Example: AI Recreating a Scene from Titanic

Film: Titanic (1997)

Tools: Any Text to Video AI

Prompt:

Camera: Over-the-shoulder shot from behind Rose. Her shoulder and softly curled auburn hair frame the view of Jack, who is in sharp focus.

Rose: Early 20s, wearing an elegant period dress. Her softly curled auburn hair is pinned up, adorned with a delicate butterfly-shaped hair accessory. She is slightly turned, looking downward as Jack speaks. Only the back of her shoulder and hair are visible.

Jack: Early 20s, wearing a rugged coat or worn sweater. His expression is tender yet intense, eyes fixed on Rose with deep emotion as he delivers his heartfelt lines.

Background: The ship's railing with a vast ocean horizon behind it.

Lightning: The lighting is soft and dusky, early evening with muted golden tones, enhancing the sense of vulnerability and romance.

Mood: A moment of quiet emotional intimacy. Jack's words carry the weight of love, fear, and a shared leap into the unknown. The closeness of the framing amplifies the connection and tension.

Jack say: "You jump, I jump, remember? I can't turn away without knowing you're alright."

JSON

JSON stands for JavaScript Object Notation. It's a lightweight, text-based format for storing and exchanging data. Think of it as a way to organize information so both humans and machines can easily read and write it.

◆ Key Features of JSON:

1. Text-based – You can open it in any text editor.
2. Structured – Uses key-value pairs to store data.
3. Lightweight – Easy to send over the internet.
4. Language-independent – Works with almost every programming language.

◆ Basic Structure:

JSON consists of objects {} and arrays [].

Example:

```
{
  "name": "Jack",
  "age": 27,
  "hairColor": "blond",
  "clothes": ["white T-shirt", "denim jacket", "beige chinos", "brown sneakers"]
}
```

- Keys (like "name", "age") describe the type of information.
- Values (like "Jack", 27) are the actual data.
- You can have strings, numbers, booleans, arrays, or nested objects as values.
