

Ride-to-Work Partnership

Atlanta Housing x Bird

OVERVIEW

For many Atlanta Housing families, the last mile is the longest, determining whether they can reliably access food, healthcare, or a steady job. That's why Atlanta Housing (AH) and Bird have launched the nation's first Ride-to-Work partnership, a groundbreaking collaboration that combines affordable mobility and workforce opportunities for AH residents. This first-of-its-kind initiative makes Atlanta the first U.S. city where a housing authority integrates micromobility directly into resident services—setting a national model for how housing stability and economic opportunity can be advanced through sustainable, affordable transportation.

WHAT THE PARTNERSHIP INCLUDES

Discounted Mobility

- 50% off rides through the Bird Access program (Enroll: www.bird.co/bird-access-program-terms).
- 20% automatic zone-based discounts at 10 AH communities and existing Bird discount zones in Atlanta (See map).
- Dedicated Bird parking corrals at AH properties (See map).

Workforce Opportunities

- Job pathways at Bird's Atlanta Operations and National Service Center
- Roles: Street Team Ambassadors, Field Operations, Repair & Maintenance Positions

Resident Engagement & Support

- Regular community events with the Bird team.
- Test rides, free helmets, safe-riding education.
- On-site assistance with Bird Access enrollment.
- Quarterly on-site recruitment fairs, providing applicant support.

WHY ATLANTA?

