3. A sports fan sitting in a recliner, with an oversized #1 hand on one hand, and holding a simple generic-looking trophy cup in the other, and a remote on the floor next to the chair

Clothing ... Golders in solid color polo shirts, plain trousers. The sports fan maybe wearing a football-type jersey, with a number on the sleeve and a stripe. Relatively plain clothes on all 3.

Lead King Loop, Marble Colorado A DANGEROUS 13 MILE FREE-FOR-ALL

Easy to see these corporate based cartoons also applying to political situations.

From a series of cartoons we custom designed for a company that coaches better business teamwork.

Modern Sales People Need To Jump Plenty Of Hurdles, Just To Sell.

MARKETERS think sales people need all of the beautiful decks, videos and brochures they produce. ACCOUNTANTS think they need to hurry up and hit their targets and stop spending so much money. HR think they need ongoing training, some dedicated e-learning time and an offsite for motivation. IT think they require a highly detailed CRM system so they can report on every moment in their day. SALES MANAGERS think they need regular phone calls, emails and face time to talk about numbers. ACCOUNT MANAGERS want Sales people to make everything simple so their job is nice and easy. AND THE CUSTOMER just wants to know how the product or service will help solve their problem.

My Process Example... Cartoon set promoting 401k counselors

Rough pencil layout for your review, after we discuss your overview and we pick from our suggested approaches...

Tighter pencil intermediate proof, for your review before we go to step 3...

Pre-color ink line art, based tightly on step 2.

Finished, full color cartoon, which I supply in popular formats for both web and print. See detail view of this next page.

Blue arrows 1 through 4 above show the usual steps involved with developing a cartoon scene with a client.

Each cartoon was carefully crafted, with heavy client participation, to illustrate a different unique selling point that they offer.
