a well established principle of law that all federal legislation applies only within the territorial jurisdiction of the United States [which is the federal zone and not the 50 union states] unless a contrary intent appears." Foley Brothers, Inc. v. Filardo, [336 U.S. 281 (1948)]

The IRS simply has no jurisdiction or authority over you and the absence of implementing regulations authorizing them to assess either a liability or a penalty or institute any kind of collection activity or distraint simply don't exist, and we know of no cases where the IRS has been able to prove the contrary. Don't argue about the amount you owe at any meeting. Instead, argue the existence of the underlying liability and the implementing regulations giving the IRS authority and jurisdiction to assess or collect what they say you are liable for, regardless of the amount.

If the agent gives you a hard time about calling the meeting at any point, read to him 26 U.S.C. §6110, which says that all "taxpayers" have a RIGHT to come to the local IRS offices and view DETERMINATION DOCUMENTS AND SUPPORTING DOCUMENTS regarding any DETERMINATIONS the IRS has made concerning themselves. Since the IRS considers you a "taxpayer", you have a RIGHT to see these documents, even if you aren't one. The IMPLEMENTING REGULATIONS ARE DETERMINATION DOCUMENTS AS THEY STATE SPECIFICALLY WHETHER A PARTICULAR STATUTE APPLIES TO YOU, INCLUDING THE ONE THEY USED TO DETERMINE YOU ARE A "TAXPAYER". Here is an excerpt from that section:

TITLE 26 - INTERNAL REVENUE CODE
Subtitle F - Procedure and Administration
CHAPTER 61 - INFORMATION AND RETURNS

Subchapter B - Miscellaneous Provisions Sec. 6110. Public inspection of written determinations

(a) General rule

Except as otherwise provided in this section, the text of any written determination and any background file document relating to such written determination shall be open to public inspection at such place as the Secretary may by regulations prescribe.

DEMAND TO SEE THESE DETERMINATION DOCUMENTS!! DO NOT TAKE NO FOR AN ANSWER! YOU HAVE A RIGHT TO SEE THEM! Make sure they know that if they don't have proof of your liability and their authority to enforce the tax they say you owe, then they should waive your penalties and taxes owed if any!

Start off the meeting with a statement similar to that appearing below and get it on tape:

Hello, the date is _____ (date) and the time is _____ (time) and my name is _____ (fullname).

I requested and called this meeting today because I am confused about my tax obligations and my tax liability and would like to get my questions answered, which is my right under IRS Publication 1, which describes my rights. We are here in the Internal Revenue Office located at _____ (address) today.

In attendance at this meeting today are the following IRS personnel _____ (name the full legal name and agent number of each agent).
Also here as witnesses are _____ (list full names of witnesses).

The purpose of this meeting is:

1. To establish the code sections in the Internal Revenue Code and the corresponding implementing regulations that make me individually liable for the taxes which the IRS claims I owe
2. To establish the code sections in the Internal Revenue Code and implementing regulations that authorize the IRS to either assess me with a tax liability, collect any tax they say I am liable for, or to assess me with penalties for noncompliance.
3. To request the production of any and all evidence in possession of the IRS substantiating a liability for any taxes or penalties imputed to me.
4. To offer the IRS an opportunity to satisfy the burden of proof under the Administrative Procedures Act, 5 U.S.C. Section 556 in establishing, as the moving party, the legal jurisdiction and authority for claiming that I have a liability for a tax, a liability to keep records, or a liability to pay penalties associated with noncompliance. Absent any proof offered or a non-response during this meeting, this proceeding shall establish on the record that there are no statutes or regulations making me liable for the taxes or penalties the IRS claimed that I was liable for prior to the start of this meeting.

Before we begin, I'd like to examine the Delegation orders and pocket commissions of each and every IRS officer in this room to ensure that all of you have authority to be here, accept evidence and testimony, and otherwise enforce the Internal Revenue Laws. At this time I therefore demand to see each of your Delegation Orders and pocket commissions, which I would briefly like to photocopy as evidence and then read them prior to beginning questioning. I also need to see all delegation orders, from the Secretary on down to you, that prove that every person in the chain had the authority to delegate those functions which are delegated to you as indicated in your D.O.

This will set the tone of the meeting and keep the IRS focused on what is important and keep them from trying to take control of the meeting and keep you from getting your questions answered. One of the things you are likely to hear at this point from the agent is: "Look, we're not here to discuss the law."

In response to this kind of frivolity, ask: "Well then are we here to discuss legal matters?" His answer will usually be "Yes". At that point, just respond with: "Well, then, I guess we're here to discuss the law by your own admission!" This will drive them crazy. If they still insist on avoiding the law, remind them that our very own Congress describes those who avoid discussing the law or acknowledging any Constitutional or statutory limitations upon their authority are Communists:

TITLE 50 > CHAPTER 23 > SUBCHAPTER IV > Sec. 841.
Sec. 841. - Findings and declarations of fact

The Congress finds and declares that the Communist Party of the United States, although purportedly a political party, is in fact an instrumentality of a conspiracy to overthrow the Government of the United States. It constitutes an authoritarian dictatorship within a republic, demanding for itself the rights and privileges accorded to political parties, but denying to all others the liberties guaranteed by the Constitution. Unlike political parties, which evolve their policies and programs through public means, by the reconciliation of a wide variety of individual views, and submit those policies and programs to the electorate at large for approval or disapproval, the policies and programs of the Communist Party are secretly prescribed for it by the foreign leaders of the world Communist movement. Its members have no part in determining its goals, and are not permitted to voice dissent to party objectives. Unlike members of political parties, members of the Communist Party are recruited for indoctrination with respect to its objectives and methods, and are organized, instructed, and disciplined to carry into action slavishly the assignments given them by their hierarchical chieftains.

Unlike political parties, the Communist Party acknowledges no constitutional or statutory limitations upon its conduct or upon that of its members. The Communist Party is relatively small numerically, and gives scant indication of capacity ever to attain its ends by lawful political means. The peril inherent in its operation arises not from its numbers, but from its failure to acknowledge any limitation as to the nature of its activities, and its dedication to the proposition that the present constitutional Government of the United States ultimately must be brought to ruin by any available means, including resort to force and violence for using income taxes]. Holding that doctrine, its role as the agency of a hostile foreign power [the Federal Reserve and the American Bar Association (ABA)] renders its existence a clear present and continuing danger to the security of the United States. It is the means whereby individuals are seduced into the service of the world Communist movement, trained to do its bidding, and directed and controlled in the conspiratorial performance of their revolutionary services. Therefore, the Communist Party should be outlawed

Here are some things to consider about the Tax Examination meeting:

1. Do your homework prior to the meeting. Study the law diligently and perhaps even print out an extra copy of this book at Kinkos and provide a copy to the agent at the examination when you first meet him. Tell him that it justifies your beliefs of why you don't owe income taxes and that you have researched the laws and facts described in it for yourself and are thoroughly convinced of their validity. This will deflect a "willful failure to file" prosecution.
2. At the tax examination, we recommend bringing at least one witness (to operate the camera) and TWO tape and/or video recorders and taping the whole thing. Notify the examiner in advance that you will be "taping" the meeting but not that you will be "video taping" it. It is perfectly within your rights to do this with advanced notice as per Internal Revenue Manual, 4.10.3.2.5 (05-14-1999). This will put the agent on notice that they will be held accountable for everything they say and do and that the recording will be used as evidence against them at trial. You should strictly follow the procedures for doing tape recordings in accordance with the Internal Revenue Manual, 4.10.3.2.5 (05-14-1999), available at: <http://www.irs.gov/irm/part4/ch09s04.html>.

WARNING: If you don't give proper advanced notice of the intent to record and don't follow procedures, your evidence may not be admissible in a court of law later on if you decide to litigate, and this may severely hamper your case!

3. Start off the meeting by asking the agent by what legal authority he is calling the meeting or audit. The only authority he will be able to cite is 26 U.S.C. §7601, which states:

TITLE 26 > Subtitle F > CHAPTER 78 > Subchapter A > Sec. 7601.
Sec. 7601. - Canvass of districts for taxable persons and objects

(a) General rule

The Secretary shall, to the extent he deems it practicable, cause officers or employees of the Treasury Department to proceed, from time to time, through each internal revenue district and inquire after and concerning all persons therein who may be liable to pay any internal revenue tax, and all persons owning or having the care and management of any objects with respect to which any tax is imposed.

After he answers the question, you can pull out your copy of the Internal Revenue Code and make sure you show him section 7601. Emphasize that the ONLY thing he is authorized to look for are "persons.. who may be liable to pay any internal revenue tax".

4. Next, ask the agent what they think the word "service" means in their name and who is being served. This is a no win question for them because if they say the government, then they look selfish, but if they say Americans or "taxpayers", then they have admitted that they have to cooperate with you and help you. This will establish you as the master and them as the servant.

5. Next ask what type of tax the agent thinks you owe. If he says “income tax”, ask him to clarify the sections of the Internal Revenue Code that imposes the tax he is referring to. In most cases, this will be Section 1 of the code. This is important, because it allows you to establish the regulation number you are looking for that enforces the tax. All section 1 income taxes have implementing regulations in Part 1 of Title 26 of the Code of Federal Regulations (CFR). These regulations start with 26 C.F.R. 1.XXXX, where XXXX is the enforcement statute for the particular tax.
6. Next, ask him for the statute that makes you liable for the tax. You can’t be held responsible to pay unless the code uses the word “liable”. Since there is not code section under Subtitle A of the Internal Revenue Code that makes people “liable”, he probably won’t be able to answer this question. He may, however, point to 26 U.S.C. §6151 and the phrase “shall pay”. This section, however, only makes you responsible to pay the tax that appears on the “return” and the only person who can prepare such a return is you. He has no authority to prepare a return for you, which is called a Substitute For Return (SFR), if you are a biological person. This was talked about in:

Why the Government Can’t Lawfully Assess Human Beings With an Income Tax Liability Without Their Consent,
Form #05.011

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

7. After you get an answer to the above question, ask the agent whether he estimated your tax or whether he has evidence to prove your liability. Then after you get an answer, point out that he does NOT have the authority to do an assessment as we describe in detail above. Ask him to show you the statute and the implementing regulation that authorizes him to assess you with a liability:

“...neither the statute nor the regulations are complete without the other, and only together do they have any force. In effect, therefore, the construction of one necessarily involves the construction of the other.”
United States v. Mersky, [361 U.S. 431, 4 L.Ed.2d. 423, 80 S.Ct. 459 (1960)]

8. During the meeting focus on three things: 1. What tax do they claim you are liable for (the statute)?; 2. The statutes and implementing regulations that together create the liability for your case; 3. The statutes and implementing regulations that together allow the agent to enforce the liability specifically against you. For each of these three elements, the agent has the burden of proof to cite a statute AND an implementing or enforcing regulation written by the Treasury and not the IRS. Statutes without implementing regulations do not have the force of law against the general public. This requirement results from the fact that 44 U.S.C. §1505\(a\) requires that all laws that will have “generally applicability and legal effect” upon the public at large to have implementing regulations published in the Federal Register, and this is especially true for all laws that impose penalties. Below is a definition of “general applicability and legal effect” from 1 C.F.R. §1.1:

Regulations relating only to officers, employees or agents of the government need not be published in the Federal Register, according to 44 U.S.C. §1505\(a\). Typically, agents will cite you a statute for liability or penalties but cannot give you the implementing regulation, because there aren’t any, and this definitely does not satisfy the burden of proof on the agent! The reason there aren’t any implementing regulations is because as we say throughout this book, Subtitle A income taxes ONLY apply to “public officers” of the United States government, and 44 U.S.C. §1505\(a\) says that implementing regulations aren’t required for these people. The implementing regulation must be part of the Internal Revenue Code and must be associated with the statute where the tax is imposed. For Subtitle A income taxes, the tax imposed will be in Section 1 of the Internal Revenue Code, so the implementing regulation must be in Part 1 of the regulations and have the form “26 C.F.R. §1.XXXX”, where “XXXX” is the section number of the code associated with the liability or enforcement statute and “1” is the Part of the I.R.C. In this case, Section 1 imposing the tax is in Part 1 of the Internal Revenue Code, which is why it is 1.XXXX. There are NO enforcement statutes for any of the taxes in subtitles A through C, so the agent won’t be able to produce them and your job is to make sure you have evidence of that. Bring a copy of the Internal Revenue Code with you, which you can obtain from Freedom Books at <http://www.paynoincometax.com>. Also, bring a copy of the Parallel Table of Authorities with you, which you can obtain from:

http://www.access.gpo.gov/nara/cfr/parallel/parallel_table.html

The affect of failure to publish implementing regulations authorizing specific enforcement actions is identified in 26 C.F.R. §601.702(a)(2)(ii), and it indicates that the rights of no member of the public at large may be adversely affected by the actions of an agency:

26 C.F.R. §601.702 Publication and public inspection

(ii) Effect of failure to publish. Except to the extent that a person has actual and timely notice of the terms of any matter referred to in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph which is required to be published in the Federal Register, such person is not required in any manner to resort to, or be adversely affected by, such matter if it is not so published or is not incorporated by reference therein pursuant to subdivision (i) of this subparagraph. Thus, for example, any such matter which imposes an obligation and which is not so published or incorporated by reference will not adversely change or affect a person's rights.

We have included a table of laws below that allow you to organize the information you are asking for during your meeting or examination with the IRS. The information you need answers for are found inside the thick black box and have a place to write the answers (the regulation number). Use this table in tandem with your copy of the Internal Revenue Code that you bring along to the meeting and you will blow away the IRS with your preparation:

NOTES:

- The only "persons" liable for penalties related to ANY tax are federal corporations or their employees.
- 26 U.S.C. §6201 is the only statute authorizing assessment instituted by the Secretary, and this assessment may only be accomplished under 6201(a)(2) for taxes payable by stamp, all of which are tobacco and alcohol taxes.

3. The only statutory collection activity authorized is under 26 U.S.C. §6331, and 6331(a) of this section only authorizes levy against “public officers” of the U.S. government. The only other type of collection that can occur must be the result of a court order and NOT either a Notice of Levy or a Notice of Seizure.

26 U.S.C., Subchapter D - Seizure of Property for Collection of Taxes

Sec. 6331. Levy and distraint

(a) Authority of Secretary

If any person liable to pay any tax neglects or refuses to pay the same within 10 days after notice and demand, it shall be lawful for the Secretary to collect such tax (and such further sum as shall be sufficient to cover the expenses of the levy) by levy upon all property and rights to property (except such property as is exempt under section 6334) belonging to such person or on which there is a lien provided in this chapter for the payment of such tax. Levy may be made upon the accrued salary or wages of any officer, employee, or elected official, of the United States, the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of the United States or the District of Columbia, by serving a notice of levy on the employer (as defined in section 3401(d)) of such officer, employee, or elected official. If the Secretary makes a finding that the collection of such tax is in jeopardy, notice and demand for immediate payment of such tax may be made by the Secretary and, upon failure or refusal to pay such tax, collection thereof by levy shall be lawful without regard to the 10-day period provided in this section.

(b) Seizure and sale of property

The term “levy” as used in this title includes the power of distraint and seizure by any means. Except as otherwise provided in subsection (e), a levy shall extend only to property possessed and obligations existing at the time thereof. In any case in which the Secretary may levy upon property or rights to property, he may seize and sell such property or rights to property (whether real or personal, tangible or intangible).

4. The only IRS agents who are authorized to execute any of the enforcement activity listed above must carry a pocket commission which designates them as “E” for enforcement rather than “A” for administrative.
5. For the purposes of all taxes above, the term “employee” is defined as follows:

26 U.S.C. §3401(c)
Employee

For purposes of this chapter, the term “employee” includes [is limited to] an officer, employee, or elected official of the United States, a State, or any political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing. The term “employee” also includes an officer of a corporation.

26 C.F.R. §31.3401(c) Employee: “...the term [employee] includes officers and employees, whether elected or appointed, of the United States, a [federal] State, Territory, Puerto Rico or any political subdivision, thereof, or the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing. The term ‘employee’ also includes an officer of a corporation.”

8 Federal Register, Tuesday, September 7, 1943, §404.104, pg. 12267

Employee: “The term employee specifically includes officers and employees whether elected or appointed, of the United States, a state, territory, or political subdivision thereof or the District of Columbia or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing.”

1 In accordance with 28 U.S.C. §1746(1), I do hereby attest and affirm, under the penalties of perjury from without the “United States”, under the laws of the United
2 States of America that to the best of my/our knowledge and belief, the facts recorded by me in the above table are true, correct, and complete.

3 Printed name of IRS Agent: _____

4 Signature of IRS Agent: _____ Date: _____

5 Signature of Witness: _____ Date: _____

9. Another good thing to bring up at the meeting are the issues raised in section 5.2 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book, where we talk about Federal Jurisdiction and the definitions of terms like “employee”, “State”, “United States”, “wages”, “trade or business”, etc. We cover “words of art” definitions later in section 3.15.1.
10. If the agent tries to evade a question asking for the statute and regulation because he says he can’t find the regulation, then tell him this is YOUR MEETING and that you can wait all day for the answer to your question if need be. Tell him that he has the burden of proof to show his authority to assess and collect the tax under the Administrative Procedures Act Section 556(d), and if he doesn’t, then he forfeits his right to collect the tax or assess a liability. If he fails to respond or stonewalls you, then tell him he is violating your right to due process under the Administrative Procedures Act and show him 5 U.S.C. §556\(d\). Tell him you want to know the name and contact information for his supervisor so you can talk to him, and he will have to give it to you. Say you will file a complaint against him with his supervisor and the Treasury Inspector General. The further up you go in the management chain, the nicer the IRS employees will get. See the following website for the Treasury Inspector General for Tax Administration, which is the place to file complaints:

11. Try to get the agent’s supervisor at the meeting as well, that way, you can kill two birds with one stone and move up the authority ladder until you find someone who can address your question and who has authority to influence your situation directly. The further you go up the chain of authority, the nicer the people will get. Agents at the bottom are typically arrogant assholes to be avoided in most cases. They are trained to be intimidating and abusive in order to extort the most money out of you. If you get resistance from the people lower down on the ladder, then tell them you want to lodge a complaint with their supervisor because they are denying your right to due process under the Administrative Procedures Act, 5 U.S.C. §556\(d\). Show them this law and if they won’t read it, hand it to them and read them this section so they can’t claim ignorance as an excuse for noncompliance.
12. Focus on people who have authority. You have to go three levels up the agent hierarchy before you encounter someone who has the authority to release liens and levies and stop collections. The first level in the hierarchy is the agent. Then his supervisor, and above that is the Group Leader. The group leader is the person who is actually empowered to affect your situation.
13. If an agent says he doesn’t have the authority to provide an answer or make a determination, then insist on knowing who does, and get their name and phone number and insist on a meeting with that person until you get your question answered.
14. Under the 5th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, you as a biological person aren’t obligated to testify against yourself. The IRS will try to convince you that this isn’t the case but they will be wrong. Therefore:
- 14.1 You aren’t obligated to SIGN an income tax return, but you may be required to provide one. Without a signature, the value of the tax return as legal evidence to be used against you is eliminated, and the IRS will have no valid assessment upon which to either issue a deficiency or institute collection actions.
- 14.2 DO NOT sign any amended tax returns, unless you are changing your tax due from a nonzero amount to a zero amount! You can’t be compelled to sign because income taxes are voluntary. If you do sign the tax return under compulsion, we insist that you put a statement like the following with your return, for which you can’t be penalized. Preprint this statement on a sheet of paper BEFORE the examination meeting and be ready to attach it to anything you sign, putting a note saying that the thing you sign is invalid without the attachment below:

“In accordance with the U.S. Supreme Court Case of Garner v. U.S., 424 U.S. 648, this tax return is submitted under duress and coercion and constitutes the compelled testimony of a witness. Therefore, by the Fifth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, it is inadmissible as evidence in a court of law because it violates my right of non-self-incrimination. Below is a list of the types of compulsion being applied which restrict the free exercise of my Fifth Amendment rights and make this tax return into compelled testimony submitted under duress:

- 26 U.S.C. §7201: Attempt to evade or defeat tax (up to $100,000 fine or imprisonment not more than 5 years along with attorney fees).
- 26 U.S.C. §7203: Willful Failure to File (fine up to $25,000 or imprisonment for one year or both)
- Hundreds of different penalties for late filing or underpayment, as documented in Part 20 of the Internal Revenue Manual, available at: <http://www.irs.gov/irm/part20/index.html>
- IRS Liens and levies being imposed for nonpayment of taxes.
- Receipt of threatening mail communications from the IRS (e.g. CP-515 “Notice of Deficiency” and subsequent Notice of Lien and Levy”).
- Constant anxiety from and harassment by IRS agents (by telephone and otherwise).

Remember that the essential aspect of being a 'right' is that the free exercise of the right CANNOT be penalized, taxed, or regulated in any way by the government. The above regulations, however, indeed do precisely that and I therefore regard them as being unconstitutional, illegal, null, and void as far as I am concerned and they should immediately be declared as such by all federal courts."

14.3 You don't have to identify whether you have any records to provide at the examination meeting.

14.4 If you identify records to the agent, then you have to bring the records because you just compromised your 5th Amendment rights.

14.5 Even if you have records, you aren't required to bring them to the tax examination. Remember that the purpose of providing records is to justify exemptions, but if you have no tax liability, you don't need records because you don't need exemptions!

14.6 You don't even have to identify if you are the person who has been deposed.

14.7 If you are asked for personal information on any form by the auditor, it's within your right to write "PRIVATE" into every box on every form. This is especially true of your social security number.

15. You can't know what records you need to bring to the meeting until the IRS notifies you of the specific legal charges against you and what records might be relevant to those charges BEFORE the meeting.

16. The agent may attempt to terrorize you by asking for evidence that proves the accuracy of specific items on your return. Keep the following in mind when he does this:

16.1 The agent can only ask for evidence that is directly relevant to the return in question and the year in question. Everything else is irrelevant and you aren't required to provide it. When he asks for irrelevant information, respond by telling him: "Please explain how this information is directly relevant to tax years that we are here to discuss." This will keep him from turning the hearing into a fishing expedition and using irrelevant information to get you into more trouble later.

16.2 The only thing that is admissible as evidence, according to 26 U.S.C. §6065, are items that are validated under penalty of perjury. If you followed our guidance by preparing a notarized affidavit in advance of the hearing, then you can just hand him the affidavit stating that everything on the return is accurate. At that point, and as required under 26 U.S.C. §6065, the only way he can call anything on the return into question and require additional information is by himself offering evidence in the form of an affidavit that is also notarized under penalty of perjury and which contradicts an item on the return. When you try this tactic, the agent may respond by saying that he is going to do one of the following three things:

- 1. He will draw a blank and try to shut down the hearing. When this happens, try to continue on and get your remaining issues addressed.
- 2. He will say he is going to contact third parties under 26 U.S.C. §7601 (a). If you don't tell him he has no authority, he will assume that you consent to this even though the law otherwise doesn't allow it. Remind him that the 7601(a) statute says he can only do so inside of internal revenue districts, and neither you nor any financial institution you affiliate with resides in said district. All internal revenue districts reside in the federal united states because the Supreme Court has repeatedly ruled that the U.S. government has no police powers inside of the 50 union states. Demand to see a copy of the evidence he has that suggests that you live in an internal revenue district?
- 3. He will issue summons under the authority of 26 U.S.C. §7602(a)(2) to establish your liability. In this case, remind him that he must show you a liability statute for the type of tax he says you owe before he can go looking for evidence proving you are liable. Remember that there is no liability statute for Subtitle A income taxes. Also remind him that he may not request anything other than public information about you because you do not waive your right to privacy under the Fourth Amendment. Tell him he can only issue a legitimate Form 2039 summons when he has an active or pending court case and not before you have been personally served with the initial petition. Also remind him that he must have an implementing regulation under 26 C.F.R. that authorizes him to institute the summons or he is acting illegally and is personally and criminally liable for damages if he proceeds without lawful authority.

16.3 If you offer a specific record to the agent to validate the return, clearly describe what it is on the record. If the agent refuses to accept it, he is later estopped or barred from ever asking for it again.

17. The agent who deals with you at the examination has an obligation to do all the following in order to preserve your due process rights and out of respect for your Sixth Amendment rights:

17.1 Present you with the legal charges against you, and the facts and copies of the evidence that lead them to conclude you have violated the law.

17.2 Identify the statutory basis for their jurisdiction over you.

- 17.3 VERY IMPORTANT: Identify the IMPLEMENTING REGULATIONS that authorize them to assess, penalize, lien, and levy against you. There are no implementing regulations allowing the IRS to either assess or collect Subtitles A through C income taxes or to institute penalties. They just don't exist. Ask the agent to show you the regulations authorizing him to assess or collect or penalize you for nonpayment! He will be dumbfounded and this will be extremely effective evidence in court. Refer to sections 5.4 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book for details on the voluntary nature of the income tax for ideas on the kinds of issues to ask questions about.
- 17.4 Identify any witnesses they intend to call and offer you an opportunity to cross-examine them.
- 17.5 Refute (not ignore) any evidence you provide that contradicts any incriminating evidence they might present.
- 17.6 Allow you to get copies of any evidence he has against you.
- 17.7 Provide a copy of his Delegation Orders and his Pocket Commission showing his authority under the law. The Delegation Order shows what forms he is authorized to sign, and there ARE NO revenue officers who deal with Subtitles A through C income taxes who have delegation orders to sign a tax form on behalf of a Citizen (e.g. forms 1040, 1040NR, or 2555) or to sign form 23C Assessment forms. The Pocket Commission shows whether he is an officer or an enforcement agent. Only an enforcement agent with the letter "E" at the end of the serial number on his Pocket Commission can sign Form 23C Assessment forms and institute seizure or collection.

18. Remember: All of the IRS publications are NOT the law and therefore are NOT binding on anyone. They are simply hearsay which in most cases simply is used to deceive Americans into thinking that they owe tax on "taxable income" they don't actually have. Furthermore, they don't say a WORD about the income "source" issue mentioned in IRC section 861 because this is the only way the IRS can perpetuate their fraud on the public and continue STEALING your money. The only thing that is unquestionably binding on the IRS and on you are the full text of the actual laws on income tax, which are found in 26 U.S.C (also called the Internal Revenue Code, or IRC for short), and Title 26 of the Code of Federal Regulations (CFR). Do not get into any kind of discussions with the tax examiner about anything BUT the law. If you let him use the IRS publications and don't refute their use, then your meeting is doomed to disaster and the examiner will eat your lunch.
19. At the meeting, keep emphasizing over and over with the agent:
- "Where is the statute and implementing regulation that makes me liable for the penalty or tax? Please help me by showing me the law as IRS Publication 1 requires you to do. I have a copy of the Internal Revenue Code right here and the part of the Index in the front under the subject of "Liability for tax" doesn't even mention Subtitles A through C income taxes. I have spent six months in the law library looking for this mysterious law and have instead found a lot of laws that show that I'm not liable, but absolutely none that show that I am. I'd end this whole thing immediately, file, and pay my tax gladly as you are requesting if you would just show me the law that says I have "gross income" form a taxable "situs" under 26 C.F.R. § 1.861-8(f) that is legally considered as "taxable income". Show me the amount of tax I owe in a way that is consistent with Section 861 of the Internal Revenue Code and the implementing regulations and the Supreme Court's definition of 'income'."*
20. Be very patient, sincere, and polite during your examination meeting, but don't leave without the answers you want. We call this the bulldog mentality: Grab onto that leg and don't let go until you get the answer you want! The meeting will be on tape and a jury will likely eventually see it or hear it. You need to be on your best behavior! You have to convince the jury that you are a reasonable person who is trying your best and relying on the IRS' obligation to help Americans understand and apply the law in order to pay only what they legally owe and no more.
21. If you get the answers you want from the agent regarding the liability statutes and enforcement statutes from the Due Process Hearing Handout above, then proceed on to the deposition questions you installed on your laptop. If the agent has a computer in the conference room, use his computer to visit the Family Guardian Website below and display the questions so you don't have to use your laptop or your own projection panel:

<http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Forms/Discovery/Deposition/Deposition.htm>

22. You want to avoid meetings that the IRS calls, because they can force you to answer their questions at their meeting. If they call you to a meeting first, tell them you have some questions that you want answered before you can go to their meeting and schedule your own meeting ahead of theirs. Use IRS Publication 1, the Your Rights as a Taxpayer, as your justification for calling the meeting, which says:

IRS Mission: To provide IRS America's Taxpayers top quality service by helping them understand and meet their tax responsibilities and by applying the tax law with integrity and fairness to all.
[IRS Publication 1]

Once you initiate the meeting above and use the techniques we recommend before they have their meeting, it's likely they will cancel their meeting with you and avoid you like the plague, because you are a hot potato.

23. The “dumb fox” routine is useful. If the IRS asks a pointed question that you think would disadvantage your position, simply respond:
 - 23.1 “I don’t know”
 - 23.2 “I’m not a lawyer”
 - 23.3 “Please explain what you mean.”
 - 23.4 “I don’t recall.” (this is vintage Ronald Reagan talk from the Iran Contra scandal!)
24. Two agents may appear at the meeting. One will play softie and the other one will play terrorist. They are trained to do this and they will probably try to use the one playing the softie to befriend you so you will open up to him. Don’t do it. Be firm and businesslike and don’t make friends with them or share anything about your personal life with them. Remember that sharks bite!
25. Schedule audits for late in the afternoon so they will run out of time quickly, if you have something to hide.
26. Remember that the world’s best attorney is “Attorney Delay”. Whatever they want, just keep delaying it and hope their patience runs out and they give up.
27. Be high maintenance and difficult so they will leave you alone and be just as afraid of you as they want you to be afraid of them. Every agent has about 100 people in their inventory and they tend to avoid problems that are a lot of work unless there is a big payoff for them and they figure you are an easy target.
28. If they make a mistake or state something wrong, make a big deal about it. Remind the agent constantly about the mistakes that were made in handling your case and why he needs to remedy them.
29. Don’t do their work for them unless you are sure they are trying to help you. Make them earn their pay.
30. Have fun!
 - 30.1 Make the examination into a training class. Invite all your patriotic friends and let them observe your tactics and learn.
 - 30.2 Have friends picket the IRS office before the examination. Do your own “Boston Tea Party”!
 - 30.3 Say a prayer before the examination with the agent in attendance.
 - 30.4 Read verses from the bible describing tax collectors, who are universally called “sinners” by Jesus.
 - 30.5 Make your examination into a media event. Invite friends and family and to it outdoors with the sun in the eyes of the agent. If the IRS leaves the scene of the media event, make sure the media gets you on camera saying “Please come back, I want to pay my taxes!”.

AFTER THE EXAMINATION OR DUE PROCESS HEARING:

The Internal Revenue Manual \(I.R.M.\), Part IV, § 4.10.7.5 plainly proves that there is a process that precedes the Report of Examination Changes filed after the tax exam. As you can see from this Manual Section, there is supposed to be a letter of initial contact sent to the individual. This letter is supposed to provide the opportunity for the first step in the Examination Process called the Examination Interview (Step A).

This fact is plainly evidenced by the citation of statutory law at 26 U.S.C. §7521 and its counterpart in 26 C.F.R. § 601.105 (which is claimed to be the regulations of the Secretary to bring the IRS into compliance with the Administrative Procedures Act as this is where our Administrative Due Process had been all along). The law also reveals that the letter is to be accompanied by the IRS Publication 1, Notice 609, and the Notice 782, or the Publication 556.

If the IRS doesn't respect your due process rights during the interview or plays games to keep you from knowing about the examination meeting or showing up, or blind-siding you so you are ill-prepared to defend yourself, then an important option available to you that you are encouraged to exercise is to contact the Taxpayer Advocate's office. You can obtain information about the Taxpayer Advocate's office procedures and processes from the IRS website Internal Revenue Manual Part 13 at:

<http://www.irs.gov/irm/part13/index.html>

You can contact the Taxpayer Advocate by phone at: 1-(877) 777-4778. Another avenue of redress is to call one of the following in the order listed:

- Your Senator or Representative (see <http://www.votesmart.org/> for contact information)
- The Commissioner of the IRS (see <http://www.irs.gov/> for contact information)
- The Secretary of the Treasury (see <http://www.ustreas.gov/>)

4.5.4.18 Vehemently Oppose Improper Exam Procedures and ALL Assessments

"The collection of any taxes which are not absolutely required, which do not beyond reasonable doubt contribute to the public welfare, is only a species of legalized larceny."
[President Calvin Coolidge]

As per 26 U.S.C. §6201\(a\)\(1\), only the Citizen may make an assessment of tax liability on himself. The Secretary of the Treasury may not make assessments on the liability of individuals under Subtitles A through C personal income taxes. It is quite common for IRS agents to "estimate" the liability of a Citizen, especially as an intimidation mechanism during an exam or audit. However, unless the Citizen voluntarily signs the return forms presented by the agent authorizing the assessment or settlement, the assessment is not valid. Without a valid assessment, collection activity cannot be commenced!

Furthermore, under 26 C.F.R. §301.6211-1, either making no return or a return showing no tax amounts to a zero return. Any amount imputed by the IRS to be owed above the amount on the return is referred to as a "deficiency" under that regulation. However, 26 C.F.R. §301.6211-1 is based on the repealed 1939 Internal Revenue Code that is no longer in effect! If you look at the bottom of this regulation, it cites NO statutory authority and therefore is NOT a legislative regulation and cannot be enforced by the courts! To confirm this conclusion, this regulation also does NOT appear in the Parallel Table of Authorities cross-referencing regulations to statutes. See section 6.9.10.2 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book for a look at the Parallel Table of Authorities.

26 U.S.C. §6020 says the following about returns prepared by the Secretary of the Treasury:

*Subtitle F - Procedure and Administration
CHAPTER 61 - INFORMATION AND RETURNS
Subchapter A - Returns and Records
PART II - TAX RETURNS OR STATEMENTS
Subpart D - Miscellaneous Provisions §6020 Returns prepared for or executed by Secretary*

(a) Preparation of return by Secretary

If any person shall fail to make a return required by this title or by regulations prescribed thereunder, but shall consent to disclose all information necessary for the preparation thereof, then, and in that case, the Secretary may prepare such return, which, being-signed by such person, may be received by the Secretary as the return of such person.

So you can see that once again, the IRS and the Secretary of Treasury rely on the Citizen's self-assessment in order to establish a tax liability. Agents do not have delegated authority to prepare a tax form on behalf of the Citizen without the signature of the Citizen. This is clearly shown on their Pocket Commission (see Internal Revenue Manual \(I.R.M.\), Section 1.16.4). Their pocket commission must indicate that they have Enforcement commission (the last letter of the serial number of the pocket commission must be "E" in order to complete a 23C Assessment form, for instance, and none of the revenue officers associated with Subtitles A through C have such commissions. Revenue officer must also have a Delegation Order showing their authority specifically to sign the IRS form 23C and/or the 1040. No revenue officers who administer Subtitles A through C have such delegation orders and are acting outside their lawful authority to sign such forms. You should demand a copy of their Delegation Order and their Pocket Commission if any agent tries to exceed their authority by signing a return for you or a 23C Assessment form.

If you argue with the revenue officer over their authority to assess you, they like to point to regulation 26 C.F.R. §301.6201-1, which is the implementing regulation for 26 U.S.C. §6201. They will try to say that this authorizes them to make an assessment, but this is simply false! This regulation simply reiterates what was found in 26 U.S.C. §6201:

*[Code of Federal Regulations]
[Title 26, Volume 17]
[Revised as of April 1, 2001]
From the U.S. Government Printing Office via GPO Access
[CITE: 26CFR301.6201-1]
Sec. 301.6201-1 Assessment authority.*

(a) IN GENERAL.

The district director is authorized and required to make all inquiries necessary to the determination and assessment of all taxes imposed by the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 or any prior internal revenue law. The district director is further authorized and required, and the director of the regional service center is authorized, to make the determinations and the assessments of such taxes. However, certain inquiries and determinations are, by direction of the Commissioner, made by other officials, such as assistant regional commissioners. The term "taxes" includes interest, additional amounts, additions to the taxes, and assessable penalties. The authority of the district director and the director of the regional service center to make assessments includes the following:

(1) TAXES SHOWN ON RETURN. The district director or the director of the regional service center shall assess all taxes determined by the taxpayer or by the district director or the director of the regional service center and disclosed on a return or list.

(2) UNPAID TAXES PAYABLE BY STAMP.

(i) If without the use of the proper stamp:

(a) Any article upon which a tax is required to be paid by means of a stamp is sold or removed for sale or use by the manufacturer thereof, or

(b) Any transaction or act upon which a tax is required to be paid by means of a stamp occurs; The district director, upon such information as he can obtain, must estimate the amount of the tax which has not been paid and the district director or the director of the regional service center must make assessment therefor upon the person the district director determines to be liable for the tax. However, the district director or the director of the regional service center may not assess any tax which is payable by stamp unless the taxpayer fails to pay such tax at the time and in the manner provided by law or regulations.

(ii) If a taxpayer gives a check or money order as a payment for stamps but the check or money order is not paid upon presentment, then the district director or the director of the regional service center shall assess the amount of the check or money order against the taxpayer as if it were a tax due at the time the check or money order was received by the district director.

The section above clearly shows that the only thing the district director can do is make assessments of taxes collected by stamp under 26 C.F.R. §301.6201-1(a)(2) but NOT personal income taxes coming under Subtitles A through C. Notice that this regulation does NOT give the revenue officer authority to estimate tax nor sign a return or list on behalf of the Citizen, or it would have said so. Subtitles A through C personal income taxes must instead appear on a tax return, and the 1040, 2555, or 1040NR are the only things that qualify as legitimate returns upon which to base an assessment of Subtitle A through C personal income taxes. 26 C.F.R. §301.6201-1(a)(1) says the taxes assessed by the district director MUST be "disclosed on a return or list". Even the title says that: "TAXES SHOWN ON RETURN". If the agent has no Delegation Order or delegated authority to prepare such a return, then he is acting outside his lawful delegated authority and can be prosecuted for violation of 26 U.S.C. §7214!

With these kinds of shenanigans going on, we need to ask ourselves:

"If the income tax isn't voluntary, then why don't they just assess us without our permission and send us a bill like they do with property taxes? Why do they need us to snitch on ourselves and send in a 'confession' called a tax return if it's a mandatory 'tax'?"

The answer, once again, is that it is and always has been a voluntary tax, which is why the IRS has no authority to assess you and why only you can assess yourself! If all you ever put on your tax return is a zero, then you have no liability and no one other than a judge can determine otherwise. The IRS will try to scare you by sending a bogus Notice and Demand for tax, but they can't do this either, because the regulation they rely on, 26 C.F.R. §301.6303-1, to send it is not the law so they are acting outside their authority in doing so. This is confirmed by the absence of a reference at the bottom of the regulation pointing to an authorizing statute, which means the regulation is NOT a legislative regulation. Don't let the IRS scare you with a trick Notice and Demand for tax following an examination or with a bogus assessment, because they do not have the authority to issue either. Instead, ask for a copy of the Delegation Order, their Pocket Commission, and the law that authorizes them to:

1. Make as assessment.

2. Issue a Notice and demand. (26 C.F.R. §301.6303 is NOT the law because its bogus, and you should remind them of that when you ask them for their authority to issue it).

Remind them when making the above request that according to the Supreme Court:

“Our system of taxation is based upon voluntary assessment and payment, not upon distraint.”
Flora v. U.S., [362 U.S. 145 (1960)]

Tell them that if they apply any kind of penalties, coercion, institute collection actions, or try to assess you for any amount of tax above the amount you put on the return, then the payment of taxes ceases to be voluntary and shifts to being based on distraint and force and coercion. At the point when coercion is applied, the "confessions" called tax returns cease to be useful as evidence in court because they were obtained illegally and under duress as per Weeks v. United States, 232 U.S. 383 (1914). They are akin to a coerced confession, which is not a confession at all. All confessions must be voluntary, which is why only we can assess ourself and not the IRS!

A naked assessment is one that is not founded in evidence. If proper procedures are followed by the tax examiner, then the Citizen being examined will have seen and hopefully gotten a copy of every piece of evidence that is being relied upon by the examiner in the determination of tax liability. Proper procedures and rules of evidence must be followed in order to arrive at a valid assessment, and the assessment must be documented in an IRS form 23C. Here are some of the more common mistakes made by IRS examiners that may work in the favor of the Citizen:

1. 23C form is not signed (for instance, because the revenue officer knows he has no delegation of authority to sign the form).
2. Evidence is not available to support a specific conclusion found on the 23C Assessment form.

Internal Revenue Manual \(I.R.M.\), Section 5.18.2 specifically lists the only types of tax forms upon which a Substitute for Return (SFR) may be administered, and the form 1040 is not listed. Only businesses may have an SFR done on them involuntarily, not human beings. This a direct result of the fact that Subtitle A income taxes are indirect excise taxes on corporations. If the tax were on human beings, it would be a direct tax, which clearly violates 1:2:3 and 1:9:4 of the Constitution.

Proper procedures for arriving at a valid assessment as part of a tax examination are documented in the Internal Revenue Manual 4.10.Section 7.4 et seq. You should study these procedures to ensure that they are properly followed. If they have not been followed, then you have a basis for redress in a court of law. Before you attempt this, a letter to the IRS Commissioner, your Congressman, and the Treasury Secretary might be helpful in applying political pressure.

After taking the political approach, the next level to elevate is litigation, because the only administrative remedies provided by the I.R.S. beyond the above are available only to statutory "taxpayer" franchisees and public officers. Do not elevate to the Taxpayer Advocate or fill out an IRS Form 911 or you will falsely admit to being a statutory "taxpayer" who is therefore subject to the code and a public officer in the national government. It is a CRIME under 18 U.S.C. §912 to impersonate a public officer called a "taxpayer" by:

1. Using "taxpayer" forms without at least attaching the Tax Form Attachment, Form #04.201.
2. Unilaterally "electing" yourself into public office by using "taxpayer" forms.
3. Bribing the national government to treat you AS IF you are public officer by sending them withholdings as a non-public officer or nontaxpayer.

If the agent refuses to address your issues either during or after the tax examination and the issues you have are founded in law, then you can refer your case to District Headquarters for Technical Advice. You also have legal recourse for damages against the agent, because he is obviously vexatiously litigating and harassing you without any demonstrated lawful authority. 18 U.S.C. §1589(3) indicates that it is considered involuntary servitude for you to be forced to respond to anyone in government by means of an abuse or threatened abuse of legal process, for instance in the case of "extortion under the color of law". 18 U.S.C. §1593 mandates financial restitution for such abuse and the agent is personally liable for this abuse, along with the lost time, productivity and emotional distress.

4.5.4.19 Be on the Offensive with the IRS: Get in Their Face!

Being “in their face” means being a “high maintenance citizen” and fighting fire with fire. It means knowing more about their job than they do and using all the same tactics against them that they routinely use against everyone else to harass and coerce law-abiding citizens into “volunteering” to pay taxes. What you are doing therefore isn’t any more illegal or immoral than what they do to everyone else. The only difference between what you are doing and what they are doing is that they have automated the harassment process with outdated computers and gotten organized with handbooks, regulations, training programs, and instructions, while for you it’s a little more manual and less organized.

The IRS is counting on the fact that you aren’t as organized or automated as they are, which is how they can win. We are trying to change that too! This book constitutes the instructions and “rules of engagement” and the Family Guardian Website at <http://famguardian.org/> is meant to provide you the automation by giving you an extensive library of forms you can use. It can only get better with your feedback and as you send us updated forms and procedures that you have improved (which we welcome, by the way). We need to band together and help each other out too, by joining tax freedom organizations like “We the People” and share approaches and resources in our fight. This will put you on the same footing as them and make the competition fair. Here are some of the many tactics you might want to consider:

1. Endlessly calling them and bothering them about the resolution of your case (like a collections agency, which is what you have to become if you want your illegally stolen tax money back).
2. Initiating tons of correspondence making clear your position and harassing them because they aren’t making any progress in the administration of your case.
3. Responding to every correspondence they send you .
4. Immediately and promptly refuting every false claim they make in any correspondence so that they can’t get an evidentiary foothold with false that become prima facie facts later.
5. Questioning authority. Insisting that they identify the specific law or regulation that authorizes them to do whatever it is that they are telling you to do. And then ensuring that all of the laws and regulations they refer to are consistent with the Constitution.
6. Sticking to the law and completely disregarding the IRS publications in all of your dealings with them.
7. Using certified mail for everything you send them so you have a paper trail that you can use later to litigate with.
8. Insisting on an examination and/or administrative hearing in which you can ask them questions about the legal basis for their claims against you, should they contradict your claims.
9. Tape recording all administrative meetings you have with them and bringing along a witness who can vouch for you in court if you have to litigate.
10. Keeping copies of all correspondence you send and receive.
11. Claiming the 5th Amendment in answer to every question, so they don’t get anything they need out of you.
12. Collaborating with other more experienced people in your tax freedom organization when you are unsure of what to do. Stick together!
13. Keep a journal on everything that happens, hopefully in electronic form so you can search it and organize it. That way if they say something wrong about the case, you can immediately refute them.
14. Ensuring that all correspondence they send you is signed and is attached to a person on the other end who you can consult with.
15. Keeping them informed of your correct mailing address at all times, so they can’t blind side you by sending an important notice to the WRONG address, such that you miss out on something important and disadvantage your position thereby.
16. Telling your assigned agent that he is being frivolous if he uses the IRS publications.
17. Using this book and the website at <http://famguardian.org> and referring the IRS to both of them if they have questions.
18. Challenging “naked assessments”, which are assessments not based on any evidentiary foundation. Otherwise, these assessments become prima facie correct tax liabilities.

The IRS knows and expects that you will do all these things. That is why public phone books have NO information about local offices or agents and always refer you directly to the central 800 number. They do this for several reasons: 1. So they won’t be harassed the same way they harass you about paying your taxes(!); 2. To make it difficult for you to find out who is working on your case; 3. To complicate the process of serving legal papers on them in the event you decide to litigate.

The IRS uses the statutes to quote the law. What the statutes are, are nothing more than a general reading. The specific law is in the corresponding implementing regulation (IR) found usually in the Code of Federal Regulations (C.F.R.). This IR tells us who it applies to and who has the authority to enforce it. The IR is what brings the statute to life. Without it, the statute is not law.

Say, for instance, the revenue officer files a 6321 lien against you. Your next step is to set up a meeting with the agent and have him show you the Internal Revenue Code (I.R.C.) statute that establishes his authority to do this. There isn't one. Another way to get the lien removed is to look up in your state's statutes under Federal Tax Lien and see that the lien must be certified. It's not. Bring the law down to the recorder's office and demand it be removed, or else he'll get sued for not obeying the law.

Now, the following steps are one approach to getting you put in the 'currently uncollectible' pile at the IRS.

1. Call the agent and make an appointment.
2. Have your list of questions made out.
3. Take a witness or two, 2 recorders, your IMF specific, your questions, and a copy of the Administrative Procedures Act ([Title 5, 556 \[d\]](#)).
4. When you are all set up, read a prepared statement to the IRS agent(s) into the record. That statement should be something like:

"This is [your name] speaking. I have called this meeting with the IRS because I'm confused about the tax laws and regulations that the IRS agent has told me that apply to me. My witness(es) is/are [name(s)]. Agent [name] is present along with [title, name]. This meeting is taking place in the IRS office located at [address, date and time]. The purpose of this meeting is:

- 1) to get copies of the Internal Revenue Codes (IRC's) which substantiate the statutes the IRS is using against me and to show that they actually apply to me on any tax they allege I'm liable for and
- 2) to get copies of statutes and Internal Revenue Codes that give IRS agents their authority to pursue this course of action.
- 3) Get copies of the Delegation Of Authority orders from the Secretary of the Treasury on down to you, the agent, that authorizes the collection of income taxes from citizens of the 50 union states living in the 50 union states and to enforce the Internal Revenue Code within the borders of the sovereign 50 union states."

In short, I'm here today to see if you have the authority to collect the tax and to establish that I am liable for tax and have taxable 'gross income' from a 'source' listed in I.R.C. Section 861."

5. After this statement is read, the agent may well terminate the meeting right there. First you want to ask him to see his supervisor. Seeing he doesn't have the authority to do anything for you, like release a lien, ask him to get his supervisor. If he refuses, give him the copy of 5 U.S.C. §556\(d\) and tell him he is violating your rights and you want to make a complaint. The agent and his supervisor cannot help you, but you have to get past them to see the group leader. A termination of the meeting from the agent and his supervisor is good. The group leader is the person who can release liens, levies, summons, etc.
6. A trick to look out for. When an agent says sure, I can get that Reg for you and comes back and says he can't find it, what is your next question. You stand firm on the statement "I can't go on to the next question until I have the first one answered. I'm here for the duration of the day and can wait until you get it."
7. Another thing they will try to do is to turn the meeting around to make it their meeting. You may have to put them in their place and tell them I called this meeting.
8. Lastly, if they have made an invalid assessment against you, don't, under any circumstances, argue the amount! That's a trick to force you into Tax Court and delay and obfuscate resolution of your case! Instead, argue that you have no liability for tax whatsoever and ignore disputes about any amount the agent might allege that you are liable for.

The Top 10 Ways to Hassle the IRS

by Anonymous

The following list of "tips" on thwarting, annoying and generally badgering workers at IRS processing officers was delivered anonymously to the Parascopy mailbox. The author, who claims to have worked in an IRS mail room, offers the following suggestions for annoying, aggravating or otherwise fing with the IRS.

NOTE: These agitation methods are presented FOR ENTERTAINMENT PURPOSES ONLY. Use at your own risk and discretion.

That said, here are the top 10 ways to hassle the IRS with relative impunity:

1. Always put staples in the right-hand corner. Go ahead and put them down the whole right side. The extractors who remove the mail from the envelopes have to take out any staples in the right side.
2. Never arrange paperwork in the right order, or even facing the right way. Put a few upside down and backwards. That way they have to remove all your staples, rearrange your paperwork and re-staple it (on the left side).
3. Line the bottom of your envelope with glue and let it dry before you put in your forms, so that the automated opener doesn't open it and the extractor has to open it by hand.
4. If you're very unfortunate and have to pay taxes, use a two- or three-party check.
5. On top of paying with a three-party check, pay one of the dollars you owe in cash. When an extractor receives cash, no matter how small an amount, he has to take it to a special desk and fill out many nasty forms.
6. Write a little letter of appreciation. Any letter received has to be read and stamped, regardless of what it is about.
7. Write your letter on something misshapen and unconventional. Like on the back of a grocery sack.
8. When you mail your return, mail it in a big envelope (even if it's just a single form). Big envelopes have to be torn and sorted differently than regular business-sized ones. An added bonus to the big envelope is that they take priority over other mail, forcing them to hurry up and deal with your mess first.
9. Always put extra paper clips on your forms. Any foreign fasteners have to be removed and put away.
10. Sign your name in ink on every page. Any signature has to be verified and then date stamped.

Procedures for ending Social Security Participation are described in 20 C.F.R. §416.1333, Subpart M. The law is repeated here for your benefit:

SUPPLEMENTAL SECURITY INCOME FOR THE AGED, BLIND, AND DISABLED
20 C.F.R. Part 416 SUBPART M--SUSPENSIONS AND TERMINATIONS
Sec. 416.1333

Termination at the request of the recipient A recipient, his legal guardian, or his representative payee, may terminate his eligibility for benefits under this part by filing a written request for termination which shows an understanding that such termination may extend to other benefits resulting from eligibility under this part. In the case of a representative payee there must also be a showing which establishes that no hardship would result if an eligible recipient were not covered by the supplemental security income program. When such a request is filed, the recipient ceases to be an eligible individual, or eligible spouse, effective with the month following the month the request is filed with the Social Security Administration unless the recipient specifies some other month. However, the Social Security Administration will not effectuate the request for any month for which payment has been or will be made unless there is repayment, or assurance of repayment, of any amounts paid for those months (e.g., from special payments which would be payable for such months under Sec. 228 of the Act). When the Social Security Administration effectuates a termination of eligibility at the request of the recipient, his legal guardian, or his representative payee, notice of the determination will be sent in accordance with Sec. 416.1404, and eligibility, once terminated, can be reestablished, except as provided by Sec. 416.1408, only upon the filing of a new application. [Jean B. Colbert]

If you are going to be successful challenging illegal levies and liens of the IRS, then you must be able to either defend yourself in court at no expense, or have a war chest stashed away that the IRS can't pillage when they begin the collection process. That way, you will have the financial means to hire an attorney if you need one. Therefore, it's probably a good idea to keep cash stashed in an account in a friend or family member's name who isn't legally connected with you, such as a wife, where they could get to community property in her name. Alternatively, you could keep your war chest in an offshore account or in gold or silver not in any bank or safe deposit box but safe and hidden from access by others.

The chief vehicle the IRS uses to maintain people's fear and needless compliance is unlawful liens and levies. Liens and levies are defined in chapter 13 of this book. Basically, liens and levies are claims upon the property of a person based either on the operation of law or of contract. In the case of tax collection, lawful liens and levies result from the lawful completion of the assessment process and the completion by the revenue officer of a valid form 23C Assessment Certificate. To be valid, this form must be signed by an authorizing official, usually the revenue officer who is dealing with your situation. Most revenue officers are very reluctant to sign one of these forms for personal income taxes under Subtitle A of the Internal Revenue Code because:

1. There is no statute authorizing them to do an assessment for income taxes found in Subtitles A of the Internal Revenue Code. This was covered in section 5.4.15 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book.
2. There is no statute making any American Citizen liable for the payment of income taxes. We covered this earlier in section 5.6.1 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book.
3. The only types of valid levies and liens are those issued with a judicial warrant of distraint that can only be issued and signed by a judge.
4. If they institute collection action absent a valid levy or lien, they can be prosecuted under 26 U.S.C. §7214, for unlawful taking of taxes and extortion under the color of law if they sign the assessment form. This is covered in section 6.8.1 of the Tax Fraud Prevention Manual, Form #06.008.

Revenue officers will therefore frequently try to issue the form without a signature. If the Citizen isn't aware of the law or never requests a copy of the completed 23C Certificate of Assessment form following a tax examination or final determination or prior to the commencement of collection activity, then he is often deceived into believing that an invalid assessment is actually a valid one, and is terrorized into paying a tax he doesn't owe.

After the completion of the valid Form 23C Assessment Certificate, the IRS then must produce a tax lien, from which levies may then be instituted against the person they allege is liable for tax. Absent the lien, levies cannot be issued. We know from reading Chapter 5, however, that NO HUMAN BEING can be liable for personal income taxes under subtitles A and C. In many cases, IRS will attempt to institute collection activity absent any assessment. You won't even know this unless you ask them for evidence of an assessment. Below are some important constraints on levies you should know about:

- According to 26 U.S.C. §6532\(a\)\(1\), if the IRS institutes a levy, then you have up to 9 months from the date of the levy to file a suit in federal court to stop the levy.
- Continuing levies can only be instituted on federal payments, not payment of private employers to their employees, according to 26 U.S.C. §6331\(h\)
- Levies may only be instituted on "taxpayers", who are persons "liable for" tax, according to 26 U.S.C. §6331\(e\). "nontaxpayers" may not be levied upon. Note that there is no statute making anyone liable for Subtitle A income taxes.
- Continuing wage levies may not exceed 15 percent of a person's salary. See 26 U.S.C. §6331\(h\)\(1\).
- Social Security benefits may not be levied, in accordance with 42 U.S.C. §407\(a\).

To collect, the IRS will first send a deficiency notice to the Citizen, who then is requested to pay the tax bill. If the bill isn't paid, they will issue a collection notice to the Citizen where they must by law offer an opportunity to the Citizen to have what is called a Collection Due Process hearing. IRS form 121523 must be submitted by the person to formally request the hearing. The request for the CDP hearing must occur no later than 30 days after receipt of the Notice and Demand for payment. The IRS likes to complicate getting a CDP by saying that the form 12153 submitted by the taxpayer did not have a date on it and so they will then claim that it was submitted outside the window so they don't have to provide a due process hearing. This form, as a matter of fact, is the ONLY IRS FORM we have found that does not have a place to put a date!

After either the Citizen declines the hearing or the hearings are completed, the IRS will normally issue a Notice of Levy to financial institutions who have assets of the Citizen or the Citizen's employer. They may also issue a lien on the real property of the Citizen at the county courthouse.

It is very important to realize that neither a lien nor a Notice of Levy issued by the IRS are valid absent a valid court order signed by a magistrate! If these forms have nothing but the name of IRS employees on them, they are a fraud!

The IRS often deceives financial institutions and county recorders throughout the nation into surrendering property of Americans by issuing fraudulent "Notice of Levy" or lien documents. These fraudulent Notices of Levy, printed on IRS Form 668-A\(c\)\(DO\) documents quote portions of 26 U.S.C. §6331 but conveniently leave out paragraph (a), which specifically says that the levy can only occur against employees of the federal government. The clerks of employers and financial institutions who receive these levies usually have no legal training and will just surrender the money or property of the accused without asking even a single question. They won't even verify that the levy or lien is signed by a magistrate. Oftentimes, they are threatened by the IRS with an audit or levy or seizure of their own if they don't comply. This weak link in our property rights is at the heart of how the IRS continues to successfully collect a tax that few Americans actually owe. This unethical application of the tax laws is called violation of due process, and it is quite commonplace. The federal courts, however, have said that the issue of a "Notice of Levy" does not constitute a valid levy. Below is one example:

A "levy" requires that property be brought into legal custody through seizure, actual or constructive, levy being an absolute appropriation in law of property levied on, and mere notice of intent to levy is insufficient. United States v. O'Dell, 6 Cir., 1947, 160 F.2d. 304, 307. Accord, In re Holdsworth, D.C.N.J. 1953, 113 F.Supp. 878, 888; United States v. Aetna Life Ins. Co. of Hartford, Conn., D.C.Conn. 1942, 146 F.Supp. 30, 37, in which Judge Hincks observed that he could "find no statute which says that a mere notice shall constitute a 'levy.'" There are cases which hold that a warrant for distraint is necessary to constitute a levy. Givan v. Cripe, 7 Cir., 1951, 187 F.2d. 225; United States v. O'Dell, supra. The Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit state in its opinion, 221 F.2d. at page 642, "These sections [26 U.S.C. §§3690-3697] require that levy by a deputy collector be accompanied by warrants of distraint [issued by a judge in a legal proceeding]." In re Brokol Manufacturing Co., supra.

I am constrained to conclude that a levy upon both tangible and intangible property under §3692 requires the execution of warrant for distraint and then effective only to amounts affixed thereon. As noted above, the Court of Appeals for this Circuit declared when this matter was before it that §§3690-3697 "require that a levy by a deputy collector be accompanied by warrants of distraint."

The distress authorized by §3690 is different from anything known to the common law, both because it authorizes sale of the property seized, and because it extends to other personality than chattels. By its very nature it requires that demands of procedural due process of law be rigorously honored.
[Freeman v. Mayer, 152 F.Supp. 383 (1957)]

To make things worse, how many employees who have had their property rights violated by their employer would sue their employer for violation of due process? Most people would be afraid they might be terminated if they did. So people look the other way for fear of losing their job because they don't want to look a gift horse in the mouth. This is the unethical and insidious technique the IRS uses to continue its extortion and slavery.

Liens and levies issued by the IRS absent a court order are both a type of distraint, which is defined as follows:

distraint: the act or process of distraint, whereby a person (the DISTRAINOR), without prior court approval, seizes the personal property of another located upon the distrainor's land in satisfaction of a claim, as a pledge for the performance of a duty, or in reparation of an injury. Where goods are seized in satisfaction of a claim, the distrainor can hold the goods until the claim is paid and, failing payment, may sell them in satisfaction. Originally, distress was a landlord's remedy (see lien [LANDLORD'S LIEN], 324 A.2d. 102, 104) and was distinguishable from attachment, which is a court-ordered seizure of goods or property. The persons whose goods are distrained upon has recourse against the wrongful distrainor in replevin.

Distraint has been superseded in most states of the United States by statutory provisions for debt collection, the enforcement of security interests, and landlord-tenant relations.

The important phrase from above is "without prior court approval". The supreme Court, in the case of Flora v. U.S., 362 U.S. 145 (1960) has stated that our tax system is based on voluntary compliance and not distraint:

"Our system of taxation is based upon voluntary assessment and payment, not upon distraint."

This indicates that IRS actions to lien or levy the property of Americans are not allowed absent a court order, but the IRS continues to flagrantly violate due process anyway. How do they do it? They use a combination of "official immunity" and ignorance and apathy of the abused Citizen to perpetuate this fraud. Another reason why people continue to tolerate this is because of the high cost of litigating to defend their rights. After the IRS STEALS their money, they can't afford to defend their legal rights because they can't afford a high-priced lawyer. For instance, many people, after having been the subject of an IRS lien or levy, will just throw up their hands and say something like:

"No matter what I lose, because it would cost me more to hire a lawyer to litigate to defend my rights than it would to just pay the tax."

This kind of thinking and tolerance of gross abuse by the government has to be eliminated if things will ever get better!

Any claim arising under internal revenue laws of the United States is inchoate (unperfected) until there is a judgment from a court of competent jurisdiction. If a claim is contested, IRS and Government of the United States must secure a judgment lien in compliance with 28 U.S.C. §3201. To that point, any notice of federal tax lien an IRS officer or agent files is an uttered instrument – it isn't worth the paper it is written on. Nor can IRS personnel unilaterally garnish wages, bank accounts and other financial assets via notice of levy. The trick here is that IRS personnel issue notices of levy for administrative garnishment, but they forget to include a properly executed IRS Form 2159 Payroll Deduction Agreement. See § 4075.50 of Part 3, Chapter 4000 of Title 1 of the Treasury Financial Manual. The administrative offset program is authorized by 31 U.S.C. §3711; it applies only to government agencies and personnel.

Virtually all IRS seizures are predicated on 26 U.S.C. §7302, property used in violation of internal revenue laws. The seizures are governed by Delegation Order #157, 26 U.S.C. §403, and Rule 41 of the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure. IRS also enforces Title 18 money laundering statutes under Delegation Order #158. Both are based on the underlying presumption that the seized property was used in conjunction with or was the fruit of drug-related commercial crimes listed in 26 U.S.C. §403. All federal government seizures, whether by IRS or any other government agency, are predicated on the presumption of admiralty jurisdiction and the venue of such authority is exclusively special territorial and maritime jurisdiction defined at 18 U.S.C. §7. Any seizure on land requires trial by jury for condemnation and forfeiture.

Legal authority for issuance of levies by the IRS comes from 26 U.S.C. §6331. Typically, when the IRS issues a “Notice of Levy”, they will quote this section in the Notice of Levy. Older versions of the “Notice of Levy” were issued with a quote of the entire section. The IRS more recently eliminated 26 U.S.C. §6331(a) from their “Notice of Levy”. Below is a quote of that section:

26 U.S.C., Subchapter D - Seizure of Property for Collection of Taxes
Sec. 6331. Levy and distraint

(a) Authority of Secretary

If any person liable to pay any tax neglects or refuses to pay the same within 10 days after notice and demand, it shall be lawful for the Secretary to collect such tax (and such further sum as shall be sufficient to cover the expenses of the levy) by levy upon all property and rights to property (except such property as is exempt under section 6334) belonging to such person or on which there is a lien provided in this chapter for the payment of such tax. Levy may be made upon the accrued salary or wages of any officer, employee, or elected official of the United States, the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of the United States or the District of Columbia, by serving a notice of levy on the employer (as defined in section 3401(d)) of such officer, employee, or elected official. If the Secretary makes a finding that the collection of such tax is in jeopardy, notice and demand for immediate payment of such tax may be made by the Secretary and, upon failure or refusal to pay such tax, collection thereof by levy shall be lawful without regard to the 10-day period provided in this section.

(b) Seizure and sale of property

The term "levy" as used in this title includes the power of distraint and seizure by any means. Except as otherwise provided in subsection (e), a levy shall extend only to property possessed and obligations existing at the time thereof. In any case in which the Secretary may levy upon property or rights to property, he may seize and sell such property or rights to property (whether real or personal, tangible or intangible).

It's quite plain why the IRS removed paragraph (a) from their Notice of Levy, because it clearly states that only employees or officers of the United States Government may be levied! That's right, the IRS is NOT authorized to levy private citizens who are not officers or “employees” of the United States government. Incidentally, even the term “employee” isn’t what you think it is:

26 C.F.R. §31.3401(c) Employee: "...the term [employee] includes officers and employees, whether elected or appointed, of the United States, a [federal] State, Territory, Puerto Rico or any political subdivision, thereof, or the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing. The term 'employee' also includes an officer of a corporation."

Quite a scam, huh? What can we do about this? Get informed! Before you attempt to deal with an IRS collection action, we recommend reading the following IRS forms and publications, all of which are available on the Family Guardian Website at <http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/FormsInstr.htm>:

After you read these very short publications and forms, we should then ensure that we understand the legal and administrative process the IRS must follow and nailing their butt in the act as they try to illegally enforce the lien or levy. Below is a summary of that process:

IRS "LT11" letter allows levies		Citizen may request a hearing during 30-day period beginning on first notice of lien. However, because liens can occur without advanced notice, we recommend using an IRS form 12153 in your Request for Refund to request a Due Process Collection Hearing long before collection is ever attempted. This prevents even liens from ever happening without a hearing. Make sure you put a date on the form because the form doesn't have a place to record the date.

IRS Form 661A "Notice of Levy" cites 26 U.S.C. §6331 but is missing paragraph (a), which states that levy can only be on officers or appointees of the U.S. government. The notice doesn't say it isn't valid to act on it without a magistrate signature. This is a fraud that violates due process protections of the Fourth Amendment.
15	Bank or employer gives property to the IRS WITHOUT A COURT HEARING						This violates the Fourth Amendment

The weak point in the above process where tax freedom fighters fall down is they don't request a due process hearing within 30 days after receiving the notice and opportunity for hearing. That is why we, as a standard practice, automatically request a due process hearing in every paper we file with the IRS involving a tax return that they decide to contest. It covers your butt and gives you an out. If the IRS misses or overlooks the automatic request or doesn't honor it, then it's their fault not the person's.

The illegal point in the process above, and the point where our Fourth Amendment due process protections are violated, is at steps 13 and 14. Here is what the annotated Fourth Amendment says about the seizure of property (see <http://caselaw.lp.findlaw.com/data/constitution/amendment04/02.html>):

Fourth Amendment Annotations Searches and Seizures Pursuant to Warrant

Issuance by Neutral Magistrate .--In numerous cases, the Court has referred to the necessity that warrants be issued by a "judicial officer" or a "magistrate."¹⁴⁸ "The point of the Fourth Amendment, which often is not grasped by zealous officers, is not that it denies law enforcement the support of the usual inferences which reasonable men draw from evidence. Its protection consists in requiring that those inferences be drawn by a neutral and detached magistrate instead of being judged by the officer engaged in the often competitive enterprise of ferreting out crime. Any assumption that evidence sufficient to support a magistrate's disinterested determination to issue a search warrant will justify the officers in making a search without a warrant would reduce the Amendment to a nullity and leave the people's homes secure only in the discretion of police officers."¹⁴⁹ These cases do not mean that only a judge or an official who is a lawyer may issue warrants, but they do stand for two tests of the validity of the power of the issuing party to so act. "He must be neutral and detached, and he must be capable of determining whether probable cause exists for the requested arrest or search."¹⁵⁰ The first test cannot be met when the issuing party is himself engaged in law enforcement activities,¹⁵¹ but the Court has not required that an issuing party have that independence of tenure and guarantee of salary which characterizes federal judges. ¹⁵² And in passing on the second test, the Court has been essentially pragmatic in assessing whether the issuing party possesses the capacity to determine probable cause. ¹⁵³

Did you notice above that seizure of property requires the issue of a warrant by a magistrate (a judge)? Seldom if ever does the IRS respect this requirement, which is where most of our problems and due process violations happen. Instead, the tables are turned in the courts so that the Citizen instead of the IRS needs the order of a judge to get his property back! This creates a built-in prejudice, inconvenience, and cost against the Citizen in defending his property rights against plunder by the government. If this one requirement for due process were properly observed by the IRS during the collection process, then there would be a lot more people who didn't pay taxes and a lot fewer people scared of the IRS. Consequently, the most fruitful area to focus on violations of the law by revenue officers is the violation of due process by illegal seizing or taking of property and fraud committed on the Notice of Levy. Below is a holding of the Supreme Court along these lines in the case of Soldal v. Cook County, 506 U.S. 56 (1992):

The Court of Appeals understandably found it necessary to reconcile its holding with our recognition in the plain-view cases that the Fourth Amendment protects property as such. In so doing, the court did not distinguish this case on the ground that the seizure of the Soldals' home took place in a [506 U.S. 56, 67] noncriminal context. Indeed, it acknowledged what is evident from our precedents - that the Amendment's protection applies in the civil context as well. See O'Connor v. Ortega, 480 U.S. 709 (1987); New Jersey v. T.L.O., 469 U.S. 325, 334-335 (1985); Michigan v. Tyler, 436 U.S. 499, 504-506 (1978); Marshall v. Barlow's, Inc., 436 U.S. 307, 312-313 (1978); *Camara v. ...

City of Tampa, 407 U.S. 345 (1972) (approving issuance of arrest warrants for violation of city ordinances by city clerks who were assigned to and supervised by municipal court judges). The Court reserved the question "whether a State may lodge warrant authority in someone entirely outside the sphere of the judicial branch. Many persons may not qualify as the kind of 'public civil officers' we have come to associate with the term 'magistrate.' Had the Tampa clerk been entirely divorced from a judicial position, this case would have presented different considerations." Id. at 352.

The court seemingly construes the Amendment to protect only against seizures that are the outcome of a search. But our cases are to the contrary, and hold that seizures of property are subject to Fourth Amendment scrutiny even though no search within the meaning of the Amendment has taken place. See, e.g., Jacobsen, 466 U.S., at 120-125; Place, 462 U.S., at 706-707; Cardwell, 417 U.S., at 588-589. 13 More generally, an officer who happens to come across an individual's property in a public area could seize it only if Fourth Amendment standards are satisfied - for example, if the items are evidence of a crime or contraband. Cf. Payton v. New York, [506 U.S. 56, 69] 445 U.S., at 587. We are also puzzled by the last sentence of the excerpt, where the court announces that the "usual rules" of the Fourth Amendment are inapplicable if the seizure is not the result of a search or any other investigative activity "precisely because there is no invasion of privacy." For the plain-view cases clearly state that, notwithstanding the absence of any interference with privacy, seizures of effects that are not authorized by a warrant are reasonable only because there is probable cause to associate the property with criminal activity. The seizure of the weapons in Horton, for example, occurred in the midst of a search, yet we emphasized that it did not "involve any invasion of privacy." 496 U.S., at 133. In short, our statement that such seizures must satisfy the Fourth Amendment and will be deemed reasonable only if the item's incriminating character is "immediately apparent," id., at 136-137, is at odds with the Court of Appeals' approach.

Whatever its proper reading, we reaffirm today our basic understanding that the protection against unreasonable searches and seizures fully applies in the civil context.

The U.S. Supreme Court has also stated that you are entitled to a hearing before the taking of property:

"The right to a prior hearing has long been recognized by this Court [Supreme Court] under the Fourteenth and Fifth Amendments...[T]he court has traditionally insisted that, whatever its form, opportunity for that hearing must be provided before the deprivation at issue takes place."

And the hearing must occur at a point where the deprivation of property can be prevented:

"If the right to notice and a hearing is to serve its full purpose, it is clear that it must be granted at a time when the deprivation can still be prevented. At a later hearing, an individual's possessions can be returned to him if they were unfairly or mistakenly taken in the first place. Damages may even be awarded him for wrongful deprivation. But no later hearing and no damage award can undo the fact that the arbitrary taking that was subject to the right of due process has already occurred. This Court [the Supreme Court] has not embraced the general proposition that a wrong may be done if it can be undone."
[Stanley v. Illinois, 405 U.S. 645, 647, 31 L.Ed.2d. 551, 556, Ct. 1208 (1972)]

The traditional approach that revenue officers who are accused of violating due process will take is something like:

"We didn't tell the employer to send the money and didn't issue a valid levy, but only a Notice of Levy. The employer, not us, is liable for violation of the rights of the taxpayer. WE are scott free."

How many people do you know who would sue their employer for violating their rights in honoring an improper IRS levy. It takes a lot of guts to do this, but often it is your only recourse, unfortunately. You can, however, prevent such a problem BEFORE it happens by taking the time to educate your employer to recognize a valid levy by demanding that it be signed by a magistrate. This kind of proactive approach is usually far more effective than trying to pick up the pieces AFTER your employer made the mistake and garnished your wages illegally by honoring a bogus levy from the IRS.

One very effective technique used by Eddie Kahn of American Rights Litigators in response to a Notice of Levy is to use the Privacy Act and Freedom of Information Act to request the basis for the assessment. The Transaction Pocket Guide at the end of the latest version of the IRS Document 6209 says that a non master file must be created for each valid assessment not instituted by the "taxpayer". Treasury System of Records 26.009 is the data item or system of records used to make and record this assessment and this data item is listed in the Federal Register Part II, Vol. 63, No. 242, pages 69716 through 69929 of for the year 1998. You can get this document using the FOIA request for your Master file provided in:

1. Section 3.15.5 of this book.

Whenever any collection activity is instituted against you by the IRS, the best response is to do a Privacy Act Request for the “Original lien and the ‘non master file record’ under Treasury system of records 26.009 for the assessments related to all collection activity.” Section 4.5.4.5 earlier tells you how to do a FOIA/Privacy Act request. According to Eddie Kahn, after you send in the FOIA request via certified mail with a proof of service, most of the time the IRS will suspend all collection activity immediately!

4.5.4.22 Protect Yourself from Illegal Acts of Government Extortion

The U.S. government and the IRS frequently will try to use any unethical or illegal means at their disposal to frame, discredit, coerce, or blackmail individuals who refuse to pay “alleged” taxes into confessing crimes they didn’t commit. Such lawless acts of extortion by our dishonest government ought to be prosecuted under the RICO statutes found in 18 U.S.C. §225, but seldom are.

If you are a de-taxing expert, the IRS may do any one of the following, against you:

1. Pursue a federal conviction under 26 U.S.C. §6700 for Abusive Tax Shelters.
2. Show up on your doorstep one day posing as a prospective client who needs help hiding illegally obtained funds, for instance. For such a case, they will ask you to hide such assets and then try to prosecute you for money laundering under 18 U.S.C. §1957.
3. Pay off someone to lie about you by saying that they were one of your clients and that you did something illegal or unethical. They will then prosecute you based on this false allegation, and if you deny it, they will also prosecute you for fraud and false writings under 18 U.S.C. §1018.
4. They will appear in black ninja outfits armed with guns in violation of their delegated authority found in 26 U.S.C. §7608 and proceed to raid your office or place of business and illegally seize all of your records and computer assets without any kind of court order. They will also seize your assets so you don’t have the financial resources to fight back legally. This is what the IRS did most recently to Johnny Liberty in Feb. 2001 and Steven Swan in January 2002, and Lynne Meredith in 1999. They will then use the illegally seized records to go after your clients and dig up mud to throw at you in court.
5. Fraudulently accuse you of trying to bribe an agent to obtain favor from the jury.

All of the activities above are most often done on nonfederal property and outside the territorial and subject matter jurisdiction of the federal government identified in 40 U.S.C. §255. Such activities also violate the authority of the federal government, which has no police powers inside the borders of the states. Our dishonest federal government counts on the fact that the people they will go after don’t know this and can’t or won’t challenge their jurisdiction. The less you know about the law, the more likely you are to become their target for such extortion because they pick their battles carefully. These scum bags play hardball and you should be ready for such illegal acts of extortion and blackmail at all times by:

1. Never doing anything illegal or unethical.
2. Asset protection:
 - 2.1. Move your assets into trusts and state or foreign corporations to protect your privacy.

- 2.2. Get an unnumbered account not associated with any name and use that to keep your private funds. Do not allow them to send any paper statements via the mail that might end up laying around your office.
- 2.3. Use W-8's to open financial accounts and ensure that none of your accounts have social security numbers associated with them.
3. Choose your clients carefully:
 - 3.1. Insisting on proper and complete identification of all clients who deal with you.
 - 3.2. Not dealing with any dishonest or unethical clients.
4. Privacy:
 - 4.1. Use your fifth Amendment rights to protect your privacy.
 - 4.2. Opt-out at all your financial institutions so that they are not allowed to disclose financial information about you to third parties.
 - 4.3. Protecting your privacy vigilantly as we describe in section 4.5.3.1.
 - 4.4. Conduct transactions in cash where possible.
 - 4.5. Use third party checks from clients with blank payee fields to pay your bills where possible.
5. Financial records:
 - 5.1. Keeping your paper financial records offsite under a name other than yourself so they can't be located as we recommend in section 4.5.3.7. Don't keep any paper records about these storage places onsite.
 - 5.2. Scanning paper items into your computer and keeping them in secured and electronic form on your computer so they can't be examined by prying eyes and shred them after they have been scanned.
 - 5.3. Use a password authenticated operating system on your computer so you need the password to get in.
 - 5.4. Keeping regular backup copies of your electronic data offsite with your paper records under a name other than yours.
 - 5.5. Not keeping any paper records or unsecured electronic records onsite that would link you to the place you store your records.
 - 5.6. Paying the bill for your record storage facility years in advance in cash and making sure they never call you or bill you at your place of work so you could be linked to the storage facility.
 - 5.7. Have a hotkey on all your computers preprogrammed to lock up your computer and/or encrypt its contents immediately so that the government can't break in and view it.
6. Keep a digital camera ready at all times so you can take pictures of all the people and vehicles involved in an illegal government raid for use in court as evidence.

4.5.5 The Legal Battle

"A wise man is strong, yes, a man of knowledge increases strength; for by wise counsel you will wage your own war, and in a multitude of counselors there is safety."
 [Prov. 24:5-6, Bible, NKJV]

*"It is not good to show partiality to the wicked,
 Or to overthrow the righteous in judgment."*
 [Prov. 18:5, Bible, NKJV]

*"Do not go hastily to court;
 For what will you do in the end,
 When your neighbor has put you to shame?
 Debate your case with your neighbor himself,
 And do not disclose the secret to another;
 Lest he who hears it expose your shame,
 And your reputation be ruined."*
 [Prov. 25:8-10, Bible, NKJV]

Hopefully, it won't be necessary to get to the point of requiring litigation to protect and defend your rights. Litigation can be complex and expensive and we'd obviously like to encourage you to try to settle as much as you can outside the courtroom, because it will be better for everyone. However, if ignorance, dishonesty, and greed get the better of the IRS personnel you are dealing with, you may have no other choice but to litigate to defend your rights as a sovereign American with income from the 50 union states to not pay income taxes. We give you some tips and pointers here to make your battle effective, inexpensive for you, and very expensive and complicated for your opponents at the IRS.

Before we begin with describing how to litigate your case, we wish to emphasize the following extremely important point:

“Courts do not have jurisdiction to interfere with action of administrative agency until administrative remedies have been exhausted, at least where applicable rules have been followed.”

“It has been the rule that courts do not have jurisdiction to interfere with the action of an administrative agency until the administrative remedies have been exhausted, at least where applicable rules have been followed. The rule is not merely a convenient procedural device—it is a recognition of the fact that important business of one branch of the government cannot be successfully conducted if it is subjected to interruptions by another branch of the government which does not have the responsibility for the ultimate result. The rule continues and operates here unless the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in Goldberg v. Kelly, supra, compels a contrary result. It does not.”
[Herriges v. United States, 314 F.Supp. 1352 (1970)]

“Better is the poor who walks in his integrity than one [a DOJ lawyer or IRS agent] who is perverse in his lips and is a fool.”
[Prov. 19:1, Bible, NKJV]

It is important that you thoroughly understand the process used to litigate a tax case long before you begin your tax litigation. One very good reason is that even if you know all the right arguments, are organized, and can write and present well to a jury, the government will attempt to try to defeat your case based on an obtuse technicality. In fact, they will use any excuse they can to avoid confronting the substantive issues of your claim or defense or putting themselves into the position where they have to argue against the merits of your arguments or meet the burden of proof, because then their arguments will go on the court record for all to see if the judge decides to make your case published. The most common technicalities they try to destroy your case with are listed below in descending order of frequency. The government will:

1. Claim that service of process on the government was insufficient so the case needs to be dismissed. That is why the Tax Fraud Prevention Manual, Form #06.008 tells you how to properly serve process upon the government in section 6.10.
2. Empty your assets and bank accounts out using a bogus Notice of Levy or Levy just before you go to trial so you can't pay your lawyer. This is obviously grand theft, but it does happen. Sometimes, they will even steal your car while you are inside the courtroom. This happened to the client of one tax attorney we know. Thieves! The best - way to guard against this is to protect all your assets before you launch your litigation so they can't plunder your war chest.

3. Move to dismiss your case on the basis that it "fails to state a claim under which relief can be granted". Section 6.8.1 of the Tax Fraud Prevention Manual, Form #06.008 describes in detail how to develop a claim upon which relief can be granted so you can avoid this pitfall.
 4. Try to claim your arguments are frivolous and threaten you with a sanction for frivolous pleadings. At the same time, they will fail to specifically identify their meaning of frivolous, which incidentally is a violation of due process, and will refuse to specify exactly why your arguments are frivolous. We tell you in section 2.17 how to prevent charges of being "frivolous" and how to defend yourself against such charges.
 5. Try to strike your motion (have it nullified and removed from the court record) because it is frivolous or incomplete or prejudices their case.
 6. Delay resolution of the case by requesting continuances from the judge and dragging their feet during discovery and setting a trial date. This is designed to increase your legal expenses and test your patience and endurance in hopes that you will run out of money before the case goes to trial. The DOJ typically has sixty days to respond to your initial petition. If they don't know how to respond because your petition is especially damning, they will file repeated applications with the court to extend their time to respond and they will do it every 60 days to delay things indefinitely.
 7. Just before your case goes to trial if you are the plaintiff, they might try to indict you on criminal charges so your attention is diverted away from completing the case while you are in jail. That way, by the time you get out of jail, the statute of limitations will have run out and they won't have to confront your issues. This very tactic was the one used against Lynne Meredith, author of one of the books we recommend called Vultures in Eagle's Clothing and a famous tax freedom fighter. Lynne was raided illegally by the IRS in 1999 and filed a civil suit against the IRS for damages. She then deposed 40 different IRS agents acting in pro per and had a very good chance of winning according to the judge, so much so that the IRS used the evidence they had stolen illegally from her during the raid and used it to try to convict her, getting her thrown in jail on criminal charges just before her civil case went to trial in 2002. The government conveniently gave the criminal case to a prejudiced judge who was on the IRS' side and who said he wouldn't grant her bail unless she shut down her business and her marketing efforts and her website, which cut off the cash flow she needed to defend herself.
 8. The court or the opposing DOJ counsel might conveniently lose your pleadings for the case. They will wait until the trial or hearing and then use this as an excuse to keep delaying or continuing the trial or hearing. For this reason, every pleading that you file, you should keep TWO stamped and signed copies of everything so that you can produce another copy of the pleading for the judge. You should also ensure that the copies that you serve on opposing counsel do NOT have the court stamp or your signature. Instead put "/s/" where your signature goes on the copy of the pleading going to opposing counsel so that the judge can't use their copy of your pleading. Opposing counsel like to doctor the pleadings you submit to prejudice your case by giving the doctored pleadings to the judge when he loses his. If you don't sign or stamp copies you give to the opposing counsel, then the judge can't use them and he has to use yours!
 9. The judge may try to "pigeonhole" your case by refusing to rule properly on your case because it would or damage the government. After you have a trial or hearing, he has a certain amount of time to file a signed judgment which is called the "term of court", and what typically happens to pigeonholed cases is that he will allow the term of court to expire, and then file an annotation on the minutes of the case saying what the judgment was, but not filing an actual judgment. Without an actual judgment, you can't appeal and if he files a judgment late, and beyond the term of court, then the judgment is a void (null, without effect) judgment that you can challenge. Judges certainly know their judgments are void when filed beyond the term of court but they will be hoping that you don't know this and that you will honor the void judgment anyway. They will then put ridiculous terms in the void judgment that will be especially burdensome or damaging for you.
 10. Instead of signing the final judgment, the judge will use a rubber stamp to sign it or have his clerk sign it by direction or using the stamp, in which case it is a void judgment. He will do this to escape culpability for the judgment if he knows it is wrong or could subject him to personal liability. That way, if he is later sued for the injurious and illegal judgment, he can claim he didn't sign it.
 11. If the judge knows that his judgment would be obviously wrong or unjust or if it violates precedent or stare decisis, he may make the case unpublished so that it isn't allowed to be referenced or cited as precedent for subsequent cases and so that his illegal handling of the case may be protected from disclosure. This is an obvious and illegal obstruction of justice and the judge could be sued for such acts, but it frequently happens anyway. Some courts are waking up to this injustice. For instance, the eighth circuit court of federal appeals recently declared unpublished opinions unconstitutional.

12. The judge may order you not to file any pleadings in the court any longer, and subject you to fines if you do. This technique is used to damage your right of free speech. The judge typically does this if you are a frequent or “vexatious” litigant who raises issues that are especially embarrassing or damaging for the government. The government did this to Rodney Stich so they could prevent being publicly embarrassed by his very damning evidence. Rodney Stich wrote an expose book on the FAA called Unfriendly Skies and was persecuted because he litigated to end corruption in the government that was exposed in the book.

You must expect that the government will be very devious, unfair, dishonest, evasive of the truth, and underhanded. That is the only way they have been able to perpetuate the fraud of the income tax and fool so many innocent Americans for so long. If they had told the truth consistently and in their publications, after all, the fraud of the income tax would have been exposed long ago and imploded on itself as it rightfully deserves. The IRS therefore has two faces that are completely opposite of each other in the most hypocritical deception in existence. You must completely understand and more importantly respect both of these faces if you will defeat this beast:

- The pleasant and cooperative one they show the media and Congress during hearings. They will brag, for instance, about how many phone calls they have answered in their “helpful” 800 line, how they are giving tax credits to the victims of 9-11, unclaimed refunds, and other such propaganda. They won’t even mention that their phone agents cannot be held liable for giving downright wrong advice, and that they refuse to identify themselves so you can’t sue them.
- An evil, criminal, covetous, lying, good old boy network which behind the scenes is nothing but a gangster/Racketeer Influenced Corrupt Organization (RICO) ring that will do anything to keep the truth from coming out. They will scare the public by saying they “are hiring thousands”, as they did during 2001 on their website. Their number one mission is to keep sheep/people afraid and compliant so the extortion payments continue coming. They maintain the fear through automated anonymous threatening mail that constitutes stalking, harassment, and mailing of threatening communications in violation of 18 U.S.C. §876. They hide behind a cloak of anonymity and refuse to identify the names of their employees. They refuse to respond to FOIA requests about the persons handling your case so you can sue them for criminal wrongdoing. They silence and penalize and harass the whistleblowers and freedom fighters. They will put a spin on the story they release to the media about the persecution to deflect public ridicule for their misdeeds. They will wrongfully accuse and prosecute people for things that aren’t even crimes and which are outside of their territorial and subject matter jurisdiction, and most of the time they will win because the victims they choose very carefully will either be ignorant of the law and their rights, or have an ignorant counsel who is on the take and who volunteers to rig the case in order to avoid his next audit with the IRS behind the scenes. They will falsify and doctor a person’s IMF file to make it appear as though they have a legitimate liability and cover it up by refusing FOIA requests for the record. And they will try to make the person out as a “taxpayer” to shift the burden of disproving their liability in order to escape this fraud. This is why you should to request and decode your IMF file.

The IRS chief counsel and the DOJ lawyers he works with in prosecuting tax crimes will do anything to win and the end justifies the means for these crooks. They will implement their legal oppression of your rights more successfully because you helped them win. How? They have a big war chest full of YOUR money which they STOLE to use against you, which prejudiced your rights in the process because you don’t have enough money to hire a lawyer to defend yourself against their extortion and legal and courtroom harassment. It’s a very vicious assault on your rights and your liberties and they hit you right in the weak spot you created by being a gullible citizen and volunteering to pay the very income tax that made you unable to afford a lawyer to later defend your right to stop paying it.

This section will therefore attempt to briefly summarize the tax litigation sequence and give you some succinct and helpful tips on where to focus your litigation efforts and more importantly, where NOT to focus your efforts so that you will have a better chance of winning. The content of this section was derived in part from a fascinating book entitled Tax Fraud & Evasion: The War Stories, written by a seasoned tax attorney and personal friend of ours, Donald Macpherson, who we affectionately refer to as “Capt Mac” in this section. His website is located at:

<http://www.beatirs.com/>

Capt Mac says in his fascinating book that the IRS fights with the same dirty guerilla tactics as those of the North Vietnamese Army (NVA) that he fought against during an 18 month stint in the Army in Vietnam as a Green Beret. His book is peppered with anecdotes of his war years that he effectively uses as metaphors to describe his tactics and battles

1 against the IRS. The part of Mac's book that talks about the trial sequence is pages 51 through 52. You can learn more
2 about the sequence below by reading the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, which we mention in the following section.
3 Another helpful source to understand this process is found in the local rules for the specific court you will be litigating in,
4 which we mention subsequently in section 4.5.5.5. If you would like to know more about the fundamentals of federal tax
5 litigation, we refer you to a much more complete treatment found in chapter 11 of this book. The column entitled
6 "Applicable Court Rule(s)" comes from either the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure (F.R.C.P.) or the court rules for the 7 Ninth Circuit, California Southern District Court, in San Diego, Calif, which you can view on the web at:

9 Below is the typical process involved in litigating a criminal tax trial:

1 Table 4-10: Litigation sequence for a CRIMINAL trial relating to income taxes

#	Description	Duration	Applicable Statute(s)/Regs(2)	Applicable Rule(s)/References	Notes
1	INVESTIGATION	2 years			IRS investigates person suspected of criminal tax activity. Gathers evidence for use in trial from its administrative files.
1.1	IRS investigates the matter			Department of Justice Criminal Tax Manual Sections 6-4.110 to 6-4.121
1.2	IRS makes recommendation to DOJ to prosecute		28 U.S.C. §592	Department of Justice Criminal Tax Manual Sections 6-4.121	Includes with recommendation applicable evidence from administrative file. Recommendation made on an IRS form 9131.
1.3	DOJ investigates		28 C.F.R. §0.70 ; 26 U.S.C. §6103(h) .	U.S. Attorneys' Manual (U.S.A.M.), §6-4.122
1.4	Department of Justice (DOJ), Tax Division decides to prosecute		28 U.S.C. §594 Authority of indep. Counsel.		U.S. Attorney makes decision. Assigns an Assistant U.S. Attorney from the Tax Division to interface with Grand Jury.
2	Asst. U.S. Attorney from DOJ brings evidence from investigation before a grand jury and requests an indictment	2 months	28 U.S.C. §594(a)(1) Authority of indep. Counsel.	U.S. Attorneys' Manual (U.S.A.M.), §9-11.000 U.S. Attorneys' Manual (U.S.A.M.), §9-12.000	Hearings are highly secretive and suspect in some cases is invited to testify before the grand jury before being indicted. Grand juries convene no longer than 9 months at a time.
3	GRAND JURY INDICTS SUSPECT	1-5 days			Suspect becomes defendant. Must "vote bill" to indict.
4	Service of process is attempted on defendant	1 month		Federal Rule of Criminal Procedure 5	Criminal indictment must be personally and properly served on defendant in order to institute jurisdiction of the court to try the offense
5	Defendant selects or hires counsel to represent him at trial	1 week			If defendant cannot afford counsel, government appoints one for him. Government-appointed counsel should be avoided because of conflict of interest.
6	PRETRIAL MOTIONS	Six months		Federal Rules of Criminal Procedures 7 to 16	Most of these pretrial motions focus on discovery and case management. For instance, a motion in limine regulates admission of evidence prior to trial. Parties also may need a motion to compel witnesses to testify during discovery. THIS IS THE TIME TO CHALLENGE JURISDICTION: BEFORE TRIAL!
7	DISCOVERY	Six months to one year		Federal Rules of Criminal	Both parties gather evidence for use at trial, either through depositions or subpoenas.

#	Description	Duration	Applicable Statute(s)/Regs(2)	Applicable Rule(s)/References	Notes
				Procedures 26 to 37	Certain types of discovery may require a motion in order to facilitate. For instance, a hostile witness may need to be compelled to testify. The government may also want to exclude evidence by the defendant during trial using a motion in limine.
8	CASE MANAGEMENT CONFERENCE				Settlement judge, usually a volunteer, ensures all process requirements have been satisfied in order for the case to go to trial.
8.1	Prior to trial, government discloses to defendant all evidence it intends to use in its case in chief		28 U.S.C. Chapters 115, 117, and 119
8.2	Defense then discloses to government and court list of evidence and exhibits it intends to use		28 U.S.C. Chapters 115, 117, and 119		Documents utilized for purpose of cross-examination of witnesses during the opponent's case in chief need not be disclosed prior to trial.
8.3	Government discloses to defendant and court its list of witnesses who will appear at trial and any sworn statements or grand jury testimony of the witnesses				NOTE: Defendant is not obligated to disclose a list of his witnesses prior to trial, leaving open the element of surprise.
9	Government and defendant submit proposed jury instructions to the judge prior to trial.				If you want to know what the government's jury instructions look like, see the Department of Justice, Tax Division, Criminal Tax Manual, available from the Family Guardian Website at: http://famguardian.org/Publications/DOJTDCTM/DOJTDCTM.htm
10	Parties issue summons for witnesses to appear at trial
11	TRIAL	One to three weeks
11.1	Voir dire: Jury selection	1-2 days	28 U.S.C. §1865 Qualifications; 28 U.S.C. §1867 Challenging selection 28 U.S.C. §1870 28 U.S.C. §2402 Requirement for jury trial		Most federal judges do not permit counsel to question jurors except through written questions asked by the court. Jurors with obvious bias are removed using "per-emptory strikes" of "removal for cause".
11.2	Government gives opening statement	30 minutes to 2 hours			Government gives opening statement followed by defendant.
11.3	Defense gives its opening statement	30 minutes to 2 hours
11.4	Government gives its rebuttal to defense's opening statement	30 minutes			Happens infrequently.

11.8	Government rests its case				Government is finished presenting its case and defers to defense to present its case.
11.9	Defense presents its case in chief	Varies
11.10	Defense calls its witnesses	Varies		Federal Rule of Criminal Procedure 43
11.11	Defense rests
11.12	Closing statements	30 minutes to 2 hours
11.13	Jury instructions from judge to jurors	10 minutes
11.14	Jury deliberates privately	Hours up to weeks			Government and defense wait quietly and patiently. Jury may request certain pieces of evidence during deliberations in order to help establish fact.

An effective weapon in tax cases is a jury trial, and especially if you have lots of evidence to show the jury from your administrative record on file with the IRS. If you followed our recommendations when you filed with the IRS, you will have plenty of evidence that is prejudicial to the government to talk about with the jury that the judge simply can't keep out of evidence no matter how badly he wants to because it is part of your official IRS administrative record. 28 U.S.C. §2402 indicates as follows:

TITLE 28 > PART VI > CHAPTER 161 > Sec. 2402.
Sec. 2402. - Jury trial in actions against United States

*Subject to chapter 179 of this title, any action against the United States under section 1346 shall be tried by the court without a jury, except that any action against the United States under section 1346(a)(1) shall, at the request of either party to such action, be tried by the court with a jury

And if then you look in 28 U.S.C. §1346(a)(1) it says::

TITLE 28 > PART IV > CHAPTER 85 > Sec. 1346.
Sec. 1346. - United States as defendant

(a) The district courts shall have original jurisdiction, concurrent with the United States Court of Federal Claims, of:

(1) Any civil action against the United States for the recovery of any internal-revenue tax alleged to have been erroneously or illegally assessed or collected, or any penalty claimed to have been collected without authority or any sum alleged to have been excessive or in any manner wrongfully collected under the internal-revenue laws;

Therefore, if you are suing the government for wrongful assessment or collection of taxes, then you will get a jury trial if you specifically request one. You cannot sue the U.S. government without its permission, and that government will seldom give its permission to be sued. Instead, it is always best to sue the IRS agent who injured you by violating the tax laws. This conclusion is based on the theory that agents of the government can only act under the authority of law and when they violate the law, they become personally liable because they were acting outside their authority and committing illegal acts. See section 4.5.5.12 later for details on this. Not only is it dangerous, but it is also illegal to request a declaratory judgment from a judge in the case of a federal tax trial, according to 28 U.S.C. §2201(a). Therefore, you must either have a jury trial or you cannot litigate at all if you are litigating against the U.S. government.

One good trick you can use against just about any judge is to file an affidavit with the court indicating bias or prejudice of the judge against your case if your case involves income tax issues. This approach is described in 28 U.S.C. §144 as follows:

TITLE 28 > PART I > CHAPTER 5 > Sec. 144.
Sec. 144. - Bias or prejudice of judge

Whenever a party to any proceeding in a district court makes and files a timely and sufficient affidavit that the judge before whom the matter is pending has a personal bias or prejudice either against him or in favor of any adverse party, such judge shall proceed no further therein, but another judge shall be assigned to hear such proceeding.

The affidavit shall state the facts and the reasons for the belief that bias or prejudice exists, and shall be filed not less than ten days before the beginning of the term at which the proceeding is to be heard, or good cause shall be shown for failure to file it within such time. A party may file only one such affidavit in any case. It shall be accompanied by a certificate of counsel of record stating that it is made in good faith

We have an article off the Federal Judicial Center (FJC) website in which the federal judiciary analyzes the effectiveness of this approach at the following address:

<http://famguardian.org/PublishedAuthors/Govt/FJC/Recusal.pdf>

You might want to include the affidavit with your original pleading or response to make sure it ends up in the court record and can be raised during trial in front of the jury. Your affidavit claiming bias on the part of the judge should mention the following facts:

- Just about all federal judges have to pay federal taxes in order to qualify to get appointed. You might want to specifically ask your assigned judge if he does during a hearing, and especially in front of the jury. If he won't answer, accuse him if obstructing justice in violation of 18 U.S.C. Chapter 73 in front of the jury.
- Judges collect their paycheck from income taxes.

"And you shall take no bribe, for a bribe blinds the discerning and perverts the words of the righteous."
[\[Exodus 23:8, Bible\]](#)

- Judges who don't pander to the IRS during trial may be threatened with a political audit
- The federal government is deeply in debt to the private federal corporation called the Federal Reserve, and the Bible states that people in debt are servants of those they borrowed from:

"The rich ruleth over the poor; and the borrower [is] servant to the lender."
[\[Prov. 22:7\]](#)

- Because federal judges are supposed to be servants of the people and not private corporations such as the Federal Reserve but can't be because of conflict of interest, they are violating their fiduciary duty to hear the case. This severe conflict of interest violates Public Law 96-303, Executive Order 12731, 5 C.F.R. §2635.101, and 28 U.S.C. §455. See sections 2.1 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book and 4.5.5.12 of this book for further information on breach of fiduciary duty.

It ought to be abundantly evident from the above that it's nearly impossible not to be biased as a federal judge in a tax trial, which clearly violates 28 U.S.C. §455. Therefore, you can file an affidavit within ten days before the start of the hearing, and this may result in getting a different judge, or it just might bias the case in your favor, because the only kind of judge they can appoint who doesn't have a conflict of interest is one who doesn't pay income taxes!

Capt Mac has a few very wise cardinal rules of tax litigation that you should be very aware of as follows:

1. The all-too-familiar adage "ignorance of the law is no excuse," does not apply to tax crimes and other crimes which the courts regard as so complex that they defy common understanding. Ignorance of the law is an excuse, at least so far as it goes to the issue of intent or "willfulness". In other words, a defendant can demonstrate his good faith misunderstanding of the law. As well, he can develop a defense of reliance upon advice of others, especially professionals trained to so advise him: accountants, CPAs and attorneys. Thus, one way to insulate oneself from criminal prosecution in the area of uncertain law is to seek out and rely upon specific advice of an independent, competent counselor. Of course, for the defense to be viable, you must disclose the full facts, and once advice is given, you must "follow it to a T."¹⁵⁴
2. Focus on truth and justice and stay away from money issues. Take the offensive and strike first:

"twice armed is he who hath a cause that's just and thrice armed is he who gets his blow in first."¹⁵⁵

3. Frame your whole case as a Petition for Redress of Grievances protected by the First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. Such a petition cannot be fined or sanctioned because it is a right protected by the Constitution. Focus on the fact that such a petition assures an accountable government of limited power, and that the purpose is to protect our liberties.¹⁵⁶
4. *"The wheel that squeaks always gets the grease."*¹⁵⁷ The government chooses their battles carefully and goes after the most visible and publicized cases that will get the most media visibility to scare the rest of the fearful sheeple (docile people) in line.
5. Prosecuting tax protesters is the least desirable activity for most employees of the Department of Justice (DOJ). Consequently, the government typically puts the least experienced counsel on such trials. This can be a big advantage as it increases your chances of winning and it increases the chances that the government prosecutor will make some serious mistakes during your trial. Take advantage of such inexperience whenever you can.¹⁵⁸

¹⁵⁶ Ibid., pp. 63-65.

¹⁵⁷ Ibid., p. 63.

¹⁵⁸ Ibid., p. 72.

6. Government investigation prior to trial:

- 6.1. When the government begins its criminal investigation, it will send two agents to your house on a fishing expedition to gather evidence to nail you with. When they show up on your property, they will try to positively identify you before they ask questions. When they do so, do not admit anything about who you are and don't answer to the name of the person they are looking for, but challenge their authority by demanding that they produce the law that authorizes them to be trespassing on private property outside of their territorial jurisdiction and subpoenaing you as a witness. Ask them to produce any evidence they have to date that leads them to believe they have "probable cause" to investigate for violations of law.¹⁵⁹
- 6.2. During the government's investigation of tax protesters, they will frequently encounter resistance from hostile witnesses in the accused circle of friends and family who will not provide information to them. Their favorite tactic against these persons is to indict them under obstruction of justice charges. However, in order for an obstruction of justice charge to stand, there must be: 1. A, a suspect; 2. B, a federal investigator; and 3. C, a witness. The suspect and the witness cannot be one and the same, as declared by the Fifth Circuit in U.S. v. Cameron, 460 F.2d. 1394 (5th Cir. 1972). That means that if you are the accused and you don't provide information they want or you are the spouse of the accused, then you are both the suspect and the witness, and therefore cannot be cited for obstruction of justice.¹⁶⁰
- 6.3. Government agents, usually from the Criminal Investigative Division (CID) like to show up unannounced and in pairs armed with guns, which is not authorized by the I.R.C. They will do so at the least convenient time to catch the suspect off-guard, in hopes that he will say something stupid. For instance, they will show up during non-business hours at the suspect's home and will not call first, because they don't want a hostile witness who will avoid them. If they catch you off guard on a fishing expedition for rope to hang you with, don't give them anything, and don't even identify who you are to them. As the suspect, you aren't obligated to incriminate yourself in any way, even if it is only a civil rather than criminal investigation, as pointed out in section 2.8.13.7 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book.

7. Dealing with witnesses:

- 7.1. "The cardinal rule of cross examination is: if you do not know the answer to the question, do not ask it!"¹⁶¹
- 7.2. "Anchor the witness before you lower the boom on him!" If you think a witness is lying or deceiving the jury, then use the following sequence:
- 7.2.1. Ask the question: "Are you absolutely, completely sure about that?"
- 7.2.2. After they answer "yes, absolutely".
- 7.2.3. Then ask: "Is there any doubt in your mind at all about that?"
- 7.2.4. Then after they say "no", you provide or introduce evidence or testimony contradicting their testimony which you have carefully concealed.
- 7.2.5. After you have discredited a witness, go back to the government or its witnesses who you suspect knew of the lie and put them on the stand. As questions like:¹⁶²
- 7.2.5.1. "Isn't it true that if she testified falsely under oath, you didn't as much as flinch?"
- 7.2.5.2. "You did hear her testimony?"
- 7.2.5.3. "Did it not bother you?"
- 7.3. There are four types of witnesses the government's DOJ attorneys will call at most tax trials: 1. Special Agents of the Criminal Investigation Division; 2. Revenue Agents from the Audit or Examination Division; 3. Revenue Officer from the Collection Division; 4. District Counsel, an IRS Attorney. Ask any of these witnesses the government calls how long they have been doing their job to gauge their experience level and credibility. Of the four types of witnesses, Special Agents and Revenue Agents will act as summary witnesses, summarizing for the jury the evidence and testifying that the total income was such and such amount, or the total tax due and owing was such and such amount. Most IRS personnel appear arrogant and haughty. Capt Mac refers to them as "pompous asses". This is especially true of Special Agents who should be more confident, but hate finding the tables turned, and become paranoid. You can use this arrogance and paranoia to your advantage to discredit such witnesses by showing that their arrogance and selfishness creates at least a perception of conflict of interest and may lead them to exaggerate or falsify their testimony in the IRS' favor.¹⁶³

7.4. Government witnesses will frequently lie to advantage themselves by, for instance, saying that you said or did something that you didn't, or distorting your words to deceive the jury. Therefore, it is always a good idea to tape record all discussions you have with government agents and have other witnesses present during questioning and to introduce the tapes and testimony of these witnesses into evidence if the government tries to distort or falsify your words to discredit or harm you.

8. A very good subject to focus on is "liability". This term is very confusing and uncertain for the average American and even for most IRS employees. Try to apply the "void for vagueness" concept introduced in section 5.10.9 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book by telling the jury or judge that you believe the complexity and uncertainty surrounding the notion of "liability" is reason enough to negate the notion of "willfulness" in regards to charges of "willful failure to file" under 26 U.S.C. §7203 or "tax evasion" under 26 U.S.C. §7201.¹⁶⁴ Try to get a lot of mileage about the fact that this confusion, which exists even among seasoned veterans working at the IRS, is reason enough to negate the concept of willfulness. You can also focus on the lack of liability statutes that we mention in section 5.6.1 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book. Point out that no IRS publication or form and no part of the thousands of pages in the Internal Revenue Manual defines what statute makes a person liable under Subtitle A of the Internal Revenue Code because there is no such liability! For instance, you can ask the government's expert witnesses such questions as:

8.1. Point to the 1040 or 1040NR form and ask the witness where on the form it uses the term "liability".

8.2. Ask: "Do you know of any Internal Revenue Service publication, form, regs or code which defines especially tax liability?"¹⁶⁵

8.3. "Do you use the phrase 'tax due' and 'tax liability' interchangeably?" Then ask: "What is the difference between these terms?"

9. Techniques during trial:

9.1. If you come to a court trial and your case is in the collection stage, take the bus or leave a attendant inside your car during the trial, because the IRS will try to stage a media event by seizing your car while you are in the courtroom, and call the media to film the event! For such a case, they can't seize the vehicle if someone is inside.¹⁶⁶

9.2. The government will try to make it look like you are a criminal by backing you into a corner so that you look like you won't cooperate with them in providing information because you have some criminal act to hide. Their premise is that "Law abiding citizens do not hesitate to cooperate."¹⁶⁷ Therefore, you should be as frank, open, and cooperative as you can. You can also use this rule in reverse against the government by grandstanding any instance of government cover-up, including protective orders by the judge, failure to answer questions during your deposition of IRS agents, failure to address issues during the administrative phase of your case, etc.

9.3. If you wish to ensure that your proposed jury instructions are accepted and used by the court, you should introduce into evidence at least one piece of evidence supporting the conclusions or premise of each of the instructions that you want to give.

9.4. If you are being prosecuted for tax evasion, one helpful cite is Gregory v. Helvering, 55 S.Ct.Rpt. 266 (1935), which says:¹⁶⁸

The legal right "to decrease the amount of what otherwise would be his taxes or altogether avoid them by means which the law permits cannot be doubted."
[Gregory v. Helvering, 55 S.Ct.Rpt. 266 (1935)]

10. The role of an attorney representing the Citizen litigant is to be a "priest, a confidant, and bodyguard" and not a dictator or tyrant.¹⁶⁹

In addition to Capt. Mac's advice, we also recommend some additional precautions:

1. You cannot raise "diversity of citizenship" issues under 28 U.S.C. §1332(a)(3) if you don't raise them in your initial pleadings or answer. This is very important! Therefore, your initial pleading or answer to the government's motion should invoke constitutional "diversity of citizenship" Article III, Section 2 of the Constitution but not claim and ¹⁶⁴ Ibid., pp. 193-194.

¹⁶⁵ Ibid., p. 117.

¹⁶⁶ Ibid., p. 151.

¹⁶⁷ Ibid., p. 154.

¹⁶⁹ Ibid., p. 177.

vehemently deny statutory diversity of citizenship pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §1332. Remember that the “State” defined in 28 U.S.C. §1332\(d\) is a federal territory or possession while the “State” contemplated in the Constitution are states of the Union: Two mutually exclusive things! You should provide an affidavit stating your citizenship, domicile, and tax status similar to that below and include your birth certificate and your “Certificate of non-citizen national status” obtained during the expatriation process we document earlier in section 4.5.3.13:

Affidavit of Citizenship, Domicile, and Tax Status, Form #02.001

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

2. You should make a special appearance rather than an general appearance, and use the First Amendment Petition Clause as the basis for jurisdiction of the court over the wrongs of the government without subjecting yourself to the jurisdiction of the court. A safe way to do this and save time is to attach the free Federal Pleading Attachment found below to all of your pleadings and motions as an exhibit:

Federal Pleading Attachment, Litigation Tool #01.002

3. The best time to challenge jurisdiction is before you go to trial and in your initial pleading, but you can also do it during trial and in front of the jury.
4. You also might want to attach to your pleading a CD-ROM containing this book and the appropriate section of questions (or all of them!) from our Tax Deposition area on the Family Guardian Website, and get testimony from the U.S. Attorney and an IRS employee answering these questions in front of the jury. If you submitted this same CD-ROM with our book in the last filing you had with the IRS and demanded that it be added to your administrative record, then the judge cannot keep this very damning evidence out of the courtroom and away from the jury during the trial, because everything in your administrative record is always admissible as evidence.
5. When you file your pleadings, get TWO copies that are signed and stamped by the court in case either the judge or the opposing counsel lose theirs, which frequently happens. All copies of your pleadings that you serve on the opposing counsel should not have the court stamp or your signature. Instead, where your signature goes, you can put “/s/”. This will prevent the opposing counsel from doctoring your pleadings and giving them to the judge whenever the judge loses your pleadings. This is a devious method your opponent may use to prejudice your case.
6. During voir dire, or jury selection, you should take advantage of the opportunity to voir dire the judge as well. Ask him questions like the following:
 - 6.1. “Did you take an oath of office in conformance with 5 U.S.C. §3331?”
 - 6.2. “Are you a member of the American Bar Association (ABA)?”
 - 6.3. “Did you take an oath in joining the bar association?”
 - 6.4. “Does your ABA oath compete or conflict with your oath of office?”
 - 6.5. “Do you think that disallowing persons who are not bar licensed attorneys from representing others does any of the following:”
 - 6.5.1. “Adversely affects the supply of legal help and elevates the salaries of lawyers in general?”
 - 6.5.2. “Creates a government sanctioned monopoly?”
 - 6.5.3. “Creates a conflict of interest for lawyers who are licensed by making them fearful of having their license pulled if they don’t litigate in favor of the government?”
 - 6.6. “If the ruling in this case would threaten your pay and benefits by setting a precedent that would be very damaging to the government or possibly even bankrupt the government, could you still objectively and justly handle this case and not suppress evidence or argument against the government?”
 - 6.7. “Do you pay income taxes?”
 - 6.8. “Does Article III, Section 1 of the U.S. Constitution say that the salaries of judges may not be diminished while in office?”
 - 6.9. “Does your payment of income taxes reduce your salary?”
 - 6.10. “Does your payment of income taxes to the IRS subject you to control and manipulation by the executive branch and create a conflict of interest?”
 - 6.11. “Have you perjured your wedding vow?”
 - 6.12. “Have you just lied or tried to deceive me with any of your answers?”

4.5.5.2 Read the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure

In order to litigate, you will need to be familiar with the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, which are short and which you can download from a number of websites. These rules govern how cases are litigated in the federal courts. Below is one URL you can go to get this document:

<http://law.cornell.edu/rules/frcp/overview.htm>

4.5.5.3 Buy a Legal Forms Preparation Program

Litigation is documentation intensive. The only way to survive as a pro per litigant is to own a legal forms preparation program that fills in the court forms for you and formats them nicely. We recommend a product called HotDocs, from a vendor called Capsoft Development. This company is affiliated (was purchased) by Matthew Bender, a major supplier of legal references, software, and litigation tools. You can visit their website at:

<http://www.hotdocs.com/>

You will need to buy the latest version of HotDocs User (for $250) at:

<https://www.hotdocs.com/products/hotdocs-user>

This forms preparation package is one of the few that has a native Windows interface and integrates with Microsoft Word to prepare nice looking pleadings and court forms. It is the easiest to use we have seen, has attractive documentation, and is relatively inexpensive. It also integrates with databases if you want to automate the forms production, which we are considering in order to help all of you fight the IRS in court if need be. Eventually, we'd like to hook this product up to the Family Guardian Website and automate the forms production for you for a small fee.

"All the extravagance and incompetence of our present government is due, in the main, to lawyers, and, in part at least, to good ones. They are responsible for nine_tenths of the useless and vicious laws that now clutter the statute_books, and for all the evils that go with the vain attempt to enforce them. Every Federal judge is a lawyer. So are most Congressmen. Every invasion of the plain rights of citizens has a lawyer behind it. If all lawyers were hanged tomorrow, and their bones sold to a mah jong factory, we'd be freer and safer, and our taxes would be reduced by almost half."
[H.L. Menchen, "Breathing Space," The Baltimore Evening Sun (Aug. 4, 1924)]

"Plans are established by counsel; by wise counsel wage war."
[Prov. 20:18, Bible, NKJV]

Attorneys are very expensive. A good tax attorney will cost you between $175 and $300 per hour and most people can't afford to hire one. Ironically, it is the very high price of attorneys and the relative legal ignorance of the average American that explains why most people pay income taxes rather than duke it out with the government to begin with. If you can afford expert counsel from a tax attorney, we strongly recommend retaining one, but only as a "legal coach" and nothing more. You should never hire a lawyer to "represent you", but only to provide "assistance of counsel", which means to advise and help but not represent you. For an excellent website on the subject of "assistance of counsel" and why it is preferred over legal representation, see Ralph Winterowd's site:

<http://jusbelli.com/Frameset.html>

There are several very important reasons why you don't want to hire an attorney to represent you, as we explain in our article entitled "Why you don't want to hire an attorney" available at:

<http://famguardian.org/Subjects/LawAndGovt/Articles/WhyYouDontWantAnAtty/WhyYouDon'tWantAnAttorney.htm>

The reasons documented in that article above include:

1. You cannot challenge jurisdiction.
2. You become a "ward of the court" who is considered legally incompetent.
3. Your assets, your freedom, and your livelihood will be held hostage for large sums of money.

In addition to the above reasons, our article entitled "Petition for Admission to Practice" located at:

clearly establishes that all federal attorneys have a conflict of interest because of the way they are licensed and the fact that licensing ensures that his first duty is to the judge and not to you.

You can use your legal coach to help you with strategy and issues while doing all the paralegal drudgery work yourself, such as service of process, preparing, filing, and serving documents, filling out forms, printing case reports, preparing court orders, and maintaining the case file and case database (if you have one). It's not hard, and you can use the resources that we mention in section 12: Litigation Resources for Tax Freedom Fighters as the launch point for your personal legal education.

Acting as the paralegal on your case can save you a lot of money and allow your attorney to focus on strategy and tactics, which is the real reason you pay him. When you retain him, you can file with the court what is called an "Association of Counsel" in order to define the division of responsibilities between yourself and your lawyer. This will ensure that you work well together as a team and that everyone working on the case knows who does what and doesn't get confused. Organization and coordination is the key to success in the legal field.

We'd like to remind you that there will be a lot of lawyers out there, when you come knocking on their door, who will want to sell you the "kitchen sink" approach to their services and who will push a "full service" approach that shuts you out of contributing to the litigation process. These types of "sharks" will not want to share the litigation turf with you or educate you in any way. Keeping you ignorant is their number one goal, because that is how they can extort the most money out of you! Incidentally, this is exactly the approach used by the IRS, and since they spend most of their time dealing with the IRS, it's only natural they should imitate the tactics of their "adversary"? However, we'd discourage selecting such people as legal counsel because they are ruthless and dishonorable "empire builders". They are too secretive and are more interested in making their own Mercedes payments than living up to the fiduciary duty they have to pursue your best financial interests, including the preservation of your hard-earned assets during the litigation process. Lawyers are just like used car salesmen or auto mechanics: The less you know, the more they will try to advantage of you.

Now we'd like to give you some background on the legal profession to make you careful dealing with lawyers. Federal and State constitutions existed prior to the existence of bar attorneys (the American Bar Association was born in 1878 in Saratoga Springs, N.Y.), yet you cannot get the non-bar "Assistance of Counsel" guaranteed by the 6th amendment. In fact, an attorney cannot represent an ordinary citizen. The practice of law is an occupation of common right (meaning anyone can practice law) according to Sims v. Ahrens, 271 S.W. 720 (1925). And the U.S. Supreme Court in Schwere v. Board of Examiners, 353 U.S. 238, 239 refused to say whether or not states can license the practice of law. Everything is backwards for enfranchised persons. If you enlisted into the government, then you are prohibited from a non-bar attorney guaranteed by the 6th amendment. Again: a licensed attorney cannot represent private people and a non-licensed attorney cannot represent public persons. Which kind are you? How do you suppose you enlisted?

As a person who has a bar-licensed attorney, you are considered legally incompetent and the attorney acts as an "officer of the court" in your behalf. The judge will try to tell you that you must retain competent counsel in order to simplify his scheme to plunder your liberty and assets. Like a child, you are under a legal incapacity and must be represented. There are many advantages to remaining incompetent. Others will manage your affairs. You can receive benefits such as Social Security. And, you can only go to jail when a lawyer wants to punish you. Like a child being given "time out". Here is proof:

The Supreme Court in a 1972 case Argersinger v. Hamlin, 407 U.S. 25 (1972), ruled:

"Absent a knowing and intelligent waiver, no person may be imprisoned for ANY offense, whether classified as petty, misdemeanor, or felony, unless he was represented by counsel at his trial."

That's right! A Roman officer cannot bind (arrest) a Roman citizen. Acts 22:29.

Some states have made the bar association an agency of the state, believe it or not. The canon of ethics prohibits any lawyer who is an agent of the plaintiff from representing the defendant. That's right! A lawyer could lose his license if he were to claim to represent a private citizen in any proceeding brought by the state.

The U.S. Supreme Court in the 1793 case Chisholm v. Georgia, 2 U.S. 419 (1793), confirmed that the law profession was corrupted in ancient times: "The rude and degrading league between the bar and feudal barbarism was not yet formed."

Let him who has wisdom calculate:

Bar = barbarism.

A lawyer cannot claim that you have rights. U.S. v. Johnson, 76 F.Supp. 538 is a 1947 case where a defendant "... indicated he was standing upon the right of a lawyer not to disclose the confidential communications of his clients."

"Likewise, he claims that the judge before whom the matter was heard, assured him that his rights would be protected and lead him to believe that he would be immune from prosecution."

He lost his case and appealed. The appeals court determined:

"The privilege against self-incrimination is neither accorded to the passive resistant, nor the person who is ignorant of his rights, nor to one indifferent therein. It is a fighting clause. Its benefits can be retained only by sustained combat. It cannot be claimed by attorney or solicitor. It is valid only when insisted upon by a belligerent claimant in person."

Now read that again and notice "It cannot be claimed by attorney..." That's right! An attorney cannot go into a courtroom and claim that you have rights.

4.5.5.5 Download, Print, and Read the Court's Local Rules

Each district has its own set of local rules. These rules govern the specific etiquette and requirements for the court you will appear in. You can usually download these right from the website for the district court you will appear in. The web page below has links to all the district courts so you can quickly locate the local rules of each court:

The government wins against freedom fighters in court most of the time because it is very successful in getting them to both argue and litigate the wrong issues so that jury attention isn't focused on the important or more provable issues. This is a famous war tactic: Get your enemy to use up all his ammunition on decoys before the real war starts. Getting freedom fighters to argue the wrong issues is also how the government's opposing counsel can make litigants look incompetent and stupid in front of the court and justify sanctions against them. That's why we always say:

"Never argue what your opponent wants to argue about. Stick to your own issues or you will spend all of your time defending against their frivolous verbal abuse and never get to your issues. If you have to address their issues, do so last as time permits and discuss your issues first."

Therefore, one of the most important things you need to learn before you litigate is what the best and most important and successful issues are to litigate. If you spend all your time arguing unimportant minutia, you will lose the jury and the case and piss off the judge. One attorney we spoke with even had a term he uses to describe the process of arguing the wrong issues: "mental masturbation". Furthermore, only a fool would let an attorney lead the case or leave it up to their attorney to decide what the important issues are, because as was said in section 1.11.3 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book, most attorneys are licensed by the state and don't dare blow up the fraudulent income tax system for fear of losing that license and literally starving to death. The judges are just as biased because they think their pay comes from income taxes and if they turn on the IRS, they could be audited or harassed endlessly by collection actions or have all their pay confiscated in retribution. How is judicial independence possible with that kind of insidious conflict of interest overpowering our laws and constitution?

Remember that all litigation is broken down into two aspects:

1. Facts, which are handled by the jury.
2. Law which is handled by the judge.

The only exception to this general rule is when the judge has bias, in which case Thomas Jefferson said:

"It is left... to the juries, if they think the permanent judges are under any bias whatever in any cause, to take on themselves to judge the law as well as the fact. They never exercise this power but when they suspect partiality in the judges; and by the exercise of this power they have been the firmest bulwarks of English liberty."

[Thomas Jefferson to Abbe Arnoux, 1789. ME 7:423, Papers 15:283]

As much as possible, you should try to break the issues down in your mind, in your arguments in court, and in your pleadings between these two major areas, so that the litigation can be divided into things for the jury and things for the judge to decide. The facts are disclosed in the affidavit section within your pleading. The law is addressed in the Points and Authorities section of your pleading. All successful tax litigation boils down the issues to law and facts in controversy that a judge and a jury respectively can establish and rule on which:

1. Are as simple as possible so the jury can understand them.
2. Reveal with evidence the conflict of interest present in the opposing counsel and the judge. The best time to do this is during voir dire, and you should grill the judge and the attorneys mercilessly to show their bias. See sections 2.8.13.1 and 6.12 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book for more details on this.
3. Are embarrassing for the government to talk about, so that they will default and acquiesce to your position.
4. Show lack of jurisdiction on the part of the government.
5. Point out all important presumptions that violate your due process rights under the Constitution. See: Presumption: Chief Weapon for Unlawfully Enlarging Federal Jurisdiction, Form #05.017 <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
6. Reveal the hypocrisy and arrogance of the government towards most citizens, which gets the jury mad enough to rule against the government.
7. Include evidence that is entertaining for the jury and conclusive of the facts you are trying to establish.

