

About Chris Sitton ...

A multimedia artist, Chris typically begins a canvas painting with a bright color which unifies the piece and gives it a sense of excitement. This brings everyday subject matter to life. She then layers on color with thin glazes but also incorporates thicker impasto-like swaths which accent the piece, flirting with the abstract. In her watercolor paintings she uses glowing transparent pigments that elevate her naturalistic emphasis, bringing life's simple pleasures to a higher level.

Artist Statement

In my paintings I communicate my personal perspective and innermost emotions through the medium of paint, transforming blank canvases into works that speak to my soul. With each brushstroke, I embark on a journey of self exploration, diving deep into realms of color, texture, and form to create pieces that not only reflect my world, but also to challenge perceptions.

I see the extraordinary in the ordinary, capturing moments of beauty in the everyday and inviting you to view life through my eyes. Whether working in my studio or en plein air, I am continually evolving and pushing the boundaries of my art. Through my unique view as a creator, and a storyteller, I hope to contribute to our shared cultural tapestry, offering my experiences to hopefully inspire a different way of looking at things.

My hope is that you find as much joy in my creations as I have had in making them.
