Subject: Completion of City Records Inventory Project

Dear Ms. Beaman:

As you may have heard from Sue Ellen Johnston we have finished our work associated with the Inventory of the Dixon City Records. We have achieved our initial objectives as stated in our entry presentation which were:

- ❖ Perform physical inventory of City Records;
- ❖ Designate Major Record Collections;
- ❖ Designate Collection (s) Require Indexing;
- ❖ Make Photograph / Scan Determination;
- ❖ •Photograph / Scan documents;
- ❖ Process Photographs / Scans;
- ❖ Create or Enhance Indices;
- ❖ Enter Index data into searchable database;
- ❖ Prepare electronic and hard-copy reports as agreed.

I provide details of our major activities and accomplishments:

- ❖ Perform physical inventory of City Records

All records designated by the City Clerk to be included in the survey were inventoried. Inventory consisted of physically inspecting each record volume and determining the following data items:

1. Collection Name (Ordinances, Resolutions, Etc.)
2. Collection location with City Hall document vault
3. Collection Binding type(s): (bound, accordion, loose leaf, etc.)
4. Is the Collection Indexed: (Yes, No, partial)
5. Collection Date Range: (1912 to present)
6. Collection Number of Volumes:
7. Collection Condition: (Excellent, Good, Poor)
8. General comments on entire collection: (specific vault location, duplicate volumes, etc.)
9. Date of Inventory
10. Names of Inventory Team
- 11.

❖ Designating major record collections:

This consisted of entering into the Collection records the commonly applied Collection names such as Ordinances, Resolutions (several types), Minutes (several Agencies), etc.

Major record collections are designated as follows:

1. Historical and Architectural inventory of Dixon
2. Minutes of City Council
3. Minutes, Dixon Parks and Recreation
4. Minutes, Dixon Planning Commission
5. Minutes, Dixon Public Finance Authority
6. Minutes, Dixon Public Improvement Corporation (DPIC)
7. Minutes, Dixon Redevelopment Agency
8. Ordinances, City of Dixon
9. Resolutions, City of Dixon
10. Resolutions, Dixon Public Finance Authority
11. Resolutions, Dixon Public Improvement Corporation (DPIC)
12. Resolutions, Dixon Redevelopment Agency

❖ Designate Collection (s) Requiring Indexing

Indices are short descriptions (abstracts) of the more extensive collection volume entries. Some collection volumes had previously prepared indices, but most did not, and others were only partially indexed. Index status of Collections was determined to be:

1. Historical and Architectural inventory of Dixon: Two volumes, Not Indexed
2. Minutes of City Council: 25 Volumes, Not Indexed
3. Minutes, Dixon Parks and Recreation: Five Volumes, Not Indexed
4. Minutes, Dixon Planning Commission: 17 Volumes, Not Indexed
5. Minutes, Dixon Public Finance Authority: One Volume, Not Indexed
6. Minutes, Dixon Public Improvement Corporation (DPIC): One Volume, Not Indexed
7. Minutes, Dixon Redevelopment Agency: One Volume, Not Indexed
8. Ordinances, City of Dixon: 27 Volumes, Indexed
9. Resolutions, City of Dixon: 56 Volumes, Partially Indexed
10. Resolutions, Dixon Public Finance Authority: Two Volumes, Not Indexed
11. Resolutions, Dixon Public Improvement Corporation (DPIC): Two volumes, Not Indexed
12. Resolutions, Dixon Redevelopment Agency: Seven Volumes, Indexed

METHODOLOGY:

After obtaining the specific collection knowledge as above the following facts were considered and related actions taken:

A major objective of the inventory was to develop a searchable database of indices to each Collection Volume. From the above listing it was determined that the majority of un-indexed volumes were only one or two in number for each collection category, (seven for the Dixon Redevelopment Agency) and it would be a small matter for a researcher to manually scan the entire volume for the information sought. This left the development of indices for the 25 Volumes of Dixon City Council Minutes and a partial index of the 56 Volume Collection of City of Dixon Resolutions.