Before you formulate a list of issues to litigate, you must have read at least the first five chapters of this book or you won't have enough background to understand most of the issues. These chapters provide excellent preparation and background that is invaluable. After you have read these chapters, you hopefully will realize that the important issues, arranged in descending order of importance, are:

Table 4-11: Important issues to litigate

#	Issue	Section(s) in Other Books where discussed	Section(s) in Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book where discussed	Reason
1	No territorial jurisdiction of I.R.C.		5.2 through 5.2.11	Internal Revenue Code Subtitles A through C only apply inside the federal zone.
2	No territorial jurisdiction of federal court	6.4 through 6.6.9 of Tax Fraud Prevention Manual , Form #06.008	5.4.15, 5.5.4	Federal courts have jurisdiction to enforce only crimes under Title 18 inside the federal zone.
3	Not a "U.S. citizen"		4.12 through 4.12.9 , 5.6.12	In most cases, your proper status is either "state-only citizen" or "U.S. national" depending on which of the two you chose and based on your expatriation paperwork.
4	No "income"		5.6.6	"Income" is constitutionally defined as corporate profit only .
5	Lack of liability statutes and the IRS has no authority to legally "assess" a liability		5.4.4, 5.5.8, 5.6.1, 5.6.13	There is no statute making anyone liable for the income tax imposed in 26 U.S.C. §1. The IRS' own Internal Revenue Manual section 5.1.11.6.10 clearly lists the types of returns for which a Substitute For Return (SFR) can be prepared and the 1040 isn't listed, and neither does 26 U.S.C. §6020 or the IRS' own training materials authorize such an assessment either. The only amounts a "taxpayer" is liable for are the amounts on a return, and only the "taxpayer" can file the return under 26 U.S.C. §6151 and 26 C.F.R. §1.6151.
6	I'm not a "taxpayer" and neither the IRS nor the federal courts have the power to confer that status upon me		5.6.13	The only people who are "taxpayers" are those who volunteer to be, because there is no statute making anyone liable for payment of Subtitles A income taxes.

#	Issue	Section(s) in Other Books where discussed	Section(s) in Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book where discussed	Reason
7	Involuntary income taxes violate the Thirteenth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, which prohibits involuntary servitude	2.15	3.10.6, 3.10.9, 4.12.5 thru 4.12.5.4, 5.4.1, and 5.4.2	In a free country, slavery and involuntary servitude has to be illegal. I never volunteered or consented to pay the tax so it can't apply to me. Any tax forms that I signed or filed were submitted under duress, in which case they are not admissible as evidence of consent. Income taxes, unless voluntary, amount to slavery.
8	No implementing regulations authorizing enforcement actions against state citizens living in 50 union states		3.8, 3.14.2 through 3.14.4, 5.4.7, 5.4.8 of the Great IRS Hoax , Form #11.302 book	A statute cannot be enforced without: 1. An implementing regulation; 2. An agency with investigative jurisdiction; 3. Publication of the implementing regulation in the Federal Register.
9	Sixteenth Amendment does NOT authorize Subtitle A income taxes and there isn't a Constitutional provision that does authorize taxes on income that is other than "corporate profit"		3.10.11 through 3.10.11.11, 3.16.11, 5.4.2, 5.6.6, Intro to Chapter 6.	According to the Supreme Court, the Sixteenth Amendment never authorized a tax on other than "corporate profit". Only an indirect tax on corporations involved in revenue taxable activities, which are foreign commerce.
10	Illegal collection actions under 26 U.S.C. §7433 and 26 U.S.C. §7214		4.5.4.21	The IRS cannot administratively lien or levy the property of a private person outside of the federal zone without violating their constitutional rights.
11	The Internal Revenue Code is "void for vagueness" and there is no possible way that I can sign a return under penalty of perjury stating that it is true because I not only don't know the law, but it is impossible for me to fully understand the law without making reading and learning all 9500 pages of it into a career.		5.11	Laws that are simple enough for the common man to read and understand are the only thing that are enforceable in court. Any other type of law is void for vagueness and violates the right of due process of law under the Fifth, Sixth, and Seventh Amendments. However, even many tax professionals, attorneys, and most federal judges admit that they don't understand the tax laws.

Notice that we didn't put the 861 argument from section 5.6.11 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book in the above list, because the regulation at 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8 upon which it is based have been so obfuscated by the Treasury Secretary so as to be extremely confusing and the case would therefore focus too much on minutia to be comprehensible for most juries. A better way to attack that regulation is that it is "void for vagueness" or by using Larken Rose's Theft By Deception video. Below are some additional issues that should NOT be litigated for the reasons above and other reasons. We have listed only the most popular bad arguments, but there are many others not listed. Chapter 9 provides an exhaustive listing of all the bad arguments you shouldn't address in your litigation because they don't hit the important points:

- The Sixteenth Amendment was not properly ratified. There has been a lawsuit in each federal circuit over this issues spearheaded by Larry BeCraft and Bill Benson and in each case, the U.S. District Court of Appeals ruled that this was a political question and that the court could not address the issue. See U.S. v. Stahl, 792 F.2d. 1498 (1986) as one example. As we point out repeatedly throughout this book, the federal income tax under Subtitles A through C only applies inside the federal zone and most people don't live in the federal zone. We agree that the Sixteenth Amendment wasn't properly ratified, but it doesn't matter, because the Supreme Court has repeatedly ruled that the Sixteenth Amendment "conferred no new powers of taxation" upon Congress. See Stanton v. Baltic Mining, 240 U.S. 103 (1916), for instance.
- The income tax is a "direct tax" and the Constitution doesn't authorize direct unapportioned taxes under 1:2:3 and 1:9:4. This argument has been lost several times because it doesn't focus on the definition of "income", which the Supreme Court has ruled several times means "corporate profit". Eisner v. Macomber, 252 U.S. 189 (1920) took the focus off of what type of tax the income tax is: direct or indirect and instead focused on which types of "income" are taxable. We agree with you that the income tax under Subtitle A is a "direct tax" and that the Constitution doesn't authorize a direct tax, but the better argument to focus on that has more success in court is the "income" issue because the Supreme Court has ruled on it several times is the definition of "income" shown in item 4 in the above table. See sections 3.10.6, 5.1 thru 5.1.5 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book for further details on this subject.
- The monies I received are not "lawful money" but debt obligations of the U.S. government owed to the Federal Reserve. Debt obligations aren't taxable in the States under 31 U.S.C. §3124 and neither are they taxable for the federal government. See section 5.6.2 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book. This argument, although correct, is not something that has traditionally gone very far and juries don't understand it very well.

Another very important thing to know is what you can use as the basis for your legal rights and remedies. We emphasize that you can only use sources of law that have what the courts call the "force and effect of law". You must be able to discern law from hearsay. Anything that does not have the force of law is hearsay and is usually inadmissible as evidence (fact) in a court of law. We have taken the time to catalog on the Family Guardian Website all the various authorities, statutes, regulations, and IRS documents to explicitly list which sources are admissible as evidence and which confer rights and you should thoroughly review that section and understand it completely: Below is a link to that portion of the Family Guardian Website. It's in the website because it is frequently updated:

- NOTE: When private parties acting for a non-governmental employer or financial institution improperly honor a Notice of Lien or a Notice of Levy, they are acting as "voluntary government agents under color of law" and can be personally held responsible for damages and violation of Constitutional rights.

"Those who already walk submissively will say there is no cause for alarm. But submissiveness is not our heritage. The First Amendment was designed to allow rebellion to remain as our Heritage. The Constitution was designed to keep the government off the backs of the people. The Bill of Rights was added to keep the precincts of belief and expression, of the press, of political and social activities free from surveillance. The Bill of Rights was designed to keep agents of government and official eavesdroppers away from Assemblies of People. The aim was to allow men to be free and independent to assert their rights against government."
[Laird v. Tatum, 408 U.S. 1; 92 S.Ct. 2318 (1972)]

Banks and employers commonly accept IRS Notice of Levy (Form 668-A(c)(DO)) and Notice of Lien not signed by a judge or magistrate and erroneously surrender property without a court order. That makes them thieves, not Robinhoods! When this happens, you should sue them because they robbed you and are co-conspirators in depriving you of your property without due process of law. As always the defendant's (employer or bank) first motion is a motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim. WRONG!!! Taking property without due process of law in violation of the Fourth and Fifth Amendments constitutes a legitimate claim. The claim lies in the injury caused by the unlawful activity of the bank or employer's employees. The loss suffered under the claim is a loss of property with a specific value, and it had to be replaced at a specific cost, and it caused public embarrassment and mental stress. That situation can't be anything but a valid claim.

Now the 'attorney' for the defendants is trying to shield the defendants behind the immunity clause in 26 U.S.C. §6332(e).....WONT WORK!!!!

"A defendant sued as a wrongdoer, who seeks to substitute the State in his place, or to justify by the authority of the State, or defend on the ground that the State has adopted his act and exonerated him, cannot rest on the bare assertion of his defense. He is bound to establish it."

The State is a political corporate body, can act only through agents and can command only by laws. It is necessary, therefore, for such a defendant, in order to complete his defense, to produce a law of the State which constitutes his commission as its agent, and a warrant for his act."
[Poindexter v. Greenhow, 114 U.S. 270 (1885)]

Absent a procedurally valid assessment that can be made ONLY by the "taxpayer" himself on an income tax return and there is no tax due, and there can be no lawful levy absent an assessment. In order for the agent to claim immunity the law would have to be followed to the letter. As above the agent becomes the deputy of the IRS agent and must have a warrant to cover his action. No warrant, you are a thief, period. No immunity for thieves, only Citizens.

Under the Fifth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, you can't be compelled to testify against yourself or incriminate yourself. This means you don't have to answer any questions that you feel might do this, nor are you obligated to explain why you think your answers would incriminate you. Under 26 U.S.C. §7604, a federal court can compel you to appear at a summons or deposition if you live in the federal zone (which most people don't), but they can't compel you to answer questions or incriminate yourself. Therefore, if you are either summonsed, deposed, or examined by the IRS, the following guidelines apply to protect your rights and your privacy and keep you out of trouble:

1. DO NOT admit to the existence of any records to ANYONE! You waive your right not to produce them if the IRS knows about the records and they can compel you to provide them! See Fisher v. United States, 425 U.S. 391 (1976) or U.S. v. Doe, 465 U.S. 605 (1984). If the act of making or keeping the records in the first place was compelled and you make this clear, then you don't have to give them the records because this violates the 5th Amendment.
2. Only present records or evidence to third parties if it will advantage your case and not expose or implicate you criminally in any way.
3. When you must present or provide information, for instance in response to a subpoena or subpoena duces tecum (a deposition where they ask you to provide evidence), ensure that you provide everything you already told people you have (which should be nothing) and as little as possible.
4. If you are deposed or asked to show up at an audit or summons by the IRS or the government, then:
 - 4.1. Be cooperative and friendly, and don't resist going to their meeting.
 - 4.2. Respond to their meeting or deposition or exam request in writing with a proof of service by saying that you will be there but that there will be preliminary questions prior to the start of your questioning that will establish their authority to even summons you or attempt to collect or enforce a tax or penalty. Tell them this is a due process hearing to clearly establish their jurisdiction and authority and tell them to make sure they have someone there who is competent and well versed in the law to refute your conclusions that they have no authority or jurisdiction. Emphasize that they aren't appearing to answer your questions or act as legal counsel, but to refute your detailed and authoritative research clearly showing that they have no authority. Cite as your authority for demanding the preliminary meeting the following:

"It is not the function of our Government to keep the citizen from falling into error; it is the function of the citizen to keep the government from falling into error."
 [American Communications Association v. Douds, 339 U.S. 382, 442 (1950)]

- 4.3. If they grant you a session to answer your questions, then go through the entire Test for Federal Tax Professionals, Form #03.009 we provide in section 3.1.1 before they ask any questions of you, and get it on tape with a court reporter and an eyewitness. This will really get them squirming. It's best if you schedule a separate question session for your questions prior to their scheduled date for you, and tell them you won't go to their meeting unless they go to yours! If they cancel their date then you cancel your date. Tell them if they can cancel, then it must be OK for you to cancel. Call them hypocrites if they won't cooperate. If they won't let you answer questions, then tell them you won't answer their questions and make sure everything about the meeting arrangement is in writing with a proof of service and record your phone conversation about this with them, but make sure you warn them that they are being recorded.

- 4.4. When you appear to answer their questions, claim the Fifth Amendment in response to EVERY question from them. The only time you should answer a question is if it will make the IRS look bad and advantage your position. If they complain, cite the case of U.S. v. Troescher, No. 95-55609 (unpublished), in which the Ninth Circuit court of appeals ruled that there is no tax crime exception to the Fifth Amendment. We have the court's findings and a newspaper article about the case on the Family Guardian Website at:

<http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/CaseStudies/LTroescher/LorenTroescher.htm>

A case that provides very useful background on the difference between Fifth Amendment right of human beings and artificial entities like corporations is the case of Hale v. Henkel, 201 U.S. 43, 74 (1906). This was a tax case against a corporation and the bookkeeper of the corporation refused to turn over the books of the corporation to the tax collector. The resulting opinion of the Supreme Court is a good read and a must for tax litigants..... Wow....Almost like "Gladiators" only different weapons.....

"The individual may stand upon his constitutional rights as a citizen. He is entitled to carry on his private business in his own way. His power to contract is unlimited. He owes no duty to the State or to his neighbor to divulge his business, or to open his doors to an investigation, so far as it may tend to criminate him. He owes no such duty to the State, since he receives nothing therefrom, beyond the protection of his life and property. His rights are such as existed by the law of the land long antecedent to the organization of the State, and can only be taken from him by due process of law, and in accordance with the Constitution. Among his rights are a refusal to incriminate himself, and the immunity of himself and his property from arrest or seizure except under a warrant of the law. He owes nothing to the public so long as he does not trespass upon their rights."
[Hale v. Henkel, 201 U.S. 43, 74 (1906)]

In the struggle to obtain our due process rights through the Administrative Procedure of the IRS, the ultimate goal is to challenge the jurisdiction of the government to assess or collect the tax. Their jurisdiction derives from our citizenship and residency status as we talked about in Chapter 4 plus and any subject matter jurisdiction they might have in our specific case. Their jurisdiction also derives from them calling us a "taxpayer" rather than being forced to prove that we are, as we pointed out in sections 2.8.2, 3.9.1.22, and 5.3.1 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book.

In any judicial proceeding, the moving party has the burden of proof of demonstrating that the court has subject matter jurisdiction over the matters and parties before it. See the following authorities:

- Scott v. Sandford, 60 U.S. 393 (1856)

Jurisdiction over the parties is also called in personam jurisdiction and it originates from any one of the following four sources. The parties must:

1. Live in the territorial jurisdiction of the court.
2. Operate a business in the territorial jurisdiction.
3. Own property inside the jurisdiction.
4. Commit an injury in the territorial jurisdiction.

In addition to the above four elements, the parties to the suit must also have had notice and opportunity (in receipt of personal service and has a copy of the petition, claim, or complaint). In most cases they must be personally served with the pleadings, for instance, by a process server in order to make them parties to the suit.

Proof of jurisdiction must appear on the record of the court. Once the court has knowledge that subject matter is lacking, the court (meaning the judge) has no discretion but to dismiss the action. Failure to dismiss the action means the court is proceeding in clear absence of all jurisdiction and subjects the judge to suit. Personal jurisdiction is not usually an issue in most proceedings, but subject matter jurisdiction is always, always an issue! Subject matter jurisdiction is not everything, It's the only thing!

Subject matter jurisdiction requires:

- A competent witness or notarized affidavit demonstrating an injury.
- A statutory or common law basis for a remedy of the injury.

Another very important factor that most litigants forget is that attorneys CANNOT testify as witnesses in trial! A neutral third party or litigant being represented by an attorney, however, can testify. See the following authorities:

- 1 • United States v. Lovasco, 431 U.S. 783, 97 S.Ct. 2044, 52 L.Ed.2d. 752 (1977): “Manifestly, [such statements]
- 2 cannot be properly considered by us in the disposition of a case.”
- 3 • Gonzales v. Buist, 224 U.S. 126, 56 L.Ed. 693, 32 S.Ct. 463 (1912): “Under no possible view, however, of the
- 4 findings we are considering can they be held to constitute a compliance with the statute, since they merely embody
- 5 conflicting statements of counsel concerning the facts as they suppose them to be and their appreciation of the
- 6 law which they deem applicable, there being, therefore, no attempt whatever to state the ultimate facts by a
- 7 consideration of which we would be able to conclude whether or not the judgment was warranted.
- 8 • Telephone Cases 126 U.S. 1, 31 L.Ed. 863, 8 S.Ct. 778 (1888): “Care has been taken, however, in summoning
- 9 witnesses to testify, to call no man whose character or whose word could be successfully impeached by any
- 10 methods known to the law. And it is remarkable, we submit, that in a case of this magnitude, with every means and
- 11 resource at their command, the complainants, after years of effort and search in near and in the most remote paths,
- 12 and in every collateral by-way, now rest the charges of conspiracy and of gullibility against these witnesses, only
- 13 upon the bare statements of counsel. The lives of all the witnesses are clean, their characters for truth and
- 14 veracity un-assailed, and the evidence of any attempt to influence the memory or the impressions of any man
- 15 called, cannot be successfully pointed out in this record.”

16 As a pro per litigant, you are at an advantage over your attorney opponent because you can testify while your opponent with 17 the government cannot. This is the major defect of the government’s case in most criminal tax trials: lack of witnesses.
 18 Even the W-2 forms the IRS will try to use against you as evidence at trial are simply hearsay because they are not
 19 notarized and qualify as neither evidence nor testimony. The same defect applies to any records that are obtained by banks
 20 which are not notarized or in affidavit form. The government doesn’t want you to know about these defects in their case
 21 against you.

22 Any ruling made by a court in which there was a lack of subject matter jurisdiction is called a “void judgment”. The really
 23 big deal, the real issue in void judgments is SUBJECT MATTER JURISDICTION!!! Remember, subject matter can never 24 be presumed, never be waived, and cannot be construed even by mutual consent of the parties. Subject matter jurisdiction
 25 is two part: the statutory or common law authority for the court to hear the case and the appearance and testimony of a 26 competent fact witness, in other words, sufficiency of pleadings. Subject matter jurisdictional defects include any of the 27 following:

- 28 1. No Petition in the record of the case, Brown v. VanKeuren, 340 Ill. 118, 122 (1930)
- 29 2. Defective Petition filed, Brown v. VanKeuren, 340 Ill. 118, 122 (1930)
- 30 3. Fraud committed in the procurement of jurisdiction, Fredman Brothers Furniture v. Dept. of Revenue, 109 Ill.2d 202,
- 31 486 N.E.2d. 893 (1985).
- 32 4. Fraud upon the court, In re Village of Willowbrook, 37 Ill.App.3d. 393 (1962)
- 33 5. A judge does not follow statutory procedure, Armstrong v. Obucino, 300 Ill. 140, 143 (1921).
- 34 6. Unlawful activity of a judge, Code of Judicial Conduct.
- 35 7. Violation of due process, Johnson v. Zerst, 304 U.S. 458, 58 S.Ct. 1019 (1938); Pure Oil Co. v. City of Northlake, 10
- 36 Ill.2d. 241, 245, 140 N.E.2d. 289 (1956); Hallberg v. Goldblatt Bros., 363 Ill.2d. 25 (1936);
- 37 8. If the court exceeded its statutory authority, Rosenstiel v. Rosenstiel, 278 F.Supp. 794 (S.D.N.Y. 1967).
- 38 9. Any acts in violation of 11 U.S.C. §362\(a\), In re Garcia, 109 B.R. 335 (N.D. Illinois, 1989).
- 39 10. Where no justiciable issue is presented to the court through proper pleadings, Ligon v. Williams, 264 Ill.App.3d. 701,
- 40 637 N.E.2d. 633 (1st Dist. 1994).
- 41 11. Where a complaint states no cognizable cause of action against that party, Charles v. Gore, 248 Ill.App.3d. 441, 618
- 42 N.E.2d. 554 (1st Dist. 1993).
- 43 12. Where any litigant was represented before a court by a person/law firm that is prohibited by law to practice in that
- 44 jurisdiction.
- 45 13. When the judge is involved in a scheme of bribery (the Alemann cases, Bracey v. Warden, U.S. Supreme Court No.
- 46 96-6133; June 9, 1997)
- 47 14. Where a summons was not properly issued.
- 48 15. Where service of process was not made pursuant to statute and Supreme Court Rules, Janove v. Bacon, 6 Ill.2d. 245,
- 49 249, 218 N.E.2d. 706, 708 (1955).
- 50 16. When the Rules of Circuit Court are not complied with.

51 In addition, any ruling that involves violation of due process of law under the Fifth, Sixth, or Seventh Amendments is also a 52 void judgment. Void judgment can be attacked or vacated at any time and there is no statute of limitation. See Long v.
 53 Shorebank Development Corp., 182 F.3d. 548 (C.A. 7 Ill. 1999). A void judgment is one which, from its inception, was a complete nullity and without legal effect, Lubben v. Selective Service System Local Bd. No. 27, 453 F.2d. 645, 14 A.L.R.Fed. 298 (C.A. 1 Mass. 1972).

To successfully challenge the government's jurisdiction, we must therefore:

1. Challenge jurisdiction properly and consistent with Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12.
2. Demand that proof of the court's subject matter jurisdiction appear on the record. Subject matter jurisdiction can only exist when: 1. There is a competent witness present who has suffered an injury; 2. There is a statutory or common-law basis for the claim that is being presented; 3. The court has in personam jurisdiction over both parties.
3. Demand that the government produce an injured party or witness or an affidavit of such a witness. This is impossible in most tax trials because tax crimes are "victimless crimes". Courts cannot have subject matter jurisdiction if the alleged crime has no flesh and blood victims.
4. If the court is a federal court, then it must be an Article III court and proof of this must exist on the court record.
5. Show that the IRS had no jurisdiction to institute an administrative lien or levy, and had to reduce the lien or levy to a court judgment in order to perfect it and make it into executable. See: <http://famguardian.org/PublishedAuthors/Indiv/MeadorDan/Articles/RelationBackDoctrine-020701.htm>
6. Demand that the government provide proof that we are "taxpayers" and liable for the income tax by showing us the statute that specifically makes us personally liable.
7. State in our Affidavit of Material Facts and under penalty of perjury that we are "nationals but not citizens" under 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21) or 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(22)(B) and that we are NOT "U.S. citizens" under 8 U.S.C. §1401 subject to the jurisdiction of the court. We can also show that we are NOT "U.S. citizens" using evidence developed earlier in section 4.5.3.13 during the citizenship amendment process.
8. Show that the government has no jurisdiction to levy income taxes on private natural born state citizens not residing on federal territory. This means when we appear in court, we should do so by making a "special appearance" rather than a "general appearance".
9. Show that there is NO LAW making private citizens not living on federal property to file income tax returns or pay income tax. We should repeatedly ask in court and especially in front of the jury: "Years of my own diligent research have proven to me beyond a doubt that there is NO LAW that makes me liable to pay income taxes or file returns and you haven't shown me any law that contradicts this conclusion. Can you please show me such a law?"
10. Show that The IRS assessment is a "naked assessment" with no supporting or corroborating evidence that is unrefuted. This means that we have to find some way to prove that the IRS has made their assessment of taxes due without any legally admissible information or prima facie evidence. See also: <http://famguardian.org/PublishedAuthors/Indiv/MeadorDan/Articles/ReqForAssessmtCert-020801.htm>
11. Show that any evidence the IRS has of taxable income was in error and has been refuted with corrected W-2's and 1099's showing zero income.
12. Challenge all presumptions that the jury and the courts might have and make it clear to the jury that such presumptions are a violation of due process of law under the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments. Each fact or presumption asserted by either party must be proved by evidence from a competent witness, and attorneys cannot be witnesses. See sections 2.8.2 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book and 2.19 earlier for information about common presumptions.

If you would like a good example of how to do all the above, refer to our Answer to Petition for Permanent Injunction at:

The Federal courts have long held that when an American as shown that the IRS made an assessment without any supporting evidence, the burden of proof is shifted to the IRS. Below is the origin of why the courts must do this:

SUBCHAPTER II - ADMINISTRATIVE PROCEDURE

Sec. 556. Hearings; presiding employees; powers and duties; burden of proof; evidence; record as basis of decision

(d) Except as otherwise provided by statute, the proponent of a rule or order has the burden of proof. Any oral or documentary evidence may be received, but the agency as a matter of policy shall provide for the exclusion of irrelevant, immaterial, or unduly repetitious evidence. A sanction may not be imposed or rule or order issued except on consideration of the whole record or those parts thereof cited by a party and supported by and in accordance with the reliable, probative, and substantial evidence. The agency may, to the extent consistent with the interests of justice and the policy of the underlying statutes administered by the agency, consider a violation of section 557(d) of this title sufficient grounds for a decision adverse to a party who has knowingly committed such violation or knowingly caused such violation to occur. A party is entitled to present his case or defense by oral or documentary evidence, to submit rebuttal evidence, and to conduct such cross-examination as may be required for a full and true disclosure of the facts. In rule making or determining claims for money or benefits or applications for initial licenses an agency may, when a party will not be prejudiced thereby, adopt procedures for the submission of all or part of the evidence in written form.

However, the IRS can escape their burden of proof by abusing the Law of Presumption and making an unchallenged assertion that is ridiculous or unfounded or downright wrong. For instance, they can erroneously call us a “taxpayer: and as long as we don’t challenge their ridiculous assertion, then the presumption is that they are correct! Here are two cases that talk about the burden of proof, and note how we underlined the word “taxpayer” so you can see how it was used to create a false presumption:

“Once the Government has carried its initial burden of introducing some evidence linking the taxpayer with income producing activity, the burden shifts to the taxpayer to rebut the presumption by establishing by a preponderance of the evidence that the deficiency determination is arbitrary or erroneous. (Cites omitted).”
[Rapp v. Commissioner, 774 F.2d. 932, 935 (9th Cir. 1985)]

“...[t]he discussion of the burden of proof in Foster applies only to the procedural effects of the presumption that an assessment is accurate. Once a taxpayer has introduced evidence sufficient to support a finding that the assessment is wrong, Foster prevents the Government from simply resting on the presumption and requires it to come forward with some evidence to support a conclusion that the assessment is correct in spite of the taxpayer's evidence. But the taxpayer continues to bear the risk of nonpersuasion. Foster does not relieve the taxpayer of the burden of proving the government's assessment wrong by a preponderance of evidence.”
[Higginbotham v. United States, 556 F.2d. 1173, 1176 (4th Cir. 1977)]

The very important thing to remember is that the above two rulings use the word “taxpayer”, which as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(14\) as a person “subject to” the tax in question, which is another way of saying they are “liable” Since most people are “U.S. nationals” and “non-resident non-persons” per the I.R.C., they are “nontaxpayers” and are not affected by the above ruling. Unless and until a law has been produced that specifically makes you liable for a specific tax, then you are presumed to be a “nontaxpayer”.

“In the interpretation of statutes levying taxes it is the established rule not to...enlarge their operations so as to embrace matters not specifically pointed out. In case of doubt they are construed most strongly against the government, and in favor of the citizen.”
[Gould v. Gould, 245 U.S. 151 (1917)]

It would therefore be erroneous and damaging for us to cite as authority any court ruling or statute mentioning the word “taxpayer” because then we have made ourselves “liable”. It would be just as damaging to our interests to allow the government to use the word “taxpayer” without being corrected for each such abuse of the word, because it creates a false presumption and shifts the burden of proof onto us. A good analogy is that if they call us a whore, and we don’t refute it, then from that point on, the burden of proof falls on us to prove that we aren’t a whore. Do you see the point? For instance, we wouldn’t want to cite the statute below, because it doesn’t apply to “nontaxpayers”:

26 U.S.C. Sec. 7491. Burden of proof

(a) Burden shifts where taxpayer produces credible evidence

(1) General rule

If, in any court proceeding, a taxpayer [What about “nontaxpayers”? Where are they covered?] introduces credible evidence with respect to any factual issue relevant to ascertaining the liability of the taxpayer for any tax imposed by subtitle A or B, the Secretary shall have the burden of proof with respect to such issue.

(2) Limitations

Paragraph (1) shall apply with respect to an issue only if -

(A) the taxpayer has complied with the requirements under this title to substantiate any item;

(B) the taxpayer has maintained all records required under this title and has cooperated with reasonable requests by the Secretary for witnesses, information, documents, meetings, and interviews; and

(C) in the case of a partnership, corporation, or trust, the taxpayer is described in section 7430(c)(4)(A)(ii). Subparagraph (C) shall not apply to any qualified revocable trust (as defined in section 645(b)(1)) with respect to liability for tax for any taxable year ending after the date of the decedent's death and before the applicable date (as defined in section 645(b)(2)).

(3) Coordination

Paragraph (1) shall not apply to any issue if any other provision of this title provides for a specific burden of proof with respect to such issue.

(b) Use of statistical information on unrelated taxpayers

In the case of an individual taxpayer, the Secretary shall have the burden of proof in any court proceeding with respect to any item of income which was reconstructed by the Secretary solely through the use of statistical information on unrelated taxpayers.

(c) Penalties

Notwithstanding any other provision of this title, the Secretary shall have the burden of production in any court proceeding with respect to the liability of any individual for any penalty, addition to tax, or additional amount imposed by this title.

Do you know why the government even needs the above statute to begin with? Because without it, the fundamental maxim of our legal system would apply, which is that a person is “innocent until proven guilty”, which would create an impossible burden of proof for the government to meet without the active participation of the accused individual by fooling him into thinking he doesn’t have any rights and is “liable” for the tax as a “taxpayer”. Basically, by calling you a “taxpayer”, the government makes you “guilty until you prove yourself innocent with evidence”, which they then use against you in the future in violation of the Fifth Amendment. This whole statute was written to shift the burden of proof to innocent and ignorant people who don’t understand that they are not “taxpayers”, because no one in the government nor any of the IRS publications ever told them what a “nontaxpayer” was or that they fall in this category. It’s basically a ruse: a trick to steal your money and it’s so slick that only the most seasoned lawyer will even realize what happened!

VERY IMPORTANT: At the same time, the burden of proof rests squarely on us to demonstrate that we are NOT U.S.  citizens subject to the jurisdiction of the federal court nor “taxpayers”. This is done by following the steps found in section 4.5.3.13 to develop evidence supporting this conclusion.

So, now it is a matter of getting the IRS to allow us to have our due process right to confront and cross-examine the adverse witnesses against us (typically the employers who made prima facie claims on W-2's and/or 1099's), as well as have the meeting to make our defense, and thus make a complete administrative record of our efforts to carry and shift the burden of proof.

Since the Treasury Department is well aware of our arguments regarding the claims of employers and payers, and the personnel at the IRS have never heard of the procedure that I have discovered in the law as revealed in section 5.4.14 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book (“Constitutional Due Process Rights in the Context of Income Taxes”), it is not too difficult to understand why the IRS does not want to provide the Examination Interview, the prima facie evidence (which they do not have), or summons their witnesses.

If the IRS persists in their denial of due process in contempt of the laws enacted by the Congress and our rights, pursuant to Articles 1&5 of the Bill of Rights, shouldn't this warrant Congressional inquiry and action?

We want to share another area that people need to re-focus in a more productive direction. The military flag in the courts issue. Many “patriots” have discovered that the flag in the court room is a gold-fringed maritime or admiralty flag. Extensive research has been done on the subject. The research indicates that there can be no doubt that the court displays a maritime flag. Wrong Focus! It is obvious the court is a court of maritime jurisdiction enforcing maritime contracts. Many patriots have gone to jail challenging the jurisdiction of the maritime flag. The courts have combined all four areas law, equity, admiralty and maritime into one “civil” system operating mainly under maritime/admiralty law.

Change focus from challenging the military flag toward challenging the "presumed" contract that give admiralty/maritime venue and subject matter jurisdiction. We must rebut the presumption of the contract and shift the burden of proof. Defendant could shift this burden of proof by admitting a simple affidavit into evidence of the case stating that the defendant denies that he signed any contract or other obligation that binds him to the maritime or admiralty jurisdiction. Also stating defendant did not convey any interest, right or title of himself or his private property to the State, etc.. If these facts are properly admitted into evidence, the burden of proof is shifted to the prosecutor to prove the existence of the contract or other obligation by admitting the original "contract" into evidence, and this must be done by the real party in interest, whoever it is, not a "no interest" third party like the IRS. (Key: IRS is NOT the "real party in interest" and IRS has no firsthand knowledge to base testimony on.) Now you want to demand the "real party in interest" be put on the witness stand to testify with firsthand knowledge.

If the government is unable or unwilling to admit the contract or other obligation into evidence, and produce the "real party" as a witness to testify on firsthand knowledge, then its case falls apart absent proof of jurisdiction. If the prosecutor refuses to withdraw the claim and the judge refuses to dismiss the case, they will be proceeding without subject matter jurisdiction. With no subject matter jurisdiction, the judge and other officers of the court have no official or judicial immunity and can be held personally and criminally liable for wrongdoing. The courts have held:

"When a judge knows that he lacks jurisdiction, or acts in the face of clearly valid statutes expressly depriving him of jurisdiction, judicial immunity is lost."
[Rankin v. Howard, 633 F.2d. 844 (1980), cert. den.; Zeller v. Rankin, 101 S.Ct. 2020, 451 U.S. 939, 68 L.Ed 2d 326]

"A judge must be acting within his jurisdiction as to subject matter and person, to be entitled to immunity from civil action for his acts."
[Davis v. Burris, 51 Ariz. 220, 75 P.2d. 689 (1938)]

"When a judicial officer acts entirely without jurisdiction or without compliance with jurisdiction requisites he may be held civilly liable for abuse of process even though his act involved a decision made in good faith, that he had jurisdiction."
[Little v. U.S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 217 Miss. 576, 64 So. 2d 697]

"No judicial process, whatever form it may assume, can have any lawful authority outside of the limits of the jurisdiction of the court or judge by whom it is issued; and an attempt to enforce it beyond these boundaries is nothing less than lawless violence."
[Ableman v. Booth, 21 Howard 506 (1859)]

"We (judges) have no more right to decline the exercise of jurisdiction which is given, than to usurp that which is not given. The one or the other would be treason to the Constitution."
[Cohens v. Virginia, 6 Wheat. 264 (1821), and U.S. v. Will, 449 U.S. 200 (1980)]

Maybe if the court refuses to back off the defendant should demand that the judge take mandatory judicial notice of the above cases and similar cases. If the court still does not back off and worse comes to worse, the defendant should raise the issue of subject matter jurisdiction after trial and before sentencing at allocution. Allocution must be demanded before sentencing or the right is presumed waived. If the rats still don't back off the defendant can make a direct appeal to the appellate court and on to the Supreme Court of the United States; he can file petitions for the writ of habeas corpus; he can sue the perpetrators, i.e., the cop for champerty, the lawyer for barratry and bringing a case with unclean hands, the judge for lack of jurisdiction, and all of them for conspiracy to fraudulently conceal the true nature and cause of the accusation, and maybe even for RICO. It is never too late to challenge subject matter jurisdiction. It ain't over until the defendant gives up.

WARNING!: If you go into federal court claiming to be a non-resident non-person who wants his constitutional rights respected in regards to federal income taxes, be careful! We'd like to remind you that litigation in the federal courts relating to federal income taxes, under 28 U.S.C. §2201, cannot address constitutional rights as a remedy to escape liability if you are claiming lack of federal citizenship or Natural Born Citizenship status. You can only succeed in court against federal income taxes on the basis of Constitutional rights if you can force the litigation into a common law court or state court! Please read How to Sue for Illegal Government Enforcement, Litigation Tool #10.015 for help in doing this.

An indictment is a written accusation by the government that a person has committed a crime. The United States Department of Justice (DOJ) is the organization in the federal government responsible for making indictments and prosecuting U.S. citizens for federal crimes. They do this as a way to keep the rest of the sheep scared so they will continue volunteering for an income tax they don't owe.

Most of the Internal Revenue Code is quite harmless, but there are three criminal statutes in particular that can and often do land people in jail and result in liability for fines. Here are the three criminal statutes:

1. Tax Evasion, 26 U.S.C. §7201
2. Willful Failure to File, 26 U.S.C. §7203
3. Making a false or fraudulent statement, 26 U.S.C. §7206

In the vast majority of cases, persons who have been found guilty under these statutes were "nationals" who mistakenly thought they were "U.S. citizens" and who were ignorant about the law and especially federal jurisdiction. In the event that they had legal counsel, their legal counsel must have been equally uninformed about federal jurisdiction. Recall from Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.301, Chapter 5 that most people are "Nationals", are not "U.S. citizens", and are "non-resident non-persons" with respect to the foreign jurisdiction of the Internal Revenue Code. Most Americans also happen to reside outside of the territorial jurisdiction of the "United States*" government and outside of the federal zone and therefore cannot be the proper subject of foreign jurisdiction of the Internal Revenue Code. We would speculate that most of the lawyers who work for the Department of Justice know this but would never admit it, because it would make their authority and their job largely irrelevant to most Americans. Because of this, the IRS and the DOJ both have a vested interest in making sure that the very limited jurisdiction of the U.S. government is not revealed to the general populace, and to choose their legal court battles very carefully to single out those persons (sheeple) who are unfamiliar with their jurisdiction and assume that they have jurisdiction. They will only pick fights they know they can win, and in most cases, the ignorance of their opponent is their most effective weapon for obtaining jurisdiction over "Nationals" outside of the federal zone. We can thank our deficient public education system and docile populace for the fact that there are plenty of ignorant people they can pick on and make an example out of, many of whom are famous celebrities who get a lot of press coverage.

In order to challenge criminal tax indictments, we must be very familiar with the U.S. Constitution and the structure of the federal courts system. As we have said repeatedly throughout this book, the federal government has no jurisdiction outside the territorial boundaries of the federal zone and Subtitle A income taxes only apply to “U.S. citizens” born inside the federal zone no matter where they reside. To be successful, we must recognize that there are two types of federal courts:

1. Article 1 Legislative/Administrative Courts. These courts are created by Congress through legislation under the authority of Article 1, Section 8, Clause 17 of the U.S. constitution to administer the laws that govern the federal zone only. The only way they can or should be used for issues outside the federal zone is by stipulation of BOTH parties to the controversy, which many people misguidedly do by implication and without knowing it whenever they file a suit in such a court. By default, if the statute creating the court does not specifically mention that the court is an Article III court, then the court is assumed to be an Article I court. These courts may address matters of “public right” and handle matters between the federal government and other parties. They deal mainly with matters susceptible to “judicial determination” but not requiring it, which means they deal primarily with administrative law. Below is a description of the Article 1 courts as defined by the Supreme Court in the case of American Ins. Co. v. 356 Bales of Cotton, 26 U.S. 511 \(1828\):

"These courts, then, are not constitutional courts, in which the judicial power conferred by the Constitution on the general government, can be deposited. They are incapable of receiving it. They are legislative courts, created in virtue of the general right of sovereignty which exists in the government, or in virtue of that clause which enables Congress to make all needful rules and regulations, respecting the territory belonging to the United States. The jurisdiction with which they are invested, is not a part of that judicial power which is defined in the 3rd article of the Constitution, but is conferred by Congress, in the execution of those general powers which that body possesses over the territories of the United States."
[\[American Ins. Co. v. 356 Bales of Cotton, 26 U.S. 511 \(1828\)\]](#)

The Court went on to hold that admiralty jurisdiction can be exercised in the States only in those courts which are established in pursuance of Article III but that the same limitation does not apply to the territorial courts, for in legislating for them "Congress exercises the combined powers of the general, and of a state government." Among the matters susceptible of judicial determination, but not requiring it, that may be decided by Article 1 courts are claims against the United States¹⁷⁰, the disposal of public lands and claims arising therefrom¹⁷¹, questions concerning membership in the Indian tribes¹⁷², and questions arising out of the administration of the customs and internal revenue laws¹⁷³. Other courts similar to territorial courts, such as consular courts and military courts martial, may be justified on like grounds¹⁷⁴. Article 1 Courts include the following:

- 1.1. U.S. Tax Court, formerly an independent agency in the Treasury Department, but by the Tax Reform Act of 1969, Sec. 951, 83 Stat. 730, 26 U.S.C. §7441, made an Article I court of record
- 1.2. Court of Veterans Appeals, Act of Nov. 18, 1988, 102 Stat. 4105, 38 U.S.C. §7151
- 1.3. U. S. Court of Military Appeals, strictly speaking, is not part of the judiciary but is a military tribunal, 10 U.S.C. §867, although Congress designated it an Article I tribunal and has recently given the Supreme Court certiorari jurisdiction over its decisions.

2. Article III Constitutional Courts. These courts are created under the authority usually of the Constitution and are the only courts that can hold admiralty jurisdiction that can be exercised inside the States. They are also the only courts that may deal with matters requiring judicial determination, and which involve “private rights” or constitutional rights.

- 2.1. Federal District Courts. Magistrate judges are adjuncts of the District Courts, see infra, n. 105, and perform a large number of functions, usually requiring the consent of the litigants. See Gomez v. United States, 490 U.S. 858 (1989); Peretz v. United States, 501 U.S. 923 (1991). They can also deal with matters requiring judicial determination (except income taxes, as per 28 U.S.C. §2201) and involving private rights of Americans inside the 50 union states and outside of federal territorial jurisdiction.

2.2. Federal Circuit Courts. These courts handle appeals from the Federal District Courts.

2.3. U.S. Supreme Court, created by Article III of the Constitution.

2.4. Court of International Trade, which was declared an Article III court in 1956 (see <http://caselaw.lp.findlaw.com/data/constitution/article03/01.html#5>, see Courts of Specialized Jurisdiction)

If you would like more background information on the above subject, we refer you to the following URL from the Findlaw website.

<http://caselaw.lp.findlaw.com/data/constitution/article03/01.html> - 5

Very noteworthy of the above treatise about the courts on the Findlaw website is the notable absence of any mention of which type of court the federal District and Circuit courts are. This should raise a red flag for you and serve as a reminder that these courts may be Article 1 courts, which many people believe they are. You could be sure that the website would mention these as Article III courts if in fact they were, because people in the legal profession will always try to make their profession seem as important and influential as they can. The absence of a mention of the District and Circuit courts above is one more example of how the legal profession would appear to be colluding to expand the jurisdiction of these courts by hiding information about their authority, which does not extend beyond the federal zone nor may it involve the “private rights” of Americans who are “Nationals” and not “U.S. citizens”. To put it bluntly, the federal District and Circuit courts are irrelevant to the average American, who in most cases is a “national” living outside of the federal zone! The emperor clearly has no clothes but simply doesn’t like being reminded of that fact!

Another important consideration in federal courts is the juries. Jurors who serve on federal trials must be “U.S. citizens” or they can’t serve on jury duty!. In all criminal trials, the Seventh Amendment to the U.S. Constitution guarantees a trial by jury. See the following URL for further information on this subject:

<http://caselaw.lp.findlaw.com/data/constitution/amendment07/index.html>

The jury must be comprised of a jury of one’s peers. Private Americans, also called “Natural Born Sovereign Citizens”, who are typically “Nationals” and not “U.S. citizens” and who typically do not live inside the federal zone of the U.S. must therefore be tried by a jury of people who are similarly situated. However, such a jury simply cannot exist in a federal courtroom, because all the jurors must be “U.S. citizens” to serve on the jury! Therefore, there can be no such thing as a fair trial in a federal courtroom for a U.S. national who lives outside the federal zone and that basis (improper jury selection) alone is usually sufficient to get any indictment thrown out for cause!

In state courts, the situation is exactly the same. Most states require you to be a “U.S. citizen” to serve on a jury in a state court. This has the result of excluding “Nationals” from serving on jury duty, which in turn ensures that only socialists and federalists serve on jury duty, and these people are definitely not your peers if you insist on being a national! The tactics above for having criminal indictments dismissed in federal courts therefore are also just as effective in state courts.

"Let nothing be done through selfish ambition or conceit, but in lowliness of mind let each esteem others better than himself. Let each of you look out not only for his own interests, but also for the interests of others."
[Philippians 12:3-4, Bible, NKJV]

"But the wisdom that is from above is first pure, peaceable, gentle, willing to yield, full of mercy and good fruits, without partiality or hypocrisy."
[James 3:17, Bible, NKJV]

"Do not go hastily to court; for what will you do in the end, when your neighbor has put you to shame? Debate your case with your neighbor, and do not disclose the secret to another; lest he who hears it expose your shame, and your reputation be ruined."
[Prov. 25:8-10, Bible, NKJV]

Before proceeding with this section, make sure you read section 4.5.4.12, which talks about how to request a refund from the IRS, and which also addresses many of the litigation issues.

It is very common for the IRS to delay, frustrate, exasperate, and obfuscate providing refunds properly and legally requested using the procedures on this website. That is why you need to act swiftly and decisively. Suing for interest on the money they are illegally holding onto is a way to increase your leverage. If the IRS falsely claims that it can charge massive penalties and interest, then what is good for the goose is also ought to be good for the gander! Treat them the same way to get them just as motivated as they want you to be to settle!

WARNING: Before you proceed to sue, you should be aware that your refund suit can raise no more issues than those contained in your original refund claim you sent to the IRS. That's why we recommend sending a copy of chapters 1 through 6 of this book with your Request for Refund claim so you can use ANY of the arguments in this book in your lawsuit!

Before we proceed to talk about how to sue, the following is something you should be aware of, from the U.S. Constitution Annotated at <http://caselaw.lp.findlaw.com/data/constitution/amendment05/13.html#6>:

Right to Sue the Government .--A right to sue the Government on a contract is a privilege, not a property right protected by the Constitution.¹⁷⁵ The right to sue for recovery of taxes paid may be conditioned upon an appeal to the Commissioner and his refusal to refund.¹⁷⁶ There was no denial of due process when Congress took away the right to sue for recovery of taxes, where the claim for recovery was without substantial equity, having arisen from the mistake of administrative officials in allowing the statute of limitations to run before collecting a tax.¹⁷⁷ The denial to taxpayers of the right to sue for refund of processing and floor stock taxes collected under a law subsequently held unconstitutional, and the substitution of a new administrative procedure for the recovery of such sums, was held valid.¹⁷⁸ Congress may cut off the right to recover taxes illegally collected by ratifying the imposition and collection thereof, where it could lawfully have authorized such exactions prior to their collection.¹⁷⁹

Also keep in mind the following critical information about suing for refunds from Bouvier's Law Dictionary, Vol. II, Third Revision, Eighth Edition, 1914, pp. 3230-3238:

"Income tax: In order to invoke the powers of a court of equity to restrain the collection of illegal taxes, the case must be brought within the well recognized foundations of equitable jurisdiction [* ] and it must clearly appear not only that the tax is illegal, but that the property owner has no adequate remedy at law, and that there are special circumstances bringing the case under some recognized head of equity jurisdiction..." [Cites omitted.]

"Taxes become a lien on property only by statute..."

"Taxes illegally assessed and paid may always be recovered back, if the collector understands from the payor that the taxes are regarded as illegal and that suit will be instituted to compel the refunding of them; Erskine v. Van Arsdale, 15 Wall. (U.S.) 75, 21 L.Ed. 63, a case of internal revenue taxes."

"Where a state official receives money for a tax paid under duress with notice of its illegality, he has no right to it and the name of the state does not protect him from suit; Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co. v. O'Connor, 223 U.S. 280, 32 Sup.Ct. 216, 56 L.Ed. 436, Ann.Cas. 1913C, 1050."

"The rule is firmly established that taxes voluntarily paid cannot be recovered back, and payments with knowledge and without compulsion are voluntary; when paid under protest or with notice of suit, a recovery may, on occasion, be had, although, generally speaking, even protest or notice will not avail if the payment be made voluntarily, with full knowledge, and without any coercion by the actual or threatened exercise of power possessed, or supposed to be possessed, over person or property, from which there is no means of immediate relief than payment; Chesebrough v. United States, 192 U.S. 253, 24 Sup.Ct. 262, 48 L.Ed. 432 (purchase of war revenue stamps for deed without protest or notice)."
[Bouvier's Law Dictionary, Vol. II, Third Revision, Eighth Edition, 1914, pp. 3230-3238]

In suing the government you need to choose your forum (that is court) carefully based on what you can afford and based on where you are most likely to achieve success given your circumstances. There are three places you can initiate a suit for the refund: Tax Court, District Court, or the Court of Claims. We have prepared a table summarizing the characteristics of each court below:

The only one of the three choices of forum (that is, which "court") in the table above that includes a jury trial is U.S. District Court, which is what we therefore recommend. Tax court has the advantage of being convenient and not requiring you to pay the taxes before litigating, but the disadvantages far outweigh the advantages, because:

1. You don't have to pay the tax up front, but the flip side of this is that the Tax Court can ADD to your assessment and increase the amount you owe, whereas the District Courts cannot. It's therefore riskier.
2. You forever surrender your right to trial by jury, both during the trial and during the appeal. The entire trial is decided by a judge, who is most likely NOT going to rule against the government or in your favor under any circumstances, even if everything you have said is correct. Tax court is a kangaroo court.
3. Because Tax Court is an Art. I court under the Constitution and is a Creation of Congress, then it only has territorial jurisdiction under Art. I, Section 8, Clause 17 of the Constitution, which means it can only make rulings that apply within the federal zone. Chances are good that you don't live in the federal zone, so technically, they have no jurisdiction unless you are stupid enough to give it to them by using this court. It's assumed that if you file suit in Tax Court, that you are volunteering to grant them jurisdiction that they otherwise wouldn't have. Don't give them jurisdiction they don't otherwise have, and put your future at the mercy of an ignorant person masquerading as a judge who isn't even necessarily a lawyer (with no jury) who is paid with money he extorts from you!

Suing in the Court of Claims:

Do not sue in the Court of Claims if you are suing individual agents for a tort. Here is why:

The sole question on appeal is whether the Court of Federal Claims is correct in concluding that it does not have subject matter jurisdiction over the Brown and Darnell complaints. The trial court's decision to dismiss a complaint for lack of jurisdiction is a question of law subject to complete and independent review by this Court. Shearin v. United States, 992 F.2d. 1195 (Fed. Cir. 1993).

Appellants assert that, because their income taxes and penalties were wrongfully assessed and collected, they are deserving of damages for Fourth Amendment violations and exemplary damages. Appellants adamantly argue that they are suing for damages and not for the recovery or refund of any income tax or penalty. Because their claims are not for tax or penalty refunds, their claims do not fall within the jurisdiction of the Court of Federal Claims pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 1346(a)(1) and 1491, the statutes that give the Court of Federal Claims jurisdiction over claims for tax refunds. Therefore, we address appellants' claims only as fraudulent assessments and fraudulent taking complaints.

The Court of Federal Claims is a court of limited jurisdiction. It lacks jurisdiction over tort actions against the United States. 28 U.S.C. § 1491(a); Keene Corp. v. United States, 508 U.S. 200, 214 (1993). Because Brown and Darnell's complaints for "fraudulent assessment[s]" are grounded upon fraud, which is a tort, the court lacks jurisdiction over those claims. L'Enfant Plaza Properties, Inc. v. United States, 645 F.2d. 886, 892 (Ct. Cl. 1981). In addition, the gravamen of their "Fourth Amendment fraudulent taking" complaints is not in the taking, but in the fraudulent nature of the alleged taking. Since the "Fourth Amendment fraudulent taking" complaints, like the "fraudulent assessment[s]" claims, sound in tort, the Court of Federal Claims also lacks jurisdiction over those claims. Id.

Appellants argue that their "Fourth Amendment fraudulent taking" complaints are not grounded in tort, but are founded in the Constitution. Assuming, arguendo, that the appellants' argument has merit, the Court of Federal Claims would still lack jurisdiction over such complaints. Courts have consistently held that the jurisdiction of the Court of Federal Claims is limited to cases in which the Constitution or a federal statute requires the payment of money damages as compensation for their violation. E.g., United States v. Mitchell, 463 U.S. 206, 218 (1983); Murray v. United States, 817 F.2d. 1580, 1582-83 (Fed. Cir. 1987). In the consolidated cases at hand, appellants complain of Fourth Amendment violations. The Fourth Amendment provides for the security of people "in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures." U.S. Const. amend. IV. However, the Fourth Amendment does not mandate the payment of money for its violation. Id. Because monetary damages are not available for a Fourth Amendment violation, the Court of Federal Claims does not have jurisdiction over a such a violation. See United States v. Mitchell, 463 U.S. at 218; Murray v. United States, 817 F.2d. at 1582-83. Thus, even assuming Brown and Darnell's "Fourth Amendment fraudulent taking" complaints are founded in the Constitution, the claims are outside the jurisdiction of the Court of Federal Claims.

The exemplary damages demanded by appellants via Bivens actions are also outside of the jurisdiction of the Court of Federal Claims. In Bivens, the Supreme Court held that a party may, under certain circumstances, bring an action for violations of constitutional rights against Government officials in their individual capacities. Bivens v. Six Unknown Named Agents of the Federal Bureau of Narcotics, 403 U.S. 388 (1971). The Tucker Act grants the Court of Federal Claims jurisdiction over suits against the United States, not against individual federal officials. 28 U.S.C. §1491(a). Thus, the Bivens actions asserted by appellants lie outside the jurisdiction of the Court of Federal Claims.

The remainder of appellants' demands, which are for declaratory or injunctive relief, are also outside the jurisdiction of the Court of Federal Claims. The Tucker Act does not provide independent jurisdiction over such claims for equitable relief. United States v. King, 395 U.S. 1, 2-3 (1969).

Because the Court of Federal Claims does not have jurisdiction over the claims asserted by Brown and Darnell, the trial judge properly dismissed their cases.

AFFIRMED

[Gerald Alan Brown and Charles Darnell v. United States, No. 96-5107 (Federal Circuit, 1997)]

If you want to sue for a Bivens Action, you must file the original action in a Circuit Court, Under Supreme Court Rule 22, and ask for an Article III judge from the Supreme Court to hear it. Some cases that provide instructional examples that we recommend:

1. Gerald Alan Brown and Charles Darnell v. United States, No. 96-5107 (Federal Circuit, 1997)
2. Charles Darnell v. United States, No. 95-412T (Federal Court of Claims, 1996)
3. Gerald Alan Brown v. United States, No. 95-367T (Federal Court of Claims, 1996)

Tactics:

VERY IMPORTANT! If you filed as or claim to be a "non-resident non-person", then you are a nontaxpayer and a citizen of a foreign state (as defined in 28 U.S.C. §1605) not subject to the Internal Revenue Code.

"The revenue laws are a code or system in regulation of tax assessment and collection. They relate to taxpayers, and not to nontaxpayers. The latter are without their scope. No procedure is prescribed for nontaxpayers, and no attempt is made to annul any of their rights and remedies in due course of law. With them Congress does not assume to deal, and they are neither of the subject nor of the object of the revenue laws..."

"The distinction between persons and things within the scope of the revenue laws and those without is vital."
[Long v. Rasmussen, 281 F. 236, 238 (1922).]

Because you are not subject to the Internal Revenue Code and are not a "taxpayer" as a "non-resident non-person", then you don't have to pay any tax the IRS claims is due before you sue the government as shown in line 1 of the table above, since the authority for requiring that comes from Title 26 and only applies to "taxpayers"! The IRS is also not empowered to classify you as a "taxpayer" going into the litigation as follows:

"A reasonable construction of the taxing statutes does not include vesting any tax official with absolute power of assessment against individuals not specified in the statutes as a person liable for the tax without an opportunity for judicial review of this status before the appellation of 'taxpayer' is bestowed upon them and their property is seized..."
[Botta v. Scanlon, 288 F.2d. 504, 508 (1961)]

For that reason, in order to preserve your Constitutional rights, you must not base your claim on any part of the Internal Revenue Code or Title 26, because by doing so, you are subjecting yourself to its jurisdiction and must claim that you are a “taxpayer” to claim the benefits of that title, which you don’t want to do! Your claim must instead be based on what is called “diversity of citizenship” as defined in Article III, Section 2 of the Constitution. Do NOT claim statutory diversity of citizenship as described in 28 U.S.C. §1332, but rather claim constitutional diversity of citizenship based on Article III, Section 2. Statutory diversity of citizenship depends on the definition of “State” found in 28 U.S.C. §1332(d), which means a federal territory or possession, while constitutional diversity depends on the definition of “State” used in the Constitution, which means states of the Union and excludes federal territories and possessions.. The two types of diversity are therefore mutually exclusive and you should avoid confusing these two, because such confusion will undermine your sovereign immunity and grant the court jurisdiction that it might not otherwise have. You must based your claim on Constitutional rights and focus on the following issues:

1. Violation of due process.
2. Any crime listed in Title 18 (refer to section 6.9 of the Tax Fraud Prevention Manual, Form #06.008 for claims to use in this vain).
3. The Constitution of the United States of America.
4. 28 U.S.C. §1331.

If you don’t use a “diversity of citizenship” claim based on Article III, Section 2 of the Constitution and NOT 28 U.S.C. §1332, then the court by default will assume that you are a U.S. citizen, and as a U.S. citizen, you can kiss your rights goodbye because the court will not allow you to use them in your claim!

You must also demand in your pleading a jury trial, or you are guaranteed to not get one even though you are litigating in a District Court. The only reason to quote any part of the Internal Revenue Code is to substantiate your claim that you are a “nontaxpayer” not subject to the code and not liable in any way for any Internal Revenue Code tax found in Subtitle A. When you file your claim, be sure to emphasize with a notarized affidavit that you are not a U.S. citizen, but a non-resident non-person. You also might want to include a certified copy of your birth certificate and get it admitted into evidence along with the affidavit to make your case air tight.

It is very important to remember that the IRS is under a lot of pressure to control costs. The most expensive part of what they do is litigation against Americans who won’t cooperate with their fraud or “volunteer” to pay taxes for which they aren’t liable. Because of this, the IRS is likely to be very judicious about who they pick a fight with in court. They love picking fights with ignorant, disorganized, unprepared, and poor citizens who can’t defend themselves. That is why they will try to steal or levy or seize your property just at the point when they think you will begin litigating, in violation of your due process protections which you need to be very aware of. They figure, if they empty your pockets before you begin your battle, then your chances of winning are reduced because you won’t be able to afford an expensive tax lawyer. They will avoid battles they know they can’t win or which would cost more to litigate than the taxes that are involved. They may make exceptions to the “cost-benefit” rule if you are a high profile person or tax freedom leader who they want to make a “publicized example out of” to scare other citizens or followers of yours into “volunteering”.

If you have taken the “offensive” position we describe in this document, however, then they don’t have anything they can use to blackmail or slander you or undermine you, and you will be in an optimal position to get your money back through the courts. You will also be seeking a large enough refund to make it worth the while of an attorney to take on the case, if you decide to delegate the litigation rather than hiring an attorney to do everything. The key, throughout your litigation, is to make your case as “high maintenance”, costly, and difficult for the IRS as you legally can. At the same time, you want to avoid the label of “vexatious litigant” that the court might try to slap on you, because this could cause an attorney fee award against you by the court. It’s a delicate balancing act.

Throughout your litigation, remind yourself that this is a war of attrition. The first party who runs out of energy or money or time or motivation is the one who loses. Don’t be the coward who gives up, because you will never get your freedom back if you do! In this fight, the one who has the most “staying power” is the one who can litigate the most effectively, inexpensively, and efficiently, who knows the most, and who is the most organized and motivated. The more of the litigation you can handle on your own, the more staying power you will have because the less money it will cost you. That’s why we emphasize getting you educated and functional in the legal arena throughout this book. After having read this book and the forms and procedures on the Family Guardian Website, you will be much more knowledgeable and better prepared than the vast majority of people who are litigating against the IRS, and you will know more about the tax laws than most IRS agents know! You will be much more discriminating in choosing a tax attorney to act as your “coach” as well, because of what you know. You will know what your rights are and how to protect and defend them in court. In short, you’ll have a big advantage that will be difficult to overcome and the IRS will be much more likely to back down and cave if you make sure they know this by every action you take. Words aren’t as convincing to the IRS as consistent, disciplined, knowledgeable application of the tax laws and the integrity to follow through on everything you said you would do the way you said you would do it.

26 U.S.C. §7422 identifies the legal restrictions that apply to a civil suit for refund of taxes paid. There are a lot of restrictions you should be aware of deriving from this section, including:

1. You cannot pursue a civil action for refund until you first file a claim for refund.
2. You cannot go after the government if you have a suit against an individual employee for wrongdoing and that employee assumes personal responsibility for the wrongdoing.
3. An IRS credit is treated as payment in full for any liability against the government. Other damages may apply, however, but the statute does not identify whether those damages can include the same kind of exorbitant penalties and interest the IRS commonly charges citizens when they underpay their taxes. See 26 U.S.C. §6673 for a guidance on what kinds of sanctions and costs the courts can award in a civil suit against the IRS.
4. If the Citizen pursues litigation in the Tax Court, there is a stay for any litigation in Federal District Court or the Court of Claims.
5. The suit must be against the United States and not against any officer or employee of the United States.

Under 26 U.S.C. §6532, you cannot commence a civil suit for refund of overpaid tax before 6 months as follows:

26 U.S.C. 6532: Periods of Limitation on Suits

(a) Suits by taxpayers for refunds

(1) General rule

“No suit or proceeding under section 7422(a) for the recovery of any internal revenue tax, penalty, or other sum, shall be begun before the expiration of 6 months from the date of filing the claim required under such section unless the Secretary renders a decision thereon within that time, nor after the expiration of 2 years from the date of mailing by certified mail or registered mail by the Secretary to the taxpayer of a notice of the disallowance of the part of the claim to which the suit or proceeding relates”

Below is a table that summarizes the statute of limitations for each of the forums you can choose:

Table 4-13: Statutes of Limitation for Filing Suits¹⁸¹

Type of Action	Limitation Period	I.R.C. §
IRS assessment of tax deficiency	Generally 3 years after due date of return (or date actually received by IRS, if later)	6501(a)
Exceptions to normal 3-year limit: 1. No return filed. 2. Fraudulent return 3. Substantial omission from gross income.	No limit No limit 6 years	6501(c)(3) 6501(c)(1) 6501(e)
Claim for refund of overpaid tax	On or before later of: 3 years after return filed or 2 years after tax paid. If statute of limitations was extended by consent: on or before 6 months after expiration of extended period.	6511(a) 6511(c)(2)
Filing suit for refund of overpaid tax	Not before: 6 months from date of filing refund claim (with no response from IRS) or date of notice of disallowance.	6532(a)(1)

Type of Action	Limitation Period	I.R.C. §
	Not after: 2 years from date of notice of disallowance issued or 2 years from date statutory notice of disallowance was waived.	6532(a)(3)

If you pursue litigation in Tax Court, which we don't recommend, per 26 U.S.C. §7452, the court cannot deny the counsel you choose, even if they are not licensed to practice law. This is not true in Federal District Courts.

If you are litigating to recover a refund, you can also litigate to recover interest on the amount of overpayment from the time that you requested the refund to the time that it was paid, under 26 U.S.C. §6611.

Lastly, we would strongly advise NOT taking the IRS into court for a refund before you have filed at least one 1040NR form to establish with them your non-resident non-person status. By making such an election gives the federal courts the same jurisdiction they have over residents of the federal zone, which is the last place you want to be. Therefore, you can opt out of such status by filing at least one 1040NR form and a W-8 and expatriating as we suggest in section 4.5.3.13 will make you much better positioned to avoid the jurisdiction of the federal government and thereby avoid being lynched in court. We recognize that the tax on nonresident aliens is 30%, but keep in mind that this rate only applies to "U.S. source income" listed under 26 U.S.C. §861, and 26 C.F.R. § 1.861-8(f) says that most people's income from sources inside the United States is not subject to tax anyway. It's all a big bluff. The only people with U.S. source income are usually those who either work for or are retired from the federal government, or who receive social security benefits.

Full Payment Rule:¹⁸²

There is no known statute requiring one to pay the tax imputed by the IRS to be due before litigating for refund. The regulations and statutes dealing with this subject are vague and ambiguous. However, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled in the case of Flora v. United States, 362 U.S. 145 (1960), after observing that 28 U.S.C. §1346\(a\)\(1\) was ambiguous and the legislative history unhelpful, that full payment of the entire tax assessed was a jurisdictional prerequisite to filing a refund suit in that case.

Notwithstanding the above, the full payment rule may not apply if a person has not paid a tax, is not arguing the amount, is a non-resident non-person, and is arguing the underlying liability and their status as a "taxpayer". On the other hand, if the person litigating for the refund claims to be a "taxpayer", which as said in section 5.4.26 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book means they are "liable" for the tax, then we have to assume that it is best for them to pay the tax due before litigating for refund. If you argue amount, you are a taxpayer, if you argue liability and your status as a "taxpayer", then you are a sovereign American with due process rights that the courts will have to respect, which means they cannot require you to pay the imputed tax due before litigating for refund. This belief is justified by the following cite:

"The revenue laws are a code or system in regulation of tax assessment and collection. They relate to taxpayers, and not to nontaxpayers. The latter are without their scope. No procedure is prescribed for nontaxpayers, and no attempt is made to annul any of their rights and remedies in due course of law. With them Congress does not assume to deal, and they are neither of the subject nor of the object of the revenue laws..."

"The distinction between persons and things within the scope of the revenue laws and those without is vital."
[Long v. Rasmussen, 281 F. 236, 238 (1922)]

The above arguments are illustrated by the following very funny joke:

A man walks into a bar and sits down next to a beautiful woman. He buys her a drink and then says: "Maam, I'm very rich. Would you consider going to bed with me if I gave you ten million dollars?"

The woman thinks real hard for a long time and then says "I certainly might!"

"Would you go to bed with me if I gave you $50?". The woman slaps him and says "What do you think I am, some kind of whore?"

The man responds: "We've already established that you're a whore. We're just negotiating price."

¹⁸² See Tax Procedure and Tax Fraud, Patricia T. Morgan, 1999, West Group, ISBN 0-314-06586-5, page 118.

Let's face it, folks: A "taxpayer" under Subtitle A is a voluntary whore for the government! NEVER, EVER negotiate price! Emphasize repeatedly that you are a person of principle who is a "nontaxpayer" and a person not liable and the jury and judge will see that and side with you.

- NOTE: When private parties acting for a non-governmental employer or financial institution improperly honor a Notice of Lien or a Notice of Levy, they are acting as "voluntary government agents under color of law" and can be personally held responsible for damages and violation of Constitutional rights.

The following cite from the Supreme Court establishes below that the government may not assert sovereign immunity to protect itself from acts that are outside the law. It establishes why we should work hard to hold our public servants liable for violations of law in the illegal collection of federal income taxes:

"... the maxim that the King can do no wrong has no place in our system of government; yet it is also true, in respect to the State itself, that whatever wrong is attempted in its name is imputable to its government and not to the State, for, as it can speak and act only by law, whatever it does say and do must be lawful. That which therefore is unlawful because made so by the supreme law, the Constitution of the United States, is not the word or deed of the State, but is the mere wrong and trespass of those individual persons who falsely spread and act in its name."

"This distinction is essential to the idea of constitutional government. To deny it or blot it out obliterates the line of demarcation that separates constitutional government from absolutism, free self- government based on the sovereignty of the people from that despotism, whether of the one or the many, which enables the agent of the state to declare and decree that he is the state; to say 'L'Etat, c'est moi.' Of what avail are written constitutions, whose bills of right, for the security of individual liberty, have been written too often with the blood of martyrs shed upon the battle-field and the scaffold, if their limitations and restraints upon power may be overpassed with impunity by the very agencies created and appointed to guard, defend, and enforce them; and that, too, with the sacred authority of law, not only compelling obedience, but entitled to respect? And how else can these principles of individual liberty and right be maintained, if, when violated, the judicial tribunals are forbidden to visit penalties upon individual offenders, who are the instruments of wrong, whenever they interpose the shield of the state? The doctrine is not to be tolerated. The whole frame and scheme of the political institutions of this country, state and federal, protest against it. Their continued existence is not compatible with it. It is the doctrine of absolutism, pure, simple, and naked, and of communism which is its twin, the double progeny of the same evil birth."

[\[Poindexter v. Greenhow, 114 U.S. 270, 5 S.Ct. 903 \(1885\)\]](#)

In order that we can have a basis to sue the government, our proceeding must proceed on the basis of equity and not law. There is no legal basis in the Internal Revenue code that authorizes a "nontaxpayer" to sue, jail, or punish an agent for wrong doing. Furthermore, if our greedy Congress wants to steal our money and exceed its jurisdiction, do you think it would pass a law to punish wrongdoers who try to collect taxes illegally? We must therefore sue as a tort by suing the individual agent and not the state or government that he works for. In doing so, we must show that the agent was acting outside the bounds of his delegated authority and outside the lawful bounds of his employment. If the government proves that the agent was acting within his lawful authority, they will try to invoke what is called the Westfall Act, 28 U.S.C. §2679, and substitute themselves in place of the individual defendant under 28 U.S.C. §2679\(d\)\(1\), which makes the litigation against the government and not the agent. This makes it far less likely that you will win because then you need permission from the government in order to sue and you will be litigating against an enemy with relatively unlimited resources compared to your own.

We must sue the individual IRS agent in equity jurisdiction and the state or government may not invoke sovereign immunity or the Eleventh Amendment and substitute itself for such a party, because the injuring party was acting outside the law and the authority of the state. Here's a cite from Poindexter v. Greenhow, 114 U.S. 270, 5 S.Ct. 903 \(1885\) confirming this:

"The second head of that classification is thus described: 'Another class of cases is where an individual is sued in tort for some act injurious to another in regard to person or property, to which his defense is that he has acted under the orders of the government. In these cases he is not sued as, or because he is, the officer of the government, but as an individual, and the court is not ousted of jurisdiction because he asserts authority as such officer. To make out his defense he must show that his authority was sufficient in law to protect him.'

 And in illustration of this principle reference was made to Mitchell v. Harmony, 13 How. 115; Bates v. Clark,

Most of the remedies identified in the I.R.C. are for taxpayers, which most of us aren't. The most important exception to this rule is found in 26 U.S.C. §7426, which relates to Civil Actions by Persons Other than "Taxpayers". A person who is a "nontaxpayer", if he needs statutory standing to sue, should use 26 U.S.C. §7426 and may not use any section that refers to "taxpayers" as authority to sue in a civil action involving taxation. The reasons for this is described in the article below:

<http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/Articles/TaxpayerVNontaxpayer.htm>

Bouvier's Law Dictionary, Vol. II, Third Revision, Eighth Edition, 1914, pp. 3230-3238 defines how to recover income taxes collected illegally and against a person under duress who is a nontaxpayer under the definition of "income tax".

"Income tax: In order to invoke the powers of a court of equity to restrain the collection of illegal taxes, the case must be brought within the well recognized foundations of equitable jurisdiction [* ] and it must clearly appear not only that the tax is illegal, but that the property owner has no adequate remedy at law, and that there are special circumstances bringing the case under some recognized head of equity jurisdiction..."
 [Cites omitted.]"

As pointed out in section 2.1 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book, people who hold public office or work for the government are recipients of the public trust and must maintain the highest ethical and moral standards in all their dealings with the public as "public servants". In the legal field, this kind of responsibility is referred to as "fiduciary duty". Fiduciary duty is defined as follows:

Fiduciary duty: A duty to act for someone else's benefit, while subordinating one's personal interests to that of the other person. It is the highest standard of duty implied by law (e.g. trustee, guardian).
 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 625]

Fiduciary or confidential relation: A very broad term embracing both technical and fiduciary relations and those informal relations which exist wherever one person trusts in or relies upon another. One founded on trust or confidence reposed by one person in the integrity and fidelity of another. Such relationship arises whenever confidence is reposed on one side, and domination and influence result on the other; the relation can be legal, social, domestic, or merely personal. Heilman's Estate, Matter of, 37 Ill.App.3d. 390, 345 N.E.2d. 536, 540.

A relation subsisting between two persons in regard to a business, contract, or piece of property, or in regard to the general business or estate of one of them, of such a character that each must repose trust and confidence in the other and must exercise a corresponding degree of fairness and good faith. Out of such a relation, the law raises the rule that neither party may exert influence or pressure upon the other, take selfish advantage of his trust, or deal with the subject-matter of the trust in such a way as to benefit himself or prejudice the other except in the exercise of the utmost good faith and with the full knowledge and consent of that other, business shrewdness, hard bargaining, and astuteness to take advantage of the forgetfulness or negligence of another being totally prohibited as between persons standing in such a relation to each other. Examples of fiduciary relations are those existing between attorney and client, guardian and ward, principal and agent, executor and heir, trustee and cestui que trust, landlord and tenant, etc.
 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 625]

Examples of persons who must act in a fiduciary capacity are all those persons who work at financial institutions, spouses, attorneys, government employees, and "public officers". If you attempt to prosecute an IRS employee for malfeasance, fraud, or illegal taking of taxes, it will be much easier to get a conviction with the jury if you focus on the fiduciary duty and high moral standard of care they have to the public at large. These fiduciary duties give rise to a "contract" or "implied contract" cognizable under the Tucker Act, 28 U.S.C. §1491. The contract is the Constitution, and the obligation to obey the contract arises out of the oath of public office taken by "public officers" pursuant to 5 U.S.C. §3331. Remember item X in the Code of Ethics for Government Service, part of Public Law 96-303, which we talked about in section 2.1 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 book:

"X. Uphold these principles, ever conscious that public office is a public trust."

Also remember the content of Executive Order 12731, Part 1, Section 101, item (a) in that same section:

"(a) Public service is a public trust, requiring employees to place loyalty to the Constitution, the laws, and ethical principles above private gain."

The federal courts agree with the above conclusions. Below is one significant example of that:

The right to sue a tax collector to recover back taxes illegally exacted is derived from the common-law and does not depend on statute. The rule is this. If the payment is made voluntarily, there can be no recovery. But if the payment is made under compulsion and with protest, sufficient to notify the collector that he will be sued to recover it back, he is personally liable whether he has covered the money into the treasury or not.

There is no statute of the United States expressly giving the right to sue a tax collector to recover back taxes illegally exacted, but the common law has been greatly modified by various statutes in this respect. These statutes recognize the right and by necessary implication grant it as to suits against federal tax collectors.

"A statute will not be construed as taking away a common-law right existing at the date of its enactment, unless that result is imperatively required." Texas & Pacific R. Co. v. Abilene Cotton Oil Co., 204 U.S. 426, 27 S.Ct. 350, 354, 51 L.Ed. 553, 9 Ann. Cas. 1075. "All laws should receive a sensible construction. General terms should be so limited to their application as not to lead to injustice, oppression, or an absurd consequence. It will always, therefore, be presumed that the legislature intended exceptions to its language, which would avoid results of this character." U.S. v. Kirby, 7 Wall. 482, 486, 19 L.Ed. 278; Lau Ow Bew v. U.S., 144 U.S. 47, 12 S.Ct. 517, 36 L.Ed. 340; Jacobson v. Mass., 197 U.S. 11, 26 S.Ct. 358, 49 L.Ed. 643, 3 Ann.Cas. 765." [White v. Hopkins, 41 F.2d. 159 (1931)]

It is quite common for IRS revenue agents to hide behind a cloak of secrecy and anonymity in order to evade being prosecuted for their misconduct. For instance, IRS agents you will talk to on the phone will refuse to give their real last name, and refer to themselves only by number. They do this because this makes them more difficult to prosecute for wrongdoing or bad advice. These same agents also have a habit of putting fictitious names on the correspondence they sign for the same reason. If you decide to prosecute one of these anonymous agents and find it difficult to track him or her down, be advised that an easier approach may be to just prosecute his supervisor, who is easier to identify. For instance, you might prosecute the Commissioner of the Internal Revenue Service, for instance. However, there must be a causal relationship between the wrongdoing committed by an IRS employee and his supervisor. One such causal relationship, for instance, could be that the employee was not properly trained or supervised and therefore was either negligent or malicious. Below is what one federal court said about this subject:

The Defendants, as IRS agents, are not prosecutors, nor are the cases granting absolute immunity to prosecutors helpful to them. Rather, their duties are merely investigative. They gather facts and refer cases to prosecutors, who then decide whether or not to prosecute. Considering these duties, an IRS agent is analogous to a complaining witness at common law—both are detached from the judicial process by the interposition of the prosecutor. For this reason, a complaining witness was not entitled to absolute immunity at common law. [Cites omitted.] It follows that the Defendants, IRS agents, should not be entitled to absolute immunity on the same basis.

Accordingly, we find that when IRS agents investigate and refer cases for criminal investigations, they do not enjoy absolute immunity for their actions. Accord, Cameron v. I.R.S., 773 F.2d. 126, 128 (7th Cir. 1985) (IRS agents are not entitled to absolute immunity).

A supervisor can be held liable for civil rights violations where his "conduct is causally related to constitutional violation committed by his subordinate." Greason v. Kemp, 891 F.2d. 836 (citing, Wilson v. Attaway, 757 F.2d. 1227, 1241 (11th Cir. 1985)) (personal participation is not required to impose liability for a civil rights deprivation. There must be some causal connection between the actions of the superior and the alleged deprivation); see also Rizzo v. Goode, 423 U.S. 362, 375-76, 96 S.Ct. 598, 606 L.Ed.2d. 561, 572 (1976) (for liability under §1983, supervisory officials have direct responsibility for actions of officials who had engaged in misconduct). [Heller v. Plave, 743 F.Supp. 1553 (1990)]

When the IRS prosecutes individuals for tax evasion, they use the following criteria, right from their Internal Revenue Manual Part 9, Chapter 1, Section 3 found at <http://www.irs.gov/irm/part9/ch01s03.html>:

9.1.3.3.2.2 (08-11-2003) IRC §7201— Elements of the Offense

1. The elements of the offense of willfully attempting in any manner to evade or defeat any tax or the payment of any tax are the same, but the courts have interpreted the terms differently in some instances. The differences are noted in the explanation. The elements of the offense are:
 - A. Additional tax due and owing.
 - B. An attempt in any manner to evade or defeat any tax.
 - C. Willfulness.

9.1.3.3.2.2.2 (08-11-2003)

Attempt to Evade or Defeat Any Tax

1. The substance of the offense under IRC 7201 is the term "attempt in any manner" . The statute does not define attempt, nor does it limit or define the means or methods by which the attempt to evade or defeat any tax may be accomplished.
2. However, it has been judicially determined that the term "attempt" implies some affirmative action or the commission of some overt act. The actual filing of a false or fraudulent return is not requisite for the commission of the offense though the filing of such a return is the usual attempt to evade or defeat the tax. A false statement made to Treasury agents for the purpose of concealing unreported income has also been judicially determined to be an attempt to evade or defeat the tax.
3. The willful omission of a duty or the willful failure to perform a duty imposed by statute does not per se constitute an attempt to evade or defeat. However, a willful omission or failure (such as a willful failure to make and file a return) when coupled with affirmative acts or conduct from which an attempt may be inferred would constitute an attempt. In the case of Spies v. United States , the Supreme Court gave certain illustrations of acts or conduct, which may infer "the attempt to evade or defeat any tax" ; such as:
 - A. Keeping a double set of books.
 - B. Making false entries, alterations, invoices, or documents.
 - C. Destroying books or records.
 - D. Concealing assets or covering up sources of income .
 - E. Handling one's affairs to avoid making the records usual in transactions of the kind.
 - F. Any conduct, the likely effect of which would be to mislead or to conceal.
4. Attempt does not mean that one whose efforts are successful cannot commit the crime of willful attempt. The crime is complete when the attempt is made and nothing is added to its criminality by success or consummation, as would be the case with respect to attempted murder. It has been held that "attempts cover both successful and unsuccessful endeavors or efforts." As the courts have stated, "The real character of the offense lies, not in the failure to file a return or in the filing of a false return, but rather in the attempt" to evade any tax.
5. It is well settled that a separate offense may be committed with respect to each year. Therefore, an attempt for 1 year is a separate offense from an attempt for a different year.
6. There may also be more than one violation in one year resulting from the same acts such as the willful attempt to evade the payment of tax and the willful attempt to evade tax. Likewise, there may be charged a willful attempt to evade tax and a willful failure to file a return for the same year.
7. In an attempt to evade or defeat the payment of any tax, the mere failure or willful failure to pay any tax does not constitute an attempt to evade or defeat the payment of any tax. The comments set out above with respect to attempts also apply to this offense. The attempt implies some affirmative action or the commission of some overt act. Examples of such action or conduct relating to the attempted evasion of the payment of the tax are found in the Giglio case. These are:
 - A. Concealing assets.
 - B. Reporting income through others.
 - C. Misappropriating, converting, and diverting corporate assets.
 - D. Filing late returns.
 - E. Failing to withhold taxes as required by law.
 - F. Filing false declarations of estimated taxes.
 - G. Filing false tentative corporate returns.

9.1.3.3.2.2.3 (07-29-1998)

Willfulness

1. The attempt in any manner to evade or defeat any tax must be willful. Willfulness has been defined as an act or conduct done with a bad or evil purpose. Mere understatement of income and the filing of an incorrect return does not in itself constitute willful attempted tax evasion. The offense is made out when conduct such as exemplified in the Spies case (supra) is present.

2. Courts have held that disbursement of available funds to creditors other than the government, or to corporate stockholders is not of itself an attempt to evade or defeat payment of taxes.
3. This definition of willfulness applies to all Title 26 offenses where willfulness is an element, unless stated otherwise.

Why is this relevant when applied to prosecuting the IRS and revenue officers for tort? Because we can apply the same standards for concealment for fraud against the IRS when prosecuting them for breach of fiduciary duty and "truth evasion". We can then focus on "extortion under the color of office" and "theft" in front of the jury and apply nearly the same standards. We therefore summarize the elements that would make up a good claim of breach of fiduciary duty:

Elements of "extortion under the color of office":

1. A refund was due and owing or a lack of liability should have been disclosed but wasn't.
2. There was an attempt to evade or defeat the refund or disclosure of the laws and lack of liability that would facilitate the refund or lack of liability to file.
3. Willfulness.

Attempt to evade or defeat the truth about lack of liability:

1. A false statement made by Treasury agents for the purpose of concealing lack of liability or lawful authority is a clear attempt evade or defeat the truth.
2. The willful omission of a duty or the willful failure to perform a duty imposed by the fiduciary relationships does not per se constitute an attempt to evade or defeat the truth about nonliability. However, a willful omission or failure (such as a willful failure to make or respond to a disclosure of the truth about nonliability) when coupled with affirmative acts or conduct from which an attempt may be inferred would constitute an attempt.
 - A. Making false entries, alterations, invoices, or documents.
 - B. Destroying books or records.
 - C. Concealing laws or covering up their implementing regulations or lack thereof.
 - D. Handling one's affairs to avoid making the records usual in transactions of the kind.
 - E. Any conduct, the likely effect of which would be to mislead or to conceal.
3. Attempt does not mean that one whose efforts are successful cannot commit the crime of willful attempt. The crime is complete when the attempt is made and nothing is added to its criminality by success or consummation, as would be the case with respect to attempted murder. It has been held that "attempts cover both successful and unsuccessful endeavors or efforts." As the courts have stated, "The real character of the offense lies, not in the failure to disclose the truth, but rather in the attempt" to evade disclosing lack of liability for any tax or provide the refund requested.
4. In an attempt to evade or defeat the payment of any tax, the mere failure or willful failure to pay any tax does not constitute an attempt to evade or defeat the payment of any tax. The comments set out above with respect to attempts also apply to this offense. The attempt implies some affirmative action or the commission of some overt act. Examples of such action or conduct relating to the attempted evasion of the payment of the tax are found in the Giglio case. These are:
 - A. Concealing laws or regulations or discussing either.
 - B. Reporting information or rendering assistance through agents who are not qualified or who do not know the truth about the law to prevent the subject of the law from coming up in interactions with a Citizen.
 - C. Misappropriating, converting, and diverting private assets for personal gain or as illegal tax revenues (extortion under the color of office).
 - D. Filing inadequate or incomplete responses to taxpayer inquiries about their lack of liability.
 - E. Completely ignoring or not responding to taxpayer affidavits of fact about their lack of liability and not refuting such nonliability with quotes of the law.
 - F. Failing to refund taxes not owed as required by law.
 - G. Sending false or frivolous CP notices in response to legitimate inquiries by Citizens about their liability and in fulfillment of their rights to due process under the Administrative Procedures Act, 5 U.S.C. §556(d).

H. Doctoring a person's IMF file.

I. Ignoring the content of the IMF in respect to the individual's liability to file returns or pay tax (the MFR01 status).

This is good stuff for stirring up mud on your favorite IRS agent when you drag his ass in court, folks! Use fire to fight fire. We invite you to add to the above laundry list by using your own imagination.

Judicial jurisdiction over agency acts and omissions that adversely affect substantive and procedural due process rights are prescribed by 5 U.S.C. §702 and 28 U.S.C. §1361:

5 U.S.C.S. §702 (2002)

§ 702. Right of review

A person suffering legal wrong because of agency action, or adversely affected or aggrieved by agency action within the meaning of a relevant statute, is entitled to judicial review thereof. An action in a court of the United States seeking relief other than money damages and stating a claim that an agency or an officer or employee thereof acted or failed to act in an official capacity or under color of legal authority shall not be dismissed nor relief therein be denied on the ground that it is against the United States or that the United States is an indispensable party. The United States may be named as a defendant in any such action, and a judgment or decree may be entered against the United States: Provided, That any mandatory or injunctive decree shall specify the Federal officer or officers (by name or by title), and their successors in office, personally responsible for compliance. Nothing herein (1) affects other limitations on judicial review or the power or duty of the court to dismiss any action or deny relief on any other appropriate legal or equitable ground; or (2) confers authority to grant relief if any other statute that grants consent to suit expressly or impliedly forbids the relief which is sought.

28 U.S.C.S. §1361 (2002)

§ 1361. Action to compel an officer of the United States to perform his duty

The district courts shall have original jurisdiction of any action in the nature of mandamus to compel an officer or employee of the United States or any agency thereof to perform a duty owed to the plaintiff.

These two sections work together. Original jurisdiction for judicial review of agency actions under 5 U.S.C. §§ 701-706 is vested in circuit courts; the mandamus section at 28 U.S.C. §1361 was enacted to expand jurisdiction to district courts. The scope of judicial authority is prescribed by 5 U.S.C. §706:

5 U.S.C.S. §706 (2002)

§ 706. Scope of review

To the extent necessary to decision and when presented, the reviewing court shall decide all relevant questions of law, interpret constitutional and statutory provisions, and determine the meaning or applicability of the terms of an agency action. The reviewing court shall--

(1) compel agency action unlawfully withheld or unreasonably delayed; and

(2) hold unlawful and set aside agency action, findings, and conclusions found to be--

(A) arbitrary, capricious, an abuse of discretion, or otherwise not in accordance with law;

(B) contrary to constitutional right, power, privilege, or immunity;

(C) in excess of statutory jurisdiction, authority, or limitations, or short of statutory right;

(D) without observance of procedure required by law;

(E) unsupported by substantial evidence in a case subject to sections 556 and 557 of this title or otherwise reviewed on the record of an agency hearing provided by statute; or

(F) unwarranted by the facts to the extent that the facts are subject to trial de novo by the reviewing court.

In making the foregoing determinations, the court shall review the whole record or those parts of it cited by a party, and due account shall be taken of the rule of prejudicial error.

The forms contained in this section provide sample documents for you to use in your fight against the IRS to keep them obeying the law by not forcing you to pay income taxes that you aren't liable for or file tax returns that would violate your constitutional rights. The forms in this chapter appear in the order or sequence you would be likely to need them if you followed the procedures listed in section 4.5 entitled "The Process to Restor and Maintain Personal Sovereignty". These forms are a small subset of those found on the Family Guardian Website in the Sovereignty Forms and Procedures area appearing on the main page and in the Tax area. The complete listing of forms as well as the instructions from chapter 3 and a complete copy of this book and other free publications may also be downloaded electronically from the Family Guardian Website at the following address:

<http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/FormsInstr.htm>

The above address has FREE, EDITABLE, ELECTRONIC versions of most of the forms in this chapter for your benefit and reuse. If you download and modify any of the forms appearing on the Family Guardian Website and you come up with a better version, we would appreciate if you would email it to us so that we can improve both this book and what we publish on the website to make it more useful and effective with every new version. We are always interested in better ways to get the job done that are lawful and which help all of you freedom fighters! Go get'em! If you intend to send a marked up/improved copy of one of our standard forms downloaded from the Family Guardian Website, please ensure that you put your Microsoft Word program in the "Track Changes" mode before you start editing by selecting:

Tools->Track Changes-> Highlight Changes and then check the "Track Changes while editing" box.

WARNING: The fact that a technique documented or suggested in Chapter 4 or a form provided in Chapter 5 of this book does not work in your specific case may be an indication of any one of the following circumstances that you should be aware of:

1. You did something too late.
2. You did not follow the instructions exactly and skipped some steps.
3. The law has changed after you got your copy of this book and you didn't update to the latest version of the book as updates came out.
4. The IRS agent you are dealing with is ignorant of the law or is not motivated enough to want to take time to understand your position. Therefore, he may choose an irrelevant but intimidating response to scare you into compliance to test your resolve and knowledge level.
5. The solution you selected or employed does not apply to your specific situation because, for instance, you misjudged your legal status.
6. You may not have properly completed the steps previous to the one that didn't work. For instance, you filed for a refund using a 1040NR form with zeros but did not correct your citizenship status first or revoke your election, so the government's existing paperwork and records are in conflict with the status you are claiming and your claim was disallowed.
7. The documents you submitted to the IRS contained typographical errors that rendered them an easy target for a denial of your claim. For such a case, the IRS might also accuse you of fraud. Check the accuracy of your documents by proofreading them several times before you submit them!
8. The people you are dealing with at the IRS are downright dishonest and understand your predicament but won't cooperate. This is the case most of the time. Instead of granting you your refund or claim or zero tax assessment, like a spoiled child they will try to play a game of chicken and test your patience and resolve by challenging you up to the very last minute with irrelevant or downright wrong arguments. When this happens, they are testing whether you have sufficient knowledge to repel their arguments and if you don't because you haven't taken the time to do your homework and read most of this book, then they will eat your lunch. Ignorant people who haven't done their homework or study make ready prey for the IRS. Get informed...your freedom depends on it!
9. We made an error or missed something in this document, in which case please let us know immediately so we can update our documentation so everyone can benefit from your lessons learned. The tax process can be complicated and no one person can every hope to have all the answers. You'll make mistakes starting off just as we did while you are learning. You will always be learning in this field, because laws are always changing.

Lastly, we emphasize that it is NOT the purpose of this book to provide a complete library of response letters for correspondence you receive from state and federal revenue collection agencies. Including such materials would easily TRIPLE the size of this already large book. If you require these types of materials, then please consult the following links:

Index of IRS Notice and Letter Responses:

Index of state Notice and Letter Responses:

5.1 Index of IRS Forms, Publications, Notices, and Letters

This subsection shall provide an index of all the IRS forms, publications, notices, and letters for reference by the reader. This book would be inordinately long if we included them in this book, so we only provide an index, and each item listed has a hotlink so you can click on it within the electronic version of this book and thereby download it and reuse it. In the case of IRS Notices and Letters, we provide an additional column called “Responsive form” that points to a specific form in this chapter that you can use to respond to a particular IRS Notice or Letter. The list is by no means complete, and over time, the library of forms we provide will be expanded to deal with every possible IRS notice. Your submissions, research, and help are solicited in making our form library more complete and useful. There is only so much that one man can do, however, without the help of others. This is a team effort, guys!

The information in the following subsections is updated less frequently than the same information available on our website and that of our sister website. Therefore, if you want the most up to date information on the subject of this section and its subsections, you should instead consult the following resources:

5.1.1 Forms

WARNING: This section contains links to the IRS website which the IRS has obfuscated so that it won’t work inside an Adobe Acrobat document. Any link which contains commas will truncate at the comma when clicked within an Acrobat document. For instance, if you click on <http://www.irs.gov/formspubs/article/0,,id=97483,00.html>, this link will open in your browser and truncate after the zero (0) so that the link ends up in your browser address window as: <http://www.irs.gov/formspubs/article/0>. The links work, but the IRS broke them so you will have to go to your browser window and type the remaining portion of the address starting with the first comma.

6. Office of Management and Budget (OMB) control numbers and corresponding regulations for several important IRS forms. The second column in the table lists the OMB Control Number for each form. If you want to know the purpose and proper use of any of the forms listed, we recommend that you download IRS Pub 676, which is listed in the section below. WARNING: This is a large file! IRS Pub 676, by the way, is an old document dated 12/91. A newer version of that document is now published as IRS Document 7130, which you can order FREE from the IRS at: 800-829-3676.
<http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Forms/IRS/OMBFormInfo.htm>
7. Original or standard IRS forms (U.S. Government Printing Office Bookstore). Includes both historical and current forms:
Tax Products CD-ROM, Stock #648-207-00004-2

The list of forms below contains two columns: The ORIGINAL column and the AMENDED column. The ORIGINAL column contains:

1. A link to the form that is identical to the one you would download directly off the IRS website.
2. A link (in some cases) to the editable Microsoft Word version of the ORIGINAL IRS form if you want to customize it yourself. This editable Word version was produced with Scansoft PDF Converter Professional.

The AMENDED column contains a form that has been modified to remove all injurious and false presumptions of the readers and recipients as follows:

1. All indications of liability such as the word "owe" are replaced with "pay illegally under protest and duress".
2. Uses of the word "taxpayer" are replaced with "nontaxpayer".
3. Uses of the phrase "U.S. citizen" are replaced with "national" (8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21)) or "non-resident non-person".
4. Any place the form says "in United States" is replaced with "outside United States".
5. If the only option presented for natural persons is "individual", then an additional option is added for "Transient foreigner".
6. Perjury statements are modified as follows:
 - 6.1. Replace "penalty of perjury" with "penalty of perjury from without the United States under 28 U.S.C. §1746\(1\)"
 - 6.2. Indicate the existence of duress
 - 6.3. Indicate "All rights reserved without prejudice, U.C.C. 1-308 and its predecessor U.C.C. 1-207"
7. Places where it asks you what country you live in have the phrase "(state)" after them.
8. References to "beneficial owner" are replaced with "non-resident non-person not engaged in a trade or business" so as not to incriminate yourself or violate the Fifth Amendment
9. The phrase "permanent address", which means "domicile", is filled in with the phrase "None (no domicile)". Click here to read our article on domicile to learn why this change was made.

Wherever possible, you should use the AMENDED form instead of the ORIGINAL form because if you don't, you will needlessly prejudice your rights in court and encourage false presumptions about your true status. We also note that government forms should NEVER be altered with the intent of deceiving anyone or committing fraud or perjury. Perjury is a criminal offense in violation of 18 U.S.C. §1001 and 18 U.S.C. 1542 that we do not condone or tolerate. Instead, the purpose of using the Amended form is to PREVENT perjury on government forms. Most government forms require a perjury statement and if they are false or could be misconstrued as false by an ignorant or presumptuous reader, then this could unnecessarily imperil the liberties of the submitter. If the IRS tries to penalize you for altering forms, then we suggest using the standard IRS form and using the following excellent attachment with all ORIGINAL IRS forms submitted in order to prevent prejudicing your rights or sovereignty or committing perjury under penalty of perjury in attempting to truthfully and unambiguously describe your legal status on government forms:

Tax Form Attachment, Form #04.201 (OFFSITE LINK)
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

If you would like to modify existing IRS forms to create your own Amended or changed forms that more accurately and truthfully represent your status, then we recommend the following options:

1. If you want to turn the PDF form into an editable Microsoft Word document that you can change to suit your needs and then print as a PDF, then we highly recommend the following:

- 1.1. Scansoft PDF Converter Professional- Creates PDFs like Acrobat and also will convert PDFs into editable Microsoft Word documents. This program also has a slick feature called "FormTyper" that will take any PDF form and automatically turn it into a fillable Acrobat form. EXCELLENT!
2. If you have the original PDF off the government website and want to edit it DIRECTLY, the following products are recommended in descending order of capability and value, where the first listed is the best but the most expensive:
 - 2.1. Adobe Illustrator-Edits existing PDF forms but not useful for creating new forms. Part of Adobe Creative Suite. Very good but expensive.
 - 2.2. Adobe Lifecycle Designer-Edits or designs forms in original PDF format. Part of Adobe Creative Suite. Very good but expensive. This product is REALLY cool because you can import an original IRS form and convert it so an editable form with fillable fields, then resave it looking better than the original! Well worth the money. You will need to buy a disk full of fonts to go with this so you can exactly replicate the look of the original form as an installed system font. We recommend visiting Fonts.com to buy the Helvetica Neue font packs, which is what the IRS uses on all their forms.
 - 2.3. Nitro PDF-$99. Edit PDF's directly, print them from any application, created or edit forms. Directly edit text and graphics. Simple, powerful, attractive interface. Versatile and RELIABLE. THE BEST OF THE BUNCH! You got to get this program!
 - 2.4. Foxit Software PDF Editor-mainly for text editing but decent. $99. Does not do picture editing. Not WYSIWYG (What You See Is What You Get) because actual PDF in Acrobat does not look exactly the same as the program displays it. Unlike Scansoft PDF Converter Professional, you can add text to make it part of the document, instead of just a comment.
 - 2.5. Zeon Docucom PDF Gold-PDF editing and creation.
 - 2.6. Scansoft PDF Converter Professional-feature rich and much cheaper than Adobe Acrobat. Does not allow add any kind of text other than comments, and this limits usefulness in modifying IRS forms. $99. Creates PDFs like Acrobat and also will convert PDFs into editable Microsoft Word documents. The other options listed here cannot do this.
 - 2.7. CAD-KAS PDF Editor-$79. Does graphics and picture and text editing. The copyright license mechanism is very restrictive and you have to buy a license for each machine you install on. This program is buggy and corrupts some PDF files. Watch out!
3. You can reuse any of the MS Word formatted versions of most of the common IRS forms listed below. These appear in editable format for your reuse.
4. If you are starting with a raster scanned PDF image and want to edit the form, the following two graphics editing products can edit bitmapped PDF forms quite well:
 - 4.1. Adobe Photoshop CS (Expensive, $700+)
 - 4.2. Adobe Photoshop Elements (Cheap, $99)
5. If you want to design your own substitute forms, the following products are listed in descending order of their usefulness and quality:
 - 5.1. Adobe Lifecycle Designer-Designs forms in original PDF format. Part of Adobe Creative Suite. Very good but expensive. This product is REALLY cool because you can import an original IRS form and convert it so an editable form with fillable fields, then resave it looking better than the original! Well worth the money. You will need to buy a disk full of fonts to go with this so you can exactly replicate the look of the original form as an installed system font. We recommend visiting Fonts.com to buy the Helvetica Neue font packs, which is what the IRS uses on all their forms.
 - 5.2. Amgraf Oneform Designer Plus-the best and most versatile
 - 5.3. Scansoft Omniform-used on older IRS forms
6. If you do produce a new or amended tax form, please kindly post it to our forums as an attachment for reuse by others. This will save lots of trouble and time for others. Post it in the "New Research Submittal" area of the Family Guardian forums and we will repost it for others reuse. You will need to register to obtain an account in order to post to our forums.

This affidavit is to be used in tandem with the Test for Federal Tax Professionals. Whenever you send this Test to the IRS in any of your correspondence, for instance, with an Request for Refund Affidavit, you should give them the allotted amount of time to respond, usually 45 days, and then mail them the Notice of Default below to inform them that they have admitted fact under the Uniform Commercial Code. It is a very effective tool and is based on UCC 1-205. We escaped $1,000 in frivolous return penalties by sending out this notice and shut the IRS immediately from making inflated claims of liability!

VERIFIED AFFIDAVIT OF DEFAULT

STATE OF _____)
 _____)
 COUNTY OF _____)

Affiant, having firsthand knowledge concerning the facts contained herein, provides this Verified Affidavit of Default to _____(agentname) of the Internal Revenue Service. Affiant hereby deposes and states the facts as stated herein and attests that this Affidavit is true, correct, and complete.

1. That the affiant, _____(name), did mail to the Internal Revenue Service Affidavit(s), entitled "Test for Federal Tax Professionals", certified mail, dated _____(date) at the above address, on _____(date). This affidavit included ____ (number) enclosures and a claim of no tax liability.
2. Said Affidavit(s) by Agency as evidenced by Certified mail receipt number # _____.
3. No response by the Internal Revenue Service, or any other lawfully delegated representative of the said Agency and/or department has ever been received refuting the claims made in the aforesaid Affidavit.
4. The Internal Revenue Service was granted 45 days in which to respond to the facts stated in the Affidavit(s) and did not refute them during that time period, thereby "defaulting" on _____(date).

Default having occurred, whereas the Internal Revenue Service employee(s) failed to respond to said Affidavit(s), the following facts are hereby established in accordance with the Uniform Commercial Code, section 1-205:

1. Divestiture, dispositive facts are established by the Internal Revenue Service, respecting facts stated in said Affidavit(s), wherein they had the opportunity and "failed to plead," and thereby have extinguished the right to proceed against Claimant in this matter.
2. The facts and claims are contained within the said Affidavit(s) are considered accurate, as they have not been rebutted, by counter-affidavit, by someone competent to know the law, within the forty five (45) days required. All matters not denied are affirmed.
3. Agency/Department failed to issue or maintain documents as required in response to said affidavit.
4. Internal Revenue Service, by defaulting to the said Affidavit(s) has been deemed to have waived all rights allegedly claimed against _____(your name) respecting unlawful assessment or collection of alleged taxes or penalties owed for said tax years and agrees to refund all taxes paid and waive right of collection for any back taxes.

The following is a by no means complete summary of the facts established by failure of the Internal Revenue Service to timely respond to all the issues and claims made in said Affidavit:

1. Fiduciary Duty

- 1.1. Employees of the Internal Revenue Service have a fiduciary relationship with the citizens that they serve and are agents of a public trust.

- 1.2. This fiduciary relationship establishes an obligation to act in the best interests of the public at large, and for the general welfare of the citizens they serve and to put the interests of the public above their own private interests and the government agency that they work for..
- 1.3. It is in the best interests of the citizens that they serve for them to be well-informed about the legal basis justifying their tax liability so that it can be fully and promptly satisfied.
- 1.4. Said Affidavit fully and completely identified the responsibilities and liabilities of said citizen according to the years of research conducted by affiant and hundreds of other learned tax professionals, including CPA's and at least three tax attorneys.
- 1.5. An opportunity to satisfy the burden of proof imposed on the Internal Revenue Service as the moving party to demonstrate tax liability of affiant and the inaccuracies of his findings was afforded by said Affidavit to the IRS.
- 1.6. The IRS failed to refute the claims of the affiant and failed to respond to said Affidavit and legal notice, and thereby established and determined the extent of the legal tax liabilities of the affiant, which are thereby established as "not liable and due a full refund" for the years in question.

2. Jurisdiction

- 2.1. Affiant is not a "person" in the context of the Internal Revenue Code.
- 2.2. Affiant does not live in "the State of" or "this State" as defined in California Revenue and Taxation Code sections 6017 and 17018 or Internal Revenue Code Section 7701(a)(10). The definition of the "State" in which federal income taxes apply is that found in the Buck Act, 4 U.S.C. §110(d).
- 2.3. Affiant does not live in the "United States" defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9).
- 2.4. The Internal Revenue Service and the federal government have no jurisdiction under the Constitution to enforce or impose direct taxes on human beings outside of federal enclaves and inside the sovereign 50 states. This restriction is imposed by Article 1, Section 9, Clause 4 and Article 1, Section 2, Clause 3 of the U.S. Constitution and these restrictions were NOT removed by passage of the Sixteenth Amendment.
- 2.5. I.R.C> Subtitles A through C income taxes are considered indirect taxes according to the U.S. Supreme Court. Indirect taxes are taxes on other than human beings.
- 2.6. Subtitles A through C income taxes are considered indirect taxes according to the Internal Revenue Service. Indirect taxes are taxes on other than human beings.
- 2.7. The Internal Revenue Service has no authority to overrule the determinations of the U.S. Supreme Court's definition of Subtitles A through C income taxes as indirect excise taxes.
- 2.8. The "United States" is defined in the Fourteenth Amendment as the territory over which the sovereignty of the "United States" extends, which includes only the District of Columbia, enclaves within the states, and other territories and possessions of the United States.
- 2.9. The United States Treasury Secretary has no delegated authority to impose or enforce "direct taxes" upon citizens living in the 50 states.
- 2.10. The Department of Justice has no delegated authority to defend IRS agents against criminal prosecution for wrongdoing in connection with the administration of the Internal Revenue Code.
- 2.11. The Department of Justice has no delegated authority to civilly or criminally prosecute Americans Citizens living inside the 50 states for noncompliance with I.R.C. Subtitles A through C income taxes.
- 2.12. "U.S. citizen" status, which is one of the prerequisites of income tax liability found in section 1 of the Internal Revenue Code, means 14th Amendment citizenship and birth or naturalization in the federal United States (areas over which the federal government is sovereign).
- 2.13. The status of being a "U.S. national" rather than a "U.S. citizen" relieves persons from federal tax liability under "U.S. citizen" status.
- 2.14. The word "includes" as used throughout the Internal Revenue Code is a word of limitation and not enlargement. The purpose for using it is to restrict rather than enlarge the definition of a word to the terms it introduces. Any other interpretation of the word constitutes a violation of due process of law, an illegal and unconstitutional enlargement of federal jurisdiction, and a satisfaction of the Supreme Court's "void vagueness" doctrine in the context of the Sixth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

3. Income Tax Liability

- 3.1. The Internal Revenue Code "imposes" a tax in section 1, but "imposing" the tax does not make a person liable or specify the situs under which a person is liable.
- 3.2. There is no code section anywhere in the Internal Revenue Code that makes a human being such as myself liable for the payment of Federal personal income taxes.
- 3.3. "Gross income" means income derived from whatever source derived.
- 3.4. The IRS have no constitutional authority to define income as other than corporate profits, and no authority to define "income" at all. Only the U.S. Constitution can define income.
- 3.5. "Income" as properly defined by the U.S. Supreme Court means "corporate profit".

- 3.6. Affiant is not a corporation and has no corporate profit.
- 3.7. 26 U.S.C. §863 provides a means of allocating gross income to specific sources that are taxable based on the location where they were derived. There is no other authority for allocating items of gross income to specific taxable sources.
- 3.8. 26 C.F.R. §1.863-1 identifies how to determine taxable income from specific sources within or without the United States.
- 3.9. The legal authority for determining the taxability of a source of income (not an item of gross income, but a source or situs of income) is 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f)
- 3.10. 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8T(d)(2)(iii) defines income that is not considered tax exempt. This section does not list the income of most American Citizens. Therefore, affiant is exempt from federal income tax.
- 3.11. Affiant is not a “taxpayer” within the context of Subtitles A through C or the California Revenue and Taxation Code because no liability for the payment of such income taxes has been or can be demonstrated.
- 3.12. The IRS has no authority to exercise levy or distraint against American Citizens in connection with payment of Subtitles A through C federal income taxes. The enforcement codes found in Subtitle F do not have any implementing regulations that apply distraint for enforcement of Subtitles A through C income taxes.
- 3.13. IRS has no authority to assess an American with a Subtitle A through C income tax liability. Only the Citizen can assess himself with an income tax liability. That is why the U.S. Supreme Court said in the case of Flora v. U.S., 362 U.S. 145 that: “Our system of taxation is based upon voluntary assessment and payment, not upon distraint.” Voluntary assessment means self assessment in this case.
- 3.14. The IRS does not have in their possession a valid assessment. All self-assessments have already been invalidated, which means that all monies paid in taxes for the years in question must be returned to the affiant.
- 3.15. 26 C.F.R. §31.3121(e)-1 is the only place in the Internal Revenue Code or 26 C.F.R. where the term “citizen of the United States” or “U.S. citizen” is defined.
- 3.16. The IRS has no lawful authority to violate the Constitutional rights of the affiant.
- 3.17. The Internal Revenue Service has no evidence in their position that proves that the affiant is a “U.S. citizen” subject to the taxes “imposed” in I.R.C. Section 1.
- 3.18. The revenue officer in receipt of the questions does not have an enforcement pocket commission and therefore has no lawful authority to institute distraint against the affiant.
- 3.19. The only place that the term “citizen of the United States” or “U.S. citizen” is defined anywhere in the Internal Revenue Code or 26 C.F.R. is in 26 C.F.R. §31.3121 (e)-1.
- 3.20. Income means “corporate profit” according to the U.S. Supreme Court.
- 3.21. Affiant is not a federal corporation subject to the federal income tax.
- 3.22. The federal income tax authorized by the Sixteenth Amendment is an indirect tax on federally chartered corporate privileges.
- 3.23. IRS has no lawful authority to define the term “income” and only the U.S. Constitution can define it.
- 3.24. To have “gross income”, one must have income from federally chartered corporate activities, which the affiant does not.
- 3.25. The only definition of the term “individual” found anywhere in the Internal Revenue Code or 26 C.F.R. appears in 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3).
- 3.26. A person who fills out a 1040 form by law must either be an alien or a nonresident alien under 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3).
- 3.27. A person cannot be a “U.S. citizen” and an “individual” at the same time because they are mutually exclusive, based on the definition of “individual” found in 26 C.F.R. §1.1441(c)(3).
- 3.28. Only “aliens” as defined in 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3) are required to fill out and submit IRS form 1040. Nonresident aliens are supposed to use the IRS form 1040NR and not the 1040.
- 3.29. U.S. citizens are not required by law to complete or file any income tax form, including the 1040 or the 1040NR.

4. Penalties and criminal enforcement jurisdiction

- 4.1. The only “persons” against whom penalties may be instituted under Subtitle F of the Internal Revenue Code are defined in 26 C.F.R. §301.6671-1(b), which are defined as officers or employees of corporations or members or employees of partnerships.
- 4.2. Affiant is not the “person” against whom penalties can be levied under Subtitle F of the Internal Revenue Code.
- 4.3. There are no implementing regulations for the Internal Revenue Code Section 1 income tax that authorize the imposition of penalties against anyone for refusing to pay these taxes.
- 4.4. The only authority to impose civil penalties by the IRS is through filing suit in federal court. Liens and levies may not be used against American Citizens to collect penalties.
- 4.5. Our tax system is voluntary. Penalties can’t be applied for noncompliance because it is voluntary.

- 4.6. All documents submitted with tax returns constitute compelled testimony. Because the testimony is compelled and submitted under duress, it is not admissible as evidence in a court of law because it was illegally obtained as per the U.S. Supreme Court in the case of Weeks v. United States, 232 U.S. 383 (1914).
- 4.7. The imposition of penalties for refusing to communicate with the government on a tax return is a violation of the First Amendment right of free speech of the affiant.
- 4.8. The IRS has no delegation of authority order authorizing them to compel the affiant to commit fraud on his tax return.
- 4.9. The Fourth Amendment right of privacy is unlawfully infringed by the tax laws, in that maintaining one's privacy by not declaring deductions results in an additional tax assessment. Such an addition tax assessment amounts to a penalty for the exercise of Constitutionally guaranteed rights, which is unconstitutional.
- 4.10. A "tax shelter" is defined an investment which reduces the existing tax liability of a "taxpayer" and which is registered as an investment security with appropriate Federal and State authorities.
- 4.11. A "tax shelter" is an "abusive tax shelter" only if it is sold or marketed or promoted to a "taxpayer".
- 4.12. The affiant does not sell or promote "tax shelters" as they are defined in 26 U.S.C. §6111 and 26 U.S.C. §6112. The government is not in possession of any evidence that would suggest otherwise, because they were asked for such evidence and did not provide any.
- 4.13. Even if a "person" were selling, promoting, or marketing an investment that could be legally described as a "tax shelter", that investment could not be legally described as an "abusive tax shelter" if it were sold only to persons who claimed that they were "nontaxpayers" and not liable for the tax in question.

5. Collections

- 5.1. Only "public officers" of the United States government are the proper subject of an IRS levy.
- 5.2. Affiant is not a proper or lawful object of an IRS levy.
- 5.3. Seizure of property to satisfy tax debts can only lawfully occur if it is ordered by a neutral and disinterested magistrate.
- 5.4. The IRS issues Notices of Levy without proper orders from a magistrate. Therefore, such notices cannot be a legal or lawful means of seizing or obtaining property in satisfaction of alleged tax debts. Only a court order provides legitimate authority to seize property under the Fourth Amendment. Use of such notices constitutes extortion under the color of office, fraud, and subjects the issuing person to personal criminal liability.
- 5.5. In the context of a Notice of Deficiency, there is no legal basis or delegated authority to establish a tax liability absent a valid self-assessment by the affected Citizen.
- 5.6. IRS has no lawful authority to send out a Notice of Deficiency absent a valid self-assessment.
- 5.7. IRS has no legal authority to call affiant a "taxpayer" because they have not demonstrated tax liability.
- 5.8. 26 C.F.R. §301.6303-1 is not a legislative regulation, but a procedural regulation, and therefore may not be used to institute collection actions or distraint against American Citizens.

6. Employment Tax Withholding

- 6.1. The affiant does not meet the definition of "employee" to which IRC Subtitle C employment taxes may be applied.
- 6.2. All employment taxes deducted from one's pay are treated legally as gifts to the U.S. government and fall into tax class 5. The reason is for this is that a valid assessment is not done until the Citizen voluntarily assesses himself by filing a tax return.
- 6.3. IRS has no legal or Constitutional authority to tell private employers to withhold at the single zero rate absent consent from the Citizen and is committing fraud and extortion under the color of office in doing so.
- 6.4. The affiant does not earn "wages" as they are defined in 26 U.S.C. §3401(a) because he is not an "employee" as that term is defined in 26 C.F.R. § 31.3401(c).

7. Social Security

- 7.1. The term "United States" in the context of Social Security means the federal government only, which consists of the District of Columbia, the federal enclaves inside the 50 states, and other portions of the "federal zone" subject to the exclusive legislative jurisdiction of the federal government under Article 1, section 8, Clause 17 of the U.S. Constitution.
- 7.2. The term "subject to the jurisdiction of the United States" means the exclusive sovereign jurisdiction under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 17 of the U.S. Constitution.
- 7.3. The federal government does not have exclusive jurisdiction or sovereignty over the 50 states of the union but it does have such jurisdiction over Washington, D.C. and U.S. territories.
- 7.4. Persons "subject to the jurisdiction of the United States at birth" as defined in the Fourteenth Amendment means that they do not have full constitutional protections and the Bill Of Rights that private citizens in the 50 states who are not U.S. citizens have.

- 1 7.5. The SS-5 does not provide a wide range of citizenship choices. Only “U.S. citizen” (e.g. 14th Amendment 2 citizen).
3 7.6. The SS-5 form does not define the term “U.S. citizen”.
4 7.7. Declaring one’s self to be a “U.S. citizen” on an SS-5 form subjects a person to the exclusive sovereign
5 jurisdiction of the U.S. government no matter where they live.
6 7.8. SS-5 form does not warn human beings completing it that they are surrendering their constitutional rights and 7 therefore constitutes fraud.

8 In accordance with 28 U.S.C. §1746(1), I do hereby attest and affirm, under the penalties of perjury from without the
9 “United States”, under the laws of the United States of America that to the best of my/our knowledge and belief, the above
10 Affidavit is true, correct, and complete.

18 Affiant, having firsthand knowledge concerning the facts contained herein, provides this Verified Affidavit of Default to 19 _____ (agent name) of the California Franchise Tax Board. Affiant hereby deposes and states the facts as 20 stated herein and attests that this Affidavit is true, correct, and complete.

- 21 1. That the affiant, _____ (name), did mail to the Franchise Tax Board Affidavit(s), entitled "Test for 22 California State Tax Professionals", certified mail, dated _____ (date), at the above address, on 23 _____ (date). This affidavit included _____ (number) enclosures and a claim of no tax liability.
- 24 2. Said Affidavit(s) by Agency as evidenced by Certified mail receipt number # _____.
- 25 3. No response by the California Franchise Tax Board, or any other lawfully delegated representative of the said Agency 26 and/or department has ever been received refuting the claims made in the aforesaid Affidavit.
- 27 4. The Franchise Tax Board was granted 45 days in which to respond to the facts stated in the Affidavit(s) and did not 28 refute them during that time period, thereby "defaulting" on _____.

29 Default having occurred, whereas the Franchise Tax Board employee(s) failed to respond to said Affidavit(s), the 30 following facts are hereby established in accordance with the Uniform Commercial Code, section 1-205:

- 31 1. Divestiture, dispositive facts are established by the California Franchise Tax Board, respecting facts stated in said
 32 Affidavit(s), wherein they had the opportunity and "failed to plead," and thereby have extinguished the right to 33 proceed against Claimant in this matter.
- 34 2. The facts and claims are contained within the said Affidavit(s) are considered accurate, as they have not been 35 rebutted, by counter-affidavit, by someone competent to know the law, within the forty five (45) days required.
 36 All matters not denied are affirmed.
- 37 3. Agency/Department failed to issue or maintain documents as required.
- 38 4. The California Franchise Tax Board, by defaulting to the said Affidavit(s) has been deemed to have waived all 39 rights allegedly claimed against _____ (your name) respecting unlawful assessment or 40 collection of alleged taxes or penalties owed for said tax years and agrees to refund all taxes paid and waive right
 41 of collection for any back taxes.

42
 43 The following is a by no means complete summary of the facts established by failure of the California Franchise Tax Board
 44 to respond to all the issues and claims made in said Affidavit:

1. Fiduciary Duty

- 45 1.1. Employees of the Franchise Tax Board have a fiduciary relationship with the citizens that they serve and are 46 agents of a public trust.
 47

- 1.2. This fiduciary relationship establishes an obligation to act in the best interests of the public at large, and for the general welfare of the citizens they serve and to put the interests of the public above their own private interests and the government agency that they work for..
- 1.3. It is in the best interests of the citizens that they serve for them to be well-informed about the legal basis justifying their tax liability so that it can be fully and promptly satisfied.
- 1.4. Said Affidavit fully and completely identified the responsibilities and liabilities of said citizen according to the years of research conducted by affiant and hundreds of other learned tax professionals, including CPA's and at least three tax attorneys.
- 1.5. An opportunity to satisfy the burden of proof imposed on the California Franchise Tax Board as the moving party to demonstrate tax liability of affiant and the inaccuracies of his findings was afforded by said Affidavit to the FTB.
- 1.6. The FTB failed to refute the claims of the affiant and failed to respond to said Affidavit and legal notice, and thereby established and determined the extent of the legal tax liabilities of the affiant, which are thereby established as "not liable and due a full refund" for the years in question.

2. Jurisdiction

- 2.1. Affiant is not a "person" in the context of the Internal Revenue Code.
- 2.2. Affiant does not live in "the State of" or "this State" as defined in California Revenue and Taxation Code sections 6017 and 17018 or Internal Revenue Code Section 7701(a)(10). The definition of the "State" in which California income taxes apply is that found in the Buck Act, 4 U.S.C. §110(d).
- 2.3. Affiant does not live in the "United States" defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9).
- 2.4. Subtitles A through C income taxes are considered indirect taxes according to the U.S. Supreme Court. Indirect taxes are taxes on other than human beings.
- 2.5. Subtitles A through C income taxes are considered indirect taxes according to the California Franchise Tax Board. Indirect taxes are taxes on other than human beings.
- 2.6. The California Franchise Tax Board has no authority to overrule the determinations of the U.S. Supreme Court's definition of Subtitles A through C income taxes as indirect excise taxes.
- 2.7. The "United States" is defined in the Fourteenth Amendment as the territory over which the sovereignty of the "United States" extends, which includes only the District of Columbia, enclaves within the states, and other territories and possessions of the United States.
- 2.8. "U.S. citizen" status, which is one of the prerequisites of income tax liability found in section 1 of the Internal Revenue Code, means 14th Amendment citizenship and birth or naturalization in the federal United States (areas over which the federal government is sovereign).
- 2.9. The status of being a "U.S. national" rather than a "U.S. citizen" relieves persons from federal tax liability under "U.S. citizen" status.
- 2.10. The word "includes" as used throughout the Internal Revenue Code is a word of limitation and not enlargement. The purpose for using it is to restrict rather than enlarge the definition of a word to the terms it introduces. Any other interpretation of the word constitutes a violation of due process of law, an illegal and unconstitutional enlargement of federal jurisdiction, and a satisfaction of the Supreme Court's "void vagueness" doctrine in the context of the Sixth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

3. Income Tax Liability

- 3.1. The California Revenue and Taxation Code "imposes" a tax in section 17041, but "imposing" the tax does not make a person liable or specify the situs under which a person is liable.
- 3.2. There is no code section anywhere in the California Revenue and Taxation Code that makes a person liable for the payment of California personal income taxes.
- 3.3. Line 12 of the California form 540 starts with the word "State". This is the same "State" defined in R&TC §§6017 and 17018.
- 3.4. State income taxes only apply to persons who reside in the "State" defined above in R&TC §§6017 and 17018.
- 3.5. Only federal and state corporations and human beings residing (living) inside federal enclaves within California can be liable for the payment of state income taxes.
- 3.6. "Gross income" means income derived from whatever source derived.
- 3.7. The IRS and the FTB have no constitutional authority to define income as other than corporate profits, and no authority to define "income" at all. Only the U.S. Constitution can define income.
- 3.8. "Income" as properly defined by the U.S. Supreme Court means "corporate profit".
- 3.9. Affiant is not a corporation and has no corporate profit.
- 3.10. 26 U.S.C. §863 provides a means of allocating gross income to specific sources that are taxable based on the location where they were derived. There is no other authority for allocating items of gross income to specific taxable sources.

- 3.11. 26 C.F.R. §1.863-1 identifies how to determine taxable income from specific sources within or without the United States.
- 3.12. The legal authority for determining the taxability of a source of income (not an item of gross income, but a source or situs of income) is 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f)
- 3.13. 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8T(d)(2)(iii) defines income that is not considered tax exempt. This section does not list the income of most American Citizens. Therefore, affiant is exempt from federal income tax.
- 3.14. Affiant is not a “taxpayer” within the context of Subtitles A through C or the California Revenue and Taxation Code because no liability for the payment of such income taxes has been or can be demonstrated.
- 3.15. The IRS has no authority to exercise levy or distraint against American Citizens in connection with payment of Subtitles A through C federal income taxes. The enforcement codes found in Subtitle F do not have any implementing regulations that apply distraint for enforcement of Subtitles A through C income taxes.
- 3.16. IRS has no authority to assess an American with a Subtitle A through C income tax liability. Only the Citizen can assess himself with an income tax liability. That is why the U.S. Supreme Court said in the case of Flora v. U.S., 362 U.S. 145 that: “Our system of taxation is based upon voluntary assessment and payment, not upon distraint.” Voluntary assessment means self assessment in this case.
- 3.17. Neither the IRS or the California FTB have in their possession a valid assessment. All self-assessments have already been invalidated, which means that all monies paid in taxes for the years in question must be returned to the affiant.
- 3.18. The Franchise Tax Board has no evidence in their position that proves that the affiant is a “U.S. citizen”
- 3.19. The only place that the term “citizen of the United States” or “U.S. citizen” is defined anywhere in the Internal Revenue Code or 26 C.F.R. is in 26 C.F.R. § 31.3121(e)-1 .
- 3.20. The California Form 590, Withholding Exemption Certificate, states that residents of California are exempt from income tax withholding as per R&TC Section 18662.
- 3.21. Only nonresidents of California are liable for state income taxes.
- 3.22. Affiant is not a nonresident of California. Instead, he is a resident.
- 3.23. I have status 1, which means that I am a resident of California and a nonresident of the federal “United States”. This makes me liable for neither the federal income tax or the state income tax.
- 3.24. The only definition of the term “individual” found anywhere in the Internal Revenue Code or 26 C.F.R. appears in 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3).
- 3.25. A person who fills out a 1040 form by law must either be an alien or a nonresident alien under 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3).
- 3.26. A person cannot be a “U.S. citizen” and an “individual” at the same time because they are mutually exclusive, based on the definition of “individual” found in 26 C.F.R. §1.1441(c)(3).
- 3.27. Only “aliens” as defined in 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3) are required to fill out and submit IRS form 1040. Nonresident aliens are supposed to use the IRS form 1040NR and not the 1040.
- 3.28. U.S. citizens are not required by law to complete or file any income tax form, including the 1040 or the 1040NR.