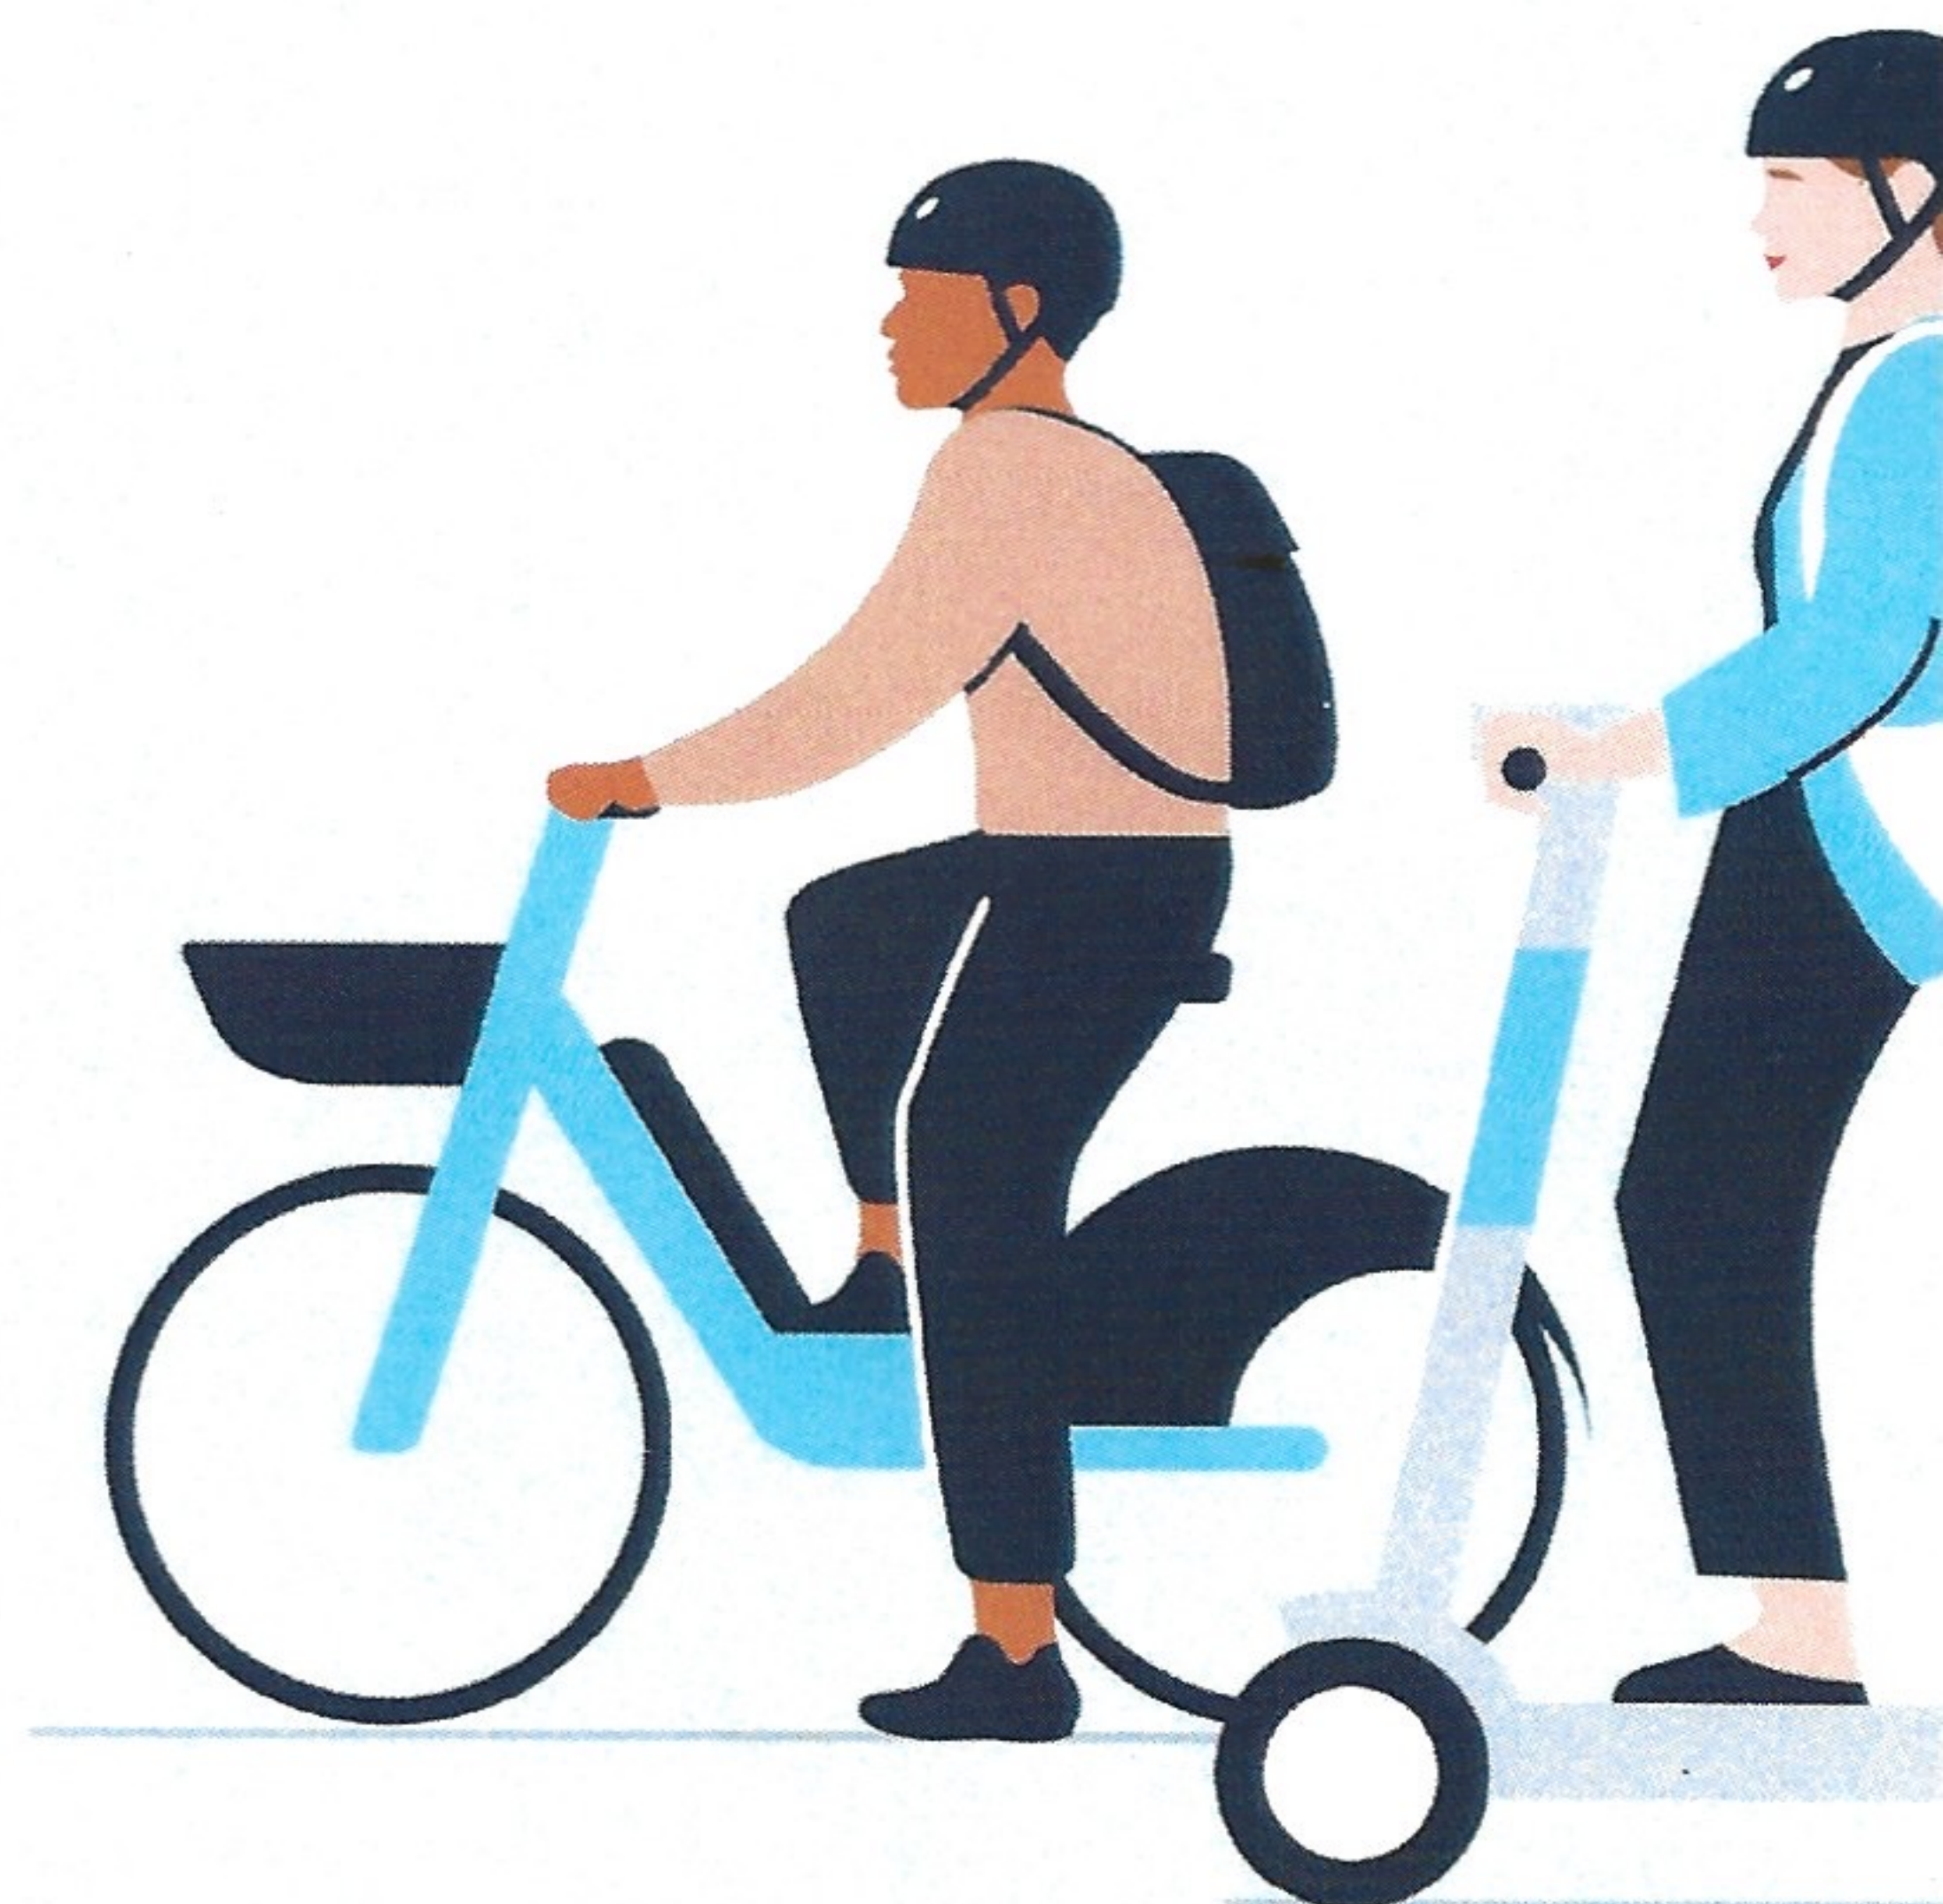

Discounted Mobility

- Proven Demand: Bird riders have taken more than 800,000 rides year to date, and millions of trips since first launching in 2018.
- Housing Commitment: the city's commitment to building affordable housing allows Bird to support this commitment with transportation services.
- City Support & Partnerships: Investments in bike lanes, parking zones, and carbon credit programs, with strong collaboration from Atlanta DOT on Vision Zero and congestion reduction.
- Increased Access to Atlanta Beltline: a safe, convenient urban trail corridor connecting the city's neighborhoods and key destinations including housing, shops, restaurants, parks, and schools.
- Next-Gen Vehicles: Atlanta is home to Bird's newest e-bike and e-scooter models, built for safety, accessibility, and everyday use.

Careers at Bird

