147. Relearn how to live in purity

1. What humanity is lacking today is purity.
2. Purity is the great treasure.
3. Your great misfortune is that purity is leaving your world. You no longer know it, you no longer live with it. Everything is done so that purity no longer has a place in your life, no space where it can manifest. Then what will remain for you? How will you live, what will your path be?
4. You are giving priority to influences that bring decay and strip away all that is pure and original. Everything that is beautiful is led toward what is soiled, everything that is grand becomes mediocre, and purity can no longer touch your life, visit you, speak to you, instruct you, guide you.
5. You speak of purity, sometimes you even still desire it, but you have atrophied the few organs you had left that would have allowed you to open to it and meet it. Soon, if you continue to do just anything with your life, all communication with purity will become impossible; it will have become foreign to your life.
6. You are preparing a future in which the noble, the beautiful, the grand, the original will no longer exist for you. You are in the process of leading everything toward what is mediocre and small, toward a world where man is the only great interest.
7. Yes, human beings wish for purity, benevolence, peace, and love in the world, but they do very little so that these virtues may triumph and bring their kingdom into their lives. In fact, they hardly know them anymore, they no longer know what they mean, who they are, and they have almost no contact with them. This is sad, but it is truly so: man is losing everything that has value, everything that is true in life. He is becoming a false being, artificial, entirely programmed by illusory concepts that no longer have any soul, any life, any intelligence or truth in them.
8. If, day after day, each person had been willing to give even five minutes to make the beautiful virtues living and conscious, the world would be completely different, for peace, purity, and love would still mean something and would still be alive for human beings. The world would be in a much better state and life would be more beautiful for everyone. But human beings have abdicated enchantment, poetry, subtlety, the intelligence of the beautiful light of the Angels, thinking this was an attitude out of sync with the modern world.
9. In truth, if you do not live with purity, you will soil yourselves so much that you will become unbreathable; no one will want to come near you, and even less so the invisible, spiritual, and angelic worlds. The spirits of nature will sense you from afar and see your repugnant auras; they will flee at your approach.
10. You must awaken and pull yourselves together: purity is the foundation of life, happiness, health, intelligence, and truth. You must care for it and learn to live with it in the small as well as in the great things of your life. In all your activities, purity must be present. It is the highest protection, the greatest strength, and what is fundamental for any happy success.
11. Impurity never brings anything good.

12. Open again the path of purity.
13. Come close to my spring, to my temple, to my water, and be in devotion, in discipline; enter into great reverence. Learn to meditate and to observe yourselves in order to know the quality of the water that animates you and surrounds you. Live in purity and be conscious.
14. If the water within you is impure, know that you will live in misfortune, in curse, in illness.
15. Water is the great blessing; it washes and heals you, it renews you, and you must constantly speak to it and take care of it.
16. Become increasingly aware of the water of your thoughts, your hearts, your desires, your aura, and clothe yourselves in purity, clarity, and beauty.
17. If your thoughts are dark, sad, gloomy, place a bowl of water before you, put the two fingers closest to the thumb into the water and direct your thought and its atmosphere into the water. With the other hand, take some salt and throw it into the bowl to imprison this thought. Then go pour this water onto the earth, asking your Mother to help you transform what is dark within you so as to clear the sky of humanity. Ask that your life be pure, that it be clearer, so it may become an offering for the Angels and not for the demons.
18. If you come close to my spring, many exercises with water can be taught to you to help you learn to cleanse yourselves, to heal yourselves, to free yourselves, to release yourselves, to purify yourselves. There are many techniques for situations in which you are anxious, unwell, lost, or burdened by parasites.
19. You must enter into the study of wisdom and learn to look at water with different eyes.
20. In its origin, water is a blessing of love and a wisdom that shows you the path of purity and truth. It is ready to help you, to cleanse you, to deliver you from all that is dark, and to vivify all that is good in you and around you.
21. Approach water thinking of it as a living, intelligent being, capable of filling you with blessings.
22. Do not constantly cultivate a world of disharmony and impurity, for then nothing true, noble, or great will remain in your life or in that of humanity.

Father Gabriel, how can we find and keep purity when, behind appearances, there are so often worlds that are not pure? How can we discern what is truly true, pure, and noble?

23. You must not stop at appearances, but you must learn to pass through them in order to perceive the influences that are hidden and at work behind. Thus, what may appear pure will finally reveal itself as deeply impure.
24. You must not rely on human beings, for they have become professionals of lying; it may even be impossible to detect it.
25. Man is capable of using his thought, his eyes, and all his organs to hide who he is. He can even hide from himself and convince himself that he is a true, pure, authentic being.

26. Today, man can no longer be considered a pure being, for all purity has left him. Purity remains only in certain places in nature, on the condition that man has never gone there and, above all, has not tied them to his life.
27. What is pure in the world of men are the Gospels of the Archangels, for they bring the truth of the higher worlds. By reading and meditating one of their sacred psalms, a person can let purity enter their life, and a noble, great path can open.
28. Beauty still remains in the human world through certain sacred texts and certain works originally created to honor the mysteries of the spirit. Unfortunately, many of these texts have been invaded by dark intelligences that have diverted their value.
29. Know that the Essene Gospels are pure and that you will always find inspiration, healing, and truth when you come close to these sacred texts, blessed by the Light.
30. The Essene Gospels are a pure nourishment, a sacred world, a beautiful and true intelligence that will unite you with the divine world in purity.