4. Penalties

- 4.1. The only “persons” against whom penalties may be instituted under Subtitle F of the Internal Revenue Code are defined in 26 C.F.R. §301.6671-1(b), which are defined as officers or employees of corporations or members or employees of partnerships.
- 4.2. Affiant is not the “person” against whom penalties can be levied under Subtitle F of the Internal Revenue Code.
- 4.3. There are no implementing regulations for the Internal Revenue Code Section 1 income tax that authorize the imposition of penalties against anyone for refusing to pay these taxes.
- 4.4. The only authority to impose civil penalties by the IRS is through filing suit in federal court. Liens and levies may not be used against American Citizens to collect penalties.
- 4.5. Our tax system is voluntary. Penalties can’t be applied for noncompliance because it is voluntary.
- 4.6. All documents submitted with tax returns constitute compelled testimony. Because the testimony is compelled and submitted under duress, it is not admissible as evidence in a court of law because it was illegally obtained as per the U.S. Supreme Court in the case of Weeks v. United States, 232 U.S. 383 (1914).
- 4.7. The imposition of penalties for refusing to communicate with the government on a tax return is a violation of the First Amendment right of free speech of the affiant.
- 4.8. The IRS and the FTB have no delegation of authority order authorizing them to compel the affiant to commit fraud on his tax return.
- 4.9. The Fourth Amendment right of privacy is unlawfully infringed by the tax laws, in that maintaining one’s privacy by not declaring deductions results in an additional tax assessment. Such an addition tax assessment amounts to a penalty for the exercise of Constitutionally guaranteed rights, which is unconstitutional.

5. Collections

- 5.1. Only “public officers” of the United States government are the proper subject of an IRS levy.
- 5.2. Affiant is not a proper or lawful object of an IRS levy.
- 5.3. Seizure of property to satisfy tax debts can only lawfully occur if it is ordered by a neutral and disinterested magistrate.
- 5.4. The IRS and the FTB issues Notices of Levy without proper orders from a magistrate. Therefore, such notices cannot be a legal or lawful means of seizing or obtaining property in satisfaction of alleged tax debts. Only a court order provides legitimate authority to seize property under the Fourth Amendment. Use of such notices constitutes extortion under the color of office, fraud, and subjects the issuing person to personal criminal liability.
- 5.5. In the context of a Notice of Deficiency, there is no legal basis or delegated authority to establish a tax liability absent a valid self-assessment by the affected Citizen.
- 5.6. IRS and FTB have no lawful authority to send out a Notice of Deficiency absent a valid self-assessment.
- 5.7. IRS and FTB have no legal authority to call affiant a “taxpayer” because they have not demonstrated tax liability.
- 5.8. 26 C.F.R. §301.6303-1 is not a legislative regulation, but a procedural regulation, and therefore may not be used to institute collection actions or distraint against American Citizens.

In accordance with 28 U.S.C. §1746(1), I do hereby attest and affirm, under the penalties of perjury from without the “United States”, under the laws of California that, to the best of my/our knowledge and belief, the above Affidavit is true, correct, and complete.

Signed,

5.4.1 Pamphlet Handout

The pamphlet below is intended to be handed out to citizens in large gatherings to wake them up to IRS abuses and get them involved.

A FREE PEOPLE AND THE IRS CANNOT CO-EXIST.

The IRS track record of abuse, arrogance, intimidation and blatant theft, clearly documents that there is no greater threat to our individual rights than the IRS. With the IRS, right or wrong doesn't matter. The winner is the last man standing with the biggest wallet.

If our liberty is to be retained, WE, the American people, must put an end to this arrogant and abusive track record once and for all. For all Americans who value their safety, privacy and liberty, there is only one solution:

THE IRS MUST BE DESTROYED!

As long as the IRS can access the names and addresses of campaign contributors, to harass and intimidate them, there can be no fair elections.

As long as the IRS maintains a special file on federal judges, the IRS controls the federal courts and there can be no fair tax trials.

Once information is volunteered to the IRS through tax forms, there is no personal privacy and protection "of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects," as guaranteed under the Constitution for the United States of America.

As an American, you not only have the right, but the duty, to protect your liberty.

Here are five steps you can take to help destroy the IRS:

1st Understand the extent of the problem. Verify the information stated above. Go to the public library. Read the books "LOST RIGHTS - The Destruction of American Liberty" (ISBN 0-312-10351-4) by James Bovard, "UNBRIDLED POWER - An expose of the IRS" (ISBN 0-887-30829-5) by Shelley L. Davis, a former IRS employee historian and "A LAW UNTO ITSELF - Power, Politics and the IRS" (ISBN 0-394-56097-3) by David Burnham.

2nd Act as master of your government and not as a servant subject to it. Call your congressmen and ask if they support the bills to abolish both the income tax and the IRS. If they are not, ask why not and insist that they support these efforts if they want your vote.

3rd Make the destruction of the IRS a personal goal. Help distribute these fliers. Make ten copies, pass them out to ten of your friends, and ask them to make ten copies and pass them out to ten of their friends.

4th Obtain copies of this flier from us ($6/100), send us postage stamps and a donation of your choice to help us with our goal to distribute a million copies of this flier during the year.

5th Until we accomplish our mutual objective of destroying the IRS, don't forget the three basic rules of survival if accosted by any IRS agent for any reason: 1) Don't say anything, 2) Keep your mouth shut and 3) SHUT UP. Insist that all inquiries made by the IRS be in writing. Only you should choose the time and place to talk, if you want to talk at all.

We need you to help build an awareness of our rights and the threat to our rights. Our mutual efforts will lead to a vocal public outcry. A vocal public outcry will lead to the destruction of the IRS, the primary threat to our liberty

History has shown that an oppression was eventually destroyed because of one woman, with intestinal fortitude, who defied unlawful authority and refused to sit in the back of the bus.

U.S. Appeal For Liberty And Justice
P.O. Box 12345
Nowhere, CA 92345

November 27, 2018

Dear Sir or Madam:

This letter is to inform you, among as many citizens of the United States of America as can be reached, about a nationwide federal government fraud that has plagued its People for nearly a century. If you pay income taxes and you are a citizen of the United States of America and your income derives from your hard work for a non-foreign business that is not directly acquainted with your civil, state, or federal government, this fraud has perpetuated itself into your own finances in an extreme fashion.

The Internal Revenue Code contains detailed information about the applicability of taxation of earned income, yet the laws that make most citizens of United States of America liable for income taxes do not exist. In fact, laws that would create income taxes for most citizens of the United States of America are disallowed by the Constitution of the United States of America. Unfortunately, a plague of ignorance and fear has swept Our nation about the laws of Our country, with “common presumption” and an unfair and misleading Judicial System being the defining and applied law of Our nation.

This world has hundreds of incompatible religions and doctrines, each proclaiming that it is the only true religion, each with a centuries or millenniums old following. (While one religion may be true, they cannot all be true if they are incompatible.) The psychology of the human mind is a fallible and feeble one, yet it clings to what its tradition, its superiors, and its authorities declare. Until a few centuries ago, no one believed that the earth was round. Until a few decades ago, no one believed that any object could travel faster than the speed of sound. All of these things have been disproved over time, and in spite of the controversy of each discovery, the world has adjusted to these findings.

We are not done with discoveries yet. But Our ignorance this time is not a scientific or religious matter. Our ignorance is with Our own laws. We have forgotten that Our country was not founded to be maintained by Our leaders alone but by Our own selves, and by doing so we have voluntarily sacrificed Our individual responsibility to keep Our leaders in check. We have failed to examine the very laws that Our enforcers claim exist. The end result is that Our country, which was once “We The People”, stands vulnerably enslaved to a shrouded tyranny of a far greater degree than most of us realize.

If you are like most Americans, at least 20-35% of your paycheck is withheld and sent to the Internal Revenue Service. What you may not have realized is that your payment of “taxes” was voluntary, and you probably didn’t even know that it might not have been owed in the first place. This is not a matter of tax breaks or allowances. This is a matter of understanding whether your income in its entirety is liable for taxation at all.

“The love of money is the root of all evil.” There is no question that money is a powerful force in any developed society. Our country was founded by We The People, standing up to a tyrannical government that imposed “taxation without representation”.

There appears to be an underestimation by Our People, however, regarding the importance of money matters in today’s operations of Our government. In fact, Our government is run by human beings, the same species that fills Our prisons with criminals. And when it comes to money, there is no stopping anyone from developing selfish intentions, even among those in Our government.

In recent years, the discoveries have been made that some of Our appointed leaders have not been properly held accountable, and, as a result, they have shamelessly steered Our nation in a direction that completely violates or even perverts the Constitution of the United States.

For example, in the 1980s, a man named William Benson, a former criminal investigator for the Illinois Department of Revenue for 10 years, made the astonishing discovery that the Sixteenth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States of America was fraudulently declared into law without proper authorization of the States. Benson visited all 48 state capitals involved in the 1913 amendment ratification to examine the historical documents and see if the state governments had indeed ratified the amendment. The evidence was clear and obvious: Secretary of State Philander Chase Knox fraudulently issued a proclamation that 38 states had ratified the amendment, when in fact this was not true. (Benson has published his findings in his two-volume book series, The Law That Never Was.) It was no coincidence, then, that the Internal Revenue Service was established in 1913 and that the Federal Reserve Bank was established in 1913, the same year that the Sixteenth Amendment supposedly “became Constitutional law”. What has resulted from the multi-faceted 1913 conspiracy is worthless fiat money and inflation, for which interest is paid for by the “ignorance” (income) tax, and which is a direct and unlawful violation of Article I, Section 10 of the Constitution.

For some time, it has also been known and reexamined by a careful few individuals that the income tax laws do not actually impose taxes on most citizens working and living within the U.S. (A simple examination of 26 C.F.R. §1.863-1(c) and all indicated references and sub-references should reveal this.) Yet, the Internal Revenue Service still drags citizens to court every year. The courts make “criminals” out of law-abiding citizens for breaking laws that do not exist. They encourage the media to report the punishment of these individuals, for the sole purpose of putting fear and misunderstanding into the hearts of Americans.

The harsh reality of the abuses of law that the executive and judicial branches of government have exercised is a serious matter that is worthy of your attention. Entire wars have been fought over matters of tyranny such as this. One such war was Our own, in Our initial statement of independence from Great Britain.

But unfortunately, no one seems to care about the clear and obvious facts regarding the government’s explicit violations of Our laws. It is business as usual for the federal government and for nonsensical, naïve, and unwise American citizens who do not realize the danger of their apathy, laziness, and/or disbelief, nearly all of which have accepted the intended fear that the government has imposed upon the People. The apparent reality is that it is no longer in the interests of Our leaders to cease the fraudulence that began a century ago. They will not cooperate on their own. It is now Our responsibility to stand up!

The following observations can be made upon examination of the facts:

- The Constitution, in Article 1, Section 9, Clause 4 disallows the imposition of a direct tax on the incomes of citizens working and living with the U.S. without apportionment, which is to say based on a census of population, a bill is sent to the state legislature for their portion of the federal funds required for that year. Such a direct tax on incomes of individual citizens would be a burden and a regulation on these incomes—your property—which is a violation of your Fifth the liberties issued to the citizens of the states by the Constitution and by God Himself.
- The Fifth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States of America disallows the government from taking private property for public use without just compensation or due process of law (court hearing). The payment of interest to the Federal Reserve debt—and otherwise fines, fees, and imprisonment for nonpayment of income taxes—are not “just compensation”.
- The Fifth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States of America also prohibits the federal government from requiring anyone to file a tax return if there is any possibility that the return can be used against the person in a criminal case. The courts have frequently and unlawfully denied persons their due Fifth Amendment rights in this matter.
- The Thirteenth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States of America protects us from being imposed “involuntary servitude”. Wages and salaries are the direct remuneration for personal services rendered. If any of this remuneration is involuntarily redirected or apportioned from the recipient to a third party such as the government then the time and/or effort spent to achieve those wages or salaries occurred as slavery and the money taken as involuntarily servitude. Therefore, the “income tax” for most citizens of the United States of America generating income in the United States of America is voluntary, and is therefore not a tax but a donation, which is paid toward interest of the Federal Reserve debt.
- In 1984 William Benson visited 48 states to examine historical documents concerning the ratification of the Sixteenth Amendment. He proved and documented that the Sixteenth (“Income Tax”) Amendment to the Constitution was not properly ratified by all required states and was fraudulently added to the Constitution. The courts have ignored the facts concerning the ratification of the amendment. It should therefore be addressed by all states and by Congress so that it can be removed from the context of the Constitution, where it clearly does not belong.
- The Internal Revenue Service frequently points to the Sixteenth Amendment as proof that that the federal government has the right to place a direct tax on your income. However, the Sixteenth Amendment created no such power. The Sixteenth Amendment is a reiteration of the limitations of Congress’ power; it is not an empowering amendment. It disallows Congress to place apportionments on income taxes. Therefore, income taxes can only be indirect taxes, and cannot be direct taxes; you cannot have a direct tax without apportionment.

- Our country's leaders (Our Senators, the IRS commissioner, etc.) are aware of these matters, yet they consistently refuse to admit or refute the accusations. They have even attempted bribery to keep the truth from being known. This is a serious matter of law, and their avoidance of the issue is a clear indication of confirmation of a willful conspiracy to keep the public ignorant of the truth.
- Determination of whether a supposed law is fraudulent or illegitimate is a matter that is supposed to be taken up by the United States Judicial System. Yet the Supreme Court has denied looking into the matter of the 16th Amendment's ratification, in spite of the conclusive and detailed evidence presented by William Benson, because, they claim, it is a "political matter".
- According to the Internal Revenue Code, the so-called "Income Tax" is only applicable to foreigners, foreign sources, and government employees. It does not indicate, in any form or fashion, that citizens of the United States of America who receive remuneration from non-foreign businesses in the United States of America are subject to taxation. Any serious and unbiased review of the Internal Revenue Code and the associated regulations will confirm this.
- The conspiracy of the income tax thrives on ignorance. Most Internal Revenue Service staff as well as most tax "experts" are ill-informed to presume that income taxes apply to every living human within the United States and that the only sections of the Internal Revenue Code presumably worth examining are those used in determining how to measure the details of the imposed tax (i.e. "You obviously owe, of course, so the only question is how much"). The sections of the Internal Revenue Code that specifically define exactly what sources of income are considered taxable, such as 26 U.S.C. §861, are frequently ignored by tax "experts" and IRS employees who claim that these sections are for "something else". Historically, these sections indicated that only foreign sources are considered taxable. Yet these individuals have been unable to identify exactly which section of the Internal Revenue Code identifies the earned remuneration of citizens living and working within the United States working for a non-foreign business to be taxable, because such laws do not exist.
- In 1954, certain parts of the Internal Revenue Code were re-worded—without intention to redefine law—to obfuscate the applicability of taxation of foreign income and to make income taxes appear to be applicable to the general American public. Other such cover-ups occurred in 1921, 1978, 1988, and 1995.

These accusations likely make you skeptical of both sides of the story. But this is a plea to you and to your household: Determine for yourself who is telling the truth.

We are at a bind, Our hands are tied, until every American learns to wake up and stand up to tyranny and holds the government in its place. The government should not be above Us, nor should We be dictated or enslaved by Our government. We The People should run Our government, not the government run Us. In the event Our government assumes control of the People, We would once again find ourselves in the bondage of slavery and tyranny. But this has already happened.

There are many things you can do. 1) Be conscientious of and educated in Our laws, their history, and why they exist. 2) Demand that your senator or representative take a stand in favor of the liberties of the People in light of the facts listed herein. 3) Determine how to take a stand for yourself. Is safety in the chains of tyranny more important to you than your liberty and personal security? 4) Stop using fiat money and worthless Federal Reserve Notes. There are other legal forms of currency, such as NORFED currency (see norfed.org), that contain genuine value as titles to silver or gold. Ask your bank to consider accepting NORFED currency as a registered Redemption Center. 5) Sign and have your friends and neighbors sign the attached petition and mail it to us. We will collect and count the petitions and submit them together in 2002.

Do not be too concerned about the "patriotic duty" of paying voluntary monies the IRS calls "income tax" to the government. The financial requirements of Our government to operate are irrelevant to this debate because a) Our federal government, in cooperation with the Federal Reserve Bank, makes money out of thin air as it is needed, and b) the income taxes do not pay for federal government operations but for interest on the Federal Reserve debt. Our government is not kept in check by how much money it is funded by its People; rather, it splurges into deeper debt as it pleases.

If you wish to take a stand against a tyrannical and irresponsible government or against the concerned Americans who are responsible for sending you this information, please first examine the evidence brought before you. You will find that the accusations made herein are more legitimate than most would realize.

5.4.3 Fourth of July Newspaper Article

The message below was written by one of our readers, and was intended to be published in every newspaper on or about the 4th of July. Thanks to Christopher Newton for this wonderful article!

"Independence Day; Life, Liberty and Fireworks"

- by Chris Newton -

July 4, 2001

The July 4th holiday is a day for gathering of family and friends in America. Most of us get the day off from our jobs to commemorate the Declaration of Independence by the thirteen original United States of America from the tyranny of the British Crown. This is a day many in our land take for granted, few of whom ever take the time to discuss the significance of the Founding Fathers' signing and submitting of a treasonous document and the sacrifices they and those who fought ultimately made on our behalf. We enjoy the barbecues, baseball, swimming and of course the hallmark activity of any Independence Day – fireworks.

Today, some 225 years later ours is a Union consumed with Nationalism, one that often forsakes the fundamental principles on which our Republic was founded. Government entitlement programs and socialist agendum have taken hold of an alarming percentage of the citizens in this land. These are sold under the guise of compassion and fairness in an effort to buy votes from populist majorities to secure political power, subjugating the restrictions placed on government by the Constitution. Bureaucrats illegally taxing the wealthy to redistribute income Robin Hood-style somehow has become acceptable to most in our society. Over time many of the "inalienable rights endowed by our Creator," have disappeared. Most frightening about this is the fact we unwittingly yet voluntarily surrender them on a daily basis in exchange for perceived services to be doled out by the Federal Government. How can this be happening – surrendering our rights voluntarily? Let us count the ways.

Most of us being Natural Born Citizens of one of the 50 states of the Union, we are guaranteed sovereignty, just as the 50 states. This sovereignty, together with "inalienable rights" of natural law assures us power over our own lives. The Constitution specifically tells the Federal Government what it can and cannot do with "Enumerated Powers" in Article I, and sets aside anything not granted it or restricted from the states, to be granted to the states or the People (10th Amendment). The power to levy taxes in Article I is restricted to duties, imposts, and indirect excise taxes. Direct taxes can only be levied on the states themselves (not the People) and must be apportioned according to census data. Additionally, the Federal Government only has jurisdiction in the District of Columbia and possessions of the U.S. Government such as Puerto Rico and Guam, as well as "Federal Zones." What exactly does all this mean? You may not be ready to hear what it means, as the truth is often difficult to accept especially upon recognition of fraud and deceit. If you are like me, outrage is soon to follow.

The implications of the facts above don't become clear until it is understood what the IRS means when they ask us on Form 1040 if we are a "U.S. citizen." Most of us mark yes believing this to mean we are citizens of the United States of America. The truth is, "U.S. citizen" has a legal definition in the U.S. Code which means a 14th Amendment citizen, who is completely subject to the United States Government and thereby not assured of any rights protected by the Constitution. Rather, they are given privileges by the U.S. Government. Confused? So who qualifies as a 14th Amendment citizen of the United States? Persons born or naturalized in the District of Columbia, Federal Territories or other "Federal Zones." This does not include Natural Born Citizens of the 50 states. Unfortunately, when we mark "Yes" on the IRS form stating we are a "U.S. citizen" we voluntarily give up our Natural Born Citizenship of the 50 states and thereby surrender all the rights which are protected under the Constitution. We volunteer to be "completely subject" to the jurisdiction of the Federal Government which means we have no rights, just privileges. What is the implication of doing this in our everyday lives? For starters, we "volunteer" to subject ourselves to IRS Code and to pay income tax. The Feds cannot levy direct taxes on sovereign Citizens of the 50 states according to the Constitution so what did they do to get around this problem? They defraud us of our God-given rights and sovereignty by getting us to unknowingly volunteer to be under their jurisdiction. There are much more than just tax implications here.

Disgusted yet?

We claim to be U.S. citizens in many ways, not just on our Form 1040. By accepting benefits from the Federal Government or by claiming any civil right – not a natural right, civil rights are privileges granted or revoked by Congress – we enter into a contract with the U.S. Government and agree to abide by any law passed by Congress, enforceable in Federal Courts. In 1940 the Buck Act created "Federal Zones" inside states which offers more opportunities for the Feds to weasel into our lives and claim jurisdiction. Post offices are "Federal Zones," and most of us would think this makes sense. But did you know the ZIP Code regions are federal areas as well? By accepting mail with a ZIP Code on it we subject ourselves to the laws of the IRS and all other municipal laws of the District of Columbia (neither ZIP Codes nor two-letter state abbreviations are required to send mail contrary to popular opinion). Social Security created Social Security Districts, or federal territories and the creation and assignment of SS numbers to individuals strips us of our state Citizenship. Fact is, no law exists requiring us to have, or provide a SS number for any purpose other than obtaining federal services. Public Housing which receives federal funding is a "Federal Zone." The War Powers Act of 1941 gave broad powers to the President to enact legislation in times of "national emergencies," by way of Executive Order, a function that today is performed regularly and without any necessity of a national emergency. The Victory Tax, part of the War Powers Act, though voluntary was implemented by convincing Americans it was their patriotic duty to help pay for the WWII effort. Not entirely a bad thing one could argue yet this is what started employer income tax withholding, something most Americans today erroneously assume is required of them by Federal Law. We are victims here of the status quo.

Contemplating writing your representative in Washington for the first time in your life? There's more, much more...

The Federal Reserve Bank, created in 1913 ironically coinciding with the first implementation of the Federal Income Tax, was responsible for the Great Depression and moved our monetary backing from gold to debt, all under the control of a few private corporations – the Federal Reserve and its branches are not agencies of the government but private corporations. When we are born the state and the Federal Governments make out generic birth certificates and use them as collateral to borrow money from the Federal Reserve, currently up to $600,000. Is it coincidence that when we die we are allowed to pass on up to $600,000 tax-free to descendants? Hardly. The U.S. Government borrows over a half-million dollars from each and every one of us at birth and exempts us from tax on that amount when we take the celestial dirt nap. How nice of them. Incidentally, the 16th Amendment – the one allegedly giving Congress the ability to collect taxes on incomes – in actuality does not repeal any of the restrictions from Article I and therefore is a "do nothing" amendment. Rights of property ownership and to travel freely in and among the 50 states including use of public easements (roads) have been held by high courts to be fundamental natural rights. Registration of our cars and state-issued operator's licenses cannot be compulsory when measured against these. Has anyone ever known of or seen evidence to show our ancestors had to register their horse and buggy or to obtain a license to "operate" them? The list, already laborious, continues on and on. The Founding Father's would be shocked to learn of these developments that rule the land they bequeathed us. Not so much that our governments have attempted to take our God-given rights from us, rather in how we have allowed them to succeed. They fully anticipated the attempts by government to acquire power over the People and put in place a series of measures to help us protect ourselves from such. At what point will we rise up and say enough is enough, just as they did?

As I sit in my apartment on this 225th Independence Day I wonder if anyone out there knows what is happening or even cares to know. Walking out on the terrace, looking out from the 29th floor as the sun has set over the hills in the distance hope springs in the form of a few pops and bangs. Spanning the city, celebrations begin erupting all over town. Not one of those municipally sponsored choreographed shows that synchronize to music for entertainment but thousands of random, individual expressions of illegal exploding fireworks. Individually none are particularly impressive however, taken in collectively from such a vantage point is indeed moving. To me, it signals that perhaps if the word gets out and the outrage swells from the grass roots there is still a chance to save ourselves from the oncoming certainty of fascism. Just as each of the thousands of Citizens of the 50 states in cities and towns all across the Union tonight express themselves with fireworks deemed illegal by the government, maybe the loss of liberties will be someday protested in kind. Both individually and collectively taking back our Rights, reasserting our Sovereignty and a government of, for and by the People.

We can reclaim our sovereignty and our natural rights. For most of the information here I must give credit to Family Guardian Fellowship, Author of "Great IRS Hoax: Why We Don't Owe Income Tax, Form #11.302." 5.4.4 Letter to the Secretary of the Treasury

The letter below was written by one of our disgruntled readers, and was intended to be sent to the United States Secretary of the Treasury. He was the victim of an unlawful IRS lien on his property and illegal taking of his financial accounts. It establishes legal proof of your status you can use in a court of law. It also plants a fire under the tail of the Secretary to refute your findings and remove the associated lien.

 <<DATE>>

PAUL O'NEIL
 SECRETARY OF TREASURY
 1500 PENNSYLVANIA AVENUE NORTH WEST
 WASHINGTON, D.C. (20220)

Dear Secretary O'Neil

To the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) agents, officers, and computers keeping records on <<YOUR NAME>> (ref.no. <<SSN/TIN>>). Your records are in error, the undersigned is a NON-RESIDENT NON-PERSON with respect to the "United States" as those terms are defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) and 26 C.F.R §31.3121(e)-1 and has never had income "effectively connected to a trade or business" within the "United States".

I COME NOW to file this Memorandum to inform you of my discoveries and demand the IRS correct the errant records contained within your systems. Below are the specific conclusions I have reached and what I would like for you to do:

MY CITIZENSHIP STATUS

1. The issues as to whether there are different meanings for the term "United States", and whether there are three different "United States" operating within the same geographical area, and one "United States" operating outside the Constitution over its own territory (in which it has citizens belonging to said "United States"), were settled in 1901 by the Supreme Court in the cases of De Lima v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 1 and Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901). In Downes supra, Justice Harlan dissented as follows:

"The idea prevails with some -- indeed, it found expression in arguments at the bar -- that we have in this country substantially or practically two national governments; one, to be maintained under the Constitution, with all its restrictions; the other to be maintained by Congress outside and independently of that instrument, by exercising such powers as other nations of the earth are accustomed to exercise."
[Downes supra, page 380, emphasis added]

"It will be an evil day for American liberty if the theory of a government outside of the supreme law of the land finds lodgment in our constitutional jurisprudence. No higher duty rests upon this court than to exert its full authority to prevent all violation of the principles of the Constitution."
[Downes supra, page 382, emphasis added]

2. This theory of a government operating outside the Constitution over its own territory, with citizens of the "United States" belonging thereto under Article 4, Section 3, Clause 2 (4:3:2) of the Constitution, was further confirmed in 1922 by the Supreme Court in Balzac v. Porto Rico, 258 U.S. 298, wherein that Court affirmed, at page 305, that the Constitution does not apply outside the limits of the 50 States of the Union, quoting Downes supra and De Lima supra; that, under, the "United States" was given exclusive power over the territories and the citizens of the "United States" residing therein. 3. The issue arose again in 1944, in the case of Hooven & Allison Co. v. Evatt, Tax Commissioner of Ohio, 324 U.S. 652, wherein the U.S. Supreme Court stated as follows at page 671-672:

The term "United States" may be used in any one of several senses. [1] It may be merely the name of a sovereign occupying the position analogous to that of other sovereigns in the family of nations. [2] It may designate the territory over which the sovereignty of the United States extends, [3] or it may be the collective name of the states which are united by and under the Constitution.¹

New York & P.R.S.S. Co.*, 182 U.S. 392; Gonzales v. Williams, 192 U.S. 1; West India Oil Co. v. Domenech, 311 U.S. 20.

The Court, in Hooven supra, indicated that this was the last time it would address the issue; it would just be judicially noticed.

4. The issue arose in Brushaber v. Union Pacific Railroad Company, 240 U.S. 1. In that case, the high Court affirmed that the "United States" could levy a tax on the income of a nonresident alien when that income derived from sources WITHIN the "United States" i.e. (its territorial jurisdiction).

5. Based upon the decision in Brushaber supra, the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, promulgated the Court's decision as Treasury Decision 2313 (see EXHIBIT #1). T.D. 2313 declared that Frank R. Brushaber was a NONRESIDENT ALIEN with respect to the "United States". T.D. 2313 also declared that the Union Pacific Railroad Company was a DOMESTIC CORPORATION with respect to the "United States" (i.e. its territorial jurisdiction).

6. The Complaint filed by Mr. Brushaber shows that he was a nonresident of the "United States" (D.C.), residing instead in the State of New York, in the borough of Brooklyn, and a Citizen thereof, with his principal place of business in the borough of Manhattan. He owned stocks and bonds issued by the Union Pacific Railroad Company, upon which a cash dividend was declared to him by said company, a domestic corporation of the "United States". Union Pacific was chartered by an Act of Congress for the territory of the federal state of Utah, in order to build a railroad and telegraph line and other purposes. It is a matter of public record that the Union Pacific Railroad Company was a domestic "United States" corporation, of the federal state of Utah, residing in the District of Columbia, with its principal place of business in Manhattan, New York. It was created by an Act of the "United States" Senate and House of Representatives (under their exclusive authority, granted by the Constitution for the United States at 1:8:17) on July 1, 1862 by the 37th Congress, 2nd Session, as recorded in the Statutes At Large, December 5, 1859 to March 3, 1863 at Chapter CXX, page 489. Considering the foregoing evidence of the diversity of citizenship of the two parties, it is clear that Mr. Brushaber was a "nonresident alien with respect to the United States", who had income from sources within said "United States". His income derived from the Union Pacific Railroad Company, a corporate citizen created by Congress and residing WITHIN the "United States" (i.e. the District of Columbia). (see EXHIBIT #2)

[A] domestic corporation is an artificial person whose residence or domicile is fixed by law within the territorial jurisdiction of the state which created it. That residence cannot be changed temporarily or permanently by the migrations of its officers or agents to other jurisdictions. So long as it is an existing corporation its residence, citizenship, domicile, or place of abode is within the state which created it. It cannot reside or have its domicile elsewhere; neither can it in legal contemplation be absent from the state of its creation.

[Fowler v. Chillingworth, 113 So. 667, 669 (1927)] [emphasis added]

7. Related cases are Hylton v. United States, 3 U.S. (3 Dall.) 171 (1796): Hylton was a Congressman; his salary was income from sources WITHIN the "United States". See also Springer v. U.S., 102 U.S. 586 (1881): Springer, a Virginia Citizen, operated a carriage business in the District of Columbia.

8. The first paragraph of the Secretary's Treasury Decision (EXHIBIT #1) is quoted here as follows:

*(T.D. 2313)
Income Tax*

Taxability of interest from bonds and dividends on stock of domestic² corporations owned by nonresident aliens, and the liabilities of nonresident aliens under Section 2 of the act of October 3, 1913.

To collectors of internal revenue:

*Under the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in the case of Brushaber v. Union Pacific Railway [sic] Co., decided January 24, 1916, it is hereby held that income accruing to nonresident aliens in the form of interest from the bonds and dividends on the stock of domestic corporations is subject to the income tax imposed by the act of October 3, 1913.*
[footnote and emphasis added]

² "Domestic" in the "United States" statutes means inside D.C., the possessions, territories, and enclaves of the "United States", i.e. federal states.

9. The above decision by the Secretary of the Treasury determined that a tax on income derived from rents, sales of property, wages, professions, or a trade or business WITHIN the "United States", was applicable to such "income" when payable to a nonresident alien, i.e. a Union State Citizen occupying a public office.

10. All income tax provisions under 26 U.S.C., subtitle A (an excise tax on "income"), are divided between sources WITHIN and WITHOUT the "United States". They are imposed upon the worldwide income of citizens of the "United States" and aliens residing therein, and upon nonresident aliens (of all kinds) receiving income from sources WITHIN said "United States" and WITHIN the other parts of the American Empire which fall WITHIN the exclusive legislative jurisdiction of the Congress of the "United States", pursuant to 1:8:17 and 4:3:2.

CONSTITUTIONAL AUTHORITY GRANTED TO CONGRESS

11. The Constitution gives to Congress the power to act for the 50 Union States as an international representative and to do so without (outside) the boundaries of each of those 50 States. These powers are expressed in Article 1, Section 8, Clauses 1 thru 16 (1:8:1-16).

12. The Constitution gave to Congress a seat of government, known as the District of Columbia. In time, Congress created a government for the "District", and this "District" became a federal state by definition. However, this "state" (D.C.) is not "united" by or under the Constitution for the United States of America. D.C. has never joined the Union.

13. Furthermore, the Constitution granted to Congress the authority to govern the "District", just as the Legislatures of each of the several States of the Union govern their States within the geographical limits of those States. As Congress began to legislate for the "District", under authority of 1:8:17 and 1:8:18, the difference between the citizens of the "District" and the Citizens³ of the Union became apparent, in that the citizens of the "District" did not possess the right of suffrage or other rights (see Balzac supra, De Lima supra, and Downes supra) and therefore were not recognized as a part of the Sovereignty of "We the People". The Constitution for the United States of America provided no means of taxing these "District" citizens of the "United States". A method of forming municipal governments and of exercising taxing power over these citizens within the territories of the "United States" was decided by The Insular Cases (see the Bidwell cases, supra). "The Constitution was made for States, not territories," wrote Daniel Webster. "... [T]he Constitution of the United States as such does not extend beyond the limits of the States which are united by and under it", wrote author Langdell in "The Status of Our New Territories", 12 Harvard Law Review 365, 371.

14. The distinction between "citizens of the United States" and "Union State Citizens" has been fully recognized by the Congress and the Courts as follows:

We have in our political system a government of the United States and a government of each of the several States. Each one of these governments is distinct from the others, and each has citizens of its own who owe it allegiance, and whose rights, within its jurisdiction, it must protect.
[United States v. Cruikshank, 92 U.S. 588, 590 (1875)]

The Federal Government is a "state".
[Enright v. U.S., D.C.N.Y., 437 F.Supp. 580, 581]

Foreign State. A foreign country or nation. The several United States are considered "foreign" to each other except as regards their relations as common members of the Union.
[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, page 1407]

15. Congress identifies these citizens of the "District" as "individuals" or citizens who reside in the "United States" and who are subject to the direct control of Congress in its local taxing and other municipal laws.

16. In De Lima supra, the U.S. Attorney defined federal taxes with the following words, at page 99-108:

Federal taxation is either general or local. Local taxes are levied under Article 1, Section 8, Paragraph 1. Local taxes are for the support of territorial or non-state governments.

³ Please note that the U.S. Constitution always denoted "Citizen" and "Person" in capital letters until the 14th Amendment, wherein citizen and person were not capitalized.

Congress imposed a federal excise tax on the "income" of these citizens or "individuals" at 26 U.S.C. Section 1, as a local tax:

Such taxes are not for the common welfare of the United States, but are to defray the expense of the government of the locality, and in the dual position which Congress occupies in our system, as Federal Government and as local government for the territory of the United States not ceded into States of the Union, it has the power to tax for local purposes.

Hence the term "from sources WITHIN the United States".

General taxes are of two kinds, direct; and what, for brevity may be called indirect, meaning thereby duties, imposts, and excises. Direct taxes must be laid on all the States alike

17. A Citizen of one of the 50 States, residing therein, is a non-resident non-person with respect to this local taxing power of Congress (see Brushaber supra). Outside the geographical area of the "United States" [as that term is defined at 26 C.F.R. §1.911-2(g)], Congress lacks power to support the local government by imposing a tax on the incomes of non-resident non-persons (ones outside the locality, i.e. Citizens of the 50 States) UNLESS they reside within that jurisdiction by residence, or UNLESS the source of their income is situated WITHIN that geographical territory. Any income arising from sources therein must be withheld at the source by the "withholding agent" (see T.D. 2313, 26 U.S.C. §871, and 26 U.S.C. §1461), unless the recipient is engaged in a trade or business therein. For a full discussion of this local taxation, see pages 55 and 99-108 of De Lima supra. For confirmation of the domestic municipal jurisdiction of the "United States", see Downes supra at pages 383-388.

18. Congress has control of these "individuals", whether they "reside" WITHIN the "United States" (i.e. territorial states) or WITHOUT the "United States". These "individuals" (i.e. born within the jurisdiction of Congress, such as a citizen born in the District of Columbia or in one of the territories), whether they reside within "United States" territories, without the "United States" in the "foreign countries" [as defined at 26 C.F.R. §1.911-2(h)], or abroad, are still liable for the federal income tax, unless they abrogate that citizenship by naturalization or otherwise. (See 26 C.F.R. §871-5, -6 and -12 and 1.932-1). However, at 26 U.S.C. §911(a)(1), Congress has exempted from taxation all "foreign earned income" of these citizen individuals, except for Puerto Ricans (see 26 C.F.R. §1.932-1(b), IRS Form 2555).

19. Another type of non-resident non-persons are those citizens of contiguous countries such as Mexico, Canada and other foreign countries. These foreigners, residents or nonresidents (as the case may be), are subject to the tax on incomes received from any place in the American Empire, i.e. in these united States and in the "United States". A Union State Citizen, previously nonresident, may lose his nonresident status by residing within the territorial sovereignty of the "United States" for 183 days (26 C.F.R. §1.871-7(d)(2)) and thereby becomes subject to the local tax on incomes received from sources within and without the "United States" (i.e. worldwide income).

THE INCOME TAX IS A LOCAL TAX IMPOSED WITHIN THE "UNITED STATES".
THE UNDERSIGNED IS A STRANGER TO THIS LOCALITY.
THE DEFINITIONS IN 26 THE INTERNAL REVENUE CODE.

20. The definitions used in 26 U.S.C. are very clear in defining "State" and "United States". In every definition that uses the word "include", only the words that follow are defining the term. For example:

21. 26 U.S.C. 3121(e)(1) State. --The term "State" includes the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, Guam, and American Samoa.

22. 26 U.S.C. 7701(a)(9) United States. -- The term "United States" when used in a geographical sense includes only the States and the District of Columbia.

23. The federal government has used these definitions correctly, but IRS agents seem to assume that they mean the 50 States of the Union (America) when they look at the word "States" in 26 U.S.C. 7701(a)(9). You cannot use the common, everyday meaning of the terms "United States" or "State" when talking about the federal tax laws and many other laws that are enacted under the local, municipal authority of the "United States" government.

24. Another example is the Omnibus Acts at 86th Congress, 1st Session, Volume 73, 1959, and 2nd Session, Volume 74, 1960, Public Laws 86-70 and 86-624. These Acts reveal the crafty way in which the federal government uses correct English and how Congress changes the meanings of words by using its own definitions. For example, all the United States Code definitions had to be changed to allow Alaska and Hawaii to join the Union of States united under the Constitution. When Alaska joined the Union, Congress added a new definition of "States of the United States". This definition had never appeared before, to wit:

Sec. 48. Whenever the phrase "continental United States" is used in any law of the United States enacted after the date of enactment of this Act, it shall mean the 49 States on the North American Continent and the District of Columbia, unless otherwise expressly provided. [cf. 1 USCS 1, "Other provisions:"] [emphasis added]

Where is it otherwise expressly provided? Answer:

Sec. 22. (a) Section 2202 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 (relating to missionaries in foreign service), and sections 3121(e)(1), 3306(j), 4221(d)(4), and 4233(b) of such code (each relating to a special definition of "State") are amended by striking out "Alaska,".

(b) Section 4262(c)(1) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 (definition of "continental United States") is amended to read as follows: "(1) Continental United States. -- The term 'continental United States' means the District of Columbia and the States other than Alaska."

When Hawaii was admitted to the Union, Congress again changed the above definition, to wit:

Sec. 18. (a) Section 4262(c)(1) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 (relating to the definition of "continental United States" for purposes of the tax on transportation of persons) is amended to read as follows: "(1) Continental United States. -- The term 'continental United States' means the District of Columbia and the States other than Alaska and Hawaii."

WHAT ARE THE STATES OTHER THAN ALASKA AND HAWAII?

25. They certainly cannot be the other 48 States united by and under the Constitution, because Alaska and Hawaii just joined them, RIGHT? The same definitions apply to the Social Security Acts. So, what is left? Answer: the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, Guam, Virgin Islands, etc. These are the States OF (i.e. belonging to) the "United States" and which are under its sovereignty. Do not confuse this term with states of the Union, because the word "of" means "belonging to" in this context.

26. Congress can also change the definition of "United States" for two sentences and then revert back to the definition it used before these two sentences. This is proven in Public Law 86-624, page 414, under School Operation Assistance in Federally Affected Areas, section (d)(2):

The fourth sentence of such subsection is amended by striking out "in the continental United States (including Alaska)" and inserting in lieu thereof "(other than Puerto Rico, Wake Island, Guam, or the Virgin Islands)" and by striking out "continental United States" in clause (ii) of such sentence and inserting in lieu thereof "United States (which for purposes of this sentence and the next sentence means the fifty States and the District of Columbia)". The fifth sentence of such subsection is amended by striking out "continental" before "United States" each time it appears therein and by striking out "(including Alaska)".

27. This one section, all by itself, contains all the evidence you need, by words of construction, to prove that the term "United States" on either side of these sentences did not mean the 50 States united by and under the Constitution. If that is not conclusive to you, then see the following:

26 C.F.R. §31.3121(e)-1 State, United States, and citizen.

(a) When used in the regulations in this subpart, the term "State" includes [in its restrictive form] the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii before their admission as States, and (when used with respect to services performed after 1960) Guam and American Samoa.

(b) When used in the regulations in this subpart, the term "United States", when used in a geographical sense, means the several states, (including the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii before their admission as States), the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands. When used in the regulations in this subpart with respect to services performed after 1960, the term "United States" also includes [in its expansive form] Guam and American Samoa when the term is used in a geographical sense.

The term "citizen of the United States" includes [in its restrictive form] a citizen of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico or the Virgin Islands, and, effective January 1, 1961, a citizen of Guam or American Samoa. [emphasis added]

In paragraph (a), Alaska and Hawaii only fit the definition of "State" before joining the Union. That means the definition of "State" was never meant to be the 48 now 50 States of the Union unless distinctly expressed. If paragraph (b) confuses you, the following is submitted:

28. The word "geographical" was never used in tax law until Alaska and Hawaii joined the Union, and it is not defined in the Internal Revenue Code. So, we must use the definition found in the Standard Random House Dictionary:

ge.o.graph.i.cal 1. of or pertaining to geography 2. of or pertaining to the natural features, population, industries, etc., of a region or regions

29. Were you born in the "United States"? The preposition "in" shows that the "United States" in this question is a place, a geographical place named "United States". It is singular, even though it ends in "s". It also can be plural when referring to the Union States which are places which exist by agreement.

Every human in a nation is a natural Citizen of a place called a nation, if he was born in that nation. Those same people must be naturalized (born again) if they want to become a citizen of another nation. Original citizenship exists because of places, not agreements. This is jus soli, the law of the place of one's birth (see Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition).

30. Here are two questions, your own answers to which will solve the dilemma. In a geographical sense, where is the State of Texas located on the continent? In a geographical sense, here is the "United States" (Congress) located on the continent?

31. Now, since typewriters were purchased from the areas that just joined the Union, namely Alaska and Hawaii, according to Title 1, Congress had to use a term that is NOT used in the Internal Revenue Code, in order to buy the same typewriters from the same geographical area:

Sec. 45. Title I of the Independent Offices Appropriation Act, 1960, is amended by striking out the words "for the purchase within the continental limits of the United States of any typewriting machines" and inserting in lieu thereof "for the purchase within the STATES OF THE UNION AND THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA OF ANY TYPEWRITING MACHINES".

[emphasis added]

And, for declarations made under the penalties of perjury, the statute at 28 U.S.C. 1746 separately defines declarations made WITHIN and WITHOUT the "United States" as follows:

If executed WITHOUT the United States: I declare ... under the laws of the United States of America that the foregoing is true and correct.

If executed WITHIN the United States, its territories, possessions, or commonwealths: I declare ... that the foregoing is true and correct. [emphasis added]

The latter clause above is the penalty clause that is found on IRS Form 1040 and similar IRS forms. And, 28 U.S.C. 1603(a)(3) states as follows:

(3) which is neither a citizen of a State of the United States as defined in section 1332(c) and (d) of this title....

Section 1332(d). The word "States", as used in this section, includes the Territories, the District of Columbia, and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico.

EXAMPLES OF THE TWO DEFINITIONS OF THE TERM "United States" IN 26 U.S.C.

32. 26 U.S.C. Subtitle F, 7701(a)(9):

(9) United States. -- The term "United States" when used in a geographical sense includes only the States and the District of Columbia.

33. 26 U.S.C. Subtitle D, section 4612(a)(4)(A):

(A) In general. -- The term "United States" means the 50 States, the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, any possession of the United States, the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands, and the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands. [emphasis added]

34. The Supreme Court stated in Hepburn & Dundas v. Ellsey, 6 U.S. 445, 2 Cranch 445, 2 L.Ed. 332, that the District of Columbia is not a "State" within the meaning of the Constitution. Therefore, it is apparent that the meaning of the term "States" in the first definition above can only mean the territories and possessions belonging to the "United States", because of the specific mention of the District of Columbia and the specific absence of the 50 States (inclusio unius est exclusio alterius). The District of Columbia is not a "State" within the meaning of the Constitution (see Hepburn supra). Therefore, the 50 States are specifically excluded from this first definition of the term "United States".

35. Congress has no problem naming the "50 States" when it is legislating for them, so, in the second definition of the term "United States" above, Congress expressly mentions them, and there is no misunderstanding. If a statute in 26 U.S.C. does not have a special "word of art" definition for the term "United States", then the First Definition of the term "United States" is always used (see above) because of the general nature of that term as defined by Congress.

36. When citizens or residents of the first "United States" are without the geographical area of this first "United States", their "compensation for personal services actually rendered" is defined as "foreign earned income" in 26 U.S.C. Sections 911(b) and 911(d)(2), as follows:

911(b) Foreign Earned Income. -- ...

(d)(2) Earned Income. --

(A) In general. -- The term "earned income" means wages, salaries, or professional fees, and other amounts received as compensation for personal services actually rendered, but does not include that part of the compensation derived by the taxpayer for personal services rendered by him to a corporation which represents a distribution of earnings or profits rather than a reasonable allowance as compensation for the personal services actually rendered.

37. A citizen or resident of the first "United States" does not pay a tax on his "compensation for personal services actually rendered" while residing outside of the first "United States", because Congress has exempted all such compensation from taxation under 26 U.S.C. Section 911(a)(1), which reads as follows:

911(a) Exclusion from Gross Income. -- ... [T]here shall be excluded from the gross income of such individual, and exempt from taxation ... (1) the foreign earned income of such individual.

38. When residing without (outside) this "United States", the citizen or resident of this "United States" pays no tax on "foreign earned income", but is required to file a return, claiming the exemption (see IRS Form 2555).

39. 26 C.F.R. Section 1.871-13(c) allows this citizen to abandon his citizenship or residence in the "United States" by residing elsewhere.

40. 26 C.F.R. Section 1.911-2(g) defines the term "United States" as follows:

(g) United States. The term "United States" when used in a geographical sense includes any territory under the sovereignty of the United States. It includes the states⁴, [Puerto Rico, Guam, Mariana Islands, etc.] the District of Columbia, the possessions and territories of the United States, the territorial waters of the United States, the air space over the United States, and the seabed and subsoil of those submarine areas which are adjacent to the territorial waters of the United States and over which the United States has exclusive rights, in accordance with international law...

None of the 50 United States comes under the sovereignty of the "United States", and subsection (h) defines the 50 States united by the Constitution as "foreign countries":

⁴ This term "state" evidently does not embrace one of the 50 States (where I am a free inhabitant), united by the Constitution, because they are separate governments or foreign states with respect to the "United States" (i.e. D.C., its territories, possessions and enclaves).

(h) Foreign country. The term "foreign country" when used in a geographical sense includes any territory under the sovereignty of a government other than that of the United States. [26 C.F.R. §1.911-2(h)]

All of the 50 States are foreign with respect to each other and are under the sovereignty of their respective Legislatures, except where a power has been expressly delegated to Congress. The Citizens of each Union State are foreigners and aliens with respect to another Union State, unless they establish a residence therein under the laws of that Union State. Otherwise, they are non-resident non-persons with respect to all the other Union States.

41. The regulations at 26 C.F.R. Section 1.1-1(a) state, in pertinent part:

(a) General Rule. (1) Section 1 of the Code imposes an income tax on the income of every individual who is a citizen or resident of the United States and, to the extent provided by Section 871(b) or 877(b), on the income of a nonresident alien individual.

26 U.S.C., Section 1 imposes a tax on "taxable income" as follows, in pertinent part:

There is hereby imposed on the taxable income of ... every married individual ... who makes a single return jointly with his spouse under section 6013

42. The regulations promulgated to explain 26 U.S.C. Section 1 are found in 26 C.F.R. Section 1.1-1, and state in pertinent part:

(a) General Rule. (1) Section 1 of the Code imposes an income tax on the income of every individual who is a citizen or resident of the United States and, to the extent provided by Section 871(b) or 877(b), on the income of a nonresident alien individual.

Please note that the term "taxable income" is not used as such in the above statute because the "income" of those classes of individuals mentioned is taxable as "taxable income".

Section 1.871 Classification and manner of taxing alien Individuals:

(a) Classes of aliens. For purposes of the income tax, alien individuals are divided generally into two classes, namely, resident aliens and nonresident aliens. ...

(b) Classes of nonresident aliens. --

(1) In general, For purposes of the income tax, nonresident alien individuals are divided into the following three classes:

(i) Nonresident alien individuals who at no time during the taxable year are engaged in a trade or business in the United States,

(ii) Nonresident alien individuals who at any time during the taxable year are, or are deemed under Section 1.871-9 to be, engaged in a trade or business in the United States, and

(iii) NOT APPLICABLE (concerns residents of Puerto Rico)

43. 26 C.F.R. Section 1.871-13 states as follows:

(a) In general.

(1) An individual who is a citizen or resident of the United States at the beginning of the taxable year but a nonresident alien at the end of the taxable year, or a nonresident alien at the beginning of the taxable year but a citizen or resident of the United States at the end of the taxable year, is taxable for such year as though his taxable year were comprised of two separate periods, one consisting of the time during which he is a citizen or resident of the United States and the other consisting of the time during which he is not a citizen or resident of the United States.

NONRESIDENT ALIEN

44. The federal income tax is a local tax for the "United States" to support local municipal government and, in order to become liable to this tax, a State Citizen must be a "resident" therein (i.e. a resident alien), or receive income from sources therein, or be engaged in a trade or business therein.

45. In 26 U.S.C. Section 7701(b)(1)(A) & (B), Congress defined the statutory difference between "resident alien" and "nonresident alien" as follows:

(b) Definitions of Resident Alien and Nonresident Alien. --

(1) In general. -- For purposes of this title ...

(A) Resident Alien. -- An alien individual shall be treated as a resident of the United States with respect to any calendar year if (and only if) such individual meets the requirements of clause (i), (ii), or (iii):

(i) Lawfully admitted for permanent residence. -- Such individual is a lawful permanent resident of the United States at any time during such calendar year.

(ii) Substantial presence. -- Such individual meets the substantial presence test of paragraph (3).

(iii) First year election. -- Such individual makes the election provided in subparagraph (4).

(B) Nonresident Alien. -- An individual is a nonresident alien if such individual is neither a citizen of the United States nor a resident of the United States [within the meaning of subparagraph (A)].

46. The undersigned is not a "resident" (as that term is defined in the above statutes) nor citizen of this "United States". The undersigned is a nonresident alien as that term is defined in subsection (B), and has the same status as the Plaintiff in Brushaber supra.

INDIVIDUALS REQUIRED TO MAKE RETURNS OF INCOME

47. The following individuals are required to make returns of income:

26 C.F.R. Section 1.6012-1. Individuals required to make returns of income.

(a) Individual citizen or resident. --

(1) In general. ... an income tax return must be filed by every individual ... if such individual is ...

(i) A citizen of the United States, whether residing at home or abroad,

(ii) A resident of the United States even though not a citizen thereof, or

(iii) An alien bona fide resident of Puerto Rico during the entire taxable year.

48. The undersigned (clearly) is not defined in the above statutes, but is defined in the following statute as one who is not required to make a return.

49. 26 C.F.R. Section 1.6013-1 states:

(b) Nonresident Alien. A joint return shall not be made if either the husband or wife at any time during the taxable year is a nonresident alien.

The undersigned is non-resident non-person with respect to the "United States", with no income derived from sources within the "United States".

50. 26 C.F.R. Section 1.871-7 states, in pertinent part, as follows:

Except as otherwise provided in Section 1.871-12, a nonresident alien individual to whom this section applies is not subject to the tax imposed by section 1 or section 1201(b)⁵ but, pursuant to the provision of section 871(a), is liable to a flat tax of 30 percent upon the aggregate of the amounts determined under paragraphs (b), (c), and (d) of this section which are received during the taxable year from sources within the United States. [emphasis added]

51. Please note 26 C.F.R. Section 1.871-4(b), Proof of residence of aliens, which establishes a key legal presumption:

(b) Nonresidence presumed. An alien by reason of this alienage, is presumed to be a nonresident alien.

52. Further facts are illustrated by the definition of "withholding agent" at 26 U.S.C. Section 7701(a)(16):

Withholding agent. -- The term "withholding agent" means any person required to deduct and withhold any tax under the provisions of section 1441, 1442, 1443, or 1461.

53. 26 U.S.C. Section 1441 refers to nonresident aliens who receive income from sources within the "United States", as set forth in Section 871 (a)(1). These sections do not apply to the undersigned. The undersigned, has not had taxable income to present, and I do not foresee any taxable income in my future.

54. Your attention is invited to 26 C.F.R. Section 31.3401(a)(6)-1(b), which states as follows:

Remuneration for services performed outside the United States. Remuneration paid to a nonresident alien individual ... for services performed outside the United States is excepted from wages and hence is NOT SUBJECT TO WITHHOLDING.

[emphasis added]

55. As a rule, Military Retirement Pay of a nonresident alien individual is exempted from the income tax at 26 C.F.R. Section 31.3401(a)-1(b)(1)(ii), with the following exception:

Where such retirement pay or disability annuity ... is paid to a nonresident alien individual, withholding is required only in the case of such amounts paid to a nonresident alien individual who is a resident of Puerto Rico.

and at 26 C.F.R. Section 935-1(a)(3):

[F]or special rules for determining the residence for tax purposes of individuals under military or naval orders, see section 514 of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act of 1940, 50 App. U.S.C. 574. The residence of an individual, and, therefore, the jurisdiction with which he is required to file an income tax return under paragraph (b) of this section, may change from year to year.

Section 574 (1) of The Soldiers' and Sailors' Relief Act states that:

For the purposes of taxation in respect of the personal property, income, or gross income of any such person by any State, Territory, possession, or political subdivision of any of the foregoing, or the District of Columbia, of which such person is not a resident or in which he is not domiciled ... personal property shall not be deemed to be located or present in or to have a situs for taxation in such State, Territory, possession or political subdivision, or district. [emphasis added]

55. When the undersigned received the initial correspondence, a copy of exhibit #4 was filed with the District Director in Kansas City, Missouri. No rebuttal has been received. The time for a rebuttal has elapsed. (see exhibit #4) If there is anything confusing to the readers of this documentary evidence, please do not try to explain the content of the dissembled income tax rules and regulations to Me.

CONCLUSION

The undersigned is in no way subjected to any derivative liability. The procedures set forth in 26 C.F.R. do not authorize the Secretary or his delegate to manufacture income and tax it where a Person is without the taxable class. 26 C.F.R. Section 1.871 is unclouded in that, where there is no income from sources within the "United States" by a nonresident alien, the choice is delegated to that Person by Congress as to whether a return is to be filed or not (see 26 C.F.R. §1.871-8). Where the Secretary determines the existence of taxable income when there has been no return, he should sign the substitute return and assume the responsibility for the determination as required by 26 U.S.C. §6020(b)(1). Treasury Decision 2313 explains that the withholding agent is responsible for withholding the tax from sources within the "United States", for filing a Form 1040NR and for paying over the tax withheld from said nonresident alien. (See Treasury Decision 2313 and 26 C.F.R. §1.1461-3). Therefore, no taxable income has existed, therefore, no penalties or interest should accrue or apply to the undersigned.

The fact that the undersigned was not aware of the above information in the earlier years of life and reported the "earned income" from labor in the foreign States of the Union as a local tax of the "United States", does not change my status as a Citizen of the Republic of Union States. Nor does it change the status from non-resident non-person to an "individual" defined in 26 C.F.R. Section 1.1-1. Nor does it justify the Secretary's actions taken when he has been repeatedly informed by the "PATRIOTS" of their true status. The Secretary is required to know the law he is administering, and to do so with justice and equity within the parameters set forth by Congress. Arbitrary actions are discouraged by the Executive, the Congress and the Courts. The undersigned can find no Act, Law or Statute that requires policing the domestic Citizens that file incorrect forms with the Internal Revenue Service that implicate a taxable income. It is also not my job to educate the "IRS".

The employees of the "IRS" should be informed of the tax laws as they actually exist, not misinformed to defraud WE THE PEOPLE of the 50 States of the Union. The bill for my time spent over the last 18 years, trying to decipher the IRS rules and regulations is as follows; At $125 per hour. About 43,159 hours are billable. The stress placed on myself and my parents over this phony scheme, threatening letters, and propaganda spread throughout the media and directed to the undersigned and my parents is another $3,000,000 you can add to my remuneration. The employees of the IRS did everything imaginable to conceal the truth that has been explained by this document, and the FAMILY GAURDIAN WEB SITE.

If you think the amount above is exorbitant, think about all the good people of OUR great Nations that turn over hard earned non-taxable income to the IRS in error. Please, have a letter of apology sent to my parents signed by the Secretary of the Treasury along with $2,000,000 for the undue stress caused by their son seeking the truth about the income tax fraud perpetuated continually throughout their lives.

If there is some reason I have had taxable income in the past that I am not aware of, Please, inform Me immediately with the applicable regulations pertinent to a natural Sovereign Citizen of the Union States. If there is an error in this document please inform me immediately. If there is no error in this document, promptly release the Notice of Federal tax liens on the property at 92 Lemans Court, Lake St. Louis, Missouri. Return the $8,126 (with interest and penalties it should come to about $25,000) that was stolen from my account in 1994/5. Correct the errant records contained in your systems.

And please: leave Me alone!

Please instead use as the target of your illegal acts of avaricious extortion some other ignorant product of the deficient American public education that you helped implement (Dept. of Education) who is too stupid to know that you don't have jurisdiction over him either.

If the IRS does somehow negate any of this document, please remember, the income tax laws are void due to the VOID FOR VAGUENESS DOCTRINE.

For more evidence please see <http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/taxes.htm>. If you need help correcting your errant records, feel free to seek my opinion as to how I want records on this Sovereign Natural National Citizen to read. Who, after all, is better to ask? Should you wish to dispute any of the contents of this letter, please first provide a signed, notarized response to the questions at:

<http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Forms/Discovery/Deposition/Deposition.htm>

You have 15 days to find errors in this document that would negate the intent of this document and provide your written, signed, notarized rebuttal to the above questions. Otherwise, your lack of response constitutes a legal admission of the facts and conclusions described herein. Be sure to sign any rebuttal, per 28 U.S.C. §1746(1).

I declare under penalty of perjury, under the laws of the United States of America, that the foregoing is true and correct, to the best of my knowledge and belief, per 28 U.S.C. §1746(1).

Subject: Notice of Fraud, And Demand for Redress

1. This is a formal complaint.

The IRS has never been authorized to collect taxes or enforce any laws, and since March 9th, 2001, the Commissioner has had no legitimate Offices outside the District of Columbia. Despite the law and the facts, IRS continues to pretend to be the nation's tax collector, using the United States Mails to extort money from the public.

In August of 2003, Ms. Vernice Kuglin was acquitted of several charges of “willful failure to file” and “false information on W-4’s” because Ms. Kuglin had asked the government to produce the taxing statute, and the government had failed or refused to produce it. To my knowledge, there are at least two other cases that similar in nature. In U. S. A. v. Lloyd Long, in 1993, a similar verdict was reached by a jury in Tennessee. Prior to that, in 1991, John Cheek (Cheek v. United States, 498 U.S. 192) argued before the Supreme Court, which held that since the government had not produced the required taxing statute, he could not be convicted of willfulness.

Thus, it is now res judicata that the government cannot produce the taxing statute. I maintain that the government cannot produce the taxing statute, because Congress repealed all the internal revenue laws in 1939, and has never re-enacted them. The Code of 1954 did not, and could not, repeal or modify the Code of 1939. It is not a code of laws, hence is unenforceable as law. This is my demand that the President, his Cabinet, the Congress, and the Judiciary, examine the facts below, and either rebut my facts and conclusions or admit that there is no “internal revenue law” to enforce, and even if there were, the IRS could not enforce it.

I accuse the government of perpetrating a hoax upon the American people that has reduced all of us to a condition of involuntary servitude in violation of the Thirteenth Amendment and federal law found at 18 U.S.C. 1581, and 42 U.S.C. 1994. Millions of us in states of the Union living outside of federal legislative jurisdiction involuntarily pay tribute to the federal government annually, in order to avoid having our property taken from us by IRS mail rather than the court orders required under the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution. IRS letters are more powerful than any law, or any court order, but they lack legal authority. By these bogus letters and the illegal response to them by fearful employers and banks everywhere, the IRS has exceeded its delegated authority to become an illegal enforcement agency, and hence, a financial terrorist protected from its wrongdoing by corrupted federal courts by abusing official and sovereign immunity over the District of Columbia (or the District of Criminals, as I call it). An examination of the Treasury Organization Chart, found in the 2003 U.S. Government Manual on p. 339, reveals that the IRS is NOT an enforcement agency, since it does not come under the Undersecretary for Enforcement as all other Treasury enforcement related activity does. See enclosure (4).

In 1944, Beardsley Ruml, then Chairman of the New York Federal Reserve, gave a speech to the American Bar Association, entitled “Taxes for Revenue are Obsolete.” In his speech to the Bar, he said that taxes for revenue purposes were obsolete, because the government could now print all the money it needed to pay its bills. It could now use taxes for other purposes, such as implementing “national policies”, beginning with “redistributing the wealth”. I have yet to meet anyone, American or otherwise, who desires to have his wealth redistributed. “National policy” cannot take precedence over the Constitution, especially a policy so absurd as one “to redistribute the wealth.” You can read Rummel’s speech yourself at:

Furthermore, the Supreme Court’s definition of “tax” confirms that “taxes” cannot be used for wealth redistribution and can ONLY be used to support the government, and not private citizens or entities that are not part of the government such as the Federal Reserve, which is a private consortium of banks:

“A tax, in the general understanding of the term and as used in the constitution, signifies an exaction for the support of the government. The word [tax] has never thought to connote the expropriation of money from one group for the benefit of another.”
[\[U.S. v. Butler, 297 U.S. 1 \(1936\)\]](#)

“To lay with one hand the power of government on the property of the citizen, and with the other to bestow it on favored individuals.. is none the less robbery because it is done under the forms of law and is called taxation. This is not legislation. It is a decree under legislative forms.”
 [Loan Association v. Topeka, 20 Wall. 655 (1874)]

Consequently, the exaction of monies described by Subtitles A and C of the Internal Revenue Code cannot properly or legally be described as a “tax” and to do so would amount to fraud. Therefore, such monies can only be described as a federal donation program for the municipal government of the District of Columbia. Ref. (1), section 5.1.4, for instance, confirms that monies paid in income taxes DO NOT support the government, but instead support expenditures on socialism that are NOT authorized by the Constitution.

According to the Constitution Article 1, Section 8, Congress is the nation's tax collector, and the Secretary of the Treasury is the nation's Accountant. According to the Code of 1954 (see encl. (2)), "the Secretary" is the collector of "taxes imposed by the internal revenue laws". Something is dreadfully wrong with this picture. The Internal Revenue Code of 1954 is a Hoax. The "internal revenue laws" it purports to represent, are nonexistent.

The IRS cannot collect taxes for the Commissioner, who cannot collect taxes for "the Secretary", who cannot collect taxes for the President. The President cannot collect taxes, because the Congress is the nation's tax collector. The Secretary of the Treasury is the nation's accountant. The Secretary of the Treasury referred to in the IRC of 1954, at Section 6301, who is authorized and required to collect the taxes imposed by the internal revenue laws, cannot be the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States. There are no internal revenue laws, and have not been since Congress repealed all the internal revenue laws by Act of February 10th, 1939, 53 Stat. 1 (see encl. (1)).

The Code is not the law. The Code represents the law. If any part of the Code does not faithfully represent the law, that part of it is void. In its strictest sense, the term, "the law" means the collection of documents originating as bills or resolutions, signed by Presidents, maintained at the nation's Capitol as a matter of public record. In order to promulgate the law, the government compiles the Statutes at Large, and publishes a new volume every year. The Statutes are held to be "competent evidence" of the law. The Code is published for different reasons than the Statutes. The Statutes are published chronologically, in order of dates of enactment. The Code is published according to subject matter, as a compilation, or restatement, of the Statutes. This creates a massive job for those charged with the responsibility, to render a faithful representation of the Statutes as amended. However, when Congress feels that a Title of the Code is reasonably complete, and not likely to be amended significantly in the future it "seals" the Title by enacting it into positive law. Because the Code represents the Statutes, rather than "the law", the Code is said to be "prima facie evidence" of the law. It is, at best, third-hand information with respect to the documents filed in Washington. It's like the game of telephone, in which the further from the source, the less accurate the retelling of it.

When Congress feels that a Title of the Code is reasonably complete on its subject, and anticipates few or no significant changes on the subject in the future, and that the words of the Code accurately reflect the words of the lawmakers in the Statutes, then Congress may enact the Title into "positive law". Titles enacted into positive law are designated "legal evidence" of the law. Legal evidence is a cut above prima facie evidence, and a cut below competent evidence of the law. Prima facie evidence can be easily challenged. By comparing the words of the lawmakers with the words of the Code, and, if different, the words of the lawmakers always prevail.

The Act of February 10th, 1939 enacted the Internal Revenue Title into positive law. The Code of 1954 is not now, nor never can it be, enacted into positive law, because the Act of 1939 repealed all the laws it codified, and is the only legitimate "Internal Revenue Title" of the United States Code. That it has ceased to be functional does not license Congress to create Internal Revenue Title II, which it appears to have done in 1954. See Encl. (1) for confirmation of these assertions.

The Internal Revenue Title of 1939 is the genuine article. It is a code of laws that cannot be changed, because the Title was enacted into positive law, and Section 4 of the Act repealed all the laws incorporated in the Title. There is no way the laws incorporated in the Code could be changed in any way, and there is no reason to change the Code unless the underlying statutes it represents have been amended.

1 Congress repealed all the internal revenue laws in 1939, and has never re-enacted them. The Code of 1939 is a code of repealed laws, but it is a code of laws. The Internal Revenue Title was enacted into positive law at the time, and Table III provided a list of all the laws affected by the repeal.

2 The Code of 1954 is not a code of laws, repealed or otherwise. It is a revision of the illegal revisions to the 1939 Code enacted between 1939 and 1954. Unlike the 1939 Act, it lists none of the provisions of prior laws or Code sections affected by the Act. Its stated purpose was to "revise" the Internal Revenue Laws, but does not cite a single law that was affected by the Act. The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has no authority to collect taxes, and has not had since the Alcohol Division was carved out of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, circa 1951.

3 The Secretary of the Treasury is not the nation's tax collector. Congress is the nation's tax collector. The Secretary of the Treasury is the nation's Accountant.

4 The Commissioner of Internal Revenue is under the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States. The Secretary of the Treasury referred to in the 1954 Code (IRC 6301) is not Secretary Snow. The Commissioner of Internal Revenue supervises the Secretaries of the Treasuries of the possessions the tax collector for the territories and possessions of the United States. The IRS is under the supervision of the Commissioner, and he cannot collect taxes without both constitutional and delegated authority. He does not have either, so the IRS cannot collect taxes for him.

Besides the office of the Commissioner, there are 14 offices attached to, associated with, or under the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, all located in the District of Columbia. Treasury Order 150-02, effective March 9th, 2001, cancelled Treasury Order 150-01, which created 33 District and 4 Regional offices, outside the District, and effective that date, there have been no legitimate IRS offices outside the District of Columbia.

The Act of 1939 was “an Act to consolidate and codify the internal revenue laws”. It clearly was not meant to enact any new ones, merely to codify the existing ones. Section 4 of the Act (53 Stat 1, encl. (2)) repealed “all laws and parts of laws relating exclusively to internal revenue”, that were in force on January 2nd of that year, and codified within the Act. There followed certain “savings to suitors” provisions, to prevent the loss of rights arising under the repealed laws, but 1939 and 1940, and any calendar years thereafter, were definitely not “tax years”. Although the Code of 1939 is a Code of repealed laws, it is a code of laws.

The Code of 1954 is not really a code of anything. It is, instead, a shameless and dangerous misrepresentation of illegal amendments to the 1939 Act. Between 1939 and 1954, Congress “amended” or “revised” the Code of 1939 some 200 times, adding hosts of new provisions to it, expanding it exponentially, as it were. Such activities violate the intent of the lawmakers who enacted the Internal Revenue Title into law, and repealed all the laws codified therein. They provided a list of affected Statutes at Table III, because the purpose of the Code is to operate as a finding aid to the Statutes represented in the Code. Repealed laws cannot be changed in any way. Codes that represent them cannot be changed in any significant way. An omitted comma, word, or even sentence might be added, if it more correctly represents the Statute, but repealed laws cannot be amended, so new provisions could never be added to the repealed laws codified in 1939. It makes no sense for Congress to amend the Code of 1939 200 times, adding provisions at random, and it is illegal, or at least deceptive, to add provisions to the Code that cannot reflect amendments to the Statutes.

It would make no sense, after codifying only repealed laws, to amend this particular Title in any significant way. What would be the point of amending a Code of repealed laws, when the underlying Statute cannot possibly be amended? Congress could have re-enacted the repealed laws, and had done so several times in prior years. There is no way Congress could add new provisions to the 1939 Code.

Congress apparently neglected to tell the IRS, or the public, what they’d done. When Congress began “revising” the Code of 1939, as they did in August of 1939, they gave the impression that the Code of 1939 was a code of “current” law in the ordinary sense, which could be amended. That they amended the Code without amending the underlying Statutes is surprising. That they amended it some 200 times is shocking. Did those Congresses not understand the lawmaking process? Were they deliberately trying to fool the public? After some 200 illegal revisions to the Code of 1939, Congress came out with the Code of 1954. It was “an act to revise the internal revenue laws.” There Act did not enact any new tax laws, and it did not “revise any old ones. The Act of 1939 was “an act to consolidate and codify the internal revenue laws.” The Code of 1939 did not create any new laws, and no new internal revenue laws have been enacted since.

Congress might amend laws, or revise codes, but it does not revise laws. What did the Code of 1954 revise? Not the Code of 1939. Congress had not enacted any new internal revenue laws between 1939 and 1954, so the Code of 1954 is not a code of laws. It might be a code of all the illegal amendments to the 1939 Code, but it is not a code of laws. The only code that could have been revised was the Internal Revenue Code of 1939, but that code could not be revised. Nonetheless, Congress had amended it some 200 times between 1939 and 1954. What, exactly, is the Code of 1954? (Rhetorical question: answer- not law.)

Amending the Code, without amending the underlying Statute, leaves the law unchanged, and in this particular case, Congress could not amend the Code because it could not amend the underlying Statutes. Amending a code of laws that cannot be changed, because they were repealed, would be absurd, and of no legal effect.

The difference between the Code of 1939 and the Code of 1954 is that the Code of 1939 is a code of laws. True, it is a code of repealed laws, but a code of laws nonetheless. They were “in force” only in specialized ways, but it could still be said that they were in force, if only in a specialized way. By contrast, the Code of 1954 is not a code of laws in force that can be found in the Statutes at Large. It is not founded upon any Statute, except the “statute” that created it. However the law that created it did not create any new Statutes. The Code of 1939 was ordered by the Act to be published alongside the Statutes at Large, in a separate Volume, in the same fashion as the 1939 Code. Table III of the 1939 Act, which listed all the affected Statutes, became part of the law, as it directs the reader to the Statute that was repealed and codified.

According to the source notes in the Code of 1954 (as amended) its only statutory authority is 68A Stat., the Act “to revise” the internal revenue laws. In other words, the Code of 1954 is not founded on a single “internal revenue law”.

The recent Kuglin case should put the government on notice that the best defense the people have against suits for non-filing or non-compliance with “the tax laws” is to demand a copy of the taxing statute, which the government cannot provide. It is shameful for the government to prosecute people for violating laws it cannot produce. We have become the laughingstock of the planet as a result. To permit such idiotic things to occur makes you an embarrassment to the people you theoretically serve. You all should be embarrassed. In light of the recent Kuglin case, the question we all have, now, is “what federal law imposes a tax on me, my activity, or my property?” More precisely, “where is the taxing statute, that is represented by the Code, that imposes the alleged tax on me, my property, or my activities?” If the government fails to produce the un-repealed taxing statute, it can never convict anyone for violating it.

Whereas the Act of 1939 provides a table (Table III) of Statutes affected by the repeal, the Act of 1954 does not provide a list of Code sections “revised” by the Act. The Act of 1954 did not affect any underlying Statutes. In fact, all it really did was to incorporate approximately 200 amendments to the Code of 1939 that had been “enacted” between 1939 and 1954.

2. The Commissioner cannot collect taxes, and has no offices outside the District of Columbia.

The Secretary of the Treasury is not the Nation’s tax collector; he is the Nation’s Accountant. Congress is the Nation’s tax collector under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 1 of the Constitution. Congress MAY NOT delegate their authority under the Constitution to lay AND collect taxes to the Executive branch either through the Internal Revenue Code or any other vehicle. However, the general impression is that Congress has delegated its taxing power to the Secretary of the Treasury, and he, in turn, has delegated his authority to collect taxes to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, who, in turn, has delegated his tax collecting authority to certain officers or agents in the IRS. Nothing could be further from the truth. The Commissioner of Internal Revenue is a bureaucrat, not a cop. He is a supervisor, not a tax collector. This is borne out by two clear Treasury Orders.

The Treasury Secretary issued Treasury Order (TO) 150-01, first issued circa 1951, and which, as amended, created 33 District Offices and 4 regional offices under or associated with the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. It shows that the duty and authority to “collect” taxes was not vested in the Commissioner. It also shows that he had no real authority except for the territories and possessions, and “other areas of the world”. (The IRS is international. It has offices all over the globe.) The general authority of the Commissioner, as expressed in Treasury Order 150-01, is as follows.

3. U.S. Territories and Insular Possessions. The Commissioner of Internal Revenue shall, to the extent of authority vested in the Commissioner, provide for the administration of the United States internal revenue laws in the U.S. territories and insular possessions and other areas of the world.

Now, in Puerto Rico, and perhaps other possessions, the Secretary of the Treasury of Puerto Rico collects “internal revenue” taxes, which are deposited in the Treasury of Puerto Rico. Thus, it would appear that the Secretary of the Treasury mentioned in the questionable 1954 Code is under the Commissioner, in which case the term “the Secretary of the Treasury” in the Code cannot be Secretary Snow. Secretary Snow could not collect taxes without trespassing on the exclusive power of Congress to do so. However, because the Commissioner is under Secretary Snow, and IRC 6301 says “the Secretary shall collect the taxes imposed by the internal revenue laws”, the public gets the false impression that “the Secretary” means Secretary Snow, not the Secretary of the Treasury of Puerto Rico, or another similar Secretary, who answers to the Commissioner. Be that as it may, the 33 District and 4 Regional offices established by 150-01 were abolished by Secretary O’Neill, effective March 9th, 2001, and 14 new offices were created in the District of Columbia. There are no legitimate offices under the Commissioner outside the District of Columbia. I believe it is time you told the IRS the truth, as they still believe the outlying offices are legally in place.

In order to implement provisions of the IRS Restructuring and Reform Act of 1998 (RRA 1998), Secretary O’Neill issued TO 150-02, with an effective date of March 9th, 2001. The Order did three things: first, it established the following Offices, all in the District of Columbia. 1) Commissioner, 2) Deputy Commissioner, 3) Chief Counsel, 4) Chief, Communications and Liaison Division, 5) National Taxpayer Advocate, 6) Chief Information Officer, 7) Chief, Appeals Division, 8) National Headquarters, 9) Commissioner, Wage and Investment Division, 10) Commissioner, Small Business and Self-Employed Division, 11) Commissioner, Large and Mid-Size Business Division, Commissioner, 12) Tax Exempt and Government Entities Division 13) Chief, Agency-Wide Shared Services Division, and 14) Chief, Criminal Investigation Division.

There is no “Collection Division.” Section 4 re-defined the Commissioner’s authority:

4. OFFICE OF THE COMMISSIONER OF INTERNAL REVENUE. The Office of the Commissioner consists of the Commissioner; Deputy Commissioner; and Assistant Deputy Commissioner. The Commissioner is the chief executive officer for the IRS. The Commissioner is responsible for overall planning and for directing, controlling and evaluating IRS policies, programs, and performance.

And, third, it cancelled Treasury Order 150-01, and all the offices it had created.

18. CANCELLATIONS. Treasury Order 150-01, “Regional and District Offices of the Internal Revenue Service,” dated September 28, 1995, is canceled. Treasury Order 150-02, “Establishment of Certain Offices in the National Office of the Internal Revenue Service,” dated January 11, 1994, is superseded.

After March 9th, 2001, the Commissioner ceased to have authority to operate offices outside the District of Columbia. 4 USC 72 says that all offices attached to the seat of the government are to be exercised in the District of Columbia, and not elsewhere, except as expressly provided otherwise by law. It would take an Act of Congress for the Secretary or the Commissioner to open and operate offices outside the District, and no such act exists. In point of fact, the Department of the Treasury is attached to the seat of the government, and the same law (4 USC 72) applies to the whole Treasury Department. Before the 1939 repeal, there were collectors, attached to the legislative branch. They were charged with the responsibility of collecting the revenue. They were heavily bonded. They were bound by sworn oath. They had capacity to sue and be sued in the name of the United States. They ceased to function with respect to calendar years after 1938, and would have soon run out of work. They do not exist in the Code of 1954. All executive power is vested in the President, and he is immune from lawsuits while in office, except for impeachments. Put another way, the executive branch lacks capacity to sue, unlike the legislative branch and its officers. Thus, neither the Secretary nor the Commissioner can carry out the functions of a tax collector, because whole executive branch of government lacks power to enforce laws by suing in the name of the United States, cannot be bonded, and are not bound by solemn oath to collect taxes according to law.

History repeats itself. The Act of 1939 repealed all the taxing statutes, but it was business as usual for the Bureau of Internal Revenue. They continued to mail out tax returns for “tax year” 1939, 1940, and subsequent years, even though those years were not “tax years”. Secretary O’Neill’s abolition of the outlying offices was probably 20 years overdue, as they were created originally to accommodate the dying 1939 Code. The repealed laws codified in the 1939 Act might have had effects for 20 years or more after the repeal. We all know a federal tax lien lasts for ten years, and is renewable for another 20. Thus the savings provisions are the “heart” of the Act, providing special provisions for taxpayers and government alike to settle differences arising under the laws before their repeal. TO 150-02 cancelled all the outlying offices, but nobody told the IRS. They think they’re still in business.

3. Phony Law, Phony Offices, Phony Seals

IRS, knowingly or otherwise, is guilty of misuse of Seals. All the Seals prescribed by the Secretary for the use of Internal Revenue Offices and Officers are published at 26 C.F.R. §301.7514-1 and in the Federal Register. They are judicially noticeable. The IRS cannot use the Commissioner’s Seal. Before TO 150-02, there were nine seals, encircled with ropes, indicating maritime functions, and one seal without a rope for District offices. There was one for the Commissioner, another for the Assistant Commissioner, International, one each for several Districts, including San Francisco and Las Vegas, and another for the Detroit Computing Center, and a generic seal without the rope for the 33 District and 4 Regional offices enumerated in TO 150-01. The seals with ropes do not contain the phrase “internal revenue service” or the word “Treasury” or the phrase “Treasury Department.” They are all a light shield on a shaded background, with the name of the Office at the top and the location at the bottom. The shield is a standard crest divided by a chevron, with a scale at the top and a key at the bottom. The Commissioner’s seal says “Office of Commissioner of Internal Revenue”, no address (he only has one). The Assistant Commissioner’s says “Assistant Commissioner International” at the top, and “Washington, D. C.” at the bottom. The San Francisco District Seal has “District Director of Internal Revenue” at the top, and “San Francisco, Calif.” at the bottom. Las Vegas District Seal stands out, as it has a stylized eagle as its symbol, instead of the shield that appears on all the others. It says “District Director of Internal Revenue” at the top, and “Las Vegas Nevada” at the bottom.

The generic seal, prescribed for the 33 District and 4 Regional offices, is a white shield on a black background, with the words “Internal Revenue Service” at the top, and “[Office] [Location]” at the bottom. I raise the issue of official seals, because the IRS never affixes any seal to any document, and does not use the proper seals or symbols on its letterhead or any of its publications. An IRS “summons” for example, bears a circular seal at the top, and the Las Vegas eagle at the bottom. The Las Vegas eagle is on all the Forms and Instructions. The circular seal at the top of the “summons” has “Treasury” at the top, and “Internal Revenue Service” at the bottom. Clearly, this use of a fraudulent symbol subjects the user to punishments provided at 31 USC 333, by making documents that have no legal authority seems as though they do. Also the Las Vegas Eagle symbol is on all IRS Forms, Instructions, Publications, and Circulars. Only the Las Vegas District Director could have used that symbol, until March of 2001, but now, no one can use it, because the Las Vegas District was a casualty of TO 150-02. That leaves only the Seal of the Commissioner in place, pursuant to TO 150-02 and 301.7514-1 when read together. The Assistant Commissioner, who had a seal, was replaced by a Deputy Commissioner, the outlying offices were abolished, rendering the use of all the Seals but the Commissioner’s illegal. All persons and printed publications illegally using the Seals or Symbols of the Treasury Department are in violation of 31 U.S.C. §333, and 18 U.S.C. §1017.

I bring these matters to your attention, because it is only a matter of time before people start reading the laws for themselves, and discover what you folks, and your predecessors, have done, promoted, or simply permitted to happen. You, directly or indirectly, have led the American people to believe lies about the law, promulgated or permitted by yourselves and those who carry out your orders. President Truman had a sign in the Oval Office that said “the buck stops here”. This whole mess is the responsibility of the President to admit to, and clean up under Article 2, Section 1, Clause 8 of the Constitution. It is his appointees and employees who are perpetrating this hoax, and it is his duty to take care that the laws of the United States, made in pursuance of the Constitution, are faithfully executed.

It is time for the President of the United States, Congress, and the Justices to “fess up” and admit that there is no “income tax law” codified in the Code of 1954, yet you have allowed us to believe, or promoted the notion, that the Code is real, honest-to-goodness law. Even to this day, Congressmen continue to may their constituents letters in response to their tax questions assuring them that the Sixteenth Amendment authorizes the federal government to collect taxes on labor. They tell this bald-faced lie in spite of the fact that the Supreme Court has admitted many different time that the Sixteenth Amendment “conferred no new power of taxation” (see Stanton v. Baltic Mining Co., 240 U.S. 103 (1916)). You must admit that the IRS is out of business, and that the Secretary of the Treasury and the Commissioner do not have constitutional power to collect taxes. The Secretary is an accountant, not a cop. The Congress is still the nation’s tax collector. It just is not doing its job right now. I believe that soon, the IRS will be gone, and with it the false belief that the people must pay tribute to the federal government through that instrumentality of injustice, or be ruined by it. We seem to be taxed for the mere privilege of existing, but the Constitution says you cannot tax people or their property directly. Whether there ever was a tax on all the people or their activities or their property, if it was an “internal revenue law” the taxing statute no longer exists, and had no “force of law” after “tax year” 1938.

I am sending copies of this letter to everyone I know, in the hope that they will write similar ones to you, demanding accountability. I expect that soon, the American people will become the squeaky wheel, to which you will be forced to listen. I challenge you to disprove that all the official documents cited above, and my conclusions drawn from them, by providing me with the taxing statutes enacted between 1939 and 1954 that were codified in and underlie the “Code of 1954”.

Please provide me with a considered response, within a reasonable time. I am fed up with “the tax laws are constitutional” or other irrelevant assertions made by ignorant IRS employees or public officials. If you can’t show me the taxing statute, then you must admit that we, as a nation, have a problem, and need to face it and work to get rid of it together. Thank you for your prompt attention to this serious matter.

Sincerely,

Letter to Cc’s:

To Whom It May Concern;

I am attaching a letter I wrote to the President, Vice-President, and others in high office in Washington, D. C., that challenges the income tax, the authority of, and the very existence of, the Internal Revenue Service. I offer it to you as a caveat. Beware of being duped by IRS people. They have no authority whatsoever. The only legal office of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue are in the District of Columbia, and cannot be operated outside the District. All the outlying offices were abolished in 2001.

Please read through the letter carefully, and send it to any IRS office you believe has any authority over you to collect taxes for the Commissioner, in the District of Columbia. Most of us operate on unfounded presumptions that the IRS has authority to collect taxes, or to compel others to collect taxes for it. Chances are, may feel compelled because others told you that you are compelled, and not because you've actually read the law for yourself. the letter came from an office that has been abolished, and the sender was not authorized to use the Treasury Name or any of its symbols. You do not know who these people are.

Letter to IRS.

I am attaching a copy of my letter to your employers. I suggest you read it carefully, and retract your recent illegal letter. You are obviously without an official position in the government. It's too bad your employers don't tell you these things.

Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

See section 3.5.3.11 entitled “Eliminate Your State Marriage License and Get a Common Law Marriage” for additional information on the subjects in this subsection. Another good source of information is the Common Law Marriage Book, available from <http://www.freedommall.com/>.

5.5.1 Notice of Intent to Marry

The letter below is to be filed with the county recorder prior to two parties getting married. It is intended to be used along with the Marriage Contract in executing a Common Law marriage that is free from state marriage licenses or government involvement or interference.

PUBLIC NOTICE NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MARRY

Come the undersigned Parties, having declined the option of state franchise and the disabilities associated therewith, thereby not entering into or instituting minimal contracts with the state, and operating Sui-Juris until such consummation of a Marriage Contract and thereafter maintaining the positions commonly known as Husband and Wife, Sui-Juris and Alieni-Juris respectively.

The first purpose of this Notice is to establish that God the Father has established the rights of the persons desiring to marry and that the state may not interfere with the contractual relationships of individuals acting under God's Law and within the purview of the Common Law.

However, a second purpose is for this declaration to establish that; "Marriage of the parties in a legal contract that makes a man and a woman husband and wife, and it is also the legal status of being husband and wife" as defined in 35 Am Jur §1, et seq., and is not found to be a requirement of government that all persons obtain a governmentally generated License to enter into matrimony.

Further, that this union of persons is hereby declared under the Law Common or Common Law as defined within and 35 Am Jur §28, et seq., noting specifically that Section 23 of the same title (License) reflects that, "The requirement of a license [preliminary to marriage] is statutory and does not exist at common law" (emphasis added).

However, in the interest of Public Notice a written contract is now made and filed as a part of this declaration (See Exhibit "A"), that complies with the provisions of 35 Am Jur §208, 209 in that the parties submitting this cause of action provide a copy of those documents to be signed and attested to be a member of the Clergy and Three (3) Witnesses (See Exhibit "B") as defined within 35 Am Jur §210 and 211, and Celebration of the same, without the aforementioned requirement of a government issued License and thus is not invalidated as evidenced under 36 Am Jur §33. Said Certificate will be filed with the County Recorder upon execution thereof.

The following information is now made to establish the record of law which will appear in the newly formed Family's Holy Bible, including a fully executed copy of the attached "Marriage Certificate" (At Common Law).

5.5.2 Marriage Contract

This Marriage Contract is intended to be used by two parties who wish to marry under Common Law and who do not wish to get a state marriage license or have the government involved in any way with their relationship, their family, or their marriage. This contract is a substitute for all the laws in your state that regulate marriage and family affairs and is far more respecting of individual rights and liberties of both spouses than the state's default prenuptial agreement, which you agree to by default when the two of you obtain and sign your state marriage license. See chapter 9 of the Family Constitution for more details on this subject.

This contract is to be signed just prior to marriage by both parties, their attorneys, and a notary. It need not be filed anywhere or at the courthouse to be a legal document. We don't recommend filing this document at the courthouse for the protection of innocent spouses in the event that the government pursues one spouse as part of a court judgment or tax collection and tries to steal the assets of the innocent spouse. Filing this document in the courthouse would be counterproductive simply gives them the evidence they need to go after the other spouse's assets, which is something neither one of you should allow. A companion document called the Notice of Intent To Marry, is intended to be filed with the county courthouse or county recorder and you should do this no later than ten days prior to signing this document.

If you are forced to get a state marriage license by either a scared spouse or your church pastor, then we recommend writing above your signatures the following legibly and in black ink that will photocopy:

"All property and other rights reserved without prejudice. U.C.C. §1-207."

Somewhere toward the bottom of the license in a blank space, also write:

"This state-issued marriage license is subordinate to the attached prenuptial agreement. No state jurisdiction on this marriage other than that specifically granted by the attached agreement. Failure by the county recorder to accept this license and the attached prenuptial agreement constitutes a violation of First Amendment free speech and freedom of religion and also constitutes involuntary servitude to the state in violation of the Thirteenth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution."

PRENUPTIAL AGREEMENT AND MARRIAGE CONTRACT

1. WHEREAS, the parties known as <<HUSBAND NAME>> and <<WIFE NAME>>, intend to reside together in the future as Husband and Wife;

2. and WHEREAS, they desire to marry under the Laws of God protected by the Common Law, without state intervention, and with full authority to act under God's Law. See Article 1, Section 10 of the U.S. Constitution, which specifically prohibits any state government from interfering with this contract:

No State shall...pass any Bill of Attainder, ex post facto Law, or Law impairing the Obligation of Contracts, or grant any Title of Nobility.

3. and WHEREAS this relationship is undertaken in good faith and in pursuit of the blessings of life, liberty, happiness, and prosperity for the parties and their future children and families.

4. and WHEREAS, they desire to affix their respective rights and liabilities and those of any state that may result from this union of marriage and joint residency as Husband and Wife;

5. and WHEREAS, they have fully and completely disclosed to one another their current financial status, including assets and liabilities;

6. and, WHEREAS, they have each had an opportunity to consult with separate legal counsel of their own choice as each independently wishes to consult and paid for out of their own separate funds, as evidenced by the signatures of the attorneys of the two parties at the end of this agreement;

7. and, WHEREAS, they mutually stipulate that their respective legal counsel are considered competent and have fully and completely informed them of their legal rights and responsibilities under this agreement;

They now therefore agree:

8. That they shall be known as husband and wife from the date of solemnization forward. That the title of Sui Juris shall remain with <<HUSBAND NAME>> as husband and Alieni Juris shall remain with <<WIFE NAME>> as wife.

9. That the Holy Bible and common Christian faith in God shall be the main guidance and authority over disagreements within the marriage. Christian family counseling and other Christian based reference materials shall be employed for modeling proper family relationships and problem resolution. Any and all unresolved disputes that may arise will be mediated before Christian faith based counselors. At no time will the state or federal government or any other government exercise any jurisdiction over the marriage for any reason other than to enforce the terms of this contract or terminate the marriage at the request of either party after the completion of Christian faith-based counseling.

10. That love, commitment, and respect shall be the foundation of the relationship between the two parties and their family as exemplified in Christian teachings in the Holy Bible.

11. That should they bear or adopt children in their union, that all should be reared under common Christian faith in God. The responsibility, custody, financial support, and care of the children shall be equally divided by both parties. In the event of death of either spouse prior to the children reaching age 18, the surviving spouse agrees to wholly care for the children. The parties agree not to pursue litigation to affect or undermine this custody and care arrangement of the children and agree not to make any adverse allegations about the character or parenting abilities of the other spouse. The court may not compel either parent to pursue counseling, parenting classes, or undergo any kind of psychiatric evaluation of any kind unless one of the parents has been convicted of a physically violent act against a family member and it is in the best interest of the child(ren). This is in keeping with the idea that it is regarded as a fundamental right to raise and care for one's child in a way that each parent desires without state intervention or coercion or character denigration from lawyers, the government, expert witnesses, or the other spouse.

12. That all income or assets purchased or acquired or beneficially received in the sole name of either party rather than in joint name during the marriage shall be regarded as separate (solely owned) rather than jointly owned or community property within the meaning of state and federal law. This shall include appreciation, dividends, or interest on separate property assets acquired prior to or during the marriage of the parties. There shall be a rebuttable presumption on the part of both spouses that absent evidence of joint ownership or purchase from joint funds, all property in the custody of the parties shall be presumed to be separate property. The recipient or owner of said separate property shall have the exclusive right to manage and dispose of such property in any way he or she sees fit without consulting his or her partner, but is encouraged to manage such assets for the benefit of both parties and the family. The parties agree not to obstruct, interfere with, or punish in any way either party for the exercise of such property rights.

13. That for the purchase of assets in joint names, the same shall be considered held in tenancy in common. Each party shall contribute from their own income and resources such funds as necessary for the maintenance of the union as well as the payment of all upkeep, taxes, and other fees or charges on such property. That pro rata proportion of income and effort which they personally contribute to the sustenance of jointly held assets during the marriage shall be considered to be their separate property (and not community property) for the purposes of state and federal law.

14. That in the filing of any tax returns or other government or legal or financial or employer documents by either spouse, that both spouses agree to always file in the status of single and not list or identify their spouse. This will prevent implicating or endangering assets of an innocent spouse in the event that tax collection, court judgment, or litigation activity occurs against the other spouse. The parties reserve the right to gift assets to each other during the marriage for the protection of those assets for any reason.

15. That they promise never to litigate in order to demand or request spousal support or child support, in a court of law or through binding arbitration, from their spouse for any reason. They instead agree to take full and complete personal responsibility for their own support and half the support of their children, and their own legal expenses in their entirety at all times in the future. They mutually stipulate, however, that they reserve the right to voluntarily, help and assist their spouse and their children as they see fit beyond the requirements of this contract and as their conscience, Christian principles, and their God and the bible dictate. They furthermore agree not to apply government or legal or emotional or physical or sexual compulsion to undermine any part of this agreement for the purposes of personal or financial gain. This ensures that trust and good faith shall be the motivation behind all conduct in the relationship at all times.

16. That any litigation relating to or intended to undermine, change, or invalidate this marriage contract or any portion thereof be paid for in its entirety by the spouse contesting it, and this includes legal fees on both sides of any dispute. Furthermore, any fees or awards of property resulting from such litigation shall be returned to the original owner of said property, thus rendering such litigation useless and without effect.

17. That should allegations of illegal, unethical, domestic or child abuse, or violent acts be alleged by a party against the other party, then both parties mutually consent in advance to undergo polygraph testing to confirm the disposition of such allegations, and to answer any number of questions under oath during said testing as authored by the other party or his/her counsel. They also stipulate to admit such evidence into a court of law for use by the judge in reaching a finding.

18. That the marriage between the parties is to be regarded as a confidential fiduciary relationship, and as such, the parties to the marriage agree not to divulge medical, sexual, personal, sensitive, or financial details about their spouse or their relationship to parties outside the relationship without express voluntary written consent of their spouse while that spouse is alive, unless in the pursuit of Christian counseling for the purposes of mediating or resolving disputes. This includes a prohibition against the furnishing of evidence or testimony to law enforcement, legal professionals, or the courts in the administration of justice.

19. Other than debts validly contracted for services or materials or otherwise related to joint property of the Husband and Wife, if any, the Husband, Sui-Juris, or the Wife, Alieni-Juris, shall have the right to obligate, act for, contract for and to the benefit of the other party under the Common Law. This includes the management of jointly-held property but not separate property.

20. SEVERABILITY CLAUSE: If, for any reason, any provision of this agreement is held invalid, it is mutually stipulated that all other remaining provisions of this agreement shall continue to be legally binding against the parties. If this entire agreement is held invalid or cannot be enforced, then to the full extent permitted by law any prior agreement between the parties (or any successor thereof) shall be deemed reinstated as if this agreement had not been executed.

21. This is the full agreement of the parties and there are no agreements other than those stated herein. This agreement shall only be modified by a writing executed by both parties hereto and witnessed by at least one notary.

22. If the marriage documented in this contract results in any kind of license being issued by the state in which it occurs, then the marriage shall be recorded by the state using a Confidential Marriage license. The parties further stipulate and require that:

22.1 The confidential license along with this agreement shall be archived together and shall be inseparable, and the license shall have a notation in pen written on it which states:

“Marriage license invalid ab initio if not accompanied by attached agreement or without adherence by any and every state or government with every provision of this agreement and contract.”

22.2 No information about either party related to this marriage or the accompanying license may be maintained by the state granting the license nor may such information be provided to the federal government or any other government or third party in any electronic information system, database, or online system, and especially information pertaining to Social Security Numbers, Taxpayer ID numbers, or debts.

22.3 No information about this marriage or the parties to it may be revealed to any third parties without the express voluntary written consent of BOTH parties to this contract. This includes by court order or otherwise. In keeping with the fact that this is a confidential fiduciary relationship, state and federal courts shall not compel the parties to reveal the existence or nature of their marriage or agreements between them to anyone, and especially in satisfaction of discovery related to litigation or tax issues. The wishes of the parties supersede that if the state in relation to this confidential marriage. These parties are sovereign in all respects relating to this relationship.

22.4 Only the paper version of this document and any accompanying license may be maintained by the granting state as evidence of this agreement and the marriage. The state may also microfiche an image of the agreement and license, but may not store the image electronically or make it or any information about it electronically searchable by anyone, including the state, federal government, or any third party or litigant other than the judge granting a divorce of the parties.

23. RESERVATION OF RIGHTS. The laws of the state of California shall govern and apply relative to this agreement. No state or government shall be granted any jurisdiction over the parties, their children, or their collective property beyond that specifically identified in this document as a result of obtaining a government marriage license or as a result of the existence of this contract. The decision to acquire a state marriage license shall not be construed as a grant of any jurisdiction over the parties, their marriage, their property, or their children beyond that specifically granted in this agreement. The unwanted assertion by any state or government of any jurisdiction beyond that specifically granted in this agreement shall be regarded by both parties to this agreement and any court hearing issues related to it as slavery, involuntary servitude, and idolatry (see Bible, Exodus 20:3-11) to the state, which is prohibited by both the First Amendment and the Thirteenth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. The parties stipulate that such unwanted intrusion into their lives would be a violation of the First Amendment because it would interfere with the free exercise of the Christian religion of both parties and compel them to commit idolatry as indicated below:

*“Away with you , Satan! For it is written, ‘You shall worship the Lord your God, and Him ONLY [NOT the government!] you shall serve.’”
[Bible, Matt. 4:10]*

The Thirteenth Amendment, which prohibits slavery, reads as follows in part:

Section 1. Neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, except as a punishment for crime whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, shall exist within the United States, or any place subject to their jurisdiction.

24. PURPOSE OF ATTORNEY SIGNATURES ON THIS DOCUMENT. The parties stipulate that the presence of the signature of their respective legal counsel at the end of this document provides evidence of the following facts witnessed by said counsel:

24.1. That the parties have completely and voluntarily satisfied the terms of this agreement to seek and consult with independent legal counsel of their own choosing.

24.2 That the parties have paid for their respective legal counsel out of their own separate funds and property to prevent any kind of conflict of interest or breach of fiduciary duty.

24.3 That legal counsel have explained their findings to their clients and offered them an opportunity to have all of their concerns and objections answered and addressed.

24.4 That this agreement, as it exists now, has been modified to incorporate the concerns and issues expressed by the respective attorneys of each party and to the mutual satisfaction of the parties.

24.5 That the act of signing this agreement has been done voluntarily, willfully, and not under duress or undue influence of any kind, and is a product of informed and enlightened consent.

24.6. That the attorneys are not parties to this agreement but simply witnesses of and contributors to its implementation and approval by the parties.

5.6 Emancipation from the Government

5.6.1 Social Security: Asseveration Of Coercion

This document is designed to allow the U.S. citizen to claim his or her right to not be subject to the Social Security Act without resorting to the hard strategy of the 'Revocation and Rescission' of one's Social Security number.

It makes a bold statement, well worth making to our Congress.

SOCIAL SECURITY ASSEVERATION OF COERCION

I, <<Your Name, of <<Address>>, <<City>>, <<State Zip>>, by my signature affixed to this document, do hereby make the following statement of fact, and affirm that I, as a U.S. citizen, in violation of multiple federal laws as enacted by the authority of the U.S. Congress, am coerced into maintaining and using a Social Security Number, issued to me as a minor, despite the limitation of rights to contract with minors, under the minor laws of the Fifty States, and thus was issued to me in a compulsory fashion, despite the limitation of statutory authority, subject to the Social Security Act, is plainly stated to be on aliens at the time of their lawful admission to the United States (42 U.S.C. §405(c)(2)(B)).

1. I am under coercion by custom and color of law to maintain and possess a Social Security Number as I was never given an informed option as to whether or not I wanted to waive my rights to the full fruits of my labor as a U.S. citizen, and choose to be treated as an alien subject to the Social Security Act, when the application for a social security number to be assigned to me was submitted.
2. I am under coercion by custom and color of law as the vast majority of employers in the United States are enslaved to a legalistic mindset that every worker must have a social security number and must then be effectively treated as an alien who is subject to both the Social Security Act and the Federal income tax (both constitutional in every nature) as they are both imposed upon aliens living and working in the United States, not U.S. citizens such as myself. The government refuses at this time, in any Administrative or Judicial Procedure, to recognize the rights of U.S. citizens to not be assigned such a number. Therefore, I cannot easily and with any degree of economic comfort and security successfully assert this right.
3. I am under coercion by custom and color of law as the vast majority of Banking, Savings and Loan, and Mortgage institutions require the submission of a Social Security Number in order to have an account open with, or obtain a loan from, them, despite the remedy provided for U.S. citizens who have asserted their rights, as found in 31 C.F.R. § 103.34, and the government recognize the rights of U.S. citizens to not be assigned such a number. Therefore, I cannot easily and with any degree of economic comfort and security successfully assert this right.
4. I am under coercion by custom and color of law as the currency, reporting, and forfeiture laws impede me from doing any substantial business creating large financial transactions with any security in my property from the Asset Forfeiture Laws, without having a Bank account, and the government refuses at this time, in any Administrative or Judicial Procedure, to recognize the rights of U.S. citizens to not be assigned such a number. Therefore, I cannot easily and with any degree of economic comfort and security successfully assert this right.
5. I am under coercion by custom and color of law as many of the State governments have twisted their authorization to require the number, of number possessing applicants, for a driver's licenses, to become a requirement that the applicant have a number to provide, despite there being no federal law requiring a U.S. citizen to have a Social Security Number, and the government refuses at this time, in any Administrative or Judicial Procedure, to recognize the rights of U.S. citizens to not be assigned such a number (as evidenced by the appeal of Martin v. The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania (1996)). Therefore, I cannot easily and with any degree of economic comfort and security, nor security of my person being unlawfully and illegally incarcerated or detained successfully assert this right.
6. I am under coercion by custom and color of law as many of the State governments have twisted their authorization to require the number, for a number of purposes, from Registering a vehicle to carrying a concealed weapon, as a requirement that the applicant have a number to provide, despite there being no federal law requiring a U.S. citizen to have a Social Security Number, and the government refuses at this time, in any Administrative or Judicial Procedure, to recognize the rights of U.S. citizens to not be assigned such a number. Therefore, I cannot easily and with any degree of economic comfort and security, nor security of my property being unlawfully and illegally seized, successfully assert this right.
7. I am under coercion by custom and color of law as many State and Local governments have illegally instituted a requirement that one applying for a permit to exercise their Second Amendment right to keep and bear arms on their person, for protection of same, must provide a social security number, despite there being no federal law requiring a U.S. citizen to have a Social Security Number and the limitation of such authority under the Privacy Act of 1974 and 42 U.S.C. §405(c)(2)(C), and the government refuses at this time, in any Administrative or Judicial Procedure, to recognize the rights of U.S. citizens to not be assigned such a number. Therefore, I cannot easily and with any degree of economic comfort and security, nor security of my person being unlawfully and illegally incarcerated or detained, successfully assert and exercise this right.
8. I am under coercion by custom and color of law as many State governments have illegally instituted a requirement that one must provide their social security number when registering to vote, despite there being no federal law requiring a U.S. citizen to have a Social Security Number, and the government refuses at this time, in any Administrative or Judicial Procedure, to recognize the rights of U.S. citizens to not be assigned such a number. Therefore, I cannot easily and with any degree of economic comfort and security successfully assert this right.

9. I am under coercion by custom, as many Publicly regulated Utilities demand and require submission of a social security number before providing necessary services, in order for humans to legally and actually (in some locations operating in accordance with Local ordinances) occupy housing, and the government refuses at this time to recognize the rights of U.S. citizens to not be assigned such a number. In any Judicial Procedure, I cannot easily and with any degree of economic comfort and security successfully assert this right, despite the fact that the use of the Social Security Number for credit checks are superfluous and an unnecessary security risk as such reports can be obtained and verified from using current as well as previous addresses.

This lawless custom, is an abomination of many laws enacted by the U.S. Congress, and is only maintained by the diligent work of the Executive Branch Agencies' and Administrative Law Judge's, and the Judicial Branch's refusals to give any credence to the assertions of U.S. citizens in any venue. The Laws and Agencies created, by the power of the Congress, to resolve such problems, such as the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission and the U.S. Department of Justice Civil Rights Division, have completely abrogated their responsibility to protect the most important class of protected individuals under the law, U.S. citizens.

Subsequently, I and other U.S. citizens have no hope of having our rights as U.S. citizens considered under the letter of the laws enacted by the U.S. Congress, in pursuance of the Constitution of the United States, until the time that the People's Congress either takes up the cause of the rights of U.S. citizens to be free and not treated as aliens, or the Executive Branch issues information releases regarding the veracity of the claims of U.S. citizens not being statutorily subject to the Social Security Act, and are not to be treated as aliens, subject to that act, nor the number provision requirement of the W4 Form so plainly imposed only upon aliens, therefore making U.S. citizens, living and working in the Fifty States, economically FREE.

Until then, all of those who are legally within this Nation (assigned social security numbers) will be treated as criminals, tracked and monitored by computers and programs, and as aliens subject to taxes created by international treaty, or imposed by statute upon same in keeping with the original taxation and government funding scheme of the U.S. Constitution.

Therefore, my right to be treated as a U.S. citizen, and not an alien, despite multiple remedies at law, is consistently withheld from me by either:

- A). Ignorance and fear (in the private sector) of remedy at law within the statutes enacted by the Congress, or,
- B). The de facto instructions of the Internal Revenue Service ignoring the assertions of the rights of Citizen of the United States and the remedies at law; or;
- C.) The refusal of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission and the U.S. Department of Justice Civil Rights Division to protect U.S. citizens as statutorily required, by ignoring the remedies at law, despite the fact that U.S. citizens are protected individuals under the laws they are to enforce;

Therefore, my right as a U.S. citizen to economical freedom, to be personally achievable, is in reality Judicially unenforceable, yet still protected by the Bill of Rights, and the words and letters of the Statutes and the Regulations agreed to by the Congress of the United States of America.

This is the coercion which I am experiencing regarding my rights and forces me to be treated as an alien who:

- i). Is subject to the Social Security Act;
- ii). Earns "wages" as defined under the Social Security Act and §3121(a) of the Internal Revenue Code;
- iii). Is subject to the withholding rate of 'single: zero exemptions' pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §3401(e), should I refuse to submit a W-4 form, or submit a form without a social security number on it; and;
- iv). Can be required to submit a completed W-9 form to any payor and backup withheld at the rate of 31% if I refuse, despite my never living abroad to be paid "wages" as defined under § 3401(a) of the Internal Revenue Code, .

Should I fully resist this coercion I will be placing myself in a position where I will not be able to obtain work with any reasonable ease, to sustain my life as well as the life of my dependent(s), renew my driver's license, automobile registration, open a Bank account, obtain Public Service Utilities should I be forced to move, and many other things which are not just conveniences, but are necessities for living in this modern society.

I have no remedy in legally extricating myself from Social Security within the Courts as the State Courts refuse to give any regard to the rights of U.S. citizens, despite my being registered into the Act as a minor and not being informed of the rights that were being surrendered for me, and the Federal Courts refuse to give heed to any arguments made by those who seek to extricate themselves from the Social Security Act, which was statutorily imposed upon aliens living and working in the United States.

I resent the Social Security Administration, the Secretary of the Department of Health and Human Services, the U.S. Treasury Department, and the Treasury Secretary for refusing to release me from under the Social Security Act, despite the fact that assignment of the number to me under the Act occurred when I was a minor and the legal doctrine of Ignorantia juris sui non preujudicat juri states that my rights are secure, since I was ignorant of my rights as a minor. Therefore, my unknowing registration and waiver of my rights as a minor cannot legally prejudice my rights as an adult U.S. citizen, specifically my right to not be treated as an alien and to keep 100% of my remuneration.

Facing such broad resistance throughout our modern society, which takes no heed of our laws, I set forth my signature to this Asseveration of Coercion, and reserve my rights as a U.S. citizen, without prejudice, in regard to every action I may be forced to take under Federal and State law, whereby the government or any of its agents pursuant to the Internal Revenue Code, demand, insist, or require that I provide a social security number in order for me to function in this Society.

I proceed from this day forth with an understanding that by custom of this land, that my vote is of no consequence in regards to law, politics, or self-governance of this Nation, as the U.S. Congress has refused to see and take action regarding the Executive and Judicial usurpation of its ultimate authority as the law making body, its responsibility as the protector of rights of the minority of the People, and the preservers of a Free, Honest, Peaceful and Just Society.

Since my vote is not of any consequence, I proceed from this day forth with an understanding that by custom of this land, supported by the standard practice of the Executive and Judicial Branches of government rendering many laws and portions of laws to be superfluous (especially the laws containing the remedies of law protecting the rights of the People), all of the laws as enacted by the U.S. Congress, are of no actual consequence or legal effect and all prosecutions are selective, as:

- a. The Executive is unchecked in its abuse of power under the law, as it has clearly demonstrated an ability to imprison or demonize anyone by way of a barrage of litigation;
- b. The Executive proceeds to eliminate the threat of those who would stand for their rights and their arguments for imposition of the laws as enacted by the Congress by way of forfeiture so that the Judicial process is unaffordable; and;
- c. The Judicial Branch is either embroiled in its own power grab through Judicial Legislation; or; Individual Judges of independent mind stand alone to be intimidated by the Executive abusers of the People who the Congress has failed to impeach.

It is plain to see, at this point in time in our history, that self-governance by way of a Democratic-Republic is a concept to be relegated to history, as the Executive Branch is ultimately in control with the unchecked power of the guns and the prisons to arrest and imprison Legislator and Jurist alike, and the People's Congress has no power to stop the Executive as the Congress has too long accepted the usurpation of its authority to the point where it, and the Officials within its offices, are politically irrelevant to the disposition of the Society as a whole.

I await the day that the Congress makes use of its rightful authority, takes back its responsibilities, and Justice is attainable in this land, and at least the minority of those U.S. citizens who do not desire to be treated as aliens to the United States, in accordance with this lawless custom and color of law, are released from its grip, when they properly assert their rights. Until then, GOD have mercy on this People.

I now affix my signature to these statements and assever under penalty of perjury that the above is true, correct, and complete, to the best of my knowledge, information, and belief.

ACTUAL AND CONSTRUCTIVE NOTICE

This is reply to your letter dated _____, (REFER-SEP71). Enclosed you will find a Revocation of Power of Attorney, dated _____, recorded in Los Angeles County, Records Office as _____. I am a de jure California Citizen, not a de facto National Citizen under the 14th Amendment, and a ward of Congress, who has a taxable citizenship through Social Security or any other type of governmental franchise. No governmental agency has power of attorney over me or my property. (See Exhibit A.)

This revocation is based upon the principle that a writing is "Void Ab Initio" in the case of fraud in the inception, and it need not be formally rescinded as a prerequisite to a right of avoidance. Bonacci v. Massachusetts Bonding and Ins. Co., 58 CA.2d 657, 664, 137 P.2d. 487 (1943).

Therefore, I am again demanding that you remove my name and number from your system of records, that you notify my work place and any and all concerned governmental agencies, that I am not subject to, nor required to have a social security number. Also, I demand that your agency return all of my property that was taken by your use of the various elements of fraud; which is available under Section 204, of the Social Security Act, 49 STAT 620, which allows for recovery of unqualified individuals.

This letter and attachment, all previous letters, affidavits, declarations and affirmations, sent to you, the Social Security Department, and or the Department of Health and Human Services or any other governmental agency, (are incorporated by this reference if as set forth fully herein) are conclusive and direct evidence of fraud and have not or cannot be refuted by any legal means. Therefore, as such shall be conclusive evidence, of the admissions and confessions of fraud and entrapment in any court of law or any other proceedings.

The means of "knowledge", especially where it consists of public records is deemed in law to be "knowledge of the facts". As the means of "knowledge" if it appears that the individual had notice or information of circumstances which would put him on inquiry, which, if followed, would lead to "knowledge", or that the facts were presumptively within his knowledge, he will have deemed to have had actual knowledge of the facts and may be subsequently liable for any damage or injury. You, therefore, have been given "knowledge of the facts" as it pertains to this conspiracy to commit a fraud against me.

This is an actual and constructive notice under California Civil Code Sections 18, 19, that if you fail to obey the law, and continue to aid and abet the conspiracy via the utilization of fraud and entrapment, to deprive me of my de jure State Citizenship and vested property rights, you will cause me further damage and injury. This will require whatever action deemed necessary and lawful to effect a remedy.

This instrument "ACTUAL AND CONSTRUCTIVE NOTICE, is hereby executed by service and delivery by certified mail, and as such shall be judicially noticed in any and proceedings, legal or otherwise, that may be initiated for any and all reasons.

Respectfully Submitted,

5.6.3 General Reservation of Rights

This letter is to be sent to any government agency or employee who insists that you have an obligation to do something as a matter of law that clearly violates your constitutional protections as a natural born citizen of the 50 states.

TO: Whom It May Concern

SUBJECT: General Reservation of Rights

Please be advised that My use of the phrase "All Rights Reserved without Prejudice" below My signature on this document means:

(1) that I explicitly reject any and all benefits of the Uniform Commercial Code, absent a valid commercial agreement which is in force and to which I am a party, and cite its provisions herein only to serve notice upon ALL agencies of government, whether international, national, state or local, that they, and not I, are subject to, and bound by, all of its provisions, whether cited herein or not;

(2) that My explicit reservation of Rights has served notice upon ALL agencies of government of the "Remedy" which they must provide for Me under Article 1, Section 207 of the Uniform Commercial Code, whereby I have explicitly reserved My Common Law Right not to be compelled to perform under any contract or commercial agreement that I have not entered into knowingly, voluntarily, and intentionally;

(3) that My explicit reservation of Rights has served notice upon ALL agencies of government that they are ALL limited to proceeding against Me only in harmony with the Common Law and that I do not, and will not accept the liability associated with the "compelled" benefit of any unrevealed commercial agreements; and

(4) that My valid reservation of Rights has preserved all My Rights and prevented the loss of any such Rights by application of the concepts of waiver or estoppel.

