Transparency: An Examination of the Unfinished Business

Nobody is Equatorial Guinea, we are all Equatorial Guinea, but the reality of a People that has already awakened is that the Future and the Past collide, only to give us all - the Republic of Equatorial Guinea - a Great Opportunity to Change, to Advance, or to take a Great Leap Backwards, God forbid.

Equatorial Guinea is a country that should not be poor, and its People cannot cry of hunger and boast of being a "poor" country, because the life of a People is not a game; and whoever does not understand this, it is his problem, and he has a Great Problem with the People.

Transparency is Our Great Unfinished Business, because without it, corruption becomes the "Great Crown", a crown that for a Nation, is worse than the corona virus. Everything points to the fact that many want to kill each other, Equatoguineans, and it is avoidable because it is a pity, because this country does not deserve neither death nor blood nor punishment.

While some strive to prepare themselves "for whatever it takes for whatever it takes", the others insist on just doing nothing.

But everything points to the fact that many want to kill each other, Equatoguineans, and it is avoidable because it is a pity, because our people do not deserve neither death nor blood nor suffering.

2022 marks the 52nd anniversary of Equatorial Guinea, a country that does not know itself.

Written by Mr. Javier Clemente Engonga is an Author and Entrepreneur, Equatoguinean, Nationalist, African and Pan-African, Defender of Equatorial Guinea For Life.

True Power of the People

@DeiReiC

Some cry for "Greater Consequences", when the reality is that Guineans, we can be better, and we can do things better, if Transparency replaces Corruption.

Everything points to the fact that many want to kill each other, Equatoguineans, and it is avoidable because it is a pity, because Our Country deserves neither Death nor Blood nor sorrow". If someone, for not knowing how to read, does not understand my words, the complication is his and not mine, but in the end the one who suffers is the People, because their children do not understand each other.

No one is Equatorial Guinea, we are all Equatorial Guinea, and although that bothers some, the truth is that we are all equal and not so different.

We are all obliged to do things right if we want to, because to want is the true power and to do things wrong does not do good to anyone, although at first glance it may not seem so.

Doing things wrong does much harm to the People, and therefore the need for Transparency, only Transparency: Corruption is a problem for everyone.

He who is silent does not give, he listens, and when he speaks, he does it with Clarity.

Is One Resignation Enough?

One Corrupto less, but the list is as long as the Mysterious Pi Number

The recent resignation of the President of the Supreme Court of Justice on July 8 of this year, from his position that became his de facto company, negotiating for the justice of Our People, is not surprising.

In effect, the stability of a society fragmented by economic and ideological divisions, corruption has once again become the great protagonist of the year, and the corrupt have once again made the news and been on everyone's lips.

The problem is that corruption has become a habit, and those who defend it do so with their mouths full and their stomachs satisfied, and do not realize the problem they create for the prosperity of the children of our nation as a whole.

Solemn Closing Ceremony of the VI National Dialogue Table, by H.E. Teodoro Obiang Nguema Mbasogo, President of the Republic.

Obiang Nguema Mbasogo, President of the Republic, the ruler of the country expressed his satisfaction for the dialogue and for the results of the Democratic Trial, which have been positive for all.

In the same vein, during the Closing Ceremony of the Judicial Year, H.E. the President also said that, "the criminal acts of a no one is sheltered from justice, since there are procedures and rules to prosecute the authorities, and there are also cases of ignorance that the authorities should not authorize".

All Guineo-Ecuadorians must be responsible for our irresponsibilities, and assume the consequences of the bad exercise of public responsibilities. It is very easy to accuse and blame the President for everything that does not seem right to us and not recognize the good actions. But if we put ourselves on the side of truth, we will see that corruption is the biggest social and economic problem that must be faced in our country and from that administrative coordination.

How to Create Businesses

As the whole world prepares for a difficult period for the economies of many nations, African countries are positioned as always, in the most fragile place despite having abundant resources.

Africans are now more interested than ever before in the best sectors to build businesses, and investors are taking an increasingly serious look at the opportunities in Africa. more and more seriously at the opportunities on the African continent.

Few moral authorities and business professionals in Africa play such a pan-African and revolutionary role as Dr. Harnet Bokrezion, founder of Africa Business JumpStart, a web platform with resources to help entrepreneurs planning to do business in Africa. She works primarily as an African market entry strategy consultant and speaker, ready to help entrepreneurs start their businesses in Africa from anywhere.

The Importance of Entrepreneurship

The Entrepreneur's Chess

There is nothing more difficult than earning a living by the sweat of your brow and creating jobs for others with the power of your mind, and that is entrepreneurship.

