HISTORY & HERITAGE

The roots of the Pathé vision

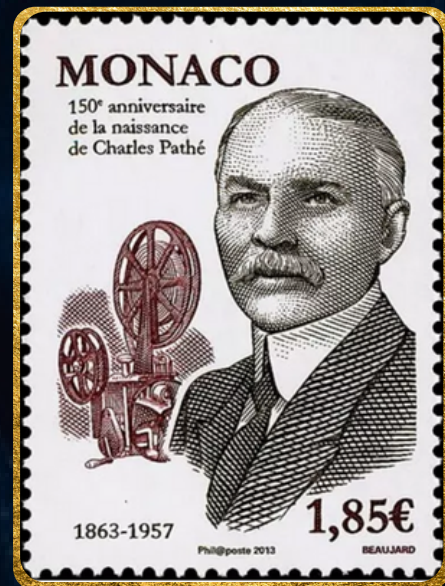

In 1913, Charles Pathé (1863–1957), founder of the historic Pathé Frères company and pioneer of world cinema, acquired the Château of Roissy-en-Brie, where he hosted film screenings and cultural receptions.

This site became one of the first homes of cinema and modernity in France.

More than a century later, Raphaël Pathé, direct descendant of Jacques Pathé – Charles's brother – chose to symbolically establish the Raphaël Pathé Héritage Association in Roissy-en-Brie, reconnecting with the family's historical roots.

The association does not carry out public activity there; the registered address serves primarily as a tribute to the founder and to family memory.

Faithful to this legacy, Raphaël Pathé continues to channel the same spirit of innovation and audacity that inspired the beginnings of French cinema – now opening it to art, music, and the technologies of the 21st century.

MISSION & IDENTITY

An independent cultural platform

The Raphaël Pathé Héritage Association was born from the desire to unite heritage and innovation.

Inspired by the legacy of the Pathé brothers – pioneers of world cinema – the association extends their vision through contemporary art, music, performance, and new technologies.

Its objective is to bridge the past and the future, placing artistic creation at the heart of a philosophy of elegance, ethics, and international openness.

The association operates with complete independence and has no affiliation with the present-day Pathé Group.

Its emblem, the red macaw, succeeds the historical Pathé rooster – a symbol of freedom, intelligence, and resilience. It embodies the rebirth of a creative, universal, and visionary spirit.

“Heritage is not a memory, but a light that guides us toward tomorrow.”

— Raphaël Pathé

INTERNATIONAL PROJECTS & INITIATIVES

Bridging heritage and the future

The Raphaël Pathé Héritage Association develops a series of cultural and artistic projects uniting cinema, music, live arts, and innovation.

Each creation pays tribute to the visionary spirit of the Pathé founders while bringing it into the contemporary world.

- The Pathé Héritage World Tour — a series of cultural and diplomatic gatherings linking Saint-Barthélemy, Cannes, Monaco, Paris, Milan, and New York to present the association, connect members, and celebrate the rebirth of the Pathé legacy through cinema, heritage, and music.
- Pathé Belle Époque — a cinematic and literary trilogy reimagining the golden age of French cinema through a poetic and visionary lens.
- The Raphaël Pathé Spotlight — an audiovisual series devoted to travel, art de vivre, and French elegance; a dialogue between poetry, image, and light.

Together, these projects form an international network of creation and cultural diplomacy, faithful to the founding mission: to transmit beauty, audacity, and innovation from the Pathé heritage into the 21st century.

«To create is to extend the memory of the world.»