Sincerely yours,

[your signature here]

13 PREAMBLE

14 I, State Citizen _____, being a free Sovereign adult, natural born in <<STATE NAME>>, living and working as a
15 State Citizen domiciled in the <<STATE NAME>> Republic since 1952 and I, as such status, hereby make this Special
16 Appearance, by Affidavit, In Propria Persona, proceeding Sui Juris, At Law, in Common Law, with Assistance, Special,
17 neither conferring nor consenting to any foreign jurisdiction, except to the judicial power of <<STATE NAME>> and/or 18 America, and as such I willfully enforce all Constitutional limitations respectively on all government agencies when 19 dealing with them. Wherefore, the undersigned Affiant, named herein and above, upon affirmation declares and evidences 20 the following:

21 I, _____, am of lawful age and competent. I am a Sovereign natural born free State Citizen domiciled in 22 the <<STATE NAME>> Republic (see 1:2:2, 1:3:3, 2:1:5, 3:2:1 and 4:2:1 in the U.S. Constitution), and thereby in the 23 United States of America, in fact, by right of heritage, a Sovereign State Citizen inhabiting and domiciled in the <<STATE
24 NAME>> Republic, protected via hereditary succession by my predecessors' previous contracts with government as found
25 in the Northwest Ordinance of 1787, the Organic Act of 1849 (the original Constitution of <<STATE NAME>>), the 26 Articles of Confederation of 1777, the Constitution for the United States of America (1789) including its Preamble, and the 27 Bill of Rights (1791) including its Preamble; and, as such, I retain all my unalienable rights granted by God in positive law,
28 embodied in the Declaration of Independence (1776) and binding rights upon myself and my parentage, on this day and for 29 all time now and hereafter. And further,

30 I, _____, a Sovereign natural born free State Citizen, In Propria Persona, proceeding Sui Juris, At 31 Law, with Assistance, Special, receiving mail c/o USPS Post Office Box [##], <<CITY NAME>>, <<STATE NAME>>
32 Republic, zip code exempt (DMM 122.32), being duly sworn and affixing my signature to this document, do hereby make 33 the following statement of fact and affirm: the so-called "Social Security" number <<SOCIAL SECURITY NUMBER>> is 34 rescinded in application, in body, and in signature, for I affirm that this agreement was imposed upon me by usage of threat,
35 coercion, withholding of material facts, and uninformed consent, and that I was not at age of majority; therefore, this
36 aforementioned government action constitutes constructive fraud and placed me under duress of mind and therefore 37 deprived me of giving any meaningful consent to the original "Social Security" application and agreement. This agreement
38 is null and void, ab initio (from its inception), due to the aforementioned fraud. And further,

39 AFFIDAVIT AMENDMENT PROTECTION CLAUSE

40 I, the undersigned, in order to protect my unalienable rights to life, liberty, and property, inclusive of my right to 41 the proper in rem and in personam State Citizenship status, have been forced to amend certain legal documents and 42 statements, due to the continued revelation and increased discovery of the continuous acts of fraud upon me by the de facto governments, both State and Federal, and therefore I declare that I am now and fully intend to remain free to amend any and all such documents and statements, as a matter of substantive right, for I cannot be held liable for either the acts or the omissions by governments which are out of my control, which acts and omissions constitute fraud in one form or another. Therefore, I proceed at all times "WITH EXPLICIT RESERVATION OF ALL MY UNALIENABLE RIGHTS AND WITHOUT PREJUDICE TO ANY OF MY UNALIENABLE RIGHTS", inclusive of my personal right to substantive and procedural due process proceedings under the Judicial Power of both my State and my Nation. And further,

I, _____, do state and affirm the following:

1. That material facts were withheld, such as Title 28, U.S.C., Section 1746, Subsections 1 & 2 (being without or within the "United States", respectively), which caused me to be unaware that a completed, signed and submitted "Form 1040" or "income tax return" and other Internal Revenue Service and State Franchise Tax Board forms and documents are voluntarily executed instruments which could be used as prima facie evidence against me in criminal trials and civil proceedings to show that I had voluntarily waived my Constitutionally secured rights and that I had voluntarily subjected myself to the federal income/excise tax, to the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code (hereinafter referred to as the IRC), to the authority of the State Franchise Tax Board (hereinafter referred to as the FTB) and to the authority of the Internal Revenue Service (hereinafter referred to as the IRS) by signing and thereby affirming, under penalty of perjury (within the "United States"), that I was, in effect, a "person" subject to the tax; that the above induced and/or forced action, via State and Federal governments, clearly indicates a violation of Article 1, Section 9, Clause 3 (1:9:3), to wit: "No Bill of Attainder or ex post facto Law shall be passed" and also Article 1, Section 9, Clause 4 (1:9:4), to wit: "No Capitation, or other direct, Tax shall be laid, unless in Proportion to the Census or Enumeration hereinbefore directed to be taken" in the United States Constitution. These above same injunctions are found in the Northwest Ordinance and in the <<STATE NAME>> Constitution. And further,

2. That material facts were withheld, which caused me to be unaware of the legal effects of signing and filing income tax returns, as shown by the decision of the United States Court of Appeals for the 9th Circuit in the 1974 ruling in the case of Morse v. U.S., 494 F.2d. 876, 880, wherein the Court explained how a State Citizen became a "taxpayer" by stating: "Accordingly, when returns were filed in Mrs. Morse's name declaring income to her for 1944 and 1945, making her potentially liable for the tax due on that income, she became a taxpayer within the meaning of the Internal Revenue Code." [emphasis added] And further,

3. That material facts were withheld, which caused me to be unaware that the signing and filing of an income tax return and other IRS forms are acts of voluntary compliance for a Sovereign natural born free State Citizen inhabiting the United States of America, when executed and submitted by said Sovereign living and working within the States of the Union; that I was unaware that, in a legislative court such as a United States District Court, the completed IRS documents can become prima facie evidence, sufficient to sustain a legal conclusion by a judge, that the signer has voluntarily changed his lawful status/state FROM that of a Sovereign natural born free State Citizen who is not subject to any federal income tax and who possesses all of his God-given, Constitutionally secured rights when dealing with government, TO the legal status of a "taxpayer" (any individual, trust, estate, partnership, association, company or corporation subject to federal excise tax), that is, a "person" who is subject to the federal excise tax and is, therefore, subject to the authority, jurisdiction, and control of the federal government under the IRC, to the statutes governing federal taxation, and to the regulations of the IRS, thereby imposing the tax on himself, waiving his God-given Constitutionally secured rights to property and labor in respect to the federal income/excise tax statutes and their administration by the IRS, and establishing himself as one who has privileges only, but no rights, in dealings with the IRS, the same as a corporation; that it is my understanding that the change of status/state resulting from the signed IRS documents is very similar to the change of status that occurs when one enlists in the military service and voluntarily takes an oath that subjects him to the authority, jurisdiction, and control of the federal government under Title 10 of the United States Code (i.e., the statutes governing the armed forces and the regulations of the military service), thereby waiving his Constitutionally guaranteed rights in relation to dealings with the military services. And further,

4. That I, as a Sovereign natural born free State Citizen and inhabitant in the United States of America, domiciled in the <<STATE NAME>> Republic, and as a Free Man, am endowed by my Creator with numerous unalienable/inalienable rights which include but are not limited to my rights to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness (property)", which rights are specifically identified in the Magna Carta (1215) and the Declaration of Independence (1776), and protected and secured by the Constitution for the United States of America (1789) and the subsequent Bill of Rights, Articles in Amendment 1 thru 10 (1791); that my birthright to the "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" has been interpreted by both the Framers of the Constitution and by the U.S. Supreme Court to include my unalienable right to contract, to acquire, to deal in, to sell, rent, and exchange properties of various kinds, real and personal, without requesting or exercising any privilege or franchise from government; that I have learned that these unalienable property rights also include my right to contract for the exchange of my labor-property for other properties and remuneration, such as wages, salaries, and other earnings; that I have never knowingly, intentionally or voluntarily waived any of these unalienable rights, nor can I, _____, be forced to waive any of these rights granted to me by God the Father, my Creator, because I am endowed with these rights by my Creator and by nobody else and nothing else (see Brady v. U.S., 397 U.S. 742, 748 (1970)). And further,

5. That I understand that, if the exercise of my rights were subjected to taxation, these same rights could be destroyed by increasing the tax rates to unaffordable levels; therefore, courts have repeatedly ruled that government has no power whatsoever to tax or otherwise "lien" against the exercise of any rights, particularly the rights of Sovereign State Citizens, as shown by the United States Supreme Court in the case of Murdock v. Pennsylvania, 319 U.S. 105 (1943), which stated: "A state may not impose a charge for the enjoyment of a right granted by the Federal Constitution."; that unalienable rights are rights against which no lien can be established precisely because they are un-lien-able; that America's founding documents enumerate some of my unalienable rights, none of which rights I have ever waived knowingly, voluntarily, and intentionally; that I freely choose to obey all American Law and to pay all Lawful taxes in jurisdictions which are applicable to me for the common good; that I stand In Propria Persona with Assistance, Special; that my status and unalienable rights, as stated hereinafter and in the foregoing, are not negotiable. And further,

6. That, for years past and at least since the year 1964, I have been influenced by numerous cases of people going to jail and being punished, and also by numerous and repeated public warnings made by the FTB and by the IRS, via radio, television, the printed press and other forms of public communication media, warning of the "deadline" for filing State and Federal forms, such as a "Form 1040 Income Tax Return" and/or other IRS forms and documents; this therefore caused me to file said forms under threat, duress and coercion. And further,

7. That, in addition to the aforesaid warnings, I have also been influenced by the misleading and deceptive wording of IRS publications and IRS-generated news articles, by the pressure of widespread rumors and misinformed public opinion, and by the advice and assurances of lawyers, C.P.A.'s, and income tax preparers which misled me to believe incorrectly that the 16th Amendment to the Constitution for the United States of America abolished the Fifth Amendment of that same Constitution and authorized Congress to impose a direct tax on me, my property, my exchanges of property and/or property received as a result of exercising my Constitutionally secured right to contract; that I was further misled into believing that I had a legal duty and obligation to file a "Form 1040 Income Tax Return" and other IRS and State tax forms, schedules, and documents, and that I was unaware of 28 U.S.C. §1746, wherein there are two perjury clauses: (1) one stating that you are without the "United States" and also (2) the other stating that you are within the "United States", respectively. The perjury clauses on both State and Federal tax forms stipulate, under penalty of perjury, that I was stating unknowingly, involuntarily, and unintentionally that I was within the "United States". This is an act of fraud by both State and Federal taxing agencies. And further,

8. That I have also been further influenced, misled, and alarmed by rumors, by misinformed public opinion, and by the advice and assurances of lawyers, C.P.A.'s, and income tax preparers to the effect that "the IRS and the FTB will get you", and that it would be a crime punishable by fines and/or imprisonment if I did not fill out, sign, and file with the IRS a "Form 1040"; that, in point of fact, the only person actually named within the IRC as a person required to collect an income tax, to file an income tax return, and to pay an income tax is a "Withholding Agent"; and that, to the best of my knowledge, I am not now, nor have I ever been,, a "Withholding Agent". And further,

9. That, in addition to all of the reasons stated in paragraphs 6, 7, and 8 above, I was influenced by the common and widespread practice of employers who, either knowingly or unknowingly, without Power of Attorney, misled me and their employees to believe that they and I must have a Social Security Number and that all are subject to the withholding of "income taxes" from their earnings, either with or without their permission, based upon the employers' possibly mistaken assumption that they, as employers, are required by law to withhold "income taxes" from the paychecks of their employees, which is contrary to the Sections 3402(n), 7343 and 7701(a)(16) of the IRC, absent a voluntary execution of Form W-4, the "Employee's Withholding Allowance Certificate". And further,

10. That I have also been mistakenly influenced and mistakenly impressed by annual public displays and indiscriminate public offerings by the IRS and the FTB of large quantities of the Forms 1040 and 540 in banks, in post offices, and through the U.S. mail, which public displays and indiscriminate public offerings also had the effect of reminding me of, and inducing me to respond mistakenly by filling out, signing, and sending "Form 1040" to the IRS and "Form 540" to the FTB. And further,

11. That said "Forms 1040" contained no reference to any law or laws which would explain just exactly who is and who is not subject to, or liable for, the income tax, State or Federal, nor did it contain any notice or warning to anyone that merely sending said completed "Form 1040" to the IRS would waive my right to privacy, as secured by the 4th Amendment in the U.S. Constitution, and also waive my right to not be a witness against myself, as secured by the 5th Amendment in the U.S. Constitution, and that a completed "Form 1040" would, in itself, constitute legal evidence, admissible in a court of law, that the filer is subject to and liable for the income/excise tax, even though and regardless of the fact that I, as a Sovereign natural born free State Citizen, am actually and legally not subject to the statutory jurisdiction of the IRC, nor liable for any income/excise tax, and regardless of the fact that, to the best of my knowledge, I have no legal duty or obligation whatsoever to complete and file any "Form 1040" or State income tax forms, nor did they ever evidence 28 U.S.C 1746. And further,

12. That at no time was I ever notified or informed by the IRS or by the state of <<STATE NAME>>, nor by any of their agents or employees, nor by any lawyer, C.P.A., or tax preparer, of the fact that the so-called 16th Amendment in the U.S. Constitution, as correctly interpreted by the U.S. Supreme Court in such cases as Brushaber v. Union Pacific Railroad Co., 240 U.S. 1 (1916) and Stanton v. Baltic Mining Co., 240 U.S. 103 (1916), identified the income tax as an indirect excise tax in accordance with Article 1, Section 8, Clause 1 (1:8:1) of the United States Constitution; that the so-called 16th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, as correctly interpreted by the U.S. Supreme Court, does not authorize a tax on all individuals but is applicable to nonresident aliens (e.g., Frank R. Brushaber) who involve themselves in activities, events or occupations which come under, or are within, the taxing authority of the "United States", as explained in Treasury Decision 2313, dated March 21, 1916; that the so-called 16th Amendment was never actually ratified nor could it have been enacted into positive law because the requisite number of States (i.e., 36) did not meet the lawful requirements for amending the Constitution at that time; and that a mass of incontrovertible material evidence available since the year 1985 proves that the act of "declaring" the so-called 16th Amendment "ratified" was an act of outright fraud by Philander C. Knox in the year 1913. And further,

13. That at no time was I ever notified or informed by the FTB nor by the IRS, their agents or employees, nor by any lawyer, C.P.A. or tax preparer, of the fact that, because of various rulings of the U.S. Supreme Court in such cases as Flint v. Stone Tracy Co., 220 U.S. 107 (1911), and Pollock v. Farmer's Loan and Trust Co., 157 U.S. 492 (1895), the indirect excise tax on incomes identified by the so-called 16th Amendment is also a tax upon corporate privileges granted by government, which tax is measured by the amount of corporate income (see Corporations Tax Act, Statutes at Large, 1909, vol. XXXVI, section 38, page 112); that this indirect excise tax is also imposed on the taxable income of foreign corporations, and on the taxable income of nonresident aliens to the extent this (latter) income is either effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the corporate jurisdiction of the "United States", or derived from sources within the corporate jurisdiction of the "United States" although not effectively connected with the conduct of trade or business within the corporate jurisdiction of the "United States", according to Sections 871 and 872 of the IRC. And further,

14. That my attention has been called to Report No. 80-19A, entitled "Some Constitutional Questions Regarding the Federal Income Tax Laws" published by the American Law Division of the Congressional Research Service of the Library of Congress, updated January 17, 1980; that this publication describes the tax on "income" identified in the so-called 16th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution as an indirect excise tax; that this report stated: "The Supreme Court, in a decision written by Chief Justice White, first noted that the 16th Amendment did not authorize any new type of tax, nor did it repeal or revoke the tax clauses of Article I of the United States Constitution, quoted above."; and this report further stated: "Therefore, it can clearly be determined from the decisions of the United States Supreme Court that the income tax is an indirect tax, generally in the nature of an excise tax", thus proving in my mind that the "income tax" is not a tax on me as a Sovereign natural born free State Citizen, but is, rather, an indirect excise tax as described by the U.S. Supreme Court in the case of Flint v. Stone Tracy Co. supra, wherein the high Court defined excise taxes as "... taxes laid upon the manufacture, sale, or consumption of commodities within the country, upon licenses to pursue certain occupations, and upon corporate privileges", none of which aforesaid classifications apply to me. And further,

15. That I was unaware of the truth of the rarely publicized statement by the IRS that the "income" tax system is based upon "voluntary compliance with the law and self-assessment of tax"; that I was unaware before June of 1990 of a posted notice in the main lobby of the Federal Building in San Francisco, <<STATE NAME>>, outside the offices of the IRS, which notice reads, in pertinent part, "The purpose of the Internal Revenue Service is to ... encourage and achieve the highest degree of voluntary compliance in accordance with the tax laws and regulations."; that I was unaware before June of 1990 that Mr. Roger M. Olsen, Assistant Attorney General, Tax Division, Department of Justice, Washington, D.C., made the following statement to an assemblage of tax lawyers on May 9, 1987: "We encourage voluntary compliance by scaring the heck out of you."; that it has never been either my intention nor my desire to voluntarily self-assess an excise tax upon myself, nor to give up my right to property, nor to voluntarily subject myself to such an excise tax; that I had always thought that compliance was required by law. And further,

16. That I have examined Sections 871 thru 878, 1441, 1442, 1443, 3401(c), 6001, 6011, 6012(a), 6331(a), 7203, 7205 and 7343 of the IRC, and I am entirely convinced and completely satisfied that I am not now, nor was I ever, any such "person" or individual referred to by these sections. And further,

17. That, after careful study of the IRC, and after consultations on the provisions of that Code with informed lawyers, tax accountants, and tax preparers concerning the provisions of the IRC, I have never found or been shown any sections of the IRC that imposed any requirement on me as a Sovereign natural born free State Citizen and unprivileged inhabitant, living and working within a County within a state of the Union, to file a "Form 1040 Income Tax Return" or any other State income tax form, or that imposed a requirement upon me to pay a tax on "income", or that would classify me as a "person liable", as a "person made liable", or as a "taxpayer" as the term "taxpayer" is defined in IRC Section 77101(a)(14), which states: "The term 'taxpayer' means any person subject to any internal revenue tax." And further,

18. That, after the study and consultations mentioned in paragraph 17, the only mention of any possible requirement upon me, as an individual, to pay a tax on "income", that I could find, or was shown in the IRC, was the title of Part I under Subtitle A, Chapter 1, Subchapter A (which is deceptively titled "Tax on Individuals") and Section 6012(a), Subtitle F, Chapter 61-A, Part II-B, Subpart B, and the <<STATE NAME>> Tax Statutes; that a careful study and earnest examination of these parts of the IRC revealed that the "individuals" to whom these sections refer are, in fact, either individuals who work within a foreign nation like France and are taxed according to a tax treaty, or they are nonresident aliens who receive income which is either effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the corporate jurisdiction of the "United States", or derived from sources within the corporate jurisdiction of the "United States", although not effectively connected with the conduct of trade or business within the corporate jurisdiction of the "United States", according to Sections 871 and 872 of the IRC; and that, to the best of my knowledge, I have never conducted any trade or business within the corporate jurisdiction of the "United States", nor have I ever derived income from sources within the corporate jurisdiction of the "United States". And further,

19. That, after the study and consultations mentioned in paragraph 17 above, my attention was called to the IRC, Chapter 21, entitled "Federal Insurance Contributions Act" (Social Security), and my attention was also called to Subchapter A of Chapter 21 entitled "Tax on Employees", which includes Section 3101, wherein the Social Security tax is identified as a tax on "income", not as an "Insurance Contribution", not as a "Tax on Employees", and not as a tax on wages or earnings; that my attention was further called to these facts: there is no provision in the IRC that imposes the tax on employees or requires them to pay the tax; a voluntarily signed and completed Form W-4, "Employee's Withholding Allowance Certificate", allows an employer to withhold money from a worker's pay for Social Security "income" tax, even though the worker has claimed on that form to be "exempt" from the graduated "income" tax; and an employer has no authority to withhold money from a worker's pay for the Social Security "income" tax, for the graduated "income" tax, nor for any IRS-imposed penalty or assessment, if there is no voluntarily signed "Form W-4" in force and no "Form 2678" in force Granting Power of Attorney. And further,

20. That, after the study and consultations described in paragraph 17 above, my attention was called to Section 61(a) of the IRC, which lists items that are sources of "income", and to the following facts: that IRS Collections Summons Form 6638 (12-82) confirms that these items are sources, not "income", by stating that the following items are "sources": "wages, salaries, tips, fees, commissions, interest, rents, royalties, alimony, state or local tax refunds, pensions, business income, gains from dealings in property, and any other compensations for services (including receipt of property other than money)."; that sources are not "income", but sources become "income" if they are entered as "income" on a signed "Form 1040", because the signer affirms, under penalty of perjury (within the "United States"), that the items entered in the "income" section of the "Form 1040" are "income" to the signer; that Section 61(b) clearly indicates which sections of the IRC identify and list items that are included in "income" by stating: "For items specifically included in gross income, see Part II (sec. 71 and following)". And further,

21. That my attention was then called to the said Part II entitled: "Items Specifically Included in Gross Income"; that I studied sections 71 thru 87 and noticed that wages, salaries, commissions, tips, interest, dividends, pensions, rents, royalties, etc., are not listed as being included in "income" in those Sections of the IRC; and that, in fact, those items are not mentioned anywhere in any of these sections of the IRC. And further,

22. That, after further diligent study, it appears entirely clear to me that the only way that property received by me as a Sovereign natural born free State Citizen, living and working within the States of the Union, in the form of wages, salaries, commissions, tips, interest, dividends, rents, royalties and/or pensions could be, or could have been legally considered to be "income", is if I voluntarily completed and signed a "Form 1040 Income Tax Return", thereby affirming, under penalty of perjury (within the "United States"), that the information on such "Form 1040" was true and correct, and that any amounts listed on the "Form 1040" in the "income" block were "income", and thereby acknowledging under oath or affirmation, that I am, or was, a taxpayer subject to the tax and have, or had, a duty to file a "Form 1040 Income Tax Return" and/or other IRS forms, documents and schedules, none of which instruments I have ever signed with the understanding that I signed them knowingly, voluntarily, and intentionally and by means of knowingly intelligent acts done "with sufficient awareness of all the relevant circumstances and likely consequences" (see Brady v. U.S. supra); and that, when I have sent in State and Federal tax forms purposely not signed, they were returned to me with a letter instructing and stipulating that I must sign the forms under the penalty of perjury, thereby claiming that I was a "United States citizen" due to the wording of the perjury clause (see 28 U.S.C. §1746(2)). And further,

23. That, with good faith, with an honest reliance upon the aforementioned U.S. Supreme Court rulings and with reliance upon my constitutionally protected Natural Common Law Bill of Rights, Amendments 1 thru 10 (1791), to lawfully contract, to lawfully work and to lawfully acquire and possess property, I am convinced and satisfied that I am not now, nor was I ever subject to, liable for, or required to pay an income/excise tax; that I am not now, nor have I ever been a "taxpayer", and there has never been a Judicial Power proceeding in which it was ruled that I was a "taxpayer" as that term is defined and used in the IRC; and that I have never had any legal duties or obligations whatsoever to file any "Form 1040" or to make any "income tax return", or to sign or submit any other IRS "individual" forms or documents or schedules, to pay any "individual" income tax, to keep any personal financial records, or to supply any personal information to the IRS. And further,

24. That the U.S. Congress, the International Monetary Fund, the Federal Reserve Banks and the Internal Revenue Service, by means of vague, deceptive and misleading words and statements in the IRC, in the Code of Federal Regulations (CFR), in official statements by IRS Commissioners in the Federal Register, in IRS publications and in IRS-generated news articles, committed constructive fraud and misrepresentation by misleading and deceiving me, as well as the general public, into believing that I was required to file "Form 1040 Income Tax Returns" and other IRS forms, documents, and schedules and that I was also required to keep records, to supply information and to pay income taxes. And further,

25. That, by reason of the aforementioned facts, I do hereby exercise my rights as a Sovereign natural born free State Citizen, upheld by various court decisions, to rescind, to cancel and to render null and void, Nunc Pro Tunc, both currently and retroactively to the time of signing, based upon the constructive fraud and misrepresentation perpetrated upon me by the Federal government, the U.S. Congress, the IRS, the "state of <<STATE NAME>>", and the FTB, all IRS and FTB forms, statements, documents, returns, schedules, contracts, licenses, applications, articles, certificates and/or commercial agreements ever signed and/or submitted by me, or on my behalf by third parties (including but not limited to Forms 1040 and attached schedules, Forms W-2, Forms W-4, and Forms 1099) on the accounts bearing the account numbers <<SOCIAL SECURITY NUMBER>>, and 98-7654321 and all my signatures on any and all of the aforementioned items, including the original "Social Security" application, which caused the account bearing the account number <<SOCIAL SECURITY NUMBER>> to be established; that this notice of rescission is based upon my rights with respect to constructive fraud and misrepresentation as established in, but not limited to, the cases of Tyler v. Secretary of State, 184 F.2d. 101 (1962) and also El Paso Natural Gas Co. v. Kysar Insurance Co., 605 Pacific 2d 240 (1979), which stated: "Constructive fraud as well as actual fraud may be the basis of cancellation of an instrument." And further,

26. That I do hereby declare that I am not and never was a "taxpayer" as that term is defined in the IRC, a "person liable" for any internal revenue tax, or a "person" subject to the provisions of the IRC, and I do hereby declare that I am, and have always been, a "nontaxpayer"; that courts have recognized and acknowledged that individuals can be nontaxpayers, "... for with them Congress does not assume to deal and they are neither the subject nor the object of revenue laws", as stated in the cases of Long v. Rasmussen, 281 F. 236 (1922), De Lima v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 176, 179, and Gerth v. United States, 132 F.Supp. 894 (1955). And further,

27. That evidence now available to me proves that the Internal Revenue Service has to date failed to comply with the clear and unambiguous requirements imposed on all federal government agencies by the following Congressional statutes: the Federal Register Act (44 U.S.C. §1501 et seq.), the Administrative Procedures Act (5 U.S.C. §551 et seq.), and the Paperwork Reduction Act (44 U.S.C. §3501 et seq.); that the IRS failure to comply with the requirements of these statutes constitutes further constructive fraud, breach of fiduciary trust between Sovereign State Citizens and public servants, and violations of the solemn oaths of office required of federal government officials, thereby relieving me of any and all legal duties which could or might otherwise exist for me to file any returns, schedules, or other documents with the IRS; and that, after having read these three statutes and summaries of related case law, I thereby conclude that there is no reason why the IRS would be exempt from any of the clear and unambiguous requirements imposed upon federal government agencies by these three statutes, notwithstanding any and all allegations to the contrary that heretofore may have been published by the IRS or the Treasury Department in the Federal Register without also citing the proper legal authorities, if any, for such allegations. And further,

28. That recent diligent studies have convinced me of the above, and that as such I am not "subject to" the territorially limited "exclusive legislation" nor to the foreign jurisdiction mandated for the District of Columbia, federal enclaves, federal territories, and federal possessions by Article 1, Section 8, Clause 17 and 18 and Article 4, Section 3, Clause 2 of the U.S. Constitution, including its "internal" governmental organizations therein (hereinafter referred to as the "Federal Legislative Democracy" and elsewhere referred to in this Affidavit as the "corporate jurisdiction of the United States"); that I am not "subject to" this foreign jurisdiction by reason of any valid contract or any valid commercial agreement resulting in adhesion thereto across America, nor are millions of other Sovereign State Citizens, unless they have provided "waivers of rights guaranteed by the Constitution" by means of "knowingly intelligent acts", such as contracts or commercial agreements with such government(s) "with sufficient awareness of the relevant circumstances and likely consequences", as ruled by the U.S. Supreme Court in Brady v. United States supra; and that I myself have given no such "waivers". And further,

29. That these same diligent studies have also proved to me that misrepresentation and a shrewd and criminal constructive fraud have been perpetrated upon Sovereign State Citizens by government, under counterfeit "color of law", through the apparent entrapments of "certain activities (monopoly occupations) and privileges (other benefits)" allowed by statutory acts or otherwise; that, by reason of American Law which has never been repealed, such sources of past and present criminal element in and behind government should be brought to justice in a Constitutional Court of Law for aiding and abetting this misrepresentation and constructive fraud as willing accomplices; that it is for such a Court, with a 12-member jury of peers, to decide who is and who is not guilty among personnel of government, media, schools, lawyers, accountants, clergy and other purveyors of misinformation and other mind-set propaganda, in this and related regards. And further,

30. That, due to such shrewd entrapments over many years, I have unwittingly signed many related documents, contracts and commercial agreements, some even under the "perjury" jurat (within the "United States") as was supposedly required; with American Law on my side, I hereby rescind and cancel any and all such signatures and render them null and void, nunc pro tunc, except for those which I may choose to have considered as being under "TDC" (Threat, Duress and/or Coercion), past and present; that this is also my lawful notice that all such signatures of mine in the future on instruments of government or other entities, including banks, which might otherwise result in contract adhesion, are to be considered as being under "TDC", whether appearing therewith or otherwise; that my Constitutional "Privileges and Immunities" (per Article 4, Section 2) are apart from those mandated for the Federal Legislative Democracy by Article 1, Section 8, Clauses 17 and 18 and by Article 4, Section 3, Clause 2, and shall not by Law be violated ever; and that my status, in accord, is stated for all to see and to know in 1:2:2, 1:3:3, 2:1:5, 3:2:1 and 4:2:1 of the Constitution for the United States of America. And further,

31. That, with this accurate knowledge and with "the supreme Law of the Land" (Article 6, Section 2) again on my side, I do Lawfully and "squarely challenge" the fraudulent, usurping, octopus-like authority and jurisdiction cited above in paragraph 28, which authority and jurisdiction do not apply to me (see Hagans v. Lavine, 415 U.S. 528 at 533); it is, therefore, now mandatory for any personnel of the Federal Legislative Democracy or its agents to FIRST PROVE its "jurisdiction", if any, over me before any further procedures can take place in my regard, per Title 5, United States Code, "Government Organization and Employees", Section 556(d), specifically by disclosing in writing any and all contracts or other commercial agreements whereby the Federal Legislative Democracy and its agents claim to have obtained controlling interest in me such that my specific performance to any third party debt or obligation can be compelled; OR ELSE any of its personnel and accomplices who willfully violate this statute can and shall be personally charged as citizens under Title 18, United States Criminal Code, Sections 241, 242, 1001 and/or otherwise; and, in fairness, it must be added that, to my knowledge, IRS agents have NO written lawful "Delegation of Authority" within the 50 States of the Union and their so-called "Form 1040" appears to be a bogus and bootleg document on its face. And further,

32. That, with all of the above in mind, it appears that this Sovereign natural born free State Citizen is, by Law, as "foreign" and as much a NON-RESIDENT NON-PERSON with respect to the Federal Legislative Democracy as he is to France, and thus shall be free to use related Forms of the Federal Legislative Democracy if and when they might be needed, required, and/or appropriate at various future times and places yet to be determined (see paragraphs 12, 13 and 18 above), including but not limited to Form W-8 ("Certificate of Foreign Status") or its equivalent for banks and/or other financial institutions, Forms 1040X ("Amended U.S. Individual Income Tax Return") and 1040NR ("U.S. Nonresident Alien Income Tax Return") for refunds and for correcting the administrative record, and IRC Section 3402(n) which authorizes certificates of exemption from withholding. And further,

33. That, since my date of birth on <<BIRTHDATE>>, I have always been a NON-RESIDENT NON-PERSON with respect to the Federal Legislative Democracy of the "United States", never having resided, worked, nor having any income, to the best of my recollection, from any sources within the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, Virgin Islands, Guam, American Samoa, Northern Mariana Islands, the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands, or any other territory or possession within the "United States", which entity obtains its exclusive legislative authority and jurisdiction from Article 1, Section 8, Clause 17 and 18 and Article 4, Section 3, Clause 2 of the U.S. Constitution; that I have always been a non-taxpayer outside the venue and jurisdiction of the IRC; that, to the best of my knowledge, I have never had any "U.S. trade or business" as defined in the IRC, in 26 C.F.R., or in 27 C.F.R.; that, to the best of my knowledge, I have never had any "gross income" from any U.S. sources, as the term "gross income" is defined in IRC Section 872(a). And further,

34. That my use of IRS Forms 1040X and 1040NR shall be presumed to mean that they were filed solely to correct the administrative record permanently, retroactively to <<BIRTHDATE>>, so as to claim any lawful refunds that may be due, to rebut any erroneous presumptions and/or terminate any erroneous elections of U.S. "residence" which may have been established in error by the filing of any prior IRS forms, schedules, and other statements by mistakes resulting in part from the demonstrable vagueness that is evident in the IRC and its regulations, and by mistakes resulting also from the constructive fraud and misrepresentation mentioned throughout this Affidavit; that I was neither born nor naturalized in the "United States", I have never been subject to its jurisdiction, and I have never been a "United States citizen" as defined in 26 C.F.R. 1.1-1(c) and as defined in the so-called 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. And further,

35. That the federal government has committed fraud, duress and coercion, exercised undue influence, and evidenced unlawful menace against the American people by representing the so-called 14th Amendment as a lawfully ratified amendment in the U.S. Constitution, when contrary proof, published court authorities, and other competent legal scholars have now established that it was NOT lawfully ratified. (See State v. Phillips, 540 P.2d. 936 (1975); Dyett v. Turner, 439 P.2d. 266 (1968); 28 Tulane Law Review 22; 11 South Carolina Law Quarterly 484.) And further,

36. That I am not now, nor have I ever knowingly, intentionally and voluntarily, with informed consent, entered into any personal, internal, public or private agreement, contract, stipulation, account, or similar contrivance with the "United States", the "Federal Government" or the "District of Columbia", its territories, its agencies, or other property appurtenant thereto, which would have altered or waived my de jure, Sui Juris status, or my unalienable God-given natural rights; that any such agreements or contracts, expressed or implied, such as a Social Security number and application, or Driver's License, or Bank Signature Card, or the use of Federal Reserve Notes (which are not lawful Specie) etc., have all been hereby rescinded ab initio, due to the fraudulent withholding of material facts, which became a snare and a trap and, as such, are a Bill of Attainder on this Sovereign natural born free State Citizen and inhabitant in the United States of America, for I cannot become a nexus by the effect of a fraudulent nexum, because my status and unalienable natural rights are not negotiable, and the government, both State and Federal, have not proved that they ever had jurisdiction to change my status, as required by Title 5 U.S.C. §556(d), or as defined and set out as a Constitutional requirement in Hagans v. Lavine supra (see also Brady v. U.S. supra); that any change of status would lawfully have to take place in a Common Law (judicial power) court under the due process clause of the 5th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. And further,

37. That this is to certify that I, _____, am a Sovereign natural born free State Citizen and inhabitant in the United States of America, domiciled in the <<STATE NAME>> Republic, living and working in Marin County, living under the Common Law, having assumed, among the powers of the Earth, the Separate and Equal Station to which the Laws of Nature and Nature's God entitles me, in order to secure the Blessings of Liberty to Myself and my Posterity, and in order to re-acquire the Birthright that was taken from me by fraud, do hereby asseverate nunc pro tunc and rescind, ab initio, all feudatory contracts with the Federal government and its agencies, and with the corporate state of <<STATE NAME>> and its agencies; for I, _____, being of sound mind and body, do not choose, nor have I ever chosen, to give up, relinquish, or otherwise waive any of my God-given, natural, fundamental, Constitutionally secured rights. And further,

38. That my use of the phrase "WITH EXPLICIT RESERVATION OF ALL MY RIGHTS AND WITHOUT PREJUDICE U.C.C. §1-207 (UCCA 1207)" above my signature on this document indicates: (1) that I explicitly reject any and all benefits of the Uniform Commercial Code, absent a valid commercial agreement which is in force and to which I am a party, and cite its provisions herein only to serve notice upon ALL agencies of government, whether international, national, state or local, that they, and not I, are subject to, and bound by, all of its provisions, whether cited herein or not; (2) that my explicit reservation of rights has served notice upon ALL agencies of government of the "Remedy" they must provide for me under Article 1, Section 207, of the Uniform Commercial Code, whereby I have explicitly reserved my Common Law right not to be compelled to perform under any contract or commercial agreement into which I have not entered knowingly, voluntarily, and intentionally; (3) that my explicit reservation of rights has served notice upon ALL agencies of government that they are ALL limited to proceeding against me only in harmony with the Common Law and that I do not, and will not, accept the liability associated with the "compelled" benefit of any unrevealed commercial agreements; and (4) that my valid reservation of rights has preserved all my rights and prevented the loss of any such rights by application of the concepts of waiver or estoppel. And further,

39. That I reserve my unalienable right to amend this Affidavit at times and places of my own choosing, according as new facts and revelations are made available to me at various future times and places as yet unknown, and as yet to be determined, given the massive fiscal fraud which has now been sufficiently revealed to me by means of material and other reliable evidence which constitutes satisfactory and incontrovertible proof of the fraud to which I refer in this paragraph and elsewhere in this Affidavit. And further,

40. That I affirm, under penalty of perjury, under the Common Law of America, without the "United States", under the laws of the United States of America that the foregoing is true and correct, to the best of my current information, knowledge, and belief, per 28 U.S.C. §1746(1); and Further this Affiant saith not.

5.6.5 Revocation of Election by Nonresident Alien to Treat Income as “Effectively Connected with a Trade or Business in the United States”

The form below is described in:

1. Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Online, Form #10.004, Instructions, Step 3.13.
2. Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Manual, Form #10.005, section 4.5.3.13.

The following memorandum describes the only proper status of those born or naturalized in a constitutional state and domiciled there. It concludes that such parties are NOT any of the following if they are not physically present within the statutory "United States" (federal zone) and not consensually doing business there: "individuals", "aliens", or even "nonresident aliens":

Non-Resident Non-Person Position, Form #05.020
<https://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

This form would therefore only be submitted by an ALIEN DOING BUSINESS with the federal government corporations and receiving payments from that government. This is confirmed by the definition of "individual" found in 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1\(c\)\(3\)\(i\), which defines "individual" as an "alien". Such payments are called "U.S. sources". By "U.S.", we mean that defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(9\) and (a)(10) as the District of Columbia and NO part of any state of the Union. With respect to these areas, state nationals are "foreigners" but not statutory "aliens":

“Constitutionally, only those born or naturalized in the United States and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens. Const.Amdt. XIV. The power to fix and determine the rules of naturalization is vested in the Congress. Const.Art. I, sec. 8, cl. 4. Since all persons born outside of the [CONSTITUTIONAL] United States, are “foreigners,”[1] and not subject to the jurisdiction of the United States, the statutes, such as § 1993 and 8 U.S.C.A. §601 [currently 8 U.S.C. §1401], derive their validity from the naturalization power of the Congress. Elk v. Wilkins, 1884, 112 U.S. 94, 101, 5 S.Ct. 41, 28 L.Ed. 643; Wong Kim Ark v. U. S., 1898, 169 U.S. 649, 702, 18 S.Ct. 456, 42 L.Ed. 890. Persons in whom citizenship is vested by such statutes are naturalized citizens and not native-born citizens. Zimmer v. Acheson, 10 Cir. 1951, 191 F.2d. 209, 211; Wong Kim Ark v. U. S., supra.”
[Ly Shew v. Acheson, 110 F.Supp. 50 (N.D. Cal., 1953)]

FOOTNOTES:

[1] See Boyd v. State of Nebraska ex rel. Thayer, 1892, 143 U.S. 135, 12 S.Ct. 375, 36 L.Ed. 103; U.S. v. Harbanuk, 2 Cir. 1933, 62 F.2d. 759, 761.

Important Clarifications:

1. This form is ONLY intended for foreign nationals born in a foreign country.
2. This form does NOT pertain to "state nationals" of any description, who are NEITHER "aliens", not STATUTORY "individuals" under 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1\(c\)\(3\)\(i\).
3. This form does NOT change the civil status (Form #13.008) of the FILER, but only the "tax status" of his or her REAL property. 26 C.F.R. §1.871-10 deals ONLY with real property, and not the civil status of the OWNER of said real property. It does NOT, for instance, change the FILER from a statutory "taxpayer" to a "nontaxpayer".
4. This form is also NOT to be confused with the processes offered by others and ALSO called a "Revocation of Election" that are alleged to change the CIVIL STATUS of the filer from a "nonresident alien" married to a STATUTORY "U.S. citizen" (8 U.S.C. §1401) who made an "election" under 26 U.S.C. §6013\(g\) to be treated as a STATUTORY "resident alien". An example of such others is Weiss + Associates. Those offerings are clearly a scam, as documented in:
 - 4.1. Non-Resident Non-Person Position, Form #05.020, Section 6.10
 - 4.2. Flawed Tax Arguments to Avoid, Form #08.004, Section 9.32

Those who are state nationals doing business with federal corporations domiciled on federal territory is described in the case of Brushaber v. Union Pacific Railroad, 240 U.S. 1 \(1916\), in which a state national domiciled in New York invested in a federal corporation that was a railroad and which was domiciled in a federal territory at the time of its creation. Such a party is a "foreigner" but NOT an "alien" or a statutory "individual". Sections 4 and 5.5 of the above document define what "United States" and "U.S. source" mean within the Internal Revenue Code. It has NOTHING to do with a geographical place and everything to do with doing business with a "foreign corporation", which is what the federal government is:

"A federal corporation operating within a state is considered a domestic corporation rather than a foreign corporation. The United States government is a foreign corporation with respect to a state."
[\[19 Corpus Juris Secundum \(C.J.S.\), Corporations, §883 \(2003\)\]](#)

"Territories' or 'territory' as including 'state' or 'states.'" While the term 'territories of the' United States may, under certain circumstances, include the states of the Union, as used in the federal Constitution and in ordinary acts of congress "territory" does not include a foreign state.

"As used in this title, the term 'territories' generally refers to the political subdivisions created by congress, and not within the boundaries of any of the several states."
[\[86 Corpus Juris Secundum \(C.J.S.\), Territories, §1 \(2003\)\]](#)

The result of filing this form is to restore the status found in 26 U.S.C. 7701\(a\)\(31\) to your otherwise PRIVATE property.

26 U.S. Code § 7701 - Definitions

(31)Foreign estate or trust

(A)Foreign estate

The term "foreign estate" means an estate the income of which, from sources without the United States which is not effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the United States, is not includible in gross income under subtitle A.

(B)Foreign trust

The term "foreign trust" means any trust other than a trust described in subparagraph (E) of paragraph (30).

That status is called a "foreign estate". In accordance with 26 C.F.R. §1.871-10, it is to be submitted ONLY if you are a nonresident alien who previously made an "election" on a tax form to treat real property as "effectively connected with a trade or business" (public office) . Once such an "election" has been made it must be revoked. Those in constitutional states or who are not aliens cannot lawfully make such an election because their rights are inalienable per the Declaration of Independence.

Private employers in states of the Union should not be requiring W-8 Forms of state nationals because they are not lawfully appointed as withholding agents and are not within the statutory "United States" (federal zone). Nor should they be reporting payments to you and are committing a crime of they do, as described in:

Federal and State Tax Withholding Options for Private Employers, Form #09.001
<https://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

You should save a certified copy of this form for your records to ensure that you have evidence to defend the status of your citizenship in court should you ever need to litigate against the IRS.

Subject: Notification of Revocation of Election and Request for Concurrence and Update To My Taxpayer Status

Ref: 26 C.F.R. §1.871-10

Dear Sir(s),

In accordance with 26 C.F.R. §1.871-10(d)(2)(iii), this letter is being submitted in pursuit of a Revocation of Election to treat any or all of my income and assets as a non-resident non-person from being considered by the IRS as “effectively connected with a trade or business in the ‘United States’”, as defined in 26 U.S.C. §864(b). Information about myself in fulfillment with the above C.F.R. is as follows:

1. Name: _____ (full name, including middle name)
2. Address: _____ (full address)
3. Former SSN (no longer active): _____
4. Applicable taxable year(s): Current taxable year and beyond (must be submitted not later than 75 days after the close of the first taxable year for which it is desired to make the change)
5. Grounds for the request: My constitutional right to life, liberty, pursuit of happiness, privacy, respect, the fruits of my common right labors under common law, and the right to own and control property (including labor and the fruits of my labor) without any interference from government, or requirement to report, account for, such income or assets on such property.

This letter is by no means an admission in any way that I ever made a Election to treat any of my income or assets as effectively connected with a trade or business in the United States, but instead is submitted to ensure that my status is properly reflected in your records and that you do indeed concur with and respect this notification of request for your concurrence. I do not now nor have I ever lived in the ‘United States’ as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701, nor do I have any intentions of doing so in the future. I am sorry if I ever gave you the idea that I did by, for instance, mistakenly filing an IRS form 1040 in the past, which was the incorrect form.

Please note that I already have an IRS form W-8 on file with my employer and have accurately declared myself to be a Non-resident non-person. I reside outside the foreign jurisdiction to which the Internal Revenue Code (IRC) operates, which is the District of Columbia and federal territories:

“The United States government is a foreign corporation with respect to a state.”
 [N.Y. re Merriam, 36 N.E. 505, 141 N.Y. 479, affirmed 16 S.Ct. 1973, 41 L.Ed. 287]

“The exclusive jurisdiction which the United States have in forts and dock-yards ceded to them, is derived from the express assent of the states by whom the cessions are made. It could be derived in no other manner; because without it, the authority of the state would be supreme and exclusive therein,”
 [Bevans v. United States, 16 U.S. 336 (1818)]

“State: The term “State” shall be construed to include the District of Columbia, where such construction is necessary to carry out provisions of this title.” 26 U.S.C. Sec. 7701

“United States: The term “United States” when used in a geographical sense includes [is limited to] only the States [the District of Columbia and other federal territories within the borders of the states] and the District of Columbia.” 26 U.S.C. Sec. 7701

“A canon of construction which teaches that of Congress, unless a contrary intent appears, is meant to apply only within the territorial jurisdiction of the United States.”
[U.S. v. Spelar, 338 U.S. 217 at 222 (1949)]

“The term ‘United States’ may be used in any one of several senses. It may be merely the name of a sovereign occupying the position analogous to that of other sovereigns in the family of nations. It may designate the territory over which the sovereignty of the United States ex- [324 U.S. 652, 672] tends, or it may be the collective name of the states which are united by and under the Constitution.”
[Hooven & Allison Co. v. Evatt, 324 U.S. 652 (1945)]

Foreign government: “The government of the United States of America, as distinguished from the government of the several states.”
[Black’s Law Dictionary, 5th Edition]

Foreign Laws: “The laws of a foreign country or sister state.”
[Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition]

Foreign States: “Nations outside of the United States...Term may also refer to another state; i.e. a sister state. The term ‘foreign nations’, ...should be construed to mean all nations and states other than that in which the action is brought; and hence, one state of the Union is foreign to another, in that sense.”
[Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition]

“(1) To comprise, comprehend, or embrace...(2) To enclose within; contain; confine...But granting that the word ‘including’ is a term of enlargement, it is clear that it only performs that office by introducing the specific elements constituting the enlargement. It thus, and thus only, enlarges the otherwise more limited, preceding general language...The word ‘including’ is obviously used in the sense of its synonyms, comprising; comprehending; embracing.”

“Includes is a word of limitation. Where a general term in Statute is followed by the word, ‘including’ the primary import of the specific words following the quoted words is to indicate restriction rather than enlargement. Powers ex re. Covon v. Charron R.J., 135 A.2nd. 829, 832; Definitions-Words and Phrases pages 156-156, Words and Phrases under ‘limitations’.”
[Treasury Decision 3980, Vol. 29, January-December, 1927, pgs. 64 and 65]

“In the interpretation of statutes levying taxes, it is the established rule not to extend their provisions by implication beyond the clear import of the language used, or to enlarge their operations so as to embrace matters not specifically pointed out. In case of doubt they are construed most strongly against the government and in favor of the citizen.”
[Gould v. Gould, 245 U.S. 151, at 153]

“Almost a century ago, Congress declared that “the right of expatriation [including expatriation from the District of Columbia or “U.S. Inc”, the corporation] is a natural and inherent right of all people, indispensable to the enjoyment of the rights of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness,” and decreed that “any declaration, instruction, opinion, order, or decision of any officers of this government which denies, restricts, impairs, or questions the right of expatriation, is hereby declared inconsistent with the fundamental principles of this government.” 15 Stat. 223-224 (1868), R.S. § 1999, 8 U.S.C. § 800 (1940).⁶ Although designed to apply especially to the rights of immigrants to shed their foreign nationalities, that Act of Congress “is also broad enough to cover, and does cover, the corresponding natural and inherent right of American citizens to expatriate themselves.” Savorgnan v. United States, 1950, 338 U.S. 491, 498 note 11, 70 S.Ct. 292, 296, 94 L.Ed. 287.⁷ The Supreme Court has held that the Citizenship Act of 1907 and the Nationality Act of 1940 “are to be read in the light of the declaration of policy favoring freedom of expatriation which stands unrepealed.” Id., 338 U.S. at pages 498-499, 70 S.Ct. at page 296. 5.6.6 Voter Registration Affidavit Attachment

The attachment below is intended to be affixed to the voter registration affidavit that you file with your state's registrar of voters. It clarifies your citizenship status unambiguously to ensure that you are treated properly as a Natural Born Sovereign Citizen of the "United States of America" and not a federal citizen or "citizen of the United States". In effect, it ensures that you don't incur state or federal income tax liability by registering to vote. You should put a note on the voter registration form saying "Not valid without attached "Affidavit of Clarification and Citizenship for Voter Registration" to ensure that the government doesn't lose your affidavit attachment, because they have a vested interest to do so. When you register to vote, ask for a certified copy of your voter registration and the attached affidavit from your registrar of voters so you have proof you can use in court of your citizenship status. It's best to register in person at your County Registrar of Voters so everything can be executed properly and you get all the copies and signatures you need in a timely fashion.

AFFIDAVIT OF CLARIFICATION AND CITIZENSHIP FOR VOTER REGISTRATION

I, _____(name), a Sovereign Natural Born Citizen of _____(statename), do hereby voluntarily and starting at my birth on _____(date) and at all times in the future relinquish any presumptive 14th Amendment citizenship status and any and all privileges and immunities granted therein. Having been born on nonfederal land in one of the sovereign 50 states and outside of the “United States” (the federal territories and possessions and the District of Columbia), I claim my citizenship status to be a “national” of the United States of America” and not a “citizen of the United States” in accordance with the following statutes:

- 8 U.S.C. §1408
- 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21) through 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(22)

I now retain, will at all times in the future retain, and always have retained my natural born status of a Citizen of one of the several union States of America under the Constitution and law, and my Citizenship in these United States of America. I preserve all my unalienable Rights that are inherent from my Creator, at all times. I waive no rights at any time, including by operation of any implied contract asserted by the government. As a Natural Born Sovereign Citizen of the state, I have the same measure of citizenship in my country as our founding fathers and early citizens had, including Abraham Lincoln, George Washington, and Thomas Jefferson, all of whom had no 14th Amendment citizenship because there was no 14th Amendment at the time they were alive.

I, do hereby declare my right to expatriate as absolute and declare that I have already expatriated from the municipal corporation of the District of Columbia and thereby voluntarily relinquish [my/our] any res in trust, existing by operation of any presumptions about my citizenship, to the foreign jurisdiction known as the municipal corporation of the District of Columbia, a democracy, and thereby return to the Constitutional Republic envisioned by our founding fathers. To remove all doubt, the municipal corporation referred to is the one described below:

 (C) an instrumentality of the United States.

Any and all past and present political ties implied by operation of law or otherwise in trust with the democracy as a consequence of any presumed citizenship ties I might have, is hereby dissolved.

The right to vote is an absolute and natural right of being a state citizen, and it cannot, by operation of law or statute, be turned into a government or taxable privilege by coercing me into becoming a type of citizen that I do not choose to be or by coercing me to participate in an illegal and unethical state or federal income tax system.

The U.S. supreme Court has declared in the case of Hooven and Allison v. Evatt, 324 U.S. 652, 1945 that:

The term 'United States' may be used in any one of several senses. It may be merely [1] the name of a sovereign occupying the position analogous to that of other sovereigns in the family of nations. [2] It may designate the territory over which the sovereignty of the United States extends [324 U.S. 652, 672] , or [3] it may be the collective name of the states which are united by and under the Constitution.

Be advised that I am not expatriating from "United States" the country (the first definition), but simply the municipal corporation located in District of Columbia and federal territories only, which is the second definition identified above. Furthermore, this document SHALL NOT serve as evidence that I ever was such "citizen of the United States"[definition 2] indicated above. 5.6.7 Affidavit of Clarification of Citizenship for Security Clearance

Nearly all government-issued security clearances require you to declare your citizenship in your country. The attachment below is intended to be affixed to your application for security clearance that you file with your government employer/military branch. It clarifies your citizenship status unambiguously to ensure that you are treated properly and that you don't incur state or federal income tax liability whenever you apply for a security clearance by virtue of your citizenship. You should put a note on the security clearance application form saying "Not valid without attached 'Affidavit of Clarification of Citizenship for Security Clearance'". Ask for a certified copy of your voter registration and the attached affidavit from your security clearance manager.

SECNAV Instruction 5510.30A (Secretary of the Navy Instruction 5510.30A) entitled Department of the Navy Personnel Security Program, talks about the citizenship requirements for getting a U.S. government security clearance. It clearly establishes that my status as a "U.S. national" and not and "U.S. citizen" in no way affects my ability to obtain or maintain a security clearance with the United States Government. Here is what it says on page I-1 of Appendix I of that instruction:

1. Only United States citizens are eligible for a security clearance, assignment to sensitive duties or access to classified information. When compelling reasons exist, in furtherance of the DON mission, including special expertise, a non-U.S. citizen may be assigned to sensitive duties (see chapter 5) or granted a Limited Access Authorization (see chapter 9) under special procedures.

When this instruction refers to U.S. citizens, it makes no distinction between those who are U.S. citizens by birth, those who are U.S. nationals, those who have derived U.S. citizenship or those who acquired it through naturalization. For the purpose of issuance of a security clearance, citizens of the Federate States of Micronesia (FSM) and the Republic of the Marshall Islands are considered U.S. citizens.

5.6.8 Legal Notice of Change in Domicile/Citizenship Records and Divorce from the United States

This document is to be sent to either the Attorney General of the United States or the Secretary of State of the United States to establish your citizenship as a "national" rather than a "U.S. citizen". The process behind the use of this form is documented in section 2.5.3.13 of the instructions. The document:

1. Establishes the equivalent of a legal, political, and commercial divorce from the United States.
2. Establishes you in the records of the government as a "national" and a "state national" pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21) and not a statutory "U.S. citizen" pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §1401.
3. Establishes you as a "non-resident non-person" not engaged in a "trade or business" as defined in 26 C.F.R. §1.871-1(b)(i).
4. Establishes you as a "nontaxpayer" not subject to the Internal Revenue Code or the civil laws where you live.
5. Requests help from the government eliminating all forms of unlawful duress and prejudicial presumption which might compel you to assume anything other than the above statuses.
6. Creates presumptions in your favor that will be useful as a defense in court should the government ever attempt to prosecute you for a tax crime.

5.6.9 UCC Filing

The document below is a Uniform Commercial Code (UCC) Filing to be provided to the Secretary Of State in your state. It creates the equivalent of a lien against your straw man that gives you first rights over ALL your possessions and assets. That claim supersedes the claims of all others, including the IRS, should they decide to lien your property or your name. This form is usually filed along with a UCC1 form. Re: Application Non-Citizen Certificate

I am herein the person in compliance with the provisions of 8 USC 1452(b)(1) and (2), and I hereby apply for a Certificate of Non-Citizen National Status from the Secretary of State pursuant to 8 USC 1452(b)(1) and (2). Any record of my being a “U.S. citizen” is in error and must be corrected promptly by you pursuant to the Privacy Act, 5 U.S.C. 552 a(d)(2), Freedom of Information Act, 5 U.S.C. 552(a)(2), Federal Tort Claims Act, 28 U.S.C. 1346, 2671-2680 and the Administrative Procedures Act, 5 U.S.C. 551-559

This not an expatriation of “U.S. Nationality” or American citizenship as applicant did welcome such status by way of naturalization or birth in a _____ (name of state) Court by becoming a Citizen of _____ (name of state) and a “U.S. National” under the authority of 8 U.S.C. §1408(2). The status of “U.S. citizen” under section 1 of the Fourteenth Amendment has never been applied for or requested and applicant did not and does not wish to have such privileged citizenship conferred upon him. Any such presumptions of Applicant being a “U.S. citizen” are in error. If in the event that it is determined that applicant is a “U.S. citizen” even though applicant did not apply for such citizenship it shall be considered by the applicant that he has voluntarily abandoned any such “U.S. citizen” status nunc pro tunc or from the date of the conference of any such alleged citizenship.

Please do not cite as your authority for denying this request Section 308(1) of the Immigration and Nationality Act, which is 8 U.S.C. §1408(1), since I do not claim to be born in a possession or territory of the federal United States. Such a claim on your part would be frivolous and unwarranted. I instead emphasize that I was born outside the federal United States to parents who were both “non-citizen U.S. nationals” under the authority of 8 U.S.C. §1408(2) and at least one of whom resided in the federal United States at one time during their lifetime.

I have executed a form a Oath of Allegiance, DS-11, form FS-581 Information for Determining U.S. Citizenship and have provided documentary proof of my non -U.S. citizen status as a “national of the United States” or a “U.S. national” ONLY.

I hereby apply for a certificate of U.S. Non-Citizenship National Status pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §1452(b)(1)&(2) and for a U.S. National Passport. Your authority to issue such certificate is:

8 U.S.C. 1452(b)(1)&(2)

Section 1452. Certificates of citizenship or U.S. non-citizen national status; procedure

* (b); proof; oath of allegiance

A person who claims to be a national, but not a citizen, of the United States may apply to the Secretary of State for a certificate of non-citizen national status. Upon - (1) proof to the satisfaction of the Secretary of State that the applicant is a national, but not a citizen, of the United States

And:

Public Law 99-396 Section 16(c)

Certificates Of Non-Citizen National Status; $35 Limit On Fees For Processing Applications

Section 16(c) of Pub. L. 99-396 provided that: "The Secretary of State may not impose a fee exceeding $35 for the processing of an application for a certificate of non-citizen national status under section 341(b) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (8 U.S.C. 1452(b))....."

To prove the requirements please find enclosures listed above.

I would like to remind you that the act of either remaining a "U.S. citizen" or becoming one is a voluntary, revocable act according to the U.S. Supreme Court in the case of United States v. Cruikshank, 92 U.S. 542 (1875). All citizenship is a product of intent and domicile, and it has never been my intent to be a "U.S. citizen" as defined in 8 U.S.C. §1401 while it has always been my intent to be a "national" per 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21) but not a STATUTORY "U.S. citizen" per 8 U.S.C. §1401:

"The fourteenth amendment does not make a resident in a state a citizen of such state, unless he intends, by residence therein, to become a citizen."

"'Citizenship' and 'residence,' as has often been declared by the courts, are not convertible terms. Parker v. Overman 18 How. 141; Robertson v. Cease, 97 U.S. 648; Grace v. American Cent. Ins. Co., 109 U.S. 283; S.C. 3 Sup.Ct. Rep. 207; Prentiss v. Barton, 1 Brock. 389. Citizenship is a status or condition, and is the result of both act and intent. An adult person cannot become a citizen of a state by simply intending to, nor does any one become such citizen by mere residence. The residence and the intent must co-exist and correspond; and though, under ordinary circumstances, the former may be sufficient evidence of the latter, it is not conclusive, and the contrary may always be shown; and when the question of citizenship turns on the intention with which a person has resided in a particular state, his own testimony, under ordinary circumstances, is entitled to great weight on the point.

"But, certainly, it was not the intention of the [Fourteenth] amendment to make any citizen of the United States a citizen of any particular state against his will, in which the exigencies of his business, his social relations or obligations, or other cause, might require his presence for a greater or less length of time, without any intention on his part to become such citizen. "The better opinion seems to be that a citizen of the United States is, under the amendment, prima facie a citizen of the state wherein he resides, and cannot arbitrarily be excluded therefrom by such state, but that he does not become a citizen of the state against his will, and contrary to his purpose and intention to retain an already acquired citizenship elsewhere. The amendment is a restraining on the power of the state, but not on the right of the person to choose and maintain his citizenship or domicile; but it protects him in the exercise of that right by making him a citizen of that state in which he may choose to reside with such intention. In Robertson v. Cease, 97 U.S. 648, the court held that, for the purpose of giving the jurisdiction to the circuit court, an allegation that a party is a resident of a particular state is not equivalent to an allegation that he is a citizen thereof, for the reason, as suggested by Mr. Justice Harlan, that, even under the amendment, mere residence in a state does not necessarily or conclusively prove one to be a citizen thereof. And if an allegation of residence in a state is not necessarily, even under the amendment, the equivalent of an allegation of citizenship, then the mere fact of residence in a state is not necessarily the equivalent of citizenship."

[Sharon v. Hill, 26 F.337 (1885), Emphasis added]

The decision to abandon one's "U.S. citizen" status while retaining their "national" status under 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21) is guaranteed by 15 Stat. 223-224 (1868), R.S. § 1999, 8 U.S.C. §800 (1940) and you have no lawful delegated authority to deny this request. If you believe otherwise, then please provide evidence of same, including a delegation of authority order that authorizes you to make such a determination. Thank you very much for your prompt and courteous compliance with this request.

If you have doubts or concerns about the facts and law appearing in this document, I encourage you to read the following free document, which completely and thoroughly explains and substantiates everything I have just told you:

Why You are a "national", "state national", and Constitutional but not Statutory Citizen, Form #05.006

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

You are also encouraged to consult Enclosure (f) for a detailed explanation of why I am a "national" per 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21) and not a STATUTORY "U.S. citizen" per 8 U.S.C. §1401. NOTE: This status is NOT the same as 8 U.S.C. §1408, which is only available to people born in U.S. possessions, since CONSTITUTIONAL states are NOT "possessions of the United States".

I would also like a passport issued to me as a "non-citizen national". I have not provided a Socialist Security Number with Encl. (b) and you may NOT lawfully penalize me for not providing one because:

1. I never requested one.
2. One may have been assigned but it was assigned without my consent and is used under duress.
3. I have a right to not incriminate myself under the Fifth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.
4. The U.S. Constitution in Article 1, Section 10 forbids Bills of Attainder, which are penalties imposed against human beings such as myself by the government absent a court order accompanying a criminal act.
5. There are no implementing regulations under 26 U.S.C. §6029E that authorize you to penalize human beings as required by 26 U.S.C. §7805. See Getting a USA passport as a "state national", Form #10.013; <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm> for further details.

In the event that you refuse to comply with this request to provide said requested "Certificate of non-citizen national status" upon this demand within 45 days of receipt of this notice, the event of your default and/or failure to respond shall make my original copy of this notice into said certificate. Please notify all appropriate government agencies within your jurisdiction of this change in my Lawful citizenship status.

Please include in your response a copy of the completed DS-11 passport form that you have added your annotations to if you issue a passport to me as a "national" per 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21) but not a STATUTORY "U.S. citizen" per 8 U.S.C. §1401. I request that the copy that you provide of this document be certified so that it may be used as evidence in any legal proceedings that might relate to my citizenship status.

I declare under penalty of perjury from without the United States under the Laws of _____(statename) and in accordance with 28 U.S.C. §1746(1) that the foregoing facts and statements made by me are true, correct, and complete to the best of my knowledge and ability.

Sincerely,

5.6.12 Request for Certified Passport Records

This letter is used as part of our citizenship correction/amendment process. It is sent after you have followed step 3.13 and gotten a passport as a "national of the United States" using the modified DS-11 form we provide. The letter should be sent to the Department Of State FOIA office no sooner than about three months after you get your passport to ensure that the paperwork has been sent to Washington D.C. and archived before you go asking for it. The result of this letter should be a certified copy of your modified DS-11 form which properly reflects your true status as a "national" of the United States of America but not a STATUTORY "U.S. citizen" under 8 U.S.C. §1401. The certified copy of your approved DS-11 is a substitute for the "Certificate of non-citizen National Status" that you can request under 8 U.S.C. §1452, and asking for it is necessary because the Department of State has positively refused it's legal duty under 8 U.S.C. §1452 to issue "Certificates of non-citizen national status". See the following link for an explanation of this situation:

2. You don't want to have or use a Social Security Number (SSN) and you feel that it violates your rights.
3. You are told that the form or application cannot be processed without the number.

We first used this form as an addendum to a U.S. military ID application, in which an SSN was demanded, but it has been made generic so that it is useful in many different circumstances and with many different types of forms. To use this form, simply write above the signature on the government form you are signing the following:

"Not valid and not consensual without the signed attachment, 2 pages."

You might want to take along a witness with you when you try to submit the government form that accompanies this attachment, so that the witness can sign an affidavit documenting discrimination by the clerk if the clerk refuses to accept your application that contains the attachment or refuses to accept the application absent a Slave Surveillance Number. That way you will have evidence you can use in court to prove that you were discriminated against and denied a right or benefit based on your failure to use or disclose a Socialist Security Number. Make sure the affidavit that your witness signs is notarized so that it becomes self-authenticating in court under Federal Rule of Evidence 902.

ATTACHMENT TO APPLICATION FOR: _____

FORM NUMBER: _____

MY NAME: _____

NAME OF GOVERNMENT CLERK PROCESSING APPLICATION: _____

DATE: _____

This attachment forms an inseparable part of the Form _____ (form number) enclosed. The attached form is invalid and submitted absent my consent without this attachment.

I, _____ (your name), wish to solemnly and plainly declare the following important facts to posterity relating to this transaction with the government:

1. The attached application requires a Social Security Number.
2. I neither "have" nor want to obtain a Social Security Number. The one that is indicated on the form is wrong, should not be relied upon, and should be removed from any and all government records because not doing so violates my wishes and is non-consensual. In a free country, anything that is not consensual is unjust. See the Declaration of Independence, which says that all just powers of government derive from the consent of the governed. This means that anything not consensual is unjust.
3. The clerk processing the application, informs me that the system she is using will not work without a Social Security Number. He or she has been afforded no reasonable way to respect my privacy and wishes in this case, which is completely unacceptable and damaging to me personally.
4. Under 42 U.S.C. §408, it is a felony to compel the use or disclosure of Social Security Numbers.

TITLE 42 - THE PUBLIC HEALTH AND WELFARE
CHAPTER 7 - SOCIAL SECURITY
SUBCHAPTER II - FEDERAL OLD-AGE, SURVIVORS, AND DISABILITY INSURANCE BENEFITS

Sec. 408. Penalties

(a) In general

Whoever -...

(8) discloses, uses, or compels the disclosure of the social security number of any person in violation of the laws of the United States; shall be guilty of a felony and upon conviction thereof shall be fined under title 18 or imprisoned for not more than five years, or both.

You will note that denying a right or benefit is a form of compulsion, and especially if there is no statute or regulation that authorizes denying a right based on failure to disclose or use a Social Security Number.

5. It is also a violation of the First Amendment to be required to disclose a Social Security Number. The First Amendment requires that the federal government may not interfere with my desire to NOT communicate certain information such as identifying numbers. The Fourteenth Amendment applied the First Amendment to the state governments as well. Here is what the Supreme Court of the United States said on this subject:

"The right to speak and the right to refrain from speaking are complementary components of the broader concept of 'individual freedom of mind.'" Wooley v. Maynard, 430 U.S. 705 (97 S.Ct. 1428, 51 L.Ed.2d. 752 (1977))

6. It is my wish and my belief, as a Christian, that it is my duty to completely separate my relationship with the government from my private life, but the government is making that impossible in this case by forcing me to disclose information about my private life that has nothing to do with my work performance, and which has a great possibility that it will be used to incriminate me in a number of subtle ways that creates fear of God's (and government's) wrath and real concern on my part:

"Come out from among them [the unbelievers]
And be separate, says the Lord.
Do not touch what is unclean.
And I will receive you.
I will be a Father to you,
And you shall be my sons and daughters,
Says the Lord Almighty."
[2 Corinthians 6:17-18, Bible, NKJV]

"Do not love the world or the things in the world. If anyone loves [is a citizen of] the world, the love of the Father is not in Him. For all that is in the world--the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life--is not of the Father but is of the world. And the world is passing away, and the lust of it; but he who does the will of God abides forever."
[\[1 John 2:15-17, Bible, NKJV\]](#)

"Adulterers and adulteresses! Do you now know that friendship [and "citizenship"] with the world is enmity with God? Whoever therefore wants to be a friend [citizen] of the world makes himself an enemy of God."
[\[James 4:4, Bible, NKJV\]](#)

"Pure and undefiled religion before God and the Father is this: to visit orphans and widows in their trouble, and to keep oneself unspotted from the world [and the corrupted governments and laws of the world]."
[\[James 1:27, Bible, NKJV\]](#)

"And you shall be holy to Me, for I the Lord am holy, and have separated you from the peoples, that you should be Mine."
[\[Leviticus 20:26, Bible, NKJV\]](#)

"And I heard another voice from heaven saying, 'Come out of her [Babylon the Great Harlot], my people, lest you share in her sins, and lest you receive of her plagues.'"
[\[Revelation 18:4, Bible, NKJV\]](#)

"I am a stranger in the earth;
Do not hide Your commandments from me."
[\[Psalm 119:19, Bible, NKJV\]](#)

"I have become a stranger to my brothers,
And an alien to my mother's children;
Because zeal for Your house has eaten me up,
And the reproaches of those who reproach You have fallen on me."
[\[Psalm 69:8-9, Bible, NKJV\]](#)

7. It is also a violation of my religious beliefs as a Christian to use or obtain SSNs. The book of Revelation, Chapters 17 and 18 in the Bible, calls them "the mark of the Beast" (see Rev. 13:16-18, Bible, New King James Version) and it calls "the beast" the political rulers in government (see Revelation 19:19, Bible, New King James Version). The government has no Constitutional authority to violate my First Amendment rights and religious beliefs and may not turn those rights into privileges as it is attempt to unlawfully do here, by withdrawing a privilege if I do not forfeit a right.

"It would be a palpable incongruity to strike down an act of state legislation which, by words of express divestment, seeks to strip the citizen of rights guaranteed by the federal Constitution, but to uphold an act by which the same result is accomplished under the guise of a surrender of a right in exchange for a valuable privilege which the state threatens otherwise to withhold. It is not necessary to challenge the proposition that, as a general rule, the state, having power to deny a privilege altogether, may grant it upon such conditions as it sees fit to impose. But the power of the state in that respect is not unlimited, and one of the limitations is that it may not impose conditions which require the relinquishment of Constitutional rights. If the state may comp[el] the surrender of one constitutional right as a condition of its favor, it may, in like manner, compel a surrender of all. It is inconceivable that guaranties embedded in the Constitution of the United States may thus be manipulated out or existence."
[\[Frost v. Railroad Commission, 271 U.S. 583, 46 S.Ct. 605 \(1926\)\]](#)

8. It is also a violation of my Fifth Amendment rights, because the information provided can and probably will be used to incriminate me at one point or another and gives the government all kinds of ways to find out unrelated and personal information about me that I have no desire to disclose under any circumstance for any reason or any amount of money.
9. Consequently, I am compelled unlawfully and under duress in violation of 42 USC 408 and the First Amendment to obtain and use an SSN in this case. The clerk, his/her supervisors, and the government agency which employs them are felons and criminals in this case and will be held individually and personally liable for their criminal trespass upon my Constitutional Rights and for perjuring the oath they took as public servants to support and defend the Constitution against all enemies, foreign and domestic. It is my intention to prosecute the government and/or its agents for this perjury and tort.
10. COPYRIGHT LICENSE AGREEMENT:
- 10.1. Notwithstanding any statute, regulation, or internal policy to the contrary, submission of this application DOES NOT constitute consent or permission to enter ANY of the information, and especially the incorrect SSN, into any electronic information system or to share the information with any third party, law enforcement, government, or agency.

10.2. In fact, I insist under the authority of the Privacy Act, 5 U.S.C. 552a, and the First Amendment, that all identifying numbers, including SSN or TIN, that are related to me are COPYRIGHTED by me and are subject to disclosure ONLY under terms that I designate IN WRITING and IN ADVANCE for each specific instance of disclosure.

10.3. I insist that all identifying numbers relating to me be erased and completely eliminated and destroyed from the records of the Department of the Navy, the Department of Defense, and the U.S. government in their entirety. If this is not done, the penalty for violating the copyright shall be one million dollars. Acceptance of this application constitutes consent and assent to the terms of this license agreement.

10.4. Government waives its right to use any of the information appearing on this document or the form attached or in the records of the applicant for any of the following purposes, and violation constitutes a copyright violation for which a one million dollar personal liability shall ensue for each occurrence:

10.4.1. Criminal prosecution. Instead, immunity is hereby granted by the government under 18 U.S.C. §6002.

10.4.2. Disclosure to any taxing organization or agency.

I declare that:

1. This application was completed outside the "United States" defined in most federal statutes, outside of federal legislative jurisdiction, and outside of federal police powers, from within a state of the union on land not ceded to the federal government.
2. The information provided, OTHER THAN the incorrect SSN, is true and correct under penalty of perjury in accordance with 28 U.S.C. §1746(1) and only when litigated in a state court with a jury trial, but not in a federal court.
3. That even if the government asserts that the form or information was prepared or submitted on federal property, Constitutional rights are still affected because of the invasion of privacy of the submitter which occurs during non-working hours. Use of SSN's makes it completely impossible to separate one's work environment from their personal life, because these numbers are also used for many, if not most personal matters as well, such as credit checks, opening bank accounts, and taxes.

Subject: Passport Amendment Request, form DS-19, for passport # _____

Enclosures:

1. Completed Department of State Form DS-19: U.S. Passport Amendment/Validation Application
2. Original Passport, number _____.
3. Whitepaper entitled “Why you are a “national”, “state national”, and Constitutional but not Statutory Citizen
4. Citizenship Questionnaire
5. Check for $60 to expedite the request.

Dear Sir,

I am writing this letter to formally request that you modify or amend my United States of America Passport number _____ to add an amendment to Page 24 identifying me as a “non-citizen national of the United States” under the authority of 8 U.S.C. §1452. By “United States” I mean “United States of America” (CONSTITUTIONAL “United States”) and not the territorial or STATUTORY “United States” found in most federal statutes such as 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) and 4 U.S.C. §1109(d). I will explain why in the remainder of this letter.

I have written the Department of State in the past and asked for a “certificate of non-citizen national status” under 8 U.S.C. §1452 and they have said that I should just request a passport instead with a special amendment at the end to indicate my status. The generic blue passport I have does not indicate my unique citizenship status but simply identifies me with “citizen/national” and I feel it is VERY important to be able to distinguish which of the two that I am. The French and Spanish translation of that phrase “citizen/national” uses the word “or” for the “slash”, and so I could be one or the other and I want to make sure I know which one. That is what I am doing now: following the advice I was given by your agency. Attached find Enclosure (1) documenting all the details necessary to effect what I am requesting. Enclosure (2) is the passport which I would like modified. I have also included a check for $60 to expedite my request. Facts pertinent to your determination on this request are as follows:

1. I was born in _____ (statename) and not within a federal area or possession within the state.
2. The definitions of words found in federal law confirm that the word “State” does not include states of the Union under Title 8, Aliens and Nationality:

Table 5-1: Summary of the meaning of various terms

Law	Federal constitution	Federal statutes	Federal regulations	State constitutions	State statutes	State regulations
Author	Union States/ “We The People”	Federal Government		“We The People”	State Government
“state”	Foreign country (See Note 1)	Union state	Union state	Other Union state or federal government	Other Union state or federal government	Other Union state or federal government
“State”	Union state (See Note 2)	Federal state (See Note 3)	Federal state (See Note 3)	Union state	Union state	Union state
“several States”	Union states collectively ¹²	Federal “States” collectively	Federal “States” collectively	Federal “States” collectively	Federal “States” collectively	Federal “States” collectively
“United States”	states of the Union collectively	Federal United States	Federal United States	United States* the country	Federal United States	Federal United States

¹² See, for instance, U.S. Constitution Article IV, Section 2.

NOTES:

1. See:

- a. Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 648:

"Foreign states. Nations which are outside the United States. Term may also refer to another state; i.e. a sister state." [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 648]

- b. Corpus Juris Secundum (C.J.S.) §29, legal encyclopedia:

"Generally, the states of the Union sustain toward each other the relationship of independent sovereigns or independent foreign states, except in so far as the United States is paramount as the dominating government, and in so far as the states are bound to recognize the fraternity among sovereignties established by the federal Constitution, as by the provision requiring each state to give full faith and credit to the public acts, records, and judicial proceedings of the other states..."

2. The Constitution is a contract written by and between the States of the Union and their new servant, the Federal Government. It conveys authority to the federal government over the property under its control and stewardship, which was only the District of Columbia at the time. Since the States wrote it, the word "State" is capitalized because they are the sovereigns. Federal statutes and "acts of Congress" is written by the Congress under the authority of the Constitution. Since the servant, in that case, is writing the law, then it becomes the sovereign over the property under its stewardship, which only includes federal "States" listed in Title 48 of the U.S. Code, to include territories and possessions of the United States only.

3. See 4 U.S.C. 110\(d\), 8 U.S.C. §1101\(a\)\(36\), 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(10\) for examples.

3. I was not born in the "continental United States", which is defined in 8 C.F.R. 215.1 as Puerto Rico, Guam, the Virgin Islands, and the District of Columbia. See Enclosure (4), questions 76 through 81 for further details. On the surface, this might appear to be a contradiction, but it is not because the federal government has no police powers inside the states of the Union but it does have such powers within federal States, which are defined in 4 U.S.C. §110(d). Without police powers, the federal government cannot determine the status of persons born in states of the Union. Leisy v. Hardin, 135 U.S. 100 (1890), Reid v. Colorado, 187 U.S. 137 (1902), Patterson v. Kentucky, 97 U.S. 501 (1878), Barbier v. Connolly, 113 U.S. 27 (1884). Federal law relates primarily to the property under its control, which includes the territories and possessions and the District of Columbia and excludes states of the Union for the vast majority of subject matters. The only exceptions are Treason, Counterfeiting, Commerce, slavery, and Piracy. All other subject matters, including citizenship by birth, are reserved to the states under the Ninth and Tenth Amendments.
4. The Supreme Court has said the following:

"It is no longer open to question that the general government, unlike the states, Hammer v. Dagenhart, 247 U.S. 251, 275, 38 S.Ct. 529, 3 A.L.R. 649, Ann.Cas.1918E 724, possesses no inherent power in respect of the internal affairs of the states; and emphatically not with regard to legislation."

Carter v. Carter Coal Co., [298 U.S. 238, 56 S.Ct. 855 (1936)]

If the federal government has no power in respect to internal affairs of a state, it certainly has no power to determine the citizenship status of persons born there, nor may Congress write any statute in Title 8 that defines the status of persons born in a state of the Union. The Constitution confers federal authority to determine Uniform Rules of Naturalization under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 4 but it has NO AUTHORITY over citizenship by birth.

"New states, upon their admission into the Union, become invested with equal rights and are subject only to such restrictions as are imposed upon the states already admitted. There can be no state of the Union whose sovereignty or freedom of action is in any respect different from that of any other state. There can be no restriction upon any state other than one prescribed upon all the states by the Federal Constitution. Congress, in admitting a state, cannot restrict such state by bargain. The state, by so contracting with Congress, is in no way bound by such a contract, however irrevocable it is stated to be. It is said that subject to the restraint and limitations of the Federal Constitution, the states have all the sovereign powers of independent nations over all persons and things within their respective territorial limits."

[16 American Jurisprudence (AmJur) 2d, Sovereignty of states §281]

If the federal government did have authority over citizenship by birth, it would be a "sheep poacher" in competition with the states, who basically are stealing authority of the persons born there away from the states and "stealing" citizens. Here is an example:

"It has been repeatedly held by the Supreme Court of the United State, that a State may determine the status of persons within its jurisdiction: Groves v. Slaughter, 15 Pet., 419; Moore v. Illinois, 14 How., 13; 11 Pet., 131; Story Const., §§1098, 1804, 1809."
[Doc. Lonas v. State, 59 Tenn. 287 (1871)]

5. My parents were both "nationals but not citizens of the United States", because they were born in a state on land that was not ceded to the federal government. The "United States" as used in this case is the same as that used in the Constitution. It does not, however have the same meaning as that used in Title 8 of the U.S. Code, where in that context it means the territories of the United States and the District of Columbia. See Enclosure (4), questions 76 through 81. Neither one of my parents are or were "citizens of the United States" under 8 U.S.C. §1401 nor did they ever "intend" or willfully consent to have this status. I demand proof from the government to the contrary. Their status is therefore not defined anywhere directly in Title 8 of the U.S. code, because they were born outside of the jurisdiction and police powers of the federal government, on nonfederal land within a state of the Union. Because neither my parents nor myself ever "intended" to become statutory citizens under 8 U.S.C. §1401, that status cannot be imputed to them because citizenship is a product of BOTH domicile AND intent/consent.
6. 8 U.S.C. §1401 assigns a dual status to persons born in territories of the United States and the District of Columbia. They are simultaneously "nationals" AND "citizens". A "national" is defined in 8 U.S.C. 1101\(a\)\(21\) as a person who owes allegiance to a "state", and that state is the state of the Union I was born in. Even if you incorrectly believe I am an 8 U.S.C. §1401 citizen/nation, I am perfectly entitled to eliminate that half of dual citizenship I do not consent or volunteer to assume, and you must recognize my right to do so, even if there is no statute or regulation that tells you how to do this. "Expatriation" under 8 U.S.C. §1481 would not accomplish the change I am seeking, because "expatriation" is defined by the supreme court as "the abandonment of nationality and allegiance", not "citizen" status under 8 U.S.C. §1401. See Perkins v. Elg, 307 U.S. 325 (1939). I do not want to lose my "national" status, but only the imputed "citizen" status under 8 U.S.C. §1401 and it is my right to demand this, and to expect my government to help me achieve the status that I want.
7. To tell me that I can't change or correct my citizenship status to eliminate any portion I find objectionable, is to admit that the entire country is a slave camp, and that I may not choose the type of citizenship that suits me best. The consequence is that I am compelled to involuntarily be subject to federal jurisdiction, which I have no interest or desire to be.

"When we consider the nature and the theory of our institutions of government, the principles on which they are supposed to rest, and review the history of their development, we are constrained to conclude that they do not mean to leave room for the play and action of purely personal and arbitrary power. Sovereignty itself is, of course, not subject to law, for it is the author and source of law; but in our system, while sovereign powers are delegated to the agencies of government, sovereignty itself remains with the people, by whom and for whom all government exists and acts. And the law is the definition and limitation of power. It is, indeed, quite true that there must always be lodged somewhere, and in some person or body, the authority of final decision; and in many cases of mere administration, the responsibility is purely political, no appeal lying except to the ultimate tribunal of the public judgment, exercised either in the pressure of opinion, or by means of the suffrage. But the fundamental rights to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness, considered as individual possessions, are secured by those maxims of constitutional law which are the monuments showing the victorious progress of the race in securing to men the blessings of civilization under the reign of just and equal laws, so that, in the famous language of the Massachusetts bill of rights, the government of the commonwealth 'may be a government of laws and not of men.' For the very idea that one man may be compelled to hold his life, or the means of living, or any material right essential to the enjoyment of life, at the mere will of another, seems to be intolerable in any country where freedom prevails, as being the essence of slavery itself."

[Yick Wo v. Hopkins, 118 U.S. 356 (1886)]

- Slavery is prohibited by the Thirteenth Amendment and therefore, I must conclude that you have absolutely no delegated authority to deny me this request, because doing so violates the Constitution and the oath you took to support and defend it.
8. My religious beliefs do not permit me to be a privileged "citizen of the United States" under 8 U.S.C. §1401 or under any other federal law. Under the First Amendment, you must accommodate my religious beliefs. All citizenship is voluntary and I choose not to have the "citizen" part under 8 U.S.C. 1401 and only have the "national" part.

“‘Citizenship’ and ‘residence,’ as has often been declared by the courts, are not convertible terms. Parker v. Overman 18 How. 141; Robertson v. Cease, 97 U.S. 648; Grace v. American Cent. Ins. Co., 109 U.S. 283; S.C. 3 Sup.Ct. Rep. 207; Prentiss v. Barton, 1 Brock. 389. Citizenship is a status or condition, and is the result of both act and [voluntary] intent. An adult person cannot become a citizen of a state by simply intending to, nor does any one become such citizen by mere residence. The residence and the intent must co-exist and correspond; and though, under ordinary circumstances, the former may be sufficient evidence of the latter, it is not conclusive, and the contrary may always be shown; and when the question of citizenship turns on the intention with which a person has resided in a particular state, his own testimony, under ordinary circumstances, is entitled to great weight on the point.”
[Sharon v. Hill, 26 F.337 (1885), Emphasis added]

9. I claim allegiance to both my state and to the confederation of states called the “United States”. The sovereigns in those states are We The People, so I therefore claim allegiance to the sovereigns in the collective states described in the Constitution of the United States.

“State. A people permanently occupying a fixed territory bound together by common-law habits and custom into one body politic exercising, through the medium of an organized government, independent sovereignty and control over all persons and things within its boundaries, capable of making war and peace and of entering into international relations with other communities of the globe. United States v. Kusche, D.C.Cal., 56 F.Supp. 201 207, 208. The organization of social life which exercises sovereign power in behalf of the people. Delany v. Moralitis, C.C.A.Md., 136 F.2d. 129, 130. In its largest sense, a “state” is a body politic or a society of men. Beagle v. Motor Vehicle Acc. Indemnification Corp., 44 Misc.2d. 636, 254 N.Y.S.2d. 763, 765. A body of people occupying a definite territory and politically organized under one government. State ex re. Maisano v. Mitchell, 155 Conn. 256, 231 A.2d. 539, 542. A territorial unit with a distinct general body of law. Restatement, Second, Conflicts, §3. Term may refer either to body politic of a nation (e.g. United States) or to an individual government unit of such nation (e.g. California).”
The people of a state, in their collective capacity, considered as the party wronged by a criminal deed; the public; as in the title of a cause, “The State vs. A.B.”
[Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1407]

10. I do not claim allegiance to the federal corporation called the “United States” defined in 28 U.S.C. §3002(15)(A) or the government of the “United States”, but to the sovereigns within the respective body politic, which is the people within the state or country and not the government that serves them.

Juilliard v. Greenman, 110 U.S. 421 (1884): “There is no such thing as a power of inherent sovereignty in the government of the United States...In this country sovereignty resides in the people, and Congress can exercise no power which they have not, by their Constitution entrusted to it. All else is withheld.”

Perry v. U.S., 294 U.S. 330 (1935): “In the United States, sovereignty resides in the people...the Congress cannot invoke sovereign power of the People to override their will as thus declared.”

Yick Wo v. Hopkins, 118 U.S. 356 (1886): “Sovereignty itself is, of course, not subject to law, for it is the author and source of law...While sovereign powers are delegated to...the government, sovereignty itself remains with the people.”

11. I do not seek the protection of the government of the United States for anything. I do not want to be subject in any respect or degree to federal law and I LOATH federal law. Our rulers at the federal level are a bunch of thieves, liars, and criminals who I want absolutely nothing to do with. The federal government has become a socialist government that is abusing its taxing power to transfer wealth. I do not want to be forced to subsidize its growth like a tumor and a cancer on the body politic and thereby further the ends of socialism or undermine the individual rights of everyone in this once great country. Instead, I want nothing but to be completely left alone by the federal government and to get them out of my life completely and not be subject to their corrupt and usurious laws. You have absolutely no lawful or moral authority to compel me to remain subject to federal jurisdiction, and doing so amounts to slavery in violation of the Thirteenth Amendment.

“The makers of our Constitution undertook to secure conditions favorable to the pursuit of happiness. They recognized the significance of man's spiritual nature, of his feelings and of his intellect. They knew that only a part of the pain, pleasure and satisfactions of life are to be found in material things. They sought to protect Americans in their beliefs, their thoughts, their emotions and their sensations. They conferred, as against the Government, the right to be let alone - the most comprehensive of rights and the right most valued by civilized men.”
Olmstead v. United States, [277 U.S. 438, 478 (1928) (Brandeis, J., dissenting); see also Washington v. Harper, 494 U.S. 210 (1990)]

I understand that this may be an unusual request, and so I have provided Enclosure (3) to succinctly and thoroughly explain why I believe I qualify for this status from a legal perspective. I have spent considerable time researching this subject and communicating with your employees, in order to ensure that I have a proper understanding of the citizenship subject and can get what I am asking for, so please be patient with me in this case.

Enclosure (4) has been provided in the event that you have objections to what I am asking to do. I am asking that you complete it as your way to explain to me why you think you can't do it using the applicable statutes and regulations and court cites. This request is very important to me and so if you are going to deny me this request, I am simply asking that you please take the time to fill in Enclosure (4) to explain to me using the statutes and regulations exactly why you can or can't do it, so I can understand the legal constraints on your authority and how to get what I am asking for. In addition to filling out Enclosure (4), I would also request that you state the statute and implementing regulation and Supreme Court cite that authorizes the decision you have made and to enter that in the "Explanation" column in the answers section at the end. Government is a creature of the law and can do nothing without the authority of law, so I'm simply asking that you respect the law by telling me what law you are relying on to make your decision.

Finally, I emphasize that I am not interested in an opinion or in a statement of policy, but instead on what law authorizes you to take or not take the action I am asking for by citing the specific statute and implementing regulation that supports your conclusion. Please therefore don't send a standard form letter to me that answers a question that I never asked, or makes a self-serving statement of policy that is irrelevant to this case.

Thank you for your patience and cooperation and I look forward to hearing from you soon.

I declare under penalty of perjury under 28 U.S.C. §1746(1) under the laws of the state I am domiciled when litigated with a jury trial that the facts and statements made by me in this letter and all attachments are true and correct to the best of my ability.

Sincerely,

ENCLOSURE (4): CITIZENSHIP QUESTIONNAIRE

Please answer the questions below with either an “Admit” or “Deny” in each case, fill out the worksheet at the end with your answers, attach your supporting evidence if any, and return the worksheet to us with your response. Every question you do not answer or rebut shall be deemed to be “Admit” by default. None of the questions can have an “I don’t know” answer coming from a government agency. There MUST be an “Admit” or “Deny” answer for each, because the supreme Court of the United States has said:

“Every citizen of the United States is supposed to know the law...”
[Pierce v. United States, 7 Wall. (74 U.S. 169) 666 (1869)]

If every citizen is supposed to know the law, then certainly every government official, whose position and duties are defined exclusively by statutory law, must know the laws which limit and define his authority. There is absolutely no excuse not to know the law in your case.

After each question is a web link where you can see the evidence from the government’s own statutes, regulations, and court rulings which backs up the statement made in each question. Two links are provided for each link. The first is for clicking on if you are viewing this document electronically. The second is the absolute web address if you want to type in the address on your browser and view it on your computer because you are looking at the document in paper form.

*"This, of course, found immediate expression in the Fourteenth Amendment, adopted in 1868, with expansion to "[a]ll persons born or naturalized in the United States. . . ." 9. Admit that the 14th Amendment is the authority by which at least one type of "citizen of the United States" is legally defined in the country called the United States.

10. Admit that Section 1 of the 14th Amendment states the following:

"Section. 1. All persons born or naturalized in the United States and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the State wherein they reside. 11. Admit that the Supreme Court in the case of Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901) distinguished the term "subject to their jurisdiction" found in the Thirteenth Amendment as being different from the term "subject to the jurisdiction" found in the Fourteenth Amendment by saying:

"The 13th Amendment to the Constitution, prohibiting slavery and involuntary servitude 'within the United States, or in any place subject to their jurisdiction,' is also significant as showing that there may be places within the jurisdiction of the United States that are no part of the Union. To say that the phraseology of this amendment was due to the fact that it was intended to prohibit slavery in the seceded states, under a possible interpretation that those states were no longer a part of the Union, is to confess the very point in issue, since it involves an admission that, if these states were not a part of the Union, they were still subject to the jurisdiction of the United States.

Upon the other hand, the 14th Amendment, upon the subject of citizenship, declares only that 'all persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States, and of the state wherein they reside.' Here there is a limitation to persons born or naturalized in the United States, which is not extended to persons born in any place 'subject to their jurisdiction.'"

12. Admit that the U.S. Supreme Court in the case of Hooven and Allison v. Evatt, in 1945 ruled that there are three definitions of the term "United States":

"The term [United States] has several meanings. It may be merely the name of a sovereign occupying the position analogous to that of other sovereigns in the family of nations, it may designate territory over which the sovereignty of the United States extends, or it may be the collective name of the States which are united by and under the Constitution." Hooven & Allison Co. v. 13. Admit that because there are three distinct and different definitions of "United States", that there could conceivably be more than one type of "citizen of the United States" within federal statutes or "acts of Congress". (common sense)

16. Admit that the United States Department Foreign Affairs Manual, 7 FAM 1116-1 (d) states that there was no statutory definition of the term "United States" in the context of citizenship and nationality prior to January 13 1941.

d. Prior to January 13, 1941, there was no statutory definition of "the United States" for citizenship purposes. Thus there were varying interpretations. Guidance should be sought from the Department (CA/OCS) when such issues arise.

17. Admit that the U.S. Supreme Court said in the case of U.S. v. Wong Kim Ark, 169 U.S. 649:

"It is impossible to construe the words 'subject to the jurisdiction thereof,' in the opening sentence [of the Fourteenth Amendment], as less comprehensive than the words 'within its jurisdiction,' in the

18. Admit that under the doctrine of Conflict of Laws, no state or nation can exercise penal jurisdiction over persons or property outside of its territorial jurisdiction except by treaty:

“By the law of England and of the United States the penal laws of a country do not reach beyond its own territory [127 U.S. 265, 290] except when extended by express treaty or statute to offenses committed abroad by its own citizens; and they must be administered in its own courts only, and cannot be enforced by the courts of another country. Wheat. Int. Law, (8th Ed.) 113, 121. Chief Justice MARSHALL stated the rule in the most condensed form, as an incontrovertible maxim, ‘the courts of no country execute the penal laws of another.’ The Antelope, 10 Wheat. 66, 123. The only cases in which the courts of the United States have entertained suits by a foreign state have been to enforce demands of a strictly civil nature. [...] The rule that the courts of no country execute the penal laws of another applies, not only to prosecutions and sentences for crimes and misdemeanors, but to all suits in favor of the state for the recovery of pecuniary penalties for any violation of statutes for the protection of its revenue, or other municipal laws, and to all judgments for such penalties. If this were not so, all that would be necessary to give ubiquitous effect to a penal law would be to put the claim for a penalty into the shape of a judgment. Whart. Confl. Law, 833; [127 U.S. 265, 291] West. Pr. Int. Law, (1st Ed.) 388; Pig. Judgm. 209, 210. Lord Kames, in his Principles of Equity, cited and approved by Mr. Justice Story in his Commentaries on the Conflict of Laws, after having said: ‘The proper place for punishment is where the crime is committed, and no society takes concern in any crime but what is hurtful to itself,’ and recognizing the duty to enforce foreign judgments or decrees for civil debts or damages, adds. ‘But this includes not a decree discerning for a penalty, because no court reckons itself bound to punish, or to concur in punishing, any delict committed extra territorium.’ 2 Kames, Eq. (3d Ed.) 326, 366; Story, Confl. Law, 600, 622.”

21. Admit that Black's law dictionary, Sixth Edition, page 1473 defines the term “territories” as follows:

“Territory: A part of a country separated from the rest, and subject to a particular jurisdiction. Geographical area under the jurisdiction of another country or sovereign power.

A portion of the United States not within the limits of any state, which has not yet been admitted as a state of the Union, but is organized with a separate legislature, and with executive and judicial powers appointed by the President.”

22. Admit that the 50 union states of the country called the United States are not territories of the federal government of the United States, but instead are sovereign nations under the Law of Nations, except in respect to those matters specifically delegated to the federal government.

"The States between each other are sovereign and independent. They are distinct and separate sovereignties, except so far as they have parted with some of the attributes of sovereignty by the Constitution. They continue to be nations, with all their rights, and under all their national obligations, and with all the rights of nations in every particular; except in the surrender by each to the common purposes and objects of the Union, under the Constitution. The rights of each state, when not so yielded up, remain absolute. Congress have never provided for the proof of the laws of the states when they are brought forward in the Courts of the United States, or in the Courts of the states; and they are proved as foreign laws are proved."

"The persons declared [by the Fourteenth Amendment, Section 1] to be citizens are ALL PERSONS BORN OR NATURALIZED IN THE UNITED STATES AND SUBJECT TO THE JURISDICTION THEREOF. 24. Admit that "political jurisdiction" as used above is not the same as "legislative jurisdiction", and that "political jurisdiction" can exist where "legislative jurisdiction" does not.

25. Admit that the legal encyclopedia American Jurisprudence, in section 3A Am Jur 2d §2689 defines "U.S. citizens" under federal statutes as follows:

3C Am Jur 2d §2689, Who is born in United States and subject to United States jurisdiction "A person is born subject to the jurisdiction of the United States, for purposes of acquiring citizenship at birth, if his or her birth occurs in territory over which the United States is sovereign, even though another country provides all governmental services within the territory, and the territory is subsequently ceded to the other country."

-  Click here 3C Am Jur 2d §2689

26. Admit that Article 1, Section 8, Clause 4 of the U.S. Constitution gives Congress the right to establish "an uniform Rule of Naturalization":

Article 1, Section 8, Clause 4

"Congress shall have the power...To establish an uniform Rule of Naturalization, and uniform Laws on the subject of Bankruptcies throughout the United States;"

27. Admit that nowhere in the Constitution is conferred upon Congress the authority to determine the citizenship status derived from birth in a state of the Union, and that by implication, this matter is to be decided by the states individually under their own laws under the authority of the Ninth and Tenth Amendments to the U.S. Constitution.

28. Admit that the rules of comity prescribe whether the federal government must recognize in Title 8 of the U.S. Code the citizenship status of persons born in states of the Union to parents who were born or naturalized in a state of the Union.

29. Admit that the federal government of the United States has no police powers within states of the Union:

"By the tenth amendment, 'the powers not delegated to the United States by the constitution, nor prohibited by it to the states, are reserved to the states, respectively, or to the people.' Among the powers thus reserved to the several states is what is commonly called the 'police power,' -that inherent and necessary power, essential to the very existence of civil society, and the safeguard of the inhabitants of the state against disorder, disease, poverty, and crime. 'The police power belonging to the states in virtue of their general sovereignty,' said Mr. Justice STORY, delivering the judgment of this court, 'extends over all subjects within the territorial limits of the states, and has never been conceded to the United States.' Prigg v. Pennsylvania, 16 Pet. 539, 625. This is well illustrated by the recent adjudications that a statute prohibiting the sale of illuminating oils below a certain fire test is beyond the constitutional power of congress to enact, except so far as it has effect within the United States (as, for instance, in the District of Columbia) and without the limits of any state; but that it is within the constitutional power of a state to pass such a statute, even as to oils manufactured under letters patent from the United States. U. S. v. Dewitt, 9 Wall. 41; Patterson v. Kentucky, 97 U.S. 501. [135 U.S. 100, 128] The police power includes all measures for the protection of the life, the health, the property, and the welfare of the inhabitants, and for the promotion of good order and the public morals. It covers the suppression of nuisances, whether injurious to the public health, like unwholesome trades, or to the public morals, like gambling-houses and lottery tickets. Slaughter-House Cases, 16 Wall. 36, 62, 87; Fertilizing Co. v. Hyde Park, 97 U.S. 659; Phalen v. Virginia, 8 How. 163, 168; Stone v. Mississippi, 101 U.S. 814. This power, being essential to the maintenance of the authority of local government, and to the safety and welfare of the people, is inalienable. As was said by Chief Justice WAITE, referring to earlier decisions to the same effect: 'No legislature can bargain away the public health or the public morals. The people themselves cannot do it, much less their servants. The supervision of both these subjects of governmental power is continuing in its nature, and they are to be dealt with as the special exigencies of the moment may require. Government is organized with a view to their preservation, and cannot divest itself of the power to provide for them. For this purpose the largest legislative discretion is allowed, and the discretion cannot be parted with any more than the power itself.' Stone v. Mississippi, 101 U.S. 814, 819. See, also, Butchers' Union, etc., Co. v. Crescent City, etc., Co., 111 U.S. 746, 753, 4 S. Sup.Ct.Rep. 652; New Orleans Gas Co. v Louisiana Light Co., 115 U.S. 650, 672, 6 S. Sup.Ct.Rep. 252; New Orleans v. Houston, 119 U.S. 265, 275, 7 S. Sup.Ct.Rep. 198.

All rights are held subject to the police power of the state. Whatever differences of opinion may exist as to the extent and boundaries of the police power, and however difficult it may be to render a satisfactory definition of it, there seems to be no doubt that it does extend to the protection of the lives, health, and property of the citizens, and to the preservation of good order and the public morals. The legislature cannot, by any contract, divest itself of the power to provide for these objects. They belong emphatically to that class of objects which demand the application of the maxim, salus populi suprema lex; and they are to be attained and provided for by such appropriate means as the legislative discretion may devise. That discretion can no more be bargained away than the power itself. "

30. Admit that federal taxation is a "police power", because it substantially affects the safety, health, welfare, and morals of the people who pay it.

31. Admit that the police power of the federal government extends exclusively over the "federal zone", which includes federal territories and possessions, the District of Columbia, and enclaves within states of the Union by default, unless a clear intent is expressed to the contrary.

"While states are not sovereign in true sense of term but only quasi sovereign, yet in respect of all powers reserved to them they are supreme and independent of federal government as that government within its sphere is independent of the states."

"It is no longer open to question that the general government, unlike the states, Hammer v. Dagenhart, 247 U.S. 251, 275, 38 S.Ct. 529, 3 A.L.R. 649, Ann.Cas.1918E 724, possesses no inherent power in respect of the internal affairs of the states; and emphatically not with regard to legislation." "If Congress is authorized to act in a field, it should manifest its intention clearly. It will not be presumed that a federal statute was intended to supersede the exercise of the power of the state unless there is a clear manifestation of intention to do so. The exercise of federal supremacy is not lightly to be presumed." Schwartz v. Texas, [344 U.S. 199, 202-203 (1952). [413 U.S. 405, 414]]

32. Admit that because the federal government has no "police power" inside states under the Constitution, then the terms "United States" and "State" within federal statutes, including Title 8 of the U.S. Code and the Internal Revenue Code, must necessarily imply and refer exclusively to the "federal zone" by default, but not necessarily in every case.

33. Admit that in the event that laws cannot be interpreted by common men of ordinary intelligence, then the Supreme Court has said that such laws violate due process of law and are therefore "void for vagueness":

"A statute which either forbids or requires the doing of an act in terms so vague that men and women of common intelligence must necessarily guess at its meaning and differ as to its application, violates the first essential of due process of law." Unless otherwise provided in section 1401 of this title, the following shall be nationals, but not citizens, of the United States at birth:

38. Admit that even though 8 U.S.C. §1408 does not prescribe the citizenship status of persons born in a state of the Union to parents who were also born or naturalized in a state of the Union and who did not reside ever in the federal United States, it nevertheless still could be true that such persons are "nationals but not citizens of the United States" under that section.

39. Admit that all persons defined as "citizens of the United States" under 8 U.S.C. §1401 are also "U.S. nationals":

8 U.S.C. Sec. 1401. - Nationals and citizens of United States at birth

40. Admit that to be a "national of the United States" could also mean that one is not a "citizen of the United States" under federal statutes:

8 U.S.C. §1101\(a\)\(22\)

The term "national of the United States" means

(A) a citizen of the United States, or

42. Admit that the term "U.S. citizen" is nowhere defined in Title 26 of the U.S. Code.

43. Admit that the only place in 26 C.F.R. where the term "citizen of the United States" is defined is in 26 C.F.R. 31.3121(e)-1, and that definition is as follows:

26 C.F.R. 31.3121(e)-1 State, United States, and citizen.

(b)...The term 'citizen of the United States' includes a citizen of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico or the Virgin Islands, and, effective January 1, 1961, a citizen of Guam or American Samoa.

"An individual is a nonresident alien if such individual is neither a citizen of the United States nor a resident of the United States (within the meaning of subparagraph (A))."

46. Admit that the "U.S. national" as described in the previous question is a "nonresident alien" as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701\(b\)\(1\)\(B\).

47. Admit that the act of either naturalizing or remaining a citizen or a national in United States is a voluntary act as ruled by the Supreme Court in United States v. Cruikshank as follows:

“The people of the United States resident within any State are subject to two governments: one State, and the other National; but there need be no conflict between the two. The powers which one possesses, the other does not. They are established for different purposes, and have separate jurisdictions. Together they make one whole, and furnish the people of the United States with a complete government, ample for the protection of all their rights at home and abroad. True, it may sometimes happen that a person is amenable to both jurisdictions for one and the same act. Thus, if a marshal of the United States is unlawfully resisted while executing the process of the courts within a State, and the resistance is accompanied by an assault on the officer, the sovereignty of the United States is violated by the resistance, and that of the State by the breach of peace, in the assault. So, too, if one passes counterfeited coin of the United States within a State, it may be an offence against the United States and the State: the United States, because it discredits the coin; and the State, because of the fraud upon him to whom it is passed. This does not, however, necessarily imply that the two governments possess powers in common, or bring them into conflict with each other. It is the natural consequence of a citizenship [92 U.S. 542, 551] which owes allegiance to two sovereignties, and claims protection from both. The citizen cannot complain, because he has voluntarily submitted himself to such a form of government. He owes allegiance to the two departments, so to speak, and within their respective spheres must pay the penalties which each exacts for disobedience to its laws. In return, he can demand protection from each within its own jurisdiction.”

48. Admit that Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, on p. 1575, defines the term "voluntary" as follows:

“voluntary. Unconstrained by interference; unimpelled by another's influence; spontaneous; acting of oneself. Coker v. State, 199 Ga. 20, 33 S.E.2d 171, 174. Done by design or intention. Proceeding from the free and unrestrained will of the person. Produced in or by an act of choice. Resulting from free choice, without compulsion or solicitation. The word, especially in statutes, often implies knowledge of essential facts. Without valuable consideration; gratuitous, as a voluntary conveyance. Also, having a merely nominal consideration; as, a voluntary deed.”

49. Admit that once a person becomes either a citizen or a national of the United States, the government cannot unilaterally remove either status without the voluntary consent and participation of the citizen or national.

“In our country the people are sovereign and the Government cannot sever its relationship to the people by taking away their citizenship. Our Constitution governs us and we must never forget that our Constitution limits the Government to those powers specifically granted or those that are necessary and proper to carry out the specifically granted ones. The Constitution, of course, grants Congress no express power to strip people of their citizenship, whether in the exercise of the implied power to regulate foreign affairs or in the exercise of any specifically granted power.

“The entire legislative history of the 1868 Act makes it abundantly clear that there was a strong feeling in the Congress that the only way the citizenship it conferred could be lost was by the voluntary renunciation or abandonment by the citizen himself. And this was the unequivocal statement of the Court in the case of United States v. Wong Kim Ark, 169 U.S. 649.”

50. Admit that because the term "United States", according to the U.S. Supreme Court in Hooven and Allison v. Evatt, 324 U.S. 652 (1945), has three possible definitions, then the act of expatriation can include renouncing more than one type of citizenship.

52. Admit that Title 8, Aliens and Nationality, does not prescribe or define procedures for renouncing ones status as a "citizen of the United States" under 8 U.S.C. §1401 without also renouncing one's nationality.

53. Admit that even though there are no prescribed procedures for renouncing "citizen of the United States" status under 8 U.S.C. §1401 without renouncing "nationality", that does not mean that the act of doing so is not allowed or permitted by law.

54. Admit that 8 U.S.C. §1452 provides a process whereby a person who is a "U.S. national" can obtain what it calls a "Certificate of U.S. non-citizen national status".

56. Admit that the INS form N-400 does not use the term "U.S. national".

57. Admit that even though the term "U.S. national" is not used on the N-400 form, if it were substituted everywhere that the term "U.S. citizen" is used, this would constitute adequate qualification to be naturalized as a "U.S. national" but not necessarily a "U.S. citizen".

58. Admit that the INS N-400 form does not define which of the three definitions of "United States" is being used.

59. Admit that because the meaning of "United States" on the form is not defined and because "U.S. citizen" is everywhere used and "U.S. national" is not used, then there is at least a presumption on the part of the applicant that they are applying to become a "U.S. citizen" rather than a "U.S. national".

60. Admit that the term "naturalization" is statutorily defined as meaning the process of conferring "nationality" and not necessarily "citizen of the United States" status under 8 U.S.C. §1401, upon the applicant. (see question 36 earlier)

67. Admit that the reason there are no implementing regulations applying penalties against human beings in the case of 26 U.S.C. §6039E is because the Constitution, Article 1, Section 9, Clause 3, forbids Bills of Attainder, which are penalties applied without a judicial trial.

72. Admit that any mention of 26 U.S.C. §6039E and any penalties on the form, because there are no implementing regulations, constitutes a constructive fraud to fool the applicant into thinking that the furnishing of the number is subject to penalties that don't really exist.

73. Admit that the providing of an SSN on the DS-11 form could create a possibly false "presumption" on the part of the government that the applicant is a "U.S. citizen", when in fact he may be a "U.S. national" and not a "U.S. citizen".

77. Admit that the phrase in 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(38) above which says "Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, Guam, and the Virgin Islands of the United States" is a grouping of similar objects, which implies that they are all to be regarded as territories of the United States under the rule of statutory construction "Ejusdem generis" listed below:

"Ejusdem generis. Of the same kind, class, or nature. In the construction of laws, wills, and other instruments, the "ejusdem generis rule" is, that where general words follow an enumeration of persons or things, by words of a particular and specific meaning, such general words are not to be construed in their widest extent, but are to be held as applying only to persons or things of the same general kind or class as those specifically mentioned. U.S. v. LaBrecque, D.C. N.J., 419 F.Supp. 430, 432. The rule, however, does not necessarily require that the general provision be limited in its scope to the identical things specifically named. Nor does it apply when the context manifests a contrary intention.

Under "ejusdem generis" canon of statutory construction, where general words follow the enumeration of particular classes of things, the general words will be construed as applying only to things of the same general class as those enumerated. Campbell v. Board of Dental Examiners, 53 Cal.App.3d 283, 125 Cal.Rptr. 694, 696."

80. Admit that the rule of statutory construction entitled "Expressio unius est exclusio alterius" prevents us from interpreting the word "includes" above in a way that adds or enlarges anything to the items enumerated in the definition of "States" above or adding anything but items of the same class as those listed to the definition.

*"Expressio unius est exclusio alterius. A maxim of statutory interpretation meaning that the expression of one thing is the exclusion of another. Burgin v. (f) The term continental United States means the District of Columbia and the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, Guam, and the Virgin Islands of the United States, except Alaska and Hawaii.

82. 83. Admit that the following definitions of terms listed in the table apply within the Constitution and Federal Law by default, based on the previous questions:

NOTES:

1. See:

- a. Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 648:

"Foreign states. Nations which are outside the United States. Term may also refer to another state; i.e. a sister state."
[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 648]

- b. Corpus Juris Secundum (C.J.S.) §29, legal encyclopedia:

"Generally, the states of the Union sustain toward each other the relationship of independent sovereigns or independent foreign states, except in so far as the United States is paramount as the dominating government, and in so far as the states are bound to recognize the fraternity among sovereignties established by the federal Constitution, as by the provision requiring each state to give full faith and credit to the public acts, records, and judicial proceedings of the other states..."

2. The Constitution is a contract written by and between the States of the Union and their new servant, the Federal Government. It conveys authority to the federal government over the property under its control and stewardship, which was only the District of Columbia at the time. Since the States wrote it, the word "State" is capitalized because they are the sovereigns. Federal statutes and "acts of Congress" is written by the Congress under the authority of the Constitution. Since the servant, in that case, is writing the law, then it becomes the sovereign over the property under its stewardship, which only includes federal "States" listed in Title 48 of the U.S. Code, to include territories and possessions of the United States only.
3. See 4 U.S.C. 110(d), 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(36), 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(10) for examples.

84. Admit that there are two political jurisdictions within the United States the country: 1. The States of the Union united under the Constitution; 2. The territories and possessions of the United States and the District of Columbia.

85. Admit that one's citizenship determines which of the above two to political jurisdictions a person belongs to. (common knowledge)

"There cannot be a nation without a people. The very idea of a political community, such as a nation is, implies an [88 U.S. 162, 166] association of persons for the promotion of their general welfare. Each one of the persons associated becomes a member of the nation formed by the association. He owes it allegiance and is entitled to its protection. Allegiance and protection are, in this connection, reciprocal obligations. The one is a compensation for the other; allegiance for protection and protection for allegiance.

"For convenience it has been found necessary to give a name to this membership. The object is to designate by a title the person and the relation he bears to the nation. For this purpose the words 'subject,' 'inhabitant,' and 'citizen' have been used, and the choice between them is sometimes made to depend upon the form of the government. Citizen is now more commonly employed, however, and as it has been considered better suited to the description of one living under a republican government, it was adopted by nearly all of the States upon their separation from Great Britain, and was afterwards adopted in the Articles of Confederation and in the Constitution of the United States. When used in this sense it is understood as conveying the idea of membership of a nation, and nothing more."

“To determine, then, who were citizens of the United States before the adoption of the amendment it is necessary to ascertain what persons originally associated themselves together to form the nation, and what were afterwards admitted to membership.”

“Looking at the Constitution itself we find that it was ordained and established by ‘the people of the United States,’³ and then going further back, we find that these were the people of the several States that had before dissolved the political bands which connected them with Great Britain, and assumed a separate and equal station among the powers of the earth,⁴ and that had by Articles of Confederation and Perpetual Union, in which they took the name of ‘the United States of America,’ entered into a firm league of [88 U.S. 162, 167] friendship with each other for their common defence, the security of their liberties and their mutual and general welfare, binding themselves to assist each other against all force offered to or attack made upon them, or any of them, on account of religion, sovereignty, trade, or any other pretence whatever. ⁵

“Whoever, then, was one of the people of either of these States when the Constitution of the United States was adopted, became ipso facto a citizen-a member of the nation created by its adoption. He was one of the persons associating together to form the nation, and was, consequently, one of its original citizens. As to this there has never been a doubt. Disputes have arisen as to whether or not certain persons or certain classes of persons were part of the people at the time, but never as to their citizenship if they were.”
[Minor v. Happersett, 88 U.S. 162 (1874)]

86. Admit that persons born in territories of the United States or the District of Columbia are not citizens within the meaning of the Fourteenth Amendment, section 1.

“It had been said by eminent judges that no man was a citizen of the United States except as he was a citizen of one of the states comprising the Union. Those, therefore, who had been born and resident always in the District of Columbia or in the territories, though within the United States, were not citizens.”
[Slaughter-House Cases, 83 U.S. (16 Wall.) 36, 21 L.Ed. 394 (1873)]

87. Admit that people born in the District of Columbia or the territories of the United States are “citizens of the United States” under 8 U.S.C. §1401.

88. Admit that a “citizen of the United States” under 8 U.S.C. §1401 and a “citizen of the United States” under Section 1 of the Fourteenth Amendment are therefore not equivalent.

- Annotated Fourteenth Amendment: <http://caselaw.lp.findlaw.com/data/constitution/amendment14/>
- 8 U.S.C. §1401: <http://law.cornell.edu/uscode/text/8/1401>

89. Admit that the reason that a “citizen of the United States” under 8 U.S.C. §1401 and a “citizen of the United States” under the Fourteenth Amendment are not equivalent is because each of these two contexts presupposes a different definition of the term “United States” as defined by the Supreme Court.

“The term [United States] has several meanings. It may be merely the name of a sovereign occupying the position analogous to that of other sovereigns in the family of nations, it may designate territory over which the sovereignty of the United States extends, or it may be the collective name of the States which are united by and under the Constitution.”

90. Admit that the two political jurisdictions within our country do not have governments that are identical in form. Article 4, Section 4 of the Constitution, for instance, guarantees a “republican form of government” to the states of the Union, while no such Constitutional limitation exists for territories and possessions of the United States.

Constitution of the United States

Article 4, Section 4.

The United States shall guarantee to every State in this Union a Republican Form of Government, and shall protect each of them against Invasion; and on Application of the Legislature, or of the Executive (when the Legislature cannot be convened) against domestic Violence.

91. Admit that the government of the states of the Union is republican in form while the government of the territories and possessions is a legislative democracy which is not required by the Constitution to be “republican in form”.

92. Admit that inhabitants of the federal zone are not protected by the Bill of Rights while those living in states of the Union are.

"The idea prevails with some -- indeed, it found expression in arguments at the bar -- that we have in this country substantially or practically two national governments; one, to be maintained under the Constitution, with all its restrictions; the other to be maintained by Congress outside and independently of that instrument, by exercising such powers as other nations of the earth are accustomed to exercise."
[Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901), supra.]

93. Admit that the character and nature of the people in either political jurisdiction is fundamentally different because of the political and legal differences between them.

94. Admit that the two political groups of people: 1. Inhabitants of the States of the Union; 2. Inhabitants of the federal zone... do not qualify as “peers” in the context of jury service under the Sixth Amendment. Reason: Those who enjoy Constitutionally protected rights and live under a Republic do not have the same attitude and values as those who live under a pure democracy and have no such rights.

95. Admit that if 8 U.S.C. §1401 includes persons born in states of the Union on land that is not ceded to the federal government, then there is no way to distinguish between people in each of the two political jurisdictions from a U.S. citizenship standpoint.

- 8 U.S.C. §1401: <http://law.cornell.edu/uscode/text/8/1401>

96. Admit that without the ability to distinguish between people in each of the two political jurisdictions under federal law, there is no way to assemble a “jury of peers” as required by the Sixth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

- Annotated Sixth Amendment: <http://www.findlaw.com/casecode/constitution/>

97. Admit that a “citizen” under federal law is a person born in a territory of the United States or the District of Columbia while a “citizen” under state law is a person born in a state of the Union and that these two types of “citizens” are not equivalent either politically or legally.

5.7 Financial Institutions

5.7.1 Letter to Remove SSN and Tax Withholding From Your Account

This letter is excellent at convincing banks to accept an IRS form W-8BEN, which allows you to remove tax withholding and Social Security numbers from your financial accounts. It is written to specifically address institutions that won't accept your IRS Form W-8BEN from you because they say that the address on the form is not a "foreign address" because it is in the 50 states. As we know by reading the "Great IRS Hoax" book, even addresses inside the 50 states and outside the federal zone are "foreign" with respect to the jurisdiction of the Internal Revenue Code.

Please let us know if you can come up with a better form than this one, but this one worked for us!

- (2) Correspondence from _____ (institution name) dated _____ (date)
- (3) Phone call to _____ (institution name) on _____ (date)

Enclosure

- (1) IRS form W-8BEN submitted _____ to claim non-resident non-person status on all the above accounts.
- (2) Position Statement and Questionnaire. This establishes my position on the disputed issues and offers you an opportunity to refute it, point by point.

Dear Sir,

SECTION 1: INTRODUCTION:

This letter is in reference to attempts to correct my residency and citizenship status from that of a statutory U.S. citizen per 8 U.S.C. 1401 to that of a “non-citizen national” and “non-resident non-person” and the consequent removal of my no longer valid social security number on all of the financial accounts I have at your institution. The letter is being written in response to your request to clarify the issues I have encountered with your institution in achieving the above goal.

On _____ (date), I submitted Encl (2) to your organization instructing you to terminate U.S. income tax withholding on the above accounts and to remove an invalid SSN from those accounts. That form listed a “permanent address” in _____ (countryname). Subsequent to that I received a correspondence (Ref. (2)) from your organization incredulously indicating that I was a _____ (foreign country) citizen and that my accounts would be subject to _____ (foreign country) backup withholding of 15% on any dividends I earned, even though I never claimed to be a _____ (foreign country) resident or citizen, never authorized sharing of any personal information provided to a foreign government, and never claimed that I LIVED in _____ (foreign country), only that my “permanent address” as listed under the form was in _____ (foreign country). The IRS Form W-8BEN that Encl. (2) replaced did not ask for “permanent residence address”, only “permanent address” and so that is what I put on the form, thinking your form was the same as the IRS form.

As per Ref. (3) I subsequently contacted your central customer service number to complain that:

1. I did not want _____ (foreign country) tax withholding instituted on any of my _____ (institution name) accounts because I was not a _____ (foreign country) resident or citizen.
2. That I had never authorized tax withholding for a foreign government.
3. That I did not want any of my private personal financial information about my account shared with any third parties or government.
4. That I was a non-resident non-person for the purposes of U.S. income tax withholding, and that I was so by virtue of my status as a “non-citizen national” as defined in 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21).

The manager I spoke with named _____(name), said she could not help me because the matter I was raising was beyond her expertise and referred me to you with my concerns. I asked for your phone number because I wanted to discuss this matter with you personally, and she arrogantly and defiantly refused to give it. I said it was important to speak with someone in person at your organization who would be directly accountable and answerable for any determinations and she said that wasn't possible, as if your organization had something to hide and did not want to be accountable for your lack of knowledge of the federal tax laws. I told her my residence was in _____(statename) and that _____(statename) qualifies as a "foreign country" within 26 C.F.R. §1.911-2(h), because the Internal Revenue Code only applies to the federal United States (District of Columbia and Federal territories and enclaves), as I will detail subsequently.

She said she wasn't sure _____(statename) qualified as a "permanent address" that was "foreign" within the meaning of the Internal Revenue Code. I asked her what her definition of "foreign address" was, and she didn't have one. I said I wanted the definition in writing signed by an authorized agent of _____(institution name) showing that my address was NOT a "foreign" address. She said she couldn't provide an official answer in writing and referred me to you. I asked _____(name) if she had ever read any part of the Internal Revenue Code (I.R.C.) or the 26 Code of Federal Regulations, and she said no. I said the law is what governs what the definition of "foreign" and there is no law ANYWHERE in the I.R.C or the 26 C.F.R. defining the definition of "foreign" but that the definition could be inferred from other facts that I explained to her, as repeated for your benefit in Encl. (2). I said that I had researched this issue for the last year and wrote a 2,100 page book on the following subjects: U.S. income taxes; the definition of "foreign"; federal tax law. All efforts to convince her of my beliefs with detailed legal foundation failed because of her relative ignorance of the issues involved. Hence, I am contacting you on this matter.

SECTION 2: REQUESTS OF FIDELITY INVESTMENTS:

With that background out of the way, Enclosure (2) entitled "Position Statement and Questionnaire" provides a very succinct definition of the following terms as a background for what I am asking you to do: "foreign", "United States", "State", "include", and "includes". You are invited to research for yourself, even with the aid of a corporate attorney from your organization, the validity of my arguments and to call me with any questions you might have about the findings. My work number is _____(phone). My home phone number is _____(phone). You are then requested to proceed as follows:

1. Please provide your phone number so that I may initiate a dialog you about this matter to quickly resolve it and later to do follow-up on the matter. You can do so by calling any of the numbers above and leaving a message with your name and phone number.
2. If you disagree with my conclusions in Encl. (2), then please:
 - 2.1. Consult your organizational legal counsel to get any remaining questions answered that you might have, or better yet, have him respond to this letter.
 - 2.2. Call me with any questions you might have, which I will gladly and promptly answer at the above number(s).
 - 2.3. Answer the brief questions that are part of Enclosure (2) and send your answers back to me with a date and your signature for the record.

WARNING: Under the Uniform Commercial Code section 1-205, any questions you do not answer, including the entire questionnaire, will conclusively be presumed to result in the default answer provided with the question.

- 2.4. Close ALL of my non-retirement (non-IRA) accounts immediately and send the proceeds back to me via check.
- 2.5. Remove Canadian withholding on my remaining retirement account immediately, as I am not a Canadian resident or citizen, nor am I a "U.S. citizen". Instead, I am a "U.S. national".
- 2.6. Do not institute U.S. reporting or withholding on the remaining retirement account. My retirement accounts will subsequently be transferred out of your organization upon notification of your response.
3. If you agree with my conclusions in Encl. (2), then please:
 - 3.1. Send me a letter signed by you stating that you agree on company stationery.
 - 3.2. Simply remove _____(foreign country) reporting and withholding from all accounts.
 - 3.3. Remove any and all Social Security Numbers from all accounts, all of which are no longer valid.
 - 3.4. Issue me a Customer ID number to replace the invalid SSN's.
 - 3.5. Call me at the number above to confirm what you have done.

1 Whatever the case, you are hereby informed for all our future dealings of the following requirements which I expect you to 2 honor unless notified to the contrary in writing by me:

- 3 1. I do not want any tax withholding or reporting instituted on any of my accounts for any country or taxing jurisdiction,
4 with or without the submittal of an IRS form W-8BEN or its equivalent, because I was not a citizen of any country. I
5 am a U.S. national, and not a U.S. citizen.
- 6 2. That I do not want any of my private personal financial information about my account(s) shared with any third parties 7 or any government, because there is no tax liability associated with any of my accounts for any taxing jurisdiction.
- 8 3. That I was a non-resident non-person for the purposes of U.S. income tax withholding, and that I was so by virtue of 9 my status as a “non-citizen national” as defined in 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21).

10 It is my firm desire that we both behave honorably and respectfully with each other in regards to the matters addressed by 11 this correspondence, which means that if you reach a determination other than that which I advocate in this correspondence,
12 that you thoroughly document the legal foundations for such determination using the provided questionnaire. You need not
13 concern yourself with whether I will understand your response, as I assure you that even without formal legal training, I am
14 quite competent to understand whatever technical justification you provide, including citations from the Internal Revenue
15 Code, 26 CFR, and the Supreme Court. Failure to justify your position shall constitute evidence of bad faith on your part 16 which will result in a termination of all future business dealings. This could amount to substantial financial harm to your 17 organization considering the longevity of my usual business dealings.

18 Should you desire further clarification of any of the issues discussed in this correspondence, all of these issues are 19 exhaustively addressed in a book entitled Great IRS Hoax: Why We Don't Owe Income Tax, Form #11.302 available for 20 free downloading on the World Wide Web in Adobe Acrobat format at the address below:

21 <http://famguardian.org/Publications/GreatIRSHoax/GreatIRSHoax.htm>

22 I thank you kindly for your diligent cooperation in this matter. I apologize that responding to this request may require more
23 time and attention than would normally be required, but the issues discussed herein are so significant and of such great
24 import to so many of your clients and you personally that I believe the extra effort is well worth your time to respond. I
25 wish to emphasize that I have been a loyal client of yours for the past 20 years and would like to continue doing business
26 with you. In the event that you close my accounts as per my instructions above because you will not justify your position
27 legally or disagree with my position, that it is with regret that I feel that I must terminate all accounts with you. However, I
28 cannot continue to do business with an organization whose misunderstanding and misapplication of the federal tax laws
29 (obvious even to a jailhouse lawyer such as myself) results in a hazard to my financial health, my privacy, and my personal 30 freedom and liberty.

31 In accordance with 28 U.S.C. §1746(1), I do hereby attest and affirm, under the penalties of perjury from without the
32 “United States”, under the laws of the United States of America that to the best of my/our knowledge and belief, the above
33 Affidavit is true, correct, and complete.

34
35 Very Sincerely,

POSITION STATEMENT AND QUESTIONNAIRE

By: Family Guardian Fellowship

Date of last revision: 12-10-01

<http://famguardian.org/>

1. INTRODUCTION AND REQUIREMENTS PERTAINING TO YOUR ANSWERS:

"The whole art of government consists in the art of being honest." --Thomas Jefferson: Rights of British America, 1774. ME 1:209, Papers 1:134

"Silence can only be equated with fraud when there is a legal or moral duty to speak, or when an inquiry left unanswered would be intentionally misleading... We cannot condone this shocking conduct... If that is the case we hope our message is clear. This sort of deception will not be tolerated and if this is routine it should be corrected immediately"
U.S. v. Tweel, 550 F.2d. 297, 299-300

This document shall constitute proof of my position relative to my total lack of liability for federal income taxes. Each question appearing in this "Test for Tax Professionals" is designed and intended to:

1. Carefully and succinctly document and convey the detailed legal foundations of my good-faith belief of nonliability and thereby meet the burden of proof requirement imposed on me.
2. Take me out of the characterization of being a "taxpayer" and into the category of being a sovereign "American".
3. Offer you an opportunity to refute each and every major point that forms the basis for my beliefs with your own authoritative and carefully-researched legal citations.
4. Shift the burden of proof to you to establish any liability for federal taxes whatsoever.

You must complete the following questions identified in this document in order to meet the burden of proof upon you under 5 U.S.C. §556 as described in this document. Failure to answer any or all question(s) shall result in the default answer being admitted on your part. In the event the list below is empty, then you are requested to complete ALL of the questions in this document.

In regards to this good faith inquiry, your answers to all the questions in this document must include a three part response by citing the (1) the Statute in 26 U.S.C., (2) the Implementing Regulation [IR] in 26 C.F.R. for that particular Statute in 26 U.S.C., and (3) the Volume, Date, and Page Number in the Federal Register as to the promulgation of the Implementing Regulation in (2) making the federal law applicable to American Nationals. Each and every question raised in this document has a significant impact on any imputed tax liability I might have and therefore none of the questions can or should be ignored in order to properly and completely address the issues of federal tax liability.

The reason I am asking for these answers is that you need to communicate and document your authority to demand any sum and amount of liability, rather than operate on the mistaken presumption that I have "taxable income" because I have income of any kind. I can follow the law that exists. In your previous correspondence, you have:

- Negligently ignored any and all claims I have made in previous correspondence.
- Failed to identify any legal authority to impose a tax of any sort under APPLICABLE REVENUE LAW.
- Made demands under the "color of law" that are unsubstantiated by legal authority.

Your answers will help document either fraud on your part, or will clearly identify any lawful authority that you might be using. Each of my questions clearly documents the legal foundation and proof or evidence justifying my belief. Therefore, these questions are designed to help you satisfy the burden of proof requirement that applies to you. My authority for asking these questions is as follows, right from the Administrative Procedures Act, which applies directly to you and the Internal Revenue Service:

TITLE 5 - GOVERNMENT ORGANIZATION AND EMPLOYEESPART I - THE AGENCIES GENERALLYCHAPTER 5 - ADMINISTRATIVE PROCEDURESUBCHAPTER II - ADMINISTRATIVE PROCEDURE

Sec. 556. Hearings; presiding employees; powers and duties; burden of proof; evidence; record as basis of decision

(d) Except as otherwise provided by statute, the proponent of a rule or order has the burden of proof. Any oral or documentary evidence may be received, but the agency as a matter of policy shall provide for the exclusion of irrelevant, immaterial, or unduly repetitious evidence. A sanction may not be imposed or rule or order issued except on consideration of the whole record or those parts thereof cited by a party and supported by and in accordance with the reliable, probative, and substantial evidence.

This series of questions also satisfies the requirements articulated clearly by the U.S. Supreme Court Ruling as follows:

"It is not the function of our Government to keep the citizen from falling into error; it is the function of the citizen to keep the government from falling into error."
[American Communications Association v. Douds, 339 U.S. 382, 442. (1950)]

Any Court Decisions lower than the U.S. Supreme Court will be considered a "NON RESPONSE" and will result in your admission that the "DEFAULT ANSWER" is valid and truthful. As you are no doubt aware, the Judicial Branch of United States Government has no Constitutional authority to "CREATE LAW" or function in the role of the Legislative Branch of the Federal Government [Congress of the United States]. Furthermore, your own Internal Revenue Manual says on this very subject:

"Decisions made at various levels of the court system... may be used by either examiners or taxpayers to support a position... A case decided by the U.S. Supreme Court becomes the law of the land and takes precedence over decisions of lower courts... Decisions made by lower courts, such as Tax Court, District Courts, or Claims Court, are binding on the Service only for the particular taxpayer and the years litigated. Adverse decisions of lower courts do not require the Service to alter its position for other taxpayers."
[Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.), Section 4.10.7.2.9.8 (05/14/99)]

1. Question (1): Definition of "State" and "States"

The rules of statutory construction teach that the plural of a word may not have a different meaning that the singular version of the same word. 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(10) defines the word "State" as follows:

When used in this title, where not otherwise distinctly expressed or manifestly incompatible with the intent thereof -- ...

State. -- The term "State" shall be construed to include the District of Columbia, where such construction is necessary to carry out provisions of this title.
[IRC 7701(a)(10), emphasis added]

Questions:

PART A: In the context of Subtitles A through C income taxes applied to human beings, does the word "States" used in the definition of "United States" 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) also mean only the District of Columbia?

If you fail to respond or ignore the question, then your answer is "YES."

PART B: If the answer to Part A above is “NO”, then in the context of Subtitles A through C income taxes applied to human beings, does the meaning of “States” used in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) mean only the District of Columbia and other federal enclaves defined in 4 U.S.C. §110(d), which says:

(d) The term "State" includes any Territory or possession of the United States.