From tourism services and organizing packages to sell services to clients wishing to visit or do business in Africa, real estate business and collective farming, to e-commerce or financial technology, Africa is becoming the Mecca of Entrepreneurship.

The major African tech breakthrough of 2021 was that it is becoming easier and easier for startups to close $100 million rounds of funding, as Wave, MFS Africa, TradeDepot and about eight others did. The trend has continued this year with InstaDeep, PalmPay, Flutterwave, Moove and Wasoko (formerly called Sokowatch).

African Literature

Love for what is ours

African and Afro-descendant literature is one of the fast-growing niches on digital platforms such as Amazon or Google Books.

The important thing about participating is to gain enough experience to never accept losing. Perseverance, therefore, is the main characteristic of African literature.

Always with a tone of "inalienable truths", African literature has become the new fashion for lovers of literature.

The truth is, when we read the works of African authors such as The Kindness of Enemies by Leila Aboulela, the first African to win the prestigious Caine literary prize in the year 2000, we go deeper into the reality of a continent that has suffered enough and still struggles to process in the best way the way to narrate and manifest its reality and its history. That is African literature.

The big publishers rub their fingers together every time a new book written by an African author comes out, although the reality is that the new self-publishing technologies have greatly facilitated the entry into the market of new authors who tell from different parts of Africa the same reality: the black continent has woken up and does not intend to go back to sleep.

We recommend to our readers the Collected Poems of Gabriel Okara, considered the veteran of Nigerian literature and the first modernist poet of Anglophone Africa".

Certainly the literature of the palm trees and the colonists, that literature that tries to hide that the natural, mineral and marine resources of Africa were not plundered and exported shamelessly for centuries to other parts of the world, is not African literature.

The unknown sons of Guinea

The themes and styles of each writer are different, but there are letters - like voices - that leave a great mark.

The voice of Equatorial Guinea in African literature is unmistakable because it is also the only Hispanic voice in black Africa, and the only bridge from Africa to America, a continent with millions and millions of children of Africa there abandoned to their fate because of the evils of destiny to which the Black People have been trapped.

We Are All Guineans : The Truth Always Wins
Second Chinese citizen killed in just one year.

A young Chinese businesswoman was the first victim of the crime wave that the financial crisis is blatantly creating in Equatorial Guinea. The young woman was gagged, brutalized and raped by one of his national employees, in the Semu neighborhood of the Capital.

For a country that aspires to boost its tourist economy and improve the business climate with the promotion of private investment, it is worrying, to say the least, to see that the problem is not improving, but that the situation is becoming more and more severe. Crime is increasingly the news of the day, while social and economic achievements are conspicuous by their absence; politics is not everything in a society, especially when not everyone makes a living from politics. Equatorial Guinea has great aspirations as a country rich in natural resources, it is normal, but it should not be detached from the reality that, without freedom and citizen security, without economic rights being considered as human rights, underdevelopment will always manifest itself hand in hand with common delinquency and organized crime.

This has been the experience of many countries which, although they have made some progress, have also paid a high price. (next page)

The Tragedy of Poverty: Memories of Those Peaceful Times

Several Chinese nationals have been killed in recent years due to the increase in crime in our cities, which is bad for the business climate and for tourism.

The real cleaning operation is the fight against poverty, the root of all the problems that our society is carrying on its poor backs.

The operation against poverty is the ultimate goal, because you can't just talk about the problems if you don't intend to solve them.

Since the middle of June, Equatorial Guinea is becoming a dangerous place due to the increase of delinquency and crimes.

We miss the times when peace was the oxygen that our people breathed, it was the most precious color of our flag.

Unfortunately or fortunately - everyone will have their own opinions - ignorance leaves society trapped, and poverty becomes a flame that explodes with the fuel of hunger, ignorance and stupidity: and most of the criminals are minors, what is happening in our country?

Bata - Our Bata - has become a ghost town, and whoever goes out on the street at certain hours is already risking his life, even if it is to earn his daily bread.

We cannot build a Better Country when we do not remember the background of who we are, without complexes, a peaceful society that poverty is destroying.

Prostitution and drug addiction, stimulated by poverty that then begins to bring criminality, makes Equatorial Guinea to be transformed little by little, in one more African or Hispanic country, when before we were par excellence and with difference, a Better Country.

"The Tragedy of Poverty".

- Ana María Esono Nguema

The Tragedy of Poverty is an evil that can be avoided by doing good, by doing the best we can to build a country that is appreciated.

It is the tragedy that our neighbors suffer, the tragedy of being very poor in countries full of riches.

God is good, that is true, because he has blessed us with everything good, and we are the envy of friends and strangers, but even so, the poor grow in their increase, while foreigners become richer and richer, and the corrupt boast of their "good luck", while the suffering people grow in their poverty.