Join Bird's mission to change the way the world moves, one ride at a time. Our award-winning electric vehicles help reduce carbon emissions and traffic in over 200+ cities around the world — and we're just getting started.

Fleet Manager

- Oversee your own local fleet of scooters and bikes — charging, maintaining, and deploying them where riders need them most.
- Ideal for: independent contractors or small business owners who enjoy logistics and local impact.

Street Team Associate

- Support Bird's operations on the ground by organizing vehicles, engaging with riders, ensuring vehicles are parked safely and compliantly, and provide field data and insights.
- Ideal for: hands-on, community-minded problem solvers who enjoy being outdoors, interacting with people, and keeping city streets running smoothly.

Vehicle Mechanic

- Keep Bird's electric scooters and bikes in top shape!
- Repair, maintain, and refurbish vehicles while supporting daily operations in a fast-paced, hands-on environment.
- Ideal for: mechanically minded individuals or students looking for hands-on work.

City Operations Manager

- Lead local operations, manage teams, and oversee performance in key markets. This role combines strategic thinking with day-to-day leadership.
- Ideal for: problem-solvers with strong leadership and data skills who love managing people and processes.

Senior City Operations Manager

- Own operations across Atlanta and nearby markets.
- You'll lead teams, manage performance, build city partnerships, and drive business growth.
- Ideal for: experienced managers or veterans ready to take charge in a dynamic, mission-driven environment.

Life at Bird

We're bold, collaborative, and mission-driven. You'll join a team that values diversity, authenticity, and innovation — and is always ready to build the future of micro-mobility together. Bird is proud to be an equal opportunity employer.