2. Question (2): Definition of “United States”

We must always remember that our Congress legislates for two territorial jurisdictions as ruled by the U.S. Supreme Court in the case of U.S. v. Bevans, 16 U.S. 336 (1818):

"The exclusive jurisdiction which the United States have in forts and dock-yards ceded to them, is derived from the express assent of the states by whom the cessions are made. It could be derived in no other manner; because without it, the authority of the state would be supreme and exclusive therein,"

...

"The article which describes the judicial power of the United States is not intended for the cession of territory or of general jurisdiction. ... Congress has power to exercise exclusive jurisdiction over this district, and over all places purchased by the consent of the legislature of the state in which the same shall be, for the erection of forts, magazines, arsenals, dock-yards, and other needful buildings."

"It is observable that the power of exclusive legislation (which is jurisdiction) is united with cession of territory, which is to be the free act of the states. It is difficult to compare the two sections together, without feeling a conviction, not to be strengthened by any commentary on them, that, in describing the judicial power, the framers of our constitution had not in view any cession of territory; or, which is essentially the same, of general jurisdiction," 3 Wheat., at 388."

The territorial jurisdiction that all Congressional legislation is intended to apply to absent a clearly expressed intent to the contrary is the federal zone, which are federal properties coming under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 17 of the U.S. Constitution as revealed by the U.S. Supreme Court below in U.S. v. Spelar, 338 U.S. 217 at 222 (1949):

"A canon of construction which teaches that of Congress, unless a contrary intent appears, is meant to apply only within the territorial jurisdiction of the United States."

The Internal Revenue Code only applies within the territorial jurisdiction of the “United States” and has no jurisdiction over human beings (biological people) outside that jurisdiction because of limits on direct taxation found in Article 1, Section 9, Clause 4 and Article 1, Section 2, Clause 3 of the U.S. Constitution. The term “United States” is defined in the Internal Revenue Code section 7701(a)(9) as:

26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9)
“United States

The term “United States” when used in a geographical sense includes only the States and the District of Columbia.”

And in that same section, “State” is defined as follows:

26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(10)
“State

The term “State” shall be construed to include the District of Columbia, where such construction is necessary to carry out provisions of this title.”

You will note that “States” is the plural of “State”, and that “State” refers only to the District of Columbia, which is part of the federal United States (also called the “federal zone”) and is a federal State. But wait, there is only one District of Columbia and they used the plural form of “State” in the definition of “United States”. What other federal “States” do we have? Here they are:

TITLE 4 - FLAG AND SEAL, SEAT OF GOVERNMENT, AND THE STATES
CHAPTER 4 - THE STATES

Sec. 110. Same; definitions
(d) The term “State” includes any Territory or possession of the United States.

Notice the title of the Chapter above, which is “The States”. These are federal states, and the same “the States” appearing in the definition of the term “United States” found in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) above. These same federal States are also the only States subject to the federal income tax or the territorial jurisdiction of the federal government. The above is from 4 U.S.C. §§ 104-113, also called the Buck Act of 1940, which was enacted by the federal government to allow states to institute state income or sales taxes inside of federal enclaves within sovereign states or in federal possessions like the Virgin Islands. An “enclave” is property within a sovereign state that has been ceded to the federal government by a state for use, for instance, as a military base or federal courthouse. There are 50 artificial or federal “States” within the borders of the sovereign 50 “states” under the Buck Act. If we took all of the federal property within one of these sovereign “states” and grouped it together, this would be called a “State”.

Going back to the definitions of “United States” and “State” again found in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9)-(10) above, then by the rules of statutory construction, the plural of the word “State” may not have a different meaning or category than the singular of a word. The definition of “United States” also cannot have two different meanings either that depend on the context used, meaning that it can’t mean the federal zone for individuals and the geographical United States* (the entire country) for other artificial entities, because Section 7701(a)(9) doesn’t provide two definitions or contexts. It can only have one meaning that can consistently be applied throughout the Internal Revenue Code.

Do either the definition of “United States” or “State” above express a clear intent to apply to areas outside the federal United States (federal properties coming under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 17 of the U.S. Constitution)? The answer is NO! Therefore, the term “United States” can only mean the “federal zone” within the context of the entire Internal Revenue Code as per U.S. v. Spelar, 338 U.S. 217 at 222 (1949). We have no choice, as per the rulings of the Supreme Court, to reach any other conclusion. We wish to emphasize, however, that there are exceptions to this rule, as found in 26 U.S.C. §§ 3121 and 4612. These sections redefine the term “United States” within selected portions of the code and for special purposes related to excise taxes and FICA taxes. We therefore must conclude that the income tax, by default and absent an alternate definition of “United States”, only applies in the District of Columbia and other portions of the federal United States, based on the definitions above, and that the only exceptions to this conclusion are those portions of the Internal Revenue Code which use another definition of the term “United States”! 40 U.S.C. §255 puts the nail in the coffin on this issue, in defining the extent of criminal jurisdiction of the “United States” government:

United States Code
 TITLE 40 - PUBLIC BUILDINGS, PROPERTY, AND WORKS
 CHAPTER 3 - PUBLIC BUILDINGS AND WORKS GENERALLY

40 U.S.C. Sec. 255. Approval of title prior to Federal land purchases; payment of title expenses; application to Tennessee Valley Authority; Federal jurisdiction over acquisitions

Unless the Attorney General gives prior written approval of the sufficiency of the title to land for the purpose for which the property is being acquired by the United States, public money may not be expended for the purchase of the land or any interest therein.

The Attorney General may delegate his responsibility under this section to other departments and agencies, subject to his general supervision and in accordance with regulations promulgated by him.

Any Federal department or agency which has been delegated the responsibility to approve land titles under this section may request the Attorney General to render his opinion as to the validity of the title to any real property or interest therein, or may request the advice or assistance of the Attorney General in connection with determinations as to the sufficiency of titles.

Except where otherwise authorized by law or provided by contract, the expenses of procuring certificates of titles or other evidences of title as the Attorney General may require may be paid out of the appropriations for the acquisition of land or out of the appropriations made for the contingencies of the acquiring department or agency.

The foregoing provisions of this section shall not be construed to affect in any manner any existing provisions of law which are applicable to the acquisition of lands or interests in land by the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the obtaining of exclusive jurisdiction in the United States over lands or interests therein which have been or shall hereafter be acquired by it shall not be required; but the head or other authorized officer of any department or independent establishment or agency of the Government may, in such cases and at such times as he may deem desirable, accept or secure from the State in which any lands or interests therein under his immediate jurisdiction, custody, or control are situated, consent to or cession of such jurisdiction, exclusive or partial, not theretofore obtained, over any such lands or interests as he may deem desirable and indicate acceptance of such jurisdiction on behalf of the United States by filing a notice of such acceptance with the Governor of such State or in such other manner as may be prescribed by the laws of the State where such lands are situated. Unless and until the United States has accepted jurisdiction over lands hereafter to be acquired as aforesaid, it shall be conclusively presumed that no such jurisdiction has been accepted.

(Don't confuse yourself. The above use of the word "State" is different from that in Title 26, the I.R.C. It means the states of the Union and not the federal states.) So there you have it above! The United States government does not have territorial jurisdiction over any land within the states of the union not explicitly ceded to it in writing by the state. Why then would it have any jurisdiction over your private property or residence within a state, which also was never ceded to the federal government in writing? Worse yet, why would they have any jurisdiction over you if you weren't a U.S. citizen and were instead a U.S. national? The answer is the U.S. government's jurisdiction inside the states on land outside the federal zone doesn't exist, other than to regulate and tax foreign commerce! Only the states have territorial jurisdiction there.

Another issue to consider is deciding whether "United States" means the "District of Columbia" or the "federal zone" is the definition of the term "employee". Here's the definition from 26 C.F.R. § 31.3401(c) :

26 C.F.R. § 31.3401(c) Employee: "...the term [employee] includes officers and employees, whether elected or appointed, of the United States, a [federal] State, Territory, Puerto Rico or any political subdivision, thereof, or the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing. The term 'employee' also includes an officer of a corporation."

Here's what the code says about such officer "employees", and note that they all work only in the District of Columbia:

United States Code
 TITLE 4 - FLAG AND SEAL, SEAT OF GOVERNMENT, AND THE STATES
 CHAPTER 3 - SEAT OF THE GOVERNMENT
 § 72. Public offices; at seat of government.

All offices attached to the seat of government shall be exercised in the District of Columbia, and not elsewhere, except as otherwise expressly provided by law.

Some people look at the above logic, and then say that the U.S. Supreme Court has already ruled that the income tax is an indirect excise tax and that indirect taxes can apply anywhere throughout the country under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 1 of the U.S. Constitution and that the Internal Revenue Code can therefore only define “United States” as applying to the entire country rather than just the federal zone. However, the excise taxes on petroleum found in Subtitle D (sections 4041 through 5000 of the Internal Revenue Code)) use a different definition of the term “United States” found in 26 U.S.C. §4612 that does explicitly indeed include nonfederal areas (referred to as the “50 states”)!

(A) In general

The term “United States” means the 50 States, the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, any possession of the United States, the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands, and the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands

How come the U.S. government can apply the excise tax on gasoline legally within the borders of sovereign states? Because most of the gasoline is imported (foreign commerce) and the federal government has subject matter (but not territorial) jurisdiction and regulatory authority within the borders of the sovereign states to regulate foreign commerce under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 3 of the U.S. Constitution. The power to regulate also implies the power to tax.

The U.S. Supreme Court, in the case of Hooven & Allison Co. v. Evatt, 324 U.S. 652 (1945) defined the term “United States” as follows:

“The term ‘United States’ may be used in any one of several senses.

[1] It may be merely the name of a sovereign occupying the position analogous to that of other sovereigns in the family of nations.

[2] It may designate the territory over which the sovereignty of the United States ex- [324 U.S. 652, 672] tends,

[3] or it may be the collective name of the states which are united by and under the Constitution.”

It is of utmost importance to understand the exact meaning of the term “United States” as it relates income taxes and to the definitions of “United States” given by the Supreme Court. Understanding this is the foundation of understanding the jurisdiction of the United States Government to impose Subtitles A through C income taxes on “human beings”.

Questions:

All of the parts of the questions indicated below refer to the meaning of the term “United States” within the context of Subtitles A through C income taxes as applied to “human beings” (as opposed to corporations or partnerships in receipt of indirect excise taxable privileges).

PART A: Based on the above citation of Hooven and Allison v. Evatt, 324 U.S. 652, please complete the following checklist defining the jurisdiction of the Internal Revenue Service as it relates to the indicated definitions of the term “United States” found in the internal revenue code. Please circle YES or NO under each of the three definition columns that apply to each of the three definitions given of “United States” found in the Internal Revenue Code. Default answers that apply if you refuse to answer the question are also shown in the table.

As you complete each box in the table below, be aware of the following Constitutional restrictions imposed upon taxation by the U.S. Government:

Article 1, Section 2, Clause 3:

3 Representatives and direct Taxes shall be apportioned among the several States which may be included within this Union, according to their respective Numbers, which shall be determined by adding to the whole Number of free Persons, including those bound to Service for a Term of Years, and excluding Indians not taxed, three fifths of all other Persons.

Article 1, Section 8, Clause 1 thru 3:

SECTION. 8.
Clause 1 The Congress shall have Power To lay and collect Taxes, Duties, Imposts and Excises, to pay the Debts and provide for the common Defence and general Welfare of the United States; but all Duties, Imposts and Excises shall be uniform throughout the United States;

...

Clause 3 To regulate Commerce with foreign Nations, and among the several States, and with the Indian Tribes;

Article 1, Section 9, Clauses 4 through 5: No direct taxes or taxes on export from states

4 No Capitation, or other direct, Tax shall be laid, unless in Proportion to the Census or Enumeration herein before directed to be taken.⁷

5 No Tax or Duty shall be laid on Articles exported from any State.

And the definition of “direct tax” is shown below:

One that is imposed directly upon property, according to its value. It is generally spoken of as a property tax or an ad valorem tax. Distinguishable from an indirect tax which is levied upon some right or privilege.

And finally, keep in mind that “labor” and consequently the wages that result from labor are “property” as defined by the U.S. Supreme Court in Butchers’ Union Co. v. Crescent City Co., 111 U.S. 746 (1884)

“As in our intercourse with our fellow-men certain principles of morality are assumed to exist, without which society would be impossible, so certain inherent rights lie at the foundation of all action, and upon a recognition of them alone can free institutions be maintained. These inherent rights have never been more happily expressed than in the declaration of independence, that new evangel of liberty to the people: ‘We hold these truths to be self-evident’-that is, so plain that their truth is recognized upon their mere statement-‘that all men are [111 U.S. 746, 757] endowed’-not by edicts of emperors, or decrees of parliament, or acts of congress, but ‘by their Creator with certain inalienable rights.’-that is, rights which cannot be bartered away, or given away, or taken away, except in punishment of crime-‘and that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness; and to secure these’-not grant them, but secure them- ‘governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed.’ Among these inalienable rights, as proclaimed in that great document, is the right of men to pursue their happiness, by which is meant the right to pursue any lawful business or vocation, in any manner not inconsistent with the equal rights of others, which may increase their prosperity or develop their faculties, so as to give to them their highest enjoyment. The common business and callings of life, the ordinary trades and pursuits, which are innocuous in themselves, and have been followed in all communities from time immemorial, must therefore be free in this country to all alike upon the same conditions. The right to pursue them, without let or hinderance, except that which is applied to all persons of the same age, sex, and condition, is a distinguishing privilege of citizens of the United States, and an essential element of that freedom which they claim as their birthright. It has been well said that ‘the property which every man has in his own labor, as it is the original foundation of all other property, so it is the most sacred and inviolable. The patrimony of the poor man lies in the strength and dexterity of his own hands, and to hinder his employing this strength and dexterity in what manner he thinks proper, without injury to his neighbor, is a plain violation of this most sacred property. It is a manifest encroachment upon the just liberty both of the workman and of those who might be disposed to employ him. As it hinders the one from working at what he thinks proper, so it hinders the others from employing whom they think proper.’ Smith, Wealth Nat. bk. 1, c. 10.”

Based on the above, it is quite reasonable to conclude (and I DO conclude) that since “direct taxes” are taxes on property, and that tax especially the wages of sovereign human beings in the 50 states must, of necessity, be “direct taxes” as defined above. It is also reasonable to conclude that wages cannot be taxed on the basis that they are earned in the process of exercising the right to support oneself enumerated above by the Supreme Court, and courts say the following about the exercise of rights:

"Legislature...cannot name something to be a taxable privilege unless it is first a privilege." [Taxation West Key 43]... "The Right to receive income or earnings is a right belonging to every person and realization and receipt of income is therefore not a 'privilege', that can be taxed." [Taxation West Key 933]-Jack Cole Co. v. MacFarland, 337 S.W.2d. 453, Tenn.

"The individual, unlike the corporation, cannot be taxed for the mere privilege of existing. The corporation is an artificial entity which owes its existence and charter power to the State, but the individual's right to live and own property are natural rights for the enjoyment of which an excise cannot be imposed." [Redfield v. Fisher, 292 Oregon 814, 817]

3. Question (3): Definition of the word "includes"

The word "includes" is defined in the Internal Revenue Code as follows:

"26 U.S.C. Sec. 7701(c) INCLUDES AND INCLUDING. - The terms 'include' and 'including' when used in a definition contained in this title shall not be deemed to exclude other things otherwise within the meaning of the term defined."

Treasury Decision 3980, Vol. 29, January-December, 1927, pgs. 64 and 65 defines the words includes and including as:

"(1) To comprise, comprehend, or embrace...(2) To enclose within; contain; confine...But granting that the word 'including' is a term of enlargement, it is clear that it only performs that office by introducing the specific elements constituting the enlargement. It thus, and thus only, enlarges the otherwise more limited, preceding general language...The word 'including' is obviously used in the sense of its synonyms, comprising; comprehending; embracing."

"Includes is a word of limitation." Where a general term in Statute is followed by the word, 'including' the primary import of the specific words following the quoted words is to indicate restriction rather than enlargement. Powers ex re. Covon v. Charron R.I., 135 A.2nd. 829, 832 Definitions-Words and Phrases pages 156-156, Words and Phrases under 'limitations'."

Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, page 763 further defines the word "includes consistent with the above as follows:

"Include." (Lat. Includere, to shut in. keep within.) To confine within, hold as an inclosure. Take in, attain, shut up, contain, inclose, comprise, comprehend, embrace, involve. Term may, according to context, express an enlargement and have the meaning of and or in addition to, or merely specify a particular thing already included within general words theretofore used. "Including" within statute is interpreted as a word of enlargement or of illustrative application as well as a word of limitation. Premier Products Co. v. Cameron, 240 Or. 123, 400 P.2d. 227, 228."

[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, page 763 (1990):]

So we see from the above that "includes" and "including" are used to embrace or define or circumscribe the things being identified and to remove doubt about what is being described. When the word "includes" is used as a word of enlargement, it must list the general class of items which constitution the enlargement first. For instance:

4 U.S.C. §110 Same; definitions

(d) The term "State" includes any Territory or possession of the United States.

A better word to use when clarity is desired is "means", and where Congress intends to be precise, as in 26 U.S.C. §61, they will use the word "means" in place of "includes".

"Sec. 61. Gross income defined

(a) General definition - ... gross income means all income from whatever source derived, including (but not limited to) the following items:

- (1) Compensation for services...;
- (2) Gross income derived from business;
- (3) Gains derived from dealings in property;
- (4) Interest;
- (5) Rents;
- (6) Royalties;
- (7) Dividends;... [more items listed]" [26 U.S.C. §61]

But when Congress wants to violate due process and create confusion over definitions that the courts can use to illegally enforce a deliberately vague tax statute and expand their limited jurisdiction, they use the word "includes" instead of "means". For instance:

26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) United States

The term "United States" when used in a geographical sense includes only the States and the District of Columbia.

26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(10) State

The term "State" shall be construed to include the District of Columbia, where such construction is necessary to carry out provisions of this title.

The above is an especially and deliberately ambiguous definition, and it is the MOST important definition in all the Internal Revenue Code, because it defines the territorial jurisdiction of the U.S. government to impose income taxes! Since "State" was defined in both 4 U.S.C. §110(d) as 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(10), we must conclude that personal income taxes found in Subtitles A through C only apply on federal property. This is because by the rules of statutory construction, the plural of a word may not mean a different thing or class of things than the singular.

Regarding statutes levying taxes, the U.S. Supreme Court has agreed with the above conclusions by saying that :

“In the interpretation of statutes levying taxes, it is the established rule not to extend their provisions by implication beyond the clear import of the language used, or to enlarge their operations so as to embrace matters not specifically pointed out. In case of doubt they are construed most strongly against the government and in favor of the citizen.”
[Gould v. Gould, 245 U.S. 151, at 153]

A favorite trick used by the Treasury and the Internal Revenue Service is to abuse the meaning of the word “includes” as a way to violate due process and unlawfully enlarge their authority and jurisdiction when Americans point out that they have no liability for a particular tax or penalty. For instance, below is the Treasury regulation pointing out the “persons” (meaning federal corporations as per Eisner v. Macomber, 252 U.S. 189 (1920)) against whom penalties may be applied. We talk about this regulation later in question 3.1:

*[Code of Federal Regulations]

 TITLE 26--INTERNAL REVENUE

 Sec. 301.6671-1 Rules for application of assessable penalties.*

(b) Person defined. For purposes of subchapter B of chapter 68, the term “person” includes an officer or employee of a corporation, or a member or employee of a partnership, who as such officer, employee, or member is under a duty to perform the act in respect of which the violation occurs.

This regulation clearly states that only federal corporations, federal partnerships, and employees of same can be held liable for payment of assessable penalties, and not human beings. When you call the IRS to point this out, they will mistakenly conclude that “includes” is used as a “term of enlargement” in the above definition. The will say:

“26 U.S.C. §7701(c) defines the term “includes” as a word of enlargement. That means that it doesn’t define everything that is being talked about, and is only giving a few examples. It could mean anything and it certainly includes you as a human being.

Of course, we know that the above kinds of fraudulent statements are inconsistent with both the U.S. Congressional Research service (see the Congressional Research Service Report 97-59A at <http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/FalseRhetoric/CRS-97-59A-rebuts.pdf>) and the U.S. Supreme Court (Eisner v. Macomber, 252 U.S. 189 (1920), Doyle v. Mitchell Brothers Co., 247 U.S. 179, 185, 38 S.Ct. 467 (1918); Stratton’s Independence v. Howbert, 231 U.S. 399, 414, 58 L.Ed. 285, 34 Sup.Ct. 136 (1913), etc) because both of these organizations have determined that:

1. Income taxes are indirect excise taxes. You must be in receipt of excise taxable privileges from the federal government to be liable for the tax.
2. Only the Constitution can define “income” and not Congress, and it can only mean “corporate profit”.
3. Because income can only mean “federal corporation profit”, then the only “persons” who can be liable for income taxes are federal corporations.

Based on the above analysis, the evasive IRS comment above is therefore really just a devious, fraudulent, and abusive power grab and attempt to illegally expand federal jurisdiction to tax. IRS agents who use it, in effect, are saying:

1. The law doesn’t mean what you think it means. There is no way you can know or understand what the law really means, so give up trying.

2. We are a society of men and not law. Only I am qualified to know what the above definition means and you are wrong, nor am I required to offer you an explanation of why you are wrong, because you have no right to know. You have no legal training and you can’t trust your own judgment.

3. You will do what I say and quit asking questions or I will make your life miserable by illegally assessing penalties you don't owe until you shut up. I don't care about your First Amendment right of free speech. You will do what I say or be mercilessly abused by our organization.

Does the above totalitarian double-speak sound familiar? We have compiled a few questions to illustrate the absurdity, illogic, and abuse of due process resulting from using the word "includes" in the "enlarging way" the IRS mistakenly does.

Now let's examine the word "definition" found in Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, page 423:

definition: (Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, page 423) A description of a thing by its properties; an explanation of the meaning of a word or term. The process of stating the EXACT meaning of a word by means of other words. Such a description of the thing defined, including all essential elements and excluding all nonessential, as to distinguish it from all other things and classes.

PART A: The question is, how can any definition found in the Internal Revenue Code (I.R.C.) that uses the word "includes" define the "exact meaning" of the term if that word is to be used "expansively" or as a term of "enlargement"? Below is a list of a few of the more important definitions that use this word:

- 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) United States
- 26 U.S.C. §3401(c) Employee
- 4 U.S.C. §110(d) State

If you fail to respond or ignore the question, then your answer is "DEFINITIONS IN THE INTERNAL REVENUE CODE THAT USE THE TERM 'INCLUDES' CAN'T DEFINE ANYTHING PRECISELY."

RESPONSE TO QUESTION (5A): TITLE IN U.S.C. ____ Section ____ IR in C.F.R. _____

NARRATIVE RESPONSE: _____

Federal Register Volume _____ Date _____ Page # _____

The Sixth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution states:

In all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury of the State and district wherein the crime shall have been committed, which district shall have been previously ascertained by law, and to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation; to be confronted with the witnesses against him; to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor, and to have the Assistance of Counsel for his defense.

If the I.R.C. doesn't clearly define what the law requires because it uses the word "includes", then according to the U.S. Supreme Court, it must be declared "void for vagueness". This concept is part of the "void for vagueness doctrine" first advocated by the U.S. Supreme Court. This doctrine is deeply rooted in our right to due process (under the Fifth Amendment) and our right to know the nature and cause of any criminal accusation (under the Sixth Amendment). The latter right goes far beyond the contents of any criminal indictment. The right to know the nature and cause of any accusation starts with the statute which a defendant is accused of violating. A statute must be sufficiently specific and unambiguous in all its terms, in order to define and give adequate notice of the kind of conduct which it forbids.

The essential purpose of the "void for vagueness doctrine" with respect to interpretation of a criminal statute, is to warn individuals of the criminal consequences of their conduct. ... Criminal statutes which fail to give due notice that an act has been made criminal before it is done are unconstitutional deprivations of due process of law.
[U.S. v. De Caden, 105 F.Supp. 202, 204 (1952), emphasis added]

If it fails to indicate with reasonable certainty just what conduct the legislature prohibits, a statute is necessarily void for uncertainty, or "void for vagueness" as the doctrine is called. In the De Cadena case, the U.S. District Court listed a number of excellent authorities for the origin of this doctrine (see Lanzetta v. New Jersey, 306 U.S. 451) and for the development of the doctrine (see Screws v. United States, 325 U.S. 91, Williams v. United States, 341 U.S. 97, and Jordan v. De George, 341 U.S. 223). Any prosecution which is based upon a vague statute must fail, together with the statute itself. A vague criminal statute is unconstitutional for violating the 5th and 6th Amendments. The U.S. Supreme Court has emphatically agreed:

[1] That the terms of a penal statute creating a new offense must be sufficiently explicit to inform those who are subject to it what conduct on their part will render them liable to its penalties is a well-recognized requirement, consonant alike with ordinary notions of fair play and the settled rules of law; and a statute which either forbids or requires the doing of an act in terms so vague that men of common intelligence must necessarily guess at its meaning and differ as to its application violates the first essential of due process of law.
[Connally et al. v. General Construction Co., 269 U.S. 385, 391 (1926), emphasis added]

The debate that is currently raging over the correct scope and proper application of the IRC is obvious, empirical proof that men of common intelligence are differing with each other. Section 3.16.1 of The Great IRS Hoax book (available FREE from <http://famguardian.org/Publications/GreatIRSHoax/GreatIRSHoax.htm>) entitled "Uncertainty of the Federal Tax Laws" is proof of the extent of the conflicts in interpreting the tax laws by the federal appellate courts. For example, some people advocate definitions of "includes" and "including" which are expansive, not restrictive. The matter could be easily decided if the IRC would instead exhibit sound principles of statutory construction, state clearly and directly that "includes" and "including" are meant to be used in the expansive sense, and itemize those specific persons, places, and/or things that are "otherwise within the meaning of the terms defined". If the terms "includes" and "including" must be used in the restrictive sense, the IRC should explain, clearly and directly, that expressions like "includes only" and "including only" must be used, to eliminate vagueness completely. Instead, they currently define the term "includes" and "including" using the expansive sense and then contradict their own definition in IRC section 61 by adding the phrase "(but not limited to)".

All of this discussion leads to the conclusion that the Internal Revenue Code should have been declared "void for vagueness" a long time ago.

PART B: Based on the above background on the Void for Vagueness Doctrine of the Supreme Court, why shouldn't the entire Internal Revenue Code be declared "void for vagueness" because of its sheer size, complexity, and the obvious conflicts resulting from the fuzzy definitions created by the use of the word "includes". If you fail to respond or ignore the question, then your answer is "WE AGREE THAT THE I.R.C. SHOULD BE DECLARED VOID FOR VAGUENESS. IT IS NEXT TO IMPOSSIBLE TO ADMINISTER FAIRLY AND IMPARTIALLY, AND TO CLEARLY AND UNAMBIGUOUSLY KNOW WHAT IT EXPECTS OF THE AVERAGE AMERICAN."

PART E: Now let’s have some fun with this controversy. As we said earlier, the term “States” was defined as follows:

26 U.S.C. 7701(a)(10) State

The term “State” shall be construed to include the District of Columbia, where such construction is necessary to carry out provisions of this title.

But since this definition uses the word “includes”, which is an a term of enlargement as per 26 U.S.C. §7701(c) , , then if we follow this illogic, “State” could mean anything, including China! And if it doesn’t “include” China, how are we supposed to know and how can we be sure we aren’t breaking the law and living in constant fear of our government for breaking the law by not understanding what it means? Who decides what it means and how do they decide? After all, Black’s law dictionary defines “state” as follows:

State, n. A people permanently occupying a fixed territory bound together by common-law habits and custom into one body politic exercising, through the medium of an organized government, independent sovereignty and control over all persons and things within its boundaries.....The organization of social life which exercises sovereign power in behalf of the people. ...In its largest sense, a “state” is a body politic or a society of men.

From the above, China fits perfectly the definition of “state” in Black’s Law Dictionary, so why can’t we “include” it and how do we decide what to include and what not to include if the term “includes” doesn’t actually define or enclose or embrace the exact meaning of a definition? It therefore ought to be very clear that we have an arbitrary law on our hands from this question.

If you fail to respond or ignore the question, then your answer is “THERE IS NO PLACE IN THE LAW THAT DEFINES WHAT ‘STATE’ MEANS AND THERE IS NO WAY TO DEFINE WHAT IT MEANS IF IT USES THE WORD ‘INCLUDES’ IN THE DEFINITION. THEREFORE, THE ONLY CONCLUSION A REASONABLE MAN CAN MAKE IS THAT THE WORD INCLUDES MUST INTRODUCE ALL THE TYPES OF THINGS IT ENCOMPASSES AND BY IMPLICATION IT MUST THEREFORE EXCLUDE ALL OTHERS, OR THE DEFINITION WOULD BE MEANINGLESS AND WOULD VIOLATE THE ‘VOID FOR VAGUENESS’ DOCTRINE OF THE U.S. SUPREME COURT.”

4. Question (4): Definition of “foreign” With Respect to the Internal Revenue Code (26 U.S.C.)

This question is necessary because NOWHERE, in all 2,000 pages of the Internal Revenue Code which I have searched electronically and extensively is the term “foreign” or “foreign address” defined. Why? Because that is how the U.S. government maintains the deception that people are liable for income tax. This subject is really interesting and enlightening and clarifies so much about the applicability of the tax code once you understand it. First let’s start with the definition of “foreign” right from the Merriam Webster Dictionary of Law:

foreign: not being within the jurisdiction of a political unit (as a state)

esp

: being from or in a state other than the one in which a matter is being considered

Example: a foreign company doing business in South Carolina

Example: a foreign executor submitting to the jurisdiction of this court

Example: a foreign judgment

(compare domestic)¹⁴

You will note that the reference in the legal definition of “foreign” is to a political unit, and NOT a country. The U.S. Codes, title 26, is written by the government of the “United States” and applies only to the District of Columbia and territories and possessions of the United States over which the federal government is sovereign as per Article 1, Section 8, Clause 17 of the U.S. Constitution. This point was extensively documented earlier in question 2 and you were offered an opportunity to refute it.

With the above background out of the way, we are now left to consider the true legal meaning of the term “foreign”. Since the legal dictionary definition of “foreign” means “not being within the jurisdiction of a political unit” and the political unit in question is the seat of federal government found geographically only in the District of Columbia and the federal possessions and territories and called the “United States”, then according to the Internal Revenue Code, all income that originates from outside the District of Columbia (or the federal zone) is FOREIGN INCOME and all the people outside this area who receive that income are living at a “foreign address”. The IRS’ own publications confirm this. In Publication 54, on page 12 of the year 2000 version says:

A “foreign country” usually is any territory (including the air space and territorial waters) under the sovereignty of a government other than that of the United States.

[...]

The term “foreign country” does not include Puerto Rico, Guam, the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands, the Virgin Islands, or U.S. possessions such as American Samoa. For purposes of the foreign earned income exclusion, the foreign housing exclusion, and the foreign housing deduction, the terms “foreign,” “abroad,” and “overseas” refer to areas outside the United States, American Samoa, Guam, the Commonwealth of Northern Mariana Islands, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, and the Antarctic region.

QUESTION FOR DOUBTERS: Do you see any of the 50 states EXCLUDED from the above definition of “foreign country” or not fitting the definition when interpreted literally?

All entities mentioned above as being excluded from being foreign countries are “States” as far as the Internal Revenue Code is concerned and are areas over which the United States government has exclusive jurisdiction and sovereignty. Do you see the 50 states of the United States excluded from the above definition of “foreign country”? No! For the purposes of the Internal Revenue Code, the 50 sovereign states are “foreign countries” with respect to the U.S. Government! This conclusion is also consistent with California’s definition of “foreign country” found in section 17019 of the California Revenue and Taxation Code:

17019. “Foreign country” means any jurisdiction other than one embraced within the United States.

[see http://leginfo.legislature.ca.gov/faces/codes_displaySection.xhtml?sectionNum=17019.&lawCode=RTC]

Note that California’s definition of “United States is the same as the federal government’s. Yes, the federal government does have limited subject matter jurisdiction within the several states, but they do not have territorial jurisdiction and are ¹⁴ Merriam-Webster’s Dictionary of Law ©1996.

NOT sovereign over areas within the several states that are not federal territories or enclaves. For instance, everything the federal government does with air space and territorial waters surrounding or above the states is controlled by elected representatives from our state who represent us and who will not be reelected if they don't represent us adequately. Therefore, the U.S. Government can't be sovereign even over the areas they have exclusive jurisdiction if they can't independently control who exercises control of those waters. Once again, according to the Declaration of Independence, the U.S. Government derives its "just powers from the consent of the governed", so the people, and not the government, are the sovereigns, and they exercise their sovereignty by voting and serving on jury duty, which in turn indirectly controls everything that the U.S. government does on their behalf. Ultimately, no government like ours can be wholly sovereign over anything because the people are the real sovereigns. The supreme Court agreed with this view in Yick Wo v. Hopkins, 118 U.S. 356, 370 (1885):

*"While sovereign powers are delegated to the agencies of government, Sovereignty itself remains with the people, by whom and for whom all government exists and acts."
[Yick Wo v. Hopkins, 118 U.S. 356, 370]*

See also Chisholm v. Georgia, 2 U.S. 419; Penhallow v. Doane's Administrators, 3 U.S. 93; McCulloch v. Maryland, 18 U.S. 316, 404, 405.

Interestingly, the 50 states of the United States of America qualify entirely and completely as foreign countries under the IRS' own instructions. That is why we can be "non-citizen nationals" and legitimately file as non-resident non-persons and still live in the 50 states, and many hundreds of thousands of people who do not wish to be federal citizens have done so legally. Below are a few definitions from Black's Law Dictionary, which confirms these conclusions:

Foreign Laws: "The laws of a foreign country or sister state."
[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 647]*

Foreign States: "Nations outside of the United States...Term may also refer to another state; i.e. a sister state. The term 'foreign nations', ...should be construed to mean all nations and states other than that in which the action is brought; and hence, one state of the Union is foreign to another, in that sense."
[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 648]*

Another way of looking at this is that the "United States" is a small geographic area within the geographic "United States of America" that is a "subcontractor" to the 50 states of the union, and all the states are legally "foreign" to the territorial jurisdiction of the federal government as far as the income tax laws are concerned. The "contract" that binds the States to the federal government is the "U.S. Constitution", the U.S. Codes, and the Uniform Commercial Code (UCC). That's why Congress puts source rules for taxable income under section 861 within the following hierarchy in the tax code:

United States Code

TITLE 26 - INTERNAL REVENUE CODE

Subtitle A - Income Taxes

CHAPTER 1 - NORMAL TAXES AND SURTAXES

Subchapter N - Tax Based on Income From Sources Within or Without the United States

PART I - SOURCE RULES AND OTHER GENERAL RULES RELATING TO FOREIGN INCOME

§ 861. Income from sources within the United States.

Interestingly, Title 26 doesn't even define the meaning of the phrase "foreign income" but does define "foreign corporation" and "domestic corporation". Even more interesting is the fact that the title of Part I under versions of the code prior to 1988 was "Determination of sources of income". After that, Congress added the word "foreign" to hide the truth better. We are then left to believe with the new title of this section and earlier discussion that "foreign income" is anything that either comes from a foreign corporation or from an individual or person residing anywhere outside of the "federal zone", which is the District of Columbia and federal possessions. We must conclude this because of the definition of the term "United States" in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and the fact that the federal zone is the only area over which the federal government has exclusive jurisdiction and is sovereign. However, most people incorrectly fall back on the common definition of the term "foreign" found in the layman's (nonlegal) dictionary, which only confuses the average person and deceives them into reaching the wrong conclusion. The layman's definition of "foreign" is:

Foreign: 1: situated outside a place or country; esp: situated outside one's own country. 2: born in, belonging to, or characteristic of some place or country other than the one under consideration.¹⁵

¹⁵ Webster's Ninth New Collegiate Dictionary, 1983, Merriam-Webster, p. 483.

Did you notice the BIG difference between the legal definition of “foreign” and the everyday, more common definition of “foreign”? Of the two definitions of “foreign”, the correct definition is the legal definition and not the layman’s definition. If you have learned anything by now, it should be that you should always use the legal definition and ignore layman’s dictionaries when reading the law or you will deceive yourself about the jurisdiction of the law. Can you see how the IRS and Congress might want you to use or believe the layman’s version of the word instead of the legal version of it? It would certainly benefit them from a tax collection standpoint! If you think like most people mistakenly do that “foreign” is relative to your country instead of relative to the “United States” (District of Columbia), then you will think that Part I of the Internal Revenue Code doesn’t apply to you as a Citizen of the 50 United States with income from the 50 states! You will therefore instead have to refer to section 61 of the IRC which talks about “gross income” as being any type of income and with no definition of the word “source” to go from. And since Congress removed the pointer in section 61 of the IRC back to section 861 in about 1982, you won’t even think to look in section 861 to determine taxable sources of income!

There’s a reason why the wording of the Internal Revenue Code hasn’t changed significantly since the code was enacted in 1921, because the law is very carefully and deceitfully crafted to cover-up and obfuscate the truth about income tax liability. In the following sections and especially in our discussion of “taxable sources” or “sources”, keep this definition of “foreign” in the back of your mind so the meaning and significance of IRC Section 861 is clear! The below court ruling helps clarify the meaning of the terms “foreign” and “domestic” and also explains why the Internal Revenue Code had to explicitly define the meaning of the term “foreign corporation” but not define the meaning of the word “foreign” (because that would spill the beans and shut down the whole federal income tax system for the hoax that it is!):

[N.Y. re Merriam, 36 N.E. 505, 141 N.Y. 479, affirmed 16 S.Ct. 1973, 41 L.Ed. 287]*

Once again, we’d emphasize that the “void for vagueness” really applies here, and that the Internal Revenue Code ought to be nullified by the courts because of vagueness, on something as simple as the definition of “foreign income” or “foreign address”. That term needs to be much better defined to prevent unnecessary litigation or misinterpretation, because absent a proper legal definition, the only thing we have to relate to that is defined is “foreign corporation”. We are then lead to believe based on the above definitions that ALL income of U.S. citizens that originates from outside the District of Columbia and other parts of the “federal zone” (foreign to the political unit of the “United States” federal government) is “foreign income”. And our interpretation must stick, because according to the U.S. Supreme Court:

*“Keeping in mind the well-settled rule that the citizen is exempt from taxation unless the same is imposed by clear and unequivocal language, and that where the construction of a tax law is doubtful, the doubt is to be resolved in favor of those upon whom the tax is sought to be laid.”
[Spreckels Sugar Refining Co. v. McClain, 192 U.S. 397 (1904)]*

PART A: Is the territorial jurisdiction of the 50 sovereign states of the United States of America “foreign” as defined above with respect to each other and with respect to the territorial jurisdiction of the federal United States (the government)/federal zone under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 17 of the Constitution of the United States of America (YES or NO)? 6 7 5. Conclusions

8 With all of the above legal conclusions clearly documented, I think it becomes very clear that as long as I do all the 9 following, I have every legal basis to proceed with requesting to be treated as a “non-resident non-person” who does not 10 need a social security number registered on my account:

- 11 (1) File with you an IRS form W-8BEN “Certificate of Foreign Status” and thereby proclaim myself a “non-resident 12 non-person”
- 13 (2) Rescind my social security number and quit contributing or collecting from the system.
- 14 (3) Live in the 50 states and not in any federal territory within any state. This would put me outside of the “United 15 States” as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701 (the Internal Revenue Code).

16 Then...I have every legal right to be treated as a non-resident non-person and to have you honor my wishes regarding
 17 opening a new account without a social security number using a permanent address on nonfederal land in one of the 50
 18 states, which is exactly what I am doing.

19 I’d like to remind you that if you believe you cannot honor my request, then I would respectfully request the following as 20 legal justification from you:

- 21 • Citations from 26 U.S.C. that explain and define your definition of “foreign address” and which completely 22 contradict the conclusions of law in this correspondence.
- 23 • Citations from 26 C.F.R. that explain and define your definition of “foreign address” and which completely 24 contradict the conclusions of law in this correspondence.
- 25 • Citations from u.S. Supreme Court rulings and Federal Appellate rulings that justify your position.
- 26 • A definition of “foreign address” from your own internal bank regulations.

27
 28 Lastly, I hope that the ill-informed interpretation of the term “foreign address” by Mr. _____ (branch
 29 manager name) at the Poway Branch can be quickly rectified by prompt action on your part. I’d like to remind you that 30 legal action is probable if you continue on the path of discrimination that I have witnessed from your organization to date
 31 and do not change your ways. The basis in law for such action is found below:

32 18 U.S.C. §242 provides that whoever, under color of any law, statute, ordinance, regulation, or custom,
 33 willfully subjects any person in any State, Territory, Commonwealth, Possession, or District to the deprivation
 34 of any rights, privileges, or immunities secured or protected by the Constitution or laws of the United States ...
 35 shall be fined under this title or imprisoned not more than one year, or both.

36 42 U.S.C. §1983 provides that every person who, under color of any statute, ordinance, regulation, custom, or 37 usage, of any State or Territory or the District of Columbia, subjects, or causes to be subjected, any citizen of 38 the United States or other person within the jurisdiction thereof to the deprivation of any rights, privileges, or 39 immunities secured by the Constitution and laws, shall be liable to the party injured in an action at law, suit in 40 equity, or other proper proceeding for redress.

41 Warning, you may be in violation of Federal Law and persisting with your demand may lead to your arrest
 42 and/or civil damages! Also understand that the law provides that you can be held personally responsible and 43 liable, as well as your company or agency.

You will note that nowhere on the attached enclosure (1), IRS Form W-8, does it say that the mailing address must be in a country other than the United States of America (which is what the 50 states are part of), and even if it did, the definition of “foreign” that we now know applies certainly includes my address within California (but not the State of California!).

I swear and affirm under penalty of perjury that the facts and assertions made by me in this correspondence are true, correct, and complete to the best of my knowledge and ability, and that I am a non-resident non-person for the purposes of the income tax who has no obligation to pay U.S. income taxes, file federal returns, or otherwise report any earnings to the Internal Revenue Service, who has absolutely no jurisdiction over me as a Sovereign, Natural Born Citizen of the 50 states of the united States of America.

5.7.2 Service Contract With Financial Institution to Assure Security of Account from Unlawful Seizure, Lien, or Levy

It's no secret that most financial institutions and the less educated people working at them simply don't know what the federal laws say about the authority of the Internal Revenue Service to lien and levy and seize property. When the institutions receive a "Notice of levy" from the IRS, it is very common that financial institutions won't question the authority of the IRS to levy assets under law. Instead, they will blindly surrender over to the government whatever proceeds are asked for, often without the consent or approval of the account holder.

With the above in mind, it's very important that you choose financial institutions to park your assets in that are very familiar with the legal authority of the IRS and state taxation authorities to lien, levy, and seize property in satisfaction of a tax debt. Even if the bank or financial institution isn't familiar with the law, you can often win them over by taking the time to educate both them and their legal counsel on the authority of the IRS to seize, lien, and levy property.

Following the education process of the financial institution, it is necessary to put your foot down by telling them that you with certainty withdraw your money, close your account, and abandon them if they will not sign the below form stating that they understand the law on liens, levies and seizures with respect to the IRS and will comply with that law, starting with only allowing liens, levies, and seizures of property belonging to "public officers of the federal government" and in connection with the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, and Firearms. Refer to Section 3.2.3.4 of the Tax Fraud Prevention Manual entitled "Educate and Screen Your Financial Institutions and County Recorder".

SERVICE CONTRACT BETWEEN CLIENT AND FINANCIAL INSTITUTION

1. This agreement between _____ (your name), hereinafter referred to as “Client” and _____ (financial institution name), hereinafter referred to as “Institution”, is undertaken voluntarily to guarantee the following mutually agreeable results for the parties.
2. Benefit to Institution: Receipt of benefits associated with financial account of Client.
3. Consideration to Client:
 - 3.1. Guarantee of a defined level of customer service by Institution.
 - 3.2. Safety of assets in financial account from lien, levy, or seizure by federal or state income tax authorities.
 - 3.3. Maintenance of personal privacy of account holder.
4. Obligations of Financial Institution:

I, _____ (name) acting as an agent and principle for Institution do hereby voluntarily state the following:

- 4.1. That I recognize the existence of a fiduciary relationship with Client to protect and not give away or allow to be “illegally stolen” assets in the Account of Client to third parties without all of the following happening beforehand:
 - 4.1.1. Advanced notification of Client at least 72 hours beforehand.
 - 4.1.2. Receipt of a lien, levy, or seizure notice signed by a magistrate or judge of either the California Superior Court or a U.S. District Court
 - 4.1.3. That I will NOT accept or honor a “Notice of Levy” issued and signed by ONLY an agent of the IRS or California Franchise Tax Board Agent.
- 4.2. That I or agents of my Institution read and understand the laws pertaining to lien, levy, and seizure and will honor those laws to the best of my ability, including 26 U.S.C. §6331.
- 4.3. That 26 U.S.C. §6331 defines and constrains the authority of the Secretary of the Treasury to lien, levy, and seize property in satisfaction of a tax lien related ONLY to activities of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, and Firearms under Title 27, Chapter I, Subchapter F, Part 70 of the U.S. Code as shown in the parallel table of authorities published by the U.S. Government Printing Office and found at:

http://www.access.gpo.gov/nara/cfr/parallel/parallel_table.html

I further understand and agree that this section DOES NOT authorize liens, levies, or seizures against financial accounts or property instituted by the IRS against accounts owned by Client at this institution based on his current employment.

- 4.4. That 26 U.S.C. §6331 allows levy, lien, and seizure to be instituted ONLY against “employees” or “public officers” of the United States government as defined below:

26 U.S.C. §3401(c)

Employee

For purposes of this chapter, the term “employee” includes [is limited to] an officer, employee, or elected official of the United States, a State, or any political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing. The term “employee” also includes an officer of a corporation.

6 U.S.C. Section 2105. DEFINITIONS

(a) For the purpose of this title, “employee”, except as otherwise provided by this section or when specifically modified, means an officer and an individual who is -

- (1) appointed in the civil service by one of the following acting in an official capacity -
 (A) the President;
 (B) a Member or Members of Congress, or the Congress;
 (C) a member of a uniformed service;
 (D) an individual who is an employee under this section;
 (E) the head of a Government controlled corporation; or
 (F) an adjutant general designated by the Secretary concerned under section 709(c) of title 32;
 (2) engaged in the performance of a Federal function under authority of law or an Executive act; and
 (3) subject to the supervision of an individual named by paragraph (1) of this subsection while engaged in the performance of the duties of his position.

[....skipped a few entries since irrelevant...]

(d) A Reserve of the armed forces who is not on active duty or who is on active duty for training is deemed not an employee or an individual holding an office of trust or profit or discharging an official function under or in connection with the United States because of his appointment, oath, or status, or any duties or functions performed or pay or allowances received in that capacity.

- 4.5. That Client is a private Citizen of the 50 states who is does not meet the above definition of persons authorized by law against whom the IRS may subject to distraint for payment of an income tax liability.
- 4.6. That I will ask any agent of the IRS or the Franchise Tax Board for a copy of his/her delegation of authority orders and NOT honor the lien, levy, or seizure without both receiving these orders and providing a copy of same to Client as part of the notification of receipt of lien, levy, or seizure papers.
- 4.7. Institution agrees to be held liable for reimbursing Client within 15 days after any I have given any monies or assets in his/her accounts to the IRS or any state income tax authorities in satisfaction of a "Notice of Levy" or lien that was provided without compliance to any part of this agreement.
- 4.8. Institution recognizes that it is not within the power of the government to impose a mandatory tax on the exercise of an occupation of common right, or natural right, or on the receipt and/or realization of the earnings received from the exercise of such a right. The Income Tax is an excise tax. To be legally required to pay an excise tax, an individual must be involved in the exercise of a taxable privilege. Client is exercising no privileges upon which an excise tax could be imposed by law within the context of his occupation.

Privilege: "A particular benefit or advantage enjoyed by a person, company, or class beyond the common advantages of their citizens..." (Black's Law Dictionary-6th Edition) "...An advantage possessed by an individual or a class of persons, which is not possessed by others which exists by operation of law or by virtue of a license, franchise, grant or other permission..." (Ballentine's Law Dictionary).

"That the right to...accept employment as a laborer for hire is a fundamental right, is inherent in every free citizen, and is indisputable..."
 [United States v. Morris, 125 F.Rept. 325, 331]

"The conclusion reached in the Pollock case...recognized the fact that taxation on income was, in its nature, an excise..."
 [Brushaber v. Union Pacific Railroad Co., 240 U.S. 1, 15-17]

EXCISES: "Excises are taxes laid upon...licenses to pursue certain [regulated] occupations and upon corporate privileges; the requirement to pay such taxes involves the exercise of privilege...Conceding the power of Congress to tax the business activities of private corporations.. the tax must be measured by some standard...It is, therefore, well settled by the decisions of this court that when the sovereign authority has exercised the right to tax a legitimate subject of taxation as an exercise of a franchise or privilege, it is no objection that the measure of taxation is income..."
 [Flint v. Stone Tracy Co., 220 U.S. 107, at pg 154, 165]

"The obligation to pay an excise is based upon the voluntary action of the person taxed in performing the act, enjoying the privilege, or engaging in the occupation which is the subject of the excise, and the element of absolute and unavoidable demand is lacking."
 [People ex rel. Atty Gen. v. Naglee, 1 Cal. 232, Bank of Commerce & T. Co. v. Senter, 149 Tenn. 569, 260 S.W. 144]

"The individual, unlike the corporation, cannot be taxed for the mere privilege of existing. The corporation is an artificial entity which owes its existence and charter power to the State, but the individual's right to live and own property are natural rights for the enjoyment of which an excise cannot be imposed."

[Redfield v. Fisher, 292 Oregon 814, 817]"Legislature...cannot name something to be a taxable privilege unless it is first a privilege." [Taxation West Key 43]..."The Right to receive income or earnings is a right

"Excise tax is one not directly imposed upon persons or property."

4.9. That the income tax most Americans pay is based on the following

26 U.S.C. §871(b)(2)-GRADUATED RATE OF TAX

"...(2) DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME. -In determining taxable income...gross income includes ONLY gross income which is effectively connected with the conduct of a 'trade or business,' within the United States."

26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) TRADE OR BUSINESS.—"Includes [only] the performance of functions of a public office."

Following is the definition of Public Office, pursuant to Black's Law Dictionary, Abridged 6th Edition, means:

"Essential characteristics of a 'public office' are: (1) authority conferred by law, (2) fixed tenure of office, and (3) power to exercise some of the sovereign functions of government; key element of such test is that 'officer is carrying out sovereign function'. Essential elements to establish public position as 'public office' are: Position must be created by Constitution, legislature, or through authority conferred by legislation, portion of sovereign power of government must be delegated to position, duties and powers must be defined, directly or implied, by legislature or through legislative authority, duties must be performed independently without control of superior power other than law, and position must have some permanency."

4.10. Therefore, to be involved in a "trade or business" and thereby be liable for the graduated income tax as defined for the purposes of the Internal Revenue Code, an American must hold a public office, and Client has assured me that he does NOT do so.

5. Obligations and Affidavit of Client:

I, _____(name), Client, do hereby voluntarily state the following absent any duress, and that these facts are provided under penalty of perjury:

- 5.1. That I am classified as a non-resident non-person for the purposes of the tax code.
- 5.2. Nonresident aliens are NOT required, as per 26 C.F.R. § 301.6109-1(g), to have or to provide an identifying number such as a Taxpayer ID Number (T.I.N.) or Social Security Number (S.S.N.).
- 5.3. That my current occupation is: _____
- 5.4. That my current employer is NOT the United States Government, or if it is, that I do not meet the definition of "employee" found in this agreement and am not a "public officer" of the United States or California government in receipt of privileges that might make me liable for the payment of any kind of income taxes.
- 5.5. That I am practicing an occupation of common right not subject to income taxation under Subtitle A or withholding under Subtitle C of the Internal Revenue Code (26 U.S.C.) as follows:

Sims v. Ahrens, 271 S.W. 720 (1925)

"An income tax is neither a property tax nor a tax on occupations of common right, but is an EXCISE tax...The legislature may declare as 'privileged' and tax as such for state revenue, those pursuits not matters of common right, but it has no power to declare as a 'privilege' and tax for revenue purposes, occupations that are of common right."

What does "occupations that are of common right" mean? They include any profession you can choose to do or undertake in private industry or for the government in any field or trade and which do not depend on the authority or privileges granted you as part of a political office or by operation of law giving you the authority of that office. Occupations that are not of common right are things you can only do as an officer or politician working for a government agency by virtue of the rights and privileges and delegated authority granted to you as a consequence of your election or appointment to that political office. That is why the definition of "employee" in 5 U.S.C. §2105 quoted above is so very restrictive: because it has to define "occupations that are not of common right and which depend on the privileges associated with government service alone".

- 5.6. Client wishes to notify Institution that if they have any questions or concerns about the content of this document, they may visit the website at <http://famguardian.org> and download a free book entitled "The Great IRS Hoax: Why We Don't Owe Income Tax", which clearly and more completely explains every fact or legal assertion made in this service contract.

5.7.3 Constructive Notice for Denial of Account Without SSN

The letter below is intended to be provided to financial institutions who discriminate against those seeking an account that doesn't have an SSN. With this letter, our readers have been able to open non-interest bearing checking accounts without providing SSN's to the bank. It is used in Tandem with the form entitled "Notice to Account Holders Regarding Possession and Use of Social Security Numbers".

CONSTRUCTIVE NOTICE

To: (Person being served)

Date

Of: (Name and address of institution)

This instrument serves notice to the person and/or business, agency, corporation or other entity that the below named Citizen does not have and/or refuses to disclose a social security number. This Right is protected under the First, Fourth, Fifth, Ninth, and Tenth amendments to United States Constitution and provisions of the Privacy Act. The Privacy Act makes it unlawful to require an individual to disclose or furnish a social security number for any purpose, unless the disclosure or furnishing of the number is specifically required by law.

You are being made aware by this Constructive Notice that it is a violation of Federal Law to refuse to:

- (a) Open a non-interest-bearing bank account if the party wanting to open the account does not provide a social security account number or a taxpayer identification number; or
- (b) To provide your services to a client or potential client because the client or potential client does not provide a social security account number or a taxpayer identification number.

You personally, and the Institution you represent, may be liable for damages and attorney's fees.

In accordance with Section 1 of Pub. L. 93-579, also known as the "Privacy Act of 1974," and Title 5 of United States Code Annotated 552 (a), also known as the "Privacy Act," you are being informed of the following:

"The right to privacy is a personal and fundamental right protected by the Constitution of the United States. You may maintain in your records only such information about an individual as is relevant and necessary to accomplish a purpose required by statute or by executive order of the President of the United States."

Section 7 of the Privacy Act of 1974 specifically provides that it shall be unlawful for any Federal State or local government agency to deny to any individual any right, benefit, or privilege provided by law because of such individual's refusal to disclose his social security account number.

"Right of privacy is a personal right designed to protect persons from unwanted disclosure of personal information..."
[CNA Financial Corp. v. Local 743 515 F.Supp. 942]

"In enacting Section 7 (Privacy Act of 1974), Congress sought to curtail the expanding use of social security numbers by federal and local agencies and, by so doing, to eliminate the threat to individual privacy and confidentiality of information posed by common numerical identifiers."
[Doyle v. Wilson, 529 F.Supp. 1343]

"It shall be unlawful for any Federal, State or local government agency to deny to any individual any right, benefit, or privilege provided by law because of such individual's refusal to disclose his social security number."
[Doyle v. Wilson, 529 F.Supp. 1343]

An

"agency is a relation created by express or implied contract or by law, whereby one party delegates the transaction of some lawful business with a more or less discretionary power to another."
[State Ex Real. Cities Service Gas v. Public Service Commission, 85 S W. 2d 890.]

If the Institution you represent is a Bank, you are advised that if such Bank routinely collects information and provides such information to Federal, State or local government agencies, then such bank is an agency of government. The 1976 amendment to the Social Security Act, codified at 42 U.S.C.A., Sec 301 et seq., 405(c)(2) (i,iii), states that there are only four instances where social security account numbers may be demanded. These are:

1. For tax matters;
2. To receive public assistance;
3. To obtain and use a driver's license;
4. To register a motor vehicle.

You are advised that a non-interest-bearing account does not pertain to any of the above. Because the account pays no interest, there is no "need-to-know" on the part of government.

The federal courts have ruled that private sector solicitors may not obtain social security numbers until they comport their solicitations to comply with disclosure requirements of the Privacy Act, including informing customers of the voluntary nature of such disclosure, the source of authority for requesting such disclosure, and possible uses to which disclosed numbers might be put. Yeager v. Hackensack Water Co., 615 F.Supp. 1087 (1985).

Any person who is found violating the rights of a Citizen may be subject to the damages sustained by the individual and the costs of the action together with attorney fees. See Doyle v. Wilson, 529 F.Supp. 1343 (1982). Violation of 18 U.S.C. §§241, 242; 42 U.S.C. §§1983, 1985 1986 shall subject you personally and may also subject you to fines of up to $10,000.00, and imprisonment for up to ten years, or both.

Federal regulations provide you an alternative, 26 C.F.R. §§31.6011, 301.6109 and 31 C.F.R. §§103.28, 103.34, 103.35, employers, banks and payers are required to ask for the social security number, but they shall not be in violation of this requirement if they have made a reasonable effort to secure such identification and are unable to secure the information.

Your policy must comply with the law and cannot violate the law or the Rights of Citizens.

Compliance with the Law and this Citizen's intent, as expressly evidenced and implied by this document, is demanded.

In accordance with the Privacy Act of 1974, whenever an agency fails to comply with the law, the party wronged may bring a civil action in the district court of the United States against such agency. Should the court determine that the agency acted in a manner which was intentional or willful, the agency shall be liable to the wronged party in an amount equal to the sum of:

1. Actual damages sustained, but in no case less than $1,000; and
2. The costs of the action together with reasonable attorney's fees.

You are also put on notice that it is a criminal act for anyone to coerce a person to provide their social security number absent legal authority to do so, as found in 42 U.S.C. §408(a)8:

TITLE 42 - THE PUBLIC HEALTH AND WELFARE
CHAPTER 7 - SOCIAL SECURITY
SUBCHAPTER II - FEDERAL OLD-AGE, SURVIVORS, AND DISABILITY INSURANCE BENEFITS
Sec. 408. Penalties

(a) In general
Whoever -...

(8) discloses, uses, or compels the disclosure of the social security number of any person in violation of the laws of the United States; shall be guilty of a felony and upon conviction thereof shall be fined under title 18 or imprisoned for not more than five years, or both.

5.8.1 Letter To Employees Notifying of End of Income Tax Withholding

The letter below is intended to be used by employers who have stopped withholding income taxes from the pay of their employees and who wish to notify them of this fact without creating undue anxiety or fear of IRS reprisal and to convince the employees that the act is being undertaken in full observance of all applicable tax laws.

To _____ Workers:

Date: _____

As all of you know, _____ does not withhold any payroll "taxes", because it is not required by law to do so. To review what has been done here, I am providing this letter as an additional information source for you. I'll try to make this as simple as I can, and you may study this further if you wish. Please see me after work hours if you have any questions.

What is the background of _____'s position regarding the income tax compared to what everybody else does? Among other contradictory information, I have been bothered when I heard that nobody was required to file a federal income tax return, but if you did not do so, then the government would throw you in jail. This made no sense, because logic tells you that if your income is taxed by the law, then you are required to pay taxes on that income. Then I found out that the government has never been able to produce the statutes and regulations that proved that domestic incomes were taxed in any criminal trial. If domestic incomes were really taxed, then they would have been able to produce this part of the law at the drop of a hat. What was going on?

After using the Internet to study the US Code and regulations (the law), I discovered that only those people who have gross income and/or taxable income as defined by Title 26 of the US Code are required to have their pay withheld. _____ is a domestic company and the workers for _____ do not incur any income tax liability from the remuneration (compensation) earned from _____.

The law says "all persons liable....." None of the funds paid to _____ workers is considered to be gross income within the meaning of the income tax law under Title 26, Section 61. Without taxable gross income, there can be no taxable income (Title 26 Sec. 63). Without taxable income, there is no income tax liability. Without any income tax liability, there is no legal reason for _____ to withhold your money and no reason for you to fill out a W-4 form.

Why do so few people know this? In the past, then major problem has been that all tax professionals as well as the public have simply assumed that the law taxed all incomes without checking the law itself to see if this was really true or not. But when you go to the actual law and track taxable income (which is what the income tax is imposed on), you discover that contrary to public opinion, the federal government cannot and does not tax whatever it wants. If they did, they wouldn't need for you to fill out a W-4 (Withholding Allowance Certificate, in which YOU allow THEM to take your money) volunteering to deduct taxes from your income—they would do mandate that we do it without any consent or permission from you whatsoever. It is severely restricted when it comes to taxing incomes having to do with intrastate commerce (which is the type of commerce that _____ is engaged in).

There is a near universal misconception that the income tax is a direct tax on incomes without apportionment. This has caused universal misunderstanding that the income tax is unconstitutional, because the Constitution prohibits a direct tax on incomes without apportionment (which means that such a tax must be collected evenly among the states, not in a graduated fashion. as it is currently collected). But the truth is that the income tax is not a direct tax on incomes as the name suggests.

The Supreme Court and the Treasury Department have agreed the income tax is not a direct tax on incomes, but an indirect (excise) tax on certain taxable activities (sources). The following is from the Congressional Record, written by a Treasury Department legislative draftsman (the ones who WRITE the regulations):

"The income tax is, therefore, not a tax on income as such. It is an excise tax with respect to certain activities and privileges which is measured by reference to the income which they produce. The income is not the subject of the tax: it is the basis for determining the amount of the tax."

The income tax being an excise tax means that the income is not what is being taxed; the income is simply the measure of the taxable activity (source) that occurred (from which the income is derived). Once you understand this, you realize that determining the SOURCE of the income is critical in order to arrive at taxable gross income.

If your gross income does not derive from a taxable source (and _____ activities do not represent a taxable source) then you owe no income taxes to the government. For many years, the government managed to hide the critical regulations that told this truth until the advent of the Internet and computer search engines. These regulations are very specific (26 C.F.R. §1.861-8). The domestic incomes from domestic sources for US Citizens and resident aliens in the Republic of <<STATE NAME>> are NOT TAXABLE by the federal government.

To those who ask just why the income tax laws exist, the answer is that the income tax laws apply to some incomes (those having to do with foreign and international commerce), but these are far fewer in number than the incomes from intrastate commerce. The law has been written in a deceptive way to imply that most incomes were taxed, while maintaining the literal truth (the hidden regulations in the Code of Federal Regulations), which is that incomes that are generated from intrastate commerce are not taxed.

The IRS has also been telling people incorrectly for years that the 16th Amendment permitted the direct taxation of incomes without apportionment, but in fact the 16th Amendment told the courts that the income tax was an indirect tax.

The Sixteenth Amendment. The provisions of the sixteenth amendment conferred no new power of taxation, but simply prohibited [Congress original power to tax incomes] from being taken out of the category of indirect taxation, to which it inherently belonged, and being placed in the category of direct taxation subject to apportionment. [Treasury Decision 2303]

Therefore, using only the exact wording of the law, and only the legal definitions of critical words such as taxable income, gross income, and sources, the following is true regarding which incomes are taxed or not:

The income tax is imposed on "taxable income."

26 U.S.C. 861(b) and 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8 are the sections to be used to determine "taxable income" from sources within the United States.

More specifically, the current statutes and regulations show the correct, limited application of the income tax imposed by 26 U.S.C. §1, which is in conflict with what the public generally believes regarding the matter.

26 U.S.C. §1 imposes the income tax on taxable income.

26 U.S.C. §63 defines taxable income generally as gross income minus deductions.

26 U.S.C. §61 defines gross income generally as income from whatever source derived.

26 U.S.C. §§ 861 - 865 and related regulations determine the taxable sources of income.

26 C.F.R. §1.861-8 shows that the taxable sources of income apply only to those engaged in international or foreign commerce (including commerce within federal possessions).

It is then quite straightforward to prove that the incomes of _____ workers who are US citizens living and working in the state of <<STATE NAME>> is exempt from federal taxation, because it does not derive from a taxable source (activity). That is:

The income _____ workers receive derives from activities which do not constitute sources of income for purposes of the income tax (26 C.F.R. §1.861-1), and;

_____ workers engage in no activities which generate taxable income, according to the section for determining taxable income from sources within the United State (26 C.F.R. §1.861-8), and;

3) The income _____ workers receive is excluded from the list of non-exempt income (26 C.F.R. §1.861-8T(d)(2)) (due to being exempted by Article I, Section 8 and the Tenth Amendment to the Constitution);

The income tax law can tax the gross income of federal government employees and other political subdivisions (federal possessions), as well as incomes from a "foreign source. That is, if one made their money from a foreign corporation, their wages and salary would indeed be taxable. This is because these are areas where the activities are taxable, because Congress has jurisdiction over these areas. But nowhere is it mentioned that the gross income earned domestically by US citizens is taxed.

That is, the only incomes that are taxed were areas over which Congress has jurisdiction under the Constitution. The law clearly shows that Congress does not have jurisdiction over commerce that occurs entirely within the 50 States (the type of commerce that _____ is engaged in); therefore the law does not and cannot tax such incomes. This actually makes sense, given the fact that the Constitution was written to limit the size and scope of the federal government and to give most of the taxing power to the states.

But all because of the incorrect assumption that all incomes were taxed by the federal government, misinformation that was fostered and promoted by the government, everybody overlooked the critical part of the income tax law, which is to first determine IF you have taxable income or not. This means that most people have been filing tax returns and paying income taxes improperly as a result of the misapplication of the income tax laws when the law does not tax their incomes.

If you have any accountant acquaintances, ask them to show you the part of the law that taxes your income, they won't be able to do it. Incredible, isn't it? You have been paying money to the government all these years that you did not owe them, and they did not tell you otherwise; in fact they probably treated you badly and intimidated you because of your imputed ignorance about the confusing tax laws they helped to write.

It is as simple as that. The government makes it appear more confusing than it really should be. Remember, IRS documents and publications have no force of law, and only the US Code and corresponding regulations have that authority. _____'s actions are based solely on the written law and regulations.

All requests for additional information from the Internal Revenue Service have been ignored and we are now seeking remedies through the legal process. For the IRS to simply ignore us is a very strong suggestion that abuse is occurring, not that each of us probably has horror stories of what has happened to friends and neighbors.

Before the Internet, access to the law was very difficult, and nearly everyone has experienced a gross misapplication of our nation's tax laws since all of us started working, but the fact that the law is now available to every man on the Internet has given us the means to obey the law as written, not misinterpretations of the law handed down through generations of tax professionals and arrogant lawyers who never went to the law itself to prove what they advised. Ignorance of the law is no excuse, and I will correct anything that I consider improper or illegal.

_____ is not the only employer complying to the written law in this regard. However, we probably are the first in _____ County we are aware of. All parties in order to have a just society and civil order must abide the written law, including most importantly the government, which is supposed to be for the people, by the people. The government has been deceiving everybody and this has got to stop. We are obligated to obey the law, not misinterpretations of the law.

Larken Rose demonstrates other reasons why the law cannot do this in understandable detail in Taxable Income, which I urge you to read and study this remarkably clear document and see the law as written for yourself. You may have to read it several times, but you will eventually understand and see for yourself the actual wording of the law that proves that your income is not taxed, which is the exact opposite of what you have been led to believe.

_____ cannot tell you what to do regarding your own income tax position. However, if you want help with it all you have to do is ask me, and I'll do my best to point you in the right direction. _____ is now processing corrected returns for payroll and we will keep you up to date on this as it progresses.

5.8.2 Letter to Employers About 1099's Provided to Independent Contractors

The letter below is intended to be used by people who are involved in independent contracting. They should provide it to an employer or business with whom they are contracted as a way of ensuring that they don't invite trouble from the IRS but still obey the laws.

<<ADDRESS>>
 <<CITY>>, <<STATE>> <<ZIP>>

<<EMPLOYER NAME>>
 <<ADDRESS>>
 <<CITY>>, <<STATE>> <<ZIP>>
 <<PHONE>>
 <<EMAIL>>

Dear Sir,

As an independent contractor who has a contractual arrangement with you to provide fee for services, I would like to inform you of my intentions regarding the reporting by you of income received by me to the IRS on IRS Form 1099MISC. First of all, I wish to say that I have a strong religious and moral objection to the use of Social Security Numbers (see Revelation 13:16-18, as well as section 7.6 of our Family Constitution found on my website at <http://famguardian.org/> for further details if you desire). Because of this, it is my wish not to be compelled to provide a social security number for the purposes of our business transaction. I have saved you and your legal counsel a lot of trouble by doing the legal research on this situation for you below.

Internal Revenue Code Section 6109(a)(3) states:

Any person required under the authority of this title to make a return, statement or other document with respect to another person, shall request from such person, and include in any such return, statement or document, such identifying number as may be prescribed for securing proper identification of such person.

26 U.S.C. 6109(a)(3) (Supp. 1992)"

The IRS regulation interpreting section 6109 provides:

"If he does not know the taxpayer identifying number of the other person, he shall request such number of the other person. A request should state that the identifying number is required to be furnished under the law. When the person filing the return, statement, or other document does not know the number of the other person, and has complied with the request provision of this paragraph, he shall sign an affidavit on the transmittal document forwarding such returns, statements, or other documents to the Internal Revenue Service so stating.."

Treas. Reg. 301.6109-1(c) (1991)

However, Internal Revenue Code Section 6724, 26 U.S.C. 6724 (Supp. 1992), provides for a waiver of any penalties assessed under this code section upon a showing of reasonable cause. Section 6724(a) provides:

No penalty shall be imposed under this part with respect to any failure if it is shown that such failure is due to reasonable cause and not willful neglect.

26 U.S.C. 6724(a) (Supp. 1992)

I fully recognize that honoring this request will result in you not being able to provide complete information on any 1099 forms you might submit about my compensation to the IRS. However, I would like to reassure you based on the above that this will not result in any additional financial or legal liability to you or to me if you provide a simple affidavit with your 1099 form (if requested by the IRS) explaining only the following facts (and nothing more):

- You asked me for an SSN as required per 26 U.S.C. §6109(a)(3)).
- I did not provide one.
- You are not responsible for any penalties per 26 U.S.C. 6724(a)

If you wish further reassurance, you can also do a search for yourself on the phrase "1099" on the following website to look up all the Treasury/IRS regulations that pertain to 1099 forms.

<http://www.access.gpo.gov/cgi-bin/cfrassemble.cgi?title=200026> (Code of Federal Regulations)

<http://www4.law.cornell.edu/uscode/> (U.S. Code)

My privacy and peace of mind is worth the risk of a $50 fine deducted from the compensation you pay me. If you feel that the IRS will not honor the affidavit you provide, then feel free to deduct the $50 in advance from my compensation as a one-time expense per year as you see fit. However, since the fine applies for the each instance of an incomplete form, then it is my respectful request and wish that you pursue the following course of action:

1. I (and not you) am responsible for paying any income taxes for which I might be liable on the compensation received from you.
2. You will provide no more than one payment per month to me for any services I might provide on an ongoing basis.
3. The 1099 compensation for all of our business dealings during a given year should be put onto ONE 1099MISC form, rather than having multiple forms filed for each business arrangement we might have, in order to minimize the penalties I will pay indirectly by having them deducted from my compensation
4. That the 1099MISC form contain the following name as the payee:_____
5. That the 1099MISC form contain NO mailing address, as I will come and personally pick it up. This will also protect my privacy.
6. That this letter be destroyed after the 1099MISC forms are produced and that it not be provided to any third parties for any reason.
7. That the same techniques also apply to any similar forms provided for state income purposes.

I would like to remind you that the request I am making here is designed only to prevent violations of my religious and moral beliefs and unnecessary intrusions by the government into my private affairs in support of my right to privacy under the 4th Amendment. The goal is not to violate any tax laws or pay any less taxes than I am legally obligated to pay, but I have determined that the income tax laws as they are written are being grossly misapplied by the IRS. You are welcome to visit my website at <http://famguardian.org/Subjects/taxes/Taxes.htm> for an eye-opening look and hundreds of pages of evidence documenting precisely how the tax laws are willfully and deliberately being misapplied in violation of our constitutional rights, starting with misreporting of "gross income" on W-2 forms.

Finally, I wish to emphasize that it is considered discrimination and liable by the Department of Justice to refuse to hire a person who does not provide a Social Security Number. This legal conclusion was reached in the case of EEOC vs. Information Systems Consulting, Inc., heard in the United States District Court, Northern District of Texas Dallas Division. You can examine the case for yourself by consulting the following websites:

<http://www.txnd.uscourts.gov/>

Thank you for the patience required to deal with the technical issues raised in this letter, and I apologize for the detailed nature of this correspondence, which was unavoidable. I look forward to working closely with you in the future as part of an ongoing friendship and partnership to provide superior quality service for the important needs of your organization.

Sincerely,

5.8.3 Letter to Employer Requesting Accurate W-2's

This letter is to be sent by government employees to their employers. It should be sent preferably a few months prior to employees filing their first Request for Refund with either the IRS or the state income tax authorities. The purpose of this letter is to establish that you believe your employer is misreporting your gross income” on your W-2 forms. It establishes with the IRS that you have made good faith efforts to address misreporting deficiencies with your employer.

Dear Sir,

This letter is being provided to notify you of my wishes regarding employment tax withholding and reporting to the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) as well as state agencies for my pay and benefits. As you know, tax season is fast approaching, and you will soon be mailing out W-2 forms to employees such as myself. Before you get to work preparing my W-2's and submitting them to the IRS and the state agencies for tax reporting, I want to ensure that the process and methods you use for all employees are in strict compliance with federal and state tax laws and that the resulting W-2 forms are as accurate as you can legally make them. At the same time, I would like to help you minimize your legal liability, both to government taxing authorities and to your employees.

I will begin by emphasizing that everything I am about to say in this letter is based on several continuous months of thorough research studying the Internal Revenue Code and the state taxation codes on the Internet in the process of writing a 1,000 page book about income taxes referenced in Ref. (1). I and/or others have also spoken personally to tax attorneys and IRS agents about the content of this letter and have personally confirmed its accuracy and truthfulness. All of the laws I am about to discuss you can read yourself on the internet at the following URL:

<http://law.cornell.edu/uscode/text/26/>

Below is a summarized list of the requirements that federal law (26 U.S.C., also called the I.R.C or Internal Revenue Code) and other Titles of the U.S. Codes impose on you in the reporting of my taxable wages as revealed by my research.

1. The Privacy Act of 1974 found in 5 U.S.C. §552a covers the handling of personal information, such as Social Security Numbers (SSN's) and personnel records. This section places clear requirement on government agencies that:
 - 1.1. No agency shall disclose any record which is contained in a system of records by any means of communication to any person, or to another agency, except pursuant to a written request by, or with the prior written consent of, the individual to whom the record pertains, unless disclosure of the record would be
 - 1.1.1. (1) to those officers and employees of the agency which maintains the record who have a need for the record in the performance of their duties;
 - 1.1.2. (3) for a routine use as defined in subsection (a)(7) of this section and described under subsection (e)(4)(D) of this section;
 - 1.1.3. (7) to another agency or to an instrumentality of any governmental jurisdiction within or under the control of the United States for a civil or criminal law enforcement activity if the activity is authorized by law, and if the head of the agency or instrumentality has made a written request to the agency which maintains the record specifying the particular portion desired and the law enforcement activity for which the record is sought;

1.2. The term "routine use" means, with respect to the disclosure of a record, the use of such record for a purpose which is compatible with the purpose for which it was collected.

1.3. In your case, "routine use" DOES NOT include disclosure to the IRS without my consent or knowledge, as the Privacy Act Statement in my employee record does not indicate this is one of the purposes for which such information is maintained or used.

1.4. Therefore, you may not disclose my SSN or my address to outside agencies such as the IRS without my express written consent, which you do not have, nor am I willing to provide such information on a W-4 form which you can provide to such agency.

1.5. If you insist on disclosing to any other outside agency my SSN or address or anything other than what I explicitly and personally put on my W-4 form, then you are violating the Privacy Act and I will take you in court and prosecute you criminally for such violation.

2. Internal Revenue Code (26 U.S.C.) section 1 imposes the income tax on "taxable income".

3. Internal Revenue Code (26 U.S.C.) section 63 defines "taxable income" generally as "gross income" minus deductions.

4. Internal Revenue Code (26 U.S.C.) section 61 defines "gross income" generally as income "from whatever source derived".

5. Internal Revenue Code (26 U.S.C.) sections 861-865 and related regulations determine the taxable "sources of income".

6. Income and "wages, tips and other compensation" reported by you to the IRS on form W-2's must be "taxable income", within the meaning of Internal Revenue Code (26 U.S.C.) section 63.

7. Internal Revenue Code (26 U.S.C.) section 3401(c) defined employee as follows:

For purposes of this chapter, the term "employee" includes an officer, employee, or elected official of the United States, a State, or any political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing. The term "employee" also includes an officer of a corporation.

Any non-governmental employees you may have are not considered "employees" by the United States Government as defined above.

8. Even more interesting is the definition of "employer" found in Internal Revenue Code (26 U.S.C.) section 3401(d)

For purposes of this chapter, the term "employer" means the person for whom an individual performs or performed any service, of whatever nature, as the employee of such person

Consequently, if you don't pay people under your employ who work for the government, then you aren't an "employer" as per the Internal Revenue Code.

9. The IRS will try to deceive you into thinking that the above definitions do not apply or are not "inclusive" of everything that is taxable. However, section 3.11.1.7 of Reference (1) entitled "'Includes' and 'Including' (26 U.S.C. §7701(c)) clearly shows that the courts do not support this position and that this is an attempt by the Congress and the IRS to exceed their lawful authority.

10. Internal Revenue Code (26 U.S.C.) sections 3401-3406 describe laws relating to withholding of income taxes by employers.

10.1. Internal Revenue Code (26 U.S.C.) section 3403 states the following:

The employer shall be liable for the payment of the tax required to be deducted and withheld under this chapter, and shall not be liable to any person for the amount of any such payment.

10.2. In spite of the above, the liability stated only applies to employers operating within the District of Columbia, based on the definition of "United States" given earlier.

11. The only known portion of the U.S. Codes that imposes a geographical limitation on the applicability of direct (on people rather than businesses or other "legal fictions") U.S. income taxes is 26 U.S. Code Section 861. This is the section which addresses the "source" issue and imposes a clear requirement that taxable income not only must be of a taxable type, like that found in 26 U.S. Code section 61, but it must ALSO come from a taxable "source" that is tied to some geographical boundary. If you are going to insist that 26 U.S.C. Sec. 861 doesn't apply to me as a citizen of the USA living in the 50 states with only income from the 50 states, then you are going to have to find another section of the Internal Revenue Code that imposes a geographical limitation, because otherwise, the entire tax code would apply to EVERYONE IN CHINA, which clearly doesn't make sense! This finding is consistent with the following case of Graves v. People of the State of New York, 59 S.Ct. 595 (1939):

"A tax on income is not economically or legally a tax on its source."

It is also consistent with the 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f)(1) as discussed in sections 5.5.6 of Reference (1), which identifies specific sources that are taxable. All sources other than those listed in that regulation are, by definition, excluded as explained in section 5 of Reference (1).

12. The Internal Revenue Publications are a fraud and cannot be relied upon to sustain a legal position nor can they be used as evidence of a “reasonable belief” in a court of law. This is confirmed in the IRS’ own Internal Revenue Manual (IRM), which states:

"IRS Publications, issued by the National Office, explain the law in plain language for taxpayers and their advisors... While a good source of general information, publications should not be cited to sustain a position."
[IRM, 4.10.7.2.8 (05-14-1999)]

This finding is also confirmed by the following federal court cases:

- Luhring v. Glotzbach, 304 F.2d. 560 (4th Cir. 1962).
- Einhorn v. DeWitt, 618 F.2d. 347 (5th Cir. 1980).
- United States v. Goldstein, 342 F.Supp. 661 (E.D.N.Y. 1972).
- Boulez v. C.I.R., 810 F.2d. 209 (D.C. Cir. 1987).
- United States v. Will, 671 F.2d. 963, 967 (6th Cir. 1982).

For all of the above reasons, I do not recommend referring to, relying upon, or using any of the Internal Revenue Publications in the administration of payroll tax withholding in your organization,, because the IRS or employees working for the IRS cannot be held liable in any way for fraudulent, misleading, or downright false advice or information they provide to you in any of their publications, or over the phone.

13. Taxability of “wages”:

13.1. “gross income” within the ambit of Chapters 71 through 86 of the Internal Revenue Code (26 U.S. Code) does not include or list wages. For instance, these chapters do not specify wages as “gross income”.

13.2. Internal Revenue Code (26 U.S.C.) Section 61 identifies something that might be mistaken for wages, namely:

(1) Compensation for services, including fees, commissions, fringe benefits, and similar items;

You will note that “wages” are not listed or included anywhere in the definition above, nor are they listed anywhere in the IRC as being part of “gross income”.

- 13.3. Because labor is considered property, per the findings of the U.S. Supreme Court in Butchers’ Union Co. v. Crescent City Co., 111 U.S. 746 (1884), and because wages received for labor rendered constitute a nonprofit exchange of property rather than taxable “profit” that is part of “gross income”, and because all of my income results from such wages, none of my income is considered “gross income” subject to direct taxation by the U.S. Government or the state of California. This conclusion is consistent with the findings of the federal courts in Stapler v. U.S., 21 F.Supp. 737 AT 739, which said:

"Income within the meaning of the Sixteenth Amendment and the Revenue Act, means 'gain'... and in such connection 'Gain' means profit...proceeding from property, severed from capital, however invested or employed, and coming in, received, or drawn by the taxpayer, for his separate use, benefit and disposal..."

14. The jurisdiction of the “United States” government to impose direct income taxes on my wages is limited to only the District of Columbia and not the 50 states of the United States of America. For instance, the definition of the term “United States” appears in the Internal Revenue Code section 7701 as:

“United States

The term "United States" when used in a geographical sense includes only the States and the District of Columbia.”

And in that same section, “State” is defined as follows:

“State

The term "State" shall be construed to include the District of Columbia, where such construction is necessary to carry out provisions of this title.”

You will note that “States” is the plural of “State”, and that “State” refers only to federal territories and possessions, and NOT to the 50 states of the Union. This conclusion is clearly explained (much more clearly than in even the statutes themselves) in section 5.2.13 of our Great IRS Hoax book entitled “‘State’ in the Internal Revenue Code means a ‘federal State’ and not a Union state” of Reference (1). Therefore, the Internal Revenue Code DOES NOT apply to me, as it has jurisdiction only within the District of Columbia. There is simply no authority delegated to the IRS to enforce the IRC within the 50 states of the union upon citizens. This is no accident, but is a direct result of the restrictions imposed on the U.S. Government in Article 1, Section 8, clauses 1 and 3 and 1:9:4 of the U.S. Constitution. Even if you want to assert that I am a citizen of the United States (the federal zone in this context), you will still not be able to extend the jurisdiction of the federal courts or your authority beyond the boundaries of the District of Columbia for the purposes of the Internal Revenue Code because of the above limitations. This may have something to do with why the Internal Revenue Code was never enacted into positive law.. because it has no effect on citizens anyway!

15. I wish to remind you quite clearly that federal income taxes, when enforced directly upon citizens of the united States of America, without apportionment, for income from domestic (within the 50 states) sources, do indeed constitute direct taxes and are unconstitutional as ruled in the Supreme Court case of Pollack v. Farmer’s Loan and Trust Company (157 U.S. 429, 158 U.S. 601) and Evens v. Gore (253 U.S. 245). These cases have never been overruled, and are also consistent with the fact that nowhere in the indexes of 26 U.S.C. (the Internal Revenue Code) is there a reference to the fact that U.S. citizens (or natural born persons) are liable for the payment of taxes on income.

16. The 16th Amendment, which allegedly authorized “taxes on income” (even though it was fraudulently ratified) did not remove the constitutional prohibition against direct taxation of citizens without apportionment to the states. The only type of income tax the 16th Amendment authorized was indirect income taxes imposed on businesses and other “legal fictions” as an “excise tax” (that is to say, a tax on a business transaction or event paid by a business entity and not an individual directly). This was confirmed in the following two Supreme Court cases:

16.1. Brushaber vs. Union Pacific Railroad, 240 U.S. 1.

16.2. Stanton v. Baltic Mining, 240 U.S. 103

17. The Thirteenth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution outlawed slavery. Slavery is an involuntary condition where one does not have control over the fruits of his own labor, and has no property rights. A condition of slavery is imposed by direct income taxes on people in direct violation of the 13th Amendment. For instance, if I am in the 28% marginal tax bracket, which I believe that I am, and federal income taxes are imposed directly on my wages, then in effect, I am a slave for 28% of the year. Either I’m entirely free or I’m a slave, but I can’t be both! The only thing necessary to make me a complete slave would be for congress to increase the federal income tax rate to 100%. And by the way, if they did this, the rights of the state of California would be completely suppressed and thereby the balance of powers envisioned by the founding fathers in the constitution would be completely eliminated! This would in turn violate the Tenth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. You might be tempted to say that any kind of tax is slavery, but in fact this is not true. The U.S. Constitution allows for excise taxes, which are also called indirect taxes within the Constitution. These taxes are on business transactions or events (like sales taxes). The payment of these types of taxes is discretionary, as all you have to do to avoid them is not buy something or not perform the event that is taxed. What other rational way is there to interpret this? See the U.S. Supreme Court case of Butchers’ Union Co. v. Crescent City Co., 111 U.S. 746 for further details on this issue. Here is a quote from that case:

"Among these unalienable rights, as proclaimed in the Declaration of Independence is the right of men to pursue their happiness, by which is meant, the right any lawful business or vocation, in any manner not inconsistent with the equal rights of others, which may increase their prosperity or develop their faculties, so as to give them their highest enjoyment...It has been well said that, THE PROPERTY WHICH EVERY MAN HAS IS HIS OWN LABOR, AS IT IS THE ORIGINAL FOUNDATION OF ALL OTHER PROPERTY SO IT IS THE MOST SACRED AND INVIOABLE..."

18. As documented in chapters 4 and 5 of Reference (1), the U.S. Constitution, the U.S. Codes, and the CFR’s are completely consistent with all of the above conclusions of law, and in particular, specify in 26 U.S.C. §861 the only legitimate “sources” of “gross income” for which a U.S. citizen may become liable to pay federal taxes. The content of 26 U.S.C. §861 limits taxable “sources” to foreign income and is entirely consistent with the U.S. Constitution, Article I, Section 8, clauses 1 through 3. This taxable source of income occurs primarily when citizens are overseas and as a result of international commerce, which are the only type of commerce within the jurisdiction of the federal government. The above findings are also confirmed under the 4-1-94 edition of 26 C.F.R. §602.101, which listed the applicable forms for 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1 (tax imposed) as OMB form 1545-0067. If one looks up the form associated with that control number, it is form 2555, which is Foreign Earned Income. Interestingly enough, this form also is the ONLY income tax form which lists “citizens” as being liable. Furthermore, the IRS form 1040 is actually an addendum to that form. After tax freedom advocates discovered this connection, the IRS, to “cover-up” the truth, removed this reference and now in the latest version of 26 C.F.R. §602.101 NO form is associated with 26 C.F.R. §1.1-

1. See Section 6.9.6 of Reference (1) for more details on this issue. This would imply that filing of income tax forms is no longer required! I certify, under penalty of perjury, that NONE of my income has ever derived from the taxable “sources” identified in IRC section 861. Therefore, I have no “gross income” from taxable sources.

19. For the purposes of state income tax, the state of California uses the same definition of “gross income” and “taxable income” as the federal government. See sections 17071, 17072, and 17073 of the California Revenue and Taxation Code, available at:

<http://leginfo.legislature.ca.gov/faces/codes.xhtml>

For all of the above reasons, you are obligated to report my taxable income to the IRS on form W-2 as “zero”, because:

1. It is wages, which as we have explained does not constitute “taxable income”.
2. None of my income derives from a taxable “source” within the meaning of Internal Revenue Code section 861 or the supporting regulations found in 26 C.F.R. §1.861-1-1.861-14.
3. The U.S. government has no jurisdiction within the Internal Revenue Code to tax receipt of income, because it was not received in the District of Columbia by a resident of the District of Columbia in accordance with 26 U.S.C. §7701 (see definition of the terms “State” and “United States”).

I also wish to clearly emphasize several things:

1. I am not trying to be difficult or create any trouble for you or anyone else. I only wish to have my Constitutional and legal rights respected.
2. It would gravely concern me if you contacted any of the people above me in my chain of authority about this request, as it is none of their concern and once again would violate my privacy and destroy trust and morale in my team. Any attempt to involve others will simply be interpreted by me as an effort to coerce and slander me, as there is no other reason to get anyone else involved with my personal affairs or my privacy, nor can anyone above me help this situation any more than you can.
3. My Constitutional rights as a sovereign Citizen which I want respected in this case include:
 - 3.1. The First Amendment right of free speech, which means that I cannot and should not be taxed, harassed, penalized, or criminally prosecuted because of my beliefs or any statements I might make. This right of free speech also includes my right to NOT communicate with the IRS on a W-4 form or a tax return.
 - 3.2. The Fourth Amendment right to privacy and the security of my papers and personal effects. This means that my private and personal personnel record ought to be exactly that, and my SSN or other personal information should NOT be disclosed to third parties without my express written consent. That is why you make ME fill out the W-4 instead of the government doing it for me.
 - 3.3. The Fifth Amendment right of not being compelled to incriminate myself (by being compelled to file a tax return against my will or to provide an SSN) or be deprived of property or any part of my paycheck without my consent. This means that the government has no jurisdiction to order you to withhold my pay without my consent, regardless of whether I give you a W-4 form or not.

Remember that the essential aspect of being a “right” is that the free exercise of rights CANNOT be penalized, taxed, or regulated in any way by anyone, including employers or the government. Any attempt to silence or punish or fire me for the exercising Constitutionally protected rights is a violation of rights. The below Supreme Court case emphasizes this in Harman v. Forssenius, 380 U.S. 528 at 540, 85 S.Ct. 1177, 1185 (1965):

"It has long been established that a State may not impose a penalty upon those who exercise a right guaranteed by the Constitution." Frost & Frost Trucking Co. v. Railroad Comm'n of California, 271 U.S. 583.
"Constitutional rights would be of little value if they could be indirectly denied," Smith v. Allwright, 321 U.S. 649, 644, or manipulated out of existence,' Gomillion v. Lightfoot, 364 U.S. 339, 345."
[Harman v. Forssenius, 380 U.S. 528 at 540, 85 S.Ct. 1177, 1185 (1965)]

An important outcome of the above considerations is that if you attempt to undermine, penalize, tax, or coerce me in the exercise of the above rights by withholding my pay against my will, then you are liable under the following sections of the U.S. Codes for civil damages:

Table 1: Abbreviated List of Laws Violated for infringing upon Constitutionally protected rights

Crime	Penalty	Law	Code section Supreme Court Case(s) Constitutional references
Conspiracy against rights	They shall be fined under this title or imprisoned not more than ten years, or both	If two or more persons conspire to injure, oppress, threaten, or intimidate any person in any State, Territory, Commonwealth, Possession, or District in the free exercise or enjoyment of any right or privilege secured to him by the Constitution or laws of the United States, or because of his having so exercised the same	18 U.S.C. §241
Federally protected rights being violated	Shall be fined under this title, or imprisoned not more than one year, or both.	(b) Whoever, whether or not acting under color of law, by force or threat of force willfully injures, intimidates or interferes with, or attempts to injure, intimidate or interfere with - (1) any person because he is or has been, or in order to intimidate such person or any other person or any class of persons from - (B) participating in or enjoying any benefit, service, privilege, program, facility, or activity provided or administered by the United States; (C) applying for or enjoying employment, or any perquisite thereof, by any agency of the United States; (D) serving, or attending upon any court in connection with possible service, as a grand or petit juror in any court of the United States.	18 U.S.C. §245
Extortion	Shall be fined under this title or imprisoned not more than three years, or both; but if the amount so extorted or demanded does not exceed $1,000, he shall be fined under this title or imprisoned not more than one year, or both.	Whoever, being an officer, or employee of the United States or any department or agency thereof, or representing himself to be or assuming to act as such, under color or pretense of office or employment commits or attempts an act of extortion.	18 U.S.C. §872

Other considerations apply to the exercise of the rights we just discussed above, especially as it pertains to the use of and disclosure of Social Security Numbers. I will therefore like to provide formal legal notice to you of your obligations relating to the compelled disclosure of Social Security Numbers:

Federal Law, Section 7 of Public Law 93-579 provides that: It shall be unlawful for any Federal, State or local government agency to deny to any individual any right [First, Fourth, Fifth Amendment], benefit, or privilege provided by law because of such individual's refusal to disclose his social security account number. Federal courts have ruled the Privacy Act applies equally to the private sector.

The law provides that you can be held personally responsible and liable, as well as your company or agency for violating these privacy rights.

There is no law requiring an individual to obtain or use a social security number. Your requirement and/or demand that I provide a social security number to you is a violation of one or more of the following laws: 4 C.F.R. 83.9; 5 U.S.C. Sec. 552a; 7 C.F.R. 1.123; 7 U.S.C. Sec. 2204g; 14 C.F.R. 1212.604; 17 C.F.R. 249.501a; 19 C.F.R. 118.11; 19 C.F.R. 122.25; 19 C.F.R. 24.5; 24 C.F.R. 5.212; 28 C.F.R. 16.53; 28 C.F.R. 513.31; 28 C.F.R. 700.25; 29 C.F.R. 70a.10; 29 C.F.R. 71.12; 31 C.F.R. 1.32; 31 C.F.R. 501.806; 32 C.F.R. 270.19; 32 C.F.R. 310.20; 32 C.F.R. 311.5; 32 C.F.R. 316.6; 32 C.F.R. 317.20; 32 C.F.R. 323.5; 32 C.F.R. 505.2; 32 C.F.R. 701.108; 32 C.F.R. 806b.9; 38 C.F.R. 1.575; 38 C.F.R. 3.216; 38 U.S.C. Sec. 5101; 39 C.F.R. 266.4; 45 C.F.R. Part 801; 47 C.F.R. 0.554; 49 C.F.R. 10.29.

Because of the above considerations, it is NOT my wish that my SSN be put on any correspondence you provide to the government EXCEPT to the Social Security Administration for the purposes of crediting my earnings. You are not authorized and you do not have my consent, with or without a valid and signed W-4 form, to disclose my Social Security Number to the Internal Revenue Service or on any W-2 form, as this would violate the Privacy Act of 1974 and the above laws, and I will litigate this matter if you do not discontinue any violation of this request within 45 days of receipt of this letter.

Finally, as you consider how to respond to this letter, I'd like to remind you, of the moral and ethical obligations, we both have, which are clearly stated in the Code of Ethics for Government Service, which is prominently displayed in every U.S. Government Federal workplace. Here they are:

- I. Put loyalty to the highest moral principles and to country above loyalty to persons, party, or Government department.
- II. Uphold the Constitution, laws, and regulations of the United States and of all governments therein and never be a party to their evasion.
- III. Give a full day's labor for a full day's pay; giving earnest effort and best thought to the performance of duties.
- IV. Seek to find and employ more efficient and economical ways of getting tasks done.
- V. Never discriminate unfairly by the dispensing of special favors or privileges to anyone, whether for remuneration or not; and never accept, for himself or herself or for family members, favors or benefits under circumstances which might be construed by reasonable persons as influencing the performance of governmental duties.
- VI. Make no private promises of any kind binding upon the duties of office, since a Government employee has no private word which can be binding on public duty.
- VII. Engage in no business with the Government, either directly or indirectly, which is inconsistent with the conscientious performance of governmental duties.
- VIII. Never use any information gained confidentially in the performance of governmental duties as a means of making private profit.
- IX. Expose corruption wherever discovered.

X. Uphold these principles, ever conscious that public office is a public trust.

In particular, the fraud that is being perpetrated by the IRS that U.S. citizens are liable for tax on income from sources in the United States or that you as an employer are obligated to withhold them is a violation of rules I, II, V, VII, IX, and X. As a government servant, this letter is also my way of fulfilling rule IX above, where I am expected to expose corruption wherever discovered. I'm stating these to emphasize that I am doing everything I can to live up to my own moral and ethical obligations and that everything in this letter is aimed at upholding these obligations. Like me, the Department of the Navy as an organization, and you as a government servant and you as an individual need to work hard to deserve the public trust, which means you should stand up for what is right, even over the objections and misinformation of your supervisors if need be and over your own personal financial interests and job security.

We have to realize that the IRS is a federal government agency and you and DFAS are also agencies of the federal government. There is a clear and perceived conflict of interest here, as far as I can tell that is my duty to point out under the ethics rules identified above. On the one hand, the Navy needs me to serve, but on the other hand, the very same money I pay in taxes also pays me through the IRS. The DFAS and DOD undoubtedly would like to cooperate in forcing employees to have and use SSN's (SOCIALIST SECURITY NUMBERS) because that is what the IRS and the Social Security Administration (their sister agencies) want. But I'm here to report that I won't use my SSN and I can't be forced to provide it to the IRS because it would violate my rights. SSN's are un-American and violate my religious and moral beliefs as well (see Rev. 13:16-18 in the Bible).

Finally, if you wish to free yourself of the need to pay federal income taxes and free yourself from slavery to the extortionists at the IRS, I invite you to visit my website at:

<http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/taxes.htm>

Click on "The Great IRS Hoax: Why We Don't Owe Income Tax" in the upper left corner and download my book free of charge. It very thoroughly documents why NO ONE is liable for federal income taxes, and why the law agrees with me. I'd also encourage you to share what you learn from the book with your fellow officers, coworkers, and family members.

I certify under penalty of perjury within the United States of America that the facts, statements, and claims made in this letter are true, correct, and complete in every respect and accurately represent the law, and the basis for my reasonable belief that both I and my employer have no liability for federal income taxes on individuals like myself and that the only accurate and legal way to report income from my employer is to indicate "zero" on my W-2 tax forms.

Sincerely,

5.8.4 Letter to Government Employer Stopping Income Tax Withholding

This letter is to be sent to your government employer when you decide to terminate income tax withholding with your employer legally. The letter is divided into two sections: The first for the employer and the second for the IRS. This way, you don't overload or intimidate the employer payroll representative with too much information. This letter and the enclosures establishes the following in a very thorough and concise way that helps keep the IRS off your back and the burden of proof on them to prove that you are liable for income taxes:

1. That this form is submitted as a substitute for a W-4 Exempt and that it shall be assumed to remain in effect indefinitely until you receive further notice from your employer. You don't want to submit a W-4E form, because then you will have to resubmit it every year by February according to IRS regulations, which is inconvenient and unnecessary. If you use an informal letter instead of the W-4E, there are no IRS regulations requiring you to resubmit the letter annually. That way, your privacy is protected. Likewise, the W-4E is a poor form to use because it doesn't explain everything the IRS needs to know in order to understand why you are not liable and simply invites them to harass you continually for justification of why you don't think you are liable. This letter ends the need for that kind of harassment and invasion of your privacy.
2. That you are still a U.S. (50 states) and a U.S.* (country of United States) Citizen, but not a U.S. (federal zone) citizen. Asking for any information or evidence they might have to the contrary and establishing that this status is correct if no response occurs within 45 days.
3. That you are a "non-resident non-person" with respect to the income tax because you are not a U.S. citizen.
4. That the jurisdiction of the IRS and your employer to assess or hold you liable for an income tax is challenged and must be proved, or it will be assumed to not exist based on the law of presumptions and the points and authorities given.
5. That your employer has misreported "gross income" numbers appearing on your W-2 form in the past or that you anticipate or expect that they might misreport it in the future.
6. That you would like for them to properly report your "gross income" as being zero.
7. That they are liable under the law for misreporting your income and for violating your privacy and First, Fourth, and Fifth Amendment rights by requiring you to provide to them a W-4 form or to pay income taxes you don't owe.
8. That even though you work for the government, you are not an "employee" within the meaning of the Internal Revenue Code and your income is nontaxable because you are not a "public officer" of the U.S. government exercising any special privileges of office, who are the only ones subject to the graduated income tax.
9. You are involved in an occupation of "common right" not subject to taxation.
10. That your wages do not constitute "income" or "gain" because they are an equal exchange of one type of property for another.
11. That you do not derive any income from taxable "sources" as described in 26 U.S.C. §861-863, even though you do get income from the federal government.
12. That if the IRS has any problems with this situation, then they should IMMEDIATELY contact you about the issues within 45 days. Otherwise, they waive their right to assess penalties or interest on any underpayment amounts.
13. That the IRS has no delegated authority to assess penalties or interest for underpayment of personal income taxes under Subtitle A of the Internal Revenue Code, as indicated by the table of Parallel Authorities found at:

http://www.access.gpo.gov/nara/cfr/parallel/parallel_table.html

You should enclose with this letter the following and attach it to the letter:

1. An IRS form W-8: "Certificate of foreign status". This form should be filled out and post dated, meaning that it should go back at least three years to a date earlier than the three year statute of limitations found in 26 U.S.C. §6531. This will allow you to request refunds going back three years under a non-resident alien status.
2. An IRS Form 6450
3. California Franchise Tax Board Form 590 (if you live in California)
4. The letter and all attachments should have the statement at the top "Not valid without all attachments and enclosures" just in case the attachment gets separated from the letter. You should have them sign for receipt of the letter and keep a copy of this letter because you may need to use it as evidence in a court of law if you ever have to litigate the matter.

Since:

1. Withholding requirements and change frequently, and we need a way to communicate current requirements in a timely electronic manner.
2. This book could easily come under fire for “false, illegal, or injurious commercial speech” and therefore eventually be censored.
3. We want all withholding related materials to be protected by the First Amendment and do not ever want them censored, so that they end up in the largest possible number of hands.

Then we have decided to offer all withholding related materials on a FREE website and not include it in this book. You can obtain complete instructions on how to stop withholding, should you choose, in a FREE book entitled Federal and State Withholding Options for Private Employers, available at:

5.8.6 Government Employer Affidavit Regarding Income Tax Withholding Policies

This letter is intended to be submitted to a governmental (not private or commercial) employer by an employee. The employee should tell their employer that the IRS wants them to sign this form. If the employer refuses to the sign the form, the employee should sue their employer for wrongful application of the tax laws for the amount of taxes they paid resulting from the misreporting of "gross income" on their W-2 form, block 10.

Subject: Federal Income Tax Withholding Policies and Procedures

Dear Family Guardian Fellowship,

This letter is being written to you at your request to clarify the official position of our organization regarding the withholding of Federal Income Taxes (FIT) and their payment to the Internal Revenue Service (IRS). Let me start off by saying that I am the highest ranking civil servant payroll/HR employee at the organization which you work, which is the Space and Naval Warfare Systems Center San Diego, also known as SPAWAR Systems Center San Diego. I have been employed with this organization for ____ years. It is my duty to ensure that I am intimately familiar with all policies, procedures, laws, and employee records required to administer the withholding of income taxes at my organization. As a matter of fact, I am expected to know more than anyone else about this subject at your place of employment because it is my primary duty to supervise ALL payroll employees at my organization in the administration of this function.

I wish to emphasize that the only reason that I withhold Federal Income Taxes (FIT) from your paycheck is exclusively and only because you have completed an IRS W-4 form and for no other reason. I have explained to you that the payment and withholding of Federal Income Taxes is entirely voluntary and is initiated by you with the W-4 form. I have explained to you that Federal Income Taxes may not be withheld from your pay without your permission and consent, indicated by the completion and signing by you of an IRS form W-4. I am unaware of any law or U.S. Code which makes you liable for the payment of income taxes, nor do I consider it my duty or obligation to concern myself with whether or not you are liable from a legal standpoint to pay Federal Income Taxes.

I am not a legal expert or a lawyer or a paralegal, and I avoid talking to lawyers as much as I can because I don't like getting too technical about the law. I am, for instance, unfamiliar with what you claim is the Internal Revenue Code (IRC), also known as Title 26 of the United States Code, and the Code of Federal Regulations, Title 26. I have never taken the time to read either of these titles, nor have I ever taken any courses or seminars on the IRC during the course of my employment as a payroll specialist. I am unfamiliar with the legal definition of "gross income" you claim are found in 26 U.S.C. §§ 71-86, with the term "taxable sources" you claim are identified in 26 U.S.C. §861 within that title, and have relied entirely and exclusively on the content of the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) Publications and DOD Directives throughout my payroll career as my guide in the administration of payroll taxation at your place of employment.

You have informed me quite plainly that the IRS publications do not have the force of law and are only directory in nature, as explained in the following Federal court cases:

1. Luhring v. Glotzbach, 304 F.2d. 560 (4th Cir. 1962).
2. Einhorn v. DeWitt, 618 F.2d. 347 (5th Cir. 1980).
3. United States v. Goldstein, 342 F.Supp. 661 (E.D.N.Y. 1972).
4. Boulez v. C.I.R., 810 F.2d. 209 (D.C. Cir. 1987).
5. United States v. Will, 671 F.2d. 963, 967 (6th Cir. 1982).

You have emphasized to me that the IRS Publications are basically irrelevant and do not obligate me to do anything with respect to FITs, because they do not have the force of law. You have said that these publications may be misleading or deceiving me into misapplying and/or misinterpreting the tax laws. I do not, however, have enough legal knowledge or expertise to know whether this is the case, nor has it ever been a priority with my employer to be familiar enough with the tax laws to know whether what you say is true. I am simply a clerk and an administrator of payroll at my organization and nothing more.

You have explained to me that in order to be considered taxable, a person must have a type of income which is taxable, and that income must derive from a taxable source, as defined in 26 U.S.C. §861 (and explained in the Supreme Court case of James v. United States, 366 U.S. 213, p. 213, 6 L.Ed.2d. 246. When an income meets BOTH of these criteria (taxable type of income from a taxable source), then it is considered to legally be “gross income” as defined in 26 U.S.C. §§ 71-86 and must appear in block 10 of the IRS form W-2. You have explained that the only taxable sources of income are foreign income that is NOT from wages (compensation for labor), and that the reason for this has to do with the following legal considerations:

1. Wages are NOT income. This is exemplified in the Supreme Court case of Central Illinois Public Service Co. v. United States, 435 U.S. 21 (1978), which stated that:

“Decided cases have made the distinction between wages and income and have refused to equate the two.”

This conclusion is also consistent with the Supreme Court case of Butcher’s Union Co. v. Crescent City Co. (111 U.S. 746) in 1883, which stated that:

“Among these unalienable rights, as proclaimed in the Declaration of Independence is the right of men to pursue their happiness, by which is meant, the right any lawful business or vocation, in any manner not inconsistent with the equal rights of others, which may increase their prosperity or develop their faculties, so as to give them their highest enjoyment...It has been well said that, THE PROPERTY WHICH EVERY MAN HAS IS HIS OWN LABOR, AS IT IS THE ORIGINAL FOUNDATION OF ALL OTHER PROPERTY SO IT IS THE MOST SACRED AND INVOLABLE...”

Furthermore, it is noted that nowhere in the Internal Revenue Code’s definition of “gross income” found in 26 U.S.C. Subtitle A, Chapter 1, Subchapter B, Part II, Sections 71-86 does it say that “wages” are considered taxable income or “gross income”.

2. The reason why employees at our organization must complete an IRS form W-4 “Withholding Allowance Certificate” giving us permission to deduct Federal Income Taxes from their pay, is because of the 5th Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, which says that a person may not be deprived of their property without “due process of law”, unless they give their consent. In the absence of that consent, and even if they do not fill out a W-4 Exempt form, we do not have any authority to deduct any kind of taxes other than OASDI from their pay. If an employee who does not make taxable income fills out one of these forms and pays federal income tax, he is in effect “donating” money to the federal government that he does not even realize that he does not owe, nor would the IRS or us be likely to tell him that he does not owe this money.
3. A direct tax is one levied directly upon citizens. The Federal Income Tax, for instance, is a direct tax. Direct taxes were best explained in the Supreme Court case of Knowlton v. Moore, 178 U.S. 41 (1900), which stated that:

“Direct taxes bear immediately upon persons, upon the possession and enjoyment of rights; indirect taxes are levied upon the happening of an event as an exchange.”

4. Article 1, Section 2, Clause 3 of the U.S. Constitution states that “Representatives and direct taxes shall be apportioned among the several States...”
5. Article 1, Section 9, Clause 4 of the U.S. Constitution states that “No Capitation or other direct tax shall be laid unless in proportion to the Census or Enumeration herein before directed to be taken.”
6. There can be no unapportioned direct tax, or it would violate the above constitutional limitations. This means that direct taxes must be requested NOT from citizens, but requested from the individual states by the Federal Government. Therefore, a Citizen CANNOT be made liable for the payment of federal income taxes.
7. The 16th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, which allegedly authorized the imposition of federal income taxes, did not change the constitution in such a way as to eliminate the constitutional distinction between direct and indirect taxes. It therefore did not authorize the imposition of direct, unapportioned Federal Income Taxes upon citizens of the United States of America. Instead, it authorized the taxation of income as an excise tax, which is to say that it is a business tax levied on corporate or business income, and not directly on individuals. This finding was confirmed in the Supreme Court case of Cook v. Tait, 265 U.S. 47 (1924), which has never been overruled and stated that:

"The 16th Amendment does not extend the power of taxation to new or excepted subjects...Neither can the tax be sustained on the person, measured by income. Such a tax would be by nature a capitation rather than an excise."

8. Direct income taxes violate the 5th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, which says that citizens cannot be compelled to testify against themselves by the government. However, the form 1040 U.S. "Individual" Income Tax Return requires the "citizen" who completes it to sign under penalty of perjury, which in effect makes them a compelled witness against themselves. When a person refuses to sign their 1040 form, they can be sanctioned by the IRS under the "Jurat" amendment for an amount of $500. This financial penalty amounts to "compelling" the citizen to become a witness against themselves, which violates the constitution. Have you ever wondered why this form isn't titled "U.S. citizen Income Tax Return"? The reason is because "citizens" with income from the 50 states aren't liable for tax, and so they had to invent a new word "Individual" to fool you into thinking you were, and not define anywhere in the code what that word meant!
9. The index to the Internal Revenue Code, Title 26 of the United States Code, has no references anywhere that obligate a "citizen" to pay income tax, which would make them a "taxpayer". There are a lot of references to nonresident aliens and foreigners being liable, but none for citizens. Instead, these codes refer to the concept of an "individual" in sections 1 and 6012(a) and the IRS form 1040, and never define the term! The reason they don't define the term, is because of what it really means, which is the following:

"A citizen with foreign source income ONLY. It is NOT a citizen with domestic income who is living and working in the 50 united States of America."

10. A person can be a "taxpayer" by simply volunteering to pay Federal Income Taxes in the process of completing a W-4 form. This does not mean, however, that they are liable to pay FIT as per the Internal Revenue Code. This is the position you have said you are in and I have no cause or legal basis to refute this.
11. The amounts reported by me in block 10 of IRS form W-2 are legally defined as "gross income", which is to say that these amounts are considered "taxable" per the Internal Revenue Code. By reporting any amount in this block, I am providing evidence to the IRS that claims that employees at my organization have taxable income and are liable for paying tax. It is of extreme importance, then, to ensure that the income reported by me in this block indeed is taxable and is defined in the Internal Revenue Code as "gross income", or I am misrepresenting and deceiving the IRS into thinking that these amounts are taxable when in deed and in fact, they may actually not be from a legal standpoint if they do not meet the other constraints appearing in items 1 through 15 of this list and the definition of "gross income". I was incredulously unaware of this fact before being notified of this by you.
12. As an employee of the Federal Government who deducts payroll taxes for that government, I am in effect a "revenue agent" of the U.S. Government. As such, under 26 U.S.C. §7214, I can be held criminally liable for taking more Federal Income Taxes than is allowed by law, which means that I can be terminated from employment with the government, imprisoned for up to 5 years, and fined up to $10,000 for misapplying the tax laws. I can also be criminally prosecuted under 18 U.S.C. §1018 as a public officer of the United States for submitting or producing false writings which result in a fraud against the United States. Thus, if I produce a false W-2 form which misreports taxable income of employees at my organization, I can be fined or imprisoned for no more than one year, or both.
13. As per the IRS Restructuring and Reform act of 1998, section 3707, it is illegal for a government official to use the term "tax protester" in describing you or anyone else. (see <http://famguardian.org/Publications/IRSRA98/IRSRA98.htm>).
14. I have been told that if I have any other questions about any of the legal issues in this letter, I am referred to the following website maintained by you: <http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/taxes.htm>.
15. You have said that if I wish to research the U.S. Code and laws for myself, I may do so by visiting the following website: <http://law.cornell.edu/uscode/>

Because of the above rather remarkable legal considerations and conclusions which you allege, most of which I was previously unaware of, the information that I provide on the annual W-2 form to both you and the IRS would seem to be more a product more of corporate culture and best business practices and the following of the IRS publications on withholding, rather than a realistic or well-informed application of the tax laws found in 26 United States Code, the Code of Federal Regulations Title 26, or the U.S. Constitution. However, my workload is such that I do not have the time or the interest in becoming a federal tax law expert, and no one at my organization does to my knowledge, so I can't say whether our income tax withholding practices are consistent with the above legal constraints and conclusions or not. Tax law is a very complicated subject which even the most authoritative experts often have trouble understanding or applying.

I also have no interest whatsoever in getting my organization in trouble or exposing it to any litigation risks for misapplying the tax laws. You have said that you won't hold the foregoing situation against me because your particular situation is very common among employers across the nation, whether government or private. You have instead assured me that I would eliminate any possibility of litigation risk initiated by you related to deducting or withholding federal income taxes by signing this letter. I emphasize that I am signing this letter of my own free will, and not under duress, and am acting in my official capacity as an agent for your employer and the U.S. Government.

Should you or anyone else have any questions about the content of this letter, I'd be happy to answer them. I can be reached at: __<<PHONE>>__. Thank you for your enlightening explanation of the Federal Income Tax as it pertains to your employment with us. I appreciate the opportunity to be better informed about such significant issues pertaining to payroll taxation that I was previously unaware of.

Sincerely,

As a matter of fact, I am expected to know more than anyone else about this subject at your place of employment because it is my primary duty to supervise ALL payroll employees at my organization in the administration of this function.

I wish to emphasize that the only reason that I withhold Federal Income Taxes (FIT) from your paycheck is exclusively and only because you have completed an IRS W-4 form and for no other reason. I have explained to you that the payment and withholding of Federal Income Taxes is entirely voluntary and is initiated by you with the W-4 form. I have explained to you that Federal Income Taxes may not be withheld from your pay without your permission and consent, indicated by the completion and signing by you of an IRS form W-4. I am unaware of any law or U.S. Code which makes you liable for the payment of income taxes, nor do I consider it my duty or obligation to concern myself with whether or not you are liable from a legal standpoint to pay Federal Income Taxes.

I am not a legal expert or a lawyer or a paralegal, and I avoid talking to lawyers as much as I can because I don't like getting too technical about the law. I am, for instance, unfamiliar with what you claim is the Internal Revenue Code (IRC), also known as Title 26 of the United States Code, and the Code of Federal Regulations, Title 26. I have never taken the time to read either of these titles, nor have I ever taken any courses or seminars on the IRC during the course of my employment as a payroll specialist. I am unfamiliar with the legal definition of "gross income" you claim are found in 26 U.S.C. §§ 71-86, with the term "taxable sources" you claim are identified in 26 U.S.C. §861 within that title, and have relied entirely and exclusively on the content of the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) Publications and DOD Directives throughout my payroll career as my guide in the administration of payroll taxation at your place of employment.

You have informed me quite plainly that the IRS publications do not have the force of law and are only directory in nature, as explained in the following Federal court cases:

1. Luhring v. Glotzbach, 304 F.2d. 560 (4th Cir. 1962).
2. Einhorn v. DeWitt, 618 F.2d. 347 (5th Cir. 1980).
3. United States v. Goldstein, 342 F.Supp. 661 (E.D.N.Y. 1972).
4. Boulez v. C.I.R., 810 F.2d. 209 (D.C. Cir. 1987).
5. United States v. Will, 671 F.2d. 963, 967 (6th Cir. 1982).

You have emphasized to me that the IRS Publications are basically irrelevant and do not obligate me to do anything with respect to FITs, because they do not have the force of law. You have said that these publications may be misleading or deceiving me into misapplying and/or misinterpreting the tax laws. I do not, however, have enough legal knowledge or expertise to know whether this is the case, nor has it ever been a priority with my employer to be familiar enough with the tax laws to know whether what you say is true. I am simply a clerk and an administrator of payroll at my organization and nothing more.

You have explained to me that in order to be considered taxable, a person must have a type of income which is taxable, and that income must derive from a taxable source, as defined in 26 U.S.C. §861 (and explained in the Supreme Court case of James v. United States (366 US 213, p. 213, 6 L.Ed.2d. 246). When an income meets BOTH of these criteria (taxable type of income from a taxable source), then it is considered to legally be “gross income” as defined in 26 U.S.C. §§ 71-86 and must appear in block 10 of the IRS form W-2. You have explained that the only taxable sources of income are foreign income that is NOT from wages (compensation for labor), and that the reason for this has to do with the following legal considerations:

1. Wages are NOT income. This is exemplified in the Supreme Court case of Central Illinois Public Service Co. v. United States, 435 U.S. 21 (1978), which stated that:

"Decided cases have made the distinction between wages and income and have refused to equate the two."

This conclusion is also consistent with the Supreme Court case of Butchers' Union Co. v. Crescent City Co., 111 U.S. 746 (1884), which stated that:

"Among these unalienable rights, as proclaimed in the Declaration of Independence is the right of men to pursue their happiness, by which is meant, the right any lawful business or vocation, in any manner not inconsistent with the equal rights of others, which may increase their prosperity or develop their faculties, so as to give them their highest enjoyment...It has been well said that, THE PROPERTY WHICH EVERY MAN HAS IS HIS OWN LABOR, AS IT IS THE ORIGINAL FOUNDATION OF ALL OTHER PROPERTY SO IT IS THE MOST SACRED AND INVOLABLE..."

Furthermore, it is noted that nowhere in the Internal Revenue Code's definition of “gross income” found in 26 U.S.C. Subtitle A, Chapter 1, Subchapter B, Part II, Sections 71-86 does it say that “wages” are considered taxable income or “gross income”.

2. The reason why employees at our organization must complete an IRS form W-4 “Withholding Allowance Certificate” giving us permission to deduct Federal Income Taxes from their pay, is because of the 5th Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, which says that a person may not be deprived of their property without “due process of law”, unless they give their consent. In the absence of that consent, and even if they do not fill out a W-4 Exempt form, we do not have any authority to deduct any kind of taxes other than OASDI from their pay. If an employee who does not make taxable income fills out one of these forms and pays federal income tax, he is in effect “donating” money to the federal government that he does not even realize that he does not owe, nor would the IRS or us be likely to tell him that he does not owe this money.
3. A direct tax is one levied directly upon citizens. The Federal Income Tax, for instance, is a direct tax. Direct taxes were best explained in the Supreme Court case of Knowlton v. Moore, 178 U.S. 41 (1900), which stated that:

"Direct taxes bear immediately upon persons, upon the possession and enjoyment of rights; indirect taxes are levied upon the happening of an event as an exchange."

4. Article 1, Section 2, Clause 3 of the U.S. Constitution states that “Representatives and direct taxes shall be apportioned among the several States...”
5. Article 1, Section 9, Clause 4 of the U.S. Constitution states that “No Capitation or other direct tax shall be laid unless in proportion to the Census or Enumeration herein before directed to be taken.”
6. There can be no unapportioned direct tax, or it would violate the above constitutional limitations. This means that direct taxes must be requested NOT from citizens, but requested from the individual states by the Federal Government. Therefore, a citizen CANNOT be made liable for the payment of federal income taxes.
7. The 16th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, which allegedly authorized the imposition of federal income taxes, did not change the constitution in such a way as to eliminate the constitutional distinction between direct and indirect taxes. It therefore did not authorize the imposition of direct, unapportioned Federal Income Taxes upon citizens of the United States of America. Instead, it authorized the taxation of income as an excise tax, which is to say that it is a business tax levied on corporate or business income, and not directly on individuals. This finding was confirmed in the Supreme Court case of Cook v. Tait, 265 U.S. 47 (1924), which has never been overruled and stated that:

"The 16th Amendment does not extend the power of taxation to new or excepted subjects...Neither can the tax be sustained on the person, measured by income. Such a tax would be by nature a capitation rather than an excise."

8. Direct income taxes violate the 5th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, which says that citizens cannot be compelled to testify against themselves by the government. However, the form 1040 U.S. "Individual" Income Tax Return requires the "citizen" who completes it to sign under penalty of perjury, which in effect makes them a compelled witness against themselves. When a person refuses to sign their 1040 form, they can be sanctioned by the IRS under the "Jurat" amendment for an amount of $500. This financial penalty amounts to "compelling" the citizen to become a witness against themselves, which violates the constitution. Have you ever wondered why this form isn't titled "U.S. citizen Income Tax Return"? The reason is because "citizens" with income from the 50 states aren't liable for tax, and so they had to invent a new word "Individual" to fool you into thinking you were, and not define anywhere in the code what that word meant!
9. The index to the Internal Revenue Code, Title 26 of the United States Code, has no references anywhere that obligate a "citizen" to pay income tax, which would make them a "taxpayer". There are a lot of references to nonresident aliens and foreigners being liable, but none for citizens. Instead, these codes refer to the concept of an "individual" in sections 1 and 6012(a) and the IRS form 1040, and never define the term! The reason they don't define the term, is because of what it really means, which is the following:

"A citizen with foreign source income ONLY. It is NOT a citizen with domestic income who is living and working in the 50 united States of America."

10. A person can be a "taxpayer" by simply volunteering to pay Federal Income Taxes in the process of completing a W-4 form. This does not mean, however, that they are liable to pay FIT as per the Internal Revenue Code. This is the position you have said you are in and I have no cause or legal basis to refute this.
11. The amounts reported by me in block 10 of IRS form W-2 are legally defined as "gross income", which is to say that these amounts are considered "taxable" per the Internal Revenue Code. By reporting any amount in this block, I am providing evidence to the IRS that claims that employees at my organization have taxable income and are liable for paying tax. It is of extreme importance, then, to ensure that the income reported by me in this block indeed is taxable and is defined in the Internal Revenue Code as "gross income", or I am misrepresenting and deceiving the IRS into thinking that these amounts are taxable when in deed and in fact, they may actually not be from a legal standpoint if they do not meet the other constraints appearing in items 1 through 14 of this list and the definition of "gross income". I was incredulously unaware of this fact before being notified of this by you.
12. As per the IRS Restructuring and Reform act of 1998, section 3707, it is illegal for a government official to use the term "tax protester" in describing you or anyone else. (see <http://famguardian.org/Publications/IRSRR98/IRSRR98.htm>).
13. I have been told that if I have any other questions about any of the legal issues in this letter, I am referred to the following website maintained by you: <http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/taxes.htm>.
14. You have said that if I wish to research the U.S. Code and laws for myself, I may do so by visiting the following website: <http://law.cornell.edu/uscode/>

Because of the above rather remarkable legal considerations and conclusions which you allege, most of which I was previously unaware of, the information that I provide on the annual W-2 form to both you and the IRS would seem to be more a product more of corporate culture and best business practices and the following of the IRS publications on withholding, rather than a realistic or well-informed application of the tax laws found in 26 United States Code, the Code of Federal Regulations Title 26, or the U.S. Constitution. However, my workload is such that I do not have the time or the interest in becoming a federal tax law expert, and no one at my organization does to my knowledge, so I can't say whether our income tax withholding practices are consistent with the above legal constraints and conclusions or not. Tax law is a very complicated subject, as you know, which even the most authoritative experts and attorneys in the field often have trouble understanding or applying.

