

Giving Birth to the Light

Becoming a Virgin: an authentic being

To be a Virgin is a state of being, that of the man who wants to go toward a higher world, toward a higher intelligence, and who prepares his inner life to give birth to the Light in his daily life; he wants to be true, pure, sincere and to live with the values of the Angels¹ such as Friendship, Goodness, wisdom...

When you enter upon the path of awakening, you must yourself make the experience of existence, you must be a Virgin, that is to say a true and authentic being.

Virginity is a state of being of the soul, for which sex does not exist. The Virgin Mary is often represented with open hands like someone who wants to learn, who wants to honor what is great, an intelligence higher than men. In this higher intelligence, you can feel the love that is omnipresent.

Love is not simply the attraction of the sexes, it is all the relations that can exist. It is an energy, a state of being that takes its source in a higher wisdom and intelligence.

When you walk in nature, you can see love all around you. The sun, the flowers, the trees, everything touches you, caresses you; this is in reality very sensual, of a sensuality turned upward.

The Virgin Mary had a very sensual relationship with nature, with water, air, the sun, a relationship not sterile, but which gave birth to her own life. This relationship was similar to that of children with the sun, the clouds, the water; they watch water flow and they invent a whole world, they play with water in a relationship of love, a living relationship. In the virginity of the Virgin, one must see this form of sensuality, this immeasurable love in purity, innocence, love, wisdom.

1 - For the Essenes, the Angels are a higher reality that guides man in his life and acts upon him just as much as the earth that nourishes him, water, air, fire and light. The Essene Tradition received, through its founding Father *Enoch, the knowledge of the Angels of Light, who are virtues, such as Friendship, Harmony, Gentleness, Peace, Love, respect. The virtues are living and intelligent beings who want to lead man toward union with the Father and the Mother. Within the framework of the Round of the Archangels, the being who wants to walk toward the Light has the possibility of becoming a bearer of Angel, that is to say of taking care of an Angel on the earth.

A daughter of Isis consecrated to the Divine

The civilization of Egypt of the *Pharaohs saw the birth of a Woman-God, a divine woman: Isis, the woman who was the closest to God. Just as the Virgin Mary became the sacred writing of the soul that awakens and offers itself to the Light in order to be fecundated and to give birth to the divine Light, Isis became the hieroglyph of feminine initiation in its perfection and of the acquisition of the wisdom of the mysteries of God.

Isis is considered the Mother of men; it is she who created the Schools of the *Mysteries so that from generation to generation men could find on the earth a path of harmonious evolution and go to meet the Light and knowledge.

In an ancient life as an Egyptian woman, Mary was a daughter of Isis, initiated in the School of childbearing and childbirth. She had been raised in the pharaonic temples; she was in the lineage of the Sons and Daughters of God, that is to say of the men and women who were consecrated to the Divine and who gave their whole life to the *Gods.

A water-bearer who blessed the Gods

In silence and humility, this priestess of Isis lived an intense inner life, in permanent contact with water, with its transparency, its freshness, its malleability, its gentleness. She spent her whole life in the service of water. She brought water to bathe people's feet and bless the statues of the Gods, and through the Gods, to bless all beings. Her mission was also to put water upon the arid and cracked earth so that the Divinity contained in the seed could be activated, fecundated and blossom like the new flowering that brings abundance and *nourishment into all the bodies of man. For 45 years, she was bearer of the jug of water upon the arid earth. This water was magical, it was the water of love and gentleness, the water that allows living and conscious exchanges with all the worlds.

The inner life of this woman was extraordinary in intensity and understanding. She truly lived with the divine world. Her life was simple and yet of a great richness. All the know-how of this ancient Egyptian civilization was at work through her. By accomplishing every day the same gestures, she was preparing her future incarnation as Mary with strength and determination. Her life had a meaning far beyond the body and therefore beyond death.

As a daughter of Isis, she benefited from all the conditions for entering into the world of water and for, finally, giving birth to God in the water. She made of her life a work of art for water, she blessed the water, she put forces into it. She felt that the water was living and it began to speak to her, to reveal secrets to her; but in reality it was not the water, it was her soul.

Through her continual nearness to water, she had developed the consciousness of all that flows, which created in her a feeling of freshness and a permanent state of relaxation.

For her, life was water that nothing could prevent from flowing, and she, she was the banks of this river flowing in the midst of her. The world of water truly taught her everything about life and about relationships. She entered into worlds and worlds solely by observing water. She was a daughter of Gabriel and, without knowing it, she was preparing herself for her future mission.

Building an etheric temple to Gabriel

By force of pouring water with love, she united herself with the Father of water, whom she was to meet in her future life. She lived so much with water that she built for him a temple in the etheric, in the world of water¹, and the Archangel began to come and inhabit it: she created for him an *etheric body.

When she reincarnated as Mary, this temple of Gabriel that she had created in the etheric when she was an Egyptian woman came back toward her and began to reveal to her secrets about the soul. She began to live with her soul and to become fecund and creative in her soul. She was able to enter into conscious contact with the Father of water. By means of this etheric temple, Gabriel was able to draw near to her, teach her and awaken in her soul the secrets of virginity and of giving birth to the Light.

When the Archangel Gabriel came toward her, she felt him inside herself like something fresh, a tingling. She spoke to him with her soul and she had the answers to all the questions she asked herself. What he thus taught her, she lived inwardly, in clarity, simplicity, openness, acceptance. The Virgin thus made this experience of leading things inward and of awakening the Light in herself.

1 - Also called "auric water" or "aura," this water is a subtle, invisible matter, formed and inhabited by all the thoughts, all the feelings and desires that live around man and animate his body of earth, his physical body.

It is thus that in her life as an Egyptian woman, Mary worked to prepare herself until she became the Virgin who gave birth to a Son of God. The birth of Jesus was the victory of a secular work in the Schools of the Mysteries by thousands and thousands of students who vivified this teaching in the ethers of the earth. Through her way of being, Mary succeeded in capturing this etheric force that had been engendered by all this work and in giving birth to a new humanity.

This is what the Virgin discovered: man is only an instrument of the higher worlds. Man cannot invent either wisdom or beauty, the world is already perfect, but he can associate himself with wisdom and beauty, that is to say be fecundated by the seed of truth. He then brings into the world a child who can change the world. This is what the Virgin did: she changed the face of the world by bringing into the world the Child of Light. The birth of Jesus was one of the most beautiful realizations and offerings of the Essene people to glorify the Light and bring blessing to humanity and to the earth.
