Comprehension 1 (8 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

Ella was a popular girl in class. She was kind and friendly towards her classmates. She had many friends but could not spend much time with each of them.

One day, Ella and her classmates drew and made gifts during friendship day. Mrs Lee had instructed the class to make three presents each to give to three of their closest friends.

5

When her classmates gave out all their presents, Ella was the only one who received none! She felt terrible and cried. How can it be? She had so many friends. Her classmates consoled her, each spending a short time with her, and then left her side.

When she got home, she cried and asked her mother where she could find true friends.

10

"If you really want true friends, you will have to spend time with them. You must show care and be available to them in good and bad times," answered her mother.

"But I want to be everybody's friend!" Ella protested.

"There just isn't enough time to be available for everyone, so it is possible to just have a few true friends. The others will be playmates," advised her mother.

15

Ella realised that she was a good companion but not a true friend. That night, she decided to change her ways so that she could have some true friends.

Comprehension 2 (8 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

A merchant wanted to sell a few sacks of salt in the nearby village. He tied up the sacks of salt on his donkey and set off.

The sacks were very heavy and the donkey felt very tired. When they came to a river, they walked across the shallow water carefully. Suddenly, the donkey accidentally tripped and fell into the water. The weight of the sacks shrank as the salt in them reduced tremendously as it got dissolved in the water. As such, the sacks felt lighter when the donkey stood up. The merchant was very upset and led the donkey back home. 5

The next day, when they came to the river, the donkey remembered what had happened earlier and fell into the water on purpose. The trick worked! The merchant watched the donkey fall but said nothing. 10

On the third day, the merchant placed the same sacks on the donkey. Unknown to the donkey, the sacks were filled with cotton this time. The donkey followed the merchant happily.

When they reached the river, the donkey tried the same trick again. He jumped into the water but this time, could not stand up. The load of the sacks was three times heavier than before as the cotton had absorbed the water. After watching the donkey struggle in the water for a while, the merchant removed the sacks of cotton and led the drenched donkey out of the river. 15

He looked at his donkey and scolded, "Do not try to be lazy again." When the donkey realised that the merchant was teaching him a lesson, he was embarrassed and hung his head low. After that incident, the donkey never tried to be lazy again. 20