I also have no interest whatsoever in getting my organization in trouble or exposing it to any litigation risks for misapplying the tax laws. You have said that you won't hold the foregoing situation against me because your particular situation is very common among employers across the nation, whether government or private. You have instead assured me that I would eliminate any possibility of litigation risk initiated by you related to deducting or withholding federal income taxes by signing this letter. I emphasize that I am signing this letter of my own free will, and not under duress, and am acting in my official capacity as an agent for your employer.

Should you or anyone else have any questions about the content of this letter, I'd be happy to answer them. I can be reached at: __<<PHONE>>____. Thank you for your enlightening explanation of the Federal Income Tax as it pertains to your employment with us. I appreciate the opportunity to be better informed about such significant issues pertaining to payroll taxation that I was previously unaware of.

Sincerely,

5.8.8 Response to IRS Claim of Fraudulent or False W-4 EXEMPT

This letter is intended as a response to the IRS when they send you a threatening letter in response to your submission of a W-4 EXEMPT. In their threatening letter, they will most commonly try to assess an illegal "false statement" penalty of $500 for submitting your W-4, and not document the basis for determining that it is false. They will also notify you that they have contacted your employer and ordered them to withhold at "single zero" rate.

- (1) Your 2775(CG) Letter to me dated June 11, 2001 (attached)

Subject: Assessment of $500 penalty for False Statement on a W-4 Form

Dear _____,

SECTION 1: RESPONSE TO REFERENCE (3)

Your unsigned and unverified letter of Enclosure (1) as received by me on 25 JUNE 2001 is REFUSED for cause, on the grounds of fraud. I wish to appeal your findings and your assessment of penalty. In the event you are unwilling to honor my request to eliminate the penalty documented in this letter and the request to notify my employer to stop withholding as I requested, then I demand an immediate Appeals Conference to establish your right to assess the penalties and violate my Fifth Amendment rights by overruling my wishes to stop withholding.

In your letter, you stated as a general conclusion that:

"The law requires the IRS to charge a $500 civil penalty for making a false statement about withholding. We will charge you the $500 penalty unless you provide reasonable basis for the statements on your Form W-4 within 30 days from the date of this letter."

However, you have not provided me with any specific statutes and regulations providing evidence to support your erroneous conclusions that there was an alleged "false statement". In Refs. (1) and (2), which you completely and frivolously and recklessly disregarded, I provided an affidavit which exhaustively explained why I have no tax liability. I am still waiting for you to address the issues raised in said references and your lack of a response establishes your acquiescence to their validity. You are moving against me on mere allegation and without addressing the issues raised in Refs. (1) and (2), which clearly violates my right of due process under the Sixth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution and violations your authority as a revenue officer employed with the IRS. You have not specifically identified what fact or statement contained on the W-4 constitutes a "false statement" and I challenge your authority and your jurisdiction to assess a penalty for such an undocumented and unexplained violation. Accordingly:

*"To lay with one hand the power of government on the property of the citizen, and with the other to bestow it on favored individuals.. is none the less robbery because it is.. called taxation." Loan Association v. Topeka, U.S. Supreme Court, 1874.

As you are aware, W-4 Forms are voluntary agreements between the employer and the employee that cannot be interfered with by the IRS. W-4 Forms for private employers and employees have never been memorialized into law. Your actions are unlawful interference with my right to contract:

INTERNAL REVENUE MANUAL §5337 (1) “Since there is no requirement upon private employers, States or political subdivisions to withhold and pay over amounts under a payroll deduction agreement, the employer must accept the assignment executed by the employee before an agreement is finalized.”

Any act by an IRS officer directing my employer to change my withholding status to other than that which I designate can subject you to a constitutional tort suit. Participation by my employer may subject the employer to a suit on the grounds of, “conspiracy to violate constitutional rights” under 42 U.S.C. §1983-“Civil Action for Deprivation of Rights” and 18 U.S.C. §241-“Conspiracy against Rights of Citizens—Criminal Action”. In the case of Poindexter v. Greenhow, 114 U.S. 270, 5 S.Ct. 903 (1885), the U.S. Supreme Court determined that government agents who are acting outside the law or under the color of law and who injure the rights or property are subject to personal liability for their wrongs and are not protected by official immunity:

“The second head of that classification is thus described: ‘Another class of cases is where an individual is sued in tort for some act injurious to another in regard to person or property, to which his defense is that he has acted under the orders of the government. In these cases he is not sued as, or because he is, the officer of the government, but as an individual, and the court is not ousted of jurisdiction because he asserts authority as such officer. To make out his defense he must show that his authority was sufficient in law to protect him.’ And in illustration of this principle reference was made to Mitchell v. Harmony, 13 How. 115; Bates v. Clark, 95 U.S. 204; Meigs v. McClung’s Lessee, 9 Cranch, 11; Wilcox v. Jackson, 13 Pet. 498; Brown v. Huger, 21 How. 315; [114 U.S. 270, 288] Grisar v. McDowell, 6 Wall. 363; and U. S. v Lee, 106 U.S. 196; S. C. 1 SUP. CT. REP. 240.”

The law makes it perfectly clear:

26 U.S.C. §3402(n)-1, C.F.R. §31.3402(n)-1—“Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, an employer shall not be required to deduct and withhold any tax under this chapter upon a payment of wages to an employee if there is in effect with respect to the payment, a withholding exemption certificate furnished to the employer by the employee which contains statements that—

1. The employee incurred no liability for income tax imposed under subtitle A of the Code for his preceding taxable year; and
2. The employee anticipates that he will incur no liability for income tax imposed by Subtitle A for his current taxable year.”

No verbal threat or letter from the IRS can abrogate my sworn statement, or the clear intent of the law. It is not within the authority of the IRS, or my employer, to change or correct a verified affidavit that I signed under penalty of perjury, unless it is proven in a Court of Law that I have perjured myself. For you to notify my employer to ignore my lawful signed and attested W-4 Form “EXEMPT” and withhold as if I had claimed “0” allowances, when such information is clearly false, without any authority of law and against my consent is unlawful and constitutes EXTORTION UNDER THE COLOR OF OFFICE. You are also unlawfully interfering with my trade, my right to contract, and my right to retain 100% of the possessory interest in property belonging to me. If this illegal activity is not stopped immediately, I will file civil and criminal charges personally against you and your agency, and the Department of Justice has no authority to defend you or the IRS under the U.S. Attorney’s Manual section indicated below, so you may have to pay for the defense personally (see <http://famguardian.org/Publications/USAttyManual/title6/4mtax.htm#6-4.270>):

6-4.270 Criminal Division Responsibility

The Criminal Division has limited responsibility for the prosecution of offenses investigated by the IRS. Those offenses are: excise violations involving liquor tax, narcotics, stamp tax, firearms, wagering, and coin-operated gambling and amusement machines; malfeasance offenses committed by IRS personnel; forcible rescue of seized property; corrupt or forcible interference with an officer or employee acting under the internal revenue laws (but not omnibus clause); and unauthorized mutilation, removal or misuse of stamps. See 28 C.F.R. Sec. 0.70.

However, the DOJ may prosecute you for such violations, and I will bring said violations to the attention of the attorney general, John Ashcroft, promptly, absent you addressing my concerns.

I shall now define what I mean by EXTORTION UNDER THE COLOR OF OFFICE:

EXTORTION UNDER THE COLOR OF OFFICE: “...Unlawful taking by any officer by color of his office, of any money or thing of value, that is not due to him, or more than is due or before it is due. 4 Bla.Comm.,

141; Com. V. Saulsbury, 152 Pa. 554, 25 A. 610, U.S. v. Denver, D.C.N.C. 14 F. 595; Bush v. State, 19 Ariz. 195, 168 P.508, 5098...Obtaining property from another, induced by wrongful use of force or fear, or under color of official right. See State v. Logan, 104 La. 760, 29 So. 336; In re Rempfer, 51 S.D. 393, 216 N.W. 355, 359, 55 A.L.R. 1346; Lee v. State, 16 Ariz. 291, 145 P. 244, 246, Ann.Cas. 1917 B, 131..At common law, any oppression by color or pretense of right, and particularly and technically the exaction or unlawful taking by an officer of money or thing of value, by color of his office, either when none at all is due, or not so much is due, or when it is not yet due.” Preston v. Bacon, 4 Conn. 480. See People v. Barondess, 16 N.Y.S. 436, 61 Hun. 571; Murray v. State, 125 Tex.Cr.R. 252, 67 SS.W.2d 274, 275; State v. Anderson, 66 N.D. 522, 267 N.W. 121; 123; Whart.Cr.L. 833.

[Black’s Law Dictionary, Revise 4th Edition]

COLOR OF OFFICE: “A claim or assumption of right to do an act by virtue of an office, made by a person who is legally destitute of such right.” Feller v. Gates, 40 Or. 543, 67 P. 416, 56 L.R.S. 630, 91 Am.St.Rep. 492.

[Black’s Law Dictionary, 4th Edition]

COLOR: “Pretense of official right to do an act made by one who has no such right. An act under color of office is an act of any officer who claims authority to do the act by reason of his own office when the office does not confer on him any such authority.”

[Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition]

Also, because you and your Chief Examiner, are acting in collusion, outside of your lawfully delegated authority, criminal and civil actions may be brought against you both, in your individual capacity, for “Extortion under the Color of Office.” It is not necessary to prove that you personally benefited from the money extorted to sustain a conviction or judgment.

I stand by the claims of my original W-4 form and Affidavit of References (1) and (2) but have also resubmitted a W-4 EXEMPT as you requested. My original form W-4, to the best of my knowledge and belief, is still true as stated and signed and the obligation belongs to you to disprove this, which you have not so far done and are demanded to do.

“The legal right of a taxpayer to decrease the amount of what otherwise would be his taxes or to altogether avoid them, by means which the law permits, cannot be doubted.”

[Gregory v. Helvering, 293 U.S. 465]

SECTION 2: DEMAND FOR MORE SPECIFIC STATEMENT

- (1) Specifically, what statute, implementing regulation and delegation order provides the authority for your claim that there is a MANDATORY “withholding” requirement applicable to me, a Citizen of one of the union American states, domiciled and engaged in an occupation of “common right” (Sims v. Ahrens, 271 S.W. 720 (1925)), therein. Said occupation is NOT classified as the conduct of a trade or business in the “United States” as defined in 26 U.S.C. §871 and the implementing regulations.
- (2) Specifically, what statute of the Internal Revenue Code, and related C.F.R. employment regulations, gives you or the Internal Revenue Service, the authority to change my Form W-4, or Affidavit of Exemption, which I have signed under penalty of perjury, and thereby violate my Fifth Amendment right to not be deprived of my property without due process of law or my consent?
- (3) Specifically, what statute or related C.F.R. employment regulation, that is consistent with the Fifth Amendment of the Constitution, provides you with the authority to tell my employer not to accept my W-4 Form unless I claim zero withholding allowances?
- (4) Please immediately provide me with a copy of the specific statutes and regulations upon which you relied to make the determination that my W-4 Form is not accurate for the purposes of claiming an Exemption from withholding. Also, please explain exactly what I must do to rectify these alleged inaccuracies, as well as copies of any necessary forms which I must file.

This correspondence constitutes a demand that you notify my employer to honor my lawful signed and attested FORM W-4 with my appropriate EXEMPT status, within 10 days from the date of receipt of this letter and notify me that such action has been taken, at the address indicated above.

SECTION 3: CHALLENGE OF YOUR AUTHORITY AND JURISDICTION TO ASSESS PENALTIES FOR ALLEGED OFFENSE

As you are aware, pursuant to 44 U.S.C.A. §§1504-1507, before a citizen of the several States of the United States can be bound by, or adversely effected by a law or regulation, having general applicability to such Citizens, it must be published in the Federal Register. Such laws and regulations are then categorized pursuant to their applicable Title in the Code of Federal Regulations (CFR). 26 U.S.C. §7805(a) states:

“...the Secretary shall prescribe all needful rules and regulations for the enforcement of this title.”

The Internal Revenue Code is not self-executing. Without an implementing regulation, applicable to a particular type of tax, a statute has no force of law, and imposes no duties or penalties. The Parallel Table Authorities for 26 C.F.R. reveals that the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, and Firearms is the only authority authorized to use distraint or assess penalties for nonpayment of income taxes for Title 27 (and NOT Title 26) issues ONLY. The following is taken from the Parallel Table of Authorities in the back of the Title 26 Code of Federal Regulations [CFR]. It is a list of the ONLY 26 C.F.R. Part 301 Regulations that derive their Authority for implementation from Title 26 USCS or 26 IRC [Income Taxes]. Note the conspicuous absence of any penalty, interest, levy or seizure for the Title 26 Voluntary Income Tax or for filing of allegedly false W-4 forms. Again, it is inconceivable that the Congress would legislate penalties for the individual income tax, since the supreme Court and the IRS have both substantiated that such a Tax is voluntary and NOT based upon distraint. It would be absurd to impose penalties for non-compliance, when such an option is what made the tax voluntary to begin with.

You can look at the Parallel Table of Authorities yourself at:

http://www.access.gpo.gov/nara/cfr/parallel/parallel_table.html

In addition, the following court ruling clearly expresses your lack of authority to assess penalties:

"...the Act's civil and criminal penalties attach only upon the violation of a regulation promulgated by the Secretary; if the Secretary were to do nothing, the Act itself would impose no penalties on anyone...only those who violate the regulations (not the Code) may incur civil or criminal penalties. it is the actual regulation issued by the Secretary of the Treasury and not the broad authorizing language of the statute, which is to be tested against the standards of the 4th Amendment." Calif. Bankers Assoc. v. Shultz, 416 U.S. 25, 44, 39 Led2d 812, 94 S.Ct. 1494

Your own Internal Revenue manual, which is reflective of the ruling case law on this subject states that you have no delegated authority to issue a civil penalty or to collect penalties without a judgment signed by a magistrate:

I.R.M. 546 §19(b)(2) "the civil penalty for non-compliance may be imposed only by filing a suit in the name of the United States, naming the taxpayer as a defendant and securing a judgment."

The question then is, where is the fictitious lawsuit that authorizes you to collect a penalty? The supreme Court agrees with this conclusion in the following case:

"Our system of taxation is based upon voluntary assessment and payment, not upon distraint." [Flora v. U.S., 362 U.S. 145 (1960), Emphasis added]

In case you don't understand, "distraint" is defined as follows and is the equivalent of "force" or "coercion" or "compulsion" in the collection of debts and legal liabilities:

"...the act or process of DISTRAINT whereby a person (the DISTRAINOR), without prior court approval, seizes the personal property of another located upon the distrainor's land in satisfaction of a claim, as a pledge for performance of a duty, or in reparation of an injury. Where goods are seized in satisfaction of a claim, the distrainor can hold the goods until the claim is paid and, failing payment, may sell them in satisfaction." [Barron's Law Dictionary, Steven H. Gifis, 1996, p. 150, ISBN 0-8120-3096-6]

Your assessment of penalties and demand for money, without the authority of law, your lawless actions to penalize me that have not been legally defended or explained or justified based on your delegated authority, constitutes extortion under the color of law, mail fraud and conspiracy against the rights of a Citizen, for which you will be held personally liable should legal action become necessary.

CONSTRUCTIVE NOTICE OF ABSENCE OF RIGHT TO LEVY, LIEN, OR SEIZE ASSETS OF CLAIMANT

Pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §6331(a):

*United States Code
TITLE 26 - INTERNAL REVENUE CODE
Subtitle F - Procedure and Administration
CHAPTER 64 - COLLECTION
Subchapter D - Seizure of Property for Collection of Taxes
PART II - LEVY*

(a) Authority of Secretary

If any person liable to pay any tax neglects or refuses to pay the same within 10 days after notice and demand, it shall be lawful for the Secretary to collect such tax (and such further sum as shall be sufficient to cover the expenses of the levy) by levy upon all property and rights to property (except such property as is exempt under section 6334) belonging to such person or on which there is a lien provided in this chapter for the payment of such tax. Levy may be made upon the accrued salary or wages of any officer, employee, or elected official, of the United States, the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of the United States or the District of Columbia, by serving a notice of levy on the employer (as defined in section 3401(d)) of such officer, employee, or elected official. If the Secretary makes a finding that the collection of such tax is in jeopardy, notice and demand for immediate payment of such tax may be made by the Secretary and, upon failure or refusal to pay such tax, collection thereof by levy shall be lawful without regard to the 10-day period provided in this section.

I am not an “employee” as such “term” is defined below:

26 U.S.C. §3401(c) EMPLOYEE—“For purposes of this chapter, the term employee includes [only] an officer, employee or elected official of the United States, a State or any political subdivision thereof, of the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing. The term also includes an officer of a corporation.”

26 C.F.R. §31.3401(c) Employee: “...the term [employee] includes officers and employees, whether elected or appointed, of the United States, a [federal] State, Territory, Puerto Rico or any political subdivision, thereof, or the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing. The term ‘employee’ also includes an officer of a corporation.”

This correspondence shall constitute constructive notice that I do NOT meet the definition of a person on whom you are authorized to institute distraint of the type above based on the definition of “employee” above, and you are forewarned that you will be held personally liable under 26 U.S.C. §7214(a) for unlawful use of your authority if you violate the above restrictions on your legal authority. I have also warned my financial institutions and county recorder and employer that a illegal fraud illegal taking of property may be perpetrated by you in the future against my property rights and to bring that to my attention promptly and disregard it. Your jurisdiction to levy or use distraint is challenged and must be proven by you.

“Whatever the form in which the Government functions, anyone entering into an arrangement with the Government takes the risk of having accurately ascertained that he who purports to act for the Government stays within the bounds of his authority...and this is so even though as here the agent himself may have been unaware of the limitations upon his authority.”
[Federal Crop Insurance v. Merrill, 332 U.S. 380, 384 (1947)]

SECTION 4: AFFIDAVIT OF REVOCATION OF SIGNATURES AND RESCISSION OF PREVIOUSLY FILED W-4 FORMS, 1040 FORMS, STATE INCOME TAX FORMS, ET AL.

I, Family Guardian Fellowship, Citizen of California and domiciled in San Diego County, California, one of the American union States, hereby extinguish, rescind, revoke, cancel, abrogate, annul, nullify, discharge, and make void ab initio all signatures, belonging to me, on all previously filed Internal Revenue Service, W-4 Forms (other than EXEMPT W-4’s), 1040 Forms (that are not part of Ref. (1)) and all State Income Tax Forms and all powers of attorneys, real and implied, connected thereto, on the grounds that my purported consent was not voluntarily and freely obtained, but was made through mistake, duress, fraud, and undue influence exercised by your agency and my employer. Pursuant to Contract Law: “All 1040 (not part of Ref. (1)) and W-4 Forms (other than EXEMPT W-4’s) are, hereby, extinguished by this rescission.”.

Rescission: “To abrogate, annul, avoid, or cancel a contract; particularly, nullifying a contract by the act of a party. The right of rescission is the right to cancel (rescind) a contract upon the occurrence of certain kinds of default by the contracting party. To declare a contract void in its inception and to put an end to it as though it never were. Russel v. Stephens, 191 Wash. 314, 71 P.2d. 3031...A rescission amounts to the unmaking of a contract, or an undoing of it from the beginning. It necessarily involves a repudiation of the contract and a refusal of the moving party to be bound by it...”
[Black’s 6th Edition Law Dictionary]

I was induced by fraud and duress to sign such forms and I was denied full disclosure of the voluntary nature of such forms. I was mislead by those who knew, or should have known, into believing that filing such forms was mandatory and/or implied, were unconscionable and grossly unfair to me. I was unduly influenced by the stronger bargaining power of my employer, the Internal Revenue Service and the State Tax agency, and acted under an implied threat and fear of losing my job and my property and out of fear of potential imprisonment for non-compliance. Any alleged consent is null and void as it was given under duress, by mistake, and by fraud. Notwithstanding any information which you may have to the contrary, any forms that have been filed, and any implied quasi contracts that you may feel you have with me, were filed illegally and unlawfully and are without force/and or effect.

I further revoke, rescind, and make void ab initio all powers of attorney pertaining to me for any and all governmental/quasi/colorable agencies and/or Departments created under the authority of Art. I, Sec. 8, Cl. 17, and/or Art. IV, Sec. 3, Cl. 2 of the Constitution of the United States.

I, hereby, voluntarily relinquish any presumptive 14th Amendment citizenship status and any privileges and immunities granted therein. I retain my natural born status of a Citizen of one of the several union States of America under the Constitution and law, and my Citizenship in these United States of America. I preserve all my unalienable Rights that are inherent from my Creator, at all times. I waive no rights at any time. I do not, at any time, designate anyone to be a binding arbitrator in any disputes of my Rights or equity. If your agency has a Constitutionally valid claim, you must adhere to Due Process of Law, and other protections according to the Constitution, and I will remain an Involuntary Litigant in any such action.

SECTION 5: NEXT STEPS:

I will pursue the following if you do not comply with the requests in this correspondence in a timely fashion and as required by your responsibilities and delegated authority:

- 1) Filing of IRS form 911, which requests help from the Taxpayer Advocate's office.
- 2) Writing letters to my senators and congressmen.
- 3) Adjudicatory/examination hearing.
- 4) Filing a Referral and Request for "Technical Advice" under 26 C.F.R. § 601.105(b)(5)(iii) and Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.), Section 4.10.7.2.10.
- 5) Posting all of your correspondence and my responses on the website located at <http://famguardian.org> in order that other concerned citizens may learn from and reuse the litigation tools developed dealing with you.
- 6) Prosecuting and holding you personally liable under the following Statutes:
 - a. 26 U.S.C. §7214
 - b. 42 U.S.C. §1983-Civil Action for Deprivation of Rights
 - c. 18 U.S.C. §241-Conspiracy against Rights of Citizens—Criminal Action
 - d. 26 U.S.C. §7433-Civil Damages for Certain Unauthorized Collection Actions

You are forewarned that all future interactions with you via telephone will be recorded and posted for public listening on the website at <http://famguardian.org>, and that any attempts to contact me either by phone or in person shall constitute due consent by you to be electronically recorded. These recordings will be used as evidence in the process of litigating my Civil and Criminal Action for Abatement of Penalties and Conspiracy against rights.

Should you wish to further investigate the claims contained in this letter or the research to back it up, you are encouraged to visit the website at <http://famguardian.org> and download the free book called Great IRS Hoax: Why We Don't Owe Income Tax, Form #11.302. The book is free and very completely reveals and exposes the fraud of the income tax that most sovereign American Nationals have been repeatedly and maliciously victimized by through ignorance and illegal activities of employees at your agency.

You are requested to promptly bring to my attention and rebut, point-by-point, any errors in fact or law revealed in this correspondence. Absent any rebuttal, you will be served with a Verified Affidavit of Default documenting all established facts contained in this and in previous correspondences of Refs. (1) and (2), and which will be used against you in my pending litigation to have you prosecuted for malfeasance and EXTORTION UNDER THE COLOR OF OFFICE.

Finally, I wish to emphasize that the best interests of the taxpaying public, your agency, and the United States Government are not served by your frivolous, negligent, libelous, and unethical misapplication of the tax laws in my case. Your ignorant misapplication of the laws will ultimately result in extended litigation that will negate any benefit you might gain by attempting to collect taxes or penalties, not to mention jeopardize your job and the credibility of your agency. Furthermore, everything I learn in the process of fighting you will be recycled and posted on the internet at <http://famguardian.org> for many hundreds of thousands of other tax freedom fighters to reuse in the process of litigating against your clearly unethical and lawless disregard for my lawful, Constitutional, and property rights.

 Than vast revenues without justice."*
 [Prov. 16:8-9, Bible, NKJV]

I thank you kindly for taking the time to diligently read and respond to this correspondence and to References (1) and (2), and for acting in an ethical, respectful, and responsible way that honors the legal constraints imposed upon your position as a revenue officer acting under the color and authority of the laws of the United States government. It is only by you observing the legal limitations imposed on your position that the IRS and the U.S. Government can ever hope to earn and keep the public trust and confidence that all Citizens living in the 50 states would like to have in your agency and in their government.

May God richly bless you and yours with a clear conscience and the blessings of liberty and freedom that we all long for in this wonderful nation of ours.

If you wish to contact me about this correspondence, you may call me during normal working hours at _____ or by email at _____. It is my intention to telephone you about this correspondence within a few days.

5.8.9 Payroll Withholding Form Attachment

The letter below is intended to be submitted attached to an IRS form W-4, W-8BEN, Substitute W-8. Click here for the step which uses this form.

Attachment(s): (initial all that apply)

- a. ☐ IRS Form W-4
 b. ☐ IRS Form W-8/W-8BEN
 c. ☐ State withholding form number: _____ State name: _____
 d. ☐ Form SSN: Citizen's Assertion of Legal right to Withhold SSN

NOTE TO PRIVATE EMPLOYER IN RECEIPT OF THIS FORM:

The private employee who is submitting this form to his private employer makes the following stipulations and promises relating to income tax withholding and administration by the private employer:

1. Private employee indemnifies private employer against any lawsuits arising from the misapplication of the internal revenue laws of the United States relating to withholding against private employee, provided that it honors the withholding forms submitted here.
2. Private employee has repeatedly contacted the IRS about the validity of the approach documented here and has never been provided with a statute and/or implementing regulation that contradicts any of it.
3. Private employee has diligently made a good-faith effort to ensure that everything appearing in this attachment and the accompanying withholding forms are consistent with prevailing tax law and will not result in any liability of the private employer to the IRS.
4. If IRS inquires about withholding or tax forms or private employee, private employee will gladly meet with them during off-duty time, answer all their questions, and work in good faith to resolve any disputes over compliance with the law. Employee will also provide a written record of any and all dialog to employer immediately after it occurs.

In return these valuable considerations, private employee simply asks that private employer:

1. Not remove or destroy any of the withholding forms and attachments submitted.
2. If it submits any of the withholding forms to the IRS, it provides all of them, rather than a subset of them. For instance, if both a W-4 and a W-8Ben form were submitted by the private employee to the private employer, then both of the forms plus this attachment must be sent to the IRS.
3. Not terminate him or refuse to hire him because of his stance on withholding issues, social security numbers, citizenship status as a "national" but not a "citizen" under 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21), or tax status as a "non-resident non-person".
4. Not honor any IRS "Notice of Levies", but only valid court orders signed by a judge as required by the Fifth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

FORM W-8/W-8 BEN NOTES:

1. The W-8BEN or Substitute W-8 form attached shall be considered invalid, null, and void without this attachment and all other forms attached to it.
2. The submitter is a "non-citizen national" as defined in 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21) and not a "citizen" under 8 U.S.C. §1401 or the Internal Revenue Code (see under 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(c)). Submitter is a constitutional Citizen born in a state of the Union, which is a "foreign country" and a "foreign state" with respect to federal legislative jurisdiction. To wit:

"Generally, the states of the Union sustain toward each other the relationship of independent sovereigns or independent foreign states, except in so far as the United States is paramount as the dominating government, and in so far as the states are bound to recognize the fraternity among sovereignties established by the federal Constitution, as by the provision requiring each state to give full faith and credit to the public acts, records, and judicial proceedings of the other states..."
 [81A Corpus Juris Secundum (C.J.S.), United States, §29 (2003)]

"The United States Government is a foreign corporation with respect to a state." [N.Y. re Merriam, 36 N.E. 505, 141 N.Y. 479, affirmed 16 S.Ct. 1073, 41 L.Ed. 287]
 [19 Corpus Juris Secundum (C.J.S.), Corporations, §884 (2003)]

3. The California Revenue and Taxation Code, under the “Personal Income Tax” sections, agrees with the above conclusions by using the following definitions:

California Revenue and Taxation Code

17017. “United States,” when used in a geographical sense, includes the states, the District of Columbia, and the possessions of the United States. [note that states of the Union are not “possessions of the United States”]

17019. “Foreign country” means any jurisdiction other than one embraced within the United States.

4. For further details on why people born in states of the Union are considered “nationals of the United States” (where “United States” means the states of the Union collectively and not the federal “United States” appearing in the tax code or federal law), refer to the whitepaper below:
<http://famguardian.org/Subjects/LawAndGovt/Citizenship/WhyANational.pdf>
5. Since submitter is a “national” but not a “citizen”, and since the IRS form 1040NR says that “U.S. nationals” are “nonresident aliens”, then I am a “non-resident non-person” for the purposes of federal income taxes coming under Subtitle A of the Internal Revenue Code. As such, this makes me a “nonresident alien” as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(B) only if I occupy a public office because a “nonresident alien” is defined there as a person who is neither a “citizen” nor a “resident” of the federal United States:
- 5.1. 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(36) defines “State” the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, Guam, and the Virgin Islands of the United States, which does not include the 50 states for the purposes of naturalization, naturalization, and citizenship.
- 5.2. 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(10) and defines “State” as the District of Columbia for the purposes of income taxes.
- 5.3. 4 U.S.C. §110(d) defines “State” as “The term “State” includes any Territory or possession of the United States” for the purposes of federal employment.
- 5.4. 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) defines the term “United States” as “The term “United States” when used in a geographical sense includes only the States and the District of Columbia” For the purposes of federal income taxes.
- 5.5. 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A) defines “resident” to mean an “alien”.
6. The following definitions of the terms apply for this letter and the attached form W-8 or W-8BEN:

The term “beneficial owner” as used on this form means only the person in receipt of the monies and who is not necessarily required or liable by law to include the amount paid in “gross income” on a tax return since the amount may not be taxable based on: (1) 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f);(2) The definition of the term “income” according to the Supreme Court Case: Eisner v. Macomber, 252 U.S. 189, 207, 40 S.Ct. 189, 9 A.L.R. 1570 (1920); (3) The lack of any statute in Subtitles A through C of the Internal Revenue Code making any natural person liable for the federal income tax or liable to keep records;(4) Article 1, Section 9, Clause 4 and 1:2:3 of the U.S. Constitution. If the law really created a tax liability, such IRS tricks with definitions on this form and the violation of due process and false presumptions they create would not be necessary. Furthermore, I am not an “employee” subject to backup withholding as defined in 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(c)-1. This form does NOT in any way constitute my permission to:

- a. Deduct or withhold taxes on income to any country outside the United States of America.
 b. Report income to a country outside the United States of America.

7. I am a “non-resident non-person” not engaged in a “trade or business”. A “trade or business” is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) as “the functions of a public office” and not expanded anywhere else in the Internal Revenue Code to include any other activity. If you disagree, please rebut the admissions at the end of the pamphlet below:
<http://sedm.org/Forms/MemLaw/TradeOrBusScam.pdf>
8. As a “non-resident non-person” not engaged in a “trade or business”, I am exempted from the requirement for information reporting, including IRS Forms W-2, 1098, and 1099. This is confirmed by 26 U.S.C. §6041:

TITLE 26 > Subtitle F > CHAPTER 61 > Subchapter A > PART III > Subpart B > § 6041
§ 6041. Information at source

(a) Payments of $600 or more

All persons engaged in a trade or business and making payment in the course of such trade or business to another person, of rent, salaries, wages, premiums, annuities, compensations, remunerations, emoluments, or other fixed or determinable gains, profits, and income (other than payments to which section 6042 (a)(1), 6044 (a)(1), 6047 (e), 6049 (a), or 6050N (a) applies, and other than payments with respect to which a statement is required under the authority of section 6042 (a)(2), 6044 (a)(2), or 6045), of $600 or more in any taxable year, or, in the case of such payments made by the United States, the officers or employees of the United States having information as to such payments and required to make returns in regard thereto by the regulations hereinafter provided for, shall render a true and accurate return to the Secretary, under such regulations and in such form and manner and to such extent as may be prescribed by the Secretary, setting forth the amount of such gains, profits, and income, and the name and address of the recipient of such payment

Consequently, you may not prepare or submit a W-2, 1098, or 1099 on me for any financial transactions between us. This is also confirmed by the following:

8.1. 26 C.F.R. §31.3401\(a\)-6 says that nonresident aliens whose earnings originate from outside the District of Columbia or which are not connected with a "trade or business" are not subject to withholding:

Title 26
PART 31—EMPLOYMENT TAXES AND COLLECTION OF INCOME TAX AT SOURCE
Subpart E—Collection of Income Tax at Source
§ 31.3401\(a\)\(6\)-1 Remuneration for services of nonresident alien individuals.

(a) In general. All remuneration paid after December 31, 1966, for services performed by a nonresident alien individual, if such remuneration otherwise constitutes wages within the meaning of §31.3401(a)-1 and if such remuneration is effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the United States, is subject to withholding under section 3402 unless excepted from wages under this section. In regard to wages paid under this section after February 28, 1979, the term "nonresident alien individual" does not include a nonresident alien individual treated as a resident under section 6013 (g) or (h).

(b) Remuneration for services performed outside the United States. Remuneration paid to a nonresident alien individual (other than a resident of Puerto Rico) for services performed outside the United States is excepted from wages and hence is not subject to withholding.

8.2. 26 U.S.C. §3406\(g\) and 26 C.F.R. §341.3406\(g\)-1\(e\) both say that foreign persons (which includes "nonresident aliens") are not subject to backup withholding or information reporting

§ 3406. Backup withholding

(g) Exceptions

(1) Payments to certain payees Subsection (a) shall not apply to any payment made to— (A) any organization or governmental unit described in subparagraph (B), (C), (D), (E), or (F) of section 6049 (b)(4), or (B) any other person specified in regulations.

(2) Amounts for which withholding otherwise required Subsection (a) shall not apply to any amount for which withholding is otherwise required by this title.

Title 26: Internal Revenue
PART 31—EMPLOYMENT TAXES AND COLLECTION OF INCOME TAX AT SOURCE
§ 31.3406\(g\)-1 Exception for payments to certain payees and certain other payments.

(e) Certain reportable payments made outside the United States by foreign persons, foreign offices of United States banks and brokers, and others. For reportable payments made after December 31, 2000, a payor is not required to backup withhold under section 3406 on a reportable payment that qualifies for the documentary evidence rule described in §1.6049-5\(c\)\(1\) or (4) of this chapter, whether or not documentary evidence is actually provided to the payor, unless the payor has actual knowledge that the payee is a United States person. Further, no backup withholding is required for payments upon which a 30-percent amount was withheld by another payor in accordance with the withholding provisions under chapter 3 of the Internal Revenue Code and the regulations under that chapter. For rules applicable to notional principal contracts, see §1.6041-1\(d\)\(5\) of this chapter.

8.3. Federal Thrift Savings Plan \(TSP\) retirement system pamphlet OC-96-21 says:

3. How much tax will be withheld on payments from the TSP?

The amount withheld depends upon your status, as described below. Participant. If you are a nonresident alien, your payment will not be subject to withholding for U.S. income taxes. (See Question 2.) If you are a U.S. citizen or a resident alien, your payment will be subject to withholding for U.S. income taxes. If you are a U.S. citizen or resident alien when you separate, you will receive from your employing agency the tax notice "Important Tax Information About Payments From Your TSP Account," which explains the withholding rules that apply to your various withdrawal options.

[TSP Pamphlet OC-96-21, <http://tsp.gov/forms/index.html>, p. 2. Keep in mind that "United States" above is defined as the "District of Columbia" and "worked for the U.S. government" is defined as a "trade or business" in 26 U.S.C. 7701(a)(26), which is then described as "the functions of a public office"]

- 8.4. 26 U.S.C. §861(a)(3)(C)(ii) says that "nonresident aliens", even if they work in the District of Columbia, do not earn income from sources within the "United States", if they are not engaged in a "trade or business"

§ 861. Income from sources within the United States

(a) Gross income from sources within United States

The following items of gross income shall be treated as income from sources within the United States:

(3) Personal services

- 8.5. 26 U.S.C. §3401(a) says that "nonresident aliens" don't earn "wages" and are therefore not subject to W-2 reporting:

(6) such services, performed by a nonresident alien individual.

- 8.6. 26 U.S.C. §1402(b) says that "nonresident aliens" don't earn "self employment income":

TITLE 26 > Subtitle A > CHAPTER 2 > § 1402
§ 1402. Definitions

(b) Self-employment income

The term “self-employment income” means the net earnings from self-employment derived by an individual (other than a nonresident alien individual, except as provided by an agreement under section 233 of the Social Security Act) during any taxable year; except that such term shall not include—

"Foreign persons who provide Form W-8BEN, Form W-8ECI, or Form W-8EXP (or applicable documentary evidence) are exempt from backup withholding and Form 1099 reporting."

9. As a "nonresident alien", I am also exempt from the requirement to supply an identifying number. The attached W-8BEN includes a "Certificate of Residence" in block 3, which the Treasury regulations say constitutes sufficient evidence to avoid asking for a Social Security Number:

(c) Exemption from requirement to furnish a taxpayer identifying number and special documentary evidence rules for certain income.

(1) General rule.

In the case of income described in paragraph (c)(2) of this section, a withholding agent may rely on a beneficial owner withholding certificate [IRS Form W-8BEN] described in paragraph (b)(1) of this section without regard to the requirement that the withholding certificate include the beneficial owner's taxpayer identifying number. In the case of payments of income described in paragraph (c)(2) of this section made outside the United States [federal zone] (as defined in Sec. 1.6049-5(e)) with respect to an offshore account (as defined in Sec. 1.6049-5(c)(1)), a withholding agent may, as an alternative to a withholding certificate described in paragraph (b)(1) of this section, rely on a certificate of residence described in paragraph (c)(3) of this section or documentary evidence described in paragraph (c)(4) of this section, relating to the beneficial owner, that the withholding agent has reviewed and maintains in its records in accordance with Sec. 1.1441-1(e)(4)(iii). In the case of a payment to a person other than an individual, the certificate of residence or documentary evidence must be accompanied by the statements described in paragraphs (c)(5)(i) and (ii) of this section regarding limitation on benefits and whether the amount paid is derived by such person or by one of its interest holders. The withholding agent maintains the reviewed documents by retaining either the documents viewed or a photocopy thereof and noting in its records the date on which, and by whom, the documents were received and reviewed. This paragraph (c)(1) shall not apply to amounts that are exempt from withholding based on a claim that the income is effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business in the United States.

10. The submitter is NOT, I repeat NOT an “employee” as defined in either 26 U.S.C. §3401\(d\) or 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(c)-1, because I must be a “public officer” of the U.S. government in order to qualify as an “employee” and not only is this not the case now, it has NEVER been the case in the past and all signatures on all forms which I may have submitted to either my employer or the IRS which ever created such a false presumption are hereby rescinded ab initio (from the beginning) because they are false, misleading and completely incorrect.

26 C.F.R. §31.3401(c) Employee:

"...the term [employee] includes officers and employees, whether elected or appointed, of the United States, a [federal] State, Territory, Puerto Rico or any political subdivision, thereof, or the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing. The term 'employee' also includes an officer of a corporation."

The above definition is consistent with the definition of the “United States” as a federal corporation in 28 U.S.C. §3002(15)(A):

United States Code

TITLE 28 - JUDICIARY AND JUDICIAL PROCEDURE

PART VI - PARTICULAR PROCEEDINGS

CHAPTER 176 - FEDERAL DEBT COLLECTION PROCEDURE

SUBCHAPTER A - DEFINITIONS AND GENERAL PROVISIONS

Sec. 3002. Definitions

(15) "United States" means -(A) a Federal corporation;

(B) an agency, department, commission, board, or other entity of the United States; or

(C) an instrumentality of the United States.

And the fact is that "public officers" of the U.S. government are officers of that corporation in receipt of excise taxable privileges. I challenge you to show me both a statute from the Internal Revenue Code and an implementing regulation from 26 C.F.R. that expand the definition of "employee" beyond that above to specifically include private persons who are not "public officers" of the U.S. government. In the absence of such evidence of good faith belief, you are presumed to acquiesce and agree with our determination.

11. In the event that you point to the word "includes" in the definition of "employee" or any other term in the Internal Revenue Code and try to state that it doesn't limit the definition, then the above does NOT qualify as a definition, in which case the Internal Revenue Code Subtitle C is void for vagueness and unenforceable as per the supreme Court in Sewell v. Georgia, 435 U.S. 982 \(1978\). See the article on the website at the following web address for a rebuttal of the abuse of the word "includes" to violate due process of law and render the Internal Revenue Code void for vagueness and unenforceable:

<http://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/LegalDecPropFraud.pdf>

To violate due process by trying to twist or stretch the meaning of "employee" using the word "includes" so as to define it as other than "public officers" of the federal corporation as above would directly conflict with many different rulings of the Supreme Court over the last 100 years as shown in the above link.

12. I do not wish to submit a W-4 instead of the W-8 attached because it is the incorrect form. You will note that the title says:

"Employee's Withholding Allowance Certificate"

The W-4 form and all the federal regulations pertaining to submission and treatment of form W-4 only apply to "public officers" of the United States government, as defined in 26 U.S.C. §3401\(d\) and 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(c). Me being compelled to commit fraud by you in submitting the Form W-4 incorrectly and fraudulently makes monies received by me, which are not "income" as defined by the Supreme Court, into "gross income" under 26 C.F.R. §31.3231(e)-1 as follows:

26 C.F.R. §31.3231(e)-1 Compensation.

(a) DEFINITION.

(1) The term compensation has the same meaning as the term wages in section 3121(a), determined without regard to section 3121(b)(9), except as specifically limited by the Railroad Retirement Tax Act (chapter 22 of the Internal Revenue Code) or regulation. The Commissioner may provide any additional guidance that may be necessary or appropriate in applying the definitions of sections 3121(a) and 3231(e).

(2) A payment made by an employer to an individual through the employer's payroll is presumed, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, to be compensation for services rendered as an employee of the employer.

This attachment is submitted to not only nullify the W-4 creating the false presumption above and also to replace it with the correct W-8 form, but also to overcome the presumption established above that I am either an "employee" or that the monies I make are "income" or "gross income" as defined in 26 U.S.C. §61.

13. You DO NOT have my permission to disclose this correspondence or the attachments to anyone outside of your organization and if you do, the submission of the form is no longer voluntary, but accomplished under duress, which makes it in admissible as evidence in a court of law as per the supreme Court in Weeks v. United States, 232 U.S. 383 (1914).
14. In accordance with the Privacy Act, 5 U.S.C. §552a, part (b)(1), it would be a violation of federal law to provide this form or any of the information contained on it to any third party outside of your agency or company, including the IRS or anyone else in the federal government. As an organization with a federal employee ID number, you have

- volunteered to be treated by the IRS as a federal agency even though as a private employee you technically are not, which makes you subject to Title 5 of the U.S. codes and therefore you are obligated by law to abide by this law.
15. Unlike the IRS form W-4 Exempt, the W-8BEN form need not be submitted to the IRS. It says so right on the form. The top of the form says "Do not send to the IRS", and this applies to the employer as well as the submitter.
 16. The W-8 or W-8BEN forms remain in place for a three year period or until rescinded by the submitter. Unlike the IRS form W-4 Exempt, this form DOES NOT expire in February of every year. Acceptance of this form by the recipient implies understanding of this. Any attempt to reinstitute withholding by expiring this form incorrectly as a W-4 would expire shall be interpreted as willful conspiracy to commit grand theft in violation of 18 U.S.C. §2111.
 17. If the recipient or the IRS request any changes to this attachment or the attached W-8 or W-8BEN form, then the legal authority for demanding such a change is specifically requested. A specific statute and accompanying regulation authorizing you to refuse to accept this form or to demand the submitter to make changes must be cited or a replacement will not be provided because the law does not authorize you to refuse this submission or to apply duress by not receiving this form and thereby surrendering my property to a third party without authority of law and in violation of the Fifth Amendment. Furthermore, refusal to accept this form constitutes a violation of the First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, which says we have a right to decide where, when and HOW we wish to communicate with our government. I remind you that you are acting as a voluntary agency and instrumentality of the government in this instance pursuant to the alleged authority of law, and that you therefore have all the same responsibilities and liabilities as a federal employee would have. Since you, the recipient, are acting as a compelled and involuntary and uncompensated agent of the federal government in executing and processing this form, then the same constitutional restrictions that apply to the federal government must apply to the recipient/employer.
 18. In the event that you will not accept the W-8 form attached, a W-4 form will also be attached annotated conspicuously with the words:

"Not valid without attached W-8/W-8BEN form and statement."

- The submitter believes that both the private employer who is receiving this withholding form and the submitter are under unlawful duress by the IRS, which has obviously been mis-enforcing the income tax laws. This duress renders both parties "not liable" for the accuracy of any withholding information they submit to the IRS. IRS is hereby put on notice that the information submitted cannot and should not be relied upon unless and until the unlawful duress is removed and the IRS once again follows the internal revenue laws by stopping its illegal enforcement activity. As I have said, the W-4 form is not the correct form because I am not an "Employee" under 26 U.S.C. §3401\(d\) or 26 C.F.R. §31.3401\(c\) and compelling me without explicit authority of law to falsely claim that I am an "employee" is an unconscionable and criminal infringement of my property rights and free speech by the IRS. All such duress is illegal and attributable only to the agent instituting the duress, and not the actors responding to it by complying. Because the IRS did the compelling, this withholding form and attachment now asks the IRS to apply any penalties resulting from submitting a W-4 to itself.
19. In the event that the recipient of this form or the IRS wishes to cite federal court cases as an authority for their determinations, be advised that it is frivolous to cite any case below the U.S. Supreme Court as per the IRS' own internal revenue manual, section 4.10.7.2.9.8 as follow:

"Certain court cases lend more weight to a position than others. A case decided by the U.S. Supreme Court becomes the law of the land and takes precedence over decisions of lower courts. The Internal Revenue Service must follow Supreme Court decisions. For examiners, Supreme Court decisions have the same weight as the Code."

Decisions made by lower courts, such as Tax Court, District Courts, or Claims Court, are binding on the Service only for the particular taxpayer and the years litigated. Adverse decisions of lower courts do not require the Service to alter its position for other taxpayers."

- This means that you may not cite rulings of the Tax Court, District Court, or Circuit court as authorities. Furthermore, you must show that any persons whom are being tried are "U.S. nationals" such as myself rather than presumed "U.S. citizens", or your cites will be incorrect because jurisdiction will not coincide with my particular circumstances.
20. In the event that the W-8 or W-4 forms accompanying this attachment do not contain Social Security Numbers, the following law is cited to clarify that you may not compel me to provide such:

"TITLE 42 - THE PUBLIC HEALTH AND WELFARE
CHAPTER 7 - SOCIAL SECURITY
SUBCHAPTER II - FEDERAL OLD-AGE, SURVIVORS, AND DISABILITY INSURANCE BENEFITS
Sec. 408. Penalties

(a) In general
Whoever -...

(8) discloses, uses, or compels the disclosure of the social security number of any person in violation of the laws of the United States; shall be guilty of a felony and upon conviction thereof shall be fined under title 18 or imprisoned for not more than five years, or both.

WARNINGS TO IRS (NOT EMPLOYER OR RECIPIENT) ABOUT USE OF THIS INFORMATION:

1. Information contained on this form is copyrighted and considered a “trade secret”. Submitter does not give consent to the IRS to use this information in any manner or for any purpose, nor to enter it into any electronic storage system, nor to share it with any state taxing authority. The fee and damages for misuse of this information or copyright violation by the government is $1 Million and whatever fraudulent tax liability results from its misuse.
2. The government cannot and may not rely on the accuracy of any of the information appearing on this withholding form, because of the existence of unlawful duress against both the submitter and the recipient, the private employer. The only way to eliminate the unlawful duress is for the IRS to rebut the overwhelming evidence that it is mis-enforcing the tax laws and involved in criminal extortion under the color of law. I am not allowed by my moral or my religious beliefs to cooperate with crime until I can prove that it isn’t crime. The overwhelming evidence of widespread IRS violations of our tax laws have been compiled and organized into a series of legal questions formed as “admissions”, and may be viewed at:

<http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Forms/Discovery/Deposition/Deposition.htm>

The submitter of this withholding form respectfully requests that the IRS disproves the above evidence by rebutting the evidence using the admissions format, and doing so under penalty of perjury, just as it expects me to do in submitting withholding forms.

3. IRS is hereby notified that anything you say on this matter can and possibly will be recorded and/or witnessed and used as evidence in court should litigation become necessary to protect the property rights of the submitter, and that your willingness to talk with us about this matter constitutes implied consent to such recording.
4. Should the IRS proceed to mistakenly treat this “non-resident non-person” and “national of the United States OF AMERICA” as an “employee” under 26 U.S.C. §1301(c) or 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(c)-1, then it is put on notice that acceptance or receipt of this form or use of any of the private and personal information contained on it constitutes consent to reimburse me for the lost time, litigation costs, and other fees associated with remedying your violation of the tax laws and violation of the copyright license for the information contained herein.
5. IRS may not demand that I participate in payroll withholding if I am not an “employee” as defined in the Internal Revenue Code, or if I am a “non-resident non-person” with no income “effectively connected with a trade or business in the United States”, which is synonymous with the holding of public office in the United States government as per 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26). Consequently, for the IRS to demand that I must participate in withholding, that I must submit a different withholding form, or that I am not a “non-resident non-person” is not within their delegated authority and there are no implementing regulations authorizing them to make such determinations about my status. Neither can the federal courts make such determinations about my tax status either under the Declaratory Judgments Act, 28 U.S.C. §2201. Consequently, any attempt by the IRS to institute withholding, change my status from “non-resident non-person”/W-8 to a W-4 “employee”, or any verbal instructions to withhold at a single/zero rate to the employer absent an implementing regulation, signed affidavit, and delegation of authority order by an IRS employee authorizing them to make such a determination amounts to the following violations of law, for which the submitter of this form, the private, nonfederal employee, will personally prosecute the offending agent individually:
 - 5.1. Conspiracy against constitutional rights in violation of 18 U.S.C. §241
 - 5.2. Extortion under 18 U.S.C. §872
 - 5.3. Engaging in monetary transactions derived from unlawful activity in violation of 18 U.S.C. §1957
 - 5.4. Fraud in violation of 18 U.S.C. §1341
 - 5.5. Enticement into slavery (to the federal government) in violation of 18 U.S.C. §1583
 - 5.6. Forced labor in violation of 18 U.S.C. §1589
 - 5.7. Robbery in violation of 18 U.S.C. §2111
 - 5.8. Obstructing justice in violation of 18 U.S.C. §1510\(a\)
 - 5.9. Taking of property without due process of law in violation of 26 C.F.R. §601.106\(f\)\(1\)
 - 5.10. Racketeering in violation of 18 U.S.C. §1962
 - 5.11. Bribery of public officials with my stolen money in violation of 18 U.S.C. §201

FORM W-4 NOTES (if also attached):

1. Duress has been applied to me in the submission of the W-4 form, if it is attached, because of the following considerations and additional others not mentioned:
 - 1.1. I have grave anxiety about losing my job if I don't submit this form and I know other individuals who have indeed lost their job by attempting what I am doing.
 - 1.2. I have grave anxiety about being slandered or harassed by my employer for submitting either a W-8 form or an Exempt W-4 form, and having my evaluations or my pay raises jeopardized if I don't comply, even if it is against everything that I believe it. I either have to commit fraud at gunpoint just so I can feed my family or I have to lose everything. The choice is:

"Extreme bravery or lifelong slavery."

I believe that no man should ever be put into such a precarious and very damning situation and any government that would do that to the very citizens who it is there to serve and protect is not only hypocritical, but extremely unjust. I ask you now, if someone told you that you had to admit that you were a prostitute in order to collect the money you earned or starve to death, would you do that? Well, a "taxpayer" is exactly that, a WHORE that sleeps with a wicked IRS that tramples our rights.

- 1.3. I have been studying the tax laws for quite some time and reading a large book called the Great IRS Hoax. That book is available for free on the Internet below and you are encouraged to download and read it for yourself: <http://famguardian.org/Publications/GreatIRSHoax/GreatIRSHoax.htm>
The book contains some 1800 pages of documentation of IRS and U.S. government fraud, conspiracy against rights, malfeasance, breach of fiduciary duty, gross negligence, criminal extortion, conflict of interest of federal judges, and many other very serious crimes which make me extremely fearful of submitting any forms to a corrupt federal government. I am compelled to occupy a position between a figurative rock and hard place, on the one hand satisfying a misinformed and/or fearful employer who doesn't understand tax laws that don't apply to him anyway, and a covetous government that has abused the lack of knowledge of my employer using lies that the courts refuse to hold it accountable for to create so much Fear, Uncertainty, and Doubt (FUD) that my employer would probably do anything to avoid problems with the IRS. I believe that with my employer under so much fraud and illegal duress by the IRS, they have attempted to transfer the risks they face in following the tax laws by compelling me at gun point to do that which they in turn were also illegally compelled by the IRS to do. This situation simply should not be, and it ought to be prosecuted for what it is: Racketeer Influenced Corrupt Organization (RICO) under 18 U.S.C. §1962.

CONCLUSIONS:

1. If there is a "Social Security Number" appearing on any of these forms, the IRS is NOT authorized to use this number as a Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN), and is not authorized to treat it as a TIN. The only type of identifying information that IRS may require, under 26 U.S.C. §6109 is a Taxpayer Identification Number, which the implementing regulations say may NOT be replaced by an SSN. See 26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1(d)(3).
2. The only persons who are required to provide "identifying numbers" on tax forms are "U.S. persons", which the submitter is not. The number required is a "Taxpayer Identification Number" and NOT a Social Security Number:

26 C.F.R. § 301.6109-1(b)

(b) Requirement to furnish one's own number--(1) U.S. persons. Every U.S. person who makes under this title a return, statement, or other document must furnish its own taxpayer identifying number as required by the forms and the accompanying instructions.

3. Note in the above that the "U.S. person" is referred to is an "it" and not a "he or she", which means that "it" is a business and not a biological person. "U.S. persons" are defined below to include "citizens" and "residents" (meaning aliens). The submitter is neither a "citizen" nor a "resident" under the Internal Revenue Code:

TITLE 26 > Subtitle F > CHAPTER 79 > Sec. 7701.
Sec. 7701. - Definitions
\(a\)\(30\) United States person

*The term "United States person" means -
(A) a [corporate] citizen or resident [alien] of the [federal] United States,
(B) a domestic partnership,*

- (C) a domestic corporation,
 (D) any estate (other than a foreign estate, within the meaning of paragraph (31)), and
 (E) any trust if -
 (i) a court within the United States is able to exercise primary supervision over the administration of the trust, and
 (ii) one or more United States persons have the authority to control all substantial decisions of the trust.

4. Treasury regulations also say that SSNs are NOT equivalent to SSNs, and are not interchangeable.

26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1(d)(3)

(3) IRS individual taxpayer identification number -- (i) Definition. The term IRS individual taxpayer identification number means a taxpayer identifying number issued to an alien individual by the Internal Revenue Service, upon application, for use in connection with filing requirements under this title. The term IRS individual taxpayer identification number does not refer to a social security number or an account number for use in employment for wages. For purposes of this section, the term alien individual means an individual who is not a citizen or national of the United States.

5. Consequently, the only number I can be required to provide on withholding forms is a TIN, and the SSN is NOT a TIN, nor can it be used to substitute for a TIN. Therefore, the label "SSN" on IRS forms actually only means TIN, and the IRS is misrepresenting what is supposed to go on their forms by putting "SSN" instead of "TIN". Why shouldn't they lie on their form? They warned us that we shouldn't trust their forms in their own Internal Revenue Manual:

"IRS Publications [including forms], issued by the National Office, explain the law in plain language for taxpayers and their advisors... While a good source of general information, publications should not be cited to sustain a position."
 [IRM, 4.10.7.2.8 (05-14-1999)]

6. There is no statute anywhere in Subtitle C for employment withholding that makes a private person such as myself who is not an "employee" as defined in 26 U.S.C. §3401(d) and 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(c) liable to withhold federal taxes on my income, so I have no choice but conclude that it must be voluntary, and I choose not to volunteer. Both the IRS and also the recipient of this submission are challenged to identify any place in all of the Internal Revenue Code Subtitle C Employment Taxes that makes me "liable" to withhold on the money I earn from labor, which is not defined Constitutionally as "income" anywhere in the Internal Revenue Code and is not "income" as per the Supreme Court as indicated above. Absent a statute or Supreme Court authority that would contradict any facts established in this attachment, you are without excuse or justification for demanding withholding and therefore is acting illegally.

Unlawful. That which is contrary to, prohibited, or unauthorized by law. That which is not lawful. The acting contrary to, or in defiance of the law; disobeying or disregarding the law. Term is equivalent to "without excuse or justification". State v. Noble, 90 N.M. 360, 563 P.2d. 1153, 1157. While necessarily not implying the element of criminality, it is broad enough to include it.

7. Should you have any questions or problems with this submission, you are encouraged to seek legal counsel as I have diligently done in preparing it. You are also encouraged to download and examine 1,700 pages of free documentation supporting and proving every assertion in this attachment in a book entitled Great IRS Hoax: Why We Don't Owe Income Tax, Form #11.302:

<http://famguardian.org/Publications/GreatIRSHoax/GreatIRSHoax.htm>

8. It is quite possible that the research contained in this document might be wrong. I am quite willing and open to the idea of discussing and promptly resolving any disagreement that either the recipient, the IRS or the corporate counsels or accountants or payroll clerks of the parties might have with anything in this document. As a patriotic, informed American who is vigilant in defense of the Constitution and his rights, I want to be educated about what the law requires, but I also can't rely on conjecture and must be shown the statute and implementing regulation that contradicts the conclusions appearing hear. Professional opinions that cannot be substantiated with law cannot and will not be relied upon. To proceed adversely against the submitter of this form without at least trying to resolve differences would be an act of bad faith that we would like to avoid. In the event that the IRS or the employer acting under unlawful duress from the IRS has sought legal counsel and continues to insist on unlawfully applying duress and extortion and violence on my person by forcing me to perjure myself and submit the wrong form, we request written evidence of:

- 8.1. The position of your legal counsel by you providing copies to us of any correspondence you may have had regarding company withholding policies, and especially correspondence that has a signature of your legal counsel. Anything not bearing a signature of the legal counsel is considered inadmissible evidence of your good faith belief that you were following the law in this case.
- 8.2. Copies of any correspondence related to me personally and threatening any kind of employment action based on the outcome of this submission.
- 8.3. Answers of your legal counsel to the Tax Deposition Questions appearing below, which conclusively prove with evidence every point we have made in this submission:

ACKNOWLEDGMENT OF RECEIPT BY OR DELIVERY TO PRIVATE EMPLOYER:

The information appearing below identifies the private employer in receipt of this form and all other attached withholding paperwork indicated in the checklist at the beginning. Acknowledgment of receipt allows private employee to produce legally admissible evidence that the employee was under duress by the IRS and state taxing authorities but not the employer, did not submit this information and/or Social Security Number voluntarily, and may therefore not be held responsible for its content. The only legal person responsible when duress exists is the person instituting the duress, which is the IRS and/or state taxing authorities. This evidence will be used by the private employee in resolving any disputes with the IRS or state taxing authorities only and may not be used for any other purpose. This acknowledgment in no way obligates the private employer to anything other than testifying that they received the attached withholding information and are using it for the person who submitted it.

5.9 Federal Income Tax Return Forms

This section provides sample forms and letters to be included when or if you are in the unfortunate position of having to file income tax returns during a given tax year.

5.9.1 Letter to Attach to Your 1040NR Federal Income Tax Return

This letter is to be included as an attachment to the 1040NR federal tax return. It is intended to be used by persons who:

1. Are “Nationals” but not “citizens” under federal law (note we didn’t say “U.S. citizens”)
2. Are “non-resident non-persons”.
3. Wanted to submit the IRS form W-8 to their employer but who were coerced into submitting the wrong form and basically perjuring themselves under duress in order to obtain or maintain a way to support themselves. They didn’t earn “wages” because they never consented to participate in withholding, but were forced to.
4. Received a form W-2 from their employer which contains an erroneous nonzero amount in block 10 for “wages, tips, and other compensation”
5. Want a refund of the monies illegally withheld under duress by their unreasonable and ignorant private employer.

This letter is extremely effective because it:

1. Emphasizes your condition of being an informed American who wants an accountable government that understands and respects your Constitutional rights and the Constitution limits on its authority.
2. Establishes the constitutional nature of the Internal Revenue Code, but also establishes that they are being misrepresented and improperly administered by tax professionals, private employers, and the IRS.
3. Establishes your proper filing status as a “non-citizen National” and non-resident non-person (who must use the IRS form 1040NR rather than the 1040).
4. Shifts the burden of proof to the government, who is then obligated to prove liability, instead of you having to prove nonliability. It does this by:
 - 4.1. Makes you a “nontaxpayer”. Only “taxpayers” have the burden of proof under 26 U.S.C. §7491.
 - 4.2. Requests a copy of your IMF file, so that you have evidence of your nonliability provided with the IRS’ response.
 - 4.3. Establishes full disclosure of evidence of your nonliability in your official administrative record.
5. Forces the issues into the legal realm, which rules out the involvement of usually less-informed IRS revenue agents or clerks and instead requires the involvement of tax attorneys and persons more experienced with the law. This has the effect of improving the quality of the response you are likely to get from the IRS while also significantly increasing their cost of dealing with you. IRS attorneys make $110,000/year while clerks cost them $30-40K/year. This will make you into a “high maintenance citizen” who they will want to avoid, because you will negatively impact their bottom line.
6. Because of the extensive research it involves, requires escalation to higher levels in the IRS to deal with the issues, and requires disclosure of who was exposed to the issues raised so that these individuals can be implicated in the conspiracy as well.
7. Encourages full accountability by insisting that all persons involved be identified. Discourages anonymous or other “threatening and harassing” correspondence from the IRS.
8. Provides the minimum amount of information possible to the IRS and protects the information you do provide from use as evidence in a criminal prosecution.
9. Leaves no room for accusations of fraud against you because of your full disclosure, and creates a tremendous burden of proof for them to refute the basis for your belief of nonliability.
10. By providing a time limit of 45 days, establishes a default presumption of correctness of your claims if they don’t respond, which is a very common occurrence.
11. Exposes the fraud and corruption by the government that will incentivize IRS revenue agents to defect/resign from the IRS once they learn the truth. Your administrative file, for instance, will have a copy of this book, and unwitting IRS employees will come across this accidentally and have the fraud exposed to them as well. This will reduce retention and ultimately the effectiveness of the IRS as an organization because of the training problems it will create for the organization.
12. Demands an immediate examination hearing if any of the assertions made in the letter are refuted in order to document reasons and hold the revenue officer accountable.

Since:

4. Filing requirements and change frequently, and we need a way to communicate current requirements in a timely electronic manner.
5. We could easily come under fire for instructing people how to file, especially because “nontaxpayers” should NOT file at all.
6. It is incompatible with the Mission of those who offer this book to be instructing people how to file tax returns.

Then we have decided to offer the example return on a FREE website and no include it in this book. You can obtain an example form from the FREE website below:

Look at item #7.1 through 7.16 on the left area for free examples. Item 7.1 contains the refund example that Family Guardian Fellowship uses. The direct link is:

This section should not be construed as advice about whether or how you should file, but simply a pointer to free information that may prove useful should you make the independent decision to file.

5.9.2 Responsive Letter to IRS Claim of “frivolous return” in Re. Request for Refund Letter

This letter is a responsive letter in the case that the IRS responds to your "Request for Refund" letter by stating something similar to the following:

“The position you have taken has no basis in law and represents a frivolous position. The tax laws are very clear and have been tested in the courts—including the Supreme Court of the United States. Claims such as yours have been considered and rejected repeatedly as frivolous and without merit by the federal courts.”

Be forewarned that the IRS will try to do everything in their power to scare and intimidate you not to leave the tax system or request refunds, including attempting to illegally assess $500 frivolous return penalties on people who file retroactive “Request For Refund” letter found in this book. They don’t have any legal authority to assess penalties for frivolous income tax returns, but they will try to bluff you into thinking you owe such penalties. You are encouraged to stand tall, challenge jurisdiction, and question authority by ending your participation in the tax system and sticking to your guns.

Subject: My Response to Your Ref. (2)

Dear _____,

SECTION 1: CLARIFICATION OF THE STATUS OF THIS CORRESPONDENCE AND REFERENCE (1)

For the purposes of income tax returns, Ref. (1) constitutes ONE RETURN spanning multiple years, submitted for the same error and omission in previous years. The 1040X forms were used as a convenience to simplify your job, but there was no obligation for me to actually use those forms, since I had no demonstrated or justified tax liability or obligation to file under 26 U.S.C. §6012. A “tax return” is only legally defined as a “return” if it establishes and fulfills a tax liability, which so far you have failed to demonstrate by failing to address any of the issues raised in Ref. (1) or this correspondence.

Likewise, this correspondence shall not constitute a “return”, but simply a clarification of a the previous Request for Refund (but not “return”) found in Ref. (1).

SECTION 2: RESPONSE TO REFERENCE (2)

Your position that I have requested a refund for an overpayment of taxes utilizing a frivolous claim that wages and payments for services are not gross income, is in error, frivolous, and without foundation in the law. I did not make such a claim. I merely did not earn “wages” or “compensation for services” as such terms are defined in the Internal Revenue Code. I also did not earn “taxable income” derived from a “taxable source” within the meaning of 26 U.S.C. §861 and implementing regulations found in 26 C.F.R. §861-8(a).

I am not an “employee” as such “term” is defined in Law and in the Internal Revenue Code. Federal Register, Tuesday, Sept. 7, 1943, §404.104, pg. 12267:

Employee: “The term ‘employee’ specifically includes officers and employees, whether elected or appointed, of the United States, a State, territory, or political subdivision thereof or the District of Columbia or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing.”

§3401(c) EMPLOYEE—“For purposes of this chapter, the term employee includes [only] an officer, employee or elected official of the United States, a State or any political subdivision thereof, of the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing. The term also includes an officer of a corporation.”

Because I am not an “employee,” or “Employees” as previously defined, I cannot, did not, and do not earn “wages,” as such terms are defined in the Internal Revenue Code. The term wages is defined in 26 U.S.C. §3401.

§3401(a) as : (a) Wages—“...the term ‘wages’ means all remuneration...for services performed by an employee for his employer...”

Further, I am not subject to the Public Salary Act of 1939, title I, §1, and, pursuant to such act, I did not earn “compensation for personal services” and therefore have no “gross income” or income includible in gross income, as such terms are defined.

Public Salary Act of 1939, TITLE I—“SECTION 1.§22(a) of the Internal Revenue Code relating to the definition of ‘gross income’ (is amended after the words ‘compensation for personal service’) includes [only] personal service as an officer or employee of a State, or any political subdivision thereof, or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing.”

My claim for a refund of an overpayment of taxes is based upon the legitimate and lawful claim that I derived no income from any source effectively connected to the conduct of a “trade or business” within the United States and no “taxable income” as lawfully defined. Therefore, I lawfully placed zero on the appropriate line of the 1040X form and in Ref. (1). Your agency cannot force me to make a false statement under the penalty of perjury in the process of forcing me to claim that I do have “taxable income”.

Following are your own statutes and regulations that provide evidence that I am outside your jurisdiction and had no “taxable income”. These statutes and regulations are well settled in law and certainly are not “frivolous” which means “without merit.”

26 U.S.C. §871 (b)(2): GRADUATED RATE OF TAX...

“(2) DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME.—In determining taxable income...gross income includes ONLY gross income which is effectively connected with the conduct of a TRADE OR BUSINESS within the United States.”

Because Claimant is not engaged in a “trade or business” within the United States, pursuant to 26 C.F.R. §1.871-1. (b)(1)(i), for the purposes of the income tax, he is in a class of “non-resident alien individuals,” defined as follows:

26 C.F.R. §1.871-1: “...(b) Classes of non-resident aliens-

(1) In general. For purposes of the income tax, nonresident alien individuals are divided into the following classes:

(i) Nonresident alien individuals who at no time during the taxable year engaged in a trade or business in the United States...

Pursuant to 26 C.F.R. §1.871-7, Claimant is not subject to the graduated income tax imposed by 26 U.S.C. §1.

26 C.F.R. §1.871-7: “Taxation of nonresident alien individuals not engaged in trade or U.S. business...”

(c) Imposition of tax

1) ...a nonresident alien individual...is NOT subject to the tax imposed by Section 1. [26 U.S.C., Subtitle A, Chapter 1]

Further, as evidenced by the following letter, obtained via a Freedom of Information request, there is no implementing C.F.R. or Federal Register regulation providing you with the lawful authority to impose this erroneous frivolous filing fee. Such a penalty is only applicable to corporations and NOT individuals.

As you are aware, pursuant to 44 U.S.C.A. §§1504-1507, before a citizen of the several States of the United States can be bound by, or adversely effected by a law or regulation, having general applicability to such Citizens, it must be published in the Federal Register. Such laws and regulations are then categorized pursuant to their applicable Title in the Code of Federal Regulations (CFR). 26 U.S.C. §7805(a) states:

“...the Secretary shall prescribe all needful rules and regulations for the enforcement of this title.”

The Internal Revenue Code is not self-executing. Without an implementing regulation, applicable to a particular type of tax, a statute has no force of law, and imposes no duties or penalties. As evidenced by the attached Freedom of Information Act Response from the Department of Treasury, Internal Revenue Service:

“There are no published regulations under Internal Revenue Code Sections 6702 and 6703, which authorize the imposition and collection of penalties for filing frivolous returns.”

Furthermore, the Parallel Table Authorities for 26 C.F.R. reveals that the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, and Firearms is the only authority authorized to use distraint or assess penalties for nonpayment of income taxes only Title 27 issues ONLY. The following is taken from the Parallel Table of Authorities in the back of the Title 26 Code of Federal Regulations [CFR]. It is a list of the ONLY 26 C.F.R. Part 301 Regulations that derive their Authority for implementation from Title 26 USCS or 26 IRC [Income Taxes]. Note the conspicuous absence of any penalty, interest, levy or seizure for the Title 26 Voluntary Income Tax. Again, it is inconceivable that the Congress would legislate penalties for the individual income tax, since the supreme Court and the IRS have both substantiated that such a Tax is voluntary and NOT based upon distraint. It would be absurd to impose penalties for non-compliance, when such an option is what made the tax voluntary to begin with!

You can look at the Parallel Table of Authorities yourself at:

http://www.access.gpo.gov/nara/cfr/parallel/parallel_table.html

In addition, the following court ruling clearly expresses your lack of authority to assess penalties:

*“...the Act’s civil and criminal penalties attach only upon the violation of a regulation promulgated by the Secretary; if the Secretary were to do nothing, the Act itself would impose no penalties on anyone...only those who violate the regulations (not the Code) may incur civil or criminal penalties, it is the actual regulation issued by the Secretary of the Treasury and not the broad authorizing language of the statute, which is to be tested against the standards of the 4th Amendment.” Calif. Bankers Assoc. v. Shultz, 416 U.S. 25, 44, 39 Led2d 812, 94 S.Ct. 1494

Your own Internal Revenue manual, which is reflective of the ruling case law on this subject states that you have no delegated authority to issue a civil penalty or to collect penalties without a judgment signed by a magistrate:

I.R.M. 546 §19(b)(2) “the civil penalty for non-compliance may be imposed only by filing a suit in the name of the United States, naming the taxpayer as a defendant and securing a judgment.”

The supreme Court agrees with this conclusion in the following case:

“Our system of taxation is based upon voluntary assessment and payment, not upon distraint.” Flora v. U.S., 362 U.S. 145 (1960).

[Emphasis added]

In case you don’t understand, “distraint” is defined as follows and is the equivalent of “force” or “coercion” or “compulsion” in the collection of debts and legal liabilities:

“...the act or process of DISTRAINT whereby a person (the DISTRAINOR), without prior court approval, seizes the personal property of another located upon the distrainer’s land in satisfaction of a claim, as a pledge for performance of a duty, or in reparation of an injury. Where goods are seized in satisfaction of a claim, the distrainer can hold the goods until the claim is paid and, failing payment, may sell them in satisfaction.” [Barron’s Law Dictionary, Steven H. Gifts, 1996, p. 150, ISBN 0-8120-3096-6]

Your assessment of penalties and demand for money, without the authority of law, your lawless actions to penalize me that have not been legally defended or explained or justified based on your delegated authority, constitutes extortion under the color of law, mail fraud and conspiracy against the rights of a Citizen, for which you will be held personally liable should legal action become necessary.

DEMAND FOR IMPARTIAL ADJUDICATORY HEARING PRIOR TO CONTINUING COLLECTION ACTIVITIES

Further, if you do not intend to immediately abate this erroneous civil penalty and to address the requests and claims made in Ref. (1), this correspondence shall constitute a demand for a formal impartial adjudicatory hearing prior to any further attempt to collect either taxes or penalties. Such hearing shall be for the purpose of determining the rights of the parties and will provide an opportunity for your agency to provide any evidence it might have to validate its claim that it has the authority to enforce a civil penalty on me, or that it has any jurisdiction in the case of a non-resident non-person such as myself not involved in a “trade or business in the United States” to assess or make me liable for income taxes. You are put on notice now that this hearing will be video recorded and audio recorded, and will be posted on the internet for all to see, and that attendance at such hearing constitutes implied consent on your part to be recorded.

CONSTRUCTIVE NOTICE OF ABSENCE OF RIGHT TO LEVY, LIEN, OR SEIZE ASSETS OF CLAIMANT

Pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §6331(a):

*United States Code
TITLE 26 - INTERNAL REVENUE CODE
Subtitle F - Procedure and Administration
CHAPTER 64 - COLLECTION
Subchapter D - Seizure of Property for Collection of Taxes
PART II – LEVY*

(a) Authority of Secretary

If any person liable to pay any tax neglects or refuses to pay the same within 10 days after notice and demand, it shall be lawful for the Secretary to collect such tax (and such further sum as shall be sufficient to cover the expenses of the levy) by levy upon all property and rights to property (except such property as is exempt under section 6334) belonging to such person or on which there is a lien provided in this chapter for the payment of such tax. Levy may be made upon the accrued salary or wages of any officer, employee, or elected official, of the United States, the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of the United States or the District of Columbia, by serving a notice of levy on the employer (as defined in section 3401(d)) of such officer, employee, or elected official. If the Secretary makes a finding that the collection of such tax is in jeopardy, notice and demand for immediate payment of such tax may be made by the Secretary and, upon failure or refusal to pay such tax, collection thereof by levy shall be lawful without regard to the 10-day period provided in this section.

This correspondence shall constitute constructive notice that I do NOT meet the definition of a person on whom you are authorized to institute distraint of the type above based on the definition of “employee” found above, and you are forewarned that you will be held personally liable under 26 U.S.C. §7214(a) for unlawful use of your authority if you violate the above restrictions on your legal authority. I have also warned my financial institutions and county recorder that a illegal fraud illegal taking of property may be perpetrated by you in the future against my property rights and to bring that to my attention promptly and disregard it.

SECTION 3: REINSTATEMENT OF REQUESTS FOUND IN REFERENCE (1):

Once again, I respectfully request that you take the time and accept you professional and legal responsibility under the IRS’ Taxpayer Bill Of Rights, contained in IRS Publication 1 as follows, and respond to all issues and requests made in Ref. (1):

“IRS Employees will explain and protect your rights as a taxpayer throughout your contact with us.”

“IRS will waive penalties when allowed by law if you can show you acted reasonably and in good faith or relied on the incorrect advice of an IRS employee.”

I have operated in good faith to date and would like for you to establish immediately any evidence to the contrary or the claims in Ref. (1), or else this assertion shall be an established fact in the absence of refutation within 15 days under the Uniform Commercial Code. You will note that the basis of “rights” is the law, and you therefore can’t live up to your obligations as an IRS agent above to “explain and protect my rights as a ‘taxpayer’” without addressing the specific law that you believe makes me liable to pay income tax and in turn, refutes my claims, and establishes my “rights” or absence thereof. The notable absence of documented liability to date provided by you means I am still entitled to a refund in full of all taxes paid over the last three years. To live up to your obligations and the Taxpayer Bill of Rights, you must respond to and refute each and every legal issue raised in Ref. (1) that you regard as frivolous and explain why you believe it is frivolous. Any other approach would constitute a violation of due process under the Sixth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution and a frivolous and abusive misuse of your public office and the authorities delegated to it, not to mention an abusive and harassing failure on your part to establish any jurisdictional or delegated authority to act in my specific case.

Federal Procedure §2.455 states as follows: “If a party’s allegations of jurisdictional facts are challenged by an adversary in any appropriate manner, he or she must support them by competent proof.”

“The extent of the authority of the people’s public agents is measured by the statute from which they derive their authority, not by their own acts and assumption of authority.”

“Public officers have and can exercise only such powers as are conferred on them by law...”

“The powers of State officers being fixed by law, all persons dealing with such officers are charged with knowledge of the extent of their authority,” [Sittler v. Board of Control of Michigan College of Mining and Technology, 333 Mich. 681, 53 N.W.2d. 681 (1952)]

“[W]hen an officer acts wholly outside the scope of the powers granted to him by statute or constitutional provision, the official’s actions have been considered to be unauthorized.” [Ramirez de Arellano v. Weinberger, 745 F.2d. 1500, 1523 (D.C. Cir. 1984)]

I would like to remind you that each and every issue raised in Reference (1) has been thoroughly researched and your claim in Ref. (2) that:

“The position you have taken has no basis in law and represents a frivolous position. The tax laws are very clear and have been tested in the courts—including the Supreme Court of the United States. Claims such as yours have been considered and rejected repeatedly as frivolous and without merit by the federal courts.”

...is considered frivolous itself as indicated on page 7 of Ref. (1), in which I predicted you would try to use FUD (Fear, Uncertainty, and Doubt) tactics and an unsubstantiated, undocumented, lawless, and unjustified threats and extortion to coerce me into compliance with a "voluntary" tax system which does NOT make me liable for the payment of income taxes. You will note that I have followed your advice and researched the laws for myself, and this extensive research took six full months of my personal time. Enclosure (5), Chapter 3, of Ref. (1) reveals the results of the research and exhaustively examines over 200 years of tax laws, Supreme Court Cases, and federal district court cases, and is the foundation of each and every claim made in Ref. (1), which you have established as fact based on your failure to refute or address. As a matter of fact, Enclosure (5) of Ref. (1) has become the defacto standard among a large organization of tax rights advocates found at an organization called "We The People" and has gone unrefuted since its introduction nearly six months ago, in spite of the fact that the document is in use by over 50,000 loyal and patriotic Americans such as myself. I have found absolutely NO cases or laws that would contradict any of the positions advocated in this letter or in Ref. (1). The burden of proof therefore once again falls squarely on you and the IRS to now disprove and rebut the presumptions and claims made in Ref. (1) with specific legal cites. You are encouraged to the same kind of study for yourself and to reveal to me any specific examples (regulations, or Supreme or Circuit court case cites) you might find which would refute every point I made in Ref. (1) in establishing my nonliability for income tax. In the process of your rebuttal, you are put on notice that the following constraints apply right from your own Internal Revenue Manual:

"Decisions made at various levels of the court system... may be used by either examiners or taxpayers to support a position... A case decided by the U.S. Supreme Court becomes the law of the land and takes precedence over decisions of lower courts... Decisions made by lower courts, such as Tax Court, District Courts, or Claims Court, are binding on the Service only for the particular taxpayer and the years litigated. Adverse decisions of lower courts do not require the Service to alter its position for other taxpayers."
[Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.), Section 4.10.7.2.9.8 (05/14/99)]

Therefore, you can only cite Supreme Court and Circuit Court decisions, and not tax court or district court cases or statutes. I have also examined the following documents published by DOJ and the Treasury and have found no mention of ANY of the issues raised in Ref. (1) that you claim are frivolous:

1. Department of Justice, Tax Division, Criminal Tax Manual (1994 version) (see <http://famguardian.org/Publications/DOJTDCTM/DOJTDCTM.htm>),
2. Chapter 6 of the U.S. Attorney's Manual (see <http://famguardian.org/Publications/USAttyManual/title6/title6.htm>)
3. IRS' Tax Protester Manual, Training 3203-154, TPDS 85278C (see <http://famguardian.org/Publications/IRSTaxProtMan/IRSTaxProHbk.htm>)

Therefore, I am forced to conclude that you are bluffing and that are trying to coerce me into surrendering my rights by unethically and despicably attempting to exploit the ignorance you wrongfully assume I have about the law. This is unconscionable and constitutes a violation of the public trust for which you ought to be censured. Can we therefore quit the posturing and game playing and get down to any specific issues you have about Ref. (1), please? It's harassing to continue to receive in the mail ill-conceived and clearly threatening and illegal correspondences of the kind in Ref. (2).

You are once again reminded that I made in Ref. (1) a Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) request for the following:

1. My complete administrative record, (both written and electronic) for the tax years 1997 through 2000, excluding the content of this correspondence.
2. My Individual Master File (IMF) specific and not literal, Data Service, Treasury/IRS 24.030 for the tax years 1997 through 2000.

You are also requested to immediately identify the disposition of the claim for refund found in Ref. (1) for the tax year 2000, since you did not identify what you intended to do in your Ref. (2).

SECTION 4: AFFIDAVIT OF REVOCATION OF SIGNATURES AND RESCISSION OF PREVIOUSLY FILED W-4 FORMS, 1040 FORMS, STATE INCOME TAX FORMS, ET AL.

I, _____, Citizen of _____(statename) and domiciled in _____(countyname), _____(statename), one of the American union States, hereby extinguish, rescind, revoke, cancel, abrogate, annul, nullify, discharge, and make void ab initio all signatures, belonging to me, on all previously filed Internal Revenue Service, W-4 Forms (other than EXEMPT W-4's), 1040 Forms (that are not part of Ref. (1)) and all State Income Tax Forms and all powers of attorneys, real and implied, connected thereto, on the grounds that my purported consent was not voluntarily and freely obtained, but was made through mistake, duress, fraud, and undue influence exercised by your agency and my employer. Pursuant to Contract Law: "All 1040 (not part of Ref. (1)) and W-4 Forms (other than EXEMPT W-4's) are, hereby, extinguished by this rescission."

Rescission: (Black's 6th Edition Law Dictionary) "To abrogate, annul, avoid, or cancel a contract; particularly, nullifying a contract by the act of a party. The right of rescission is the right to cancel (rescind) a contract upon the occurrence of certain kinds of default by the contracting party. To declare a contract void in its inception and to put an end to it as though it never were. Russel v. Stephens, 191 Wash. 314, 71 P.2d. 3031....A rescission amounts to the unmaking of a contract, or an undoing of it from the beginning. It necessarily involves a repudiation of the contract and a refusal of the moving party to be bound by it..."

I was induced by fraud and duress to sign such forms and I was denied full disclosure of the voluntary nature of such forms. I was misled by those who knew, or should have known, into believing that filing such forms was mandatory and/or implied, were unconscionable and grossly unfair to me. I was unduly influenced by the stronger bargaining power of my employer, the Internal Revenue Service and the State Tax agency, and acted under an implied threat and fear of losing my job and my property and out of fear of potential imprisonment for non-compliance. Any alleged consent is null and void as it was given under duress, by mistake, and by fraud. Notwithstanding any information which you may have to the contrary, any forms that have been filed, and any implied quasi contracts that you may feel you have with me, were filed illegally and unlawfully and are without force/and or effect.

I further revoke, rescind, and make void ab initio all powers of attorney pertaining to me for any and all governmental/quasi/colorable agencies and/or Departments created under the authority of Art. I, Sec. 8, Cl. 17, and/or Art. IV, Sec. 3, Cl. 2 of the Constitution of the United States.

I, hereby, voluntarily relinquish any presumptive 14th Amendment citizenship status and any privileges and immunities granted therein. I retain my natural born status of a Citizen of one of the several union States of America under the Constitution and law, and my Citizenship in these United States of America. I preserve all my unalienable Rights that are inherent from my Creator, at all times. I waive no rights at any time. I do not, at any time, designate anyone to be a binding arbitrator in any disputes of my Rights or equity. If your agency has a Constitutionally valid claim, you must adhere to Due Process of Law, and other protections according to the Constitution, and I will remain an Involuntary Litigant in any such action.

SECTION 5: NEXT STEPS:

I will pursue the following if you do not comply with the requests in this correspondence in a timely fashion and as required by your responsibilities and delegated authority:

1. Filing of IRS form 911, which requests help from the Taxpayer Advocate's office.
2. Writing letters to my senators and congressmen.
3. Adjudicatory/examination hearing.
4. Filing a Referral and Request for "Technical Advice" under 26 C.F.R. § 601.105(b)(5)(iii) and Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.), Section 4.10.7.2.10.
5. Posting all of your correspondence and my responses on the website located at <http://famguardian.org> in order that other concerned citizens may learn from and reuse the litigation tools developed dealing with you.
6. Waiting at least six months from receipt of Ref. (1) and filing a Civil Action for Refund of Erroneously Withheld Private Earnings under 26 U.S.C. §7422 and 26 U.S.C. §6532.
7. Prosecuting and holding you personally liable under the following Statutes:
 - 7.1. 26 U.S.C. §7214
 - 7.2. 42 U.S.C. §1983-Civil Action for Deprivation of Rights
 - 7.3. 18 U.S.C. §241-Conspiracy against Rights of Citizens—Criminal Action
 - 7.4. 26 U.S.C. §7433-Civil Damages for Certain Unauthorized Collection Actions

You are forewarned that all future interactions with you via telephone will be recorded and posted for public listening on the website at <http://famguardian.org>, and that any attempts to contact me either by phone or in person shall constitute consent by you to be electronically recorded. These recordings will be used as evidence in the process of litigating my Civil Action for Request For Refund and Conspiracy against rights.

Should you wish to further investigate the claims contained in this letter or the research to back it up, you are encouraged to visit the website at <http://famguardian.org> and download the book called Great IRS Hoax: Why We Don't Owe Income Tax, Form #11.302. The book is free and very completely reveals and exposes the fraud of the income tax that most sovereign Citizens of the United States of America have been repeatedly and maliciously victimized by through ignorance and illegal activities of employees at your agency.

I thank you kindly for taking the time to diligently read and respond to this correspondence and to Ref. (1), and for acting in an ethical, respectful, and responsible way that honors the legal constraints imposed upon your position as a as an revenue officer acting under the color and authority of the laws of the United States government. It is only by you observing the legal limitations imposed on your position that the IRS and the U.S. Government can ever hope to earn and keep the public trust and confidence that all Citizens living in the 50 states would like to have in your agency and in their government.

May God richly bless you and yours with a clear conscience and the blessings of liberty and freedom.

Very Respectfully,

<<NAME>>

5.10 State Income Tax Return Forms

5.10.1 Letter to Attach to California 540NR State Return

This letter is to be included as an attachment to the 540NR California tax return. It is intended to be used by persons who are Citizens of the United States of America (note we didn't say U.S. citizens), who are employees of the government, and who receive a form W-2 from their employer which contains a nonzero amount in block 10 for "wages, tips, and other compensation."

This letter is extremely effective because it:

1. Emphasizes your condition of being an informed American who wants an accountable government that understands and respects your Constitutional rights and the Constitution limits on its authority.
2. Establishes the completely constitutional nature of the Internal Revenue Code, but also establishes that they are being misrepresented and improperly administered by tax professionals, private employers, and the IRS.
3. Establishes your proper filing status as "non-citizen National" and a non-resident non-person (who must use the IRS form 540NR rather than the 540).
4. Establishes the unconstitutional nature of the income tax when applied directly on individuals.
5. Shifts the burden of proof to the government, who is then obligated to prove liability, instead of you having to prove nonliability. It does this by:
 - 5.1. Makes you a "nontaxpayer". Only "taxpayers" have the burden of proof under 26 U.S.C. §7491.
 - 5.2. Requests a copy of your IMF file, so that you have evidence of your nonliability provided with the IRS' response.
 - 5.3. Establishes full disclosure of evidence of your nonliability in your official administrative record.
6. Forces the issues into the legal realm, which rules out the involvement of usually less-informed IRS revenue agents or clerks and instead requires the involvement of tax attorneys and persons more experienced with the law. This has the effect of improving the quality of the response you are likely to get from the IRS while also significantly increasing their cost of dealing with you. IRS attorneys make $110,000/year while clerks cost them $30-40K/year. This will make you into a "high maintenance citizen" who they will want to avoid, because you will negatively impact their bottom line.
7. Because of the extensive research it involves, requires escalation to higher levels in the IRS to deal with the issues, and requires disclosure of who was exposed to the issues raised so that these individuals can be implicated in the conspiracy as well.
8. Encourages full accountability by insisting that all persons involved be identified. Discourages anonymous or other "threatening and harassing" correspondence from the IRS.
9. Provides the minimum amount of information possible to the IRS and protects the information you do provide from use as evidence in a criminal prosecution.
10. Leaves no room for accusations of fraud against you because of your full disclosure, and creates a tremendous burden of proof for them to refute the basis for your belief of nonliability.
11. By providing a time limit of 45 days, establishes a default presumption of correctness of your claims if they don't respond, which is a very common occurrence.
12. Exposes the fraud and corruption by the government that will incentivize IRS revenue agents to defect/resign from the IRS once they learn the truth. Your administrative file, for instance, will have a copy of this book, and unwitting IRS employees will come across this accidentally and have the fraud exposed to them as well. This will reduce retention and ultimately the effectiveness of the IRS as an organization because of the training problems it will create for the organization.

Since:

1. Filing requirements and change frequently, and we need a way to communicate current requirements in a timely, electronic manner.
2. We could easily come under fire for instructing people how to file, especially because "nontaxpayers" should NOT file at all.
3. It is incompatible with the Mission of those who offer this book to be instructing people how to file tax returns.

Then we have decided to offer the example return on a FREE website and no include it in this book. You can obtain an example form from the FREE website below:

Look at item #8.1 through 8.6 on the left area for free examples. Item 8.1 contains the refund example that Family Guardian Fellowship uses. The direct link is:

This section should not be construed as advice about whether or how you should file, but simply a pointer to free information that may prove useful should you make the independent decision to file.

Enclosure(s):

- (1) Verified Affidavit of Default for California Franchise Tax Board
- (2) Form 540 for tax year 2000. This form lists only the minimum information necessary to establish my tax liability, which is that I am a resident of California and that I had zero taxable income and the amount of tax paid which needs to be refunded. You will note that although this form is beyond the due date of April 15, since there is not tax due and the entire amount is refundable, then no penalties are warranted. You will also note that this form is NOT a new or additional return, but a clarification of the Request for Refund Affidavit found in Ref. (2) submitted for clarification at the request of Patrick of the Franchise Tax Board (station number 4436).

Subject: Affidavit Response to Your Letter FTB 4619MEO, Ref. (1)

Dear Sir(s),

This Legal Notice is in response to your Ref. (1). It is my intent to briefly address the issues you raised and to close this letter with Encl. (1) and is submitted within the 30 day window requested in Ref. (1). Pursuant to UCC §1-205(6), this correspondence shall serve as a Formal Legal and Constructive Notice that you are requested to refute any and all claims that I make in this affidavit via a responsive affidavit signed by someone of competent authority under penalty of perjury, and containing a full and complete signature and legal name of a human being. Those facts in this affidavit that you do not refute shall constitute agreed upon, established, and admitted facts on your part that will be used against you in any pending Civil Action for Refund relating to Ref. (2). This protocol henceforth shall be a "Course of Dealing and Usage of Trade" established between us under U.C.C. Section 1.205(6). (see <http://law.cornell.edu/ucc/1/1-205.html> for further details).

1. FACTS ESTABLISHED BY YOUR LACK OF RESPONSE TO REF. (2):

It is quite plain from reading your Ref. (1) that that you either didn't read my Ref. (2) or that you are avoiding the issues raised in Ref. (2). Consequently, I have attached Encl. (1) certifying the facts you have acquiesced to and admitted to by lack of response to Ref. (2) pursuant to the protocol mentioned above and reiterated in Ref. (2). Furthermore, if you persist in harassing me, I may apply for a refund of all taxes paid for tax year 1997 as well, since the statute of limitations for refunds is four years under R&TC §19306.

In addition, you are delinquent in providing the copy of my FTB administrative file requested in Ref.(2) and this has hampered the effectiveness of responding to the requests made in Ref. (1). Please promptly respond to my FOIA request as evidenced in Ref.(2) for a copy of my administrative records going back to 1998.

2. RESPONSE TO ISSUES YOU RAISED IN REF. (1):

With regard to the issues you did respond to in Ref. (1) that were raised in Ref. (2), allow me to succinctly address each one as you described it at this time:

1. Alleged “Frivolous Return(s)”

1.1. According to your own definition in Ref. (1), a frivolous return is a “substantially incorrect” return, or one that doesn’t have any financial information upon which to assess a tax liability. I would argue that even if I submitted NO financial information whatsoever but a statement of residency in California or a California FTB form 590, then my return would STILL be adequate to compute my state tax liability, which is ZERO.

1.2. Section 17951 indicates that gross income

1.3. The burden of proof therefore shifts squarely against you to demonstrate:

1.3.1. What the law (not you, but the law as described in this letter) says was incorrect about my tax return(s) in Ref. (2).

1.3.2. What information is in fact missing from the return that is necessary to compute the correct amount of tax. I can’t truthfully include my W-2 income as taxable on line 12 of form 540 or line 1(a) of form 540X, because as I point out below, this income is not taxable because I am a resident of California. Therefore, the returns in Ref. (2) are substantially correct in my view and reflect the correct amount of income on these lines.

2. Alleged insufficient information to assess “taxpayer’s” income (R&TC Section 18501.

2.1. First of all, I claim that I am NOT a “taxpayer” or one who is liable to pay state income tax as a resident of California, and the burden of proving that I am still rests on you.

2.2. Ref. (2) contained all the information you require to compute my taxable income, which is zero. The only thing you need to know is that I am a resident of California, but not “the State of California”. This fact alone establishes that I have no taxable income, as I explain in section 3 below.

2.3. I have included form W-2’s for tax years 1998 and 1999 and 2000, but since I have no taxable income as a resident of California (but not “the State of California), I had no requirement to even file a return and am due a refund of all taxes erroneously paid, which agrees with the numbers indicated on the form 540X already submitted and with Encl (2). The amount that should appear on line 12 of my California 540 form should therefore be “zero” and my taxable income is zero, and all state taxes paid should be refunded.

3. Alleged alteration of the Jurat:

3.1. Ref. (2) was submitted under penalty of perjury, which is all that is required to make it a valid return.

3.2. Please clarify what aspect of the jurat, if any, was altered on any forms submitted as part of Ref. (2), as I am unaware of any changes to the jurat on any of the forms I submitted. During Ref. (3), Patrick, your representative, assured me that this particular issue did not apply to me and so I won’t address it further.

4. Application of penalties:

4.1. You may only impose penalties for delinquency relate to tax due, and I have paid taxes I wasn’t liable for on all amounts earned, so there is no penalty you can assess.

4.2. There can be no penalty or criminal charge for failing to file a return because you now have returns for the years 1998-2000 which I continue to certify under penalty of perjury as being true, correct, and complete. The fact that these returns don’t contain information documenting taxable income I don’t have doesn’t make them frivolous, it simply makes them accurate. You can’t apply a penalty and duress to force me to commit perjury on the form and violate my good faith beliefs about income tax liability, because that would make my signature involuntary and signed under duress and thereby invalidate it based on the definition of “duress found below in section 4. The burden of proof therefore rests squarely on you based on this letter to demonstrate a tax liability or that I am an alleged “taxpayer” in this instance because I completely refute such claims and my claims are consistent with your FTB form 590’s assertion that residents of California aren’t liable for taxes or withholding.

4.3. It represents hypocrisy and fraud and treason of the highest order for you to imply now or at any time in the future that any signatures I put on any California income tax returns now or at any time in the future is voluntary, considering the penalties you have assessed on me that were based on my good faith belief and unrefuted and substantiated (by your silence and Verified Default) legal research contained in Ref. (2).

4.4. Consequently, from this point on, a presumption is established that ALL future and current California income tax returns other than those for a complete refund in full (like that in Encl 2) shall be assumed to be submitted under perjury that this perjury was a direct result of duress on your part, and this presumption shall exist whether or not it is stated on the tax return. A certified copy of this letter will be kept on file in case you ever try to prosecute me for liability about any of the statements made on any future state income tax returns that are not refunds. The only way to remove and rebut this presumption in the future is with the following actions on your part:

4.4.1. A retraction of all penalties threatened in Ref.(1).

4.4.2. A full refund of all California income taxes involuntarily withheld by the Franchise Tax Board for the years 1998 through 2000.

4.4.3. A retraction of the false statements (meant to deceive me into paying taxes voluntarily) made my Patrick in Ref. (3) about the California form 590 Withholding Exemption form.

This request is based on the definition of “duress” found in section 4 below, which states in part:

Duress: (Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, page 504) “Any unlawful threat or coercion used by a person to induce another to act (or to refrain from acting) in a manner he or she otherwise would not (or would). Subjecting person to improper pressure which overcomes his will and coerces him to comply with demand to which he would not yield if acting as free agent. Head v. Gadsden Civil Service Bd., Ala.Civ.App., 389 So.2d. 516, 519. Application of such pressure or constraint as compels man to go against his will, and takes away his free agency, destroying power of refusing to comply with unjust demands of another. Haumont v. Security State Bank, 220 Neb. 809, 374 N.W.2d. 2,6.

Duress may be a defense to a criminal act, breach of contract, or tort because an act to be criminal or one which constitutes a breach of contract or a tort must be voluntary to create liability or responsibility

A contract entered into under duress by physical compulsion is void. Also, if a party’s manifestation of assent to a contract is induced by an improper threat by the other party that leaves the victim no reasonable alternative, the contract is voidable by the victim. Restatement, Second, Contracts §§174, 175.”

The key is that the duress is applied unlawfully, and you asking for taxes you can’t lawfully prove I am liable for, is unlawful and constitutes extortion under the color of office:

extortion under the color of office: “...Unlawful taking by any officer by color of his office, of any money or thing of value, that is not due to him, or more than is due or before it is due.” 4 Bla.Comm. 141; Com. v. Saulsbury, 152 Pa. 554, 25 A. 610; U.S. v. Denver, D.C.N.C. 14 F. 595; Bush v. State, 19 Ariz. 195, 168 P. 508, 509... “Obtaining property from another, induced by wrongful use of force or fear, OR under color of official right.” See State v. Logan, 104 La. 760, 29 So. 336; In re Rempfer, 51 S.D. 393, 216 N.W. 355, 359, 55 A.L.R. 1346; Lee v. State, 16 Ariz. 291, 145 P. 244, 246, Ann.Cas. 1917B, 131.
[Black’s Law Dictionary, Revised 4th Edition]

Your FTB publications, like the IRS publications, aren’t the place to look for legal justification of your delegated authority to collect personal income taxes from me: California appellate and supreme court rulings, the statutes, and the CCR’s (at <http://www.calregs.com/>) themselves are the only way you can demonstrate my liability, but I’ve already perused these extensively myself to prove the opposite, and have researched California court cases going all the way back to 1930 at Versus Law (<http://www.versuslaw.com>) and found no cases that would refute any of the conclusions in this letter. If you aren’t able to address these legal issues, I suggest that you find someone who can do so. Even if you do assemble a list of points and authorities, it will still be inadequate if it is not authenticated and signed under penalty of perjury by a member of your agency, because it will not be useful as evidence. However, if I do get an authenticated point and authority refuting EVERY issue raised in this letter and I am convinced it does the job, then we can head off a legal battle later and save a lot of taxpayer dollars, which we both have an interest in doing. Truth is the only thing that will win this war, threats or duress won’t work and you are wasting your time by trying to scare me with penalties.

5. I ask that you please completely read the rest of this letter (and chapter 5 of Great IRS Hoax: Why We Don’t Owe Income Tax, Form #11.302, latest edition, free for the downloading at <http://famguardian.org/>) so that you can completely understand the comments above, or you will take the comments completely out of context and reach an irrational and unwarranted conclusion that may incur a risk of prosecution and personal liability on your part for malfeasance and extortion.
6. If you do not honor the wishes expressed in this letter, then I will promptly pursue an administrative remedy as far as I can take it and then see you personally in court, and official immunity will not protect you from your lawless acts of extortion on a sovereign Citizen of California. The materials I prepare to prosecute you will be shared (on <http://famguardian.org>) with 20,000 other like-minded freedom fighters to help them prosecute your colleagues after we are finished with you. You might win one battle, but the sheer number of us, our dedication, and the information we share with each other over the Internet will win the war against your ignorance and fraud in the end. You can only hide the truth and promote ignorance for so long before people figure out the fraud you have foisted upon them. This is not a battle about pride or even my own needs or wants. It is a fulfillment of truth and justice and the oath I took when I joined the U.S. military and which our founding fathers also shared and this goal is more important to me than comfort, property, or life itself:

"I do solemnly swear to uphold the Constitution of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic, so help me God."

3. ADDITIONAL SIGNIFICANT ISSUES REGARDING TAX LIABILITY:

In addition to the above issues raised, several other important considerations bear on my tax situation and explain why the taxable income reported on the 540X's in Ref. (2) for years 1998 and 1999 is zero:

1. I have included Encls. (2) and (3) to initiate my refund of all state taxes paid for the year 2000. The original incorrect and therefore VOIDED W-2 forms provided by my employer are included only for completeness, but you are advised NOT to use these forms. They are substantially incorrect in reporting that I have taxable wage income as a resident of California.
2. California Form 590 indicates that residents of California are exempt from state income taxes and withholding. The form states:

I certify that for the reasons checked below, the entity or individual named on this form is exempt from California income tax withholding requirements on payment(s) made to the entity or individual. Read the following carefully and check the box that applies to the vendor/payee:

Individuals—Certification of Residency

I am a resident of California and I reside at the address shown above. If I become a nonresident at any time, I will promptly inform the withholding agent. See instructions for Form 590. General Information D. for the definition of resident.

B. Law

R&TC Section 18662 and the related regulations require withholding of income or franchise tax on payments of California source income made to nonresidents of this state.

Naturally, it stands to reason from the above that if a resident of California is not liable to withhold, then they are also not liable to pay California income taxes. During Ref. (3), Patrick indicated that the FTB form 590 was "only for independent contractors and self-employment only" and that "the form doesn't apply to employees like you." That was clearly mistaken and misleading advice that I told him did not satisfy me and was completely inconsistent with the content of the FTB form 590 and all of the laws cited in this correspondence and Ref. (2). I asked him if he could legally justify it further, and he stated he couldn't, and refused to provide me with a phone number of a person in the FTB who could, which I thought was rude and disrespectful.

3. The year 2000 Form 540 booklet says on page 4, footnote 1 under the requirements table:

"California gross income is all income you received in the form of money, goods, property, and services from all sources that is not exempt from tax."

The code does not explicitly need to state that gross income must be exempt in order for it to be exempt. This explains why my gross income listed on FTB form 540 line 12 and FTB form 540X line 1(a) MUST be zero, since I am a resident with no taxable income.

4. You will note that "nonresidents" only include those persons who live "in this State", which on the surface seems like an oxymoron, but begins to make sense when this area is properly understood to mean the federal areas within the California Republic ceded to the federal government as described in sections 17018 and 6017 of the R&TC and 4 U.S.C. §§ 105-113. Section 17951 of the R&TC confirms this:

17951. In the case of nonresident taxpayers the gross income includes only the gross income from sources within this State [meaning that portion of U.S. possessions that reside within California under the Buck Act found in 4 U.S.C. §§105-115, not to include the nonfederal areas within California, as defined in R&TC section 17018 and repeated in section 6017].

Note that this is the ONLY place in the entire R&TC that states that ANY kind of gross income is taxable for the purposes of personal income taxes, and therefore this section is the only legitimate source of involuntary income tax revenue within the R&TC. Consequently, my TAXABLE gross income listed on FTB form 540 line 12 and FTB form 540X line 1(a) MUST be zero as a resident of California, which is why I wrote zero. This leads one to question why there is a 540 form at all, and why the 540NR (nonresident) form isn't more appropriate. The confusion by the FTB appears to be deliberate to deceive sovereign Citizens into paying income taxes they aren't liable for by not explaining in the 540 booklet the meaning of "State wages" and "State". See table 1 below for further details on this subject.

5. Why is it that California can only tax "nonresidents", which only includes those individuals living in federal territories and possessions within California? Because according to the U.S. Supreme Court in Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244, 1901:

"CONSTITUTIONAL RESTRICTIONS AND LIMITATIONS [Bill of Rights] WERE NOT APPLICABLE to the areas of lands, enclaves, territories, and possessions over which Congress had EXCLUSIVE LEGISLATIVE JURISDICTION"

6. You will also note that a person who claims to be a "U.S. resident" on his 1040 form is saying he lives in the District of Columbia or other U.S. possession, which means he can't be a resident of California and therefore is a nonresident who falls under section 17951 of the R&TC. Since such a person is effectively a nonresident of California, and he is liable for payment of California income taxes because he presumably lives in a federal area without constitutional protections (the Bill of Rights). Furthermore, those who pay the graduated federal or state income tax have actually made an (often unknowing) election to treat their income as "effectively connected with a trade or business in the United States", which is equivalent to stating, in effect, that they are a "public officer" (Congressman, for instance) living in a federal possession subject to the jurisdiction of the United States (which we all know is a physical impossibility if they reside in California). Thus, one could say that federal tax laws have legalized lying and fraud as a convenience to maximize both state and federal income tax revenues! And because the graduated income taxes is, in most cases, lower than that for individuals who claim their correct status as non-resident non-persons, the legalization of this lying was done in the name of saving taxes! However, regardless of what a person elects to say, the courts are obligated to judge the applicability of tax laws on the bases of facts, and not legalized fraud and therefore the state still can't use distraint on a person who in fact resides in a nonfederal territory within California. See the following for further explanation:

26 U.S.C. §871(b)(2)-GRADUATED RATE OF TAX...

"(2) DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME.—In determining taxable income...gross income includes ONLY gross income which is effectively connected with the conduct of a TRADE OR BUSINESS within the United States."

26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) Definitions. Trade or Business. The term "trade or business" includes [only] the performance of the functions of a public office."

Following is a definition of "public office":

Public Office, pursuant to Black's Law Dictionary, Abridged 6th Edition, means:

"Essential characteristics of a 'public office' are:

- (1) Authority conferred by law,
- (2) Fixed tenure of office, and
- (3) Power to exercise some of the sovereign functions of government.
- (4) Key element of such test is that "officer is carrying out a sovereign function".
- (5) Essential elements to establish public position as 'public office' are:
 - (a) Position must be created by Constitution, legislature, or through authority conferred by legislature.
 - (b) Portion of sovereign power of government must be delegated to position,
 - (c) Duties and powers must be defined, directly or implied, by legislature or through legislative authority.
 - (d) Duties must be performed independently without control of superior power other than law, and
 - (e) Position must have some permanency."

7. I have been a resident of California since 1984 and I have documentation to prove it. Therefore, I am exempt from California income tax withholding and liability and income tax liability. I would be happy to provide evidence of my residency if you like, but the mailing address you have on record and used for me for the past 16 years and my past year tax returns ought to be sufficient.

8. I am NOT a citizen or resident of the “United States” defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701 and Ref. (2), which includes only the District of Columbia or the Federal territories or possessions or areas within the borders of sovereign states nor have I ever been. Therefore, being a California resident does not make me a United States resident or even a citizen of the “United States” (D.C. and federal areas). As a matter of fact, I have expatriated my federal citizenship below in section 6. Instead, I am a United States of America resident of the several states, which means I am a resident of the first and third definitions of “United States” but not the second definition shown below:

United States: “This term has several meanings. It may be merely [1] the name of a sovereign occupying the position analogous to that of other sovereigns in family of nations, [2] it may designate territory over which sovereignty of the United States extends, or [3] it may be collective name of the states which are united by and under the Constitution. Hooven & Allison Co. v. Evatt, U.S. v. Ohio, 324 U.S. 652, 65 S.Ct. 870, 880, 89 L.Ed. 1252.”
[Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition]

9. The period covered by Ref. (2) (my amended returns for 1998-1999) above includes the period during which I was a resident of California.
10. The reason for my reporting taxable income and gross of “zero” in Ref. (1) is that I have no taxable income during the period covered by the tax returns in question. It is my understanding that the purpose of the W-2 form is to report TAXABLE income, which I had none of during 1998-2000, and which my employer misreported during that period. Your own agent Patrick, during Ref. (4), confirmed that “the W-2 only lists taxable income”, to use his words.
11. Even if I presented to you the inaccurate W-2 forms provided by my employer documenting my alleged taxable wage income, that would not make said wages taxable. I therefore see no reason why there is a need to report any taxable income whatsoever and would like my privacy respected by not being asked for additional information about my nontaxable income. My original returns stand exactly as they are for 1998 and 1999.
12. I have provided VOIDED copies of the ERRONEOUS W-2’s for the two tax years in question (1998-1999), but I wish to emphasize that they are incorrect for the reasons stated, but are submitted for the purposes of demonstrating that I had gross income but not taxable income during the tax years 1998 through 2000. These W-2 forms DO NOT constitute an additional return, but simply a clarification of the information provided with Ref. (2).
13. Under section 17018 of the Revenue and Taxation code, “State” is defined as follows:

17018. “State” includes the District of Columbia, and the possessions of the United States.

- Possessions of the “United States” DO NOT include California or any other sovereign state, but do include federal areas within the borders of the sovereign states. You will note that I do not now and never have lived in “this State” as defined above or in R&TC §6017 for at least the past 16 years, which makes me not liable for the payment of California “State” income taxes as confirmed by the content of California form 590. If I had lived in “this State”, however, then I would indeed be liable for the payment of State income taxes because I would be a nonresident of California.
14. Line 1(a) of FTB form 540X says “State wages. See instructions”. Line 12 of California form 540 says “State wages from your form(s) W-2, box 17”. You will note that the word “State” is capitalized in these two conspicuous locations just as it was in sections 17018 and 6017 of the Revenue and Taxation Code so that it MUST refer to federal areas within California. It would also appear that the word was deliberately put at the beginning of the line by crafty tax attorneys to create confusion in the mind of Citizens over which capitalization applies, thus making it easy to make a mistake in misinterpreting it as really meaning “state” instead of its proper form “State”. Since “State” is defined above as “District of Columbia and the possessions of the United States”, and since I don’t live in these areas because I am a resident of California (but not “the State of California”, then I’m not liable for tax on my income, and none of the said income appearing on any of the erroneous W-2 forms provided by my employer(s) reflects the correct taxable income on block 17. Therefore, I can’t truthfully fill in anything other than a “0” in block 12 of my California 540 or block 1(a) of the 540X forms that were included with Ref. (2). These conclusions are consistent with the FTB form 590 Exemption from Withholding discussed earlier. The above confusion over the term “State” on the 540 form in the FTB Resident booklet needs to be clarified and made to be consistent with section 17018 of the R&TC, so that Citizens who aren’t liable for paying California income taxes aren’t inadvertently deceived into paying anyway.
15. Without any constitutional rights above for residents of “the State of California” as defined in section 17018, it’s easy to lawfully coerce and distraint people to file tax returns involuntarily, and thereby violate their First, Fourth, Fifth, and Sixth amendment protections as explained exhaustively in Ref. (2). I, however, as a resident of California, insist that my constitutional rights be respected and have renounced my 14th Amendment federal citizenship in sections 5 and 6 below. This places me outside of “the State of California” (federal areas within California) but inside of nonfederal areas of California, and restores my Constitutional rights.

16. Pursuant to R&TC section 18521, I wish to state that I have been filing the wrong federal tax form since 1978. I have been incorrectly filing IRS form 1040 all those years when the correct form is IRS form 1040NR. The fact that I was a nonresident for federal returns simply means that I did not reside in any federal territory or the District of Columbia (see the definitions of the terms “State” and “United States” in 26 U.S.C. §7701).

17. The correct form for California tax returns for me since 1978 is and always has been the form 540, but all forms I filed since 1978 should have had a “zero” amount in block 12 because I was a resident of California and not “the State of California”. Please update my status according to the below.

18521(a)(2) If the Franchise Tax Board determines that the filing status used on the taxpayer's federal income tax return was incorrect, the Franchise Tax Board may, under Section 19033 (relating to deficiency assessments), revise the return to reflect a correct filing status.

18. I realize that the state and federal filing statuses don't agree above, and I realize that my state filing status is in conflict with my federal filing status according to the following code:

18521. (a) (1) Except as otherwise provided in this section, an individual shall use the same filing status that he or she used on his or her federal income tax return filed for the same taxable year.

The above amounts to an admission that the meaning of “resident” and “nonresident” is the same for both state and federal returns, and that the reference point for state taxes is NOT California residency, but U.S. Residency. However, both I and you (who presumably also live in the nonfederal areas of California) would be committing fraud and perjury to file any other way than as a resident for California and a nonresident for my federal return, and I simply cannot honor and you should not honor this clearly unjust law because it would result in an incorrect state income tax liability and perjury on my part. The law in question may apply to most individuals, who are in most cases state Citizens and 14th Amendment federal citizens and who elect to be treated as residing only in the federal territories, but the law clearly does not address my circumstance, where I am a sovereign Natural Born State Citizen but not a federal 14th Amendment citizen or resident, and a citizen of United States of America the Country, but not a federal or municipal corporate U.S. citizen located in the District of Columbia or federal territory. It should not be the purpose of any law to mandate fraud, and I'm sure that not following this law in my case would not subject you to criminal liability because no judge or jury in their right mind would penalize you for refusing to commit fraud.

19. State and federal taxing jurisdictions are territorially mutually exclusive and foreign to each other, and both the state and federal jurisdictions have their own citizens, privileges, and immunities. It is a physical and legal impossibility for me to be domiciled in such a way that I am a resident of both jurisdictions or subject to tax in both jurisdictions simultaneously without committing perjury in the process of claiming that my income is “effectively connected with a trade or business in the United States” as a sovereign Citizen of California living in nonfederal areas of California.

“It is quite clear, then, that there is a citizenship of the United States and a citizenship of a state, which are distinct from each other and which depend upon different characteristics or circumstances of the individual. Of the privileges and immunities of the citizens of the United States and of the privileges and immunities of the citizen of the state, and what they respectfully are, we will presently consider; but we wish to state here that it is only the former which are placed by this clause under the protection of the Federal Constitution, and the latter, whatever they may be, are not intended to have any additional protection by this paragraph of the amendment.”
[Slaughterhouse Cases, 16 Wall. 36, 71]

“Both before and after the Fourteenth Amendment to the federal Constitution, it has not been necessary for a person to be a citizen of the United States in order to be a citizen of his state.” Citing U.S. v. Cruikshank, 92 US 542, 549 (1875)

This explains why I can be a resident of one and a non-resident non-person of the other as explained in section 5 below, where I define “United States”, “foreign”, “foreign government”, “state”, etc. You will also note that one does not lose one's constitutional rights by virtue of not being a 14th Amendment federal citizen. One can apparently lose their “privileges and immunities”, but NOT their constitutional rights, because rights constrain the actions of government and are not incident to citizenship.

20. For your benefit, let me summarize the findings and legal research in this section for the purpose of California personal income tax found in R&TC §17001-18776 and federal income tax found in 26 U.S.C./IRC. A nonfederal area is anything outside of “State” as defined in R&TC section 17018:

Table 5-3: Federal and state income tax liability by residency.

Location of domicile/physical residence but not workplace	California Residency Status	California Personal Income Tax Liability and correct form(s) to file	United States (federal territories) residency status (see 26 U.S.C. §7701 definition of “United States”)	Federal income tax liability and correct form(s) to file	U.S.(the country) citizenship
Nonfederal areas of California	Resident	Not liable File FTB 540 for refunds of any state taxes erroneously withheld (see FTB form 590, which states residents don't have to withhold)	Nonresident	Not liable on California source income. Liable on federal source income identified in 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8. File IRS form 1040.	Citizen
				Not liable on California source income. Liable on federal source income identified in 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8. File IRS form 1040NR.	Alien

Outside of United States of America (the country and not the federal areas)	Nonresident	Liable on California source income.	Nonresident	Liable for income originating inside federal areas. Not liable for income originating inside nonfederal areas within states. File IRS form 2555 for income from “foreign countries” and 1040 for income from federal territories identified in 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8.	Citizen
				Not liable. File IRS form 1040NR for taxes erroneously withheld.	Alien

NOTES:

2. You can read the California Revenue and Taxation Code (R&TC) for yourself on the web at <http://leginfo.legislature.ca.gov/faces/codes.xhtml>

3. Why don't the state a federal income tax publications reflect the above considerations? We can only assume that it is because the FTB wants to simplify these publications and because it wants to maximize revenues from income taxation.

21. I ask that you not apply duress to get me to illegally surrender my constitutional rights in responding to your strong-arm tactics and demands by:

21.1. Forcing me to communicate with my government on a tax return, which violates my First Amendment right of free expression.

21.2. Forcing me to violate my own privacy by involuntarily revealing intimate details about my private financial affairs to third parties, which violates my Fourth Amendment right of privacy. (see Weeks v. United States*, 232 U.S. 383 (1914) for information about excluding illegally obtained evidence). I WILL NOT reveal the existence of any records you might want to subpoena, so don't bother harassing me or deposing me because you will get NOTHING.

21.3. Incriminate myself under duress from you as indicated in section 4 below, in violation of my Fifth Amendment right. Incidentally, the fifth Amendment right of non-self-incrimination includes civil matters as well as criminal matters according to Barron's Legal Dictionary:¹⁶

SELF-INCRIMINATION, PRIVILEGE AGAINST:

the constitutional right of a person [in this case they mean a natural born person, instead of a "corporation", which is also a "person" from the perspective of the tax code] to refuse to answer questions or otherwise give testimony against himself or herself which will subject him or her to an incrimination. This right under the Fifth Amendment (often called simply PLEADING THE FIFTH AMENDMENT) is now applicable to the states through the due process clause of the Fourteenth Amendment, 378 U.S. 1, 8, and is applicable in any situation, civil or criminal, where the state attempts to compel incriminating testimony. See 378 U.S. 52, 94. The right may be waived where the defendant testifies, 356 U.S. 148, 157, and the privilege does not preclude the use of voluntary confessions, provided that the requirements of the Miranda rule have been complied with. 384 U.S. 436, 478.

The requisite compulsion will include any threat calculated to interfere with the unfettered free will of the suspect. Thus, the privilege has been held to bar the dismissal of a police officer for refusal to testify regarding matters that might incriminate him or her and for refusal to waive immunity from prosecution if forced to testify. 392 U.S. 273. The testimony could not validly be used, as "the protection of the individual under the Fourteenth Amendment against coerced statements prohibits use in subsequent criminal proceedings of statements obtained under threat of removal from office, and that extends to all, whether they are policemen or members of our body politic. 385 U.S. 493, 500.

In general, only criminal sanctions are within privilege and testimony can be compelled despite the personal, social, or economic costs to the witness. For example, a mother having no statutory evidentiary privilege could be compelled to testify against her child and would not be able to plead the privilege against self-incrimination unless she too feared a personal criminal sanction. If she persisted in her refusal to testify, she could be found in contempt

[...skipped irrelevant sections...]

The privilege can be displaced by a grant of TESTIMONIAL [USE] IMMUNITY which guarantees that neither the compelled testimony nor any fruits will be used against the witness. Given such immunity, the witness can no longer fear incrimination and thus cannot plead the privilege against self-incrimination, 406 U.S. 441; 406 U.S. 472. Some states give such witnesses a broader form of TRANSACTIONAL IMMUNITY which protects them not merely from use of their testimony but from any prosecution brought about relating to transactions about which relevant testimony was elicited. see, e.g. N.Y. Crim. Proc. Law §50.10 (McKinney). Transactional immunity was previously the federal standard, 18 U.S.C. §2514, but was replaced in 1970 by testimonial immunity, 18 U.S.C. §6002. Immunity from federal prosecution may only be given by a federal prosecutor, not a judge. As such, a witness may invoke a broad self-incrimination privilege in a civil suit, in which the federal prosecutor is not involved. See 103 S.Ct. 608. Once granted immunity, a witness who refuses to testify can be punished for contempt. The privilege against self-incrimination, like all constitutional rights, may be waived. Miranda warnings are generally necessary before such a waiver will be found to qualify a confession as admissible evidence for a criminal trial.

The rule does not extend to nontestimonial compulsion. Thus, blood tests may be compelled from the accused because they are "noncommunicative," i.e., the evidence is considered physical or real and not testimonial so as to invoke the protection of the privilege. On the same reasoning, the Court has permitted compelled line-ups, 388 U.S. 218, 221, and handwritten exemplars. 388 U.S. 263, 266.

22. Please keep a copy of this correspondence for the future in my administrative record, because I have stopped my state income tax withholding and will not be paying any more state income tax in the future but I will be filing zero returns or refunds to avoid willful failure to file charges, and these returns will be sent to a remailer service to protect my privacy. This is your last opportunity to refute the positions advocated in this letter, or else the allegations and claims contained in it shall constitute admitted facts on your part in accordance with the protocols established in the opening paragraph of this letter and UCC 1.205. I ask that you resist the temptation to harass, threaten, stalk, or mail threatening communications (and especially anonymous threatening communications) to me in the future about failure to file state income tax returns when you have failed to establish my liability and the concept of me having any liability is clearly in conflict with the content of your own California FTB form 590 as a resident of California.

23. The misinformation promoted by the FTB telephone support people as follows constitutes a Constructive Fraud upon the sovereign Natural Born Citizens of California (but not “the State of California” or “this State”) that is unconscionable and pathetic and requires an immediate remedy by your agency. The fraud is perpetuated by:

23.1. Avoidance of talking about the legal foundations for their beliefs

23.2. Overdependence on incomplete and inaccurate FTB publications which do not have the force of law

23.3. Unwillingness to explain or clarification the legal in your publications (including the 540 booklet) about the issues raised in this letter.

This fraud and extortion also makes you personally liable if you allow it to continue or don’t expose it, as your avoidance of exposing it constitutes a “conspiracy to commit fraud and extortion under the color of office”, which is punishable under the following codes (see <http://leginfo.legislature.ca.gov/faces/codes.xhtml> to read them for yourself):

- 18 U.S.C. §241 Conspiracy Against Rights of Citizens
- Penal code §646.9(a): Stalking
- Penal code §182: Criminal Conspiracy; Acts Constituting; Punishment; Venue
- Penal code §§518-527: Extortion
- Penal code §523: Punishment for mailing threatening communications to effect extortion
- Penal code §§186.9-186.11: Money laundering, fraud, and embezzlement
- Civil Code §§3439-3439.12: Fraudulent Instruments and Transfers

I will have the benefit of the wisdom of 24,000 people who have read my writings at <http://famguardian.org> in prosecuting you as well. In addition, such a “lawless” violation of due process will earn you and everyone at the FTB who practices it a place in HELL! In Jesus’ (God’s) own words in Matthew 13:41-43 (and let’s not forget that Matthew was the ONLY Apostle of Jesus who had been a tax collector and reformed his ways!):

“The Son of Man will send out His angels, and they will gather out of His kingdom all things that offend, and those who practice lawlessness, and will cast them into the furnace of fire. There will be wailing and gnashing of teeth. Then the righteous will shine forth as the un in the kingdom of their Father. He who has ears, let him hear!”

There’s clearly a warm spot waiting for you in HELL in a few years if you don’t heed what is in this letter, and perhaps the end will come sooner than you think through God’s influence or your own arrogance and evil (this is NOT a threat, but a good possibility and a reward for your deeds while employed with the FTB).

24. It would be an obvious violation of ethics, morality, good sense, Christian (and most other religious) virtues and teachings, and integrity on your part, having learned and been exposed to the truths in this letter and not being able to refute them, to not remind residents of California who have source addresses on their tax returns that are not in federal areas within California that they are NOT liable for the payment of state income taxes and can keep all their money.

“Therefore, to him who knows to do good [and has been exposed to the truth] and does not do it, to him it is sin.” (Bible, James 4:17)

It would also be a violation of the government code of ethics (as revealed in Enclosure (3) of Ref. (2)) to not bring what you have learned in this letter to the attention of everyone you work with, and make sure they have read and understand this letter as well and are properly applying the tax laws to respect the rights of residents of California to NOT pay state income taxes. I therefore encourage you to approach your supervisor about the content of this letter and request that you provide information about the FTB personnel you have exposed this letter. If you have further questions about the truths in this letter, then you are encouraged to visit the website at <http://famguardian.org> and download the free 1200+ page book on the subject of the income tax fraud entitled The Great IRS Hoax: Why We Don’t Owe Income Tax. That book will literally blow your mind when you finally understand the fraud that your federal and state governments have pulled on us called the income tax. I guarantee you will never again view your government the same after you read that book.

