Logistical services lie at the core of any supply chain organization. Though we are not a logistical company but with deep understanding and long experience of managing logistics for operations of varying scale, our tailor-made logistical insight strategy specifically targets customer pain points.

We help our customers to identify the logistical partners and freight forwarders at best price keeping in view the supply chain disruptions associated with their niche.

Sales Forecasting

We manage sales forecasting through a structured monthly process, continuously refining forecasts based on historical data, statistical models, event analysis, dynamic regression, and expert insights. Our approach highlights key factors such as seasonality, trends, opportunities, and potential risks for each SKU. We incorporate business events and promotions into our forecasts and consistently monitor and enhance their accuracy.

Inventory Planning

For inventory planning, we utilize a robust, Excel-based system that calculates recommended order quantities for suppliers on a monthly basis. This system considers projected demand from sales forecasts, current inventory levels, incoming shipments, lead times, MOQs, and container constraints. Our pricing strategy is designed to optimize both order sizes and ordering frequency. We also provide clear recommendations on product promotions and discontinuations. For businesses using FBA or other distribution centers, we offer tailored monthly or bi-monthly shipment plans
