

THE BLOOMTIME PROJECT

Spreading Hope for Tomorrow

MISSION

- Bloomtime aims to support visionary people who have an idea to build a social enterprise or society-beneficial project from the ground up in an area they are passionate about.
- It seeks to overcome the problem where existing potential funders focus on business viability resulting in many great small ideas from starting.
- Instead of financial, the focus is on social benefit, impact and personal growth of the project owner.
- The originator would have a specific project prepared, they drive the outcome, but Bloomtime gives them a supporting hand to start and grow.

PRINCIPLES

- Project must be in Singapore and client must have legal residence in Singapore.
- The journey involves planning, execution, reflection, and adjustments. Resilience is key. It may be a short term (minimum 6 months) or a long-term project.
- There is no discrimination by gender, ethnic background, religion, or disability.
- There are no specific age limits. What is critical is an outstanding idea that addresses a clear societal gap, a sound plan, and the determination / resilience to reach the goal. Students to mature-age are all welcome.
- All potential projects are assessed on a case-by-case basis where the originator must demonstrate thorough knowledge of all aspects of their project.
- Areas can include (but not limited to): youth & community, rehabilitation, education & skills, aged-care & healthcare, poverty alleviation, and animal welfare improvement. A project is likely to be small with potential to grow.

SUPPORT

- Assistance to refine the project plan and launch.
- Leadership training and mentoring appropriate to age and goal as needed.
- Connections to other relevant experts and supporters in their area.
- Financial support suitable to the scale of the program.