25. As I told Patrick of the Franchise Tax Board during Ref. (3) (station number 4436), I recognize that you might be tempted to identify this affidavit as “frivolous”, as I understand that this approach is a commonplace scare (FUD-Fear, Uncertainty, and Doubt) tactic used by your agency to perpetuate what is called the “Great Deception” documented in chapter 5 of enclosure (4) of Ref. (2). Because each and every assertion made in this correspondence is founded in law and backed up by extensive legal research and signed under penalty of perjury, however, that sort of label would be entirely inappropriate, “frivolous”, and would unnecessarily aggravate and frustrate the effectiveness of any administrative dealings we might have with each other in the future. For these reasons, I insist that all such communication initiated by you and intended for me be in writing, and that they be sent only to my address above. Such aggravation on your part (as indicated above) of the good faith dealings I am trying to establish with you would only add to the legal fees and civil damages I might be likely to ask for later in the event there was a need to litigate to protect my property rights under the 5th Amend of the U.S. Constitution. I’d have to say that it would be equally “frivolous” and negligent on your part to implement any of the following unscrupulous FUD (Fear, Uncertainty, and Doubt-scare) tactics:

- Referring to the FTB or IRS Publications in your response, which as I have said are completely irrelevant, as a justification for any of your conclusions or findings, rather than relying entirely and only on the California Codes, the U.S. Codes, or CFR’s as requested.
- Not responding to, or trying to stonewall this correspondence or the legal conclusions contained in it (which I am told frequently happens), which is why it has been sent certified mail with a legal “Proof of Service”.
- Saying “the courts have repeatedly ruled against this or that argument” without referring explicitly to the state, federal, or supreme court case number and matter name that proves your point, and explaining your legal analysis of that case conclusively and completely.
- Arbitrarily refusing a refund without explanation or legal justification (a violation of the 5th Amendment and 6th Amendment, which requires that I know the charges against me and can face my accuser and examine the evidence.).
- Intimidation or threats or other types of “political posturing” you or the FTB might feel compelled to implement in my case (not unlike that documented on page 11A of the USA Today Newspaper dated March 2, 2001).
- Not addressing the legal issues raised here directly in the event that your agency cannot refute them.

4. AFFIDAVIT OF RESCISSION OF PAST SIGNATURES

I, _____(name) , Citizen of _____(statename) (not “the State of _____a” defined in R&TC Sections 6017 and 17018, which are synonymous) and domiciled in _____(county) County, _____(statename), one of the American union States and “without” the United States defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701, do hereby extinguish, rescind, revoke, cancel, abrogate, annul, nullify, discharge, and make void ab initio all signatures, belonging to me, on all previously filed Internal Revenue Service, W-4 Forms (other than EXEMPT W-4’s), 1040 Forms (that are not part of Ref. (1)) and all California 540 Income Tax Forms and all powers of attorneys, real and implied, connected thereto and over the period 1978 to 1999, on the grounds that my purported consent was not voluntarily and freely obtained, but was made through mistake, duress, fraud, and undue influence exercised by your agency and my employer. Pursuant to Contract Law: “All 1040 (not part of Ref. (1)) and W-4 Forms (other than EXEMPT W-4’s) are, hereby, extinguished by this rescission.”.

Rescission: (Black’s 6th Edition Law Dictionary) “To abrogate, annul, avoid, or cancel a contract; particularly, nullifying a contract by the act of a party. The right of rescission is the right to cancel (rescind) a contract upon the occurrence of certain kinds of default by the contracting party. To declare a contract void in its inception and to put an end to it as though it never were. Russel v. Stephens, 191 Wash. 314, 71 P.2d. 3031...A rescission amounts to the unmaking of a contract, or an undoing of it from the beginning. It necessarily involves a repudiation of the contract and a refusal of the moving party to be bound by it...”

I was induced by fraud and duress to sign such forms and I was denied full disclosure of the voluntary nature of such forms. I was misled by those who knew, or should have known, into believing that filing such forms was mandatory and/or implied, were unconscionable and grossly unfair to me. I was unduly influenced by the stronger bargaining power of my employer, the Internal Revenue Service and the State Tax agency, and acted under an implied threat and fear of losing my job and my property and out of fear of potential imprisonment for non-compliance. Any alleged consent is null and void as it was given under duress, by mistake, and by fraud.

Duress: (Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, page 504) "Any unlawful threat or coercion used by a person to induce another to act (or to refrain from acting) in a manner he or she otherwise would not (or would). Subjecting person to improper pressure which overcomes his will and coerces him to comply with demand to which he would not yield if acting as free agent. Head v. Gadsden Civil Service Bd., Ala.Civ.App., 389 So.2d. 516, 519. Application of such pressure or constraint as compels man to go against his will, and takes away his free agency, destroying power of refusing to comply with unjust demands of another. Haumont v. Security State Bank, 220 Neb. 809, 374 N.W.2d. 2,6.

Duress may be a defense to a criminal act, breach of contract, or tort because an act to be criminal or one which constitutes a breach of contract or a tort must be voluntary to create liability or responsibility

A contract entered into under duress by physical compulsion is void. Also, if a party's manifestation of assent to a contract is induced by an improper threat by the other party that leaves the victim no reasonable alternative, the contract is voidable by the victim. Restatement, Second, Contracts §§174, 175.

As a defense to a civil action, it must be pleaded affirmatively. Fed.R.Civil P. 8(c).

As an affirmative defense in criminal law, one who, under the pressure of an unlawful threat from another human being to harm him (or to harm a third person), commits what would otherwise be a crime may, under some circumstances, be justified in doing what he did and thus not be guilty of the crime in question. See Model Penal Code §2.09. See also Coercion; Economic duress; Extortion; Undue influence."

Below is a list of the types of compulsion and duress applied by you and the IRS which have restricted the free exercise of my Fifth Amendment rights and has caused me in the past to file 540 and 1040 forms involuntarily and under duress:

- Your threatening correspondence of Ref. (1) above, in which you threatened $1,000 in fines for allegedly frivolous returns, a 25% penalty for failure to file a return by the due date, even though I provided a return that I still say is accurate in Ref. (2). A $69 enforcement fee. This kind of disrespectful, threatening, and harassing correspondence does not permit me to sign anything voluntarily that I might send to you.
- Penalties under sections 19131-19132 and 19177 through 19179 of the California R&TC:
 - 19131 Failure to file
 - 19132 Penalties
 - 19177 Abusive tax shelters
 - 19178 Aiding or abetting understatement of tax liability
 - 19179 Frivolous returns
- Scare stories from my coworkers and friends about mistreatment by the Franchise Tax Board and the Internal Revenue Service, including strong-arm tactics like your Ref. (1), levies, liens, and seizures.
- 26 U.S.C. §7201: Attempt to evade or defeat tax (up to $100,000 fine or imprisonment not more than 5 years along with attorney fees).
- 26 U.S.C. §7203: Willful Failure to File (fine up to $25,000 or imprisonment for one year or both)
- Hundreds of different penalties for late filing or underpayment, as documented in Part 20 of the Internal Revenue Manual, available at: <http://www.irs.gov/irm/part20/index.html>
- IRS Liens and levies being imposed for nonpayment of taxes.
- Receipt of threatening mail communications from the IRS (e.g. CP-515 "Notice of Deficiency" and subsequent Notice of Lien and Levy").
- Constant anxiety from and harassment by IRS agents (by telephone and otherwise).

I would be committing perjury to submit another state income tax return and state that it was "voluntary", or without putting "duress" or "distrain" near my signature. Let's define the word "voluntary" for the record to remove all doubt:

voluntary: "Unconstrained by interference; unimpelled by another's influence; spontaneous; acting of oneself. Coker v. State, 199 Ga. 20, 33 S.E.2d 171, 174. Done by design or intention. Proceeding from the free and unrestrained will of the person. Produced in or by an act of choice. Resulting from free choice, without compulsion or solicitation. The word, especially in statutes, often implies knowledge of essential facts. Without valuable consideration; gratuitous, as a voluntary conveyance. Also, having a merely nominal consideration; as, a voluntary deed." [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1575]

Notwithstanding any information which you may have to the contrary, any forms that have been filed, and any implied quasi contracts that you may feel you have with me, were filed illegally and unlawfully and are without force/and or effect.

I further revoke, rescind, and make void ab initio all powers of attorney pertaining to me for any and all governmental/quasi/colorable agencies and/or Departments created under the authority of Art. I, Sec. 8, Cl. 17, and/or Art. IV, Sec. 3, Cl. 2 of the Constitution of the United States.

It is (and always has been) my desire that any elections I might make relative to federal income taxes not be allowed to impact any of my state returns, including any alleged elections described in 26 C.F.R. §1.871-10 that might have been made to treat my income as “effectively connected with a trade or business in the United States”. I am sorry if I did not communicate this to you sooner or if you may have missed such an intent earlier expressed.

5. REVOCATION OF 26 C.F.R. §1.871-10 ELECTION:

In accordance with 26 C.F.R. §1.871-10(d)(2)(iii), this Legal Notice has been submitted to the IRS in pursuit of a Revocation of Election to treat any or all of my income from real property as a federal nonresident alien from being considered by the IRS as “effectively connected with a trade or business in the ‘United States’”, as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701. It is provided to you as well for your information, in the event that it impacts my state income tax liability. Information about myself in fulfillment with the above C.F.R. is as follows:

6. Name: _____
7. Address: _____
8. Former SSN (no longer active): _____
9. Applicable taxable year(s): Current and all prior tax years
10. Grounds for the request: My constitutional right to life, liberty, pursuit of happiness, privacy, respect, the fruits of my common right labors under common law, and the right to own and control property (including labor and the fruits of my labor) without any interference from government.

This Legal Notice is by no means an admission in any way that I ever made a Election to treat any of my income or assets as “effectively connected with a trade or business in the United States”, but instead is submitted to ensure that my status is properly reflected in your records and that you do indeed concur with and respect this notification. I do not now nor have I ever lived in the ‘United States’ as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701, nor do I have any intentions of doing so in the future. I am sorry if I ever gave you the idea that I did by, for instance, mistakenly filing an IRS form 1040 in the past, which was the incorrect form.

Please note that I already have an IRS form W-8 on file with my employer and have accurately declared myself to be a Non-resident non-person. I reside outside the foreign jurisdiction to which the Internal Revenue Code (IRC) operates, which is the District of Columbia and federal territories:

*“The United States government is a foreign corporation with respect to a state.”
[N.Y. re Merriam, 36 N.E. 505, 141 N.Y. 479, affirmed 16 S.Ct. 1973, 41 L.Ed. 287]*

*“The exclusive jurisdiction which the United States have in forts and dock-yards ceded to them, is derived from the express assent of the states by whom the cessions are made. *“State: The term “State” shall be construed to include the District of Columbia, where such construction is necessary to carry out provisions of this title.”

*“A canon of construction which teaches that of Congress, unless a contrary intent appears, is meant to apply only within the territorial jurisdiction of the United States.”

Foreign Laws: “The laws of a foreign country or sister state.”
[Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 647]

Foreign States: “Nations outside of the United States...Term may also refer to another state; i.e. a sister state. The term ‘foreign nations’, ...should be construed to mean all nations and states other than that in which the action is brought; and hence, one state of the Union is foreign to another, in that sense.”
[Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 648]

Treasury Decision 3980, Vol. 29, January-December, 1927, pgs. 64 and 65 defines the words includes and including as: “(1) To comprise, comprehend, or embrace...(2) To enclose within; contain; confine...But granting that the word ‘including’ is a term of enlargement, it is clear that it only performs that office by introducing the specific elements constituting the enlargement. It thus, and thus only, enlarges the otherwise more limited, preceding general language...The word ‘including’ is obviously used in the sense of its synonyms, comprising, comprehending, embracing.”

“Includes is a word of limitation. Where a general term in Statute is followed by the word, ‘including’ the primary import of the specific words following the quoted words is to indicate restriction rather than enlargement. Powers ex re. Covon v. Charron R.I., 135 A.2nd. 829, 832
[Definitions-Words and Phrases pages 156-156, Words and Phrases under ‘limitations’.]”

“In the interpretation of statutes levying taxes, it is the established rule not to extend their provisions by implication beyond the clear import of the language used, or to enlarge their operations so as to embrace matters not specifically pointed out. In case of doubt they are construed most strongly against the government and in favor of the citizen.”
[Gould v. Gould, 245 U.S. 151, at 153]

Thank you for your prompt and expeditious processing of this Revocation of Election. Please forward your certification and response to my address above. I respectfully request that you give a detailed explanation and legal justification of any determination or basis you might make regarding the disposition of this notification. This includes citing any authority you are exercising and the regulation or statute from which it derives, as well as any court cites, Treasury Decisions, etc that may be relevant to the foundation of your delegated authority for making a determination of disposition. This letter shall serve as formal legal notice that if you DO NOT respond within 45 days, then by your default and silence, the Revocation of Election is granted and there is no need to further contact us.

I affirm, under penalty of perjury, under the Common Law of America, without the "United States", that the foregoing is true and correct, to the best of my current information, knowledge, and belief, per 28 U.S.C. §1746(1); and

6. EXPATRIATION FROM FEDERAL (but not country) U.S. CITIZENSHIP:

I, Family Guardian Fellowship, a Sovereign Natural Born Citizen of California, do hereby voluntarily relinquish any presumptive 14th Amendment citizenship status and any privileges and immunities granted therein from the date of my birth to the present. I retain my natural born status of a Citizen of one of the several union States of America under the Constitution and law, and my Citizenship in these United States of America. I preserve all my unalienable Rights that are inherent from my Creator, at all times. I waive no rights at any time, including by operation of any implied contract asserted by the government. As a Natural Born Sovereign Citizen of the state, I have the same measure of citizenship in my country as our founding fathers and early citizens had, including Abraham Lincoln, George Washington, and Thomas Jefferson, all of whom had no 14th Amendment citizenship because there was no 14th Amendment at the time they were alive.

Accordingly, the status of my voter registration, IRS filing status, etc, have been updated to reflect the above considerations, and I have filed (or soon will file) with the U.S. Attorney General and the U.S. Secretary of State pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §1481(a)6 a formal affidavit of Renunciation of 14th Amendment federal citizenship. These acts and a formal notice in the newspaper complete the expatriation process.

I, do hereby declare my right to expatriate as absolute and declare that I expatriated from the municipal corporation of the District of Columbia as of the date of my birth and thereby voluntarily relinquished any res in trust, existing by operation of any presumptions about my citizenship, to the foreign jurisdiction known as the municipal corporation of the District of Columbia, a democracy, and thereby return to the Constitutional Republic envisioned by our founding fathers. Any and all past and present political ties implied by operation of law or otherwise in trust with the democracy as a consequence of any presumed citizenship ties I might have, is hereby dissolved.

"Almost a century ago, Congress declared that "the right of expatriation [including expatriation from the District of Columbia or "U.S. Inc", the corporation] is a natural and inherent right of all people, indispensable to the enjoyment of the rights of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness." and decreed that "any declaration, instruction, opinion, order, or decision of any officers of this government which denies, restricts, impairs, or questions the right of expatriation, is hereby declared inconsistent with the fundamental principles of this government." 15 Stat. 223-224 (1868), R.S. § 1999, 8 U.S.C. § 800 (1940).^[1] Although designed to apply especially to the rights of immigrants to shed their foreign nationalities, that Act of Congress "is also broad enough to cover, and does cover, the corresponding natural and inherent right of American citizens to expatriate themselves." Savorgnan v. United States, 1950, 338 U.S. 491, 498 note 11, 70 S.Ct. 292, 296, 94 L.Ed. 287.^[2] The Supreme Court has held that the Citizenship Act of 1907 and the Nationality Act of 1940 "are to be read in the light of the declaration of policy favoring freedom of expatriation which stands unrepealed." Id., 338 U.S. at pages 498-499, 70 S.Ct. at page 296. That same light, I think, illuminates 22 U.S.C.A. § 211a and 8 U.S.C.A. § 1185."

The U.S. supreme Court has declared in the case of Hooven and Allison v. Evatt, 324 U.S. 652 (1945) that:

The term 'United States' may be used in any one of several senses. It may be merely [1] the name of a sovereign occupying the position analogous to that of other sovereigns in the family of nations. [2] It may designate the territory over which the sovereignty of the United States extends [324 U.S. 652, 672] , or [3] it may be the collective name of the states which are united by and under the Constitution.

Be advised that I am not expatriating from "United States" the country (the first definition), but simply the municipal corporation located in District of Columbia and federal territories only, which is the second definition identified above. Consequently, there is no way that I can meet the definition within the California R&TC of someone who lives in the "the State of California" or "this State", within the meaning of R&TC section 6017 or 17018, which are synonymous.

Very Respectfully,

5.11.2 Form 1099

This form is used to explain the purpose of an IRS form 1099. It helps make the distinction between income and “gross income” or “taxable income”. IRS routinely ignores the distinction between these and you often need to emphasize this distinction.

Form 1099

"(a) Returns regarding remuneration for services

If - (1) any service-recipient engaged in a trade or business pays in the course of such trade or business during any calendar year remuneration to any person for services performed by such person, and (2) the aggregate of such remuneration paid to such person during such calendar year is $600 or more, then the service-recipient shall make a return, according to the forms or regulations prescribed by the Secretary..." [26 U.S.C. §6041A]

"(a) Returns regarding remuneration for services-

In general. If- (i) Any service-recipient engaged in a trade or business pays in the course of that trade or business during any calendar year after 1982 remuneration to any person for services performed by that person, and (ii) The aggregate amount of remuneration paid to such person during such calendar year is $600 or more, Then the service-recipient shall make a return in accordance with paragraph (e) of this section...

For purposes of this paragraph (a)(i) only, the term remuneration does not include amounts paid to any person for services performed by such person if the service-recipient knows that such amounts are excludable from the gross income of the person performing such services." [26 C.F.R. §1.6041A-1 (proposed)]

5.11.3 Technical Advice

This form is useful during an IRS tax examination or audit. It establishes the legal basis for the definition of Technical Advice.

Technical Advice

"[T]echnical advice' means advice or guidance as to the interpretation and proper application of internal revenue laws, related statutes, and regulations, to a specific set of facts, furnished by the National Office upon request of a district office in connection with the examination of a taxpayer's return or consideration of a taxpayer's return claim for refund or credit." [26 C.F.R. § 601.105(b)(5)(i)(a)]

"A technical advice memorandum represents an expression of the views of the Service as to the application of law, regulations, and precedents to the facts of a specific case, and is issued primarily as a means of assisting district officials in the examination and closing of the case involved." [26 C.F.R. § 601.105 (b)(5)(viii)(a)]

"The Assistant Commissioner (Technical), acting under a delegation of authority from the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, is exclusively responsible for providing technical advice in any issue involving the establishment of basic principles and rules for the uniform interpretation and application of tax laws [other than ATF taxes]. This authority has been largely redelegated to subordinate officials." [26 C.F.R. § 601.105(b)(5)(i)(d)]

"[W]hile the case is under the jurisdiction of the district director, a taxpayer or his/her representative may request that an issue be referred to the National Office for technical advice on the grounds that... the issue is so unusual or complex as to warrant consideration by the National Office... [T]axpayers are encouraged to make written requests setting forth the facts, law, and argument with respect to the issue, and reason for requesting National Office advice..." [26 C.F.R. § 601.105(b)(5)(iii)]

"If the taxpayer initiates the action to request advice, and his statement of the facts and point or points at issue are not wholly acceptable to the district officials, the taxpayer will be advised in writing as to the areas of disagreement... If agreement cannot be reached, both the statements of the taxpayer and the district official will be forwarded to the National Office." [26 C.F.R. § 601.105(b)(5)(iii)(d)]

Internal Revenue Manual 4.10.7.2.9.8 05/14/99

Importance of Court Decisions

1. Decisions made at various levels of the court system are considered to be interpretations of tax laws and may be used by either examiners or taxpayers to support a position.

2. Certain court cases lend more weight to a position than others. A case decided by the U.S. Supreme Court becomes the law of the land and takes precedence over decisions of lower courts. The Internal Revenue Service must follow Supreme Court decisions. For examiners, Supreme Court decisions have the same weight as the Code.

3. Decisions made by lower courts, such as Tax Court, District Courts, or Claims Court, are binding on the Service only for the particular taxpayer and the years litigated. Adverse decisions of lower courts do not require the Service to alter its position for other taxpayers.

"In addition to other taxes, there shall be imposed for each taxable year, on the self-employment income of every individual, a tax..." [26 U.S.C. §1401(a)]

"The term 'self-employment income' means the net earnings from self-employment derived by an individual..." [26 U.S.C. §1402(b)]

"The term 'net earnings from self-employment' means the gross income derived by an individual from any trade or business carried on by such individual, less the deductions allowed by this subtitle..." [26 U.S.C. §1402(a)]

"Except as otherwise provided in this subtitle, gross income means all income from whatever source derived..." [26 U.S.C. §61] (26 U.S.C. §1401 is in Subtitle A)

1 5.11.8 Exempt Income

2 This form is useful during an IRS examination for the purposes of establishing exempt income.

Exempt Income

A "class of gross income" "may consist of one or more items... of gross income enumerated in section 61." [26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(a)(3)]

"[P]aragraph (d)(2) of this section... provides that a class of gross income may include excluded income." [26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(b)(1)]

(26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(d)(2) redirects the reader to 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8T(d)(2).)

"(ii) Exempt income and exempt asset defined--(A) In general. For purposes of this section, the term exempt income means any income that is, in whole or in part, exempt, excluded, or eliminated for federal income tax purposes." [26 C.F.R. §1.861-8T(d)(2)(ii)]

"(iii) Income that is not considered tax exempt. The following items are not considered to be exempt, eliminated, or excluded income and, thus, may have expenses, losses, or other deductions allocated and apportioned to them:

(A) In the case of a foreign taxpayer...

(B) In computing the combined taxable income of a DISC or FSC...

(C) For all purposes under subchapter N of the Code... the gross income of a possessions corporation...

(D) Foreign earned income as defined in section 911..." [26 C.F.R. §1.861-8T(d)(2)(iii)]

This derived from older regulations, showing that the Constitution exempts some income not exempted by statute.

"Sec. 29.21-1. Meaning of net income.

The tax imposed by chapter 1 is upon income. Neither income exempted by statute or fundamental law [the Constitution]... enter into the computation of net income as defined by section 21." [26 C.F.R. § 29.21-1 (1945)]

"Sec. 29.22(b)-1. Exemption--Exclusions from gross income.

Certain items of income specified in section 22(b) are exempt from tax and may be excluded from gross income... No other items are exempt from gross income except (1) those items of income which are, under the Constitution, not taxable by the Federal Government..." [26 C.F.R. § 29.22(b)-1 (1945)]

Similar to the current 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8T(d)(2) (cited above), the older regulations defining "gross income" specifically listed what is not exempt by statute or the Constitution.

"Sec. 29.22(a)-1. What included in gross income.

Gross income includes in general compensation for personal and professional services, business income, profits from sales of and dealings in property, interest, rent, dividends, and gains, profits, and income derived from any source whatever, unless exempt from tax by law. (See section 22(b) [see citation above] and 116.)... Profits of citizens, residents, or domestic corporations derived from sales in foreign commerce must be included in their gross income; but special provisions are made for nonresident aliens and foreign corporations by sections 211 to 237, inclusive, and, in certain cases, by section 251 for citizens and domestic corporations deriving income from sources within possessions of the United States." [26 C.F.R. § 29.22(a)-1 (1945)]

(These activities match the activities listed in the older regulations under Section 119 of the 1939 Code, which is the predecessor of the current Part I of Subchapter N.)

5.11.9 Requirement To File A Return

This form is useful as a handout during an IRS examination and shows the legal requirements behind filing a return.

Requirement to File a Return

"Every person liable for any tax imposed by this title... shall keep such records, render such statements, make such returns, and comply with such rules and regulations as the Secretary may from time to time prescribe." [26 U.S.C. §6001]

"When required by regulations prescribed by the Secretary any person made liable for any tax imposed by this title... shall make a return or statement according to the forms and regulations prescribed by the Secretary." [26 U.S.C. §6011]

"Every person subject to any tax... under Subtitle A of the Code, shall make such returns or statements as are required by the regulations in this chapter."
[26 C.F.R. §1.6011-1]

"Returns with respect to income taxes under subtitle A shall be made by the following:... (1)(A) Every individual having for the taxable year gross income which equals or exceeds the exemption amount..." [26 U.S.C. §6012]

"[An individual] entitled to make a joint return... must file an income tax return only if his gross income received during his taxable year, when combined with the gross income of his spouse received during his taxable year, is $2,500 or more."
[26 C.F.R. §1.6012-1(a)(2)(iii)(b)]

1 5.11.10 Form 1099 Not Proof of "Gross Income" Received

2 This form is useful as a handout during an IRS tax examination. It establishes a legal basis for the position that receipt of a 3 form 1099 does NOT establish any proof whatsoever of "gross income" received.

Form 1099 Not Proof of "Gross Income" Received

"(a) Returns regarding remuneration for services

If - (1) any service-recipient engaged in a trade or business pays in the course of such trade or business during any calendar year remuneration to any person for services performed by such person, and (2) the aggregate of such remuneration paid to such person during such calendar year is $600 or more, then the service-recipient shall make a return..." [26 U.S.C. §6041A]

(Both the above statute and 26 U.S.C. §6041, the two sections related to the filing of Form 1099, make no mention at all of "gross income.")

"(a) Returns regarding remuneration for services-

In general. If- (i) Any service-recipient engaged in a trade or business pays in the course of that trade or business during any calendar year after 1982 remuneration to any person for services performed by that person, and (ii) The aggregate amount of remuneration paid to such person during such calendar year is $600 or more, Then the service-recipient shall make a return in accordance with paragraph (e) of this section...

For purposes of this paragraph (a)(i) only, the term remuneration does not include amounts paid to any person for services performed by such person if the service-recipient knows that such amounts are excludable from the gross income of the person performing such services." [26 C.F.R. §1.6041A-1 (proposed)]

5.11.11 Demanding More Than Required By Law

This form is a very useful intimidation tactic for use against IRS agents during a tax examination. It establishes basis in law for assessing criminal penalties and fines against IRS agents who try to collect more than they owe from a taxpayer or more than the law requires. It is based on 26 U.S.C. §7214

Demanding More Than Required By Law

"Sec. 7214. Offenses by officers and employees of the United States

(a) Unlawful acts of revenue officers or agents

Any officer or employee of the United States acting in connection with any revenue law of the United States -

(1) who is guilty of any extortion or willful oppression under color of law; or

(2) who knowingly demands other or greater sums than are authorized by law...

shall be dismissed from office or discharged from employment and, upon conviction thereof, shall be fined... or imprisoned... or both." [26 U.S.C. §7214]

"An exaction by the U.S. Government, which is not based upon law, statutory or otherwise, is a taking of property without due process of law, in violation of the Fifth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution." [26 C.F.R. § 601.106(f)(1)]

"[T]he Commissioner of Internal Revenue shall terminate the employment of any employee of the Internal Revenue Service if there is a final administrative or judicial determination that such employee committed any act or omission described under subsection (b)..."

(b) Acts or Omissions.--The acts or omissions referred to under subsection (a) are...

(3) with respect to a taxpayer, taxpayer representative, or other employee of the Internal Revenue Service, the violation of - (A) any right under the Constitution of the United States...

(6) violations of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, Department of Treasury regulations, or policies of the Internal Revenue Service (including the Internal Revenue Manual) for the purpose of retaliating against, or harassing, a taxpayer, [or] taxpayer representative..." [Section 1203, IRS Restructuring and Reform Act of 1998]

"If, in connection with any collection of Federal tax with respect to a taxpayer, any officer or employee of the Internal Revenue Service recklessly or intentionally disregards any provision of this title, or any regulation promulgated under this title, such taxpayer may bring a civil action for damages against the United States." [26 U.S.C. §7433]

5.11.12 What is Binding On The IRS

This form is useful during an IRS tax examination or audit. It establishes the legal basis for the hierarchy or precedence of laws that the IRS must abide by. This would be useful if the IRS tries to use only its regulations rather than being willing to look at the 26 U.S.C. §861/source claims that superseded it.

What is Binding on the IRS

"The Federal Income Tax Regulations (Regs.) are the official Treasury Department interpretation of the Internal Revenue Code..." [IRM, 4.10.7.2.3.1 (05/14/99)]

"The Service is bound by the regulations." [IRM, 4.10.7.2.3.4 (05/14/99)]

"[T]he Secretary shall prescribe all needful rules and regulations for the enforcement of this title." [26 U.S.C. §7805(a)]

"Interpretative regulations are issued under the general authority of IRC section 7805(a) , which allows regulations to be written when the Secretary determines they are needed to clarify a Code section." [IRM, 4.10.7.2.3.2 (05/14/99)]

"Decisions made at various levels of the court system... may be used by either examiners or taxpayers to support a position... A case decided by the U.S. Supreme Court becomes the law of the land and takes precedence over decisions of lower courts... Decisions made by lower courts, such as Tax Court, District Courts, or Claims Court, are binding on the Service only for the particular taxpayer and the years litigated. Adverse decisions of lower courts do not require the Service to alter its position for other taxpayers." [Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.), Section 4.10.7.2.9.8 (05/14/99)]

"Rulings do not have the force and effect of Treasury Department Regulations, but they may be used as precedents." [4.10.7.2.6.1 (05-14-1999)]

"IRS Publications, issued by the National Office, explain the law in plain language for taxpayers and their advisors... While a good source of general information, publications should not be cited to sustain a position." [IRM, 4.10.7.2.8 (05-14-1999)]

5.11.13 Information Subject To Inquiry

This form is useful during an IRS tax examination or audit. It establishes the legal basis for information that can be the subject of inquiry during a tax audit or examination.

Information Subject to Inquiry

"Revenue agents... are authorized to examine any books, papers, records, or memoranda bearing upon matters required to be included in Federal tax returns and to take testimony relative thereto and to administer oaths. See section 7602 of the Code and the regulations thereunder." [26 C.F.R. § 601.105(b)(1)]

"Sec. 7602. Examination of books and witnesses

(a) Authority to summon, etc.

For the purpose of... making a return where none has been made, determining the liability of any person for any internal revenue tax... the Secretary is authorized -

(1) To examine any books, papers, records, or other data which may be relevant or material to such inquiry;

(2) To summon the person liable for tax or required to perform the act... to produce such books, papers, records, or other data, and to give such testimony, under oath, as may be relevant or material to such inquiry; and

(3) To take such testimony of the person concerned, under oath, as may be relevant or material to such inquiry." [26 U.S.C. §7602]

"Sec. 301.7602-1 Examination of books and witnesses.

(a) In general. For the purpose of... making a return where none has been made, determining the liability of any person for any internal revenue tax... any authorized officer or employee of the Internal Revenue Service may examine any books, papers, records or other data which may be relevant or material to such inquiry; and take such testimony of the person concerned, under oath, as may be relevant to such inquiry.

(b) Summons. For the purposes described in paragraph (a) of this section the Commissioner is authorized to summon the person liable for tax or required to perform the act... to produce such books, papers, records, or other data, and to give such testimony, under oath, as may be relevant or material to such inquiry; and take such testimony of the person concerned, under oath, as may be relevant or material to such inquiry." [26 C.F.R. §301.7602-1]

"[Relating to procedures under 26 U.S.C. §7602, the Commissioner] must show that the investigation will be conducted pursuant to a legitimate purpose, [and] that the inquiry may be relevant to the purpose." [United States v. Powell, 379 U.S. 48 (1964)]

5.11.14 IRS Examination/Meeting Handout

The worksheet below is intended to be used during an IRS audit or meeting as documented in Section 4.5.4.17. It provides a place to record IRS responses to queries about the laws that authorize the collection and enforcement of income taxes. It provides a place to record the imputed tax you are liable for, both the statutes and regulations for every aspect of liability and enforcement, and a place for the agent to sign under penalty of perjury when the form is completed. Tell the agent that you will be happy to pay the tax as soon as he can show you the liability statute and regulation for the tax he says you owe, plus all the enforcement regulations for the tax. Emphasize during the meeting or hearing that the only difference between administering the tax code and organized extortion is the law, and all you want to see is the law.

5.12.1 Letter to Employer/Financial Institution in Receipt of an IRS Form 668A/W Notice of Levy

The form below is intended to be sent to an employer who has just received an IRS Notice of Levy and who you want to instruct NOT to obey the fraudulent levy. One of our readers sent this and reported that it effectively stopped his employer from honoring the illegal Notice of Levy for $22,000 from the IRS. He sent a copy of this letter to his employer and then sent a copy of the first six chapters of our book along with an IRS form 911 (Taxpayer Advocate Assistance) and they completely dropped his rather large deficiency.

SUBJECT: LETTER TO EMPLOYER/FINANCIAL INSTITUTION REBUTTING NOTICE OF LEVY

Dear <<EMPLOYER/BANKER NAME>>,

I have been notified that you are in receipt of Form 668-A/W, NOTICE OF LEVY, from the Internal Revenue Service. This letter is to educate you what the law requires of both you and me and to apprise you of the resulting rights and responsibilities of both of us under such circumstances. The NOTICE OF LEVY you are holding carries no legal authority and has no standing in law whatsoever as it is being applied here. You will notice that it contains Internal Revenue Code (IRC, or 26 U.S.C.) Section 6331 on the back of the form. However, the citation on the back of the form begins with paragraph (b) from that section and paragraph (a) is strangely absent. That is because paragraph (a) conveys the scope and authority of Section 6331, and that authority clearly does not apply here, as I will explain to you as we dissect paragraph (a) of that section, the complete text below.

Sec. 6331. - Levy and distraint

(a) Authority of Secretary

If any person liable to pay any tax neglects or refuses to pay the same within 10 days after notice and demand, it shall be lawful for the Secretary to collect such tax (and such further sum as shall be sufficient to cover the expenses of the levy) by levy upon all property and rights to property (except such property as is exempt under section 6334) belonging to such person or on which there is a lien provided in this chapter for the payment of such tax. Levy may be made upon the accrued salary or wages of any officer, employee, or elected official, of the United States, the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of the United States or the District of Columbia, by serving a notice of levy on the employer (as defined in section 3401(d)) of such officer, employee, or elected official. If the Secretary makes a finding that the collection of such tax is in jeopardy, notice and demand for immediate payment of such tax may be made by the Secretary and, upon failure or refusal to pay such tax, collection thereof by levy shall be lawful without regard to the 10-day period provided in this section.

1. "... within 10 days after notice and demand,"
 Accompanying this letter is my sworn affidavit stating that I have never received a properly executed Notice and Demand as required by IRC §6303, neither have I received a properly executed assessment pursuant to IRC §6203.
2. "...on which there is a lien.."
 There are no liens filed against me relating to this matter and I have requested a copy of all liens from the Internal Revenue Service under the Freedom Of Information Act (FOIA), 5 U.S.C. §552 and they have not been able to provide me with one.
3. "...upon the accrued salary or wages of any officer, employee or elected official of the United States, the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of the United States or the District of Columbia, by serving a notice of levy on the employer (as defined in section 3401(d)).."
 I am not an officer, employee or elected official of the United States, the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality, nor are you an employer as defined by IRC §3401(d), which is a federal employer. This clause clearly delineates exactly who is liable for levy, and in no way does it apply to you or me.

26 U.S.C. §3401(c) Employee

For purposes of this chapter, the term "employee" includes [is limited to] an officer, employee, or elected official of the United States, a [federal] State, or any political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing. The term "employee" also includes an officer of a corporation.

8 Federal Register, Tuesday, September 7, 1943, §404.104, pg. 12267

Employee: "The term employee specifically includes officers and employees whether elected or appointed, of the United States, a state, territory, or political subdivision thereof or the District of Columbia or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing."

26 C.F.R. § 31.3401(c) Employee: "...the term [employee] includes officers and employees, whether elected or appointed, of the United States, a [federal] State, Territory, Puerto Rico or any political subdivision, thereof, or the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing. The term 'employee' also includes an officer of a corporation."

4. Signature/Title of Service Representative The NOTICE OF LEVY is signed by _____, with a title of _____, and (*) such person is not lawfully authorized to issue such a document pursuant to IRC §7608. Paragraph (a) of §7608 authorizes ANY agent or officer of the IRS to make seizures for taxes due under subtitle E and other laws pertaining to alcohol, tobacco or firearms. However paragraph (b) outlines the enforcement authority for laws relating to internal revenue OTHER than subtitle E. Only a Criminal Investigator of the Intelligence Division or of the Internal Security Division is charged with enforcing any of the criminal provisions of the Code. Not only is this NOTICE OF LEVY not signed by an authorized officer, a levy is a civil action, not a criminal one. This same language is also found in the Texas Code of Criminal Procedure, §2.122, which states that only such an officer as listed in IRC 7608(b) can make seizures and then only in relation to felony offenses under the laws of the State of Texas. Also, Texas Labor Code, §61.018 prohibits an employer from withholding and/or diverting any part of an employee's wages without a lawful court order. Furthermore, IRC §7401 prohibits any civil action for collection unless the Secretary authorizes it and the Attorney General directs that the action be commenced, which also has not been done in this case. As a matter of fact, the agent who sent you the Notice of Levy refused to provide to me a copy of his Delegation Order showing that he had authority to levy. His pocket commission is an administrative pocket commission (the serial number ends in "A") instead of an Enforcement pocket commission (serial number ending in "E"), so he therefore has no lawful authority to execute distraint or levy.
5. Final proof that none of this applies to me. As Title 26, United States Code has not been enacted into positive law, implementing or enabling regulations are necessary to confer the force of law ("For federal tax purposes, federal regulations govern". Dodd v. U.S., 223 F Supp 785; Lyeth v. Hoey, 305 US 188) Many of the IRC Sections are enacted into law through being implemented by the Code of Federal Regulations (CFR). The above named sections are ALL implemented by C.F.R. Title 27 Part 70, as listed in the C.F.R. Parallel Table of Authorities, C.F.R. Index, which deals exclusively with taxation of alcohol, tobacco and firearms. Those regulations define the scope and authority of the above IRC sections, and again put the NOTICE OF LEVY and all other collection activities outside the jurisdiction in which it is attempted to be employed in this case and outside of the jurisdiction of the federal government under 40 U.S. C. §255 and Article 1, Section 8, Clause 17 of the U.S. Constitution.

It is your responsibility to ascertain that you are within the law and not exposing yourself to liability, for C.F.R. Title 26 Part 301.6332-1(c)(2) directs that

"...any person who mistakenly surrenders to the United States property or rights to property not properly subject to levy is NOT relieved from liability to a third party who owns the property..."

Therefore if you improperly surrender any of my property in the form of salary or wages, you can and will be sued for the damages, and the foregoing IRC sections are just a small percentage of the actual statutes and regulations which further confirm that the NOTICE OF LEVY does not apply in any case not related to alcohol, tobacco or firearms, and are more than sufficient to cause at the very least a reasonable doubt as to its validity. You are therefore ordered to pay all remuneration in the form of salary, wages fringe benefits, sick pay, vacation pay or any other compensation that is owed me or face civil and criminal prosecution. If you wish to protect yourself from punitive and intimidating harassment from the IRS, merely write to them stating that in the reading of their paperwork, there seems to be a discrepancy between what they are stating and your understanding of the law. Provide them with a copy of the checklist and ask them to show documented compliance with each section of it otherwise you cannot release any property or information regarding the subject of their inquiry. To do otherwise without full legal documentation showing compliance, you are exposed to liability for actual and punitive damages. It is the responsibility of them as demandant to guarantee that all laws are being obeyed, or to relieve you of liability by formally assuming liability themselves. Anything less which does not offer you full protection is unacceptable and cannot be honored.

Past history has shown, in EVERY case, that you will not receive any response to your letter, but neither will you hear any further demands to comply with any levy or seizure action. This has shown itself to be conclusive proof that the foregoing positions of law are valid, otherwise they would comply and therefore relegate the argument to the legal scrap heap.

[(*) Alternate #4 when NOTICE bears no actual ink signature. Replace this section with existing first line.]

The NOTICE OF LEVY bears no valid signature, but rather is typed/rubberstamped with the name of the agent issuing the NOTICE. In all areas of law (common, statutory, commercial, admiralty, etc.) any document intended to convey legal authority or command is REQUIRED to be personally signed, in ink, by the individual issuing the document. As this NOTICE OF LEVY carries no original personal signature, it is therefore not valid and can carry no lawful authority. However, even if it was personally signed by the issuing agent, ... (continue with remainder of #4 beginning with "such person...")

Even if you incorrectly believe that you are authorized to honor a levy, you must abide by the following restrictions:

- Continuing levies can only be instituted on federal payments, not payment of private employers to their employees, according to 26 U.S.C. 6331\(h\)
- Levies may only be instituted on "taxpayers", who are persons "liable for" tax, according to 26 U.S.C. §6331\(e\). "nontaxpayers" may not be levied upon. Note that there is no statute making anyone liable for Subtitle A income taxes.
- Continuing wage levies may not exceed 15 percent of a person's salary. See 26 U.S.C. §6331\(h\)\(1\).
- Social Security benefits may not be levied, in accordance with 42 U.S.C. §407\(a\).

If you violate any of the laws identified in this letter, I assure you that you will be sued civilly and held personally liable for criminal wrongdoing against my property rights. If you have any questions about the content of this letter, all of the points made here are exhaustively documented in a free book called "Great IRS Hoax: Why We Don't Owe Income Tax, Form #11.302" readily available for downloading from:

THIRD PARTY CHECKLIST FOR DETERMINING VALIDITY OF IRS NOTICES OF LEVY

INSTRUCTIONS: Do not proceed beyond each step unless the answer to each question is YES. If the answer to ANY question is NO, the levy is not valid. Inform the IRS that you are unable to honor the levy until ALL legal requirements are met.

☐ Is there a copy of the court ordered Warrant of Dstraint and Notice of Lien included with the Notice of Levy? (Federal Rules of Civil Procedure #69)

☐ Does the tax that the IRS claims is owed arise from taxable activities subject to miscellaneous excise taxes under Title 26 USC subtitle E, or those that would pertain to the enabling regulations of Title 27 C.F.R. Part 70 (alcohol, tobacco and firearms), or are you a federal employer as defined in section 3401(d)(in one of the U.S. territories and responsible for administering provisions under 26 USC subtitle C)?

☐ Was a valid Notice and Demand sent to the individual whose property is the target of the levy? (IRC §6331(a))

☐ Has a valid Notice of Lien been filed with the appropriate court at least 10 days after the Notice and Demand was received and has the court issued a warrant of dstraint pursuant to IRC §7403?

☐ Has the IRS sent at least three notices to the individual asking for payment and has the individual refused to pay? (IRC §6303)

☐ Has the IRS sent a Notice of Intent to Levy to the individual at least 30 days prior to the date on the Notice of Levy you received? (IRC §6331(d))

☐ Is the Notice of Levy signed by a Criminal Investigator of either the Intelligence Division or the Internal Security Division of the IRS and is there a delegation order in existence giving that particular agent the authority to issue a Notice of Levy? (IRC §7608(b))

☐ Is the Notice of Levy issued to a recipient (you) who is inside of the federal United States as required by 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10), which is the only area subject to the territorial, legislative, or criminal jurisdiction of the United States Government under 40 U.S.C. §255, 28 U.S.C. §1603, and Article 1, Section 8, Clause 17 of the U.S. Constitution? The federal United States includes the District of Columbia, American Samoa, Puerto Rico, Guam, the Virgin Islands, and federal enclaves within the 50 states such as national parks, federal courthouses, and military bases. It does not include any other area within the 50 states, as these areas are the equivalent of foreign countries as far as Subtitle A federal income taxes are concerned.

TITLE 28 > PART I > CHAPTER 13 > Sec. 297.

Sec. 297. - Assignment of judges to courts of the freely associated compact states

The Chief Justice or the chief judge of the United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit may assign any circuit or district judge of the Ninth Circuit, with the consent of the judge so assigned, to serve temporarily as a judge of any duly constituted court of the freely associated compact states whenever an official duly authorized by the laws of the respective compact state requests such assignment and such assignment is necessary for the proper dispatch of the business of the respective court.

(b)

The Congress consents to the acceptance and retention by any judge so authorized of reimbursement from the countries referred to in subsection (a) of all necessary travel expenses, including transportation, and of subsistence, or of a reasonable per diem allowance in lieu of subsistence. The judge shall report to the Administrative Office of the United States Courts any amount received pursuant to this subsection

1 If all of the above conditions have been satisfied, the levy could be valid. However, if you turn over property in response to
2 an improper levy or you do so outside of the jurisdiction of the federal government as identified above, the individual who
3 owns the property can sue you personally for punitive as well as actual damages. (26 C.F.R. §301.6332-1(c))

5.12.2 Response Letter to Unpaid Tax or Notice of Levy, IRS Form Ltr CP501/CP504 (non-resident non-person position)

This is the response for the first computer letter the IRS sends you after you stop filing returns, which is form letter CP515/CP518 asking you where your tax return is. It is also useful in response to IRS notice CP501 (unpaid tax) and CP-504 (Unpaid penalties). This return follows the non-resident non-person position described in chapter 5 of The Great IRS Hoax book.

Dear ACS:

1. INTRODUCTION:

Enclosed is my timely filed Forms 12153 - Request for a Collection Due Process Hearing. I accept the offer for a Collection Due Process (CDP) Hearing and you are obligated to provide it under 26 U.S.C. 6330. 26 U.S.C. 6330\(e\) specifically states that you may NOT institute any collection activity without completing the CDP hearing and you are reminded of that fact again here to ensure that you follow proper procedure. In the event that this request is premature because you have not issued a Notice and Demand for Tax or for any other prerequisite reason, then I request that you update the status of my case to make this an appropriate time to submit such a request BEFORE registering the enclosed form 12153 (by, for instance, updating my case to reflect the fact that a CP-504 registered letter has already been sent on the day prior to registering this request). I hereby waive all advance notice and prerequisite requirements prior to requesting the CDP hearing, but only if the CDP hearing is granted and if it will be held in _____(my city) within the next two months and if you are willing to meet the burden of proof requirements at the hearing that are imposed on you by the Administrative Procedures Act, 5 U.S.C. §556(d) based on the evidence and assertions presented and made by me in this letter and all previous correspondence with your agency.

This Affidavit and Legal Notice is served in connection with Enclosures 2 through 4 attached to this letter. Because all three of these enclosures relate to the same single return and were submitted together, they must all be resolved together in connection with the due process hearing requested in this letter.

Consistent with the provisions of Internal Revenue Code §6330(c), I challenge the existence of the underlying liability with respect to (RRA98) Section 3401. There is no statute in the Subtitles A or C of the Internal Revenue Code making me liable for any taxes under these subtitles. I also challenge the IRS because I have no income from taxable sources for the period(s) in question identified in 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f). Furthermore, I challenge the IRS contention that you have met the requirements of all applicable laws and administrative procedures.

I remain ready, willing, and able as a patriotic Citizen and legal scholar, to pay all taxes and penalties I am liable for under the Internal Revenue Code. I am not liable, however, because:

1. I had no Gross Income or Taxable Income for the year in question. In 26 U.S.C. §63 you will find Taxable Income defined to mean “gross income less deductions...” In 26 U.S.C. §61 you will find Gross Income defined to mean “all income from whatever source derived.”
2. In 26 U.S.C. §863 Special Rules for Determining Source you will find indicated “items of Gross Income...shall be allocated or apportioned to sources within or without the United States, under regulations [Implementing Regulations as they are the only type of regulations, which have the full force and effect of the law] prescribed by the Secretary.”
3. 26CFR1.863-1 Determination of Taxable Income states “The taxpayer’s income from sources within or without the United States will be determined under the rules of sections 1.861-8 through 1.861-14T for determining taxable income from sources within the United States.”
4. 26CFR1.861-8(f)(1) provides a complete list of all taxable sources of income from within the United States. I do not find any designation to my income being listed within the exclusive parameters of this Implementing Regulation. Thus, my income is outside the legal fence as referenced in 26 CFR1.861-8(f)(1).
5. In 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8T(d)(2)(ii)(A) you will find stated “In general. For purposes of this section, the term ‘exempt income’ means any income that is in whole or in part, exempt, excluded, or eliminated for federal income tax purposes.” Exclusion is defined in Black’s Law Dictionary as meaning “denial of entry or admittance.”
6. The only list of Income that is not considered as tax exempt is found in 26CFR Section 1.861-8T(d)(2)(iii). There is no listed reference including income from my source identified here either.

After writing Ref. (1) and diligently studying the tax laws for over one year, I have thoroughly convinced myself with the aid of at least three practicing attorneys that I would be committing fraud to admit that I have ever had any liability for federal tax. You have repeatedly failed up to this point to provide me with the statutes or regulations making me liable for ANY of the monies you claim I owe to date. I ask only that you show me the law that makes me liable and I will gladly and eagerly comply with your request. The only thing you and I can safely rely upon to establish my liability are the Internal Revenue Code and the Treasury Regulations, because your own Internal Revenue Manual says I can’t rely on your publications to sustain a position:

“IRS Publications, issued by the National Office, explain the law in plain language for taxpayers and their advisors... While a good source of general information, publications should not be cited to sustain a position.”
[IRM, 4.10.7.2.8 (05-14-1999)]

Because this collection action is also related to payment of penalties and distraint, I challenge the authority of the IRS to assess penalties and exercise distraint against human beings such as myself in accordance with 26 C.F.R. §301.6671-1:

*[Code of Federal Regulations]

 TITLE 26--INTERNAL REVENUE
 Additions to the Tax and Additional Amounts--Table of Contents
 Sec. 301.6671-1 Rules for application of assessable penalties.
 ...

(b) Person defined. For purposes of subchapter B of chapter 68, the term “person” includes an officer or employee of a corporation, or a member or employee of a partnership, who as such officer, employee, or member is under a duty to perform the act in respect of which the violation occurs.

In addition to the above, there are no implementing regulations which authorize the collection of penalties by the IRS for any taxes found in Internal Revenue Code Subtitles A through C and I challenge the IRS to identify such regulations.

I challenge the legal authority of the IRS to institute a levy against me absent a court order under 26 U.S.C. §6331(a), which says that, levy may only occur upon:

“the accrued salary or wages of any officer, employee, or elected official, of the United States, the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of the United States or the District of Columbia.”

I am not such a person described in this statute or in the following implementing regulation that defines the term “employee”:

26 C.F.R. § 31.3401(c) Employee: “...the term [employee] includes officers and employees, whether elected or appointed, of the United States, a [federal] State, Territory, Puerto Rico or any political subdivision, thereof, or the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing. The term ‘employee’ also includes an officer of a corporation.”

This definition obviously doesn’t apply to me, and no amount of wordsmithing can stretch the definition of “includes” to mean me as a human being who is not a “public officer” of the U.S. government. If you want to try to apply it to me, then I would suggest that the Internal Revenue Code is assumed to be “void for vagueness”, null, void, and unconstitutional on several grounds. See section 5.11 of Ref. (1) and Connally et al. v. General Construction Co. 269 U.S. 385 (1926), which states in pertinent part:

[1] That the terms of a penal statute creating a new offense must be sufficiently explicit to inform those who are subject to it what conduct on their part will render them liable to its penalties is a well-recognized requirement, consonant alike with ordinary notions of fair play and the settled rules of law; and a statute which either forbids or requires the doing of an act in terms so vague that men of common intelligence must necessarily guess at its meaning and differ as to its application violates the first essential of due process of law.

[Connally et al. v. General Construction Co., 269 U.S. 385, 391 (1926), emphasis added]

All of the issues raised above have been repeatedly raised before and you have completely ignored them and refused to answer or address them, in clear violation of my due process and property rights.

“Silence can only be equated with fraud when there is a legal or moral duty to speak, or when an inquiry left unanswered would be intentionally misleading... We cannot condone this shocking conduct... If that is the case we hope our message is clear. This sort of deception will not be tolerated and if this is routine it should be corrected immediately”

U.S. v. Tweel, 550 F.2d. 297, 299-300

Negligence in not answering my legal assertions constitutes a clear violation of fiduciary duty and public trust under 5 U.S.C. §2635.101, has been the cause for unlawful duress being applied against me by the IRS, and has allowed my situation to reach the unnecessarily risky stage of collection that it is in now. The closest thing I have got back as a response to date are penalties and the word “frivolous” without explanation of the legal foundation for that conclusion, and that clearly violates my Sixth Amendment right of due process and my First Amendment right of Free Speech and Petition of the Government for Redress of Grievances. I believe that kind of trivial response itself is “frivolous” and serves to undermine the confidence and good faith of Americans in their government, and adds to the public perception of the IRS as an agency that operates outside the law and in violation of the Constitution. You have also already clearly admitted to my claims above in at least one of our previous correspondences by your default to the legal notices I have proof that I served you with.

I'd like to remind you that I have gone way above and beyond the call of duty in meticulously documenting my position, and that the burden of proof rests squarely on the IRS to refute each and every claim founded solidly in law up to this point:

TITLE 5 - GOVERNMENT ORGANIZATION AND EMPLOYEES
PART I - THE AGENCIES GENERALLY
CHAPTER 5 - ADMINISTRATIVE PROCEDURE
SUBCHAPTER II - ADMINISTRATIVE PROCEDURE

Sec. 556. Hearings; presiding employees; powers and duties; burden of proof; evidence; record as basis of decision

(d) Except as otherwise provided by statute, the proponent of a rule or order has the burden of proof. Any oral or documentary evidence may be received, but the agency as a matter of policy shall provide for the exclusion of irrelevant, immaterial, or unduly repetitious evidence. A sanction may not be imposed or rule or order issued except on consideration of the whole record or those parts thereof cited by a party and supported by and in accordance with the reliable, probative, and substantial evidence. The agency may, to the extent consistent with the interests of justice and the policy of the underlying statutes administered by the agency, consider a violation of section 557(d) of this title sufficient grounds for a decision adverse to a party who has knowingly committed such violation or knowingly caused such violation to occur. A party is entitled to present his case or defense by oral or documentary evidence, to submit rebuttal evidence, and to conduct such cross-examination as may be required for a full and true disclosure of the facts. In rule making or determining claims for money or benefits or applications for initial licenses an agency may, when a party will not be prejudiced thereby, adopt procedures for the submission of all or part of the evidence in written form.

In preparation for said Due Process Hearing I hereby request the production of the due process documents named below which would relate me using the identifying number(s) as named above.

CAVEAT: This request is being submitted to demand a Due Process Determination Hearing and to secure documents relating to Internal Revenue Service personnel assessment and collection activity and subject matter jurisdiction. Copies of requested documents, or verification that requested documents do not exist, will be used as evidence to secure administrative and/or judicial due process remedies, possibly including criminal prosecution. I am entitled to whatever evidence is in Internal Revenue Service files, or verification that certain documents are not on file, in order to confront witnesses and otherwise contest evidence (see Goldberg v. Kelly 397 U.S. 254 (1970)). In the event you fail to provide documents, specifically identify those not in record, or otherwise evade disclosure, you may be called as a hostile witness or may be implicated for obstruction of justice, conspiracy, and other criminal infractions.

If you attempt collection activity without a due process hearing and in clear violation of applicable laws and my rights to due process, then you shall be held personally liable

2. DOCUMENTATION REQUIRED FOR DUE PROCESS HEARING:

These documents are required to demonstrate that you have complied with all due process requirements. Please come to the due process hearing with copies of all these documents you can give to me or with access to a copier so that my assistant may make the necessary copies while you are answering the questions:

1. A copy of the original lien, Treasury System of Records 26.009 or equivalent, issued and signed by a magistrate in a court of law, as required under the Fourth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution prior to seizing or levying any property in areas outside of the federal United States and inside the 50 states (see <http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Instructions/5.10ChallengeAllLevies.htm>)
2. Detailed answers to all the questions contained in Enclosure (5), the Test for Federal Tax Professionals, which you have received in my prior correspondence but refused to answer. Please pay particular (but no exclusive) attention to Section 4 of that document, which talks about IRS authority to levy penalties against human beings. Your answers to these questions will also be discussed at the due process hearing. Therefore, please provide your written answers at least two weeks prior to the hearing. Any questions not answered or defaulted by the IRS, as per the Uniform Commercial Code (UCC) section 1-205, will shall assume the default answer provided in the document by me. Any response that does not have ALL of the blanks filled in at the end of this document is an invalid response. This is the same approach you use on tax returns so you should have no problem complying with your own rules regarding paperwork I send you to fill out. Any other approach would be hypocrisy and tyranny.

3. Completed and signed copy of enclosure 6, IRS Due Process Hearing Worksheet, showing the implementing regulations authorizing you or any agent of the Internal Revenue Service to institute collection action for the income tax imposed under Subtitle A, Section 1 of the Internal Revenue Code. This document has a place for you to fill in the implementing regulation. The signature should be your full real legal name (birthname) and not a pseudonym or false name or handle you use when communicating with the public. Ensure you also have a witness signature. Any response that does not have ALL of the blanks filled in at the end of this document is an invalid response. This is the same approach you use on tax returns so you should have no problem complying with your own rules regarding paperwork I send you to fill out. Any other approach would be hypocrisy and tyranny.
4. A copy of the statute in the Internal Revenue Code that makes me liable for the payment of income taxes under Subtitles A through C as a natural born person.
5. A copy of the statute in the Internal Revenue Code that authorizes the IRS to assess me with a tax liability absent a return from me. 26 U.S.C. §6020 DOES NOT authorize the Secretary of the Treasury to assess me if I refuse to assess myself with a liability.
6. A definition of the term “income” based on Supreme Court Decisions. According to the Supreme Court in the following cases, income means corporate profit and I therefore have NO INCOME which is taxable:
 - 6.1. Eisner v. Macomber, 252 U.S. 189, 207, 40 S.Ct. 189, 9 A.L.R. 1570 (1920).
 - 6.2. Doyle v. Mitchell Brothers Co., 247 U.S. 179, 185, 38 S.Ct. 467 (1918).
 - 6.3. Flint v. Stone Tracy Co., 220 U.S. 107 (1913).

NOTE: You are not authorized by your own publications to quote cases lower than the Supreme Court in my case, based on the following section of the Internal Revenue Manual. If you insist on doing so, please come to the due process hearing equipped to explain why you have violated the rules of the IRS:

"Decisions made at various levels of the court system... may be used by either examiners or taxpayers to support a position... A case decided by the U.S. Supreme Court becomes the law of the land and takes precedence over decisions of lower courts... Decisions made by lower courts, such as Tax Court, District Courts, or Claims Court, are binding on the Service only for the particular taxpayer and the years litigated. Adverse decisions of lower courts do not require the Service to alter its position for other taxpayers." [Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.), Section 4.10.7.2.9.8 (05/14/99)]

7. A list of statutes from the Internal Revenue Code that specifically making me as a non-resident non-person who has expatriated his “U.S. citizenship”, liable for Subtitles A through C income taxes. (the cite must use the word “liable”).
8. A list of all claims made by me in Ref. (1) above that you dispute. Any statements made in that document not disputed shall be affirmed as fact. Acquiescence is agreement in the legal field.
9. A copy of your pocket commission, as identified in I.R.M. section [1.16.4] 3.1 through [1.16.4] 3.2.
10. A copy of your Delegation Orders clearly showing your authority to sign the forms in question.
11. A certified copy of all lawful and procedurally proper assessments of Federal taxes, penalties, or interest for any or all of the eight classes of tax administered by the Internal Revenue Service for calendar years 1998 through 2000. (26 U.S.C. §6203, 26 C.F.R. §301.6203-1, and Internal Revenue Manual §§ 3(17)(63)(14).1 (1-1-89), 3(17)(46)2.3 (1-1-89), 3(17)(63)(14).5 (4-1-96), 3(17)(63)(14).6 (4-1-96) & 3(17)(63)(14).7 (4-1-96))
12. Verified copies of the summary records of assessment, Form 23C - Assessment Certificate for each of the eight classes of tax administered by the Internal Revenue Service, in strict compliance with 26 C.F.R. §301.6203-1 and Internal Revenue Manual 3(17)(46)2.3 for me for the tax years 1998 through 2000. (Exhibits I - 2). And all support documents for each, for calendar year 1998 through 2000.

13. A Notice of Assessment, Form 2162, completed for me pursuant to 26 U.S.C. 6303(a), certified, signed and dated by an authorized Assessment Officer as required in Exhibit 1.
14. All other procedurally required supporting documents pursuant to 26 C.F.R. §301.6203-1.
15. A certified copy of any and all decisions amending, revoking, rendering obsolete or otherwise effecting Form 23C authority of 'Account 6110 Tax Assessments' with respect to Internal Revenue Manual 3 (17)(63)(14).1. I have found that RACS 006 does not have the intelligence to determine the character - (KIND) of tax.
16. The Notice and Demand, Form 17, if any, that was allegedly issued promptly to complete the Governments Lien on any of my property (Exhibits 3 and 4).
17. A certified copy of Treasury Decision 1995 and any Treasury Decisions amending, revoking, rendering obsolete or otherwise effecting Treasury Decision 1955.
18. United States Code, Title 5, Section 552a, which is the Federal Privacy Act, states as follows:

552a(e) Agency requirements. Each agency that maintains a system of records shall (1-2 omitted)

(3) inform each individual whom it asks to supply information, on the form which it uses to collect the information or on a separate form that can be retained by the individual (A) the authority (whether granted by statute, or by executive order of the President) which authorizes the solicitation of the information and whether disclosure of such information is mandatory or voluntary; (B) the principal purpose or purposes for which the information is intended to be used; (C) the routine uses which may be made of the information... and (D) the effects on him, if any, of not providing all or any part of the requested information; 5 U.S. C., § 552a (e)(3)(A)-(D) (7997).

Therefore, please provide copies of any and all documents whereby the IRS provided me with ALL the disclosures required under the Federal Privacy Act (5 U.S.C. §552a(e)) as those requirements specifically apply to the IRS' request for my books and records (NOT as they apply to my tax return. IRS Notice 609 ONLY applies to a tax return, not to my books and records).

For example, and not by way of limitation, the IRS requested to review me "[any appropriate private record asked for in the 4564 or letter]". Provide documentation that shows WHERE in ANY of the material the IRS provided to me, including IRS Notice 609, that tells me:

- "the authority (whether granted by statute, or by executive order of the President) which authorizes the solicitation of " me "[private record]".

And please provide documentation that shows WHERE in ANY of the material the IRS provided to me, including IRS Notice 609, that tells me:

- "whether disclosure of " me "[private record]" "is mandatory or voluntary"

And please provide documentation that shows WHERE in ANY of the material the IRS provided to me, including IRS Notice 609, that tells me:

- "the principal purpose or purposes for which " me "[private record]" "is intended to be used"

And please provide documentation that shows WHERE in ANY of the material the IRS provided to me, including IRS Notice 609, that tells me:

- "the routine uses which may be made of" my "[private record]"

And please provide documentation that shows WHERE in ANY of the material the IRS provided to me, including IRS Notice 609, that tells me:

- "the effects on" me, "if any, of not providing " their "[private record]"

19. Documentary evidence of the internal revenue district, established under authority of 26 U.S.C. §7601 & Executive Order #10289, in which I are allegedly liable for federal tax. (The Treasury Order must comply with Federal Register Act requirements; see particularly, 44 U.S.C. §1505(a).)
20. A verified contract I signed obligating them to pay federal income and Social Security taxes (In particular, see 40 U.S.C. §270a(d)). If different for any or all years, please provide copies of contracts applicable for calendar years 1998 through 2000.
21. A copy of a list or lists of taxable articles I own in an internal revenue district established under authority of 26 U. S.C. § 7621 & E.O. # 10289, as required by 26 C.F.R. §301.6021-1. As applicable, please provide lists for calendar years 1998 through 2000.
22. Certified copies of notices from the district director of an internal revenue district that I am or was required to keep books and records and file returns for any or all of the eight classes of tax administered by the Internal Revenue Service for taxable years 1998 through 2000. 26 C.F.R. §1.6001-1(d) states:

“The district director may require any person, by notice served upon him, to make such returns, render such statements, or keep such specific records as will enable the district director to determine whether or not such a person is liable for tax under Subtitle A of the Code.”

I have no knowledge of receiving said notice. In order to verify compliance with the proper rules, regulations and procedures of the Service, I need for the examination office to provide me with a copy of the Notice(s) issued from the district director requiring returns, statements, or the keeping of records. Such notice is a procedural and administrative requirement so that I may be cognizant of any and all said obligation applicable to myself. (Notice 555 Filing Requirements and/or Letter 978 (DO) notice of required records; see 26 C.F.R. §1.6001, 26 C.F.R. §§1.6001-1(d) & 31.6001-6; and D.O. #24). 25. Copies of any 10-day notice and demand letters, if any, sent to me subsequent to and within 60 days following assessments above. (See 26 U.S.C. §6303 & 26 C.F.R. §301.6303-1)

3. CONCLUSIONS:

Despite my properly made request for my case to be transferred to the Internal Revenue Service Office of Appeals, both before and after the notices of deficiency were issued, I was denied my right to have the case so transferred. The IRS denied me their due process rights under 26 U.S.C. §7123, which states:

SECTION 7123. APPEALS DISPUTE RESOLUTION PROCEDURES. (a) EARLY REFERRAL TO APPEALS PROCEDURES The Secretary shall prescribe procedures by which any taxpayer may request early referral of I or more unresolved issues from the examination or collection division to the Internal Revenue Service Office of Appeals. 26 U.S.C. §7123

This matter will also be addressed at the Due Process Hearing.

Finally, I demand the opportunity to question ALL the agents involved in this case and their supervisors.

I expressly DISAGREE with any proposal to hold the Due Process Hearing by telephone. I have the right to confront those who are a witness against me and to see any and all evidence presented establishing claims made by the IRS. Any attempt to deny my right to question the agents or other IRS employees involved in this case would be a denial of my right to due process of law. Any such infringement of my rights will result in both an appeal of the hearing and an immediate filing of complaints against the parties involved with the Treasury Inspector General.

Pursuant to the Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.), Section 4.10.3.2.5 (05-14-1999), you are hereby notified well in advance of my intention to:

- Video and/or tape record the entire due process hearing.
- Have witnesses present.
- Have a court reporter present.
- Have counsel present.

IMPORTANT!: A formal and very detailed line of questioning has already been prepared and it is estimated that the hearing will take at least 16 full hours and require seating for five parties on my side. If you feel that you are not qualified to answer the questions to be presented, and especially those identified in items 1 and 2 above (under Section2), then please ensure that you have someone at the hearing who is qualified to answer these questions. Hopefully, this will be the person who prepared the answers requested from you in these items.

Should you determine that any or all the penalties involved in this dispute are abated based on this correspondence, please kindly inform me of the following at least two weeks prior to the due process hearing: 1. Which penalties are abated; 2. Which penalties are still outstanding. This will allow me to exercise due diligence in pursuing the legal remedies necessary to eliminate all penalties and tax liabilities associated with me for the tax years in question. If you choose not to have a due process hearing or confront the issues raised in this letter, I respectfully request that you dismiss any penalty or tax liabilities you impute that I currently have.

The Internal Revenue Service may incur up to $25.00 in charges without further authorization, and this is my firm promise to pay any reasonable charge up to that amount. If the total charges are estimated to exceed that amount, please provide me with an estimate of the charges and seek further authorization from me.

In accordance with Treasury Regulation § 601.702(c)(4)(ii)(C), this request includes a notarized statement affirming my identity. Pursuant to Treasury Regulation § 601.702(f)(3)(E), I swear under penalties of perjury that I am a requester falling into the "other requester" category.

I affirm and declare per 28 U.S.C. §1746(1), under penalty of perjury from without the "United States" and in accordance with the laws of the United States of America that the facts and statements made by me in this correspondence are true and correct to the best of my knowledge and ability.

WARNING: Any failure to provide the required legal documentation of lawful authority in the attempt to illegally seize any property, assets, wages, or whatever else will be considered as an act done intentionally, willfully, and with full knowledge that the claim is falsely made (fraud). If you disregard this notice and illegally send out a Notice of Levy over the objections in this document (IRS Form 668A) absent paragraph (a) of 26 U.S.C. §6331, then you will be prosecuted under 26 U.S.C. §7214 for willful extortion under the color of office absent any legal authority to take said property and for breach of fiduciary duty under the laws of the United States of America.

extortion under the color of office: "...Unlawful taking by any officer by color of his office, of any money or thing of value, that is not due to him, or more than is due or before it is due." 4 Bla.Comm. 141; Com. v. I am in receipt of two unsigned form letters respectively numbered, "CP-515" and "CP-518" headed "REQUEST FOR YOUR TAX RETURN" and "YOUR TAX RETURN IS OVERDUE" dated "02-17-97" and "03-10-97" and both further labeled as "TAXPAYER IDENT. NUM: _____", "TAX FORM: 1040" and "TAX PERIOD: _____".

I did not submit a "US INDIVIDUAL INCOME TAX RETURN" for the "Tax period ending _____," or any other year, as I did not believe I had any obligation to do so. I respectfully deny any presumption to the contrary.

I also believe I have broached this matter with your Service in the past and your Service has failed to respond and also failed to furnish any documents that show any such legal obligation to pay for a person of my circumstance.

If you agree that I have no obligation, I request that you correct any and all errors in your records and notify me of the actions you have taken to make these corrections, and the laws that justify those actions.

If you disagree, I make respectful demand that you produce, and send to me, all hard copy documents that fully detail and describe that obligation, with at least the following documents:

1. All documents on which you base your position that I have an obligation to submit a "Form 1040 – US INDIVIDUAL INCOME TAX RETURN" for the "tax period ending 12/31/95."
2. All documents that specifically identify all laws, statutes and regulations that impose an obligation upon me to submit a "Form 1040 - tax return" for the "period ending 1995."
3. All contractual or waiver documents that I signed or any judicial decisions that obligated me in any way to your Service or to any specific performance.
4. Copies of all determinations made by anyone in your Service that concluded that any obligation was imposed upon me, and which specifically determined the extent of that obligation.
5. Copies of the specific "Notice" documents, sent or served upon me, prior to the making of any of the above determinations.
6. Copies of all delegation of authority to make any determinations in reference to me.
7. Copies of documents that identify all the coded numbers and letters on the bottom of the CP-515 and CP-518 notices sent to me.
8. The documents that describe the format for making a request for correction or for making a request for specific documents describing any obligation upon me and your specific authority to determine, impose and enforce any such obligation, if this present format is insufficient to meet your internal procedure.

My authority for making the above respectful demand, if you disagree, is made as a matter of right and supported by the following Supreme Court decision"

"Whatever the form in which the Government functions, anyone entering into an arrangement with the Government takes the risk of having accurately ascertained that he who purports to act for the Government stays within the bounds of his authority...and this is so even though as here the agent himself may have been unaware of the limitations upon his authority."

2 I will expect your response to my request for correction of error or to my respectful demand for the documents requested,
3 within 30 days of your receipt of this letter.

4 If you need additional time, please make your request in writing, stating the amount of time needed, and it will be granted.

5 If I do not hear from you within that time, your lack of response will establish the presumption of your error and will also
6 establish that you do not have any documents responsive to my request or any documents verifying your authority to 7 support or make any claim of any obligation upon me.

SUBJECT: FINAL NOTICE & MEETING

I am in receipt of your two letters dated _____ after our brief phone conversation; 1058(DO)(Rev. 11-91) and 725(DO)(Rev.10-82).

Revenue officer _____, you are in error and proceeding on a false assumption if you believe that I have some obligation to you or the agency that you represent. Please review ALL the paperwork that I have submitted over the years to clarify my position with the IRS. Please note that I have obtained opinion letters that I have relied upon in making my decisions. I have made excerpts for your review. If you would like the entire letter of any specific excerpt, let me know, in writing, and I will send it to you.

Revenue officer _____, I'm putting you on notice that you are wicked before God. Psalm 35 and various others show that we are to put the wicked on notice and bring them to accountability before God. In Scripture, there are two examples of tax collectors (publicans) getting saved and getting right with God. The first is Levi, found in Matthew 9:9, and Zacchaeus in Luke 19:5-9. In both cases, the men saved quit the tax business. Zacchaeus refunded those he had cheated. An IRS employee cannot do all that is required of him - such as spying on citizens, confiscating their property, harassing, attaching liens, etc. - and rightfully be called a Christian. In other words, they are Judases. Judas betrayed the Lord for 30 pieces of silver. The only difference is that IRS agents will do it for a few thousand dollars. EXODUS 20:15 - "Thou shalt not steal."

Seeing you are in error, I will not be making any meeting that you have scheduled with me in your 725(DO) letter. You may issue a summons requiring me to produce records. I will request however, in advance, travel payment to make any summoned meeting.

Again, I deny your assumption that I have payments due or that I have delinquent tax returns or an open account with you or the agency that you represent. However, if you have information to the contrary, I would be most interested in receiving it.

As the agency's reputation for giving bad advice over the phone is common knowledge, I do not wish to discuss any matters over the phone with anyone from your service. Therefore, if you have any disagreement with anything presented here, please respond immediately, in writing, to me.

Again, as in my previous letters, there are lawyer opinion letters that I have obtained to verify that my position is correct. If you disagree and can show me, in writing, that I have been lied to by lawyers, accountants and legal advisers, I will be more than happy to meet with you to resolve this matter.

Please assist me in clarifying certain issues by answering the following questions as soon as possible.

1. How I can file a tax return without waiving my First and Fifth Amendment rights?
2. Can I be required by law to sign a government form under penalty of perjury?
3. Do you consider the value of my labor and time to be worth nothing? If so, please explain your position in light of the historical fact that my labor and time is property and does have value. If the value of labor is nothing, then how do you explain the fact that the value in the material goods created by labor is greater than the value of raw materials used to - create the goods? Do you maintain that value can be created from nothing? Does the IRS have the power to diminish the value of my property rights?

4. Does the IR code say that I am liable for the income tax? If yes, what section of the code makes me liable for an income tax on my personal property?
 5. Why does the IRS, in its publications, continually refer to the income tax system as voluntary? Do they do this because the income tax must be voluntary in order to be constitutional?
 6. The Privacy Act Notice states that you can ask for information under the IRC Sections 6001 and 6011, and that people who are liable for the tax must file a return. Sections 6001 and 6011 do not say who is liable for the tax. How do I figure out who these sections refer to and who is liable for the tax?
 7. The First Amendment to the Constitution of the U.S. protects the freedom of free speech and of the press. Can you compel me to speak, i.e., fill out a 1040 form or a W-4 form? Do I have a right to refuse to fill out a government form under the First Amendment?
 8. The Fourth Amendment to the Constitution of the U.S. protects my privacy. When you mail me a tax form with instructions on how to complete it, is that, for Fourth Amendment purposes, a valid order compelling a response?
 9. If I base my interpretation of the law on the opinion of a qualified and respected professional, am I willfully disobeying a law?
 10. Did the Sixteenth Amendment repeal the First, Fourth, and Fifth Amendments to the Constitution of the U.S? The Amendment states, Congress shall have the power to lay and collect taxes in incomes ... Income, contrary to popular belief (or deception), is NOT a wage, salary, fee, tip, commission, or compensation for any kind of labor. But rather, income is a gain or a profit derived from a source. e.g.: interest income, profit from a capital investment, stock dividends, real estate sales, etc., are all income. The U.S. Supreme Court's legal definition of taxable income, where the Court cited and upheld their Eisner decision in the Goodrich case stated:

"... the definition of "income" approved by this Court is: The gain derived from capital, for a labor, or from both combined, provided it be understood to include profits gained through sale or conversion of capital assets. Eisner v. Macomber, 252 U.S. 189,207. Goodrich v. Edwards ,255 U.S. 527.

11. In Flora v. U.S., 362 U.S. 145 (1960), the Court stated: Our system of taxation is based upon voluntary assessment and payment, not upon distraint. In the light of Flora, please explain how I can be required to file a tax return. Did the Court make this statement in Flora because they knew that the income tax must be a voluntary, indirect tax if it is to be constitutional under the Sixteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the U.S..?
12. Can information I give to you be used against me criminally?

If you cannot or will not answer the above questions, specifically, I can only continue to rely on the professional opinions I have received to date.

I want to make it clear, that it is my intention to obey all laws that legitimately impose a requirement or obligation upon me. However, I have no desire to volunteer where no obligation exists, especially when the waiver of my rights is involved. I am relying on what the Supreme Court held long ago:

"An individual may be under no obligation to do a particular thing, and his failure to act creates no liability; but if he voluntarily attempts to act and do a particular thing, he comes under an implied obligation in respect to the manner in which he does it." Guardian T & D Co. v. Fisher (1906) 26 S.Ct. 186, 188

If you agree with my determinations, I make timely demand that you notify me, in writing, of the actions you have taken to correct your error.

If you disagree, I will expect you to document your position and AUTHORITY with at least the following documents:

1. All documents on which you base your claims that I have any obligation to you or your Service or the United States and that I am one who is required to produce anything.
2. Copies of all documents that identify how I came within the purview of the statutes.
3. All documents of determination that I am one who is liable or subject to any statute that you or your Service claim to have authority to enforce.
4. Copies of all documents that identify the facts on which those determinations were made.
5. Copies of all statutes on which those facts were applied to make any of the determinations that I am one who is liable or subject.

6. Copies of the Notices sent or served upon me prior to the making of those determinations.
7. Copies of your DELEGATION OF AUTHORITY to inquire into my personal affairs or make any demand upon me, and the DELEGATIONS OF AUTHORITY of those who made the above determinations that I am liable or obligated to make those determinations.
8. Copies of your document of appointment to the position which you now hold and copies of the documents that identify, by name, title, position, G.S. #, and office, each party who participated in any aspect of the above determinations.
9. The document that describes the procedural format for expungement of alleged determinations, improperly or unlawfully made within your Service.

My authority for making this demand for verification of your authority has been well established as follows:

"Whatever the form in which the government functions, anyone entering into an arrangement with the Government takes the risk of having accurately ascertaining that he who purports to act for the Government stays within the bounds of his authority ... and this is so even though as here the agent himself may have been unaware of the limitations upon his authority."
Federal Corp Insurance Corporation v. Merrill, 332 U.S. 380 at 384 (1947)

I will expect your written response as to my demand for correction of your error or the documents requested above within 30 days of your receipt of this letter. If you need additional time, please make your request in writing and it will be granted.

I would like to emphasize that you have a duty to respond to these important, relevant questions, under both the Privacy Act and pursuant to the mission of the Service as set forth in the Federal Register, which states in part:

(mission) "includes communicating the requirements of law to the public."

If I do not hear from you within that time, your lack of response will establish the presumption that you or your Service do not have the documentation or the authority to support your claim of any requirement or obligation upon me.

Sincerely,

SUBJECT: SUMMONS

I am in receipt of your letter dated _____, copy enclosed.

Please clarify your letter.

Your first paragraph, first sentence,

The District Director of Internal Revenue has notified our office that you did not comply with the provisions of the summons served on you on _____, 20__.

Please list the provisions of the summons that I did not comply with.

Your first paragraph, second sentence,

Under the terms of the summons, you were required to appear before Revenue Officer <<OFFICER NAME>> on _____, 20__.

I'm confused. Please let me know which of the following you mean.

1. I did not appear?
2. This sentence is erroneous? I may have appeared, but you put this sentence in anyway implying I did not appear.
3. The District Director of Internal Revenue told you I did not appear, so you just took their word for it and put this sentence in without checking to see if I did in fact appear or not?
4. Other?

Your second paragraph, first sentence,

Legal proceedings may be brought against you in the United States District Court for not complying with this summons.

If legal proceedings may be brought against me, legal proceedings may not be brought me also. The sentence also says I didn't comply with the summons. Someone is misleading you. I did comply with the summons, 100%.

Your third, and final paragraph, first sentence,

Any books, records or other documents called for in the summons should be produced at that time.

I do not have to produce any of the above. I am a free sovereign individual answering only to the highest authority and taking the Fifth Amendment to each question asked of me pertaining to any violation of my God given natural rights as guaranteed under the Fourth and Fifth Amendments to the Constitution for the United States.

There are lawyer opinion letters that I have obtained to verify that my position is correct. If you disagree and can show me, in writing, that I have been lied to by my lawyers, accountants and legal advisers, I will be more than happy to meet with the IRS to resolve this matter.

I want to make it clear, that it is my intention to obey all laws that legitimately impose a requirement or obligation upon me. Guardian T & D Co. v. Fisher (1906) 26 S.Ct. 186, 188

If you agree with my determinations, I make timely demand that you notify me, in writing, of the actions you have taken to correct your error.

I will expect your written response as to my demand for correction of your error by _____, 20__ so that I may make a decision as to appear or not appear at the meeting you set up for me in Marquette. If you cannot respond by that time, please re-schedule my appointment to a later date.

If you have the time, have my file forwarded to you and look at the correspondence between the IRS and myself since 1985, including the lawyer opinion letters. In fact, I've included a brief synopsis of all the opinion letters that I've received to date. My foundation is sound!

God has given me the ability to read and comprehend. I've asked every revenue officer that I've been in contact with to tell me if I'm a person subject to fill out and file a 1040 income tax form. The revenue officers that responded told me they are not lawyers and can't give me legal advice. You are a lawyer, according to your title. Did my lawyers lie to me? If so, what section of the internal revenue code makes me liable to fill out and file a 1040 income tax form without violating my Fifth Amendment rights? Mark, all you have to do is tell me my lawyers lied to me, show me the code sections and explain how they pertain to me and I'll immediately make an appointment with the IRS to resolve this problem. Is that too much to ask?

If the IRS wishes to prosecute me, fine. If I have to go to prison, fine. I'll be in good company. Most of the New Testament was penned from prison.

I would like to emphasize that you have a duty to respond to these important, relevant questions, under both the Privacy Act Law and pursuant to the mission of the Service as set forth in the Federal Register, which states in part:

(mission) "includes communicating the requirements of law to the public."

If I do not hear from you within that time, your lack of response will establish the presumption that you or your Service do not have the documentation or the authority to support your claim of any requirement or obligation upon me.

Sincerely,

_____/signature/_____

5.12.7 Letter from IRS Responding to 16th Amendment Right of Taxation

IRS letter you can expect which tells you the 16th Amendment allows them to collect taxes from Citizens AND the response to that letter.

This letter was received in response to a letter of inquiry to the IRS. After reading this letter, read the letter that responds to this line of crap received from the IRS.

Internal Revenue Service
Department of the Treasury
Kansas City, MO 64999

Person to contact: M. Kuhn
Telephone Number: 913-345-3930

Date: xx/xx/97

Dear Taxpayer,

This letter is a response to your earlier letter concerning the requirements to file an income tax return or to pay an assessed tax or penalty.

Our agency is not required to respond on a point by point basis to questions concerning the legality of the tax laws. We are not required to conduct research to determine which code section, regulation or court case you are seeking, nor are we required to respond to citations of code sections, regulations or court cases. Neither are we required to respond to statements, which appear to be more appropriately addressed in a judicial proceeding.

To the extent that you are seeking information which establishes the authority of the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) to assess and collect taxes, please be advised of the following: The 16th Amendment to the Constitution authorized Congress to impose an income tax. Congress did so in the Internal Revenue Code. The IRS administers that code.

The code, the regulations and IRS procedures are public information. They are available at libraries, they can be purchased from publishers, or they can be ordered at bookstores. The IRS has publications which state our position in informal language. These can be ordered by calling 1-800-829-3676.

Citizens have the right to express opinions about the tax system and to join groups which express such criticisms. Once a person moves from expressing dissatisfaction to actually employing schemes with the intention of evading taxes, the IRS has an obligation to every other Citizen in the country to ensure that the Federal laws are enforced. An individual who participates in such a scheme can anticipate civil or criminal enforcement of the law. Persons who do not file timely and correct returns, or who do not pay assessed tax or penalties, can subject themselves to civil and criminal penalties, in addition to their tax liabilities. The courts have spoken clearly on the various tax protest issues. We encourage anyone who is tempted to get involved in the protest movement to think twice and get an objective opinion from an accountant, an enrolled agent, or an attorney.

This office does not accept your notice as having any legal bearing. Again, we urge you to consult with a competent authority before continuing on this course of action.

Sincerely yours,

Chief, Examination Branch

 13 Dear 'friendly revenue person',

14 Thank you for your recent form letter of _____, 20__. Your name at the top of the letter is listed as the 15 person to contact. The second paragraph of this form letter certainly is in keeping with the Internal Revenue Service
 16 maintaining silence in regards to correspondence I sent to the IRS in _____ and _____ of 20__. The unwillingness
 17 shown by the IRS to respond to these documents which I sent to two IRS offices as well as the U.S. Justice Department by 18 certified mail certainly does not rebut and disprove, refute or controvert, in any form, my legal claims and beliefs. By 19 silence and failure to timely respond, the IRS has self-imposed a default to all contained within those documents.

20 On _____ of 200X I sent copies of my 2nd (second) Codicil by certified mail to the Refund Center in Ogden, Utah, to 21 the IRS District Director in Omaha and to the U.S. Justice Department in Washington, D.C. These documents requested a
 22 response in 30 days. No response was ever received by me. I sent an Administrative Claim for Damages and return of all
 23 property per 26 U.S.C. §7433(d)(1) on _____, 200X by certified mail to the IRS District Director in Omaha and
 24 received an unbelievably quick reply just 4 days later that did not reject my claim. However, no attempt to answer any part
 25 of the claim was ever made and again no response to the enclosed documents was made. The claim documents even set
 26 forth conditions for a phone conversation to discuss and/or resolve the issues and I never even received a phone call.
 27 Although perhaps not an exact quote, the essence of what was said in Carmine v. Bowen 64 AT. 932 certainly applies here:
 28 Silence is species of conduct, and constitutes an implied representation of the existence of facts in question.. When silence
 29 is of such character and under such circumstances that it would become fraud... it will operate as an estoppel. An estoppel
 30 would be a bar that would prevent you from making an allegation or a denial that contradicts what I have previously stated
 31 as truth if a reasonable amount of time has passed. In this case, my statement of facts were sent to the IRS Refund Center
 32 and the IRS District Director by certified mail over a year ago requesting a response in 30 days and no response was ever 33 received.

34 You must believe that I am in some way liable or obligated to send in a 1040 income tax return. Certainly there are people 35 who cheat on their taxes or even try to avoid paying what they themselves know (or believe) the law requires them to pay.
 36 Believe it or not, I encourage you to do everything lawfully within your power to collect their alleged liability. Yours is 37 probably a difficult job. I do respect your honest efforts to do what is right within the context of that job. Please respect my 38 honest effort to communicate with you and give careful consideration to what I have included and documented herein.

39 While the 2nd paragraph of your form letter dated _____, 200X states that "Our agency is not required to 40 respond" (silence) "on a point by point basis as to questions concerning the legality of tax laws", I must respectfully
 41 demand that you respond specifically to all of my questions herein so that I may fully understand what the subject of the 42 tax is and what would make me liable. I am interested in what the statutes say regarding the law, but the statutes are not
 43 much more than a general reading. What activates the statutes and what I am even more interested in are the corresponding 44 implementing regulations. The implementing regulations will tell me who the statutes apply to and who has the authority
 45 to enforce those statutes.

46 Some would argue that the law is too sophisticated and complex to be understood by the average person. I don't agree, but 47 if this were true, who would average people be left to the mercy of but lawyers, politicians and government agencies? (not 48 that there are not honest politicians, government employees and yes, even lawyers). I will cite numerous court cases in this document as well as a few points regarding the Internal Revenue Code for you to consider. One does not need to be a college graduate to grasp the significance of these points and cites.

"The revenue laws are a code or system in the regulation of tax assessment and collection. They relate to taxpayers, and not to nontaxpayers. The latter are without their scope. No procedure is prescribed for nontaxpayers, and no attempt is made to annul any of their rights and remedies in due course of law. With them Congress does not assume to deal, and they are neither of the subject nor of the object of the revenue laws." (emphasis mine)
Economy Plumbing and Heating v. U. S. , 470F. 2d 585, at page 589 (1972).

I firmly believe I am not a "taxpayer" as that term is defined in 26 U.S.C.. I believe the alleged liabilities that you seek to impose upon me have been concocted through gross misapplication of internal revenue laws. I believe that I have no such liabilities, as hard as that may seem for you to believe. It should be obvious from the above ruling that nontaxpayers legally exist. One of your publications says taxpayers are only "responsible for paying the correct amount of tax due under the law--no more, no less." Therefore, I do not think it is too much to ask that you send to me (a nontaxpayer by my way of thinking) copies of the implementing regulations which verify the statutes you are using and to show that they actually apply to me on any tax that you say I may be liable for. Furthermore, I respectfully demand copies of the statutes and implementing regulations and the delegation of authority document which gives you the authority to apply those regulations to me .

You are likely classified as a Revenue Officer. Your job description probably requires you to possess a "broad, in-depth knowledge of applicable portions of the Internal Revenue Code..." and that you are "responsible for providing courteous, fair, prompt, accurate and thorough service..." The words lawfully correct are not included, but hopefully they are inferred in the use of the words fair, accurate and thorough. I sure hope so, and I am hopeful that you personally would be very reluctant to carry out activities which you suspected as being in violation of law or lacking authority of law.

Your letter suggests that I should investigate the code, the regulations and IRS procedures and also references your authority as the 16th Amendment. I am doing just that as well as reading some of the early landmark U.S. Supreme Court cases, some of which deal with the 16th Amendment and I would like to take this opportunity to convey to you some of what I have learned to the best of my understanding and tie everything together in an exhaustive way so that there can be no doubt as to my reasoning. Please give what follows fair consideration.

"The Sixteenth Amendment ... does not extend the taxing power to new or excepted subjects..." (emphasis mine)
William E. Peck & Co. v. Lowe , 247 U.S. 165 (1918)

"...by the previous ruling it was settled that the provisions of the 16th Amendment conferred no new power of taxation but simply prohibited the previous complete and plenary power of income taxation possessed by Congress from the beginning from being taken out of the category of indirect taxation to which it inherently belonged...." (emphasis mine)
Stanton v. Baltic Mining Co. , 240 U.S. 103 (1916)

The right to tax comes from the United States Constitution, which authorizes the federal government to impose two broad categories of taxes: direct taxes under Article 1, Section 2 and Section 9 and indirect taxes under Article 1, Section 8. Direct taxes are required to be apportioned among the States, while indirect taxes must be uniform throughout the United States.

"Thus in the matter of taxation, the constitution recognizes the two great classes of direct and indirect taxes, and lays down two rules by which their imposition must be governed, namely, the rule of apportionment as to direct taxes, and the rule of uniformity as to duties, imposts and excises." (emphasis mine).
Pollock v. Farmers' Loan & Trust Co. , 157 U.S. 429 (1895)

In Brushaber v. Union Pacific R. Co. , 240 U.S. 1 (1916), the court ruled that the 16th Amendment separated the source (capital) from income (profit) permitting the collection of an indirect (excise) tax on income, but leaving the source (wages, salary, compensation, fees for service, first time commissions and capital) untouched and free of tax. If these things were taxed, it could only be construed as a direct tax, unquestionably in violation of the Constitution, making the entire tax void.

To reiterate; the tax authorized under the original U.S. Constitution has not changed except as to separate the source of "income" from the income itself permitting the collection of an indirect (excise) tax on income by leaving the source (wages, salaries, fees for service, first time commissions and capital) free of tax (see Brushaber) despite how some might incorrectly interpret the 16th Amendment.

" Income within the meaning of the 16th Amendment and the Revenue Act means, gain ... and, in such connection, gain means profit ..." (emphasis mine) Stapler v. U.S., 21 F Supp 737 U.S. Dist. Ct. ED PA, (1937).

"...whatever may constitute income, therefore, must have the essential feature of gain to the recipient. This was true when the 16th Amendment became effective, it was true at the time of Eisner v. Macomber 252 U.S. 189, it was true under Section 22 (a) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1938, and it is likewise true under Section 61 (a) of the I.R.S. Code of 1954. If there is not gain, there is not income... Congress has taxed income not compensation." (emphasis mine) Conner v. U.S., 303 F Supp. 1187 (1969).

"...one does not derive income by rendering services and charging for them."
Edwards v. Keith, 231 F 111 (1916).

State Court rulings line up with the Federal Courts as well.

"...reasonable compensation for labor or services rendered is not profit."
Lauderdale Cemetery Assoc. v. Mathews, 345 PA 239; 47 A. 2d 277, 280 (1946).

"There is a clear distinction between ' profit ' and 'wages', or a compensation for labor. Compensation for labor (wages) cannot be regarded as profit within the meaning of the law. The word 'profit', as ordinarily used, means the gain made upon any business or investment - a different thing altogether from the mere compensation for labor ." (emphasis mine)
Oliver v. Halstead, 86 S.E. Rep 2nd 85e9 (1955).

Here, an indirect tax is defined by the U.S. Supreme Court, "A tax laid upon the happening of an event, as distinguished from its' tangible fruits, is an indirect tax. . . ." (emphasis mine)
Tyler v. United States, 281 U.S. 497 (1930).

"The conclusion reached in the Pollack case did not in any degree involve holding that income taxes generically and necessarily came within the class of direct taxes on property, but on the contrary recognized the fact that taxation on income was in its' nature an excise entitled to be enforced as such...." (emphasis mine)
Brushaber v. Union Pacific R. Co., 240 U.S. 1 (1916).

The 1943 House Congressional Record reiterates these basic facts:

The income tax is, therefore, not a tax on income as such. It is an excise tax with respect to certain activities and privileges which is measured by reference to the income which they produce. The income is not the subject of the tax: it is the basis for determining the amount of tax. (emphasis mine)
House Congressional Record, 3-27-43, page 2580.

The United States Supreme Court explains what an excise tax is:

"Excises are 'taxes laid upon the manufacture, sale or consumption of commodities within the country, upon licenses to pursue certain occupations, and upon corporate privileges ... As was said in the Thomas Case, 192 U.S. supra (363), the requirement to pay such taxes involves the exercise of privileges ... In the case at bar we have already discussed the limitations which the Constitution

1 imposes upon the right to levy excise taxes,... but the tax is laid upon the privileges which exist in
2 conducting business ..." emphasis mine)
3 Flint v. Stone Tracy Co. , 220 U.S. 107 (1911).

4 This whole discussion turns on several critical points, the definition of the word income and who or what is the subject of 5 this type of tax. The next five United States Supreme Court cites shed an abundant amount of light on this discussion.

6 " 'Income' has been taken to mean the same thing as used in the Corporation Excise Tax Act of 1909
7 (36 stat. 112)..." (emphasis mine)
8 Bowers v. Kerbaugh-Empire Co. , 271 U.S. 170 (1926)

9 and,,

10 "As has been repeatedly remarked, the corporation tax act of 1909 was not intended to be and is 11 not in any proper sense , an income tax law. This court had decided in the Pollock Case that the 12 income tax law of 1894 amounted in effect to a direct tax upon property , and was invalid because 13 not apportioned according to populations, as prescribed by the Constitution. The act of 1909 14 avoided this difficulty by imposing not an income tax, but an excise tax upon the conduct of 15 business in a corporate capacity , measuring, however, the amount of tax by the income of the 16 corporation , with certain qualifications prescribed by the act itself..." (emphasis mine)
17 Stratton's Independence, Ltd. v. Howbert , 231 U.S. 399 (1913)

18 and,

19 "As to what should be deemed ' income ' within the meaning of 38, it of course need not be such an 20 income as would have been taxable as such, for at that time (the 16th Amendment not having been 21 as yet ratified) income was not taxable as such by Congress without apportionment according to 22 population, and this tax was not so apportioned. Evidently Congress adopted the income as the 23 measure of the tax to be imposed with respect to the doing of business in corporate form because 24 it desired that the excise tax should be imposed, approximately at least, with regard to the amount of 25 benefit presumably derived by such corporations from the current operations of the government."
26 (emphasis mine)
27 Stratton's Independence, Ltd. v. Howbert , 231 U.S. 399 (1913)

28 and,

29 "[Footnote 1] Sec. 38. That every corporation , joint stock company , or association , organized 30 for profit and having a capital stock represented by shares, and every insurance company, now or 31 hereafter... and engaged in business in any state or territory of the United States, or in Alaska or in 32 the District of Columbia, shall be subject to pay annually a special excise tax with respect to the 33 carrying on or doing business by such corporations, joint stock company or association, or 34 insurance company..." (emphasis mine)
35 Stratton's Independence, Ltd. v. Howbert , 231 U.S. 399 (1913)

36 The Oregon Supreme Court was also quite clear: "The individual, unlike the corporation, cannot be taxed for the mere 37 privilege of existing. The corporation is an artificial entity which owes its' existence in charter powers to the State, but the 38 individual's right to live and own property are natural rights for which an excise cannot be imposed." (emphasis mine)
39 Redfield v. Fisher , 292 P. 813, at 819.

40 I believe that the Tennessee Supreme Court was also quite clear in saying that since the right to receive earnings is a right
41 belonging to every person, this right cannot be taxed as a privilege . (emphasis mine)
42 Jack Cole v MacFarland , 337 S.W.2d. 453, 456 (Tenn. 1960).

43 "The whole law was declared unconstitutional... and 'would leave the burden of the tax to be borne 44 by professions, trades, employments, or vocations; and would remain in substance, a tax on 45 occupations and labor', - a result which, it was held, could not have been contemplated by 46 Congress." (emphasis mine)

Brushaber v. Union Pacific R. Co. , 240 U.S. 1 (1916)

"The taxpayer must be liable for the tax. Tax liability is a condition precedent to the demand. Merely demanding payment, even repeatedly, does not cause liability." (emphasis mine) Bothke v. Terry , 713 F. 2d 1405, at 1414 (1983).

"The Treasury Department cannot , by interpretive regulations, make income of that which is not income within the meaning of the revenue acts of Congress, nor can Congress, without apportionment, tax as income that which is not income within the meaning of the 16th Amendment ." (emphasis mine)

Helvering v. Edison Bros. Stores , 133 F. 2d 575.

Since an income tax is a tax on a transaction which is (and must be) directly associated with, or effectively connected with, some particular type of revenue-taxable "privileged " activity [i.e. alcohol, tobacco, firearms, or other privileged activity], the Internal Revenue Code and its' implementing and controlling federal regulations must specify the particular type or kind of tax arising from a revenue-taxable, privileged activity. The privileged activity seems to me to be business for profit carried on by corporations, joint stock companies or associations, or insurance companies. Income appears to be profit or gain from some type of commerce (I believe interstate commerce) as opposed to compensation for labor.

Since the "income" tax and the "social security" tax are not apportioned among the several States, they must therefore be in the category of indirect taxes which are taxes imposed on the happening of an event or activity. And to the best of my understanding, I do not find a tax imposed upon me (that would be a capitation tax subject to apportionment). "As persons, slaves were proper subjects of a capitation tax, which is described in the Constitution as a direct tax;..." (emphasis mine)
Veazie Bank v. Fenno , 75 U.S. 533 (1869)

That is enough court cites for a bit. Now, with regard to your own conduct in regards to me and trying to make me liable for an income tax, I would refer you to 26 U.S.C. 7608(a). It is clear from this section that Revenue Enforcement Officers have authority for enforcement of Subtitle E and other laws pertaining to liquor, tobacco and firearms. Is it your contention that I have tax liabilities pertaining to 26 U.S.C. Subtitle E? If so, please provide me with evidence of my involvement with revenue taxable activities pertaining to liquor, tobacco or firearms. I can assure you, that I have never had any such involvement. Other than 7608(a), I can find no code section that would authorize you, as a Revenue Officer, to investigate alleged tax liabilities pertaining to myself or anyone else. Based upon your in-depth knowledge of the applicable portions of the Internal Revenue Code, can you provide me with such a section from 26 U.S.C.? I would appreciate a prompt and thorough response to these questions.

If you are alleging that I have tax liabilities relating to Internal Revenue laws other than Subtitle E, refer to 7608(b). According to this section entitled "Enforcement of laws relating to internal revenue other than subtitle E" : "Any criminal investigator of the Intelligence Division... is, in the performance of his duties, authorized ...", and so forth. Are you a "criminal investigator? If you are, please refer to the Internal Revenue Manual which says, "The Criminal Investigation Division enforces the criminal statute... involving United States citizens residing in foreign countries and nonresident aliens subject to Federal income tax filing requirements..." If you are a criminal investigator, is it your contention that I am a U.S. citizen living abroad or a nonresident alien having a filing requirement? If so, please explain your reasons.

26 U.S.C. §7214(a) clearly imposes substantial penalties (up to $10,000.00 and/or up to 5 years in prison) upon any Revenue Officer who is "guilty of any extortion or willful oppression under color of law", "knowingly demands other or greater sums than are authorized by law", or "attempts to collect... except as expressly authorized by law so to do ." (emphasis mine) Thus, it appears that you are operating under extremely strict and serious legal constraints. To misunderstand and thereby abuse your lawful authority would be to subject yourself to substantial repercussions. In the event you feel I am citing this for the purpose of intimidating you, please allow me to assure you that such is not the case. Are you aware of any IRS employees who have been fined or even prosecuted under 7214(a)? I doubt it. That does not mean that the truth should be abandoned. I am taking the time to communicate with you in the hope that you will be willing to accept and act upon the truth once it is clearly communicated.

In an excerpt from Treasury/IRS 46.002, Privacy Act of 1974 Resource Document number 6372, it shows that the Criminal Investigation Division of the IRS maintains files on all U.S. District Court Judges. This appears to be an obvious attempt to "control" the Judicial Branch of government by the Executive branch and I believe it is a flagrant violation of the

1 Constitution. What could possibly justify this? How could this possibly be seen as helpful in an honest and unbiased
2 application and execution of the law? This has the appearance of blatant intimidation!

3 What we have here is a combination of government employees such as yourself, having a tough job to do, a body of law
4 that former IRS Commissioner Shirley Peterson has publicly stated is "incomprehensible, even to professionals in the
5 field...", every year, news reports and magazine articles of startling revelations of unauthorized and even unlawful actions
6 by the IRS, and a court system which is probably compromised and corrupted, largely through political intimidation. This is
7 a formula for disaster, is it not? Do you suppose this has any bearing on the fact that many of last year's contenders for the 8 highest office in the land were calling for the abolition of the IRS, if not the entire income tax system?

9 Meanwhile, let's look just a little bit further for ourselves. A logical place to search for suspected legal obligations or 10 liabilities would be the United States Code Annotated. Go to the index and look up "Citizenship", a logical place to 11 reference laws that would apply to Citizens wouldn't you agree? Well, this entire section contains only one code section
12 from Title 26, 26 U.S.C. 2501, a Gift tax. Isn't this odd? Well, insofar as most people assume themselves to be United 13 States Citizens, let's look under the heading "Income Tax" and go through this section until we come to the heading
14 "Citizens". Again, this appears to be confusing as the only code sections listed for "Income Tax - Citizens" are 26 U.S.C.
15 6851 (About to depart U.S. ...) and 26 U.S.C. 911 (Living abroad...) Why are the code sections which would impose
16 liabilities for the payment of "income taxes" and requirements for the filing of "1040 returns" not to be found in the United 17 States Code Annotated? Your answer please! There must be some logical reason!

18 In the United States Code Annotated, of great interest is the entry under "Income Tax Aliens". It says, "this index." So, we 19 look up "Aliens" in the index, and, lo and behold, what do we find but almost nine full pages of code sections under the 20 subheading "Income Tax", covering such topics as "Deductions", "Exemptions", "Gross Income", "Joint Returns", and 21 "Withholding of Tax". Unbelievable! It would appear that either the United States government is very zealous in apprising
22 aliens of their legal duties and negligent in doing the same for its' Citizens, or someone has given reams of bad information
23 to the IRS, which it has been diligently printing in its' publications and circulars for very many years now. Please explain
24 this to me.

25 You will find liability for payment of tax clearly and specifically spelled out in the tax code in 26 U.S.C. 4401(c), 5703(a),
26 and 5801(a) which create unmistakable liabilities for wagering, tobacco manufacturing and importation, and firearms
27 manufacturing and importation respectively. Why is 26 U.S.C. 7701(a)(14) so vague by comparison? Isn't section 1461 the 28 only section in the Internal Revenue Code imposing a definite liability for payment of "income" tax? That section applies to 29 withholding agents only (those required by 1441 to deduct and withhold from payments of "income" owed to foreign 30 persons). Now, based on your in-depth knowledge of the Internal Revenue Code, are you able to provide me with any code
31 section that clearly and unequivocally imposes upon me a liability for payment of income taxes, such liability having been 32 alleged by you by your recent form letter of June 12, 1997? If you cannot provide a satisfactory answer to this question, can 33 you give me your justification for your attempt to subject me to some liability or obligation? Do you understand the 34 importance of this question in light of the foregoing remarks about 26 U.S.C. 7214 and the serious consequences when 35 indifference to law is fostered and even encouraged? In this case, oddly enough, all that is required is to read the law, do
36 what it says and do not do what it does not say! The IRS often cites 26 U.S.C. 6001, 6011, and 6012(a) which say that 37 individuals must file a return or statement with us for any tax you are liable for. Please, simply provide for me some 38 evidence of "any tax [I am] liable for". If you fail in this regard, I cannot possibly have any legal duty to file any returns or 39 statements. A careful study and comparison of 26 U.S.C. 441(a) and (b), 6012(a)(1) and 7701(a)(14) will easily reveal that 40 without a specific law which would make a "person" "subject to" or "liable for the payment of" a particular internal revenue
41 tax, it is virtually impossible to be a "Taxpayer", have "Taxable Income" or a "Taxable Year". Why does the language
42 employed in 26 U.S.C. 6001, 6011, 6012 and 7701(a)(14) not come up to the standards of specificity as employed in 26
43 U.S.C. 4401(c), 5703(a) nor 5801(a)? This vagueness, whether intentional or not certainly leaves one doubting any liability
44 whatsoever. One can, of course voluntarily or ignorantly file a return and make therein, under penalties of perjury, what 45 amounts to a declaration of "taxpayer" status. The IRS can of course, argue that it is simply relying on the "taxpayers" own
46 representation as to their status and proceed accordingly. However, moral decency, if not legal duty, would seem to compel
47 any public servant charged with the responsibility of possessing a "broad, in-depth knowledge...of the Internal Revenue
48 Code" to notify a member of the public who apparently had improperly identified himself as a "taxpayer", would you not 49 agree? I believe that I have mistakenly filed in the past. My (2nd) second codicil which I sent to the Refund Center in
50 Ogden, Utah, to the IRS District Director in Omaha and to the U.S. Justice Department in Washington, D.C. by certified
51 mail over a year ago, was an attempt to correct that. For some reason, unknown to me, the IRS chose not to timely respond 52 to my notification and request for a response.

As another point of interest, I would invite you to investigate the definition of "STATE" and "UNITED STATES" as found in Title 26 U.S.C. 3121(e)(2). This is the definition which must apply in Subtitle C Employment Taxes, as no other definition for "STATE" or "UNITED STATES" is offered in Subtitle C. Compare this definition to what is offered in 4612(a) Subtitle D Excise Taxes - Tax on Petroleum. Why are the definitions different??? Why are "the 50 States" not mentioned in the definition of "STATE" or "UNITED STATES" which would apply to Withholding Tax? Congresswoman Barbara Kennelly of Connecticut has cited both Legislative Council and the Congressional Research Service in her claim that the term "State" as found in 26 U.S.C. 3121(e) means only the named Federal territories and possessions and does not include the fifty States of the Union. I want my employer to stop illegally withholding part of my compensation for labor for the IRS. In fact if you go to Definitions in 26 U.S.C. 7701(a)(9) & (10) which I believe must apply to Subtitle A Income Taxes, you will find that (a)(10) defines "State" to "include the District of Columbia". The term include is inclusive, and shuts in or contains only that which is specified in the definition. The use of "States" in (a)(9) cannot be assumed to mean the 50 states of the Union. The "Federal States" are the federal possessions such as the Virgin Islands, Guam, etc. Here again is an abundance of vagueness. Please refer to 26 U.S.C. 4612(a)(4)(A) and 6103(b)(5). The IRS does know how to say "the fifty States" and does so clearly and unmistakably in sections dealing with constitutional taxes. Why has the IRS chosen to be so vague in the most important definition of "State" and "United States" in 7701 which applies everywhere in Title 26 of the code where not supplanted by a specified definition?

As the Internal Revenue Service has assisted you in obtaining your broad, in-depth knowledge of the Internal Revenue Code, were you shown the definition of "income" as it evolved from the 1939 Code to the 1954 Code to the 1980 Code to the present day Code? As you should be aware, the Code provides footnotes which chronicle the additions, deletions, and changes in each new Code. It is interesting to look back and see how the writers of the 1980 Code, have cleverly twisted the meaning of "income", then conveniently deleted the 1954 Code reference to the 1939 Code which stated that the definition was "substantially unchanged". You see, the 1939 Code makes it quite clear that "income" is not salaries, wages, etc., but, instead derived from those sources. In fact, "income" was and continues to be what the United States Supreme Court last ruled it to be and what several U.S. District Courts continue to rule to this day (review pages 4, 5, 6 and 7 above) - a corporate profit, the tool for measuring the excise tax liabilities of persons (artificial entities) engaged in business under the privilege granted by government. It is, of course, absurd to argue that the common man's right to live and support himself amounts to a government privilege . Study the case of Mr. Lloyd Long of Tennessee whose jury seems to have agreed with this analysis.

The acquittal of Mr. Lloyd Long in his "willful failure to file" case is not unique at all in the last decade. You could look up cases involving Ray and Dixie Powell of the Puget Sound area, the Hardy brothers as well as a Danny Hashimoto in Hawaii, Franklin Sanders and 17 other people in a huge case in Tennessee, and Gabe Scott of Alaska. In Mr. Scott's trial, the jury was so outraged by what Mr. Scott presented in his defense, ten of the twelve jurors swore they would never file another tax return! The other two were appalled but said they would continue to file out of fear of the IRS.

Then there is the case of the IRS attempt to smash the Save-A-Patriot Fellowship in Westminster, Maryland and indict its' fiduciary, Mr. John Kotmair. After Mr. Kotmair's presentation to the Grand Jury, the U.S. Attorney was so humiliated by the devastating evidence presented by Mr. Kotmair with respect to misapplication of the law by the Internal Revenue Service, that he personally apologized to Mr. Kotmair.

I have no way of knowing the extent of your personal knowledge in these matters. It is my hope that you are simply unaware, and that, as you become aware, you will do all that is in your power to resist that which is corrupt and unlawful. In the meantime, I have a substantial belief that there has been misapplication of law, indefensible abuses of due process, and in some cases, outright criminal behavior on the part of the IRS, the U.S. Justice Department and both state and federal courts. The fruits of this government tyranny include nervous breakdowns, divorces, broken families, suicides, ruined careers and businesses, and probably even the incarceration of some of the most patriotic, honest and hardworking Americans. Americans are literally destroying other Americans in the name of a body of "law" which a former Commissioner of the IRS labeled "incomprehensible". How terribly sad!

Four more cites which I won't quote comprehensively but are worth noting here are as follows (with my impression preceding the first two cites): "Taxpayers" are to be favored in case of any ambiguity of law. - Greyhound Corp. v. U.S. 495F. 2d 863 (1974); We have the legal right to legally reduce or completely avoid paying taxes. - Gregory v. Helvering 293 U.S. 465; "...we indulge every reasonable presumption against the waiver of fundamental rights." - Glasser v. U.S. 315 U.S. 60 (1942); "...courts indulge every reasonable presumption against waiver of fundamental constitutional rights and that we do not presume acquiescence in the loss of fundamental rights." - Johnson v. Zerbst 304 U.S. 458 (1938) This line of thought leads directly to my next subject - ambiguity of the law.

I believe that the law should be plain and easily understood by the people to whom it applies. I also believe that government must obey the laws according to such intent as is clearly expressed by the framers of the law - the representatives of the people. To allow government agencies to just "do what it takes", in spite of the clear intent of the law or because the law itself has been made incomprehensible, is to abandon honesty, to act cowardly, and to betray future generations into a state of helplessness at the mercy of unrestrained government and a system of law which is arbitrary, incomprehensible and largely misapplied or ignored. I would not be taking the time to express these things to you if I did not respect you as a fellow human being who must, as I, live by some set of values. If you do not agree with any of what I express in this letter, then at least I have made another good faith attempt to communicate with "our" government and I will have the evidence that I have done so. If on the other hand, you find yourself in some agreement with much or even small portions of what I have expressed here, then I implore you to suspend your disbelief just long enough to diligently investigate these matters. I can assure you that I will give careful consideration to any sincere and comprehensive response you would communicate to me in writing.

A year ago, for whatever reason, the Internal Revenue Service refused to respond to my written communication. Here, I have offered observations about the law, United States Supreme Court cites as well as other court cites, and commented upon what appear to me to be gross misapplications of the law. I am also asking numerous questions which I believe should seem reasonable and relatively simple to answer for those people occupying positions which should require a "broad, in-depth knowledge of the Internal Revenue Code."

In conclusion, based on the unwillingness of the IRS to respond to my earlier correspondence dated 3/11/96 and 4/28/96 (referenced on page one above) and substantial information that I have since become aware of, I believe that the IRS, by deceptive and misleading words and statements have deceived me as well as the general public, into believing that there is a tax imposed either on the human being or on earnings for labor (a tax on me would be a direct tax subject to apportionment and in fact only entities involved in a taxed activity or event could possibly be "subject to" or "liable for" this tax). Such deception is deplorable by any standards. Your form letter mentioned employing schemes with the intent to evade taxes. It is a sad day for America when a good and "watchful" citizen who believes that all that is required is to read the law, do what it does say and do not do what it does not say, draws the label "tax protestor". It is my contention that it is the IRS that has schemed in such a manner as to have created this extortion of an unbelievable magnitude. If you or your legal department can refute this body of evidence which I have now made you aware of, I will be more than happy to reconsider my position. I do respectfully demand a comprehensive response to this letter as well as a specific answer to each question that I pose. It's my understanding from one of your publications that I can expect professional, courteous service. You can expect courtesy and a willingness to cooperate from me as well.

I assure you, I will seriously consider any reliable information which contradicts my positions. Please correct in writing, any misunderstandings that I may have. If you disagree with the understanding I have come to, I make a respectful demand that you produce and send to me, hard copy documents that fully detail and describe my error, with at least the following:

- 1) Copies of all documents on which you base your position that I have an obligation to submit a "form 1040 - U.S. Individual Income Tax Return" for the "tax period ending 12/31/95";
- 2) Copies of all documents that specifically identify all laws, statutes and especially the implementing regulations that impose an obligation upon me to submit a "form 1040 - U.S. Individual Income Tax Return" for the "tax period ending 31 December 1995";
- 3) Copies of all contractual and/or waiver documents that I have signed or any judicial decisions that obligates me in any way to your Service or to any specific performance.
- 4) Copies of all determinations made by anyone in your Service that concluded that any obligation was imposed upon me, and which specifically determined the extent of that obligation.
- 5) Copies of all delegation of authority to make any determinations in reference to me.
- 6) The documents that describe the format for making a request for correction or for making a request for specific documents describing any obligation upon me and your specific authority to determine, impose and enforce any such obligation.

I respectfully demand that you please answer all questions herein with complete and appropriate answers and with substantiating evidence. Please document each answer with the corresponding implementing regulation(s) where applicable. Here are a few additional important questions.

Why does your most recent form letter state that, "This office does not accept your notice as having any legal bearing" regarding my correspondence of April 3, 1997 to you? We were directed to use those exact words by Robert Metcalf, Trial

Attorney, Tax Division, U.S. Department of Justice when he was asked how we were to respond to requests for tax returns. His suggested response was, "I cannot honor your request, for to do so would nullify the merits of my action against you." He understands that by filing a return, I destroy the merits of my own action. Who am I to listen to?

In light of two statements made by the U.S. Supreme Court in Garner v. United States 424 U.S. 648, "Government compels the filing of a return much as it compels, for example, the appearance of a 'witness' before the grand jury." (emphasis mine) and, "The information revealed in the preparation and filing of an income tax return is, for purposes of Fifth Amendment analysis, the testimony of a witness.", isn't it true that anyone who files a tax return waives their Fifth Amendment protected rights? What if I don't want to waive those rights? What options are there? Is the Fifth Amendment a right or a privilege?

If there were a statute which clearly and unequivocally required the filing of tax returns, wouldn't such statute be unconstitutional under the present income tax system to the extent that it would require individuals to give the government information which could be used against them criminally? In light of the last two cites in paragraph 3 of page 11 above, please comment on the IRS "requirement" to waive fundamental constitutional rights by preparing and filing an income tax return.

Either filing income tax returns is required and the IRS is requiring individuals to waive their Fundamental Constitutional Rights, in which case any statute that requires individuals to file a tax return would be unconstitutional or, filing tax returns is voluntary (as asserted in many IRS publications) so that Fundamental Constitutional Rights are not trampled upon. What is the official position of the IRS on these issues? I truly hope that it is the latter and it is indeed voluntary because any other position positively raises Constitutional issues. The United States Supreme Court has said, "Our system of taxation is based upon voluntary assessment and payment, not upon distraint." (emphasis mine) Flora v. United States, 362 U.S. 145

What is the statute and implementing regulation(s) that makes a Citizen of one of the 50 Union States liable for the payment of an income tax on wholly intrastate derived compensation for labor? Isn't Congress' power limited to interstate commerce? (See the 1995 U.S. Supreme Court Lopez decision as well as the Pollack Case, 158 U.S. 601, which is speaking specifically of the states' power to tax being lessened, "The reasons for the clauses of the constitution in respect of direct taxation are not far to seek. The states, respectively, possessed plenary powers of taxation. They could tax property of their Citizens in such manner and to such extent as they saw fit. They had unrestricted powers to impose duties or imposts on imports from abroad, and excises on manufactures, consumable commodities, or otherwise. They gave up the great sources of revenue derived from commerce. They retained concurrent power of levying excises, and duties if covering anything other than excises; but in respect of them the range of taxation was narrowed by the power granted over interstate commerce." I simply do not understand how this line of reasoning can be argued with. This cite specifically shows that the federal government was given the power to tax interstate commerce by the States. What more proof is required? Unless there is a statute with a corresponding implementing regulation that spells out specifically that the IRS has the power to tax wholly intrastate derived compensation for labor, I find it very difficult that the IRS has the legitimate power. Your explanation please!

1. What is the statute and implementing regulation(s) that makes a Citizen of one of the 50 Union States liable to file an "income tax return"?
2. What is the statute and implementing regulation(s) that makes a Citizen of one of the 50 Union States required to join the "Social Security Program" and/or obtain a Social Security Number?
3. Aren't taxes withheld under subtitle "C" of the Internal Revenue code voluntary wage taxes? Aren't taxes withheld under subtitle "A" of the Internal Revenue code income taxes that apply only to nonresident aliens doing business within the United States or Americans working abroad under a tax treaty?
4. What authority do you have to collect a tax on a Citizen born and living in one of the 50 Union States and receiving intrastate compensation for labor? Any delegation of authority documents?
5. What privileged activity do you think I am involved in that would make me liable for a tax?
6. If the income is not the subject of the tax, what is the subject? (please reference the top of page 5 above for the 1943 Congressional House record quotation).

My authority for making the above respectful demands, if you disagree, is made as a matter of right and is supported by the following Supreme Court decision :

"Whatever the form in which the Government functions, anyone entering into an arrangement with the Government takes the risk of having accurately ascertained that he who purports to act for the Government stays within the bounds of his authority...and this is so even though as here the agent himself may have been unaware of the limitations upon his authority."
Federal Crop Ins. Corporation v. Merrill , 332 U.S. 380 (1947).

I will expect your written response to my request for correction of error and to my respectful demand for the documents requested and all questions answered, within 30 days of your receipt of this certified letter. I am perfectly willing to admit that I could be mistaken. Nevertheless, you do bear a heavy burden of proof since no one was willing to respond to my correspondence of over a year ago. I have presented much information here and asked some very pointed questions. If you or your legal department cannot satisfactorily answer my questions, it certainly casts a pall over your positions on these issues as well as upon your authority.

If I do not receive your written reply within that time, your lack of response will again establish the presumption of your error and will also establish that you do not have any documents responsive to my request or any documents verifying your authority to support or make any claim of any obligation upon me. You will either acknowledge your error in writing, or by failure to respond to this lawful requirement (by silence), that I am a nontaxpayer and under no obligation whatsoever. Any unwillingness by the IRS to respond to this respectful demand for answers certainly will not rebut and disprove, refute or controvert, in any form, my causes and beliefs. By silence and failure to timely respond, the IRS will self-impose default to all contained within this correspondence. Also, please be aware that my administrative claim for damages (which was never rejected) has yet to be satisfied.

I thank you in advance for your timely cooperation.

Very sincerely,

Proverbs 17: 26 & 27 says: "It is not good to fine the righteous, nor to strike the noble for their uprightness."

Samuel Adams (1722-1803), was known as the "Father of the American Revolution." He instigated the Boston Tea Party, was one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, called for the first Continental Congress and served as a member of Congress until 1781. He formed the Committees of Correspondence, which were largely responsible for the unity and cohesion of the Colonists preceding the Revolution. The original committee, formed in Boston, had three goals: (1) To delineate the rights of Colonists as men; (2) To detail how these rights had been violated; (3) To publicize these rights and the violations thereof throughout the Colonies. Samuel Adams said, "If men, through fear, fraud, or mistake, should in terms renounce or give up any natural right, the eternal law of reason and the grand end of society would absolutely vacate such renunciation. The right to freedom being the gift of Almighty God, it is not in the power of man to alienate this gift and voluntarily become a slave."

NOTICE AND DEMAND FOR RESTORATION OF ACCOUNT

Re: IRS "Notice of Levy" dated [mm/dd/yy] against [Victim(s)] [Account Number]

Dear Sir/Ms:

Notice and demand are hereby served upon you to restore all funds which have been paid by [Name of Bank] from account number [Account Number] to the Internal Revenue Service, under color of IRS Form 668-A "Notice of Levy" dated [mm/dd/yy] (see attached).

FORMAL NOTICE

Formal Notice is hereby given to you concerning law(s) applicable to IRS levies, and your liabilities for violating those laws. IRS Forms 668-A, 668-A(c) and 668-W are the "Notices of Levy" that are sent to third parties such as banks, employers, and other financial institutions to confiscate property for the purpose of collecting taxes allegedly owed. This NOTICE AND DEMAND to you covers the relevant factors in the correct lien/levy procedure, and demonstrates how the IRS has misused and abused their extremely limited authority in this area, particularly in the case of funds which were unlawfully confiscated from [Name of Bank] account #xxxx-xxxxxx (hereinafter "Victim's Account") by alleged agent(s) of the "Internal Revenue Service" [sic] (hereinafter "IRS").

In what follows, we explain first what a "levy" is, and we examine how it is commonly mis-perceived by both the third parties who receive it (e.g. banks) and by the IRS agents who issue it. Then we cover the legal requirements that must be met before a Notice of Levy can be valid. We also discuss how, in many cases, IRS agents use the Internal Revenue Manual (hereinafter "IRM") as their legal "authority" in the levy process, even though the courts have ruled that the I.R.M. conveys no such legal authority. We then relate the specific effect this has on IRS employees who fail to recognize the limited nature of their authority. We review the responsibilities and liabilities of third parties (like [Name of Bank]) who may receive an IRS Notice of Levy. Finally, attached is a checklist for determining whether or not an IRS Notice of Levy is valid.

Notice and Demand for Restoration of Account:

THE LEVY

To understand the limited nature of a levy, we begin by defining the term. A "levy" is a confiscation of property in accordance with a legal judgment. From the definition itself, we see that there are two elements to a levy: the first element is that a levy is a confiscation of property; but, the definition is limited by the second element which is that, before property can be confiscated, it must be in accordance with a legal judgment.