A review of all existing volume indices was made to determine if these existing indices were of sufficient detail to fully capture the subject matter of each item being indexed. The decision was that existing indices were sufficient for the purpose of adequately describing the subject matter and that embellishment or augmentation of existing indices would not be necessary.

All indices previously created were in a typed form. These typed indices were scanned, processed with Optical Character Recognition (OCR) software, edited for accuracy, and entered into a relational database.

Indices for the un-indexed portions of the City of Dixon Resolutions were created by manually going through the un-indexed Resolutions and entering index information directly into a relational database created for the purpose. I don't remember how many index entries we created here, but less than five hundred.

None of the existing City Council Minutes had been indexed, a period from 1912 through the present. It should be noted that minutes for Council Meetings from roughly 1878 through 1911 no longer exist so there is no official way to re-create these meeting minutes. (More on this subject later).

It was thus decided to manually create an index entry for each Council meeting for the period of 12 February 1912 through 05 December 1950. This was done by painstakingly reading every word of every meeting minute for the almost 39 year period, 765 meetings in total, and creating an index entry (abstract) of the activities taking place at each meeting. This abstract constitutes the "index" for that specific meeting.

These abstracts were then entered into a searchable relational database created for the purpose. The abstracts contain every major detail, or a "key word" that would lead a researcher to further detail, of everything that transpired on that subject at the specific Council Meeting. For example, if you are interested in details of Dixon sewer system or actions you would search on "sewer" and all minutes dealing with sewers will be found complete with most of the relevant details. For complete details on tax rates for specific years you will have to consult the minutes of the specific meeting. All instances where the town issued warrants for payment of bills will be found by searching for "payment" or "payment of bills". Consulting the specific minutes found will provide the researcher with a listing of all warrants authorized and issued.

❖ Enter Index data into searchable database

All Collection information gathered and generated was entered into a large relational database specifically created for the purpose. In all, there are 7,684 individual entries in this database. The database software is known as FileMaker Pro, a professional level database allowing full relational searches of all entered data. However, the City of Dixon does not utilize this specific database application thus the entire database contents will be exported in Microsoft Excel format so City employees and researchers will be able to easily search records information.

❖ Prepare hard and soft copies and reports as agreed;

1. A CD with the entire database in Excel format is provided for the use of the City and interested public;
2. A set of printed reports stating the basics of the Dixon City Records: Collection Names, number of volumes in each collection, etc. (provided herewith);
3. Special reports in sorts and sequences specifically requested by the City of Dixon can be prepared by the authors in .pdf format. For example, a report of index entries for all the City Council meeting minutes might be of interest. This report could then be printed (77 pages) by the City whenever desired;
4. Prepare volume indexes for Volumes 1,2,3, and part of 4 of the Council Minutes for the period of 1912 through 1950 (attached hereto);
5. The database will be maintained by the authors and a copy will be placed in the Archives of the Dixon Public Library;
6. The authors will work with the City and the Dixon Public Library to develop methods of internet access to the data: through the Library website or the City of Dixon website.

We take this opportunity to mention that while the City of Dixon does not have official copies of the meeting minutes of the Board of Trustees (City Council) from roughly 1878 to 1912, unofficial minutes of these meeting do exist as printed in contemporary issues of the Dixon Tribune. It would be of great historical value to have a complete listing of all Board of Trustee / City Council meetings so the authors, in the immediate future, intend to extract meeting information from microfilm copies of the Tribune and enter, as unofficial, this information into the current database.

Finally, the authors and the Dixon Historical Guild, take this opportunity to thank the City of Dixon for the courtesies and cooperation extended over the period of May through September 2009. It was a great cooperative effort to the credit of all involved City employees, primarily the City Clerk Janice Beaman and her able assistant Sue Ellen Johnston.

The Dixon Historical Guild hopes the City of Dixon finds this inventory of their public City records to be of interest and value.

Sincerely, and in the interests of preserving our local history,

s/s
