“With over 15 years of experience navigating the global systems of fashion and agriculture, my work now operates at the critical intersection of arts, economics and post-sustainability. I have advised farming communities, factories, brands, retailers and INGOs worldwide, witnessing firsthand the limitations and unintended consequences of top-down, corporate sustainability models and have transitioned from roles in compliance and auditing to a fundamental re-evaluation of the field itself. My focus is dedicated to reimagining these constructs through a lens that integrates cultural production and post-extractive economics.

This means:

- Dissecting power dynamics and advocating for models rooted in rightsholder autonomy and environmental justice.
- Centering community-driven knowledge and creative practice as vital forms of economic and cultural resilience.
- Employing interdisciplinary strategies where art informs critique and vision and regenerative economies provide the structural framework.

Informed by a continuous journey of understanding my own coloniality, I engage the complex, necessary work of building alternatives that are culturally vibrant, economically just and ecologically sane.

Let's co-create what's next.”

05-2026 / today	Argentina / Non-extractive Tourism	Alsharq Reise GmbH	Project Manager, Tour Guide, Facilitator, Educator	Conceiving and leading a 14-day accredited political study tour to Argentina, examining the entanglements of migration history, German-Argentine colonial continuities and extractivist conflicts (Vaca Muerta, Mapuche territories, national parks). Managing all project phases, from designing the educational curriculum with activating, participant-centered methods (group puzzles, gallery walks, role-plays, transfer protocols) to on-site logistical execution and budget oversight. Facilitating workshops and structured reflection sessions – including a three-hour synthesis workshop on Patagonia in the overall context of the tour – to transform field experiences into critical (un)learning about socio-ecological justice and postcolonial memory. Acting as the key liaison for a diverse network of stakeholders, including Mapuche activists, union representatives, migration museums and human rights organizations (ESMA, Rosa-Luxemburg-Foundation), ensuring respectful and impactful exchanges. Ultimately delivering an immersive, methodologically sound program that provides participants – e.g., from social work, political science, development cooperation, and journalism – with profound insights into global asymmetries and social transformation, solidifying the tour's success as a recognized educational leave (Bildungsurlaub).

TIME FRAME	COUNTRY / SECTOR / INDUSTRY	COMPANY AND/OR ORGANISATION	PROJECT MANGEMENT POSITION	DESCRIPTION
08-2025 / 01-2026	Worldwide / HRDD in Apparel with a focus on organic cotton supply chains	Organic Cotton Accelerator (OCA)  In cooperation with The Big Picture	Short-term Freelance Consultant – Project Partial Lead with Cinthya Sopaheluwakan	Co-led a six-month international consultancy to develop and embed a Gender Equality and Social Inclusion (GESI) strategy for the Organic Cotton Accelerator (OCA). Managed the end-to-end project lifecycle, from stakeholder mapping and gap analysis across India, Pakistan, and Turkey to the co-design of an intersectional framework and actionable implementation roadmap. Coordinated a complex stakeholder engagement process, facilitating interviews and workshops with leadership, implementing partners, and third-party verifiers to ensure culturally adapted, inclusive outcomes. Synthesized research into key deliverables, including a comprehensive GESI strategy report, an internal organizational framework, and a capacity-building plan focused on decent work and grievance mechanisms. Successfully handed over a tailored strategy that mainstreams GESI across OCA's operations, directly addressing systemic barriers for women farmers, Dalit communities, and migrant workers in global cotton supply chains.
12-2024 / today	Worldwide / Sustainability Industry	POSSIBLE FUTURES Decolonial Collective	Workshop-Facilitator, Content Co-Designer, Coach	Collaborating on interactive workshops that critically examine colonial legacies embedded in sustainability, DEI and aid systems. The intervention centers on creating spaces for professionals to question dominant narratives, like greenwashing, techno-fix solutions and institutional complicity, while exploring pathways for meaningful, justice-centered engagement. Through Liberating Structures and participatory dialogue, participants are guided in unpacking systemic barriers, ethical dilemmas in their fields and the tension between institutional roles and personal values. The workshops support individuals in navigating career crossroads—whether transforming, exiting or reimagining their work—with an emphasis on decolonial accountability and collective action. By prioritizing accessibility, through flexible pricing, multilingual options and sensitive facilitation inclusive, transnational dialogues are fostered that challenge extractive norms in "change-making" industries. This role merges my background in auditing, social compliance and supply chain justice with a growing focus on decolonial frameworks, offering practitioners tools to align their work with deeper systemic change.

The goal of the Worker-led Gender Justice project was to expand this historic tripartite agreement by using it as a representative model for other agreements with brand companies and their suppliers, adapting it to the German and European context, and ultimately implementing it in more textile factories. Consulting tasks included a.o.: Approach and onboarding of brand companies for project participation in the form of bilateral meetings; Preparation, implementation and follow-up of various webinars and other events and publications in the field of public relations to inform further brand companies as well as other stakeholders about the planned project, lessons learned, the long-term project vision and the potential benefits for women in the Indian ready-made garment industry; Set up and adapt the EBA to the German and European context (Supply Chain Act, CS3D, ILO 190); Content-related monitoring and consulting of the project proposal.