In civil law, the specific process is carried out by a Writ of Execution, or Warrant of Distraint, which is a "formal process issued by court[s] generally evidencing the debt of the defendant to the plaintiff and commanding the officer to take the property of the defendant in satisfaction of the debt." (Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, Rule 69) The plaintiff in the instant case is the IRS; the defendant is a [Status of Victim(s)]. The Warrant of Distrain, or its equivalent, results in a lien filed against the property by the court. A lien, by definition, is a claim on property for payment of debt.

The following are important points to understand regarding the nature of a levy:

- (a) levy can only come after seizure;
- (b) seizure only applies to property subject to forfeiture;
- (c) the only property subject to forfeiture is that which comes under the provisions of IRC Subtitle E -- Alcohol, Tobacco, and Certain Other Excise Taxes; and
- (d) all the enabling regulations pertaining to levies are found in Title 27 CFR, which pertains only to those activities described in (c) above.

The individual who actually receives the Notice of Levy is a third party, but rarely, if ever, do third parties realize that the responsibility for determining the validity of a levy is theirs (i.e. the bank employee's, or officer's, responsibility). Nor does such a third party ever fully realize the importance of making a correct legal determination, since an incorrect determination can lead to a personal liability and possibly also a criminal charge for "conversion of property."

From Black's Law Dictionary, Fifth Edition, we find that conversion is an unauthorized and wrongful exercise of dominion and control over another's personal property, to the exclusion of or inconsistent with the rights of the owner. Anyone still doing business with banks or other financial institutions must take the time to notify the appropriate bank officials of the Notice of Levy's limited application. These officials will benefit from the knowledge necessary to protect them from perfectly justified damage suits brought against them by damaged customers. Information available to us indicates that a rapidly growing number of People are becoming aware of the applicable law and are not bowing down to IRS threats and bullying tactics.

Notice and Demand for Restoration of Account:

Most People have little or no understanding of the applicable law, and thus are unaware of the statutory requirements that must be met before a Notice of Levy can be valid. We have found that most People assume the IRS has already made that determination; otherwise, why would the IRS be sending the Notice of Levy in the first place? In their minds, it naturally follows that the IRS is then legally responsible for any errors. What those who receive the Notice of Levy fail to consider is that, since they are the fiduciary in possession of the property, it is they who are ultimately responsible for determining its disposition -- not the IRS. The trust we place in those who maintain our property is much like the trust we place in our doctor; it should be maintained at the highest possible level of honesty and integrity.

The IRS agent who sends a Notice of Levy is usually acting on the presumption that he has the requisite authority. Unfortunately, most IRS agents have no idea what the law requires. Surprisingly, the agent has no legal obligation to tell the third party whether the levy is valid and, more than likely, the agent doesn't know himself. Rather, because the third party has possession of the property, it is his/her responsibility to know the law and to act accordingly, or to seek competent legal advice (assuming any can be found). The bottom line is this: were it not for the many parties involved and the various legal aspects that seem to confuse the average attorney, it would be impossible for the IRS to seize property under the guise of collecting income taxes.

AUTHORITY FOR THE LEVY

The authority to levy is restricted to and contained within Section 6331(a) of the Internal Revenue Code ("IRC"). The annotated version of the United States Codes provides more insight into the purpose of Section 6331. Title 26 U.S.C.A 6331, under Note 5, describes the purpose of this section as follows:

Purpose. This section was enacted to subject salaries of federal employees to the same collection procedures as are available against all other taxpayers, including employees of a State.

You will not see either of these paragraphs printed on the back of any Notice of Levy form. For some reason, the IRS begins quoting their levy authority with the ominous sounding words of subsection (b): "Seizure and sale of property." However, that subsection is only an explanation of the term "levy" as that term is used in the previous subsection, IRC 6331(a), that limits the authority for that levy.

Section 6331(a) contains the following key sentence:

Levy may be made upon the accrued salary or wages of any officer, employee, or elected official, of the United States, the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of the United States or the District of Columbia, by serving a notice of levy on the employer (as defined in section 3401(d)) of such officer, employee, or elected official.[emphasis added]

This sentence would seem to imply that only government employees are subject to levy. This would be correct if it specifically referred to the "employment tax" on income under Subtitle C, but it is important to emphasize that this section is implemented by regulations pertaining to, and making enforceable, levies on the manufacture of alcohol, tobacco, and firearms under 27 C.F.R. Part 70, and certain other excise taxes under Subtitle E of the IRC.

The U.S.C./CFR Parallel Table of Authorities reveals quite clearly the limited application of this IRC Section by identifying these excise taxes. The enabling regulations that it specifies pertain ONLY to 27 C.F.R. Part 70 (alcohol, tobacco, and firearms) and those other miscellaneous excise taxes found in Subtitle E of the IRC. There is simply no connection whatsoever with income tax in Subtitle A. Therefore, assuming that all other legal requirements are met (e.g., notice and demand, court order, lien, etc.), a levy may be made only on property of those persons who are described in IRC Subtitle E, and on the property of the government employees described in 6331(a). No similar provisions exist for anyone or anything else!

One of the more troubling statements which the IRS makes appears in IRS Publication 1 (Rev. 10-90) entitled Your Rights as a Taxpayer. On the last page under the subheading, "Access to your private premises," it states:

A court order is not generally needed for a collection officer to seize your property. However, you don't have to allow the employee access to your private premises, such as your home or the non-public areas of your business, if the employee does not have court authorization.

We will show that the statement "A court order is not generally needed for a collection officer to seize your property" is an incredible distortion of the truth. Keep in mind that the IRS admits that its interpretation of the law may directly conflict with court decisions. This is often the case, unfortunately, because its interpretations seem to be designed more to intimidate than to represent the intent of the law.

Section 6331 is the only authority in the entire IRC that provides for the levy of property such as wages, salaries, etc. The limitation for that authority should be rather obvious since it pertains ONLY to those persons who are subject to the provisions of IRC Subtitle E, and certain officers, employees, and elected government officials and, of course, their "employer" -- the government. But, there are further limitations! We say "certain" officers, employees, and elected officials because, in this particular section, the applicable definition of "United States" restricts the list of government agencies to those operating within the geographical confines of U.S. government possessions and territories such as Guam, American Samoa, etc. There are at least three (3) definitions of the term "United States" in the IRC, and it is important to know which definition is in operation with respect to any given section.

In this case, the ONLY government "employer" under such an obligation and legally bound to honor the levy would be a federal agency outside the 50 Union states. We make the distinction because there are many federal officers, employees, and elected officials working for government agencies within the 50 Union states who might otherwise think that the law provides for a levy from their own agency. They are concerned because they are employed within the 50 Union states, but no other third party is identified by this section, and thus, no other third party may be served with such a notice.

The technical aficionado who might question this should note that this section identifies the subject of a levy by specifying the employer as defined in section 3401. IRC 3401 is in Subtitle C (Social Security) and the employer referred to is, or course, an entity that is defined for the purpose of administering Subtitle C provisions.

An employer is NOT the taxpayer under Subtitle A. Rather, he, she, or it is an entity that is defined for the purpose of administering the provisions of Subtitle C only, and who, by the definition contained within Section 3401, employs other participants (defined as "employees") within the geographic confines of the insular island possessions and territories of the United States. Thus, the "employer," for purposes of this section, is a territorial government agency.

Since this geographic area is outside the borders of the 50 Union states, the lawmakers were not under any constitutional prohibition regarding direct or indirect taxation, or any restriction pertaining to the rules of apportionment and uniformity. The Constitution for the United States, as such, does not extend beyond the limits of the States which are united by and under it. (See Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901).)

As far as the average person is concerned, it is completely inapplicable to those who have not voluntarily applied to obtain a benefit in federal entitlement programs or who have revoked their application to participate, based on the fact that their signatures were obtained via a constructively fraudulent process (if they were led to believe that participation was required).

DELEGATION OF AUTHORITY

Despite the apparent loopholes which seem to exonerate and provide an escape for an IRS agent's errantly exercising a presumed authority, there are other provisions that do hold him responsible for its administration. Specifically, these provisions deal with what are called "delegation orders." No agent may administer a provision of law without a proper order delegating authority to do so.

The authority to administer the provisions of Section 6331, regardless of its applicability, is further restricted by national and local delegation orders designed to ensure agency compliance within the limits of the law.

As with all authority under the IRC, it is the Secretary of the Treasury who must administer the provisions for levy, or delegate the authority to do so, if and when appropriate. The delegation orders that do exist for liens and levies are remarkably limited. For example, the Delegation Order for authority to execute lien and levy actions in the Newark District Office of the IRS lists the "Internal Revenue Manual, Sections 5312, 5314, 5326, 5343.2, 5421, 5541, and 5450." Notice that the citations pertaining to liens and levies within these orders do not actually contain the statutory authority to levy that we have examined thus far (i.e., IRC Section 6331).

Interestingly, the back side of the Notice of Levy form itself also shows a similar peculiarity. On Form 668-W, the authorities listed include 6331(b) thru 6331(e), but they omit the elusive 6331(a), which is the actual authority for a levy and the statute upon which the others rely and to which they refer. Why is Section 6331(a) not cited on the form?

In the Delegation Order, the remainder of the cite refers to the I.R.M. which is, of course, only "directive" in nature. Since it is not the law, it cannot possibly convey actual legal authority. It can only clarify what that authority is for the benefit of agents seeking to understand how to administer the law. A nationwide search of all delegation orders has revealed that section 6331(a) has indeed been omitted from each and every one; but then again, if the authority for the levy pertains only to those previously mentioned, then it should certainly come as no surprise that delegation orders pertaining to service centers and district offices within the 50 Union states of the Union (including [State] REPUBLIC, of course) cannot authorize such a levy.

If agents are puzzled by this, their only other source for clarification is the Internal Revenue Manual ("IRM").

THE INTERNAL REVENUE MANUAL

The IRC is the body of law that contains the legal authority for the Secretary (and his delegates) to administer provisions pertaining to the collection of income taxes. It is, however, not unusual for the IRS to cite the I.R.M. as their legal authority for various aspects of a collection procedure.

As long as there is some illusion of authority, it is easy for IRS agents to justify (in their own minds) that certain actions are within the scope of their authority and, as mentioned previously, the delegation orders do list another "authority," specifically the IRM. But, research has revealed that at least six courts have ruled that the I.R.M. does not have the force of law. The courts have ruled that the provisions of the I.R.M. are only directory in nature and not mandatory. See Luhring v. Glotzbach, 304 F.2d. 560 (4th Cir. 1962); Einhorn v. DeWitt, 618 F.2d. 347 (5th Cir. 1980); and United States v. Goldstein, 342 F.Supp. 661 (E.D.N.Y. 1972); Boulez v. C.I.R., 810 F.2d. 209 (D.C. Cir. 1987); United States v. Will, 671 F.2d. 963, 967 (6th Cir. 1982).

The simple fact is that the I.R.M. may not be relied upon as the legal authority for any part of a collection action, which leaves Section 6331(a) as the sole authority for a levy. As we have just seen, this Section is severely limited. So, it would seem that the non-judicial collection powers of the IRS (without a court order) are not as awesome as some IRS officials would have the public believe. Or, is it just another case of the naked emperor deluding himself? Either way, it doesn't end there. The Notice and Demand is another nail in the coffin.

THE IRS NOTICE AND DEMAND

The non-judicial collection authority is wholly dependent upon a statute (Section 6321, also enabled by 27 C.F.R. Part 70), which provides for a lien to arise automatically when a taxpayer fails to pay a tax that is demanded via a "Notice and Demand" under Section 6303. If such "demand" is not or cannot be made, then a lien cannot automatically arise, and subsequent collection activity cannot occur. All of the available case law confirms this. In Linwood Blackstone et al. v. United States of America, 778 F.Supp. 244 (D. Md. 1991), the court held that:

The general rule is that no tax lien arises until the IRS makes a demand for payment. Myrick v. United States [62-1 USTC 9112], 296 F.2d. 312 (5th Cir. 1961). Without a valid notice and demand, there can be no tax lien; without a tax lien, the IRS cannot levy against the Citizen's property ... this Court concludes, consistent with the views expressed in Berman, Marvel, and Chila that the appropriate "sanction" against the I.R.S. for its failure to comply with the [Sec.] 6303(a) notice and demand requirement is to take away its awesome non judicial collection powers. [emphasis added]

IRC Section 6303 is the law that requires a "Notice and Demand" to be issued; however, the IRS does not issue such notices for reasons which are beyond the scope of our discussion here. As is evident from the court case just mentioned, it is impossible for the IRS to move forward with the legal action that is required by Section 7403 (entitled Action to enforce lien or to subject property to payment of tax) if they have not issued a Notice and Demand. In most cases, the Notice of Levy given to a third party falsely states that a Notice and Demand has been issued; but if the IRS fails to issue the required Notice and Demand pursuant to section 6303, then they cannot possibly obtain the necessary legal sanction through a court of law to enforce the levy. Why? Because, in order to obtain the sanction of a court, they would need to produce a copy of the Notice and Demand that was referenced on the Notice of Levy form, and they can't do that if it does not exist. If the IRS is unable to send the Notice and Demand, then it follows that it would be impossible to obtain the necessary court order.

Throughout this explanation, it is important to keep in mind that no single IRS official is necessarily guilty of fraud. It is more accurate to say that the process itself is constructively fraudulent. In other words, it is not necessarily intentional. It is sufficient to explain that there are many IRS employees involved, and that the employee responsible for any given part of the "presumed correctness" of any given action rarely, if ever, has any communication with any of the other employees, who then act on those presumptions.

Those who have worked in a typical busy office environment know that the responsibility for getting things done often falls on a low-level employee who is trying to do the work of 10 People. The short-cuts they teach their fellow workers are not necessarily in the best interest of their employer, but since they are unfamiliar with the details of their company's inner workings, the reason that it is a detriment is beyond their understanding. Of course, if there is no penalty for their actions, the likelihood that their invented procedure will be corrected by a superior is slim. When new employees are hired, they learn the same defective way of doing things.

The government is more prone to this situation than any privately owned business because its employees are generally less productive and have less incentive to change anything. In the situation we are examining, the law is written to protect People from these inadvertent short-cuts made by lower level employees. That is why a court order is necessary to effect a levy.

THE COURT ORDER

Page 57(16) of the I.R.M. entitled Legal Reference Guide for Revenue Officers confirms (on the upper right-hand corner of the page) that a court order (i.e., Warrant of Dstraint) is necessary. We say "confirms" because the I.R.M. is merely referring to established principles of law, since it does not itself constitute the law that requires the Warrant of Dstraint. Moreover, the I.R.M. shows that the IRS even agrees with those established principles and encourages their agents to abide by them. The IRM, for example, cites the authority of United States v. O'Dell, 160 F.2d. 304 (6th Cir. 1947), to confirm that a proper levy against amounts held as due and owing by employers, banks, stockbrokers, etc., must issue from a Warrant of Dstraint (i.e., a court order) and not by mere notice. The O'Dell court specifically states that:

The method of accomplishing a levy on a bank account is the issuing of warrants of dstraint, the making of the bank a party, and the serving with notice of levy, [a] copy of the warrants of dstraint, and [the] notice of lien.

The court emphasized that:

Levy is not effected by mere notice. [emphasis added]

Agents who bother to read the I.R.M. know that the "Warrant of Distrainment" mentioned above is the court order which is required pursuant to IRC Section 7403.

In the case of Freeman v. Mayer, 152 F.Supp. 383 (1957), a U.S. District Court ruled, "A levy for delinquent taxes, pursuant to statute, requires execution of warrant for distraint" In the case of In re Holdsworth, 113 F.Supp. ____, No. 279-50 (1953), a U.S. District Court ruled that "... a mere notice of levy is not tantamount to an effective levy upon and distraint of all sums of money due from debtors of bankrupts, in absence of warrant of distraint." In a recent Memorandum of Points and Authorities in Support of an Application to Enter the Premises of a safe deposit box at Wells Fargo Bank in California, an Assistant U.S. Attorney admitted on record that the IRS is required to obtain a court order to do so:

The Supreme Court recognizes the broad power of seizure and distraint authorized by 26 U.S.C. §6331, but has held that the government must seek a warrant before entering private premises to search for distrainable assets to satisfy tax assessments. G.M. Leasing Corporation v. United States, 429 U.S. 338 (1977). See also, United States v. Condo, 782 F.2d. 1502 (9th Cir. 1986). [emphasis added]

Thus, the relevant authorities, including the U.S. Supreme Court, make it abundantly clear that a court ordered Warrant of Distrainment is required before property can be confiscated by the IRS for payment of delinquent taxes.

In a decision involving the tax indebtedness of Stephens Equipment Company, Inc. (debtor), 54 BR 626 (D.C. 1985), the court said:

The role of the district court in issuing an order for the seizure of property in satisfaction of tax indebtedness is substantially similar to the court's role in issuing a criminal search warrant. In either case, there must be a sufficient showing of probable cause.

More importantly, the court held that, in order to substantiate such an order, the IRS must present the court with certain validation. The court stated that:

... to effect a levy on the Citizen's property [an order] must contain specific facts providing the following information:

an assessment of tax has been made against the Citizen, including the date on which the assessment was made, the amount of the assessment, and the taxable period for which the assessment was made;

notice and demand have been properly made, including the date of such notice and demand and the manner in which notice was given and demand made;

the Citizen has neglected or refused to pay said assessment within ten days after notice and demand; ... property subject to seizure and particularly described presently exists at the premises sought to be searched and that said property either belongs to the Citizen or is property upon which a lien exists for the payment of the taxes; and facts establishing that probable cause exists to believe that the Citizen is liable for the tax assessed.

[emphasis added]

In their Memorandum of Points and Authorities supporting entry into a safe deposit box at Wells Fargo Bank, the government reiterated the standard of probable cause necessary for an entry order:

In the Ninth Circuit, the standard of probable cause necessary for an entry order is similar to the standard used for criminal search warrants. ... In particular, the government must establish the following elements to be entitled to an ex parte order:

- (1) The Internal Revenue Service has made an assessment of tax and notice and demand for payment;
- (2) the taxpayer has neglected or refused to pay the tax;
- (3) notice of intent to levy has been given; and
- (4) there presently exists, at the premises to be searched, some property subject to seizure which belongs to the taxpayer or is otherwise encumbered by a federal tax lien. citing In re Gerwig, 461 F.Supp. 449 at 452 (C.D. Cal. 1978)

Is it any wonder that, in most cases, the IRS cannot seek a court order? Nevertheless, the court order is a statutory requirement for the levy procedure because it establishes the validity of the IRS's claim to the third party to whom the levy is presented. These procedures assure the third party that the lien and subsequent levy have been executed in a lawful manner. The court order also protects the third party from a liability which may arise under 26 C.F.R. Part 301.6332-1(c), which states in part:

... Any person who mistakenly surrenders to the United States property or rights to property not properly subject to levy is not relieved from liability to a third party who owns the property[emphasis added]

Again, one of the purposes of the court order is to prevent overzealous IRS agents from taking a short-cut as previously discussed.

Please be advised that there is on record no court order or declaratory judgment holding that the "[Name of Trust or Other Entity]" is a Nominee, Transferee, or Alter Ego of "[Victim(s)]" as is alleged on IRS Form 668-A dated [mm/dd/yy].

It is amazing what happens when People insist that the IRS obey the law. What is even more encouraging is that more People are doing this each and every day, and the political pressure is now becoming impossible for the IRS to ignore. According to IRS Commissioner Margaret Milnor Richardson in a speech before the National Association of Enrolled Agents in Nevada on August 26, 1993, (as of that year) 1 in 5 People had stopped (voluntarily) complying, and the situation was out of control. We would say just the opposite: the situation is finally becoming controllable because the public seems to have developed the will to study and know the law, and to confine the IRS within the law.

SUMMARY

We have reviewed the nature of, confusion surrounding, and authority for the levy. We have examined it in light of its application, the enabling regulations, the pertinent delegation orders, the missing notice and demand that is the cornerstone of the process leading up to the lien/levy procedure, and we have shown why the IRS may not obtain the necessary court order without it. A levy cannot be made against a bank account without a court order, which cannot be obtained without the due process requirements of proper notice and hearing on the matter. The U.S. Constitution has never been repealed, and the Due Process guarantees of the Fourth and Fifth Amendments are still in full force and effect, because they have not been waived.

DEMAND FOR RESTORATION

Wherefore, demand is hereby made upon you to restore all funds which were paid by [Name of Bank] from the [Victim(s)] to the IRS under color of IRS "Notice of Levy" Form 668-A dated [mm/dd/yy]. Our records indicate that the amount in question was at least [Dollar Amount].

RESERVATION OF RIGHTS AND NOTICE OF LIABILITY FOR DAMAGES

[Victim(s)] explicitly reserves all their Rights to hold [Name of Bank], and all employees who were involved in the transaction in question, jointly and severally liable for actual, consequential, and exemplary damages incurred by [Victim(s)] as a consequence of this transaction.

NOTICE OF DEADLINE

If the [Victim(s)] account is not restored to its full value prior to unlawful confiscation by the IRS, and if formal written notice of same is not received by us, within thirty (30) calendar days of the date of this NOTICE AND DEMAND, then [Victim(s)] will have no alternative but to hold [Name of Bank] and the individual employees involved jointly and severally liable for all actual, consequential, and exemplary damages, which have arisen under 26 C.F.R. Part 301.6332-1(c), which states in part:

... Any person who mistakenly surrenders to the United States property or rights to property not properly subject to levy is not relieved from liability to a third party who owns the property[emphasis added]

We have provided you with a readable summary of the law relevant to levies performed under authority of the Internal Revenue Code. A much more detailed exposition of this law can be provided to you, upon request. In addition to an irrefutable reason for restoring the [Victim(s)]'s account to its original status, it is our sincere hope that this letter will also give you and other bank officials sufficient legal justification to handle IRS Notices of Levy quite differently in the future. May we recommend that you consider adopting the attached checklist as your standard operating procedure for handling all IRS Notices of Levy from now on?

Thank you in advance for your immediate cooperation in this matter.

Sincerely yours,

Third Party Checklist for Determining Validity of Internal Revenue Service Notices of Levy

(Do not proceed beyond each step unless the answer to each question is YES. If the answer to any question is NO, the levy is invalid. Inform the IRS that you are unable to honor the levy until all legal requirements are met.)

☐ Is there a copy of the court ordered Warrant of Dstraint and Notice of Lien included with the Notice of Levy?

☐ Does the tax that the IRS claims is owed arise from taxable activities subject to miscellaneous excise taxes under IRC Subtitle E, or those that would pertain to the enabling regulations of Title 27 C.F.R. Part 70 (alcohol, tobacco, and firearms), or are you a federal employer as defined in IRC Section 3401(d) (in one of the U.S. territories and responsible for administering provisions under IRC Subtitle C)?

☐ Was a valid Notice and Demand for unpaid tax sent to the individual (or entity) whose property is the target of the levy?

☐ Has a valid Notice of Lien been filed with the appropriate court at least ten (10) days after the Notice and Demand was received and has the court issued a Warrant of Dstraint pursuant to IRC Section 7403?

☐ Has the IRS sent at least three notices to the individual (or entity) asking for payment and has the individual (or entity) refused to pay?

☐ Has the IRS sent a Notice of Intent to Levy to the individual (or entity) at least 30 days prior to the date on the Notice of Levy you received?

☐ Is the Notice of Levy signed by an IRS agent and is there a delegation order in existence giving that particular agent the authority to issue a Notice of Levy?

If all of the above conditions have been satisfied, the levy could be a valid one. However, if you turn over property in response to an improper levy, the individual (or entity) who owns the property can sue you personally for actual as well as exemplary and consequential damages (see 26 C.F.R. §301.6332-1(c)).

It is your responsibility as a fiduciary to insure that all legal requirements are met.

Roscoe Pound Warned Us

Mr. Roscoe Pound was Dean of the Law School of Harvard University from 1916 to 1936. He was awarded the American Bar Association medal of "conspicuous service to the cause of American jurisprudence" in 1940. He was the author of many works in various fields of law. He deserves our ear when he speaks.

Back in 1946, Mr. Pound wrote a paper entitled "Administrative Agencies and the Law." A few succinct comments from that paper follow:

"To them, administrative officials, law is whatever is done officially. And so administrative law is whatever is done by administrative agencies

"There was a steady growth of administrative agencies in the states in the last decade of the nineteenth century and the first decade of the present century, as part of the rise of social legislation. At first, this produced a certain friction with the courts This led some advocates of administrative development to denounce the separation of powers which is fundamental in American constitutional law

"Today, exemption from judicial scrutiny of its actions seems to be the ambition of every federal administrative agency ... but in the hands of agencies and subordinates of agencies not disposed to be scrupulously fair, these simple, nontechnical methods may easily serve as traps for the citizen who is seeking to obey the law

"But, it is a characteristic tendency of present-day administrative agencies to use as a ground of decision some idea of policy not to be found in the statute or general law nor even in any formulated rule of the agency

"Many of these agencies entertain complaints; institute investigations upon them; begin what are in effect prosecutions before themselves; allow their own subordinates to act as advocates for the prosecution; and often make the adjudications in conference with those same subordinates. All this runs counter to the most elementary and universally recognized principles of justice." [emphasis added]

He goes on to say that excessive zeal, absence of a fair hearing, disregard of evidence, prejudgment by administrative agencies, improper delegation of authority and obstruction of judicial relief, are the characteristics which require checks. Does this sound as if he is speaking of the Internal Revenue Service?

5.12.12 FOIA/Privacy Act Request Preceding Collection Due Process Hearing

The FOIA/Privacy Act request is intended for the situation where you have received your last CP501 through CP-504 series of letters and want the following from the IRS:

1. Evidence proving there was a lawful assessment.
2. Evidence of the authority of the agent who made the assessment as an “enforcement” rather than an “administrative” agent.
3. Contact information and real name of the agent in question so you can serve him with legal papers in the process of prosecuting him under 26 U.S.C. §7214..
4. Delegation of authority orders showing his authority to assess you.
5. A copy of the pocket commission of the agent.
6. Evidence that you are a business because the CP-500 series notice has three digits and is classified in Chapter 9 of the IRS 6209 manual as a BMF correspondence rather than an individual correspondence.
7. Evidence that you are a “person” liable for penalties under 26 C.F.R. § 301.6671-1.

If such evidence is unavailable, the letter asks for an abatement of penalties, interest, and taxes subject to collection. This letter is very effective and portions of it have been used by Eddie Kahn (<http://www.eddiekahn.com>) quite successfully to abate collection activity. Eddie says that typical IRS agents will ask for an administrative Pocket Commission and conduct enforcement activity,, which is clearly illegal. He says the IRS destroys the pocket commission applications to disguise this fact and make discovery more difficult, but you can still ask for the serial number of the commission, which reveals whether it is enforcement (starts with “E”) or Administrative/nonenforcement (starts with “A”).

1. A certified photocopy of the application for pocket commission of the agent(s) in question, including signature.
2. A certified photocopy of the original pocket commission for the agent(s) in question.
3. The original legal name appearing on the pocket commission for the agent(s) in question, rather than the pseudonym described in I.R.M. [1.16.4] 3.7 Use of Pseudonyms on Pocket Commissions.
4. The serial number on the Pocket Commission, which should begin with either “E” for enforcement or “A” for nonenforcement (administrative).
5. Whether the commission is an enforcement or nonenforcement (administrative) commission.
6. The real legal name (not the pseudonym) and contact information of the official authorizing the pocket commission, along with that person’s email address, mailing address, and phone number.
7. Whether the pocket commission is red (administrative) or black (enforcement).

Should you have any questions about the applicability or requirement for Pocket Commissions, then please refer to the IRS website at:

<http://www.irs.gov/irm/part1/ch13s06.html>

6. Authority of nonenforcement pocket commissions to perform enforcement functions (check here when assembled)

Please provide evidence of legal authority of nonenforcement/administrative officers to perform enforcement activities such as penalty assessment, collections, notice of levy, and CP-504 letters. The Administrative Procedures Act, 5 U.S.C. §556\(d\) places the burden of proof on the IRS as the moving party and not me to demonstrate its authority to assess such penalties:

TITLE 5 - GOVERNMENT ORGANIZATION AND EMPLOYEES
PART I - THE AGENCIES GENERALLY
CHAPTER 5 - ADMINISTRATIVE PROCEDURE
SUBCHAPTER II - ADMINISTRATIVE PROCEDURE

Sec. 556. Hearings; presiding employees; powers and duties; burden of proof; evidence; record as basis of decision

(d) Except as otherwise provided by statute, the proponent of a rule or order has the burden of proof. Any oral or documentary evidence may be received, but the agency as a matter of policy shall provide for the exclusion of irrelevant, immaterial, or unduly repetitious evidence. A sanction may not be imposed or rule or order issued except on consideration of the whole record or those parts thereof cited by a party and supported by and in accordance with the reliable, probative, and substantial evidence. The agency may, to the extent consistent with the interests of justice and the policy of the underlying statutes administered by the agency, consider a violation of section 557(d) of this title sufficient grounds for a decision adverse to a party who has knowingly committed such violation or knowingly caused such violation to occur. A party is entitled to present his case or defense by oral or documentary evidence, to submit rebuttal evidence, and to conduct such cross-examination as may be required for a full and true disclosure of the facts. In rule making or determining claims for money or benefits or applications for initial licenses an agency may, when a party will not be prejudiced thereby, adopt procedures for the submission of all or part of the evidence in written form.

If the IRS asserts that I am liable for payment of a penalty, even though there is no statute in the entire Subtitle A of the Internal Revenue Code making me liable for income taxes, then please provide evidence that I am the “person” liable for penalties as defined below:

TITLE 26--INTERNAL REVENUE
Additions to the Tax and Additional Amounts--Table of Contents
Sec. 301.6671-1 Rules for application of assessable penalties.

(b) Person defined. For purposes of subchapter B of chapter 68, the term “person” includes an officer or employee of a corporation, or a member or employee of a partnership, who as such officer, employee, or member is under a duty to perform the act in respect of which the violation occurs.

Since I am not an officer or employee of a corporation, then I cannot be the “person” who is subject to penalties under Subtitle F of the Internal Revenue Code. If you are going to try to play games using the definition of “includes” in a vain attempt to illegally expand your jurisdiction, then I ask you to respond to the treatment of the word “includes” found in question number 20 beginning of page CRS-56 of the rebutted version of the Congressional Research Service report 97-59A entitled “Frequently Asked Questions Concerning the Federal Income Tax”, available for free downloading at:

7. Records reflecting that I am a business rather than an individual (check here when assembled)

Enclosures (1) through (3) include three digit notice codes. Here is what Chapter 9, Section .01 of the IRS 6209 manual says about these notice codes:

“Computer generated notices and letters of inquiry are mailed to taxpayers in connection with tax returns for BMF, IMF, and IRAF. Computer paragraph (CP) numbers (3-digit number for BMF AND IRAF, 2-digit number for IMF) are located in the upper left corner of notices and letters.”

By way of explanation of the above, “BMF” is for the Business Master File and “IMF” is for Individual Master File. Since the notice codes on Encl. (1) through 3 have three digits rather than two, then I am forced to conclude that these notices are incorrectly directed at a business rather than an individual. I wish to notify you emphatically that I am NOT a business, but an individual and that your records must be in error because Enclosures (1) through (3) indicate BMF codes that do not apply to individuals or human beings such as myself.

Please therefore send to me any evidence, records, or materials incorrectly showing that I am a business rather than an individual, and if you cannot, then please:

1. Immediately abate all penalties and interest unlawfully and incorrectly assessed against me in this case and retract the Enclosures (1) through (3) above.
2. Update my IRS record to reflect the fact that I am not a business, but an individual.

8. Request for Update to Records (check here when assembled)

Please update my IRS records to reflect that I am not “U.S. citizen” per 8 U.S.C. §1401, but a “non-resident non-person” and a “non-citizen national” as defined in 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21). Should you require additional evidence of this status, I would be happy to provide to you a copy of my recently filed expatriation document.

CONCLUSION:

If you find this request for information defective in a serious enough way to prevent disclosure of the information requested, then please promptly (within 10 days) notify me of the deficiency and I will gladly and promptly correct it and resend my request.

I understand the penalties provided in 5 U.S.C. §552a(i)(3) for requesting or obtaining access to records under false pretenses.

5.13.1 Response to IRS Prosecution for “Willful Failure to File”

Ron Gardner was convicted earlier this year of "Willful Failure to File" tax returns. Larry Becraft represented Ron and the appeal brief prepared by Larry is linked above. Whether or not one agrees with the general approach or specific arguments in this case, this brief is loaded with important facts relevant to the fraud and injustice we all would like to understand and expose. After reading this brief, consider the implications of the government actually convincing a jury to convict Ron. Somehow the public must be brought to understand and care about what happened here. Also, please visit Larry Becraft's Site for more material.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, v. <<NAME>>, Defendant.	))))))))	Mag. No. _____ (___)
--	--------------------------------------	-----------------------------

BRIEF IN SUPPORT OF SECOND MOTION FOR JUDGMENT OF ACQUITTAL

From Gardner's testimony, it is clear that he attempted to learn how the tax laws applied to him by engaging in a study of the constitutional foundation for the federal income tax; he concluded from his studies that the federal income tax was an excise tax which simply did not apply to him. The truth of the matter is that the constitutional foundation for the federal income tax is indeed uncertain and that uncertainty demonstrates a fundamental due process problem which requires the entry of judgment in Gardner's favor.

For several years now, a variety of high public officials have openly declared that the federal income tax laws are incredibly complex and need to be either substantially revised or scrapped. But after making such statements, these officials invariably fail to identify what specific parts of the tax laws suffer from this condition, choosing instead to conceal them. Are the objectionable parts of the federal tax code secretly and quietly discussed behind closed Congressional committee doors? If they are, why doesn't someone inform the American public of these deficiencies so that they may likewise participate in this debate? Is it possible that it is the major and not various minor features of the tax laws which are complex, even uncertain? Is it possible that these major features are so fundamentally flawed that they simply cannot be repaired? If so, what is the legal consequence of this complexity?

It is alleged that the legal duties arising from the tax laws are clearly known to all, but there are a few exceptions to this rule. For example, in United States v. Critzer, 498 F.2d. 1160 (4th Cir. 1974), at issue was the validity of the conviction of an Indian for tax evasion. Here, the Bureau of Indian Affairs had informed Mrs. Critzer that the money she derived from real property located within a reservation was not taxable; Mrs. Critzer relied upon this advice and failed to report such income. But, the IRS maintained a contrary position and indicted and convicted her for tax evasion. This conviction was reversed on the grounds that the unsettled nature of this field of law precluded any conviction:

"While the record amply supports the conclusion that the underreporting was intentional, the record also reflects that, concededly, whether defendant's unreported income was taxable is problematical and the government is in dispute with itself as to whether the omitted income was taxable," Id., at 1160.

"We hold that defendant must be exonerated from the charges lodged against her. As a matter of law, defendant cannot be guilty of willfully evading and defeating income taxes on income, the taxability of which is so uncertain that even co-ordinate branches of the United States Government plausibly reach directly opposing conclusions. As a matter of law, the requisite intent to evade and defeat income taxes is missing. The obligation to pay is so problematical that defendant's actual intent is irrelevant. Even if she had consulted the law and sought to guide herself accordingly, she could have had no certainty as to what the law required.

"It is settled that when the law is vague or highly debatable, a defendant- actually or imputedly- lacks the requisite intent to violate it," Id., at 1162.

This single case is an adequate demonstration that there is at least one part of the tax code which is unclear and that lack of clarity caused the reversal of Mrs. Critzer's criminal conviction. But there are others; see United States v. Mallas, 762 F.2d. 361 (4th Cir. 1985)(a prosecution for violating an unclear legal duty abridges principles of due process); United States v. Garber, 607 F.2d. 92, 97-98 (5th Cir. 1979); United States v. Dahlstrom, 713 F.2d. 1423, 1429 (9th Cir. 1983); United States v. Heller, 830 F.2d. 150 (11th Cir. 1987); and United States v. Harris, 942 F.2d. 1125 (7th Cir. 1991). Unclear legal duties in other fields of law besides tax likewise prevent criminal convictions on due process grounds; see United States v. Insko, 496 F.2d. 204 (5th Cir. 1974); People v. Dempster, 396 Mich. 700, 242 N.W.2d. 381 (1976); United States v. Anzalone, 766 F.2d. 676, 681-82 (1st Cir. 1985); United States v. Denmark, 779 F.2d. 1559 (11th Cir. 1986); United States v. Varbel, 780 F.2d. 758, 762 (9th Cir. 1986); United States v. Dela Espriella, 781 F.2d. 1432 (9th Cir. 1986); and United States v. Larson, 796 F.2d. 244 (8th Cir. 1986).

Under the U.S. Constitution, the Congress is authorized to impose two different types of taxes, direct and indirect. Via Art. 1, §8, cl. 1, of the Constitution, indirect taxes (excises, duties and imposts) must be uniformly imposed throughout the country. Direct taxes are required via Art. 1, §2, cl. 3, and Art. 1, §9, cl. 4, to be imposed pursuant to the regulation of apportionment. These tax categories are mutually exclusive and any given tax must squarely fit within one category or the other. To which constitutional category does the federal income tax belong? Is it a direct tax, or is it an indirect tax? Do American courts speak with unanimity about this simple question of what is the nature of this tax?

To determine whether and to what extent there is any uncertainty or conflict of authority regarding the nature of the federal income tax requires at least a short review of the fundamental decisions concerning it. In 1894, Congress adopted an income tax act which was declared unconstitutional in Pollock v. Farmers' Loan & Trust Co., 157 U.S. 429, 15 S.Ct. 673, aff. reh., 158 U.S. 601, 15 S.Ct. 912 (1895). The Pollock Court found that the income tax was a direct tax which could only be imposed if the tax was apportioned; since this tax was not apportioned, it was found unconstitutional. In an effort to circumvent this decision, the 16th Amendment was proposed by Congress in 1909 and ratified by the states in 1913. As a result, various opinions arose regarding the legal effect of the amendment. Some factions contended that the 16th Amendment simply eliminated the apportionment requirement for one specific direct tax known as the income tax, while others asserted that the amendment simply withdrew it from the direct tax category and placed the income tax in the indirect, excise tax class. These competing contentions and interpretations were apparently resolved in Brushaber v. Union Pacific Railroad Co., 240 U.S. 1, 36 S.Ct. 236 (1916). Rather than attempt a determination of what the Court held in this case, it is more important to learn what various courts have subsequently declared Brushaber to mean.

A little more than a week after the opinion in Brushaber, similar issues were present for decision in Stanton v. Baltic Mining Co., 240 U.S. 103, 112-13, 36 S.Ct. 278 (1916), which involved the question of whether an inadequate depletion allowance for a mining company constituted a direct tax on the company's property. As to Baltic's contention that "the 16th Amendment authorized only an exceptional direct income tax without apportionment," the Court rejected it by stating that this contention:

"... manifestly disregards the fact that by the previous ruling it was settled that the provisions of the 16th Amendment conferred no new power of taxation, but simply prohibited the previous complete and plenary power of income taxation possessed by Congress from the beginning from being taken out of the category of indirect taxation to which it inherently belonged, and being placed in the category of direct taxation."

The Court clearly held that income taxes inherently belonged to the indirect/excise tax class, but had been converted by Pollock to direct taxes by considering the source of the income; the 16th Amendment merely banished the rule in Pollock. See also Tyee Realty Co. v. Anderson, 240 U.S. 115, 36 S.Ct. 281 (1916), decided the same day.

However, the victory of defining what the 16th Amendment meant was short lived and later decisions commenced a course which appears to have changed the meaning of Brushaber, or at least provided fertile grounds for an entirely different and opposite construction of it. In William E. Peck and Co. v. Lowe, 247 U.S. 165, 172-73, 38 S.Ct. 432, 433 (1918), which involved a tax imposed on export earnings, the Court seemed to indicate that what was accomplished by the amendment was the elimination of the apportionment requirement for the direct tax known as the income tax, an argument rejected in Baltic:

"The Sixteenth Amendment, although referred to in argument, has no real bearing and may be put out of view. As pointed out in recent decisions, it does not extend the taxing power to new or excepted subjects, but merely removed all occasion, which otherwise might exist, for an apportionment among the states of taxes laid on income, whether it be derived from one source or another."

The drift away from the position of the Court that the income tax via the 16th Amendment fell within the excise tax category became more pronounced with the decision in Eisner v. Macomber, 252 U.S. 189, 206, 40 S.Ct. 189 (1920), which involved the application of this tax to a stock dividend. Here, the Court plainly stated what many lawyers and some judges today think was accomplished by means of this amendment, the elimination of the apportionment requirement for the direct tax known as the income tax. In deciding this case, the Court quoted the amendment and then redeclared its meaning:

"As repeatedly held, this did not extend the taxing power to new subjects, but merely removed the necessity which otherwise might exist for an apportionment among the states of taxes laid on income. Brushaber....," 252 U.S., at 206.

"A proper regard for its genesis, as well as its very clear language, requires also that this amendment shall not be extended by loose construction, so as to repeal or modify, except as applied to income, those provisions of the Constitution that require an apportionment according to population for direct taxes upon property, real and personal."

Is this the resurfacing of the argument that "the 16th Amendment authorized only an exceptional direct income tax without apportionment" condemned in Baltic?

From a study of Brushaber, it is thus possible for someone to rely upon those portions of the two phrases at the beginning and ending of 240 U.S. 19 to believe that "the 16th Amendment authorized only an exceptional direct income tax without apportionment." If one fell into that error, this belief would be magnified by the above highlighted portions of Eisner. Confusion abounds as to the correct interpretation of Brushaber, and this is obvious because various courts of this nation have relied upon this line of authority to reach diametrically opposing results.

The state courts have been particularly split over the nature of an income tax and whether it constitutes a direct property tax or an indirect/excise, which is not imposed on property. A small number of them hold that an income tax is a direct property tax; see Eliasberg Bros. Mercantile Co. v. Grimes, 204 Ala. 492, 86 So. 56, 58 (1920); State v. Pinder, 108 A. 43, 45 (Del. 1919); Bachrach v. Nelson, 349 Ill. 579, 182 N.E. 909 (1932); Opinion of the Justices, 220 Mass. 613, 108 N.E. 570 (1915); Trefry v. Putnam, 227 Mass. 522, 116 N.E. 904 (1917); Maguire v. Tax Comm. of Commonwealth, 230 Mass. 503, 120 N.E. 162, 166 (1918); *Hart v. A far larger number of state courts disagree with the cases noted above and have held that an income tax is not a property tax but an excise; see Purnell v. Page, 133 N.C. 125, 45 S.E. 534, 535 (1903); State v. Frear, 148 Wis. 456, 134 N.W. 673, 692 (1912); Opinion of Justices, 77 N.H. 611, 93 A. 311, 313 (1915); Ludlow-Saylor Wire Co. v. Dept. of Treasury, 209 Ind. 172, 199 N.E. 372, 377 (1935)(citing Brushaber); Marshall v. South Carolina Tax Comm., 178 S.C. 57, 182 S.E. 96, 97 (1935); Hunton v. Commonwealth, 166 Va. 229, 183 S.E. 873, 876 (1936); Reynolds Metal Co. v. Martin, 269 Ky. 378, 107 S.W.2d. 251, 259 (1937); Vilas v. State, 141 Colo. 288, 348 P.2d. 382 (1959); and Burns v. State Bureau of Revenue, 79 N.M. 53, 439 P.2d. 702, 706 (1968).

This split of authority evident within the state cases also manifests itself in the federal appellate courts. For example, in the First Circuit it is difficult to determine the meaning of the 16th Amendment because in United States v. Turano, 802 F.2d. 10, 12 (1st Cir. 1986), that court held that the "16th Amendment eliminated the indirect/direct distinction as applied to taxes on income." Next door in the Second Circuit, there is uncertainty revealed by three completely inconsistent cases. In Jandorf's Estate v. Commissioner, 171 F.2d. 464, 465 (2nd Cir. 1948), that court declared, "It should be noted that estate or inheritance taxes are excises ... while surtaxes, excess profits and war-profits taxes are direct property taxes." Surtaxes are the graduated taxes of the income tax, so this court holds that the personal income tax is a direct tax. But in Ficalora v. Commissioner, 751 F.2d. 85, 87 (2nd Cir. 1984), that court stated that the personal income tax was an indirect tax: "[T]he Supreme Court explicitly stated that taxes on income from one's employment are not direct taxes and are not subject to the necessity of apportionment." But compare United States v. Sitka, 845 F.2d. 43, 46 (2nd Cir. 1988)(citing Parker, infra, for the proposition that the tax is direct). In the Third Circuit, it has been held in one case that all income taxes are direct, but in another that only some are direct; see Keasbey & Mattison Co. v. Rothensies, 133 F.2d. 894, 897 (3rd Cir. 1943)("[A]n income tax is a direct tax upon income therein defined"); and Penn Mutual Indemnity Co. v. Commissioner, 277 F.2d. 16, 19 (3rd Cir. 1960)("Pollock only held that a tax on the income derived from real or personal property was so close to a tax on that property that it could not be imposed without apportionment. The Sixteenth Amendment removed that barrier").

In the remainder of the Circuits, the difference of opinion as to whether the federal income tax is a direct or indirect tax is likewise as profound and confusing. In the Fourth and Sixth Circuits, the income tax has been held to be an excise tax; see White Packing Co. v. Robertson, 89 F.2d. 775, 779 (4th Cir. 1937)("The tax is, of course, an excise tax, as are all taxes on income..."); and United States v. Gaumer, 972 F.2d. 723, 725 (6th Cir. 1992)("Brushaber and the Congressional Record excerpt do indeed state that for constitutional purposes, the income tax is an excise tax"). However, in the Fifth, Seventh, Eighth and Tenth Circuits, arguments that this tax is an excise have been squarely rejected and determined to be frivolous. For example, in Parker v. Commissioner, 724 F.2d. 469, 471 (5th Cir. 1984), the court clearly rejected the contention that this tax is an excise:

"The Supreme Court promptly determined in Brushaber... that the sixteenth amendment provided the needed constitutional basis for the imposition of a direct non-apportioned income tax.

"The sixteenth amendment merely eliminates the requirement that the direct income tax be apportioned among the states.

"The sixteenth amendment was enacted for the express purpose of providing for a direct income tax."

In Coleman v. Commissioner, 791 F.2d. 68, 70 (7th Cir. 1986), the court held that an argument that this tax was an excise was frivolous on its face ("The power thus long predates the Sixteenth Amendment, which did no more than remove the apportionment requirement..."). A similar conclusion was reached in United States v. Francisco, 614 F.2d. 617, 619 (8th Cir. 1980), that court declaring that Brushaber held this tax to be a direct one:

"The cases cited by Francisco clearly establish that the income tax is a direct tax, thus refuting the argument based upon his first theory. See Brushaber v. Union Pacific Railroad Co., 240 U.S. 1, 19, 36 S.Ct. 236, 242, 60 L.Ed. 493 (1916) (the purpose of the Sixteenth Amendment was to take the 'income tax' out of the class of excises, duties and imposts and place it in the class of direct taxes)".

Finally, in United States v. Lawson, 670 F.2d. 923, 927 (10th Cir. 1982), that court expressed in the following fashion its contempt for the contention that the federal income tax was an excise:

"Lawson's 'jurisdictional' claim, more accurately a constitutional claim, is based on an argument that the Sixteenth Amendment only authorizes excise-type taxes on income derived from activities that are government-licensed or otherwise specially protected... The contention is totally without merit... The Sixteenth Amendment removed any need to apportion income taxes among the states that otherwise would have been required by Article I, Section 9, clause 4."

Therefore, while the Supreme Court rejected in Baltic the argument that "the 16th Amendment authorized only an exceptional direct income tax without apportionment," this position now prevails in the Fifth, Seventh, Eighth and Tenth Circuits. In the Second and Third Circuits, the existing authority illogically claims that the tax is both.

A direct tax applies to and taxes property while an indirect, excise tax is never imposed on property but usually an event such as sales; see Bromley v. McCaughn, 280 U.S. 124, 50 S.Ct. 46, 47 (1929). Those courts which hold that an income tax is a direct property tax believe that income is property, yet those which hold that this tax is an excise declare that income is not property. If the courts of this nation cannot identify what is the nature of this ephemeral item known as income, then how can the American people? While in Critzer the difference of opinion existed between two government agencies, here the difference of opinion is among many different courts, a situation far more serious than that presented in Heller. This is a monumental due process problem far bigger than that to which Mrs. Critzer was subjected.

The question of what constitutes property is an issue governed by state law; see Aquilino v. United States, 363 U.S. 509, 512-13, 80 S.Ct. 1277, 1280 (1960), and United States v. Baldwin, 575 F.2d. 1097, 1098 (4th Cir. 1978). The definition of the term, "property," is very broad; see Samet v. Farmers' & Merchants' Nat. Bank, 247 F. 669, 671 (4th Cir. 1917)("Property is everything that has exchangeable value or goes to make up a man's wealth"). It includes money, credits, evidences of debt, and choses in action; see State v. Ward, 222 N.C. 316, 22 S.E.2d 922, 925 (1942). Income is property according to St. Louis Union Trust Co. v. United States, 617 F.2d. 1293, 1301 (8th Cir. 1980). Accrued wages and salaries are likewise property; see Sims v. United States, 252 F.2d. 434, 437 (4th Cir. 1958), aff'd., 359 U.S. 108, 79 S.Ct. 641 (1959); and Kolb v. Berlin, 356 F.2d. 269, 271 (5th Cir. 1966). Accounts receivable are property; see In re Ralar Distributors, Inc., 4 F.3d 62, 67 (1st Cir. 1993). Even private employment and a profession are considered property; see United States v. Briggs, 514 F.2d. 794, 798 (5th Cir. 1975).

There appears to be no dispute about the plain requirements of the Constitution that direct taxes must be apportioned and that indirect taxes must be uniform. Likewise as shown above, there is a line of decisional authority regarding the generally accepted proposition that income is property, although there are courts which deny this. In James v. United States, 970 F.2d. 750, 755, 756 n. 11 (10th Cir. 1992), the 10th Circuit made it clear that income is property. Pursuant to United States v. Lawson, supra, the 10th Circuit declares that the property known as income is subject to tax under the view that the 16th Amendment eliminated the apportionment requirement for a specific class of property known as income. However, there is ample contrary judicial authority which demonstrates that this construction of the 16th Amendment is erroneous and that the purpose, intent and meaning of the amendment was the opposite construction and that the amendment did not free this one type of property tax from the regulation of apportionment. An error in a logical argument involving a single premise affects the ultimate conclusion. If the 10th Circuit accepted the proposition that the meaning of the 16th Amendment was contrary to that asserted in Lawson, but adhered to its decision in James, a valid legal argument would logically follow that property known as income could not be taxed because the current income tax is not apportioned.

This same problem, but from an opposite perspective, is evident within the Fourth Circuit where the existing authority of Sims v. United States, supra, declares that income is property. Since that Circuit holds that the federal income tax is an excise via White Packing Co. v. Robertson, supra, and since the definition of an excise tax appearing in that Court's opinion in New Neighborhoods, Inc. v. West Virginia Workers' Comp. Fund, 886 F.2d. 714, 719 (4th Cir. 1989), excludes a tax on property, does it not logically follow that there is a tremendous gap in the decisional authority within the Fourth Circuit which presents a view of the law that the property known as income might not be taxed? Based on these cases, is this tax clearly imposed?

Review of the above noted authority in other circuits and states only demonstrates how profound this problem is. In the 6th Circuit, United States v. Gaumer, supra, declares the income tax to be an excise; via Jack Cole Co. v. MacFarland, 337 S.W.2d. 453, 455-56 (Tenn. 1960), the Tennessee Supreme Court has held that an excise tax cannot be used to tax the right to earn a living. Which authority do the people living in Tennessee follow? If they follow the word of their own state court, they might be charged with a tax crime, yet they have a right to rely upon the word of the courts, even when erroneous; see United States v. Albertini, 830 F.2d. 985, 989 (9th Cir. 1987). A different problem emerges in the 8th Circuit where United States v. Francisco, supra, holds that an income tax is a direct property tax. Missouri is within the 8th Circuit, but the Missouri Supreme Court held in Ludlow-Saylor Wire Co. v. Wollbrinck, supra, that an income tax is an excise; if income is not property under Missouri state law, then how does this federal property tax operate as to this "non-property"? Iowa is also in the 8th Circuit, but in Hale v. Iowa State Board of Assessment and Review, 223 Iowa 321, 271 N.W. 168, 172 (1937), that court held that "income is not property within the law of taxation." If state law holds that income is not property yet the federal appellate court for the same state holds the exact opposite, is not a serious uncertainty of the law, due process problem clearly evident?

The decisional authority within the 5th Circuit, Parker v. Commissioner, supra, holds that this tax is a direct property tax, but a contrary view prevails in Mississippi where its citizens are told that an income tax is an excise; see Hattiesburg Grocery Co. v. Robertson, supra. The courts in Wisconsin and Indiana, via State v. Frear, supra, and Miles v. Dept. of Treasury, supra, have found this tax to be an excise, yet the federal appellate court which encompasses these two states has an entirely different view of the object of the tax; see Coleman v. Commissioner, supra. The 10th Circuit, which sits in Denver, held in Lawson, supra, that the income tax is a property tax, yet a state court in the same city has declared that such a tax is an excise; see California Co. v. State, supra.

In Alabama, income is property via Eliasberg Bros. Mercantile Co. v. Grimes, supra; but next door in Georgia via Featherstone v. Norman it is not. While the 11th Circuit appears not as yet to have passed upon the question of what type of tax the federal income tax is, consultation of Supreme Court decisions still doesn't resolve the question. By following the rationale of Brushaber and Bromley, supra, which declare the federal income tax to be an excise tax which is not imposed on property, are the people of Alabama exempt from this tax while those in Georgia are not? But by reversing the choice of Supreme Court decisions to follow in an effort to resolve this controversy merely changes the results but not the problem. By following Eisner which seems to hold that the tax is imposed on property, do the people of Alabama owe the tax while those in Georgia do not? These differing conclusions plainly reveal a serious uncertainty about what is taxed, and no attempt is made herein to offer any explanation for all of this inconsistency other than to allege that this is uncertainty of the law which creates a serious due process problem.

The problems created by the failure of American courts to determine what is the nature of an income tax are very broad. Any particular federal tax must fit within one of the two constitutional tax categories and once the category is known, it may be determined whether the tax in question complies with the constitutional regulation for imposition of that type of tax. A direct tax which is uniformly imposed would still be unconstitutional as one imposed in the absence of apportionment. An indirect tax imposed via apportionment would likewise be unconstitutional since it would not be uniform. But if it is impossible to determine which class any given tax falls within, then it is likewise impossible to determine which constitutional regulation, if any, applies to that tax. If the courts of this nation hold that an income tax is both an excise tax and a direct one, it cannot with any degree of certainty be determined what constitutional restrictions might or might not apply to this tax or what is even the meaning of the 16th Amendment. What's more, it cannot be determine what is income, whether property or non-property.

But this is not the only fundamental problem for the federal income tax. Additionally, the question of which statute controls the duty to file income tax returns is subject to judicial dispute. In Commissioner v. Lane-Wells Co., 321 U.S. 219, 222, 64 S.Ct. 511, 513 (1944), the Court noted that §54 of the 1939 Internal Revenue Code, the predecessor for Internal Revenue Code §6001, related to the filing requirement; see also Updike v. United States, 8 F.2d. 913, 915 (8th Cir. 1925). In True v. United States, 354 F.2d. 323, 324 (Ct.Cl. 1965), United States v. Carlson, 260 F.Supp. 423, 425 (E.D.N.Y. 1966), White v. Commissioner, 72 U.S.T.C. 1126, 1129 (1979), McCaskill v. Commissioner, 77 U.S.T.C. 689, 698 (1981), Counts v. Commissioner, 774 F.2d. 426, 427 (11th Cir. 1985), Blount v. Commissioner, 86 U.S.T.C. 383, 386 (1986), and Beard v. Commissioner, 793 F.2d. 139 (6th Cir. 1986), these courts held that Internal Revenue Code §6011 related to the filing requirement. In United States v. Moore, 627 F.2d. 830, 834 (7th Cir. 1980), United States v. Dawes, 951 F.2d. 1189, 1192, n. 3 (10th Cir. 1991), and United States v. Hicks, 947 F.2d. 1356, 1360 (9th Cir. 1991), those courts held that Internal Revenue Code §§ 6011 and 6012 governed this duty. In contrast, the cases of Steinbrecher v. Commissioner, 712 F.2d. 195, 198 (5th Cir. 1983), United States v. Bowers, 920 F.2d. 220, 222 (4th Cir. 1990), and United States v. Neff, 954 F.2d. 698, 699 (11th Cir. 1992), held that only §6012 governed this duty. But in United States v. Pilcher, 672 F.2d. 875, 877 (11th Cir. 1982), none of the above sections were mentioned and it was held that §7203 required returns to be filed. It is very apparent that there is even a diversity of opinion among judges regarding which sections of the Internal Revenue Code govern the requirement to file income tax returns.

The observation of the dissenting judge in Culliton v. Chase, 25 P.2d. at 89-90, that this "disagreement of the courts and judges on identical problems seems to afford the highest proof that 'reasonable doubt' does exist," is particularly appropriate here. If American courts cannot decide such fundamental questions as what is the nature of the income tax and which section of the Internal Revenue Code requires the filing of an income tax return, then it is obvious that a serious due process problem exists within the federal income tax laws.

If American courts cannot decide such fundamental questions as what is the nature of the income tax and which section of the Internal Revenue Code requires the filing of an income tax return, then it is obvious that the problem with this tax involves these basic questions, a problem evident from the beginning. In 1913 during the debate on the first income tax act under the 16th Amendment, Senator Elihu Root commented about the complexity of that first law:

"I guess you will have to go to jail. If that is the result of not understanding the Income Tax Law I shall meet you there. We shall have a merry, merry time, for all of our friends will be there. It will be an intellectual center, for no one understands the Income Tax Law except persons who have not sufficient intelligence to understand the questions that arise under it."

Apparently, nothing has changed.

5.13.2 Administrative Appeal Ltr to IRS

This letter is intended to be sent to the IRS after an examination meeting has occurred and collection activity has been commenced by the IRS against a citizen, in violation of the law.

District Director
Internal Revenue Service
Arkansas/Oklahoma District

Oklahoma City 73102/tdc
OKLAHOMA STATE

Former SSN (no longer active) #000-00-0000
Re: Your 531 letter of 3/7/96
Subject: Appeal of administrative collections

March 26, 1996

Dear District Director:

This is a request to discontinue further administrative collections activity to the point certain matters of fact and/or law relating to tax obligations and Internal Revenue Service initiatives can be administratively determined in accordance with provisions set out at 26 C.F.R. § 601.101, et seq., particularly with respect to determination of status, securing national office rulings, and district determination letters within the framework of 26 C.F.R. §§ 601.106 & 601.201.

On review of 26 CFR, Part 601, Subpart D, and the acknowledgment of Fifth Amendment assurances at 26 C.F.R. § 601.106(f)(1), it appears that the Internal Revenue Service has engaged fraud and oppression under color of law. I am not an officer, agent or employee of the United States (26 U.S.C. §3401(c)), I am not an agency of the United States (26 U.S.C. §3401(d), as specified at 5 U.S.C. § 102 & 105); and I do not believe I have either fiduciary or transferee liability to the United States Government.

Where matters of fact are concerned, the territorial state of Oklahoma, one of the several States party to the Constitution for the united States of America, is not lawfully a federal State, as defined in the Internal Revenue Code at § 7701(a)(10); I am not a Fourteenth Amendment citizen of the United States; I am not a resident alien of the geographical United States; and I do not have United States-source "income" subject to privilege tax (26 C.F.R. § 31.3101-1), as identified in the current Internal Revenue Code, § 1, or "gross income", as defined in § 22 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939. I believe my earnings both past and present are exempt from the so-called income tax as a matter of fundamental law (Eisner v. Macomber, 252 U.S. 189 (1920); 26 C.F.R. § 31.3401(a)(6)-1(e)).

In order to initiate the administrative appeals process, I am submitting a Freedom of Information Act request designed to secure information necessary to construct a platform of fact (copy attached). Particulars pertaining to administrative remedies prescribed in 26 C.F.R. § 601.101 et seq. are complicated enough that it will take time to study compliance details and construct appropriate instruments to secure determinations, rulings, etc. I would appreciate a grace period of thirty days following receipt of FOIA-secured documents and disclosures to work through these matters and commence the process of administratively resolving controversy. In the meantime, your cooperation with regard to discontinuing administrative collections to the point controversy is resolved, as required by law, would be appreciated.

It is my understanding, per "instructions to taxpayers" at 26 C.F.R. § 601.201(e)(1), that I should attest to the truth and accuracy of matters set forth in any given instrument submitted for Internal Revenue Service consideration. This letter is of necessity incomplete, but under penalty to perjury, I attest that to the best of my knowledge and belief, matters of law and fact set forth herein are accurate and true.

5.13.3 Motion to Dismiss Due To Lack Of Territorial Jurisdiction

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE DISTRICT OF _____ CASE NO: _____

Plaintiff:

United States,
Plaintiff

MOTION TO DISMISS FOR LACK OF TERRITORIAL

v.

Any Citizen,
Defendant

COMES NOW {Any Citizen}, the accused, who hereby demands of this legislative tribunal and judicial assembly the dismissal of this cause because of the lack of exclusive jurisdictional authority over the exact geographical location where the alleged criminal activity mentioned in the indictment took place; and hereby files this formal Motion to Dismiss for Lack of Territorial Jurisdiction.

A recent Supreme Court decision, decided April 26, 1995, addresses the issues of exclusive legislative jurisdiction of the Congress, the powers of the Federal government, and the subsequent subject matter of a Federal District Court. Supreme Court Justice Thomas in the concurring majority opinion in the case of United States v. Lopez, No. 93-1260, 115 S.Ct. 1624, 131 L.Ed.2d. 626, states very clearly:

"Indeed, on this crucial point, the majority and Justice Breyer [the Justice writing the dissenting opinion] agree in principle: the Federal Government has nothing approaching a police power." (pg 64.)

Then Justice Thomas went on to discuss "a regulation of police" (pg. 86), wherein he stated:

"United States v. Dewitt, 76 US 41 9 Wall 4, 19 L. Ed 593 (870), marked the first time the court struck down as exceeding the power conveyed by the commerce clause. In a 2 page opinion, the court invalidated a nation-wide law prohibiting all sales of naphtha, and illuminating oils. In so doing, the court remarked that the commerce clause has always been understood as limited by its terms; and as a virtual denial of any power to interfere with the internal trade and business of the separate states."

Further support for this understanding is readily available from the courts:

"Special provision is made in the Constitution for the cession of jurisdiction from the states over places where the federal government shall establish forts or other military works. And it is only in these places, or in territories of the United States, where it can exercise a general jurisdiction"
[New Orleans v. United States, 35 U.S. (10 Pet.) 662 (1836)]

"All legislation is prima facie territorial"
[American Banana Co. v. U.S. Fruit, 213, U.S. 347 at 357-358]

"There is a canon of legislative construction which teaches Congress that, unless a contrary intent appears [legislation] is meant to apply only within territorial jurisdiction of the United States."
[U.S. v. Spelar, 338 U.S. 217 at 222]

“the United States never held any municipal sovereignty, jurisdiction, or right of soil in Alabama or any of the new states which were formed ... The United States has no Constitutional capacity to exercise municipal jurisdiction, sovereignty or eminent domain, within the limits of a state or elsewhere, except in the cases in which it is expressly granted ...”
[Pollard v. Hagan, 44 U.S. 213, 221, 223]

“... the states are separate sovereigns with respect to the federal government”
[Heath v. Alabama, 474 U.S. 187]

“No sanction can be imposed absent proof of jurisdiction” [Stanard v. Olesen, 74 S. Ct. 768]

“Once challenged, jurisdiction cannot be ‘assumed’, it must be proved to exist.”
[Stuck v. Medical Examiners, 94 Ca2d 751.211 P2s 389]

“Jurisdiction, once challenged, cannot be assumed and must be decided.”
[Maine v. Thiboutot, 100 S.Ct. 250]

“... Federal jurisdiction cannot be assumed, but must be clearly shown.”
[Brooks v. Yawkey, 200 F. 2d 633]

“The law requires proof of jurisdiction to appear on the record of the administrative agency and all administrative proceedings”
[Hagans v. Lavine, 415 U.S. 533]

“If any tribunal finds absence of proof of jurisdiction over person and subject matter, the case must be dismissed.”
[Louisville R.R. v. Motley, 211 U.S. 149, 29 S.Ct. 42]

Other cases also such as McNutt v. G.M., 56 S.Ct. 789, 80 L.Ed. 1135, Griffin v. Mathews, 310 Supp. 341, 423 F. 2d 272, Basso v. U.P.L., 495 F 2d. 906, Thomson v. Gaskiel, 62 S.Ct. 673, 83 L.Ed. 111, and Albrecht v U.S., 273 U.S. 1, also all confirm, that, when challenged, jurisdiction must be documented, shown, and proven, to lawfully exist before a cause may lawfully proceed in the courts..

Title 18 U.S.C. §7 specifies that the “territorial jurisdiction” of the United States extends only outside the boundaries of lands belonging to any of the 50 states, and Title 40 U.S.C. §255 specifies the legal conditions that must be fulfilled for the United States government to have exclusive or shared jurisdiction within the area of lands belonging to the States of the Union.

THEREFORE, the accused would demand of this court to establish the required exclusive Federal jurisdiction that has been merely assumed in this matter, consisting of:

1. Documentation showing ownership of each and every geographical location mentioned in the instant indictment wherein the alleged criminal activity took place.
2. Documentation from the legislature of the Commonwealth of Virginia surrendering jurisdiction to the Federal government over the same geographical location as in #1.
3. Documentation pursuant to Title 40 U.S.C. §255, wherein the United States accepted jurisdiction to the same geographical location as specified in #1, OR, documentation showing concurrent jurisdiction with the Commonwealth of Virginia over the geographical location in #1; absent the production of such required documentation showing lawful Federal jurisdiction over this geographical location, dismiss the action entirely, immediately.

OR,

Respectfully submitted this ____ day of _____, 19____.

_____, Revenue Officer
Internal Revenue Service

<<CITY, STATE ZIP>>

February 19, 1996

Dear Mr. _____:

Recently you sent me copies of two notices of levy, one to a _____ and one to a _____. On the back of these copies are excerpts from the Internal Revenue Code which apparently offer legal support for the "Notice of Levy". For some reason, the excerpts from 26 U.S.C. Sec. 6331 begin with subsection (b), omitting subsection (a). This is not a good practice when citing law because the first subsection or paragraph typically describes the scope of authority for what is to follow -- in other words, who it may apply to. If you will read 26 U.S.C. 6331 (a), you will find that under Section 6331 "Levy may be made upon ... any officer, employee, or elected official of the United States, the District of Columbia or any agency or instrumentality of the United States or the District of Columbia" Mr. _____, as I am not such an "officer, employee or elected official", it does not appear that this form and procedure would apply to me. Would you please assist me by explaining your use of these particular "Notice of Levy" forms?

When we spoke on <<DATE>>, I appreciated your sincerity and your feeling perturbed by my "playing games". Undoubtedly, you sincerely believe that I owe the IRS some money. Certainly there are many people who "cheat on their taxes" or otherwise try to avoid paying what they themselves know, or believe, the law requires them to pay. I have no respect and little sympathy for such people and would encourage you to do everything lawfully within your power to collect their alleged liabilities. Undoubtedly, yours is a thankless, difficult, and emotionally stressful job, and, believe it or not, I do respect your honest efforts to do what is right within the context of that job. Please allow me a few moments of your time that I might explain how my actions in respect to the Internal Revenue Service are hardly a game!

Mr. _____, back in <<YEAR>> , I had cause to assist a friend with a tax problem. This led to a long and detailed study of the federal income tax laws and regulations -- literally thousands of hours of reading, phone calls, meetings, and letter writing. The facts, as I now understand them, are so upsetting and outrageous that I simply cannot fail to stand. By the IRS's own figures, there are from 10 to 20 million of us out there -- and growing at a staggering rate. Why? Are we all just tax cheats?

If you will look at the upper right hand corner of any page of my Individual Master File you will see a TC 148. This code indicates that the IRS has classified me as a "tax protester". Yet, if you will consult the Internal Revenue Manual 5431.4 (this section number may have been changed in your latest IRM), not a single one of the IRS definitions of "tax protester" could reasonably be applied to me. So, then, upon what legal or procedural basis am I so classified? Am I simply classified as a "tax protester" arbitrarily, perhaps because the points I am raising are politically sensitive or unpopular? If there is a legal basis upon which I should be classified as a "tax protester", Mr. _____, please communicate that to me.

Mr. _____, I would guess that you know some really fine people who work for the government, some who may work right there with you at the IRS. I would like you to know that some of the most honest, hard working, intelligent, and highly principled people I have met in my fifty years of living are classified by the federal government as "tax protesters". This is an American tragedy, Mr. _____. Good Americans are being pitted against -- in fact, directed to attack and destroy -- other good Americans. This has been justified for several decades by something known as "tax law", allegedly Title 26 United States Code. As former IRS Commissioner Shirley Peterson has publicly stated, the tax code is "incomprehensible, even to professionals in the field" It was a decade or two after World War II before sufficient numbers of Americans were motivated to investigate Title 26 and IRS misapplications of same. What has come out, and continues to come out, is understandably controversial and confusing. How could it be anything else, resulting, after all, from an analysis of laws which are "incomprehensible".

The truth about Title 26 is another American tragedy and I refuse to pass it on to future generations! I profoundly understand how difficult it must be for you to even consider what I have to say to you. Indeed, your livelihood, self-respect, sense of decency and even your world view may seem threatened by the facts in this matter. Nonetheless, you are a man, a husband, a father and an American far ahead of being a government employee. Some argue that the law is too sophisticated and complex to be considered, analyzed or even understood by "average" people. I disagree, but if this were true, who would we "average" people be left at the mercy of -- lawyers, politicians and government agencies? Mr. _____, I will cite just a few points of law and procedure for you to consider. One does not need to be Harvard educated to grasp the significance of these points and their critical and disturbing nature.

In the middle ages, people were imprisoned or executed for publicly contending that the earth was round. In the 1950's I can vividly remember my father telling me that man would never walk on the moon because God didn't want him to. So, it is not the least surprising that people would generally believe there just has to be a code section which imposes a liability for the payment of "income taxes" and the filing of "1040 returns" upon Americans living and working in the fifty states. If there were not, the millions of C.P.A.'s and tax attorneys in this country (who, by the way, earn their substantial livelihoods from the tax code) certainly would have long ago exposed the truth, right? Hardly.

That is the key word, Mr. _____ -- "truth". The only reason I am taking all this time to communicate with you is my continued belief that you, and others who may read this letter, may be quite decent and willing to accept and act upon the truth once it is clearly communicated. It is extremely difficult to consider, much less accept, information which threatens or invalidates ideas taken for granted since childhood. Because of this, I have gone to great lengths to communicate with the government at many levels, hoping to receive answers to these horrible questions. I have written dozens of letters to people who should have the answers-- the Secretary of the Treasury, the Commissioner of the IRS, two presidents, three congressmen, two senators, many IRS personnel, and others. I have met personally with several accountants, tax attorneys, and other legal professionals. Mr. _____, none of these people have been able or willing to answer the profoundly disturbing questions I have put to them. Many of these people were not even willing to make an effort to answer in any form whatsoever. Why is this? Would you be kind enough to respond?

Mr. _____, I rely upon my own extensive study of the tax laws, the opinions of many professionals in the field, as well as the stonewalling lack of response from representatives of the United States government, whom all reasonable people would expect to have the answers at their fingertips, when I tell you that I am absolutely not a "taxpayer" as that term is defined in 26 U.S.C.. The alleged liabilities which you are seeking to collect from me have been concocted through gross misapplication of internal revenue laws. I simply have no such liabilities, Mr. _____, as hard as that may seem to believe. If you are interested in why I hold this view, I will be happy to arrange to meet with you and spend as much time as it takes to show you the proof. It is voluminous, staggering and, I would even say, revolting.

The _____ District Office was kind enough to provide to me, pursuant to Title 5 C.F.R. § 293.311, your name, job title and an extensive position description. It indicates that you are classified as a GS-1169-12 Revenue Officer. It further informs me on page 2, in the last paragraph of Section 1, that you are required to possess a "broad, in-depth knowledge of applicable portions of the Internal Revenue Code" On page 3, Section 5, paragraph 2, I am notified that you are "responsible for providing courteous, fair, prompt, accurate and thorough service" I notice the words "lawfully correct" are not included, but perhaps these are inferred in the use of the words "accurate and thorough". One would hope so, and I am sure you personally would be very reluctant to carry out activities which you suspected as being in violation of law or lacking authority of law.

Now, with regard to your own conduct in investigating me and my personal affairs, I would refer you to 26 U.S.C. §7608(a). It is clear from this section that Revenue Enforcement Officers have authority for enforcement of Subtitle E and other laws pertaining to liquor, tobacco and firearms. Is it your contention that I have tax liabilities pertaining to 26 U.S.C. Subtitle E? If so, please provide me with evidence of my involvement with revenue taxable activities pertaining to liquor, tobacco or firearms. I have, on more than one occasion, informed the IRS that I have never had any such involvement. Other than 7608(a), I can find no code section that would authorize you, as a Revenue Officer, to investigate alleged tax liabilities pertaining to myself or anyone else. Based upon your in-depth knowledge of the applicable portions of the Internal Revenue Code, can you provide me with such a section from 26 U.S.C.? I would appreciate a prompt and thorough response to these questions.

If you are alleging that I have tax liabilities relating to Internal Revenue laws other than Subtitle E, refer to 7608(b). According to this section entitled "Enforcement of Laws Relating to Internal Revenue Other Than Subtitle E": "Any criminal investigator of the Intelligence Division ... is, in the performance of his duties, authorized ...", and so forth. Mr. _____, is the position description provided by the District Office in error? Are you a "criminal investigator"? If you are a criminal investigator, I would refer you to Internal Revenue Manual 1132.75 (12-21-87) (You may need to find this under an updated section in your latest IRM.) According to this section of the Internal Revenue Manual, "The Criminal Investigation Division enforces the criminal statute ... involving United States citizens residing in foreign countries and nonresident aliens subject to Federal income tax filing requirements" If you are a criminal investigator, is it your contention that I am a U.S. citizen per 8 U.S.C. §1401 living abroad or a nonresident alien having a filing requirement? If so, may I please hear from you as soon as possible.

26 U.S.C. §7214(a) clearly imposes substantial penalties (up to $10,000.00 or up to 5 years in prison) upon any Revenue Officer who "is guilty of willful oppression under color of law", "knowingly demands other or greater sums than are authorized by law", or "attempts to collect ... except as expressly authorized by law so to do." Thus, it appears that you are operating under extremely strict and serious legal constraints. To misunderstand and thereby abuse your lawful authority would be to subject yourself to devastating repercussions. In the event you feel that I am citing this for the purpose of intimidating you, allow me to reassure you that such is not the case. Are you aware of any IRS employees who have been fined or prosecuted under 7214(a)? I'll bet not. In fact, some of the more "seasoned" agents and RO's may reassure you to just "do what you're told ... do what it takes and you'll have no problem ... let the IRS Counsel, the U.S. Attorney and the courts worry about the law ... these 'tax protesters' lose all the time", etc. If such an irresponsible and arrogant attitude is exhibited, how could it come to be and what would support it?

Attached to this letter is an excerpt from Treasury/IRS 46.002, Privacy Act of 1974 Resource Document #6372. According to this document the Criminal Investigation Division of the IRS maintains files on all U.S. District Court Judges. This appears to be a flagrant Constitutional violation in that the Executive Branch of government is clearly seeking to intimidate the Judicial Branch. What could possibly justify this? How could this possibly be seen as helpful in the honest application and execution of the law?

What we have here is a combination of government employees such as yourself, having a very stressful and difficult job to do, a body of law that a former IRS Commissioner has described as "incomprehensible", millions of people who find themselves victimized by that incomprehensible law, startling revelations of unauthorized and even unlawful actions by the IRS, and a court system which is provably compromised and demonstrably corrupted, largely through political intimidation. Mr. _____, would you not agree that this is a formula for disaster? Do you suppose this has any bearing on the fact that the majority of this year's contenders for the Presidency are calling for the abolition of the IRS, if not the entire so-called "income tax". The cat is out of the bag, Mr. _____, and, may God help us all, it is ugly! You can rest assured the politicians are trying desperately to shove this cat back into the bag before the American people get a good look at it.

Meanwhile, Mr. _____, let's look just a bit further ourselves. A logical place to search for suspected legal obligations or liabilities would be the United States Code Annotated. Go to the index and look up "Citizenship", a logical place to reference laws that would apply to citizens. This entire section contains only one code section from Title 26 -- 26 U.S.C. §2501, Gift tax. This is odd. Well, insofar as most people assume themselves to be "United States citizens" who are liable for the payment of the "income tax", let us next look under the heading "Income Tax" and go through that section until we come to the subheading "Citizens". Again, this appears to be confusing as the only code sections listed for "Income Tax - Citizens" are 26 U.S.C. 6851 (About to depart U.S. ...) and 26 U.S.C. 911 (Living abroad ...). Why are the code sections which would impose liabilities for the payment of "income taxes" and requirements for the filing of "1040 returns" not to be found in the United States Code Annotated? Could I have your comments, Mr. _____?

Of great interest is the entry under "Income Tax Aliens". It says, "this index." So, we look up "Aliens" in the index, and, lo and behold, what do we find but almost nine full pages of code sections under the subheading "Income Tax", covering such topics as "Deductions", "Exemptions", "Gross Income", "Joint Returns", and "Withholding of Tax". Good grief, Mr. _____! Now it would appear that the United States government is either very zealous in apprising aliens of their legal duties or negligent in doing the same for its citizens. Or, ... someone has given reams of bad information to the IRS, which it has been diligently printing in its publications and circulars for several decades. If you have an explanation for this, please do share it with me.

In my study of the tax code, I find the word "liable" used clearly and specifically in Sections 4401(c), 5505(a), 5703(a) and 1461, which create unmistakable liabilities for wagering tax, distilled spirits tax, tobacco tax, and "income" tax, respectively. Section 1461 is the only section in the IR Code imposing a liability for payment of "income" tax. That section applies to withholding agents only (those required by 1441 to deduct and withhold from payments of "income" owed to foreign persons). Mr. _____, based upon your in-depth knowledge of the Internal Revenue Code, are you able to provide me with the code section that clearly and unequivocally imposes upon me a liability for payment of certain taxes, such liability having been alleged by you both on the telephone and on the "Notice of Levy" forms which you executed? If you cannot provide an answer to this question, then, just man to man, can you give me any justification for your continued attempts to "collect" my "alleged liabilities"? Do you understand the importance of this question, in light of the foregoing remarks about 7214 and the tragic consequences when indifference to the law is fostered, even encouraged. In this case, oddly enough, all that is required is to read the law, do what it says and do not do what it does not say!

Mr. _____, I would like to quote for you from Notice 609, which I have received from the Internal Revenue Service on more than one occasion. It reads, in pertinent part, "Our legal right to ask for information is Internal Revenue Code sections 6001, 6011, and 6012(a), and their regulations. They say that you must file a return or statement with us for any tax you are liable for." (emphasis mine) The United States Supreme Court has clearly ruled that one may rely on official representations by the government with respect to the law. Mr. _____, I have repeatedly asked United States government officials, including the Internal Revenue Service, to simply provide for me some evidence of "any tax [I am] liable for". They have failed to provide such evidence; hence, I cannot possibly have any legal duty to file any returns or statements.

In the same vein, a carefully study and comparison of 26 U.S.C. §441(a) & (b) , 26 U.S.C. §6012(a)(1) and 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(14) will easily reveal that without a specific law which would make a "person" "subject to" or "liable for the payment of" a particular internal revenue tax, it is virtually impossible to be a "Taxpayer", have "Taxable Income" or a "Taxable Year". One can, of course, voluntarily or ignorantly file a return and make therein, under penalties of perjury, what amounts to a declaration of "taxpayer" status. At that point, the IRS may argue that it is simply relying on the "taxpayer's" own representation as to his or her status, and proceed accordingly. However, moral decency, if not legal duty, would seem to compel any public servant charged with the responsibility of possessing a "broad, in-depth knowledge ... of the Internal Revenue Code" to notify a member of the public who apparently had improperly identified himself as a "taxpayer", would you not agree? Mr. _____, based upon your recent activities, it appears you are acting on the assumption that I am a "taxpayer" who has "delinquent tax liabilities". I hereby request that you provide for me a legal basis, from Title 26 United States Code and its implementing regulations, for this assumption on your part. Absent such legal basis, your attempts at collection amount to little more than extortion under color of law -- indeed, a flagrant violation of 26 U.S.C. 7214. If you are unmoved by this line of thought, then would you please explain to me, man to man, how you justify your behavior before the law, before God or, for that matter, before your own conscience?

As another point of interest I would invite you to investigate the definition of "STATE" and "UNITED STATES" as found in Title 26 U.S.C. §7701(a). This is the definition which must apply in Subtitle A Part 1 Income Tax, as no other definition for "STATE" or "UNITED STATES" is offered in Subtitle A Part 1. Compare this definition to what is offered in 4612(a) Subtitle D Excise Taxes -- Tax on Petroleum. Why are the definitions different? Why are "the 50 States" not mentioned in the definition of "STATE" or "UNITED STATES" which would apply to the "Income Tax"?

How does anyone determine to whom the law applies when it is unclear of which "United States" a "person" is a "citizen"? How do you make that determination, Mr. _____?

As the Internal Revenue Service has assisted you in obtaining your broad, in-depth knowledge of the Internal Revenue Code, were you shown the definition of "income" as it evolved from the 1939 Code to the 1954 Code to the 1980 Code to the present day Code? As you are aware, the Code provides footnotes which chronicle the additions, deletions, and changes in each new Code. It is interesting to look back and see how the writers of the 1980 Code, having cleverly twisted the meaning of "income", then conveniently deleted the 1954 Code reference to the 1939 Code which stated that the definition was "substantially unchanged". You see, Mr. _____, the 1939 Code makes it quite clear that "income" is not salaries, wages, etc., but, instead, is derived from those sources. In fact, "income" was and continues to be what the U.S. Supreme Court last ruled it to be and what several U.S. District Courts continue to rule to this day -- a corporate profit, the tool for measuring the excise tax liabilities of persons (artificial entities) engaged in occupations or activities under privilege granted by the government. It is, of course, absurd to argue that the common man's right to live and support himself amounts to a government privilege. Study the case of Mr. Lloyd Long of Tennessee whose jury seems to have agreed with this analysis. For your convenience, I have attached an article about his case.

To prove my point about the "income tax" being an excise tax, you can simply access the AIMS or AMDIS files for any number of alleged "taxpayers". You will find that the IRS has, in many instances, fraudulently coded people as being involved in "revenue taxable activities" such as firearms or alcohol production, agriculture, manufacture of tobacco, certain insurance activities, and other activities subject to an excise-- all with no basis in reality whatsoever! Some people are even coded as "no return required". After checking the coding in the AIMS and AMDIS files, cross-check the tax returns of the individuals to prove to yourself that the reported "income" of these people is rarely, if ever, related to the activities coded in their files! After a number of brave and diligent Americans discovered and exposed this situation, the IRS has suddenly begun refusing to provide certain people with copies of AIMS or AMDIS files lawfully requested under the Freedom of Information Act, apparently choosing instead to dare these people to sue the IRS in Federal District Court -- a futile waste of time, as explained previously.

As a matter of fact, Mr. _____, I am one of the people whose lawful request for an AIMS/AMDIS printout has repeatedly been ignored. I might recommend that you study my AIMS and AMDIS files yourself to assist you in a proper understanding of this matter. If you are not in a position to provide me with copies of my AIMS/AMDIS files, would you please tell me in which revenue taxable activity the IRS alleges me to be involved. Believe me, I will let you know immediately if the IRS is correct!

The acquittal of Mr. Lloyd Long in his "willful failure to file" case is not unique at all in the last decade. You might look up cases involving Ray and Dixie Powell of the Puget Sound area, the Hardy brothers as well as a Danny Hashimoto in Hawaii, Franklin Sanders and 17 other people in a huge case in Tennessee, and Gabe Scott of Alaska. In Mr. Scott's trial, the jury was so outraged by what Mr. Scott presented in his defense, ten of the twelve jurors swore they would never file another tax return! The other two were appalled but would continue to file out of fear of the IRS. Then there is the case of the IRS attempt to smash the Save A Patriot Fellowship in Maryland and indict its fiduciary, Mr. John Kotmair. After Mr. Kotmair's presentation to the Grand Jury, the U.S. Attorney was so humiliated by the devastating evidence presented by Mr. Kotmair with respect to misapplication of the law by the Internal Revenue Service that he personally apologized to Mr. Kotmair.

Mr. _____, I have no way of knowing the extent of your personal knowledge in these matters. It is my hope that you simply are unaware, and that, as you become aware, you will do all in your power to resist that which is corrupt and unlawful. In the meantime, I have abundant knowledge and evidence of misapplication of law, indefensible abuses of due process, and, in some cases, outright criminal behavior on the part of the IRS, the U.S Justice Department and both the state and federal courts. The fruits of this government tyranny include nervous breakdowns, divorces, broken families, suicides, ruined careers and businesses, and even the incarceration of the most patriotic, honest and hard working Americans -- including elderly folks, war veterans and women. Americans are destroying each other in the name of a law which a former Commissioner of the IRS has branded "incomprehensible".

Mr. _____, I believe that law should be plain and easily understood by the people to whom it applies. I also believe that government must obey the laws according to such intent as is clearly expressed by the framers of the law -- the representatives of the people. To allow government agencies to just "do what it takes", in spite of the clear intent of the law or because the law itself has been made incomprehensible, is to abandon honesty, to act cowardly, and to betray future generations into a state of helplessness and hopelessness at the mercy of unrestrained government and a system of law which is arbitrary, incomprehensible and largely misapplied or ignored. I would not be taking the time to express these things to you if I did not respect you as a fellow human being who must, as I, also live by some set of values. If you do not agree with any of what I have just expressed, then I have at least made yet another good faith attempt to communicate with the government, and you will simply be added to the list of people whom I will need to subpoena should the government ever damage me and draw me into any civil or criminal action. If, on the other hand, you find yourself in some agreement with portions of what I have expressed, then I would implore you to suspend your disbelief just long enough to diligently investigate these matters. I can assure you that I will give careful consideration to any sincere response you would communicate to me.

In the past, Mr. _____, representatives of the IRS have tried to dismiss or evade communications such as this by accusing me of wanting to "debate the law" and informing me that the IRS does not engage in such debates because "all these issues have been decided by the courts" -- or some such reasoning. All of that, of course, is irresponsible nonsense and pure evasion. I have offered observations about the law and commented upon what appear to me to be misapplications of the law. I have also asked questions which I believe should seem reasonable and relatively simple for those people occupying positions which require a "broad, in-depth knowledge of the Internal Revenue Code." This hardly constitutes "debating". Neither does it constitute "playing games", as, by now, I hope you are aware, Mr. _____.

1 Finally, Mr. _____, I would like to make another small request of you, which has been courteously complied with
2 by other IRS employees in the past. In the future, when you need to contact me, please use my correct mailing address,
3 which is shown at the top of this letter. The address on your recent envelope is not a good address for me and may delay or
4 prevent my responding to your communication. As I assured you by telephone on <<DATE>>, I will be happy to respond
5 appropriately to your concerns, in a timely manner, providing I receive such communications at the proper address where I
6 receive my mail. Your courteous consideration will be appreciated.

7 Sincerely,

8 [An American Inhabitant]

1 UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE DISTRICT OF _____

2 CASE NO: _____

3 Plaintiff:

<<PRO SE NAME>>.,

v.

Defendant:

PLAINTIFF'S OBJECTION TO DEFENDANT'S MOTION TO EXTEND TIME TO RESPOND TO COMPLAINT.

INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE,
UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT
DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY

4 Plaintiff prays that the Court deny defendant's request for an extension of time to respond to his complaint, on the following
5 grounds:

6 a) Requests for extension of time are normally made in circumstances where the party experiences a genuine emergency,
7 such as accident, injury, illness, giving birth, unexpected relocation, employment problem, and so on.

8 b) Defendant has not experienced any such genuine emergency, but merely desires an extension 'in order to submit a more 9 thorough response".

10 c) Defendant is the most powerful secular entity on this planet, having financial and material resources far greater than that 11 of plaintiff, including enormous wealth and an entire staff of attorneys dedicated to defending tax complaints. These 12 resources already give defendant an immense advantage over plaintiff, who is an individual representing himself.

13 d) Under federal regulations, defendant already has twice the time (60 days) of that allowed an individual (30 days) in 14 which to answer a complaint, which further increases defendant's advantage.

15 e) Plaintiff argues that defendant has had enough time to prepare its answer, and that it has not shown a sufficiently good 16 cause or compelling reason why an extension of time should be granted.

17 f) Plaintiff argues that defendant already has an immense advantage, and that it would be blatantly unjust to further increase 18 its advantage by granting an extension of time.

19 g) Plaintiff argues that if extensions of time were granted to all defendants 'in order to prepare a more thorough response',
20 the judicial system would grind to a halt, hence it is contrary to the administration of justice to encourage this type of 21 frivolous behavior.

Plaintiff:

REQUEST FOR ADMISSIONS

<<PRO SE NAME>>,

v.

SET ONE

Defendant:

INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE,
UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT
DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY

3 REQUEST FOR ADMISSIONS, SET ONE, ARE HEREBY PROPOUNDED TO:

4 Internal Revenue Service, United States Government Department of the Treasury (Defendant),

5 by _____ (Plaintiff).

6 To Defendant Internal Revenue Service, you are hereby requested to admit the truthfulness of each and every statement or 7 allegation set forth below, and to do so within 30 days of the receipt of this request.

8 EACH OF THE FOLLOWING STATEMENTS OR ALLEGATIONS IS TRUE:

9 1. Defendant admits that section 20:123 of the Internal Revenue Manual states:

10 "Taxpayers in the United States assess their tax liabilities against themselves and pay them voluntarily. This 11 system of assessment and payment is based on the principle of voluntary compliance."

12 2. Defendant admits that Federal Tax Regulations 601.601, 601.602, and the 1974 IRS Mission Statement affirm that the 13 federal income tax system is based on voluntary compliance with respect to an individual.

14 3. Defendant admits that the statement:

15 "Our system of taxation is based on voluntary assessment and payment, not upon distraint.", which was made by the US
16 Supreme Court in Flora v. United States (1960), is true and correct.

17 4. Defendant admits that the statement:

18 "Your income tax is 100 percent voluntary tax, and your liquor tax is 100 percent enforced tax.",

19 which was made by Dwight E. Avis (Head of the Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Division) before the House Ways and Means 20 Committee on Restructuring the Bureau of Internal Revenue (83rd Congress, 1953), is true and correct.

21 5. Defendant admits that the above statement of Dwight E. Avis:

22 "Your income tax is 100 percent voluntary.",

23 implies that the entire federal income tax system is based on voluntary compliance with respect to an individual.

24 6. Defendant admits that the entire income tax system is based on voluntary compliance with respect to an individual.

25 7. Defendant admits that the principle of voluntary compliance forms the foundation of the entire federal income tax system
26 as outlined by the Federal Tax Regulations, Internal Revenue Code, and Internal Revenue Manual, and is not a subordinate 27 or conditional rule or regulation.

8. Defendant admits that there are no rules and regulations contained in the Federal Tax Regulations, Internal Revenue Code, and Internal Revenue Manual, that are explicitly stated as being exempt or otherwise excluded from voluntary compliance by an individual.

9. Defendant admits that the filing of a federal income tax return by an individual is based on voluntary compliance and is therefore voluntary.

10. Defendant admits that the payment of federal income tax by an individual is based on voluntary compliance and is therefore voluntary.

11. Defendant admits that the official IRS Internet web site makes the following statement (<http://www.irs.ustreas.gov/prod/search/index.html>):

"Some days, finding your socks can be a real challenge. But putting your finger on a certain bit of information can be an even tougher task. That's why we're here to help you uncover those cumbersome layers and get right to the heart of the matter. Just enter your query below and select the 'Search' button to begin your pursuit. . . Things are looking brighter already!"

12. Defendant admits that the above-mentioned IRS web site search engine (<http://www.irs.ustreas.gov/prod/taxi/taxterms.html#V>) gives the following explanation of the term "voluntary compliance" in document #79 (Tax Terms):

VOLUNTARY COMPLIANCE

"Your mom might order you to clean up your room. Well, the IRS doesn't have time to tell every single taxpayer to file taxes correctly and on time . . . there are millions of taxpayers in the country after all. This system relies on citizens to report their income, calculate tax liability and file tax returns on time. Everyone's gotta grow up sometime."

13. Defendant admits that the above-mentioned explanation of voluntary compliance is false and misleading because it does not address or discuss the term "voluntary" or the concept of "voluntary".

14. Defendant admits that it has not published a logical definition of the term "voluntary compliance" based on standard American English.

15. Defendant admits that it is unable to produce a logical definition of the term "voluntary compliance" based on standard American English.

16. Defendant admits that it is unwilling to produce a logical definition of the term "voluntary compliance" based on standard American English.

17. Defendant admits that it has not published a legally precise definition of the term "voluntary compliance".

18. Defendant admits that it is unable to produce a legally precise definition of the term "voluntary compliance".

19. Defendant admits that it is unwilling to produce a legally precise definition of the term "voluntary compliance".

20. Defendant admits that Webster's Third New International Dictionary (exhibit attached) is correct in making the following statements in its definition of "voluntary":

"Acting or done without any present legal obligation to the thing done or any such obligation that can accrue from the current state of affairs; produced in or by an act of choice; voluntary implies freedom from any compulsion that could constrain one's choice."

21. Defendant admits that Chambers English Dictionary (exhibit attached) is correct in making the following statements in its definition of "voluntary":

"Acting by choice; done or made without compulsion or legal obligation."

22. Defendant admits that the New Shorter Oxford English Dictionary (exhibit attached) is correct in making the following statements in its definition of "voluntary":

"Left to choice, not required or imposed, optional; not prompted by a promise or threat; unforced, unconstrained; freely chosen or undertaken."

23. Defendant admits that Black's Law Dictionary (exhibit attached) is correct in making the following statements in its definition of "voluntary":

"Unconstrained by interference; unimpelled by another's influence. Proceeding from the free and unrestrained will of the person. Done by design or intention. Produced in or by an act of choice. Resulting from free choice, without compulsion or solicitation."

24. Defendant admits that Corpus Juris Secundum is correct in making the statements cited in section 23 of Plaintiff's complaint in its definition of "voluntary", including the following statements:

Acting by choice; without compulsion. The doing of something which a person is free to do or not to do, as he so decides. Unconstrained by external interference, influence, or force. Not compelled, prompted, or persuaded. Acting, or done, without any present legal obligation to do the thing done.

25. Defendant admits that Black's Law Dictionary (exhibit attached) is correct in making the following definition of "compliance":

"Submission; obedience; conformance."

26. Defendant admits that the definition of "compliance" by Black's Law Dictionary (supra) is sufficient to understand the meaning of "compliance".

27. Defendant admits that according to the above-mentioned statements defining the word "voluntary", an individual cannot be forced or otherwise compelled to perform a voluntary action.

28. Defendant admits that according to the above-mentioned statements defining the word "voluntary", an individual has no legal obligation to perform a voluntary action.

29. Defendant admits that according to the above-mentioned statements defining the word "voluntary", since an individual has no legal obligation to perform a voluntary action, he or she cannot be legally forced or otherwise compelled to perform a voluntary action.

30. Defendant admits that according to the above-mentioned statements defining the word "voluntary", an individual has no legal obligation to voluntarily comply with the federal income tax system.

31. Defendant admits that the statements defining "voluntary" made in sections 20, 21, 22, 23, 24 (supra) are true and correct.

33. Defendant admits that an individual has no legal obligation to perform a voluntary action, and therefore cannot be legally forced or otherwise compelled to perform a voluntary action.

34. Defendant admits that an individual has no legal obligation to comply with the federal income tax system.

36. Defendant admits that since the federal income tax system is based on voluntary compliance, the IRS cannot legally force or otherwise compel an individual to file a federal income tax return.

37. Defendant admits that since the federal income tax system is based on voluntary compliance, the IRS cannot legally force or otherwise compel an individual to pay federal income tax.

1 38. Defendant admits that it compelled payment of federal income tax under protest from the sale of Plaintiff's home, as
2 cited in his complaint, by means of an involuntary federal tax lien.

3 39. Defendant admits that since an individual cannot be legally forced or otherwise compelled to perform a voluntary
4 action, the IRS acted unlawfully by compelling payment of federal income tax under protest from the sale of Plaintiff's
5 home, by means of an involuntary federal tax lien.

This letter is to be sent to the IRS to secure assessment certificates and supporting documents for the assessment of property against which the IRS intends to attach a lien or levy. Oftentimes, the IRS will threaten or appear to execute a levy (a façade) against your property without evidence of its value or that its value might satisfy a tax judgment against you, and this document helps prevent such intimidation tactics.

Dear Assessment Officer:

This request is being made under authority of 26 C.F.R. §301.6203-1, which states that, "If the taxpayer requests a copy of the record of assessment, he shall be furnished a copy of the pertinent parts of the assessment which set forth the name of the taxpayer, the date of assessment, the character of the liability assessed, the taxable period, if applicable, and the amounts assessed," and the Privacy Act at 5 U.S.C. §552a for support documents for assessment certificates.

For calendar years ending December 31, 200X through 200X, please send the following:

1. Procedurally proper assessment certificates for the principal for each class of tax assessed;
2. Procedurally proper assessment certificates for the interest for each class of tax assessed;
3. Procedurally proper assessment certificates for the penalty for each class of tax assessed;
4. Any and all jeopardy assessments;
5. Any and all deficiency assessments;
6. Procedurally proper non-tax penalty assessments for such things as frivolous filing, etc.;
7. Procedurally proper assessments for non-tax penalty interest;
8. Support documents for each assessment.

If classified, you may redact information on each assessment certificate not required to be disclosed by 26 C.F.R. §301.6203-1 other than the assessment officer signature, certification and date of execution.

The documents and/or the response letter you send will be used in administrative and/or judicial due process forums. Therefore, please certify all documents with the Form 2866 Certificate of Official Record, or in the event there are no assessments for any given calendar year specified above, certify your response with the Form 3050 Certificate of Lack of Records. You have my firm promise that on your billing, I will pay the cost of certification and a sum of up to $50.00 for photocopying documents that exceed the number provided free. The documents being requested are for my own use.

I am enclosing exhibits listed above in order to eliminate unnecessary dicta. The current edition of the Internal Revenue Manual posted on the Internal Revenue Service web page verifies the necessity of procedurally proper assessments for seven of the eight classes of tax administered by the Internal Revenue Service. Item #2 for each class stipulates, "All penalty [or principal or interest] assessments must be recorded on summary Records of Assessment (Assessment Certificate). The Assessment Certificate is the legal document that permits collection activity."

Radinsky v. United States of America and United States of America v. Miller address the necessity of procedurally proper assessment certificates sufficiently to resolve any question concerning the lawful requirement for assessment certificates. Do not send documents other than actual assessment certificates and support documents as computer-generated compilations and other secondary documents are merely presumptive evidence where only procedurally proper assessment certificates constitute conclusive evidence of liability.

At § 3.17.46.2.4(1), the Internal Revenue Manual provides the following definition: "Assessment Certificate: To impose a tax as authorized by the Internal Revenue Code, Assessments are supported by a summary record of assessment signed by an appointed assessment officer." At § 3.17.46.2.4(1), the I.R.M. further specifies that, "All assessments must be certified by signature of an authorized official on the Summary Record of Assessment (Form 23C, Assessment Certificate-Summary Record of Assessments). A signed Summary Record of Assessment authorizes issuance of notice and other collection actions (refer to IRC Regulations 301.6203-1)."

At § 1.(1.3) 6.2, Item 1, the I.R.M. specifies that, "Any member of the public may request certification of a document."

Please send the requested documents, or certification that requested documents do not exist, within a reasonable period of twenty calendar days from the date of this letter.

Your assistance is appreciated.

My name and Social Security number are set out above for your convenience, and I am having this request notarized for positive identification that meets criteria of state law, Federal Rules of Civil Procedure & 31 C.F.R. Pt. 1, App. B of Subpt. C. The documents being requested are for personal use. On your billing, you have my firm promise to pay an amount up to $50.00 for the cost of certifying documents and for photocopying costs in excess of the amount provided free.

Therefore, please certify all documents with the Form 2866 Certificate of Official Record, or in the event there are no documents or other information responsive to the request for any given calendar year specified above, certify your response with the Form 3050 Certificate of Lack of Records.

Per the Notice of Systems published November 9, 1995 in the Federal Register (60 F.R. 56790 et seq.), Treasury/IRS systems 26.009 (lien files) & 26.011 (litigation case files) are kept in the district office under control of the district director of an internal revenue district. Where information contained in litigation case files is concerned, I am interested only in and am entitled to litigation initiated by the Internal Revenue Service, the U.S. Attorney for the district, or the Department of Justice. Per 31 C.F.R. § 1.36(b), actual litigation documents and the following information are not exempt from release:

The manual records consist of copies of pleadings, investigative reports, information compiled in reasonable anticipation of a civil action or proceeding, legal memoranda, and related correspondence. Pleadings which have been filed with a court or administrative tribunal are matters of public record and no exemption is claimed as to them. The computerized part of the system contains summary data on Treasury Department non-tax litigation and administrative proceedings, e.g., plaintiff, defendant, attorney, witness, judge and/or hearing officer names, type of case, relief sought, date, docket number, pertinent dates, and issues.

The request for litigation-related material that might be in System 26.011 includes all documents and computer-based information specified in the above paragraph. I am specifically interested in documents and related information that established a judgment lien or liens in compliance with procedure consistent with requirements of Chapter 176 of Title 28, particularly 28 U.S.C. §3201.

The request for original lien documents does not include notices of lien (26 U.S.C. §6323(f)). The request is for original liens predicated on the antecedent assessment certificate executed in compliance with 26 C.F.R. §301.6203-1.

Per 31 C.F.R. Pt. 1, App. B to Subpt. C § 3(e)(ii), you may have a period of 30 days, excluding weekends and legal holidays, to provide certified copies of the requested documents and other information, or certification that there are no such documents and information in the systems of records specified.

The specific requests follow:

1. From Treasury/IRS records system 26.009, please provide certified copies of all original lien documents predicated on procedurally proper assessments specifically identifying me in accordance with requirements of 26

C.F.R. §301.6203-1 executed for calendar years ending _____ through _____. In the alternative, certify your response informing me that original liens do not exist.

2. From Treasury/IRS records system 26.011, please provide certified copies of all petitions, pleadings, judgments and orders specifically naming me, with related computer-based information, for alleged tax liabilities for calendar years ending _____ through _____. In the alternative, certify your response informing me that the Internal Revenue Service, the U.S. Attorney for the district, and the Department of Justice did not initiate civil litigation against me for collection of tax for the years specified.

The requested documents and additional materials constitute exculpatory evidence necessary to resolve controversy arising under the Constitution and laws of the United States. Your timely assistance with this matter is appreciated.

Dear Judge _____;

I would like to bring to your attention a fact that I don't think you know about. Please notice on the back side of the enclosed flier that the IRS Criminal Division keeps a file on you and that you cannot get to this system of records to find out if you are even on the IRS's files.

You will note that the IRS uses this file for personal and financial information. Does this mean if you don't rule in favor of the IRS that a record is added to your file? I contend it does. How many negative entries into this file does it take before the IRS takes some kind of action against you? Only the IRS knows the answer to this.

My concern is that if I ever come before you in an IRS criminal matter, say tax evasion, or an IRS civil matter, that you will be prejudiced against me and in favor of the IRS because you now know that the IRS is keeping a file on you. See Peters v. Kiff, 407 U.S. 493 at 502 (1971) - Excerpt on the back of the flier. What chance would I have in your courtroom with these facts now in front of you?

You could ask a U.S. Attorney if he could find out about the records in your file, but you will notice that there is a file on him also. So, arguendo, if the IRS proceeds with a criminal or civil charge against me, I also worry that the Attorney's office will not follow the law and do anything and everything in their bag of tricks to convict me although a prosecutor is suppose to first make sure that I did, in fact, break a law.

In 1923, Homer S. Cummings said:

"The primary duty of a lawyer exercising the office of public prosecutor is not to convict, but to insure that justice is done."

If you would please take the time to respond to this very important concern that I have, I would appreciate it.

Sincerely,

ORAL ARGUMENT NOT REQUESTED

1: STATEMENT OF JURISDICTION

Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §1346 (a)(1) the District Court has jurisdiction over civil actions for the recovery of 'any internal-revenue tax alleged to have been erroneously or illegally assessed or collected . . .' The judgment appealed from is a final order. This Court has jurisdiction to review the District Court's decision pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §1291. The District Court entered its final judgment on 7/14/00. A Notice of Appeal was filed on 7/18/00 in compliance with Rule 4 of the Federal Rules of Appellate Procedure.

2: STATEMENT OF THE ISSUE PRESENTED FOR REVIEW

The issue before this Court is whether the District Court's judgment is supported by substantial evidence, federal statute, legal precedent, and is free from legal and procedural error. To promote clarity, Plaintiff-Appellant _____ is henceforth referred to as '<<LASTNAME>>', and Defendants-Appellees Internal Revenue Service et al. are referred to as 'IRS'.

3: STATEMENT OF THE CASE

a) Factual Background

Based on explicit statements made in various IRS publications and a US Supreme Court ruling that the federal income tax system is based on voluntary compliance, <<LASTNAME>> wrote to the IRS in 1996 explaining that he had chosen not to comply and would not be paying allegedly overdue income taxes for 1987, 1988, and 1989.

The IRS responded by issuing a federal tax lien against him, which it subsequently satisfied by withholding $14,609.97 under protest from the sale of <<LASTNAME>>'s home. <<LASTNAME>> seeks to recover that sum plus interest and costs. He also seeks a permanent injunction against the IRS.

b) Procedural Background

<<LASTNAME>> filed an appeal of federal tax lien on 8/9/96 and on 9/3/97. Both appeals were ignored. Finally, the IRS notified him on 4/1/98 that his appeals had been disallowed.

<<LASTNAME>> then wrote to the IRS on 2/15/99, 4/7/99, and 6/16/99 requesting a due process hearing. The IRS denied his requests on the grounds that the lien had been satisfied by withholding $14,609.97 from the sale of his home.

<<LASTNAME>> then claimed a refund of the withheld money from the IRS pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §7422 (a). This claim was ignored.

Having exhausted the administrative remedies available to him, <<LASTNAME>> filed suit against the IRS in District Court on 2/28/00 for refund of the withheld money. The case was dismissed with prejudice on 7/13/00.

4: SUMMARY OF THE ARGUMENT

The question before the Court is: 'Does an individual have any legal obligation to perform a voluntary action?' <<LASTNAME>> argues that an individual has no legal obligation whatsoever to perform a voluntary action, hence the IRS had no legal cause to issue the above-mentioned federal tax lien against him and withhold $14,609.97 from the sale of his home.

<<LASTNAME>> also argues that the District Court erred by making a false statement and basing its ruling upon the false statement, by ignoring legal precedent set by the US Supreme Court, by ignoring published statements made by the IRS, by ignoring published testimony by a senior (IRS) official, by ignoring federal statutes, and by violating <<LASTNAME>>'s due process rights to a fair trial.

5: THE ARGUMENT

a) The District Court Erred By Basing Its Ruling On A False Statement.

The District Court's ruling is largely based on the statement: '<<LASTNAME>> contends that the income tax system is based on voluntary compliance.' This statement is false. <<LASTNAME>> does not contend, either in his complaint or in any of his motions, that the income tax system is based on voluntary compliance.

In making this statement, the District Court fails to distinguish between evidence and contention. In his complaint, <<LASTNAME>> simply presents the following published statements, verbatim and without contention, as prima facie evidence provided by the US Government that the income tax system is based on voluntary compliance:

- i) 'The purpose of publishing revenue rulings and revenue procedures in the Internal Revenue Bulletin is to promote correct and uniform application of the tax laws by Internal Revenue Service employees and to assist taxpayers in attaining maximum voluntary compliance.' 26 C.F.R. 601.601

ii) 'The tax system is based on voluntary compliance . . .' 26 C.F.R. 601.602

iii) 'The mission of the Service is to encourage and achieve the highest possible degree of voluntary compliance with the tax laws and regulations and to maintain the highest degree of public confidence in the integrity and efficiency of the Service.' Federal Register, Volume 39, 62 (11572), March 29, 1974

iv) 'Taxpayers in the United States assess their tax liabilities against themselves and pay them voluntarily. This system of assessment and payment is based on the principle of voluntary compliance.' Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.), Sec. 20:123 (7/15/96)

v) 'Of course, the Government can collect the tax from a District Court suitor by exercising its power of distraint if he does not split his action, but we cannot believe that compelling resort to this extraordinary measure is either wise or in accord with congressional intent. Our system of taxation is based upon voluntary assessment and payment, not upon distraint.' Flora v. United States, 362 US 179, 80 S.Ct. 630 (1960)

vi) 'Let me point this out now. Your income tax is 100 percent voluntary tax, and your liquor tax is 100 percent enforced tax. Now the situation is as different as day and night. Consequently, your same rules just will not apply.' Testimony of Dwight E. Avis, Head of the Bureau of Internal Revenue Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Division, given before the House Ways and Means Committee on Restructuring the IRS (83rd Congress, 1953)

<<LASTNAME>> asserts that the IRS is the taxing authority of the United States and must be given the presumption of correctness when it states in the Internal Revenue Manual (supra): 'Taxpayers in the United States assess their tax liabilities against themselves and pay them voluntarily.'

Similarly, since the US Supreme Court is the judicial authority of the United States, it too must be given the presumption of correctness when it states in Flora (supra): 'Our system of taxation is based upon voluntary assessment and payment, not upon distraint.'

The authoritative statements cited above speak for themselves. It is the U.S. Government ~ not <<LASTNAME>> ~ that contends that the income tax system is based on voluntary compliance. It should also be noted that there are no exceptions to voluntary compliance. Hence the District Court erred by stating: '<<LASTNAME>> contends that the income tax system is based on voluntary compliance.'

b) The District Court Erred By Relying On Seriously Flawed Legal Precedent

The District Court also stated:

'<<LASTNAME>>'s primary contention, that the federal income tax system is based on voluntary compliance, has been held to be completely lacking in legal merit and patently frivolous. Lonsdale v. United States, 919 F.2d. 1440, 1448 (10th Cir. 1990) and Wilcox v. Commissioner of the Internal Revenue, 848 F.2d. 1007, 1008 (9th Cir. 1998).'

The ruling: 'that the federal income tax system is based on voluntary compliance, has been held to be completely lacking in legal merit and patently frivolous.' contradicts the federal statutes and the authoritative statements made by the IRS and the US Supreme Court cited above, and is therefore erroneous. Hence the District Court compounded the judicial error by relying on these seriously flawed cases for legal precedent.

c) The IRS Erred By Withholding Money In The Absence Of Legal Obligation.

<<LASTNAME>> contends that an individual has no legal obligation to perform a voluntary action, and hence has no legal obligation to pay federal income tax. This contention is ignored in the District Court's ruling and by the IRS in its response to his complaint. Nevertheless, the correct meaning of the word 'voluntary' forms the crux of his complaint and must be resolved in order that justice may prevail.

The major dictionaries currently in use throughout America include the following statements in their definitions of 'voluntary'. <<LASTNAME>> alleges that neither the Code of Federal Regulations, nor the IRS, nor the US Supreme Court have provided a precise legal definition of the word 'voluntary', hence the following statements should be accepted as authoritative:

Although for legal purposes the word 'voluntary' is considered to be so simple and in such general use that it need not be defined, it has been variously defined as meaning acting by choice, without compulsion; the doing of something which a person is free to do or not to do, as he so decides. . . . without any present legal obligation to do the thing done.' Corpus Juris Secundum (92: 1029, 1030, 1031)

'Acting or done without any present legal obligation to do the thing done, or any such obligation that can accrue from the current state of affairs. Voluntary implies freedom from any compulsion that could constrain one's choice.' Webster's Third New International Dictionary (1993)

'Done or made without compulsion or legal obligation.' Chambers English Dictionary (1988)

'Without legal obligation or consideration.' American Heritage Dictionary (1992)

These sources concur by definitively stating that there is no legal obligation to perform a voluntary action. This concept is supported by case law. In Touli v. Santa Cruz County Title Co., 67 P.2d. 404, 406, 20 Cal. App. 2d 495, the court ruled that a voluntary action is one that is done without any legal obligation to do the thing done.

Similarly, in Tietjen v. Heberlein, 171 P. 928, 54 Mont. 486; Akio Kuwahara v. Acheson, D.C. Cal., 96 F.Supp. 38, 42; Brown v. State, 135 S.E. 765, 766, 36 Ga. App. 84; Coker v. State, 33 S.E. 2d 171, 174, 199 Ga. 20; Perryman v. State, 12 S.E. 2d 288, 391, 63 Ga. App. 819 the courts ruled that a voluntary action is one that is done without compulsion.

As discussed above, the federal statutes, the IRS, and the US Supreme Court state that the income tax system is based on voluntary compliance, without any exceptions. Hence <<LASTNAME>> contends that he did not have any legal obligation to pay income taxes for 1987, 1988, and 1989.

Since he did not have any legal obligation to pay income taxes for those years, the IRS had no legal cause of action against him and erred by withholding allegedly unpaid taxes from the sale of his home.

d) The District Court Erred By Ruling That It Has No Jurisdiction Over This Action.

This case is not a judicial review of an IRS determination, but an action to recover taxes that were erroneously collected. Hence the District Court has jurisdiction pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §1346 (a)(1).

e) The District Court Erred By Ruling That This Action Fails To State A Claim On Which Relief May Be Based.

<<LASTNAME>> has provided conclusive evidence in the form of the US Government's own authoritative statements that the income tax system is based on voluntary compliance, without any exceptions.

He has shown that the IRS and the US Supreme court concur in explicitly stating that the payment of income tax is voluntary.

<<LASTNAME>> has also proven through case law and the definitive use of the English language that an individual has no legal obligation to perform a voluntary action, and that the IRS therefore had no legal cause to issue a federal tax lien against him.

Hence it follows that the IRS erroneously collected the sum of $14,609.97 from the sale of his home, and that <<LASTNAME>> is entitled to claim a refund.

f) The District Court Erred By Depriving <<LASTNAME>> Of His Due Process Rights.

The pre-trial filing deadline in this case was 7/27/00. However, the District Court issued its ruling on 7/13/00 without giving <<LASTNAME>> prior notice, thereby depriving him of his due process right to file his Motion in Opposition to the IRS's Motion for Dismissal.

Furthermore, the District Court issued its ruling without granting <<LASTNAME>> a hearing, depriving him of his due process right to a fair trial.

6: CONCLUSION

The Code of Federal Regulations explicitly states at 26 C.F.R. 601.601 and 601.602 that the income tax system is based on voluntary compliance. The IRS explicitly states in the Internal Revenue Manual Sec. 20:123 that the payment of income tax is voluntary. Since the Code of Federal Regulations is the statutory authority of the United States and the IRS is the taxing authority of the United States, these statements should be accepted as true and correct.

Similarly, the US Supreme Court in Flora ruled that the income tax system is based on voluntary compliance. Since the US Supreme Court is the judicial authority of the United States, this ruling should be accepted as true and correct.

<<LASTNAME>> alleges that there are no federal statutes that mandate taxation of domestic income earned by American citizens and resident aliens, which is presumably why the income tax system is based on voluntary compliance. If this allegation is incorrect, he challenges the IRS to produce the federal statutes in its reply to his brief.

Resolution of this matter hinges on the fact that an individual has no legal obligation to perform a voluntary action. Since the income tax system is based on voluntary compliance, <<LASTNAME>> had no legal obligation to pay income taxes for 200X, 200X, and 200X. Hence the IRS had no legal cause of action and erroneously withheld $_____ from the sale of his home.

Regarding <<LASTNAME>>'s request for an injunction against the IRS, the US Supreme Court has made an exception to the Anti-Injunction Act if it is clear that the US Government cannot prevail under any circumstances. Enochs v. Williams Packing & Navigation Co., 370 U.S. 1,7 (1962).

As noted above, the Code of Federal Regulations, the IRS, and the US Supreme Court all state that the income tax system is based on voluntary compliance, without any exceptions. Hence the IRS has no legal cause of action against <<LASTNAME>> and can never prevail against him. His request for an injunction is in accord with the US Supreme Court ruling in Enochs and should be granted.

For the foregoing reasons, the District Court's decision to dismiss the case is not supported by the evidence, nor by federal statute, nor by sound legal precedent, nor is it free from legal or procedural error.

7: REQUEST FOR RELIEF

<<LASTNAME>> prays that this Court will reverse the decision of the District Court and will grant him judgment against the IRS as follows:

- a) That the Court will order the IRS to refund to <<LASTNAME>> the sum of $_____ plus interest.
- b) That the Court will order the IRS to pay <<LASTNAME>> the sum of $11,150 in administrative and litigation costs arising from the prosecution of this lawsuit.
- c) That the Court will issue a permanent injunction forbidding the IRS from contacting <<LASTNAME>> against his wishes and from directly or indirectly interfering in any other aspect of his life.

5.13.14 Motion to Become a Sovereign

This particular motion was provided to us by an American living in Russia named Clyde Hyde. He has developed a whole system for achieving personal sovereignty. The petition below is intended to be filed ex party in front of the judge but not in front of the opposing side. It puts the judge between a rock and a hard place, because he has to declare you as either a slave or a sovereign, and since he can't declare you a slave without directly violating the Thirteenth Amendment, then he has to declare you a sovereign.

	)	EMERGENCY PETITION
XXXXXX XXXXXXXXX	)	FOR
	)	DECLARATORY JUDGMENT
Ex Parte, unrepresented demandant	)

Plaintiff, somewhat confused by the Ex Parte show cause order presented by Judge _____ upon no pleading of the Defendant of record, hereby shows cause why this complaint cannot be dismissed. Thus Judge _____ has stepped into a executive branch function in violation of the separation of powers doctrine, with this ex parte show cause.

1. This complaint is brought under a first amendment right to redress where an alleged debt has been created against and is threatened to be enforced by force of seizure, such debt not owed by the Plaintiff, thus this case cannot be dismissed.
2. Judge _____, having shown his contempt for the law, has unlawfully dismissed declaratory judgment in this cause thereby causing a need for a Petition to be filed with the Circuit court for further relief and thereby causing further unnecessary distress upon the Plaintiff, thus this cause cannot be dismissed.
3. Plaintiff, having squarely challenged jurisdiction/venue of the U.S. federal government, hereafter USFG in this cause has never had this issue addressed by the attorneys for the USFG federal government.

Plaintiff at all times maintains that he has been defrauded by such USFG and has a right to recoupment of all taxes paid and the right to be left alone in his person and property. Art.1, sec. 8, cl. 17 defines the limits of jurisdiction/venue of such government by constitutional mandate of the Creators of such government, Plaintiff included.

“The Making of the Constitution” by Charles Warren historically shows the federal form of government was intentionally instituted and defined as to have power only upon the several states and not the people, on page 147.

The constitution verifies this. Even in the 16 Amendment there are no words of enlargement of jurisdiction and to the contrary only mentions again the several states. US v Lopez 115 S.Ct.1624, a criminal case and Hagans v. Lavine, 415 U.S. 528 (1974), a civil case also shows this jurisdiction to not extend to the people in the states.

Plaintiff has showed that he is the Creator of USFG, is not subject to that law by Yick Wo v. Hopkins, 118 U.S. 356, 370 (1886), is not an officer, employee or elected official of any government, or corporation, and has no business with the USFG. USFG and agent IRS has never proved any jurisdiction despite numerous attempts to obtain some thread of possible connection to thus become such a debtor and silence has to be equated to fraud in this instance, thus this cause cannot be dismissed.

4. The American People do not hire criminals to sit on the bench, thus this case cannot be dismissed or Judge _____ and the USFG attorneys become involved in a conspiracy to defraud and extort labor credits from the Plaintiff in the form of Federal Reserve Notes.

Jurisdiction having been challenged must be proven on the record and should have been shown by IRS to exist on the administrative record. Plaintiff has mistakenly been misguided over the years to pay that which he now realizes was not due nor a valid debt. The fact that this issue has not been addressed by attorneys for the USFG, shows further conspiracy to deny right to property unlawfully taken in defiance of law they knew or should have known. Judge _____ now being knowing of such fraud has a duty to see that justice is served upon these co-conspirators, within his jurisdiction, as a duty upon such office.

Judge _____ has a further ministerial duty to give declaratory judgment without having to be mandated to do such ministerial duty by the circuit or supreme Court. Otherwise Judge _____ is not fit to sit upon any bench, except behind bars, thus this cause cannot be dismissed.

5. Judge _____ has introduced a new controversy by ignoring the cancellation and postponement of the status conference as a matter to right. Is Judge _____ saying that the Petitioner has no right to a declaratory judgment in the matter of his cause? Plaintiff knows he has a right to move his cause as he thinks is fair, thus is Judge _____ saying we will treat Plaintiff as a slave of this court and USFG, but will not declare it, as it would show dirty hands on the part of the court. Indeed this causes a conflict and controversy and impossibility in the law. Thus, either the Plaintiff/Petitioner/Demandant is ignorant of the real law, along with the Supreme court, who he cites, or Judge _____ is showing unclean hands in this cause. If it is Plaintiff/Petitioner/Demandant who is in error, then this court has a ministerial duty to show and declare this error, thus this cause cannot be dismissed.
6. "He has the right of free access to, and courts of justice in the several states." Crandall v Nevada, 73 U.S. (6 Wall.) 35 (1867), thus this cause cannot be dismissed.
7. "It is the duty of the courts to be watchful for the constitutional rights of the citizen, and against any stealthy encroachments thereon.", Boyd v. U.S., 116 U.S. 616 (1886). Thus this court has ministerial duty to allow First Amendment Redress and the case cannot be dismissed but by the Plaintiff.

8. “He owes no such duty to the state, since he receives nothing therefrom, beyond the protection of his life and property. His rights are such as existed by the law of the land long antecedent to the organization of the state, and can only be taken from him by due process of law, and in accordance with the Constitution.” Hale v. Henkel, 201 U.S. 43 (1906). Thus this court has a ministerial duty to hear this cause to its rightful conclusion.
9. There is a standing offer to all USFG including Judge _____ to proclaim this Petitioner/Demandant a slave in which case he will be the best slave there ever was and will pay all demanded by the USFG, will not bring actions in the courts for redress he is not entitled to, and will be completely obedient. Until that time, Petitioner will press for the First Amendment redress he is entitled to, thus this cause cannot be dismissed.

Thus no part of this cause can rightfully be dismissed without adding to the fraud and conspiracy to defraud the Plaintiff of funds rightfully his, by decree of his Creator and the highest law, “Thou shalt not steal”, which is a crime of which this court is not entitled to be a party and which is illegal whether done by one individual or a group of individuals calling themselves “government”. For all the foregoing this cause cannot be dismissed.

5.14.3 Public Servant Questionnaire

Below are copies of a questionnaire that can be invoked against government agents that are asking you for information. It was first written in 1983 by Mr. Lynn Johnston, and has received praise from both Jews for the Preservation of Firearms Ownership (who can be reached at 2872 So. Wentworth, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, (414) 769-0760) and the Lawyers Second Amendment Society (18034 Ventura, No. 329, Encino, California, (818) 734-3066).

The first version is general and could, I suppose, be invoked against any government agent that's requesting information from you. You may even want to keep a copy in your car and invoke it if you get pulled over. Question 16 is different in the second version below. This is designed to be invoked against a tax agency (i.e. IRS).

I've spoken to Richard McDonald of the State Citizens' Service Centers (BBS: (818) 888-9882) and he said that it's working pretty good for those who're using it. Anyone interested in his work on federal and state income taxes can call (818) 762-5412 for more information.
