Price List (2026)

Dilruba - Standard

The Dilruba is a bowed string instrument cherished in Sikh classical music for its melancholic beauty, portable design and soul-stirring tone. Its name, meaning "thief of the heart" in Persian, reflects its deeply emotional sound, ideal for Gurbani Kirtan and spiritual introspection.

Designed by the King of Kings Guru Gobind Singh Ji (10th Sikh Guru), the Dilruba was made as a smaller, lighter version of the Taus, which allowed the Khalsa warriors to carry it on horseback when travelling to battle.

Key features of the Standard Dilruba:

- Handcrafted from high-quality seasoned tun or teak wood
- 4 main playing strings and 15-20 sympathetic strings (tarabs) for shimmering resonance
- Traditional goat-skin soundboard
- Optional customisations available

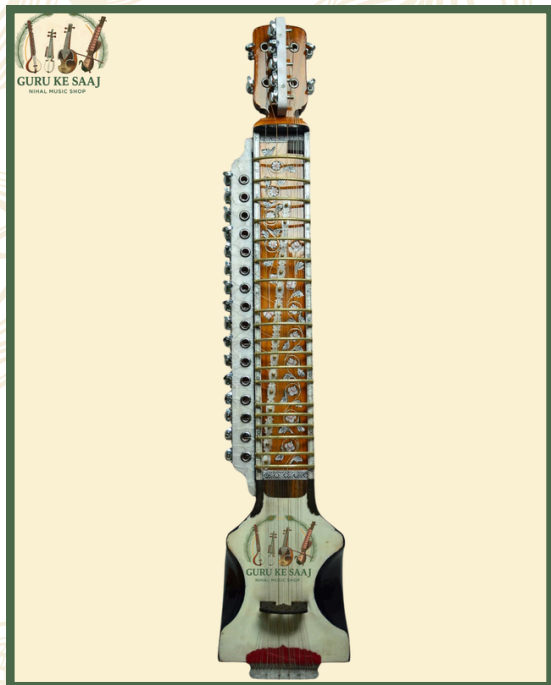

Included in the price:

- Free traditional horsehair bow (Gaj) included
- Free standard soft case included for convenient storage
- Free wax rosin included
- Free set of extra strings included
- Comes with free tuning by professional musicians

Sarangi - Standard

The Sarangi is one of the most emotionally powerful bowed instruments of India, dating back to the 13th Century. In Sikh history, the Sarangi holds a respected place in the Dhadi musical tradition, popularised by Guru Hargobind Sahib Ji after establishing Sri Akaal Takhat Sahib. The instrument has seen a re-emergence in classical Raag Kirtan in recent years.

Crafted from a single block of hardwood and played with a traditional bow, the Sarangi's many strings create a resonant, layered sound full of emotion and nuance. This raw and captivating sound is at once arresting and soulful.

Key Features of the Standard Sarangi:

- Made from high-quality seasoned tun or teak wood, hand-carved and oil-polished
- 3 main gut strings and 30–35 sympathetic strings (tarabs) for rich harmonic resonance
- Goat-skin resonating chamber for warm, vocal-like tonal quality
- Tuning peg for easy movement between Raags
- Optional customisations available

Afghani Rabab - Premium (With Designer Kadhayi)

The Afghani Rabab is a robust, plucked string instrument with deep roots in Central Asian and North Indian classical traditions. It arrived in India in the 16th Century. Unlike the more classical Nanakshahi Rabab, the Afghani Rabab has a rugged, folk-like character; its voice is bold, resonant and deeply emotive. Known for its deep, percussive tone and earthy resonance, the Afghani Rabab is carved from a single block of mulberry or walnut wood, with a goatskin-covered soundboard and a gut-stringed setup that gives it a uniquely organic and rhythmic voice.

Key Features of the Premium Afghani Rabab:

- Royal, fine-detailed carving/kadhayi (premium edition)
- Handcrafted from high-quality aged mulberry or walnut wood for strength and tonal depth
- Goatskin-covered resonator for a warm, natural sound with crisp attack
- 3–4 main playing strings, 2–3 drone strings and up to 15 sympathetic strings (tarabs)
- Tuning peg for easy movement between Raags
- Optional customisations available

Included in the price:

- Free plectrum made from coconut shell or horn included
- Free standard soft case included for convenient storage
- Free wax rosin included
- Free set of extra strings included
- Comes with free tuning by professional musicians

Jori - Premium (Wooden or Brass)

Experience the deep, resonant rhythm of Puratan Gurmat Kirtan with the Jori, a sacred percussion instrument deeply rooted in Sikh musical heritage. Traditionally used in Darbars before the harmonium era, the Jori produces a rich, warm bass and crisp treble, perfectly complementing Raag Kirtan and traditional Saaj like the Rabab, Dilruba and Taus. Unlike the modern tabla, the Jori features a larger, deeper bass drum and a softer, natural treble head, giving it a more earthy, meditative sound. The Jori is the perfect accompaniment to Raag Kirtan and soulful, classical music.

Key features of the Premium Jori:

- Handcrafted from seasoned sheesham, mango wood or brass, with traditional design
- Natural goatskin heads for authentic, warm tone
- Large bass drum (Bayan) produces deep, rounded resonance
- Optional customisations available

Included in the price:

- Treble drum (Dayan) tuned to the raag scale of your performance
- Free tuning paste (masala) included
- Free tuning hammer included
- Free standard soft case included for convenient storage
